Town services to soar

Cost of living (and dying) going up in Carrizozo

By P. E. CHAVEZ
Monday's regular town meeting included discussion of the 1983-84 proposed budget, prepared by Mayor Harold Garcia, town clerk Carol Schlarb and trustee David LaFave. The suggested budget figures for fiscal year July 1, 1983 to June 30, 1984 includes the areas of general fund, utilities, airport, lodgers tax, golf course, fire department, revenue sharing, cemetery and recreation fund, plus a general obligation bond debt service fund and a revenue bond debt service fund.

After reviewing the projected revenues and expenditures it was determined that in order for the town to make ends meet, a 25 percent rate increase for water, sewer and garbage services would be necessary.

"It is that or delete a few positions," Garcia said, adding that the latter move would mean decreased police protection and park facilities.

Other areas which will be hiked up: meter deposit, from $20 to $50; reconnecting fee, from $2 to $50; turn on fees, from no charge to $5; water taps, from $150 to $500; sewer taps, from $50 to $150.

On the $500 water tap increase, Trustee Bobby Dan Crenshaw stated that he "hated to deter someone from building" pointing out that in some instances local acreage costs could be less than a water tap fee. After discussion it was agreed that the proposed water tap increase will stay at $500.

Even the cost of dying in Carrizozo has gone up. Town cemetery fees have been jacked up to $150 ($75 for grave site, $75 for digging the hole and covering it back). The present fee is $100.

Public hearings will be scheduled so that residents may voice their opinions on the proposed increases after which time the council gives its final approval or disapproval. Garcia said the town's utility rates have been considerably lower than in towns of similar size. Comparative costs will be available for residents to review.

Town budget trimming is the reason town employees will not get raises and for cut backs on motor vehicle supplies, fire allowance, travel and training monies in the areas of motor vehicle, police and general office, and fees paid to trustees and mayor. Two trustees pointed out that they never accept their stipends allowed to them for serving on the council.

The Carrizozo Airport Committee, represented by members Scott Shafer and "Hoot" Gibson requested and received a formal commitment from the town council for $10,000 (cash and in-kind service) for improvements and renovations at the municipal airport. With the town's go-ahead, the committee will now seek financial assistance from the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) and the State Aviation Administration (SAA) on a $200,000 project. The committee's goal is to overlay the current runway, rejuvenate the tie-down and taxi area, and extend the tie-down area.

Dale Goad, chairman of the committee, had approached the council at a previous council meeting and the response was favorable. For this reason, Joe Shain, the committee's consulting engineer, made a presentation last Monday in regard to overall airport needs and plans.

Shain, of Pajo Technical Service Inc., Las Cruces, told the council that the town facility is classified as a basic utility 1 airport. No attempt will be made to change the classification. Shain said the plans he outlined were for making the airport safer and attractive. He explained the steps involved in the proposed project which are to begin in the spring of 1984 if the FAA and the SAA give their approval.

The Carrizozo Airport Committee, formed in 1980, was responsible for updating the site, services and equipment present today. A town police officer and his family reside at the facility. Keeping the 12-year-old airport in operation also requires the voluntary efforts of the five-member committee whose members are on call for refueling aircraft when the need arises. "We are a long way from where we were three years ago," Gibson told the council.

Shafer told the council that fuel was increased from $1.91 to $2.02 but no attempt is made to compete with other airports of similar size. "The fuel increase is high enough to make a profit and low enough to attract pilots," Shafer said.

Garcia read a letter of resignation from town attorney Don Wall, who will be moving to Las Cruces. The town is seeking an interim municipal attorney until a replacement can be found.

Meanwhile the council has tabled an answer concerning restrictions on acreage for trailers until legal advice can be obtained. Earnest Pittillo sought the information on behalf of Jerry Lambert, who would like to open a trailer rental business on property within town limits with water but no sewer facilities. The town will ask the Municipal League for advice on septic tank usage.

School Supt. Dr. Jim Miller in a letter to the mayor said that it has been a number of weeks since community interest peaked about drugs and alcohol abuse. Miller said in his letter that without the town's help and concern the passive situation will continue to decline, until the community experiences another tragedy.

He said that although the school took the initiative in actively attempting to reduce the amount of drug and alcohol abuse by local teenagers, in his opinion this concern and others and their solutions are probably the responsibility of community organizations and churches, who in turn should work with parents. "The real question is not who will address the problem but how they will be addressed."

He urged the council to discuss, plan, and implement some type of program to keep the level of awareness about teenage concerns at a maximum. He said the provision of interesting and positive alternatives would combat these "unhealthy and illegal activities."

"Boredom and loneliness can be a very real problem for today's youth unless we adults express concern and compassion for them. Perhaps if we work together as a community we can quickly move through the more positive stages of this process and go on to the development of a better community for our young people," Miller's letter stated.

Miller, who was present, informed the council that $2,500 has been collected in the Save the Pool Fund. The money was raised through a dinner sponsored by the Carrizozo Volunteer Fire Dept. and by donations gathered by the Chamber of Commerce. Miller said a heat retaining cover has been ordered, put to use and inspected by the environmental division. Monetary donations are still being accepted.

In other business Miller told the council that the Little League park could be utilized as a Pony League for youth ages 13 to 17 who are too old for Little League. The school has the necessary baseball equipment to establish the hard ball leagues. Miller suggested that the existing fence and light poles could be moved back 50 to 75 feet and additional poles added. A temporary fence could be installed for Little League games. The softball park, now under construction, near the Country Club is not large enough for Pony League use.

Garcia said this type activity would alleviate the problems outlined in Miller's letter but that the town budget would not allow for costs involved in the Pony League idea. Miller said the FFA chapter and the electric company will assist in the endeavor with little cost to the town.

Ruidoso attorney suspended

Bruce G. Stafford, Ruidoso attorney, has been suspended from the practice of law in New Mexico by order of The Disciplinary Board of the New Mexico Supreme Court.

The suspension followed Stafford's failure to appear before the court on April 20, 1983 as directed. He is also charged with not having paid costs incurred by The Disciplinary Board or making restitution to the victims listed in the charges against him.

Mary Gordon Giblin, administrative assistant, The Disciplinary Board, did not reveal the specific charges that led to Stafford's suspension from law practice in the state, but said reinstatement is not automatic, and he will have to apply to the board if he desires to be reinstated.

300 on ranch tour

More than 300 persons attended the 4th annual Lincoln County Ranch Tour at Capitan Saturday. They included guests from surrounding state and from as far away as Africa and Brazil.

Eight buses carried guests to the M & F Cattle Company horse ranch at Nogal, owned by Margaret and Ferd Slocum, a son, Ferd Jr., and his wife Lori. The Slocums breed, raise and race quarter horses on this seven-section ranch. Approximately 100 brood mares, most of them from the famed King Ranch at Kingsville, Tx., is the backbone of the operation.

The fireproof barns have 50 stalls, one of which was occupied by Double Dutch Bus, a colt purchased last summer for $14,000 and which won the Kansas Futurity classic at Ruidoso Downs a month ago, carrying with it a purse of more than $216,000.

The operation has a 3/4-mile training track, an arena in which to work cutting horses, many large outdoor pens and two horse walkers. Slocum personally guided the group through all the phases of raising and training horses.

Although M & F has been in the horse business for 26 years, it has been in its present location for about one year.

Slocum arranged for a race on the track to give visitors a firsthand experience in what's involved in horseracing.

Buses returned the tourists to the fairgrounds in Capitan for a lecture on "Range Planning and Management" given by representatives of the Soil Conservation Service. A catered barbecue lunch followed.

SUNDAY, First Baptist Church members observed the 75th anniversary of the church by dedication of a new annex building. A reception and open house followed in the new building. Participating in the ribbon-cutting were, left to right, Bob Curtiss, Richard Hollis, Joe DeTevis, Charlie Cox and the Rev. Cleave Kerby, pastor.

Witnesses participate in meetings

Capitan and Ruidoso congregations were part of the 1142 Jehovah's Witnesses attending a two-day convention in Silver City recently. These ones now are preparing for an upcoming four-day assembly to be held in June, according to Bobby Ford, spokesman for the groups.

According to information received by Mr. Ford, the Watchtower Bible & Tract Society of New York has revealed completion of plans for a series of 104 district conventions of Jehovah's Witnesses in the United States during June and July.

Stanley Weigel, convention director in New York, said approximately 1,000,000 persons are expected to attend the "Kingdom Unity" conventions in more than 80 cities.

One of those conventions is planned for the Chaparral Center in Midland, TX. Frank Bartell, convention manager, said 4,500 Jehovah's Witnesses from West Texas and Eastern New Mexico are anticipated for the meetings. This includes the members of the Capitan and Ruidoso congregations.

Busy Week

Visitors in the home of O. S. and Dorothy Simmons the week of June 1-7 were son O. B. Simmons and family, Amarillo, TX; daughter Carol Ann Focken and family, Sebeka, MN; daughter Shirley and her husband Bobby Whitlock, Hatch; Dorothy's mother and sister, Lucille Porter and Vivian Gail Yandell, family and a friend, all of Artesia; and two brothers, Pete Porter and family, Los Lunas, and Johnny Porter and wife, Ruidoso. Visitors earlier in the week were Fred and Lilly Simmons, Carlsbad. Fred and O. S. are brothers.

Looking Back

Carrizozo High School graduates of 1943 and 1953 will have special reunions when alumni meet June 25-26 for their annual homecoming. Graduates of 1943 will be celebrating their 40th reunion and the class of 1953 their 30th.

I thought it would be interesting to step into the past and roll back three weeks of May 1953 for a glimpse of the way it was in Zozo back then. Lincoln County News, May 1, 1953, featured a group picture of Carrizozo's graduating class.

Class officers were Dorothy Moore (president), Lee Straley (vice-president), Jo Ann Straley (secretary), and Preston Lindsay

Fr. George Boennighausen, pastor of Santa Rita Catholic Church, was in charge of the scripture reading at the baccalaureate service. The Rev. Harris T. Ray, pastor of First Baptist Church, gave the benediction. (I learned at Sunday's First Baptist Church building dedication and 75th anniversary observance that Mr. Ray was pastor in Carrizozo from 1951 to 1956.)

Glenn Thorton's valedictory address on commencement night, May 9, 1953 was entitled "Man with a cause - and how." Rev. C. E. Burch, pastor of the Methodist Church gave the benediction.

It was in 1953 that L. Z. Manire retired after 11 years as Carrizozo's superintendent. He came here from Belen where he had been superintendent for nine years. During Manire's tenure enrollment grew from 350 to 500. A new grade school was built, and an addition made to the high school. A consolidation was effected with schools at Nogal, Oscura, White Oaks, Rabenton and Ancho.

Another Graduation

Graduation for the 8th grade of Santa Rita Catholic School was held May 17, 1953. Fr. Boennighausen presented the diplomas. Sister Emmanuel was the class teacher. Members of 8th grade class were Lucy Pacheco, Olimpia Aragon, Quirina Beltran, Stella Chavez, Rosita Martinez.

A First Time for Everything

Arnold "Abilene" Martin was orphaned in West Virginia and at the ripe old age of eleven years, found himself in Albany, Texas, alone and on his own, and a few years after that found himself serving Uncle Sam in the South Pacific.

Abilene was 66 years of age recently and up to that time had never had a birthday cake in his life. He said someone sent him a cake down in the South Pacific during the war but by the time it reached him it was as hard as granite and he gave it a proper burial in the island sand.

Jackie Martin, owner of Jackie's Cafe, whose big heart and kindness are as well known as Pearl Soderback's, discovered Abilene hadn't ever had a birthday cake and made one for him on his birthday. Abilene is shown here (directly in back of the cake), with other veterans, left to right: former Lt. Kirklin, AF; former Sgt. Ernest Pitillo and Sgt. John Booker, Air Force; Sally Ortiz, a great Sheriff of Lincoln County, 1949-51 worked as airplane engine maintenance foreman at HAFB during war. Present but not shown: Veterans Glenn Ellison, USAF, and Gene Baker, AF. Congratulations "Abilene," a kind and generous person himself.

Our bank has discovered almost daily that there is a first time for everything. Lots of our customers and good Lincoln County folks have said "Well, this is the first time I have ever had a savings account or safe deposit box to store my valuable papers, or a checking account." A demonstration on sheep shearing was put on by employees of the Gnatkowski Ranch. Because of the distance to the ranch, it was found feasible to bring the demonstrations to Capitan. A "Sheep to Show!" promotion, which shows the wool being spun into thread, then into cloth and finally into garments, attracted many visitors. The idea was first worked out by the Gnatkowskis and their neighbors in 1971 as a promotion exhibit at the New Mexico State Fair.

The Gnatkowski Ranch, which specializes in raising a cross of Rambouillet and Columbia breeds, is currently operated by Gnat and Janice Gnatkowski and their sons. The sheep rancher told the group that sheep is a more profitable range operation than cattle.

At Edgar Ranches LTD., the group got a thorough education in the operation of a 300 mother cow and calf operation on 75 sections of land at the base of the Capitan Mountains. About 12 head of cattle are allowed on each section, as it takes about 50 acres to support one animal. The ranch is divided between the daughters of Lori Wallace, who put the giant ranch together. It is now a partnership of the Edgar and Preston Stone families.

The ranch raises commercial and registered Herefords. It boasts a herd of 300 antelope who roam the ranch, and the owners are just beginning to raise registered quarter horses.

The group watched a demonstration of roping, branding and inoculation of calves, along with a detailed lecture on all phases of cattle ranching.

The 1983 Ranch Tour was sponsored by the Canyon Cowbells, Crown Cowbells, Capitan Chamber of Commerce, Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce, Farm Bureau, Carrizozo and Corona chapters of the Future Farmers of America, and by cooperating area ranchers.

OUR left-leaning opinion makers leave few stones unturned in their zeal for turning unlovely people into saints. They turned Martin Luther King, Jr., a womanizing old Communist lover, into an American hero. Now they've done it to Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi. The Academy Award winning movie "Gandhi" portrays the former Indian leader as an international lover of peace, an advocate of non-violence as a means of preserving peace in the world, and as a figure so loaded with morality he could hardly stand. Historians remember Gandhi is another light. He was the devoted husband who permitted his wife to die of pneumonia rather than allow her to have penicillin; he was a racist, cruel to his family, who engaged in bizarre sexual philosophies and practices. He was obsessed with excrement, and he once advised the Jews to commit collective suicide rather than resist Hitler's extermination program. As further testament to his lunacy, he urged the British to surrender to Hitler in World War II rather than fight. Fortunately, he was assassinated in 1948 before he could do further mischief. One reason, methinks, that A. Hitler hasn't been similarly lionized in movie legend is that he double-crossed Stalin in 1941 and invaded Russia, thereby upsetting the Communist timetable for world domination. One does not make a hero of those who betray the communist dream. Poor Adolph. He must remain a mad dog. Well, see the movie, but try to realize there isn't any truth in it.

JOURNALISTS and movie scriptwriters have demonstrated their talent and imagination in concocting fiction which canonizes the dregs of humanity. Surely, they have the talent and imagination to produce a successful story about a person who is worthy to begin with. I recommend to them Blake Giddens, 14-year-old Alamogordo junior high school student who last week won the National Spelling Bee in Washington. He won by correctly spelling two words few of us ever heard of, can't pronounce and much less spell — "ratatouille," a course stew containing eggplant, and "Purim," a Jewish holiday. This gave him the 59th National Spelling Bee championship, $1,000 in cash, and made him a hero in his home town of Alamogordo. His city gave him a big welcome home parade and the keys to the city. Gov. Toney Anaya proclaimed Saturday as Blake Giddens Day in New Mexico. With the English language in disarray and retreat, and the average American able to use only about 800 words out of a possible 30,000, it shouldn't take much talent and imagination to make a national hero out of Giddens and immortalize him as they have done with the likes of Elvis Presley, Marilyn Monroe, Billy The Kid and Alger Hiss. If journalists and scriptwriters can turn low-downed, ignorant, worthless moral lepers into saints to be publicly adored, surely they can lie enough to make a worthy person generally admired — on their way to a $100 million box office and an Academy Award.

I PRESUME that if the Council of Catholic Bishops can meddle in lay matters, this layman may meddle in clerical matters. If so, I would like to congratulate the Vatican which is now in the throes of vindicating Galileo, the great astronomer, scientist and mathematician. Galileo was condemned by the church in 1633 for suggesting that the earth revolved around the sun. He was brought before the Inquisition and forced to recant or suffer being burned at the stake. No church likes to admit to error, but there is indication that after nearly 400 years the good name of Galileo will be restored. I hope it will not take another 400 years for the Vatican to correct the errors now being committed by the Council of Catholic Bishops. Although these bishops appear ready to accept Galileo's theory that the earth truly revolves around the sun, they seem unable to accept the fact that nuclear energy does exist, that it has peaceful applications, and that it is no more immoral to kill people with it than it is to burn them at the stake, a common practice once held in high regard by this and other churches as a means of preserving religious dogma while getting rid of troublemakers.

WAR, according to Ambrose Bierce, is a by-product of the art of peace. And peace, I hasten to add, is neither natural nor desirable among peoples of the earth. All one has to do to assess the consequences of protracted peace is to look at what has happened to this country in the 40 years since World War II. George Bernard Shaw once said that war is a method of killing people — and a lot of people need killing. He has aptly summed up the situation in the Middle East where a lot of folks need killing — and are demanding same.

TRYING to force peace on a people whose culture is steeped in war is impossible, as the Reagan Administration is finding out in its efforts to establish peace in an area where peace has never happened. Peace in the Middle East means one of two things: (1) the total destruction of an enemy or (2) a recuperative lull between two slaughterings. As an unpaid adviser to the US Department of Defense I advocate sending unlimited quantities of arms to all sides in the current Middle East normalcy with the hope that they may effectively annihilate each other, even unto the last man.

THESE same people have been at war since recorded history, and before. When they're not at war with their neighbors they're at war with each other. The Middle East has been a battleground since the Bronze Age. The area has been a battleground for Romans, Egyptians, Macedonians, Ottomans, French, British, the Hittites, Shiltes, Assyrians, Christians, Moslems, Mohammedans and anybody else in rock-throwing distance. The only peace has been that imposed by a conqueror who slaughtered as a means of keeping the peace. Those now fighting it out in Lebanon equate peace with the destruction and humiliation of the enemy — something that cannot be accomplished by peaceful means, as witness the Camp David accords.

A semi-Christian friend of mine, who cannot resist turning the other cheek (thus insuring he will surely get his head knocked off), believes that unless the Middle East war is stopped, the Russians will step in and dominate the area, thus jeopardizing American interests and strengthening the Soviet hand in world affairs. Nothing would delight me more than for the Soviets to step into the fracas and try to subjugate that bunch of blood-letters who cheerfully live and die by the bomb. If you think the Russians are having a tough time occupying Afghanistan, wait until the Russian Bear has to deal with Khomeini, Khadafy, Arafat & Co., and their bands of bloody-shirt wavers. What the Russians would get would serve them right, and we could get rid of a formidable enemy without anybody dying except those who delight in it. That's the democratic way, isn't it?

I WAS all set to provide some big news for our readers this week, but something happened... This scholarly chap appeared at the News office with a suggestion that I agree to having my brain bronzed upon my being gathered to my fathers. I was flattered, but lost interest when he said he wanted it done Friday.

EVERY YEAR ABOUT THIS TIME IT STARTS TO REPENT ITSELF!

New Mexico in Washington

Bingaman suckers for Peace Academy

WASHINGTON — No member of Congress has (as yet) introduced legislation to establish the United States Academy of Motherhood.

But if any Congressman does introduce such a measure, how many members of the US Senate will be so churlish as to vote against Motherhood — and an appropriation of a mere $31 million therefor?

Thirty-one million dollars is the estimated cost (in the beginning, that is) of establishing the "United States Academy of Peace." This proposal is embodied in S.564 — and is endorsed by an astounding 52 percent of the US Senate, including New Mexico's Jeff Bingaman (but not by Sen. Pete Domenici.)

This sensationally silly scheme has been lobbied for several years by an organization headquartered in Washington's Methodist Building, which is called "The National Peace Academy Campaign."

The advisory board of this organization includes pro-Sandinista actor Ed Asner, Seattle Archbishop Raymond Hunthausen who has described the US Navy nuclear submarine base in Bangor, WA, as "the Auschwitz of Puget Sound," and the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, which the US Department of State has identified as a Soviet front.

This proposed peace academy, if it is ever established, would provide an inimitable, tax-supported, government-approved propaganda network for nuclear freezers and their ideological cousins, the unilateral disarmers. For this academy would be empowered to establish a "Center for Internal Peace," as well as "peace schools" and "peace education" programs for "disseminating information" to "the public and to governmental personnel." This would mean the government production of such peace programs to college, high school and even grammar school classes. There would also be grants to non-profit and official public institutions to bolster "basic and applied research on international peace and conflict resolution."

Fortunately, at the time of this writing, this Peace Academy proposal is being scrutinized by the Senate Committee on Labor and Human Resources, whose chairman is Utah Republican Orrin Hatch.

It was Senator Hatch's scrutiny of Senator Paul Tsongas of Massachusetts and his plan to promote the Equal Rights Amendment — again — that caused Tsongas to explode during a hearing.

For Hatch kept Tsongas under questioning for no less than 90 minutes, during which Tsongas answered most of Hatch's questions by saying that such an issue would have to be resolved in court.

Finally, after Hatch had demonstrated Tsongas to be almost totally unprepared to answer the difficult questions he raised about implementation of the ERA, Tsongas leaped out of his chair, shouting that Hatch new damn-well-that-nobody-could answer such questions orally during a hearing and that they require written legal answers.

Sen. Hatch explained that he was simply trying to provide the various state legislatures with examples of the inordinate difficulty in putting the ERA into effect. Sen. Tsongas, whose red-hot interrogation of Republican nominee Alexander Haig, Ernest Lefever and Kenneth Adelman established for him a reputation of relentlessness, proved by his outburst and inability to answer Hatch's questions that he is very good at dishing it out but not good at all at taking a dose of his own medicine.

When Hatch begins questioning adherents of the "United States Peace Academy," Sen. Bingaman would do well to be back in New Mexico.

$6.4 million in Carrizozo area

Southern Pacific describes track rehabilitation work

(The following article, written by John Signor, appears in the March-April, 1983 issue of Southern Pacific Bulletin, official publication of the Southern Pacific Railroad. The article describes activity along the line in and near Carrizozo, with maps and photographs of the area.—EDITOR)

The El Paso-to-Kansas City portion of the Golden State Route has some of the highest, straightest and busiest track to be found on the SP system.

Near Corona, New Mexico, the railroad reaches an elevation of 6,734 feet — the second highest summit on SP lines. The west-bound track at Norden, in northern California's Sierra, is the highest at 7,033 feet.

Between Guyton, Oklahoma and Dalhart, Texas, the track is as straight as an arrow for almost 72 miles. It is the longest stretch of tangent track on SP and the second longest in the United States.

And since January 6, when the Cotton Belt began operating trains between Kansas City and St. Louis over Missouri Pacific tracks, the Golden State Route has become one of SP's busiest corridors. This final link into St. Louis makes the Golden State Route the shortest, single-line route between the Midwest and southern California. Four trains a day carrying automobiles, perishables, intermodal and general merchandise traffic have been added to this route.

Cotton Belt received the trackage rights when the Interstate Commerce Commission approved the Union Pacific-Missouri Pacific-Western Pacific consolidation late last year.

Between El Paso and Kansas City, the Golden State Route is covered by two operating divisions.

The Tucumcari-to-Kansas City portion, purchased from the bankrupt Rock Island in 1980, is on the Cotton Belt's Kansas City Division. In 1981 one of the largest track rehabilitation efforts in U.S. railroad history was completed along this 545 miles of track. Nearly $100 million was spent on rails, ties, ballast and communications. More recently, a new $7.3 million Centralized Traffic Control system was installed between Topeka and Herington, Kansas. This revitalized segment now permits trains to travel over it at top track speeds of 60 and 70 mph.

The El Paso-to-Tucumcari portion — part of the Tucson Division — is being upgraded this year.

The 330-mile-long Carrizozo subdivision — referred to as the "east line" among Tucson Division personnel — is scheduled to receive $6.4 million in improvements. This includes track, signal and bridge work to extend sidings at Vaughn, Three Rivers and Los Tanos; siding extension and yard track work at Carrizozo; and the installation of 75,000 ties and surfacing work along the line. Two additional sidings are planned.

At Carrizozo, which was recently designated as a new crew change point, a motel-like modular complex is under construction to provide crews with a place to rest at this away-from-home terminal.

Communities like Carrizozo and Tucumcari are benefiting from the increased railroad activity and the added personnel required to handle the schedules taking advantage of this efficient corridor.

According to Road Foreman of Engines Jim Eflaw, employees are doing an excellent job of meeting the new demands along this portion of the Golden State

Route. "Engineers find this a challenging part of the railroad," Eflaw says. "It's up and down all the way from Carrizozo to Tucumcari."

It's also a spectacular sight to see. SP's track follows the Tularosa Valley to Carrizozo. The rugged San Andreas Mountains are to the east; the rough, weatherscored Sacramento Mountains to the west.

The ghosts of the wild west are nearby, too. The siding at Omilee is named after O. M. Lee, a rancher who killed Pat Garrett in a dispute over water rights. Garrett, a former buffalo hunter and cowboy, is remembered as the Lincoln County sheriff who gunned down the most celebrated outlaw of the Southwest, Billy the Kid.

SP's expedited schedules rush past this land of enchantment as they make history on a revitalized Golden State Route.

OLD LINCOLN TOWN

By JERRY LOCKE

At the time this was written, Cristobal Zamora Sr. was in the Ruidoso Hospital. Sincerely hope that by the time you read this, Mr. Zamora is back home with Mama Z. Two truly wonderful people!

Billy the Kid will soon, once again, make his last escape. Preparations are moving along nicely. Betty Benton, recent president of the Ruidoso Little Theater, will direct this year's enactments. Horace Cordova resigned as chairman of the Pageant Committee and Rosalie Dunlap and Betty Schreengost will co-chair. The Pageant Corporation is arranging for assistance in traffic control.

Wednesday, June 22, 7 a.m. to noon, a cleanup and maintenance of the pageant ground will take place. Your help is very much needed. Also need donations of paint (any kind and color), lumber, paint brushes, nails, etc. About two dozen 55 gallon drums will be needed as trash cans. Any you can spare will be appreciated. So, come to the pageant grounds next week and join in the fun.

Old Lincoln Days and the Pageant take place here each August. This will be the 43rd presentation. The episodes of the pageant are based on historical facts of the notorious Lincoln County War and its most remembered character, Billy the Kid. The kids (all ages) will enjoy, so mark the 5th, 6th and 7th on your calendar and watch this paper for complete details.

Had planned to start a Question and Answer paragraph but perhaps an overall view of the Lincoln County War would serve better. The War and Billy the Kid have been the subjects of hundreds of books, over 70 movies and several stage plays and ballets. Except for a few books, none of this mass of material is reliable or historically correct.

The Lincoln County War was a political-economic power struggle for control of the area. The faction headed by L. G. Murphy and J. J. Dolan had, with the aid of the Santa Fe Ring, managed to obtain a monopoly of the region. This included the very lucrative beef contracts with the army at Ft. Stanton. In the process, they also gained control of the law. J. H. Tunstall, an English adventurer, John S. Chisum, the area's largest rancher, and Alexander Mc-Sween, local attorney, formed a partnership and opened both a mercantile store and bank in Lincoln. This represented a direct challenge to The House of Murphy and was not taken lightly. After some legal infighting, Sheriff Brady sent a posse to the Tunstall Ranch with an attachment for some of Tunstall's horses. Along the way, the posse met and killed Tunstall. The date was February 18, 1878, and is generally considered the beginning of the war.

Juanita Navarro, Carmen Vidauri, Ralph Baroz, Ruben Chavez Jr., Paul Gutierrez, Elmon Jaurequi and Danny Mirabel.

Fr. Boennighausen told the NEWS that plans for the new church in Carrizozo have been approved and that a contract will be set in the near future.

Back Then

Taste-Freez, Carrizozo's new soft ice cream drive-in, opened for business in May of 1953. Proprietors Pick Warden and J. A. Hightower said equipment at the establishment included a $2500 ice cream making machine. The business was located where Ruicoso State Bank (Carrizozo branch) now exists.

According to the May 1, 1953 NEWS, Oscar Keathley owner of Oscar's Shoe Shop, was a patient in the Carrizozo Hospital for a few days. The shop opened again for business after two weeks due to the death of Mrs. Keathley and Mr. Keathley's illness.

County commissioners in 1953 were George Fuchs, Charles E. Jones and Granville Richardson. They and J. Earl Harcrow, county clerk; Lloyd Vigil, county assessor; and S. E. Greisen, county treasurer planned to attend a convention of county officials to discuss mutual problems.

Remember When

Boy Scout Troop 53 of Carrizozo attended the White Mountain Tamarix Camporee, April 24 and 25? They pitched tents at Camp Baca between Fort Stanton and Lincoln. Scouts from Carrizozo attending the 1953 excursion were Franklin King, Bobby Stearns, Roger Pope, Pat Vigil, Jessie Nowell, Sonny Shrum, Bobby Jones, Thurl Ray, Henry Grannis, Lewis Greer, Wayland Hill, Hollis Bynum, Luis Sandoval, and Explorers Gene Garrison, Lonnie Nowell, Gilbert Ortiz and Scott Lewis. Scoutmaster Devitt accompanied the troop.

The scouts thanked Marvin Roberts for the loan of a Ford Motor Co. pickup to get the boys to and from camp. Jiggs Sidwell also loaned his truck. Lloyd Vigil, Raymer Shaw and Leroy Sidwell assisted the scouts in various ways.

Super Taxpayer

On May 1, 1953 the Southern Pacific Railroad delivered its check for $35,760.06 in payment of the final installment of its 1952 property taxes. Lincoln County treasurer S. E. Greisen said that the total payment of $71,560.13 made Southern Pacific the largest taxpayer in Carrizozo.

Troops Arrive

The NEWS announced on May 8, 1953 that the vanguard of a detachment of US Army troops had arrived at the Malpais Camp. Around 100 men set up camp south of Hwy 380 and west of the Malpais.

Lt. Col. Wm. Lucinski from Ft. Bliss was in Carrizozo that week to talk with Mayor Marvin Roberts concerning recreational and other facilities available. It was expected that more troops would be stationed at the camp from time to time.

Ranchmen Gather

The Nogal Mesa Ranchmen's camp meeting was set at the campgrounds to make arrangements for the 1953 general encampment to be held in July. All committee men and others interested in giving a hand in the plans are asked to be on the Mesa for the meetings.

Dorothy Guck told the NEWS: "Of course, the women are cordially invited, too."

Gone But Not Forgotten

"Advertise or be forgotten" advised a 1953 NEWS mini ad. A sampling of details from a few of the many business ads follows:

In 1953 a GMC pickup could be purchased at Carrizozo's City Garage for $1867.86.

Big Jo Lumber Co. was the place to go for an FHA loan for repairing or remodeling. No down payment, 36 months to pay, and loans up to $2500.

At the Lyric Theatre, 1953 Hollywood film fans could watch Doris Day and Gordon MacRae in "By the Light of the Silvery Moon" plus a cartoon and a newsreel. Also featured that week were Joseph Cotton and Shelly Winters in "Untamed Frontier." Prices at Food Mart (now Shop Rite) No. 200 can pork and beans 10 cents; 1 pound jar preserves 25 cents; facial tissue 25 cents; ground beef per pound 39 cents, and 7-inch prime rib roast per pound 57 cents. An S & H green stamp-traveling premium store served Carrizozo shoppers; The Yuuca Bar featured Slim Skillet and orchestra at a Wednesday night dance. A floor show began at 10 o'clock. Sunday dinner at the Steak House (now Ned's Plumbing) included baked ham with Hawaiian sauce, cream of tomato soup, Waldorf salad, coconut cream pudding, buttered carrots or creamed English peas—all for just a dollar!

Corona

Emmett Sultemeier returned Monday from Fort Sumner where he had been visiting John Christ.

Jim Latham, Sterling City, TX, was at the ranch for two days last week.

John D. Holleyman won first in the go-round and third in the average in the century roping section Sunday at the Gerald Tully roping in Ruidoso. Mr. and Mrs. Holleyman and Mr. and Mrs. Willis Brunson attended.

Among those registering Monday for freshman courses at NMSU were Becky Alirez, Dolly Smith, Clay Lightfoot and Tom Perkins.

Plans are being made for the Corona Summer Festival to be held this year on July 16. Pam Owens is helping with the parade arrangements.

The Crown Cowbells met at the home of Eve Latham, June 2, at 10 a.m. Co-hostesses were Lee Sultemeier and Sue Maness. The meeting was called to order by President Eve Latham. Minutes were read by Ruth Davis; treasurer's report by Katie Sultemeier. Irma Bryan sent a message that the Beef Contest for Father's Day would be held June 1-18. The prize will be a $20 dinner certificate at the Co-op restaurant in Estancia. Marie Owen is the local membership chairman.

A discussion on the Beef Council was held. Butchers Blend dog food is promoting beef with coupons in their product. The CowBelle quilt was shown. It will be displayed at Allen's Western Wear. It will be raffled during the Lincoln County Fair. Final plans for the ranch tour were made. The July 1 meeting will be at Nancy Ranneys. A cook-out honoring the Father of the Year. Cards will be sent out. RSVP due date will be June 27 so Nancy will know on how many to plan for.

White Oaks

By ROSE VINSON
The White Oaks Casino and Museum was broken into sometime after 8 p.m. Friday, June 3. Among articles taken were cigarettes, whiskey and $25 from the cash register. Entry was gained through the back door. Sheriff's Deputy Baker investigated and several sets of prints were taken. Baker has assured us here in White Oaks that every effort will be made to apprehend the thieves.

Work is progressing nicely on the new room at the Casino. A thank you goes to Ken Lamb, who has been a big help. Also Allen, John, Duane, Duane II and Tony who lent a hand raising the heavy beams.

Soon to be a new neighbor is Mike McAdams who has bought 40 acres from Joyce and Owen Simpson. Mike expects to begin building a home as soon as possible.

A. J. Marks is out of the VA hospital and back home. We are all glad his surgery went so well and hope his problem with headaches is over.

Also, best wishes to Elaine and A. J. on their wedding anniversary celebrated June 11.

"I'd better hang up now, Mother. You know how Fred is about long-distance calls."

A SHEEP FROM the Gnatkowski Ranch is sheared for the crowd. A nearby exhibit shows how the sheep's wool in carded, woven into thread, then into cloth and finally into woolen garments.
