Smokey poster girl is dead

Judy Bell Nelson, daughter of Ray Bell, former Capitan game warden and New Mexico State Forester, died in Las Cruces Jan. 31 of a heart attack.

Judy was the little girl who posed for Smokey Bear posters in 1950, while the bear cub rescued from the Capitan Mountain fire was recuperating from burns in her home in Santa Fe.

Later, the bear was flown to Washington, DC by Homer Pickens, to become the world famous fire prevention symbol.

In 1958, when Judy was 12, she visited Smokey in the Washington Zoo. President Eisenhower gave her the Smokey Bear Oscar to take back to New Mexico. She presented the Oscar to the people of Capitan at the dedication of their log cabin museum. The Oscar is inscribed: "To Capitan, New Mexico, Birthplace of Smokey Bear, for Outstanding Support in Forest Fire Prevention, by Association of State Foresters and the U.S. Department of Agriculture Forest Service 1958."

"The squaw dress Judy wore in Washington and at the museum dedication is to be given to the Smokey Bear Museum by her father," Willie Hobbs, museum custodian said.

Judy last visited Capitan with her father at the dedication of the new Smokey Bear Museum and Park.

New school board goes to work

By P. E. CHAVEZ

Three newly-elected school board members, Richard Hollis, "Hool" Gibson and Tommy Guevara, were sworn in by vice-chairman Wally Ferguson during this month's regular board of education meeting, Feb. 15.

They will legally assume their duties beginning March 1. The board will re-organize at the regular March 15 meeting.

Outgoing board member and chairman Stirling Spencer was presented a plaque of appreciation for service and leadership over the last six years.

Mary Vidaurri Chavez was given a rose corsage and thanked for her six months of service. Chavez was appointed following the resignation of Sister Gail Stackpole, who moved away.

The district held a local new board member workshop this week. Supt. Dr. James P. Miller

Jr. explained financial reports, staff responsibilities, operation of cafeteria and buses and other school operational procedures.

All three board members are scheduled to attend the March 4-5 New Mexico School Board Assn training session at the Santa Fe Hilton.

Gov. Toney Anaya will give the welcome address. Among speakers will be Leonard J. De Layo, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, who will talk about "leadership."

The state training session will include a talk about the role of the school board as presented by Dr. James P. Miller Sr. of Santa Fe, director of the state Public School Finance Division.

Anaya appointed Miller this month to the finance division. Miller had served as Santa Fe's school superintendent since 1974. He is the father of Carrizozo's superintendent.

A closed personnel session was held during the Feb. 15 regular board meeting to discuss superintendent employment. The board returned from the session to announce that it would offer Miller a one or a two-year contract. Miller has until the March 15 meeting to respond.

The board commented that it is pleased with Miller's work and members are proud to have him working for the school. It was pointed out that Miller has been instrumental in the initiation of many new programs since his employment in 1979.

In January of this year the board held a session for the purpose of evaluating the superintendent. Written comments solicited earlier from parents, some students, faculty and others were reviewed by the board.

Driver ed teacher J. C. Richmond gave a driver education presentation at this month's board meeting. He explained the course of study to begin in April. Students participate in classroom instruction for two months before actually driving in June.

Changes this year include new text books and equipment and a DWI course. The district now leases a car with dual controls from Sierra Blanca Motors.

Richmond who teaches mid-high social studies and high school New Mexico Southwest history in Carrizozo, has been appointed by the state school board to serve on the state textbook adoption committee. The recommendations of this committee will affect the driver education of New Mexico students for at least the next six years.

Parents of Carrizozo students will be informed about the district's recommended changes in graduation requirements for the class of 1987.

The district feels that for the last number of years seniors have not been kept productively occupied in their final year of high school. One reason is that a student today is able to earn 18 credits by his junior year and consequently as a senior he or she need only to take and pass two classes.

A hard-working student can graduate in January of their senior year. The district thinks that high school is important enough that students should remain in school all four years and graduate in May.

The proposal is to increase the number of credits from 20 to 22. The proposed credits are a third social studies (world history) and

'First Ladies of New Mexico'

Authors to lecture on new book

Ruth K. Hall and Eunice Kalloch, both of Albuquerque, are authors of a regional best-seller, "The First Ladies of New Mexico." Both will appear at the Carrizozo Womans Club on March 12.

Their lecture will begin at 11 a.m., followed by a luncheon at noon. Tickets for the affair may be reserved by calling 648-2875. Proceeds from the $10 per person tickets will go into the club's programs to better the community.

Mary Spencer, one of the organizers of the lecture-luncheon, said the two writers were prompted to come to Carrizozo because one of the "First Ladies of New Mexico" was Frances Tarbell McDonald of Carrizozo, wife of the first governor of the state, and a charter member of the Carrizozo Womans Club.

The book is the first one to deal with the lives and personalities of all of New Mexico's 22 governors, from McDonald to Bruce King.

Ruth K. Hall is a free lance writer and the author of several poetry anthologies. Her fiction and articles have appeared in New Mexico magazine, Western Review and Woman's Day. She is best known for her book, "A Place of Her Own," the biography of Elizabeth Garrett, the blind musician daughter of Sheriff Pat Garrett.

Eunice Kalloch is well known for her leadership of "Keep New Mexico Beautiful" by planting trees. She holds a master's degree in geography from Clark University and worked in the research section of Army Intelligence during World War II.

Those attending the lecture-luncheon will also be eligible for door prizes.

Susan Thornton is chairman of the event. She can be reached at 648-2534 for tickets.

Sheriff to create a reserve program

Sheriff Tom Sullivan is forming a Lincoln County Sheriff's Reserve Program.

Purpose of this program is to train volunteers to perform the day-to-day function and duties of the sheriff's office.

Volunteers will assist regular deputies in the function of the office, thereby making the Lincoln County Sheriff's Office more responsive to the needs of the citizens, Sullivan said.

The volunteers will be required to furnish a complete uniform and weapon, attend night classes and on the job training with a regular deputy. Individuals must be of high moral character, never convicted of a felony, 18 years of age or older, and in good physical condition.

Anyone wishing to participate may contact the Lincoln County Sheriff's Office in Carrizozo at 648-2342 or the Ruidoso Sub-station, 257-7555.

Top ratings for band students

Eleven junior high school band students from Carrizozo entered the solo and ensemble competition at Deming High School Feb. 19 and all received "superior" to "excellent" ratings.

Those receiving superior ratings were Bryan Cantrell (trombone), Jamie Patterson (clarinet) and Leah Patterson (flute).

Receiving excellent ratings were Sylvia Archuleta (clarinet), Karen Baroz (alto sax), Tim Baum (baritone), Jonna Gibson (flute), Melissa Greer (clarinet), Theresa Guevara (clarinet), Ruth Persall (clarinet) and Marcella Sandoval (clarinet).

The junior band and Carrizozo High School band students participated in the Lincoln County Honor Band at Ruidoso on Feb. 17.

Representing the Carrizozo Band Department were Gladys Hobbs, Amy Means, Dana Strover, Marian Wilderson, Sylvia Archuleta, Karen Baroz, Tim

Baum, Bryan Cantrell, Jonna Gibson, Melissa Greer, Theresa Guevara, Marcia Hefker, Ruth Persall and Debbie Strover. They were accompanied by John Harris, Carrizozo band director, and Mrs. Harris.

A band booster club will be organized today, Feb. 24, at 7 p.m. at the band hall. One need not be a band parent or band student to belong to the organization. Interested parents and community supporters are invited to attend. Refreshments will be served.

NEW CONTEST: glue-craft

Imaginative youngsters in Bill Vitany's 5th grade class at Carrizozo Mid-School are getting acquainted with the wonders of America through the art of glue-crafting in the 1982-83 Elmer's National Glue-Craft Contest, "Salute To America."

The students are using everyday materials and imagination to create individual projects with patriotic themes. Taking the form of collages, mobiles, sculptures, dimensional posters and box art, their projects may depict any of the richly varied sights and people of America—from a diorama of scenic San Francisco to a glue-dough sculpture of a Massachusetts whaling vessel.

The best of class winner will receive an Elmer's award certificate, and his or her project will then be eligible for state and national awards worth more than $10,000. Merchandise prizes will be awarded in two divisions: kindergarten through grade 4; and grades 5-8. Teachers of winners will receive prizes at the state and national levels, and schools of national winners will receive prizes as well.

The glue-craft competition is sponsored by the Consumer Products Division of Border, Inc., and is designed to stimulate youthful imaginations and to encourage creative expression through the art of glue-crafting.

White Oaks

By ROSE VINSON
Karen DeBerge has been busy the last few weeks helping with the Girl Scout cookie sale. We're lucky to have three Girl Scouts here in the White Oaks area and appreciate her help. She'll be busy a few weeks longer when the cookies are in, helping the girls to deliver them.

Patti Babcock's Letter to the Editor in the Lincoln County News has stirred a few people up. But if it has caused all of us to stop and think, even in anger, it has been worth it. We are all too quick to close our eyes to other's misfortunes and it is time we all stood up and said "enough." The Sheriff's Department is still working on the breakin.

Brian Williams was in White Oaks Monday. He is from Canada and is working, or rather playing, his way back to that country. He and his lovely wife have been at the Outpost since Sunday. He plays country music, and we got to hear him for a couple of hours. Hope a lot of people were able to hear him, as he's very good. The best of luck, Brian, with your travels and your music.

Visitors to the White Oaks Museum included Walt and Fran Peterson from Oak Harbor, Washington. They are spending several days in New Mexico enjoying the sunshine and the friendly people they've met. They are "ghost town buffs" and have visited almost every one in New Mexico.

There is a new baby at our house, actually a five-week-old Basset hound. But he still wants to be fed every few hours. We named him Bufford, but that's not what I call him when he wakes me up at 4 a.m.

We all welcome back Joe Armstrong from Oregon, where he went to stay with his mother who suffered from cancer. We extend you our sympathy, Joe, from our hearts. Glad to have you back.

'Rutting' a meadow brings fine

ALAMOGORDO — Lincoln National Forest Supervisor Jim Abbott has announced the conviction and fine of a High Rolls, N.M., man for soil and vegetation damage caused on the Lincoln National Forest last Dec. 5.

The $300 fine was levied in Alamogordo last week by Federal Magistrate Wayne Jourdan for violation of a regulation prohibiting the use of vehicles off roads "in manner which damages or unreasonably disturbs the land, wildlife, or vegetative resources." Rutting was caused by driving a pickup across a meadow in search of firewood. The soil was still wet and muddy from recent snow.

Abbott said that forest users must be concerned with and utilize good judgment when driving their vehicles in areas

Board . . . .

Presently two credits of social studies are required. It was pointed out that colleges today require students to take a foreign language.

Meanwhile, at the legislative session Sen. Timothy Jenning attempted to pass a bill which would have made it difficult for a student to take elective subjects such as art, music and vocational classes. Had it not been "killed" the bill would have required students to take more math and science classes.

The state board is also trying to change its regulations on graduation requirements. Principal Dennis Sidebottom recently attended one of five hearings held around New Mexico to discuss state existing requirements and proposed options.

In other local school board business, the superintendent reported that capital outlay looks very good. The legislature is talking about allocating 20 million dollars. Carrizozo schools have asked for $369,000 of that to remodel the elementary school, to rewire the vo-ag shop and to solar heat two more buildings on campus.

Charlotte Archuleta and Ramon Luna were recognized by the board for their support of the school.

Archuleta, cafeteria head, has been giving the FHA-HERO chapter a great deal of additional assistance with dinners. She also works with the junior high cheerleaders and is supportive of the athletic teams.

Luna has been the most consistent basketball and football fan over the years. He was thanked by the board for his devotion to the teams.

where the possibility of soil and vegetation damage may occur. He noted that off-road damage caused by imprudent use of vehicles on the National Forest can lead to serious soil erosion, gully formation, and watershed damage. Increasingly restrictive regulations and closure of areas to off-road vehicle use are the result of such abuses in the past. Public awareness, concern, and cooperation are requested in helping to prevent this kind of damage in the future, Abbott said.

We Salute The Carrizozo FFA

Technology is an amazing thing! Our Future Farmers are learning the latest skills and newest techniques, developing a sense of responsibility and growth, learning by doing, on the farm and in the classroom. We're behind our FFA's all the way!

THE STORY of how food gets from farm to consumer was explained by vocational agriculture students to elementary school children Monday. FFA members Gray Gallacher and Carlos Sanchez give a meat processing demonstration while Daryl Lindsay explains the procedure.

KINDERGARTEN children Courtney Wall, Darrel Chavez, Jeremy Brown and Brian Lawrence were among visitors at Monday's "Food for America" Day sponsored by the FFA chapter. Here they enjoy milk and cookies provided by Melody Hefker and John Hemphill.

Opinion

AS I was penning my brilliant (however half-baked) and irrefutable argument in favor of legalization of all drugs last week, law enforcement officers in San Francisco were making the biggest cocaine bust in the city's history. A pleased narcotics chief boasted: "There will be many dry noses in San Francisco." Au contraire, mon capitaine. There will be no dry noses in San Francisco, just as there will be no dry noses anywhere else in the US among those who sniff the stuff. I'll tell you who are pleased. The crime leaders who deal in the stuff are not just pleased, they are jubilant. The bust means they can charge more on the streets for their product, which is in limitless supply. The increase in street price of cocaine means that users will have to knock over more liquor stores and mug more people to get the money to meet the increased cost of cocaine. So, rather than reducing crime by this dent in San Francisco's $66 million a year cocaine trade, crime will increase—as crime statistics for 1983 in that city will certainly show. Drug tycoons operate fleets of automobiles, trucks, airplanes and ships to distribute their goods. They own banks that launder the illegal money (as in Trinidad, Bolivia, where the cocaine trade is worth $1.5 billion a year to the national economy, which would collapse if the traffic were stopped.) They maintain an army of well-armed and well-trained soldiers to protect their interests. They also have a network of highly skilled and highly paid lawyers and "on the take" government officials to lend protection for thousands of dealers and pushers. The $5 million drug bust (street price) in San Francisco probably represents about a $5,000 loss (wholesale price). Big deal.

AND WHILE I was chuckling over Dr. Arthur S. Levine's exciting proposal in Harper's magazine for Guaranteed Annual Sex (GAS), a drama was unfolding in the hallowed halls of the New Mexico Legislature. A Senate Committee last week passed a bill to allow conjugal visits for prison inmates after Sen. Manny Aragon (D-Bernalillo) brought committee members to their feet with this ringing declaration: "Of all the forms of starvation, nothing is (worse) than sexual!"

THIS WEEK the Lincoln County News awards its coveted trophy, a pair of handmade Barbed Wire Jockey Shorts, for an outstanding Thin-Skinned Nincornpoop. It goes to Mayor Bill Briare, mayor of Las Vegas, NV, who has demanded that US Supreme Court Chief Justice Warren Burger be held in contempt and be forced to apologize for his comment in New Orleans recently that he would not be speaking to the American Bar Association meeting in Las Vegas next year because that city is "unsavory and unsuitable" as a place for him to speak. Wethinks the mayor is over-wrought and over-sensitive, and deserves our award. Aside from Las Vegas being climatically imbecilic, geographically impossible, gambling-crazed, prostitution-ridden, drug-soaked and crime-coddled, we find no reason to believe that Las Vegas isn't a savory and suitable place to make a speech; like, "Holy Mackerel, is all this stuff going on here?"

IT MAY not be possible for Gov. Toney Anaya to put every New Mexico resident on the state payroll, but he promises to do his best. He already has proposed 196 new state positions, to be financed (naturally) out of all those new taxes he said during the campaign he would never call for. A group of conservative members of the House of Representatives, heading by C. Gene Samberson of Lea County, has published some interesting figures taken from the US Bureau of Census. They show that New Mexico exceeds all but three states in the number of persons employed by state governments! New Mexico has 259 state employees per 10,000 inhabitants, whereas the national average is 187 employees per 10,000 inhabitants. Among her neighboring states, New Mexico has the highest number of state employees. Here's how neighboring states rank in number of employees per 10,000 population: Arizona 137, Colorado 147, Oklahoma 186, Texas 119 and Utah 177. The governor's proposed tax on business property will go a long way toward paying salaries of additional state employees. His tax on non-residential property taxes will go from .5 mill (state's share) to 8.925 millers per $1,000 of net taxable value—an increase of 1785 percent! And that's just for openers.

OUR HIGHLY literate readership is directed to the newsletter published by the New Mexico Cattle Growers' Assn. for January. An item uses the cow to explain the difference between socialism, communism, capitalism, New Dealism, Nazism and realism. "In socialism a man has two cows; he keeps one and gives one to his neighbor. Communism—he gives both to the government and the government gives him back a little milk. Capitalism—he sells one cow and buys a bull. New Dealism—the government shoots one cow, you milk the other and flush the milk down the sewer. Nazism—your neighbor shoots you and takes both cows. Realism—both cows go dry." Study carefully. There will be a written quiz next week.

I'M SURE I heard the man right when he said: "I always drink standing up because it is much easier to sit down when I get drunk standing up than it is to stand up when I get drunk sitting down."

READERS HAVE wondered why the Lincoln County News publishes so many letters from California. There is a simple explanation—we have several hundred subscribers in that state. We also have subscribers in every state of the union, including Hawaii and Alaska. But we have more from California because I had a newspaper out there for 20 years during which time I made many friends, and when I came to New Mexico they subscribed to stay in touch. As a publisher, I have always maintained a healthy "letters to the editor" department because I know people are interested in other people's views. New Mexico readers aren't so much inclined to write letters to newspapers, and when they do they sometimes don't want their names published. Anonymous letters aren't much fun to read; people want to know "who" is saying what. Letters from Carrizozo, Lincoln County and New Mexico always get priority handling. I love to get them, even when they are flaying me alive. But if local readers don't want to write letters expressing their views on any given subject, I don't believe they should be critical of those who do—regardless of where they happen to live. If a person writes a letter to us from Los Angeles, in which an interesting point is made, is it any less interesting because the writer isn't from Carrizozo, Capitan or Corona? Our policy is to publish all letters received, unless they are libelous, obscene, or anonymous.

GASOLINE prices are coming down as a result of the price war among OPEC nations. In Ruidoso, stations that were selling gasoline for $1.28 are now selling as low as $1.19 per gallon. In Alamogordo it sells for $1.12; in Albuquerque it costs as little as 99 cents. In Carrizozo, gasoline still sells at $1.26.

"HUMPHREY FEELS, EVEN WITH GAINFUL EMPLOYMENT, THAT A LITTLE MOON-LIGHTING IS IN ORDER AS A HEDGE AGAINST INFLATION."

New motel supported

The NEWS would like to add its voice to the many who support the city's involvement in providing funds for a new 22-unit motel for Carrizozo.

Finances for a portion of the motel cost would come from an Urban Development Action Grant to the Town of Carrizozo which, in turn, loans the money to create new businesses that contribute to the economic good of the community.

Willie Silva and Albert Romero have applied for a loan from the UDAG funds, to help finance the venture. As expected, opposition to the motel, financed from any source, has developed.

The city stands to benefit from repayment of the loan, from imposition of the new lodgers tax, from the creation of a few new jobs, and from increased number of tourists who might find it more pleasant to engage motel accommodations in Carrizozo rather than to travel on to Alamogordo, Roswell or Socorro. More pleasant, we emphasize, if the new motel would provide more of the amenities that first-class motels usually offer—such as round-the-clock telephone service, ice cube machines and beverage dispensers. We certainly do not agree with one critic's warning that if the loan is granted the city would be "leaving the door wide open for everyone who wants to put in a business." More businesses is precisely what UDAG is all about. The more businesses we have the better the tax base that provides better schools, churches, law enforcement and institutions for better living. Residents should not have to travel to Alamogordo to purchase a hat or a pair of shoes; or buy a piece of furniture; or see a doctor; or buy a new car; or see a movie.

These are some of the businesses the town needs, and which the town can help attract with UDAG funds.

A few months ago when the town council was contemplating the lodgers tax on motel rooms, the same critics complained that too many tourists are already passing up local motels for those in cities a hundred miles away, and that the tax would only aggravate the situation. Now we have a chance to retain those tourists by offering new and better facilities, and the critics don't want that either.

Not to encourage new businesses is one sure way to turn this community into a certified Ghost Town. We hope residents will lend their support to the motel venture.

New Mexico in Washington

Richardson: 'Indian reservations forever'

By LESTER KINSOLVING
WASHINGTON — New Mexico's newest member of the House of Representatives had a bit of a rough time when he first arrived in Washington, but he is now delighted. "They put us in an annex next to the FBI where I had no desk," recalled Rep. Bill Richardson, "and there were phones—but you couldn't make any outgoing calls!"

Richardson was interviewed by Lincoln County News only minutes after he had gotten what he regards as another choice committee assignment: "The Select Committee on Aging. I have lots of retired people in Rio Rancho, and a lot who are retired in northern New Mexico without much access. We have one of the highest percentages of senior citizens in the country." Richardson noted that he also got his first choice of committees: Energy and Commerce, and that he received more votes than any other freshman member of Congress. This first Congressman from New Mexico's new district also made The Washington Post very shortly after his arrival, when he noted that Secretary of the Interior James Watt "must be getting his advice from General Custer" when Watt "made the references to Indian reservations being socialism."

We asked Richardson about another quote from AP: Ron Andrade, executive director of the National Congress of American Indians, representing 180 tribes with a combined membership of 650,000:

"For the first time in known history, an official of government has admitted that problems on the reservations are the government's fault. It's been traditional that they've always blamed us."

REP. RICHARDSON: Well, government has been a problem with Indians; the BIA, the dependency. But to say that the reservation is an example of socialism I think is incorrect. Watt's statements, I felt, were almost racist; they were sort of very degrading—something about the Indian leadership. I can't remember his quote exactly; but it was sort of saying that Indians are second class citizens.

QUESTION: Is this the quote you're talking about? "We have tremendous problems on the Indian reservations. I frequently talk about it by telling people if you want an example of the failures of socialism, don't go to Russia; come to America and go to the Indian reservations. We have fifty million acres of reservations, 1.4 million Indians and every social problem is exaggerated because of socialistic government policies on the Indian reservations; highest divorce rate, highest drug rate, highest unemployment rate, because the people have been trained through one hundred years of government oppression to look to the government as the creator, as the provider, as the supplier—and they're not trained to use their initiative to integrate into the system. . . . We have terrible schools on the Indian reservations and we've tried to change that. Congress won't. If we treated the black people in America like we're now treating the Indians, there would be a social revolution that would tear the country up. But Congress tolerates the abusive government actions on Indians, and I try to liberate them and then get squashed by liberal Democrats in the House of Representatives." Do you think this reflects his idea of Indians as being second class citizens—or have they been treated by government as if they are?

RICHARDSON: I feel that what Mr. Watt said basically denigrated the Indian way of life by saying that he wanted to liberate them. He was saying that their way of life is to him unacceptable. And I think he's using the specter of big government as his excuse for very insensitive remarks. I feel we have to create less of a dependency on government on Indian reservations.

QUESTION: Do you think that the government should look into the maintaining of Indian reservations forever? Or should there be some sort of goal for gradual integration? Provided no tribe is cheated of lands.

RICHARDSON: No, I feel the reservations system must continue.

QUESTION: Forever?

RICHARDSON: Yeah. Tribal sovereignty; self-determination. I think the current legal relationship now is adequate. What I think we have to do is make that relationship with non-reservation areas and have more of a dialogue. The reason we don't have more of a dialogue is because Indians have been mistreated by people like Mr. Watt, by his cuts. His philosophy—the Republican philosophy—is: let the private sector do everything; cut all government programs. . . . Reagan had a self-determination statement which would reinforce the concept of reservations but said that there should be more partnership with the private sector. I can support that.

This new Congressman is an affable and dynamic man who is fun to interview. Secretary Watt is frequently an intentionally abrasive character, whom the Democrats love to hate. But the Richardson contention that Watt's Indian reservation statements are "almost racist" and Custer-like amounts to several cubic feet of natural gas without any value except political.

Letters to the Editor

"All of us or none of us"

EDITOR—Following last October's public meeting regarding the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) it was both apparent and sad that the majority of those present at the meeting were concerned only for themselves.

Mr. Hubert Quintana, the gentleman with the facts, advised that targeting a specific area of the town gave us our best chance for receiving a second or any future CDBG. Even then the audience still selfishly opted for "all of us or none of us." (See Oct. 21 NEWS) Needless to say, our second application was not approved. Six other sites in our state were recipients of CDBG. Again, at a public hearing Feb. 14 for an Urban Development Action Grant (UDAG), this same selfish motive reappeared. To inform us, excellent reports of facts involving UDAG appeared in the NEWS on Feb. 10 and 17. The facts were also presented the night of Feb. 14 by the gentleman "in the know," Mr. Quintana.

Why can't our citizens (who should now be informed) realize whatever helps one person, group or business will in some way or other help us all, especially in a community the size of Carrizozo? We cannot stand still; we either progress (good news) or regress (bad news).

The good news is that if the Town of Carrizozo through UDAG receives the money to loan to Mr. Silva and Mr. Romero, the loan repayment will become "seed money," a "revolving fund" which the town can use over and over in years to come to finance other economic development projects. To me, this is what UDAG is all about!

The bad news needs never to come about if we can see our way clear to help each other. It's the only way.

Mr. Quintana will soon announce another public hearing on UDAG before the town council votes. Come and show your true spirit of cooperation. I believe in you.

PHYLLIS SCHLEGEL, Carrizozo.

Inside Religion

Reagan: Balance budget with 10 Commandments

By REV. LESTER KINSOLVING
WASHINGTON — The increasingly criticized President of the United States was, by contrast to barbs from both Democrats and strong conservatives, warmly welcomed on Jan. 31 by the annual convention of the National Religious Broadcasters.

Mr. Reagan was, in fact, so cordially applauded that he told "your warm and caring faces" that he had "a very special feeling, like being born again."

This evoked such a burst of applause that these religious broadcasters were treated to a double barrel of Ronald Reagan religious rhetoric:

"Has anyone stopped to consider that we might come closer to balancing the budget if all of us simply tried to live up to the Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule?"

This rather unusual Presidential religio-economic proposal attracted more applause for Mr. Reagan. But no one asked Mr. Reagan for any specifics as to how this Decalogue budget-balancing proposal might be implemented.

At the White House, Deputy News Secretary Larry Speakes was asked just how Mr. Reagan intends to go about following the Fourth Commandment.

Speakes did not know what the Fourth Commandment is! ("Remember to keep holy the Sabbath Day," originally applied to Saturday, the Sabbath. It is by most Christians now applied to regular worship on a new Sabbath, the Lord's Day—Sunday, the day of Jesus' resurrection from the dead.)

If President Reagan actually knows what the Fourth Commandment is, he has not darkened the door of any church since March of 1982. (The general explanation is "for security reason," which will hardly sound convincing to those millions of devout churchgoers who saw pictures of Mr. Reagan in an all-male Boston bar recently, hoisting a large beer.)

When spokesman Speakes was asked about the Fourth Commandment, he replied that he "thought that was the one about false prophets"—which is not among the Ten Commandments.

The Reagan Plan To Balance The Budget With The Ten Commandments would, if ever implemented, cause a lot more havoc than an embarrassed deputy White House news secretary. For implementation of the Ten Commandments by the federal government would, among other things, require:

—Destruction of all US currency and coinage—since all those Presidents' pictures, not to mention the bald eagle on the Great Seal, are "graven images of the likeness of anything in heaven above, or earth below, or the water under the earth."

—The Third Commandment, "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord Thy God in vain," would require the removal from US currency of the motto, "In God We Trust"—because there are, in fact, millions of American citizens who don't, and this is taking the name of the Lord in vain.

The mind boggles as to how the Seventh Commandment could be applied by Mr. Reagan to balancing the budget. Could the IRS impose a special tax on all adulterers? And what would be the effect if the adulterers replied that they were simply trying to follow the Golden Rule—as Mr. Reagan also advised. "We are simply trying to do unto others as we would have them do unto us," could be an answer, not only by adulterers but by dope addicts as well as drunks.

Two days after this electrifying Balance-The-Budget-With-The-Bible proposal, Mr. Reagan attended the National Prayer Breakfast, where he proclaimed 1983 to be "The Year Of The Bible."

This presidential proclamation provided an inspiration to Shelley Tromberg, my fellow political commentator on Washington's new, all-comedy radio station, WJOK: "Maybe that's what Reagan is doing on Sunday mornings. He reads the Bible to Larry Speakes!"

CLARIFICATION: This column recently described Episcopal priest Philip Wheaton as "one of the hairier among National Council of Churches staff personnel." We have since learned that Wheaton is not, technically, an NCC staffer. But the organization which Wheaton heads (Ecumenical Program For Interamerican Communication and Action—EPICA) is subsidized by the NCC.

Capitan favored to win 5A title

The Capitan Tigers picked up two more wins over the weekend to raise their season record to 17 wins and 3 losses.

On Friday night the Tigers and Estancia fought it out on even terms in the first half with the Bears leading 29-28 at intermission. Capitan came out smoking in the third quarter, outscoring Estancia 24-6 to put the game out of reach. The final score was 76-53 in favor of the Tigers.

Robert Parker and Eddie Davis led the way with 18 and 18 points. Danny Cummins and Sid Allen added 10 each.

Saturday night the Tigers went to Tatum and took a 69-50 win over the Coyotes. Eddie Davis scored 20, Danny Cummins 16, and Todd Proctor 13 to lead Capitan.

The Tigers now have a 10-game win streak going and are the favorites to take the District 5A title Saturday night at Hagerman. The last time the Tigers won 10 straight games was in 1964.

Lincoln are happy grandparents with the news of their first grandson, born last week in Texas.

Mrs. W. L. Baker was taken to the Ruidoso Hospital Monday night Feb. 14. She is very ill. Do send her cards. I wish you a good recovery, Mrs. Baker. She had been ill in Amarillo, TX, for four months and had been home only one week. She was so grateful for the cards and letters and all of her friends. Room 202, Ruidoso Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Schear's new house arrived last week and they are located two miles north of Capitan at the old saw mill location.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wright last weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boles of Tahoka, TX.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Smith and children of Texas have returned to Capitan to make their home. Welcome home.

Jack Ware had surgery on his ankle Jan. 7 at Ruidoso Hospital. He will have to recuperate for nine weeks. I wish you a good recovery, Jack.

Her roll called asked each member to tell what accessory she cherished most in her own home. Mrs. Williams stated that the objects around us should reflect ourselves in our best aspects, and their presence should make us grow fond of the rooms in which we put them. She contrasted our use of accessories with the Japanese custom of using a single important accessory and changing it often.

She discussed tables, clocks and vases as both functional and decorative.

A review of Lincoln in '83 finds that Mary Ward celebrated her 80th birthday. Mrs. Ward is presently in El Paso visiting family. We all wish we were as spirited as she.

Lincoln's Postmistress is now a very happy grandmother — her daughter Ann Womack Gray has a baby boy (Travis Jim — T.J.). . . . Lincoln brought in Chinese New Year with a five-course dinner at the Wortley Hotel prepared by Chef Paul Kubik — the food was truly great. This is the second of what is hoped will become an annual event. . . . A very sad event in early 1983 — Ofelia and Si Salas lost their grandchild. We extend our regrets to them and the parents Art and Pat Salas. . . .

Welcome, Red Geranium — opened originally in Lincoln by C. A. Dockery, then moved to Tinnie, the Red Geranium is once again in Lincoln. . . . Also, welcome, Horace Cordova, Southwest Designs. Come and visit! . . .

The Lincoln Pageant & Festival Corporation will have a meeting Feb. 27. The annual Billy the Kid Escape is not far away, so please attend at 7 p.m. at the Visitors Center. . . .

All Lincolinites give many thanks to Hattie Phillips for reporting Lincoln news for so many years. We miss her column. . . . Anyone who has something to contribute to future Lincoln reports, contact Jerry Locke, P.O. Box 117, Lincoln, NM 88338, or leave a message at the Lincoln Post Office. . . .

As small as Lincoln might be, it usually has two church services. For information on Catholic Services contact Chris Zamora, 653-4673. Protestant services are held at 8:30 p.m. on second Thursdays (communion) and fourth Thursday (prayer service). Contact Betty Schreengost, 653-4893.

Rickerson appeals

Donald L. Rickerson has appealed his "life" prison sentence handed down Feb. 10 in 12th District Court for the murder of Nick Dorrane of Tularosa.

Rickerson was sentenced to life for first degree murder for the Jan. 28 slaying during an armed robbery. He was also given nine years for armed robbery, plus three additional years for aggravated assault, one year for firearm enhancement, eight years for an habitual offender, and another 22 months because he was on parole from another sentence at the time of the Tularosa robbery and slaying.

Special People Week

We think Hollis Cummins is a special person. Capitan to him has always been a very special place and the folks there very special people.

Developing a small business in a small town and keeping one going requires day and night dedication. Hollis has done this with his super store. Free enterprise is still the cornerstone of our great system.

Our bank's association with Capitan people has deep roots so they are special to us too.

Remember — Yesterday is a cancelled check, Tomorrow is a promissory note, so Today is when you need to start your savings plan. Today is the day you need to come and talk to us about that well you want to drill and the new fence around your property. We can help.
