FA's banquet speaker:

'Agriculture is the highest calling'

By P. E. CHAVEZ

"To work in the field of agriculture, whether it be in agribusiness, agricultural mechanics or horticulture, means that you are associated with the word FARM. Be proud of it. It represents the most prestigious of all occupations." Dr. Paul Vaughn told Carrizozo FFA members, their parents and guests at the chapter's annual banquet Friday night.

Vaughn, professor of agriculture and extension education at New Mexico State University, is a former teacher of vocational agriculture. He taught at Roy and Bloomfield, NM, and has been the recipient of the vo ag Teacher of the Year Award in New Mexico. He is the author of many of the FFA manuals in the leadership and development series and is currently in the process of updating them.

The topic of Vaughn's speech at the FFA's June 3 banquet centered on four letter words: FARM, FREE, FAIR and FAIL.

He began his talk with the word FARM "because it represents a common interest we have here tonight. This word represents the backbone of the field of agriculture. It is the key to an industry that has assets of over $900 billion, an industry that spends $55 billion a year for goods and services and an industry that consumes 28 billion kilowatt hours of energy and more than $10 billion worth of fuel annually.

FAIR is the lifeline of our nation. Without it none of the other occupations would be in existence.

He told about an incident concerning two old friends who had not seen each other in years. One, a space scientist, boasted that he helped put the last man on the moon, develop the rockets which took pictures of Mars and Saturn, was part of the team which sent the space shuttle off into space and watched it return safely to earth.

The other man said he didn't have much to brag about because he was "just a farmer."

Vaughn was perturbed that the second man was ashamed of his occupation. "My association with agriculture has taught me that the farmer is a superior person."

A former national FFA public speaker winner, Eddie Blizzard, from whom Vaughn heard the story, has said a farmer must be a mechanic, a market expert, a veterinarian, an agronomist, a scientist, and an economist.

"How someone can be called just a farmer is beyond me when we know that operating a successful farm or ranch today requires a person who works with hundreds of thousands of dollars a year in capital. It is no ordinary person, no average individual, who looks a banker in the eye and asks for a $50,000 operating loan and then has the records to back up the request," Vaughn added.

Vaughn said that to him farming is the product of all callings and that a reporter once visited Harry Truman's mother, who agreed during an interview that she was proud of her son in the White House but she was equally proud of another son who was out on a field riding a tractor.

Like Blizzard, Vaughn ranks the humanitarian role of the farmer with that of the heart surgeon or the medical researcher who finds a cure for cancer. "As the shortage of food becomes more and more critical, it will be the farmer who is called upon to stretch productivity more and more."

Today the words FREE and FAIR are being used interchangeably. People are saying that it is not fair that someone else gets more money than they do, not realizing that they are free to change jobs. They complain that they are not being treated fairly, and that their rights are being violated, not realizing that their constitutional rights do not include fairness. "People aren't always fair, particularly in their evaluations," said Vaughn, naming people who proved others wrong: F. W. Woolworth, Zane Grey, George Gershwin, Thomas A. Edison and Charles Goodyear.

"These are all people, real people, who were treated unfairly. But not once did they sit back and complain about their unfair treatment. Instead, they took the opportunity that was guaranteed to them by their freedom and they became successes."

"The point I am trying to make is, while it is important to be honest and fair in the game of life, it is also important that you realize you were born free to live your life in the direction of your choosing, and your success or failure will not be dependent on criteria established by a person other than yourself. The opportunity is free; it may or may not be fair."

The last word in Vaughn's talk was FAIL, and how Henry Groseclose, the author of the FFA ceremonies, conquered an illness and went on to become the first executive secretary-treasurer of FFA, received the first honorary American Farmer Degree and earned the "Father of FFA" title.

Vaughn told FFAers they too can become successful, particularly in the field of agriculture and agribusiness. "But remember, you are FREE to do what you wish, but don't sit back and complain about things not being FAIR because that is the surest way to FAIL."

A frequent visitor to Carrizozo, he said he enjoys attending good vocational agriculture and FFA programs. He praised vo ag teacher Mike Gaines and Supt. Jim Miller, both whom Vaughn says show concern for young people and quality education. Carrizozo FFA has won numerous district, state and national level awards.

John Hemphill received the DeKalb Award, sponsored by the DeKalb Corp., a Midwest seed company. The award is given annually to an FFA member in each chapter who demonstrates outstanding leadership qualities. Hemphill, a 1983 graduate, is the local chapter's outgoing president.

Mary Jane Ferguson and Daryl Lindsay tied for the Star

Chapter Farmer Award, presented this year by Billy Bob Shafer, president of the Carrizozo FFA Alumni Chapter. This award is given each year to a member in FFA who is the most involved in all activities of the organization. Geneva Maxwell was recipient of the Star Greenhand Award, presented to the first-year member who is most active in FFA. She has demonstrated leadership, and has a strong Supervised Agricultural Occupational Experience Program (SOEP).

Leadership awards were presented to Hemphill, John Roueche, Steve Stearns, and James Guevara. Scholarship awards went to Hemphill, Ferguson, John Roueche, Gray Gallacher and Kenneth Crenshaw.

Proficiency awards were given to Adrien Sanchez, Melody Helker, ag mechanics, Troy Hollis, John Roueche, agricultural processing, Gray Gallacher, Daryl Lindsay, Lynn Gallacher and John Roueche, diversified livestock, Ferguson, Lynn Gallacher, Gray Gallacher, beef production, John Roueche, Gray Gallacher, swine production, Ferguson, Daryl Lindsay, sheep production, John Roueche, home improvement, and Mike Curtiss, horse production.

The following received judging awards: John Hemphill, ag mechanics, farm management; Mary Jane Ferguson, food meats, Gray Gallacher, crops; Steve Stearns, land; John Roueche, entomology; Adrien Sanchez, poultry; Lynn Gallacher, livestock; Carlos Sanchez, dairy; Mike Curtiss, horses.

Adam Polley was presented the Student Teacher Award. Polley, a Deming resident, did his NMSU student teaching in Carrizozo last spring.

Honorary degrees were given to FFA supporters: Randy Rhue, Billy Bob Shafer, Rhodie Barham, Dennis Sidelbottom, and Judy Hemphill, awarded for outstanding service to vocational agriculture and FFA. Mary Jane Ferguson, 1983-84 president, gave out dozens of certificates of appreciation to parents and other FFA supporters.

John Hemphill presented a special award to Dr. Miller and to a person "I have known all my life," his father, Robert Hemphill, who has devoted many hours to FFA work.

County gearing up for queen contest

Girls interested in entering the Lincoln County Fair queen contest are advised to put the following dates on their calendars.

The queen contest, held in conjunction with the Smokey the Bear Stampede, will be held July 2-2 p.m. at the fairgrounds in Capitan.

A horsemanship personality clinic, designed to prepare girls for the contest, is set for Thursday, June 16, 6-30 p.m. at Capitan fairgrounds. This clinic is open to all interested women, regardless of age. Participants are asked to bring their own horses and hats to the clinic.

The queen contest, patterned after the State Fair Queen Contest, will be in two parts - personality and riding. In the personality segment, judges will question contestants. The riding portion will consist of the predetermined riding pattern and three minutes of freestyle riding.

Riding contestants must wear blue denim pants, white shirts, boots and a hat of choice. For the personality portion, they are expected to dress nicely. They will be judged 60 percent on horsemanship and 40 percent on personality.

The Lincoln County queen contest is open to all single girls without dependents ages 15 to 21 who attended a Lincoln County high school. A $10 entry fee is charged to each contestant.

Contestants must agree to appear at all performances of the Smokey the Bear Stampede, July 2-3-4, and in the July 4 parade. Alice Booky, queen-in-waiting, will reign over the Smokey the Bear Stampede and Lincoln County Fair in addition to representing the county at the State Fair Queen Contest in September. The winner of this year's contest will be the queen-in-waiting for the 1984 activities.

The queen is also expected to conduct the 1984 queen clinic and to represent the county at the New Mexico State Fair in Albuquerque. She will receive a trophy belt buckle, a sash, a bouquet of woolen roses, money from the Lincoln County Fair Board, Lincoln County Commissioners, and from the contestants' entry money.

Deadline for entry is Tuesday, June 21. Information and entry blanks are available by contacting Willa Stone, Box 484, Capitan, NM 88316, phone 354-2356, or Linda Gibson, Box 509, Carrizozo, NM 88301, phone 648-2582.

IRLENE'S Curiosity Shop, located in the Park Place Apartment complex, opened for business last week. Irlene Phillips, owner, is shown holding a pine cone and yucca pod flower arrangement which she makes. The shop specializes in unique picture frames and paintings. Don, her son, specializes in portrait painting.

No arrests for week

The Lincoln County Sheriff's Dept had an arrest-free week. There were no new names on the arrest report, Chief Deputy Sheriff Charles Cox said.

The department handled 34 bad check complaints during May and collected all 34 for a total of $3,335.53. Stolen property reported amounted to $33,313, of which $20,331 was recovered. A recovery rate of 61 percent. Total offense reports filed in May were 87.

The department has discontinued the use of dogs for building searches and alarm calls because of a lack of calls for the canine unit. Only one dog has actually been maintained by the department, one in charge of Deputy B. J. Barnes in Ruidoso. Cox said canine units can be made available from other sources should the need arise.

The department made 20 arrests during the month of May, issued 16 citations, made 44 traffic stops, and served 129 civil papers.

During May, the dispatcher handled two auto wrecks in involving no injury and four in which injuries were sustained, three fire calls, five juvenile, 19 prisoners, 13 rescue squad calls, 582 walk-in complaints, and 2,880 phone calls and 731 teletype messages.

BACK HOME

Four local girls, Geneva Maxwell, Stephanie Saucedo, Mary Jane Ferguson and Christetta Chavez, returned Friday after a weeklong stay at Socorro's New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology, site of the 36th Annual Girls State. The girls returned with mountains of dirty laundry and wise in the ways of city and state government dealings.

New Mexico Girls State, sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, is designed to educate youth in the duties, privileges, rights and responsibilities of true citizenship so they may understand and participate in functions of government and help them grasp the meanings of responsibilities which they must assume when they become adults.

Mary Jane, recognized as Citizen of the Week in her "City," was elected city clerk and was appointed to the State Corporation Commission by 1983 Girls State Governor Sharla Sheriff of Clovis. Duties of the office concerns regulation of corporations, franchise tax insurance, major transportation, aviation, cotton gins, pipelines, telephones, telegraph and railroads.

Christetta campaigned and was elected to city council, which forms the legislative body of city government. It enacts ordinances and adopts resolutions which may be presented by any citizen. The council examines and approves the budget of the city treasurer and makes city appointments. Gov. Sheriff appointed Christetta manager of the New Mexico Racing Commission.

CUSSING GHOST

Many area people believe that La Llorona, the wailing ghost woman, exists in Carrizozo. She comes out at night and moans cries of grief. The ghost woman of Spanish legend is believed to scare mature, sober men. Naughty children are cautioned to beware of the ghost woman who walks the earth wailing and moaning for her own murdered children.

Two weeks ago, residents south of the railroad tracks claimed to have heard haunting screams in the wee hours of the morning. It is believed that the ghost was male. It cursed God and recited Bible verses. The ghost was excused by some as a person high on something other than alcohol, who managed to elude a town policeman. Others are convinced it was El Lloron, male version of the wailing ghost woman.

The two youngest members of my household did not have a restful sleep after learning about Zozo's ghostly night walker. My bed was kind of crowded next morning. Zachary, who is learning some Spanish words, told his sleepy dad and me: "That cucaracha who yelled at God made me flip in my bed." Zac mistakenly called El Lloron a cockroach.

PLAY BALL

Local men and women are into slow pitch baseball these days, and travel to Ruidoso and Fort Stanton to compete. Sunday, June 12, area people can catch the action here in Carrizozo. The first of three games begin at 1:30 p.m. Coaches will submit statistics to the NEWS.

team Sunday. Admission is free—bring the family. Concessions will be available.

The Dusters, one of two Carrizozo women's teams, were defeated at Ft. Stanton Monday night by the Ruidoso's Shady Ladies (team name). The other Zozo team, the Cobras, played Ruidoso's Attic team at Fort Stanton. Score is not available at this writing. Terry Harvey coached the Dusters Monday night. Freddy Padilla coached the Cobras. This Freddy is the husband of the former Thelma Perea.

SLOWLY BUT SURELY

FFA banquet guest speaker Dr. Paul Vaughn, NMSU's associate professor of agriculture and extension education, said people aren't always fair, particularly in their evaluations of others, and gave examples of those who worked their way to fame and fortune. F. W. Woolworth, founder of the Five and Dime chain stores was once hired as a janitor for 50 cents a day by a retail store owner who didn't think F. W. had enough business sense to wait on customers.

When Zane Grey was still an unknown trying to sell his book manuscripts, a publisher told him he had no ability for writing fiction. Louisa May Alcott, author of "Little Women" and other famed works was a tomboy, marked by her fellow townspeople as a girl who would never amount to much. A publisher once told her to give up the idea of writing.

The first time George Gershwin ever played the piano on the stage, he was laughed out of the theater by both the audience and his fellow actors. Albert Einstein's teachers classified him as a dunce, and even his parents thought he was backward.

When Thomas A. Edison was in school, he was always at the foot of his class because he couldn't remember his three R's. His teachers called him stupid and doctors suggested that he might have serious brain trouble.

And then there once was a man who had an idea that India rubber could be made useful. People laughed at him, but for 11 years he struggled with hardships to make his dream come true. He pawned his clothing and other valuables to buy for his children. His neighbors called him insane, but he insisted that India rubber could be of some practical use. That man was Charles Goodyear.

TRIVIA BUFFS

People with inquiring minds like me like to know about little-known facts. I enjoy reading and collecting bits and pieces of information. For example, I didn't know that in 1894 there were only four automobiles in the US... that the male mosquito is a strict vegetarian... that there is no such thing as a living sardine... that a horse always stands with his rear end to the wind on a cold rainy day... and that crocodiles sleep with their eyes open. Live and learn.

LONG HOT SUMMER

Next week this column will feature a series of kid-proof hints and tips on how to keep children occupied during their summer vacation. Until the pool opens, I also plan to start a "Save the Yo-yo" campaign in an effort to keep little idle hands busy.

In case some readers are not familiar with the yo-yo, this toy which does not use batteries or quarters, is kind of grooved top which attaches to a person's finger by a loop at the end of a string. The opposite end of the string is attached inside the groove of the yo-yo. By maneuvering the string, the operator can make the yo-yo run up and down the string. An accomplished operator can make the yo-yo perform many intricate loops.

Lincoln County Ranch Tour No. 4

This Saturday, June 11, 1983, starting from the Fair building at Capitan, several hundred people will board buses to observe ranching country and ranchers doing ranch work. These interested people will be from several different states and foreign countries, many of them having never been any closer to a ranch than the one they viewed on TV.

The first tour, being initiated by Canyon CowBelles and Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce, generated such a tremendous response, especially from folks living in larger towns and cities, that Corona's Crown CowBelles were responsible for the 1982 tour that hosted several hundred visitors.

The combined support of all Lincoln County CowBelles and other interested friends of agriculture will be responsible for the 1983 tour.

Our bank sincerely appreciates all of the CowBelles, some of them shown above, as there is a lot of work, long hours of planning and organizing going into this project. It is good for the ranching industry when more people are acquainted with actually what goes on ranchwise, and it benefits the visitors to learn about it and take that knowledge home with them.

It answers a lot of questions and we all particularly enjoyed what one lady had to say at the conclusion of a previous ranch tour when she remarked "I've always wondered what was in back of those mail boxes!"

If you are interested in a reservation, we bet you can contact a CowBelle for information, call Jane Shafer, Annie Ferguson, Doris Maxwell, Pat Hume, Sarah Gnatkowski, or Betty Ann Bond, to name a few.

The following letter was received by the Capitan Chamber of Commerce this week.

Recently my husband and I were vacationing in New Mexico and between Ruidoso and Capitan had car trouble. A nice young man passed by and saw we were having problems, so turned and came back to see if he could be of any help to us. My husband had a few tools with him but not what he needed so the young man took his tool box out of the car, got under our car and within 15 minutes had it fixed. This young man was Kenneth Stone of your city. We read now days of all the bad things that happen and not much of the good things, so just wanted to let him know again how much we appreciated his concern and help. So thanks again, Mr. Stone.

OLD LINCOLN TOWN

By JERRY LOCKE
A wonderful event took place in Lincoln Sunday, June 5. Roman Maes and Theodora Maes celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary. That's right, 60 beautiful years. Lincoln is happy for them and wishes them and family another happy 60. Congratulations!

Hard to believe all the activity taking place here. Matt Borowski's father, Jean, and brother David visited for about 10 days and pounded thousands of nails in Matt and Becky's new home. It is really shaping up great. Noises also heard from Jerry Jordan's soap factory. Looking it over, it would seem he is ready for the tin to go on the roof. Ralph Dunlap is busy laying the foundation for an extension to their little place by the Torreon. Even this writer built his wife a bookcase. Must be something up wind!

Another annual occurrence taking place in Old Lincoln Town — the tourists are coming. They are welcome. They brighten things after a long slow winter.

Opinion

● FEW Americans even know we have a Civil Rights Commission, much less understand how it functions and for what purpose. Nevertheless, the civilized world (meaning liberals, leftists, Marxists, the media and academic functionaries) fell upon Pres. Reagan with high invective for exercising his right to appoint three new members to that body. CRC has been operating with appointees of another president, until Reagan decided it was high time that some members of the commission reflect his views on civil rights—something he was elected to do. Liberal fury is not abated even though the three he named to the commission are all liberal Democrats. What these Democratic appointees have in common with a Republican president is that all oppose busing of school children and all three decry the racial quota system (piously known as affirmative action) that would force every employer to hire a certain percentage of minority workers, qualified or not.

● THANKS to a cooperative media, Americans also do not fully understand the meaning of civil rights in the first place. Here are the civil rights: the right to vote, the right to worship in the church of one's choice, the right to due process, and the right not to be discriminated against on the basis of race, religion, gender or handicap. There are no others, except the "Right to Sing the Blues," and don't do that at a KKK rally. There is no civil right involved in busing students 30 miles across town to make sure that one race has the educational advantage of rubbing elbows with children of other races. No civil right is involved in forcing employers to set up a government-approved quota for hiring minority workers. There is no civil right that says white workers must be fired to make room for black ones. No civil right attaches to food stamps, education, welfare, health care or employment. There is no civil right that says this generation must pay and be punished for injustices committed by their forefathers.

● WHAT the president hopes to do by naming these three Democrats is to stop the commission's intrusion into areas that are none of its business—such as busing, racial quotas, and demanding special privileges for minorities not enjoyed by any other American. In this he has the blessing of the majority of Americans, and it was largely the outrages perpetuated by this commission and other civil rights lunatics that Mr. Reagan was elected to stop. Hodding Carter III delivered the president a stinging rebuke in an article in the June 2 issue of the Wall Street Journal titled "When Will Reagan Do Something FOR Minorities?" Carter acknowledged the president has an "absolute legal right to name commissioners to his own liking." Then he nurtures idiosyncrasy by inquiring: "But why did he do so?" I have just outlined why he did so. Aside from that, it is none of my business (or Mr. Carter's business either) why he did so. The law does not require that he poll the nation to find a reason. Custom and simple logic requires that the president appoint whomever he wishes, and it is equally customary and logical that he appoint those members who best represent his own views. It would be as foolish as it would be self-defeating for any president to be elected on issues approved by voters, then name to his cabinet, boards and commissions people who hold opposite views and who could not be expected to implement his programs. Instead of titling his article "When Will Reagan Do Something FOR Minorities?" Mr. Carter would be more attuned to the times had he titled it "When Will Reagan Do Something TO Minorities?" It is one thing to move blacks from the back to the front of the bus, and another when under the guise of civil rights they take over ownership, operation and direction of the same bus.

● THERE I was seeking fulfillment at the Four Winds Bar and was caught up in a conversation being waged at a nearby table. But only as a listener. Listening is what I do best, an art I perfected after my old daddy told me years ago, "Son, when you're doing the talking you ain't learning anything." Two gentlemen of reasonable sobriety were discussing current events. "What do you think about Carrizozo turning down a chance to get a steel mill in town?" asked the one with all the whiskers. "Not surprising," replied the one with the shave. "Why not?" returns His Bushiness. "Because," breathed Old Cleanbore, "you've got to remember these same clowns are the same ones who turned down a chance to get Holloman Air Force Base located here, so the armed forces put it at their second choice location, Alamogordo, and made a nice town out of a desert watering hole. "Why would they do that?" "Because Carrizozo citizens didn't want soldier boys chasing their daughters around." "I don't believe it!" "There's more. The military still put an army unit at Carrizozo of about 200 men. Then property owners started raising the rent on houses and apartments, and finally the army closed down the operation and moved the soldiers to where rents were more affordable." Both ordered another round of what one said was "the shot heard round the world." I did too. They warned to their subject.

● "YOU HAVE to understand," Smooth Bore continued. "These people don't want industry here. Most of them like things the way they are. Any change is regarded with suspicion. Take that industrial park, for example." "So, what about it?" "Well, Carrizozo took about $400,000 in federal money to create an industrial park which they said they hoped would attract industry. Actually, they took the money because they knew if they didn't some other town would. Then, just to make sure that no industry ever located in the park, they put it two miles from the railroad!" "You're kidding!" "Would I lie to you?"

● SMOOTH BORE was warming up. "You can explain the steel mill turnaround just by remembering that the nice people who donated a first-class golf course and city park to the town, then set up a trust fund to insure its maintenance, were chased out of town, but not until the gifts had been formally turned over to the town. I understand the trust fund was later revoked and the town has been trying to find the money to keep these projects going."

● "THESE are also the same people who had a wonderful supply of water from Bonito, but got themselves snookered out of it, and now they have poor quality water that's so hard you can't jab a fork into it. If memory serves me right, Carrizozo has the distinction of being the first, and maybe the only, town in the United States to have its garbage disposal system repossessed by the manufacturers."

New Mexico in Washington

Anaya's veep debut is flawed in Washington

By LESTER KINSOLVING

WASHINGTON — The idea of Gov. Toney Anaya as a candidate for Vice-President of the United States has made its media debut here in our nation's capital — in a gossip column.

Among those in the New Mexico delegation in Congress, both Democrats were guardedly enthusiastic. Sen. Jeff Bingaman said that he approves of Democrats in high office while Rep. Bill Richardson said he believes that Anaya as a vice-presidential candidate would be fine.

Rep. Manuel Lujan, however, was reluctant to comment, since he concludes that whoever the other party nominates is their business, not his. Sen. Pete Domenici and Rep. Joe Skeen had already departed for the Memorial Day recess, but there seemed to be the same sort of reluctance to comment as with Lujan.

The somewhat inauspicious ascent of the Anaya balloon—in a gossip column of the Sun Myung Moon-owned Washington Times, a new daily — contained an additional political liability: they misspelled his name.

In fact, they misspelled both of the names of the Governor of New Mexico!

Thus blunder was duly noted by "News Items," the new daily satirical political commentary, broadcast by Washington's comedy radio, WJOK. This program features two voices, one of which belongs to Yr. Humble and Obt. Svt., the Lincoln County News's Washington correspondent: Here they go:

"News Item!"
"WASHINGTON TIMES COLUMNIST NAMES HISPANIC AS DYNAMITE DEMO VEEP POSSIBILITY."

"Washington Times columnist Diana McClellan reports that New Mexico's first Hispanic governor is a Hot New Name sizzling on the Demo Veep Front."

"Why is it hot and sizzling?"
"She notes that he went to law school with Senate Minority Leader Robert Byrd and grew up dirt-floor poor, with ten siblings."

"Was that in a log cabin?"
"By next summer, somebody will have it a stable, with a manger!"

"What else has this new Governor of New Mexico done to qualify him to be one heartbeat away from the Presidency?"

"Well, he went to Chicago and persuaded Hispanics to vote for Harold Washington for mayor."

"You mean Honest Harold, the Illinois Emperor Jones?"

"The very same. The man who sends out notices to his critics, delivered by police squad cars at midnight."

"If this new Governor of New Mexico became President, would he make Honest Harold his Attorney General; or would he put him in charge of the FBI?"

"Honest Harold ought to make an absolutely sensational Secretary of the Treasury! But how exactly do you pronounce this governor's name?"

"I can't pronounce it. She spelled it A-M-A-Y-H-A. Amayha, as in King Khameas."

"That's wrong. It's spelled A-N-A-Y-A."

"Don't be such a nitpicker. At least she got his first name right: T-O-N-Y."

"Sorry. He spells it T-O-N-E-Y. How did Diana McClellan do with regard to her headline, for Pete's sake."

"Her headline was: 'SOMEONE NEW TO SPEEL!'"

"As they say: I don't care what you say about me, as long as you spell my name right!"

"Did Governor Annoy-ya really say that?"

"I thought Annoy-ya was the Senator from Honolulu?"

"That's Inouye! What's in a name?"

"Political survival!"

What are Gov. Anaya's chances for being so nominated?

Not much, from this vantage point. There will, however, probably be a great deal of convention hoopla in placing him among a large number of VEEP candidates (covering every known minority group) in order that there can be the traditional photograph and TV coverage of everyone of these candidates holding their hands aloft, along with the actual vice-presidential nominee.

Anaya has the disadvantage of coming from a state with few electoral votes and not having had a great deal of experience in high office. Unless he were as charismatic as Cesar Chavez once was, and as moderate as Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley is, and had a national political organization as effective as the Kennedys, he is very likely to be patronized next summer—but not nominated. For among other problems, the nomination of anything less than an Hispanic Angel Gabriel would probably provoke an uproar-walkout by black delegates, many of whom feel that they, rather than Hispanics, are due.

Anaya may well have a signal effect on the future, however, even though there is the possibility that by the time his time has come, he might be eclipsed by an even more minority candidate, such as a lady from Navajoland.

Churches may lose all tax exemption

By REV. LESTER KINSOLVING

In the case of Bob Jones University v. The United States of America, the US Supreme Court has reached a decision that could very well be the death knell of all religious tax exemption.

For the high court appears to have reversed its 1970 landmark case of Walz v. Tax Commission, in which it ruled that tax exemption is not a subsidy "since the government does not transfer part of its revenue to churches, but simply abstains from demanding that the church support the state."

Now in the Bob Jones University (BJU) case, the court has ruled:

"The very fact of the exemption or deduction for the donor means that other taxpayers can be said to be indirect and vicarious donors."

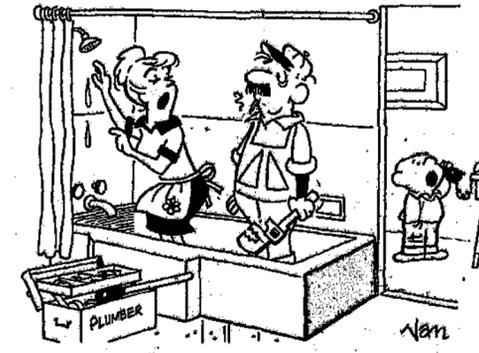

This statement may very well invite a snowstorm of litigation on the part of anti-religious taxpayers, who will sue to end any such indirect or vicarious donating at all. And such suits, if successful, could put an end to all religious tax exemption, just as nearly two centuries of compulsory tax support of the colonial church was ended by the American Revolution.

It is not known precisely how much revenue would accrue to city, state and federal government treasuries by repeal of all church and synagogue tax exemption. But a cursory projection of the tax-exempt church property in New York City and Washington alone suggests enough to alleviate a lot of deficits.

If there is such an end to church tax exemption, many of the mainline denominational leaders will have brought it on themselves. For comparatively few have ever offered to pay voluntarily for such services as police and fire protection. And as for national defense, many of these leaders have lobbied intensively to freeze it — while refusing to register as lobbyists. While their right to take such political (and to them, moral) stands is supported by the Bill of Rights, there is no such Congressional

Letters to the Editor

In memory of USS Solace

EDITOR—I am enclosing my modest donation to Save The Pool Fund, in appreciation and in memory of the USS SOLACE, in which I served 2 years and 6 Pacific Theatre of WWII campaigns.

We are progressing with editing and hopefully soon to convince a publisher of the worth of the works. Checking with the Library of Congress, we have not found the likes of it ever having been written about a Hospital Ship, so I am convinced that it is about time, since currently the US Navy or the US Army have one of these ships of mercy in commission today.

I don't know whether I sent you the background sketch on her, but won't hurt to send another. Her hull finally reached a scrapyard in Turkey, and now we have nothing but memories to dedicate to her and her sister hospital ships, wherever they may be.

Thanks for your letter when I subscribed to your paper, principally because I wanted a copy of your stand on the Japanese internees suing for damages. I recently talked to a former friend and native of Guam, Pete Camacho, who is now operating an export business in San Francisco with members of his family. Pete was one of the Guamanians (Chamorro) who was instrumental in hiding out three Navy men from the Japanese during their occupation after the capture of Guam. Only one survived, and in spite of his Tweeds attitude toward the natives: they still were loyal enough to the United States to protect him. Documentary on TV: "Man is no island."

Settlements by the War Tribunal amounted to Pete the tidy sum of $150 and no more, for all of his possessions and the suffering of his family and friends.

Wish I had taped your conversation with Jim Eason the last time I heard you and your prompting me to subscribe to your paper. I enjoy every bit of it, having once lived in Fowlerville, MI, which at the time could lay claim to one of the best town fairs, and Charlie Gehringer, Baseball Hall of Famer second baseman with the Detroit Tigers back in Ty Cobb's day. Your paper has the honey touch we old timers enjoy. Keep it going.

I wish you folks lots of luck in your pool drive. Yes, keep the kids off the streets and away from the cults. My daughter is a San Francisco policewoman, and in the intelligence department, working on cult problems. Recently, she was the annual dinner speaker on the subject for the San Francisco Chapter of the Retired Officers Association (armed services), Presidio Officers Club, and conducted a seminar at the invitation of the Canadian Royal Mounted Police in Vancouver, BC.

Take care of yourself, Ernie, and keep up the good work. Perhaps you can pass this check along to the Chamber of Commerce as a worthy fundraiser.

PAT DALY,
San Francisco.

(ED. NOTE—Ensign Pat Daly, MSC, USN Ret., was an officer on the Navy hospital ship USS Solace in World War II. The ship handled 25,000 casualties, steaming 170,000 miles for 45 uninterrupted months on its missions of mercy. It earned seven battle stars. It was the first US Navy hospital ship to take under enemy attack at Pearl Harbor, Dec. 6, 1941, and first to come under enemy attack at Tarawa, Roi-Namur, Eniwetok, Saipan, Palau, Iwo Jima and Okinawa. Thanks, Mr. Daly, for your contribution to Carrizozo's Save The Pool Fund; congratulations on having such an accomplished daughter; and good luck on your forthcoming book.)

Church-dominated government

EDITOR—You ask, "So, what the hell do we need government for?" (OPINION, May 26) after recounting the church's position of their "guidance" involvement in most affairs of mankind's life.

In this country, republican government was the answer to a single church domination and direction of Old World governments. In response to the Catholic and Anglican dominance, we simply recycled a Greco-Roman form of dominance which has taken a couple of centuries to run its course to the burdensome form it assumed finally in Rome.

The real question for the next few decades is whether we should anticipate a return to church-dominated government or a feudal transitional period to some other form. Our peculiar present form of government suggests the real possibility of feudal structure, with each state or sub-state claiming autonomy.

What gets me is why we simply "let" it happen. If our human needs require some form of government, why don't we see to it that such government is set under our own terms?

JOHN McNEILL,
Healdsburg, CA.

'Rude and hostile'

EDITOR—I have just come from the special town council meeting concerning the proposed mini-steel mill.

I have a hard time believing how very rude and hostile the majority of people attending this meeting were. Even if a new industry and 50-plus jobs is not what the town wanted, the gentlemen presenting this proposal did not deserve the hostility which was directed at them. They presented their case in a very professional and concise manner. They were pleasant even in the face of rudeness.

I find it ironic that two of the most hostile people there were businessmen who themselves had recently fought their own battles to effect change in Carrizozo, and I am now questioning why I supported their efforts.

It seems that we all want the benefit of modern technology but nobody wants to live next door to the plants which produce the things we use.

Well, maybe the town of San Antonio will not be as stupid as Carrizozo was last night.

NAME WITHHELD.

'Made in USA'

EDITOR—Each May 1, the Kremlin puts on a display of military might more spectacular and more ominous than the last. And well it should be, since its impressive wares were designed, built, and paid for in large part with some of the best technology and equipment and the ample wealth that the West has to offer, most of it from the United States.

Literally volumes of evidence support Professor Antony Sutton's conclusion that as much as 90 percent of the financial, material and technological resources that have built the formidable industrial complex of the Soviet Union were furnished by the US and its allies. Were Moscow's May Day showcase subject to Truth in Labeling laws those batteries of Red missiles would bear tags reading Made in U.S.A.

stitutional guarantee of the benefits of tax exemption.

There have been, in recent years, a number of serious church financial scandals, which proliferate because the churches have been traditionally almost as exempt from governmental controls as from governmental taxation. Despite these scandals, many church leaders declared in effect that the government does not even have the right to define what a church is, much less imposing any regulations upon it. This contention hardly helps the cause of tax exemption. For how can a government reasonably extend the benefit of tax exemption to something which it is not supposed to define?

Mainline church leaders have also joined themselves to the legal defenses of such bizarre and anti-social behavior as Bob Jones University and its allegedly Biblical belief that interracial dating and marriage are sinful (a theory advanced by Aaron and Miriam when Moses married an Ethiopian woman -- and she became leprous when they denounced him for miscegenation. Numbers, Chapter 12, Verse 1 - 10.)

The mainline church leaders have also joined themselves to the legal defense or endorsement of such people as the Rev. Jim Jones, the Rev. Billy James Hargis, the Church of Scientology and the Rev. Sun Myung Moon. The rationale for such strange ecclesiastical bedfellowship is that even the most bizarre or outrageous behavior -- by anyone with a following who claims to be a church -- must be defended in the name of religious liberty.

Such questionable expediency has led not only to major scandals but to such profitable industries as the Universal Life Church of Dr. Kirby Hensley, the Modesto, California mail order ordination magnate.

Church leaders would be well advised to begin preparing serious contingency plans for the possible loss of their tax exemption. These plans could include the following:

Widespread merger of local parishes, many of which are located in such close neighborhood proximity as was once necessitated before the advent of the automobile.

Increased interdenominational use of the same buildings, around the clock on Sundays. Congregations can learn to worship at some hour other than the traditional 11:00 a.m. -- especially if they can share the tax bill rather than assuming it alone.

Either a straight moratorium on all new church building, or a policy that no new church can be built unless all of its taxes can be paid by the proceeds from sale of older churches in areas where few if any of the congregation live any more. -- A crash program to provide maximum use of church property during weekdays, by agencies which work for the benefit of the community. These could be either church agencies themselves or government agencies which need the space and can pay rent -- for with the end of tax exemption, churches could end the euphemism of stipulating that rent or admission is really a "contribution."

● THEY ordered another round, and Smooth Bore, apparently tired of the subject, remarked that Carrizozo was lucky the railroad put its tracks through here back at the turn of the century. "If it hadn't," he concluded, "can you imagine how difficult it would be for Southern Pacific to get the town's support in running its main line through Carrizozo? And all those railroad burns chasing their daughters around?" Then the conversation drifted to the subject of women, and knowing all about women, I finished my drink and slipped into the sobering night air, praying to God there isn't a word of truth in what I'd heard.

● HEARTENING news out of Salem, Ohio. Three Salem youths ripped down four American flags put out to observe Memorial Day. They were arrested and charged with defacing the American flag. Hailed before Mayor Robert Sell, they were ordered to spend 90 days in jail and to pay fines of $750. Then he offered to suspend the sentence and the fine if they would become Russian citizens and leave the country. They hastily declined. Mayor Sell then reduced the sentences, but added a condition—all must appear on the city hall lawn each day of their jail time and repeat the pledge of allegiance! What a charming idea. If we could round up all the dissidents, protesters and Russian-lovers and give them an opportunity to become citizens of the land they love! If Fidel Castro can dump his human dregs on the US, why can't we forward ours to the Soviet Union where they can be put to work in the salt mines and serve their new country so much better than they have served their native one?

● MORE THAN 350 people were killed in traffic accidents over the Memorial Day weekend. There have been no media accounts of this useless carnage, but if 350 people had died as a result of a nuclear accident? . . . The American Civil Liberties Union has filed suit against President Reagan because of his proclamation of 1983 as the "Year of the Bible" . . . The National Conference of Black Mayors met in New Orleans to denounce President Reagan and defy Chicago's black mayor, Harold Washington. The National Conference of White Mayors didn't meet anywhere, because there isn't one . . . The Federal Communications Commission has approved a Black TV station in Los Angeles, but adjourned without approving a White TV station anywhere . . . In Rockford, IL, the Rock Valley Economic Development Commission, which doesn't exist has received a $25,000 federal grant to carry on whatever work it can't possibly do . . . Justice is served in Portland, OR, where school students conducted a mock trial. On trial was Goldilocks, charged with being a thief, a vandal and trespasser for having broken into the Three Bears' house where she ate some porridge and broke Baby Bear's belongings. And June has hardly begun.
