Capitan senior citizens are going strong

In the one short year that the Capitan Senior Citizens Center has been open, it is the feeling of its members that much has been accomplished. The membership has steadily grown and the sphere of influence of the center has increased considerably. The main factors attributing to this growth are the devotion and work of the members and staff plus the solid support of the village administration and the community. No endeavor seems too large or small. The motto for the center from its conception has appeared to be, "If it can't be done let's do it." This attitude has created a place of pride for both the so-called "senior citizens" and the community.

place at the Senior Citizens Center, located just north of Hwy. 37 as you leave Capitan for Ruidoso.

Tigers win three

The Carrizozo Grizzlies and the Capitan Tigers renewed their rivalry Tuesday night with three games up in the scenic mountain community.

The Tiger varsity boys outscored the Grizzlies by 2 points in the first quarter and by three points in each of the remaining quarters. Final score - Capitan 64, Carrizozo 53. The Grizzlies pulled to within 2 points of the Tigers with 2 minutes left in the game. The Tigers then got hot and pulled away.

Eddie Davis led the way for the Tigers with 26 points, 7 rebounds. It was Dewey Keller - 12, Danny Cummins and E. Hamm - 7 each, Todd Proctor and S. Castillo - 6 each. Rousseau was high point man for the Grizzlies with 21 points. D. Vega swished the cords for 13, C. Sanchez - 11, J. Guevara - 4. The Tigers hit 58 percent of their field goal attempts, 36 percent at the free throw line. The Grizzlies field

Community planning session set

The Southeastern Economic Development District will hold a two day community planning session for Carrizozo community leaders December 16 & 17 at the Recreation Center.

Sponsored by the Town Council and the Chamber of Commerce, the planning meeting will assist the town in developing a multi-year plan for community improvement. Topics to be discussed include establishing objectives and deadlines for community improvement areas, such as street paving, storm sewer additions, economic and tourism development, airport expansion, and other topics of interest.

Invitations have been mailed out to over 50 community leaders. Sessions are expected to last from 5 p.m. on December 16 and 9 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturday, December 17.

New telescope allows for rotation of earth

Thanks to a Alamogordo couple, the Tombaugh Planetarium, a division of the New Mexico Office of Cultural Affairs, now boasts a Criterion 6 telescope.

Jim and May Orbison recently presented the telescope to Planetarium Director John Peterson for use in educational observing sessions and for special events such as the appearance of a comet, eclipses or a grouping of planets.

The Criterion 6 is a reflecting telescope which uses a six inch mirror to concentrate the light from distant stars or planets. It is equipped with a drive motor to automatically compensate for the daily rotation of the Earth setting circles to allow the telescope to be adjusted for the latitude of Alamogordo and a small spotting scope.

According to Peterson, when special events such as eclipses and comets occur, the Criterion 6 telescope along with several other telescopes will be moved to the Space Center parking lot so that others can enjoy their use.

4-H'ers will go to Capitol

4-H members from counties throughout the United States are now making plans to attend one of the Cooperative Extension Service's most exciting and successful programs offered, Citizenship Washington Focus.

Over 5,600 15 to 18 year olds are expected to attend this 25 year-old program next summer in Washington, D.C. Their classroom will be the nation's capital.

Members will attend one week sessions in June, July or August. Many of these teenagers will have an opportunity to meet their senators and representatives to discuss problems and possible solutions to real life concerns related to economics, agriculture, energy, conservation and more.

Their home base for the week will be the National 4-H Center, a beautiful 12-acre campus located on the outskirts of Washington.

Last summer participants learned about the election process by running their own political campaigns and elections. They also toured federal agencies and visited historical sites. But most of all they met other 4-H members from all around the United States and shared ideas, concerns and friendships.

Those who attended from Lincoln County were Alice Booky of Hobbs, Sabrina Sultmeier of Ellettsville, McKibben and Becky Washburn of Corona.

The program inspires teenagers to become active involved citizens in their communities when they return home.

For more information about the program, contact Rick Richardson at the Lincoln County Extension office and request a copy of the new Citizenship Washington Focus brochure.

Game of Lincoln County now on sale

The Game of Lincoln County is now available county wide. The game, similar to Monopoly, has Lincoln County businesses as designated properties. Also included is a 2000 word history of Lincoln County written by Johnson Stearns.

A fundraiser sponsored by the Lincoln County Association for Retarded Citizens, the game costs $10.95. Profits from sales will be used to purchase major appliances for local group homes for retarded citizens.

Games are available at the following locations: Carrizozo Family Pharmacy, Western Auto and Shop Rite Foods, Corona Corona Trading Company, Capitan Capitan Brown Drug and B & L Pizza.

The games, which will make excellent Christmas gifts, are also available from ARC members: Mary Funk, Birgit LaMothe, Peggy Najjar, Leota Phingsten and Tom Funk.

A retirement party for Hazel English will be held at the Carrizozo Rec Center on Friday, Dec. 16, 1983, from 2-4 p.m. Everyone is cordially invited.

Gaines at (AVA) meet

Michael Gaines, Vocational Agriculture teacher at Carrizozo High School, joined approximately 500 agricultural educators attending the American Vocational Association (AVA) Convention in Anaheim, CA, December 2-6. Nearly 7,000 vocational educators attended the 600 plus sessions keyed to the theme "Vocational Education and Business: A Working Partnership."

Gaines, currently serving as the delegate of the New Mexico Vocational Agricultural Teachers Association, also served as outstanding young teacher. Region II includes the State of New Mexico, Texas, Arkansas, Colorado, Kansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma during the convention.

CCC urges farmers to sign up by 14th

Farmers who are located in disaster designated counties and who are eligible to purchase lower grade Commodity Credit Corporation corn to feed their livestock are urged to sign up at their county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office. The sign up period is December 6-14.

According to Bill Trammell, County Executive Director, the corn is priced at 75 percent of the 1983 basic county loan rate in the county where it is stored. Nationwide about 27 million bushels of US No. 4, US No. 3 and Sample Grade corn are available from CCC. Farmers purchasing the corn are responsible for transporting it to their farms. Lincoln Co. has been designated as a disaster county. Corn available to Lincoln Co. farmers and ranchers is in Clayview and Brownfield, Texas.

Authorization for the CCC corn sales came with President Reagan's signature last week to a measure passed by Congress dealing primarily with the dairy and tobacco programs.

Mr. Trammell said that in addition to being located in a USDA designated disaster county, a farmer or rancher eligible to purchase the corn must also have insufficient feed on hand to maintain foundation livestock through the end of a 90 day feeding period. The period begins when a producer applies for the assistance. The maximum amount of corn allowed to be purchased will be 10 pounds of feed per day per animal unit times the number of days in the feeding period.

For further information on the program farmers and ranchers should contact the local ASCS office. The office is located in the courthouse annex in Carrizozo. Their phone number is 648-2381.

Anaya urges Bentsen amendment

SANTA FE - Governor Toney Anaya urged farmers and ranchers in eastern New Mexico to take advantage of a recently signed bill that provides for an emergency feed program.

The Dairy and Tobacco Bill, which contained an amendment allowing for the selling of low grade grain surplus at 75 percent of the county loan rate, was approved by Congress November 17 and signed by President Reagan on November 30.

Last month Anaya sent telegrams to the House-Senate Conference Committee considering the bill urging passage of the legislation. Anaya said the amendment, offered by US Senator Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, will be especially helpful to farmers and ranchers in eastern New Mexico who have been hard hit by a severe drought.

The governor declared the counties of Chaves, Curry, DeBaca, Harding, Lincoln, Lea, Luna, Otero, Quay, Roosevelt, Torrance and Union natural disaster areas last September. The counties of Mora, San Miguel and Guadalupe were added in November.

Anaya said interested parties should contact their local Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service offices for information.

CENTER DOINGS

Zia Senior Citizens Center had a pool table repaired recently. The table, a Brunswick Monroe, dates back to 1923. Stop by sometime to see the nice condition it is in. The table was fixed so that seniors could practice their playing skills in preparation for the big contest next month.

The center is getting ready to host the District Pool Tournament on Jan. 16 at the Rec Center. The event should attract 300 or so competitors and spectators from Roswell, Tularosa, Capitan and Corona.

FORMER RESIDENT

Nick Apodaca, Albuquerque and sons Nick Jr. and Zeke were among hunters who tried their hunting skills in this county. Nick, former Carrizozo resident and school student also lived in Coyote as a youngster. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Felipe Apodaca of Roswell. The Apodaca family resided in Coyote when Mr. Apodaca was a Southern Pacific employee and stationed at Coyote.

Nick Jr. was luckier than most local hunters. He returned to Albuquerque with a 3-point deer. The three hunters stayed overnight in Carrizozo with Mr. and Mrs. Andres Mendriquez, Nick's aunt.

MORE THE MERRIER

A big crowd turned out for last week's volleyball and basketball awards program, which included a pot luck meal. Additional tables and chairs were set up to accommodate everyone. The tables were filled with the most pot luck food I have ever seen at a gathering. Plenty of food was available and the beverage was compliments of Coca Cola.

It was inadvertently implied that only the varsity cheerleaders had decorated the school lunchroom for the event. Zachary and I spent some time designing drawing and hanging up posters for the occasion. Susan Thornton and her 6th, 7th and 8th home economics students and the Health and Fitness class under the direction of principal Dennis Sidebottom carried tables, chairs, placed paper and streamers on tables and assisted the cheerleaders, Zac and I in hanging up our posters.

Zac and I enjoy doing this type of work. He plans to become a commercial illustrator when he grows up. But if a position for town police chief is available he'll do that instead. When I grow up I plan to become a Sunday oil painter.

VIVA TRADITIONS

New Mexico celebrates Christmas in a unique way with luminarias. In Albuquerque and Santa Fe whole sections of the cities join in decorating with luminarias, a custom that has spread across the US. Some big town residents go all out with luminaria decorations on Christmas Eve, when thousands of luminarias are lighted and buses are provided for viewing of the Christmas candlelit paper sacks also known as 'farolitos'.

Luminarias are little lights that line the rooftops, low walls and walks. They are made of small paper sacks turned down at the top and weighted with sand in which stands a single short candle. Used for decorations, their origin is rooted in the religious heritage of native New Mexicans. The first luminarias were stacks of wood lighted to guide the Holy Family wandering about in a dark and strange land.

During the first Christmas in New Mexico, Onate's colonists in 1598 celebrated by lighting large 'hogares' (outdoor bonfires). On Christmas Eve the bonfires were built in front of houses. As residents departed for church on Christmas Eve, they lit the bonfires. A line of lights led to the church. In later years brown paper sacks, sand and candles replaced the bonfires, known today as luminarias.

LIBRARY CORNER

Students of all ages come and go at Carrizozo's school library. Parents and community members also have access to the services that the library offers. During one of my stops at the library I saw a poster which librarian Julia Hollis and staff made. The poster included a photograph and brief biography of school staff and their contributions. Each week a staff member of whom students and teachers are proud of is added to the display. Those who have been featured so far are Nat Chavez, Eugenia Vega, Susan Thornton and Rhonda Farley.

Nat, maintenance supervisor, began working for Carrizozo schools in October 1969. According to the poster, he and his wife Polly (that's me) have six children, all of whom have attended or are attending Carrizozo schools. The poster adds: "We can help him and show that we appreciate his efforts by picking up trash and paper in the halls and grounds, using available trash cans on campus and never defacing or willfully destroying school property."

Eugenia is the high school secretary. She and husband Nick are parents of two sons and two daughters. According to her poster write-up Eugenia is a "right hand for principal Dennis Sidebottom." In time of crisis, Eugenia is a student helper, good listener and dispenser of first aid.

Susan and Rhonda share more than an apartment. According to the poster they share a positive attitude and enthusiasm with the students. Susan, home ec teacher, is in her second year at Carrizozo. Rhonda coached volleyball, assists in basketball and will be head track coach.

LOCAL ARTISTS

You still have a chance to view the work of Raynene Greer, stoneware potter and Irlene Phillips, painter and unique frame maker. The work of the two women is displayed at Carrizozo School Conference Room.

Raynene began ceramic courses at New Mexico State University in 1974. She studied there until 1978. In 1979 she set up a studio in her home in Organ, NM. 'Montano Azul Pottery' was the name of her studio. Raynene says that 'Montano Azul' means blue mountain, as the Organ Mountains appear at sunset.

In 1980 Raynene moved to Carrizozo to take the position of group home supervisor at New Horizons Developmental Center. She works with pottery parttime. Raynene says that "clay is a very pliable yet very strong. I feel a bond with that. I think that is a female trait - to be pliable yet strong."

Irlene's water color art features frames that she custom makes from cholla cactus, bamboo or pinecones. A former Granbury, TX resident, she was voter registrar for six years. It was during this time that she became interested in water color. Her hobby is making things, from building houses to cholla finishes everything she starts. Irlene owns 'Irlene's Workshop', located at Park Apartments.

Opinion

(In the absence of Ernest Joiner, guest columnist this week is Albert D. Hattie, Associate Professor and Holder, Schwan Chair for Free Enterprise, Southwest State University, Marshall, MN, who writes under the heading "Straight Talk.")

STURGIS, SD—After checking in upon arrival for a speaking engagement, a bank vice president introduced herself and indicated that she had been delegated to greet and introduce me. She asked some questions to prepare an introduction. One of her questions, "Have you ever been to this part of the country, before?" My response, "Back in 1950, when you were probably in grade school, I lived near here."

The young lady immediately let me know that she hadn't even been born in 1950. I excused myself, took a look in a mirror, and suddenly realized that I hadn't noticed the wrinkles, bags and fade spots that had been added to a more-than-50-year-old face which I had been shaving, almost daily, for about 40 years. The changes had been so gradual that I hadn't noticed them as they occurred.

This may explain why we don't solve problems as they appear, because they may develop so slowly that they aren't noticed until a crisis arises. Furthermore, the definition of a crisis, a critical moment, is really a matter of judgement varying with individuals.

For example, if you have read, listened or viewed the news, you have heard about the problems of American industries and the inability of many to survive. You are aware of the millions and billions of dollars in losses, the bankruptcies, and the cries of those who are hurting. Let's look at just one of those industries, the airlines, who are luckier than most because they have little foreign competition in their domestic flights.

Over the years, with regulation of rates and routes, the airlines automatically increased their costs, particularly wages and benefits and bought too many expensive planes. It is not uncommon to find pilots and stewardesses working less than 20 hours per week, with pilots earning up to $140,000 per year and stewardesses earning up to $41,000 per year, with mechanics putting in more hours and earning $30,000-40,000 per year. I am told that the average wage paid to all classifications of pilots for about a 10 hour week in the major airlines is more than $70,000 in wages plus benefits.

These major airlines have labor costs that average between 30-40 percent of their total costs. They are competing against economy airlines where labor costs average about 20 percent and the employees have to work harder and longer for their money. The pilots, for example, put in twice the hours, earn half the pay, and help in all sorts of extra chores to keep costs down and rates low.

Some say that the problem is de-regulation, letting competition work. That isn't true! The airline problems would exist with or without deregulation because the ticket prices kept skyrocketing as cost increases were just passed along, so that rates got too high for us to afford air travel. For example, on a trip that cost me three years ago $352 (both ways), today the comparable charge is $815.

Even though our population keeps growing air traffic is no greater than 1979. Even that traffic level is the result of bargain fares. At the right price, we can afford to travel by air. At the wrong price, too high a rate, we won't travel by air. Elimination of bargain rates will just mean fewer customers and a continuation of the airline problems. The answer is lower standard rates, and that translates into lower airline costs.

Poor management and union leadership together with a lack of understanding on the part of airline employees, contribute to the present problem. We only have so much money to spend on food, clothing, shelter, education, taxes and everything else. When the airlines priced themselves out of the market, they asked for trouble and got it, about two billion dollars in losses since 1980. At the same time, the bargain rate airlines, with top safety records, are making money!

What happened? The situation confronting the major airlines changed. Instead of facing up to those changes and cutting costs, the airlines assumed that "this too, would pass." It won't! The airlines, with little foreign competition, are an example of what is happening, industry by industry. We have to cut "fat" and get competitive, again! Just as there is no way for me to be a kid, again, there is no way to get back to the "good old days" that I hear both airline union and management leaders discussing.

Unless we can compete in the real world, the situation will get progressively worse. The simple fact is that many of us are not earning our way, today, and the world isn't going to give us a free ride with ever-increasing wages and benefits is something we must accept, even if we don't like it. That's Straight Talk!

Pearl Harbor—Remember?

One of our great men out of the past is quoted as saying, "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty."

This is being written Dec. 7, 1983, on the 42nd anniversary of Pearl Harbor Day. That was the day when our leaders failed to heed the warning about the price of liberty, and we all paid a terrible price for it.

The American people have always been generous and open-handed, to a fault. We refuse to believe that someone would decide and try to destroy us until the destruction is underway. This, we believe, is in the highest moral tradition. It can also result, as we have found out time and again, in the death of untold thousands of Americans.

Just as it is not immoral to defend ourselves, so it is not immoral to provide ourselves with the means to do so.

Let's not sleep through another Pearl Harbor, in Grenada, or Lebanon, or any other place.

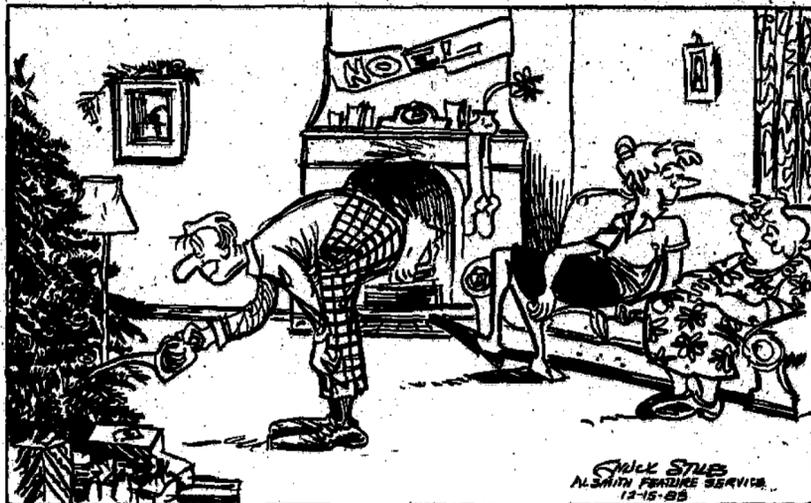

"You should have called me sooner."

Inside Religion:

Pink triangles flank the cross

By REV. LES KINSOLVING
HARTFORD, CT — The cross on the high altar of the (Episcopal) Christ Church Cathedral was flanked by two bouquets on Wednesday night, Nov. 9, each of these triangular-shaped floral decorations featuring the large pink triangle symbol of homosexuality.

In the Cathedral's pulpit, for a "Service of Solidarity and Light" was a lesbian preacher, Nancy Wilson. Ms. Wilson, a member of the board of elders of the Universal Fellowship of Metropolitan Community (Homosexual) Churches, told the congregation of some 200 people: "I thank God that they (the National Council of Churches) included us in their future."

This was an interesting observation, considering what had happened only three hours earlier. For the National Council of Churches (NCC) had, for the first time in its 33-year history, turned down the membership application of a denomination that wanted to join. The NCC's Governing Board voted 116 to 94 to postpone indefinitely any action on the membership application of this gay-lesbian organization.

Preacher Wilson noted, however, that the resolution of the NCC contained a provision that promises to "develop a process whereby the NCC and the UFMCC can remain in study and conversation together."

That such "study and conversation together" could also apply to NCC ministry to prisons is apparently no real problem to the imagination of Ms. Wilson. For she hailed this as "a tremendously important sign."

Ms. Wilson's sermon also included a lugubrious lament that "Oppression kills our people" — without even one word about the AIDS epidemic, which is the result of gay promiscuity.

The congregation then sang "An anthem for Gay Christians" in which Jesus Christ is described as "our Lover" who "ordained" what the lyric defines as "free bodies and free minds."

After the congregation had all participated in spirited kisses of peace, there was a selection from Isaiah 56, which includes the assurance that righteous eunuchs will, in lieu of sons and daughters, be given an everlasting name "that shall not be cut off." Some parts of the Gay Liberation Movement will, however, be cut off, at least from any such "study and conversation together with NCC President James Armstrong, who has resigned since the meeting here "for personal reasons." He is a Methodist bishop from Indianapolis. For during a press conference, the bishop was asked if there would be such a relationship with either the Eulenspiegel Society or NAM-BLA.

Bishop Armstrong replied that he does not know what these organizations are. When informed that these organizations — which are accepted in gay liberation parades — are organized sado-masochists and organized child molesters, he replied that he will not engage in dialogue with such people.

Armstrong terms the rejection (indefinite postponement) of the homosexual application as "no rejection" which, along with the form of the resolution, incited the object disgust of both the Greek Orthodox as well as delegates of that huge black denomination, the National Baptist Convention.

The Greeks and other Orthodox members of the NCC had served notice of their firm intention to walk out of the NCC if the homosexual churches were allowed in. Andrew Vance, a Greek Orthodox attorney from New York, described the postponement resolution as "only postponing the inevitable. What we've been under for the past two years only continues. It is a failure to face up to the issue."

Dr. Franklin Richardson of Mt. Vernon, NY, the General Secretary of the National Baptist Convention, described the postponement resolution as "indecisive and manipulative. We leave here not having said anything except that we're looking for a neutral place to hide."

No sooner had the extensively debated (2 hours) resolution passed than Chris Cowap took the floor. Ms. Cowap, the NCC's Director of Economics and Society in the Division of Church and Society, delivered an emotional proclamation that she is a lesbian. Moreover she is "compelled by the Holy Spirit to be here" because "There are others of us, in choir lofts, sacristies and pews!"

This moved a number of NCC delegates — mainly from the left-leaning United Church of Christ — to rush up to Ms. Cowap and engage in a long and lachrymose hugging session.

At a subsequent news conference, Bishop Armstrong was asked: (1) If the NCC has ever, among its gigantic list of social resolutions, asked gays to stop the promiscuity of cruising; (2) Does the NCC have any health plan to protect the straight staffers from the gay staffers who do cruise; and (3) Had he detected, in the reproduction of the NCC's controversial neutered lectionary of Bible readings, any input from lesbian man-representation.

Bishop Armstrong who says "The primary sins in congregations and across the life of our culture are heterosexual," replied that these are "insulting questions" and that he believes "absolutely in the integrity of the people involved. I have not inquired into their bedroom habits."

He offered no explanation as to why the health of the huge NCC bureaucracy is not important enough to try to protect them from AIDS, which is one of the nation's most deadly epidemics. But he did reveal what might be termed one of his own bathroom habits — in his recent growing of an abundant moustache. For he admitted, with a chuckle, that he had grown this abundant foliage to cover his upper lip — which had perspired so noticeably while he was being filmed and questioned by Morley Safer of CBS's "60 Minutes."

Watch over Washington

Cong. Dymally wants to impeach the president

By LES KINSOLVING
WASHINGTON — Among the seven members of the House of Representatives who have introduced a resolution to impeach President Reagan, because he ordered the Grenada incursion, is the Hon. Mervyn Dymally, Democrat, California. (Plus additional Democrats from the far left, including Mitchell of Maryland, Weiss of New York, Conyers of Michigan, Leland and Gonzalez of Texas and Dixon of California.)

Mr. Dymally, it should be remembered, is an experienced authority on this general area. Even before he entered the Congress, while he was Lt. Gov. of California, he paid a visit to nearby Guyana.

When he returned to California, he brought with him rave reports about the wonderful (if somewhat communal) church work being carried on in Jonestown under the inspiring leadership of the town's namesake, the Rev. Jim Jones.

The Rev. Mr. Jones, a clergyman of the Disciples of Christ (Christian) Church, had been a great favorite of Dymally's fellow Democrats in San Francisco, where he was appointed to high office and handled millions of dollars in Federal housing funds. When V-P candidate, Walter Mondale visited San Francisco Jim Jones was invited to the Mondale campaign plane. Jones was even invited to have dinner with the First Lady, Rosalynn Carter, after a final settlement between the Secret Service and the Rev. Mr. Jones's gunbearers.

Congressman Dymally's resolution includes the following notable provision: "And the said Ronald Reagan, president of the United States, is further impeached of the high crime or misdemeanor of preventing news coverage of that invasion, thereby impairing the First Amendment rights of those seeking to provide news coverage, and of the American public in general."

"The American Public In General" appear as if they would very much appreciate it if somebody had been willing to introduce a resolution calling for the expulsion of all seven of these demagogic extremists from the House of Representatives.

Since when is it a "high crime or misdemeanor" to refuse to share important military secrets (such as the time of actual combat, airborne or amphibious landings) with the media?

It is quite true that there were some war correspondents accompanying our troops on the invasion of Normandy. It is also

Letters to the Editor
 Great Disservice

EDITOR—ABC TV would like us to believe that it produced "The Day After" as a public service, and that neither ratings or money matters when it is out to do us good. The truth is that everything from the selection of filming location (Lawrence, Kansas, a hotbed of "nuclear freeze" activity) to the choice of directors (Nicholas Meyer, who admits to a strong anti-nuke bias) to the timing of the film's release (on the eve of US deployment of Euro-missiles) indicates the network knew it was producing a propaganda piece for the Left.

No sane person wants nuclear war. But panicking the Free World into disarmament invites attack by an enemy whose murders already run into the scores of millions and include the recent killing of 269 innocent men, women, and children on a civilian airliner.

It is not nuclear weapons but the commitment of aggression of the totalitarian regime in Moscow that is causing tension in the world today. Maintaining a strong military deterrent and stopping all aid and trade with the Soviets is the only way to keep that aggression in check. I think ABC performed a great disservice to freedom everywhere by airing this film designed to scare people defenseless.

If the network really wanted to render "a public service of almost unprecedented rank" it would produce a movie based on The Spike... or The First Circle... or Tortured For Christ or any of a score of other works showing the nature of the Communists who threaten us with nuclear weapons.

MRS. MARJORIE MILLS,
 Stockton, CA.

Warnings Ignored

EDITOR—Warnings over past decades against propping up the Soviet economy and helping build the Soviet war machines have been largely ignored.

Primarily, however, it has been the profit motive of big business and the One World aim of the internationalists that allowed the Communist system to survive at all.

One example is the long-term agreement with the Soviets for purchase of American grain—the Communist system itself could never produce—but nonetheless, grain that feeds the Red Army, the Soviet munitions workers and the secret police (KGB). To be sure, American farmers would be hurt from reduced grain markets; but there has to be a better way than propping up a system that has voted to bury us and that gives every indication of doing so.

Another example, is the transfer and theft of American high technology. Again the profit motive of the internationalists is to blame. Yankee ingenuity and know-how technology have been sold to the Soviets—all for a price. One of the most damaging sales was President Nixon's okay of transfer of high precision ball-bearing grinders in 1972. As a consequence, the Soviets developed extreme accuracy in their ICBMs, sufficient to knock out 90 percent of the US land-based ICBMs in a first strike.

Because of this trade policy, the Communists possess missiles they could not develop themselves. Therefore, they endanger the lives of millions of Americans. Moreover, this Nixon generosity has led directly to the 1983 Pentagon request for the MX missile system that will cost taxpayers over $100 billion while national security is in limbo.

Acting in Good Faith

EDITOR—In re the weatherization funds distributed by the Zia Senior Citizens' Center and disallowed by D.O.E., I would like to make two things clear:

1. Mrs. Barbara Ward, the present director of the Zia Center, had nothing to do with those weatherization funds. She was not employed by it until almost one year after the Senior Center discontinued the local weatherization program. The same is also true of our bookkeeper, Lela Sanders.

2. The woman who was director of the Zia Center at that time and her staff were acting in good faith and trying to provide a much-needed service to senior citizens in Lincoln County. There was never any intent to defraud anyone on their part.

The Carrizozo Woman's Club is the sponsoring agency for the Zia Senior Citizens' Center, and therefore is concerned about the reputation of the Center and its employees, both past and present.

LYN MILLER,
 President, Woman's Club.

true, as the National Review has archly observed, that reporters at that time "were on our side." Today we have reporters like Lyle Denniston of The Baltimore Sun, who has stated without reservation that if ever given the opportunity, he would steal military secrets from the desk of the Secretary of Defense. Mr. Denniston has added that he would willingly publish the top-secret plans for both the Normandy invasion as well as the Manhattan Project — which indicates the truth of the National Review's contention.

By striking contrast to the Seven House impeachmenters, the Big Media Bellyachers and the absolutely desperate editorial writers and columnists of The New York Times and The Washington Post, there is the (as yet widely unpublished) statement of a rather significant native of Grenada.

The Most Rev. Cuthbert Woodruffe is the Anglican Archbishop of the West Indies. He has issued the following statement: "Much has been said about the American intervention and the debate will no doubt continue, but the Christian community in Grenada has completely endorsed the American and Caribbean states' action and welcomed the rescue mission."

"There is hardly any doubt now that Grenada was on the verge of imperial action by Cuba, and everyone there seemed sure that plans were well laid for Grenada to be annexed by Cuba as a colony of Cuba and the Soviet bloc. The stockpiles of Russian weapons, the numbers of personnel from Soviet bloc countries found in Grenada was frightening. Grenadians are all agreed with Mr. Reagan's opinion, 'We got there just in time.'"

"There may be some anti-Americanism around the world, but in Grenada — over which the heel was raised and upon which it was about to fall — there is none except from the very small minority who were in with the Cubans anyhow."

"That the Queen's governor-general had to be rescued by the American forces from imprisonment and perhaps death in his own drawing-room... that political prisoners who were locked up in jail (for twenty-three hours a day in their cells) without trial and with no hope of release ever (some for over four years) are now back at home with their families is soon enough and blessings sufficient, and if no other good comes from the American and Caribbean intervention into Grenada, it is enough."

White Oaks

By ROSE VINSON
Toby Bergeron brayed the snow of last week to visit White Oaks, his first trip. Mr. Bergeron is from Westlake, LA and now lives in Ruidoso.

Also Millie and Shawn Muncy from Bingham. This young couple had seen White Oaks on PM Magazine and were interested to come see for themselves. I thoroughly enjoyed their visit and hope they will make a return trip when the weather is a little nicer.

Snow had arrived in White Oaks Friday night before deer season opened, with high winds. By Saturday morning around ten inches had accumulated. We had a rough week with snow and mud, broken vehicles and trying to get in some deer hunting and repairs at the same time.

Wes Mills has been trying to get his crossties to his house and is running into much the same problems. But we all managed to survive and the mud has dried. Wes has Joe Armstrong and John Cammack helping him and that is appreciated.

We met some hunters this last hunt who followed the rules and asked before driving or hunting on private land. We've written about the bad that happened but this time would like to thank all those who made this a good safe hunt and who left only good feelings behind. You are all welcome back next year.

Jason Vinson was sixteen Dec. 7 and Cinda will be thirteen the 17th. Happy Birthday to these two and to all who celebrate their birthday this month.

Duane and I are no longer managing the White Oaks Casino and Museum. We have turned it over to John and Betty Cammack who, we feel, will do a good job.

We have enjoyed our time there and have met a lot of interesting people and, we hope, have made some friends.

To all of you, friends, customers and neighbors alike, we wish you a Happy and Joyous Christmas and a safe New Year.

Crown Cowbells met Dec. 1 at the home of Eve Latham for the regular meeting plus the Christmas party. Myra Richards came from Roswell, Sue Maness from Dexter and Hazel Bickford from Cedarvale. Guests were Judi Stone and Carol Wells. Both joined as new 1984 members.

All enjoyed a delicious meal of ham, roast brisket, green enchiladas, cranberry relish, etc., served with Sangri, tea or coffee. Mrs. Wells brought a decorated cake showing Santa sweeping out a chimney with his pack beside him.

Eve called the meeting to order at 1:30 and led the pledge of allegiance. The creed was read by Linda Ponder, the collect by K. T. Sultemeier. Lee reported that Operation Respect was a success. The next meeting will be January 5 in the school recreation room. Anne Larremore is coffee hostess. All members are urged to attend the quarterly meeting Dec. 8 and 9 at the Alamogordo Holiday Inn. Ruby Davidson brought the door prize that was won by Lee.

Mrs. Latham gave all her officers hand crocheted slippers and received a cut glass bowl and a crocheted doily showing the Crown Cowbelle motif as a thank you for a job well done. Mrs. Latham gave each member a white taper with the individual's name inscribed on it and ribbon attached a small cowbell to each candle.

Gibbs, and grandmother, Mrs. Kennan Fuller. The cake was a double heart bearing the names and date of the wedding, Dec. 17. Cranapple punch, nuts, mints, and coffee were served with the cake. Preceptor Alpha Nu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met Monday afternoon at the home of Margaret Teague. Michele Rose was a guest. President Linda Cancilla presided over the business and ritual session. Eleanor Smith and June Tyree reported on places in Ruidoso where the Christmas party may be held. The Cree Meadows Country Club was selected and the date set for Dec. 17.

Mrs. Cancilla presented two programs from the cultural outline, "Career and Life Planning" and "The Nature of Change and How to Handle It".

She reviewed the book "Sidetracked Home Executive" by Pam Young and Peggy Jones. Roll call was answers to the question How organized are you? Most members are probably more organized than they think.

Author of the book started reorganizing their lives by the use of three by fives, one color of 3x5 cards for each letter of the alphabet, another color for the months of the year, and a third color for thirty one days of the month. Mrs. Cancilla said that she had started some of the suggested practices only to find that her husband or two small children had confiscated the book which she promptly replaced.

The program on change resulted in roundtable discussion. It is necessary to understand change and one's response to it. One should have reasons for accepting or rejecting change. Ignorance, excitement, inertia or items beyond one's control can be factors.

Gifts were exchanged. Christmas candles were used on the table and divider. Mrs.

Teague served ham and cheese sandwiches, salad, cheese twists, filled dates, hello dollies, mints, tea and coffee.

The speaker gave everyone a note pad as a hint to start reorganization plans. She also gave a box of carbohydrates to provide energy for the mental exertion.

The next meeting will be Jan. 9 at the home of Mrs. Smith.

Zozo FFA handling
many projects

During the past several weeks the Carrizozo FFA chapter has been getting back into the swing of things. Included in their activities has been the slaughtering and processing of beef, pigs and sheep, and catching up on their classroom activities.

Several new pens and a show ring are under construction at the vo ag. farm. Progress has been delayed for the past several days due to the lack of suitable weather conditions and the absence of the Ag. instructor, but they will soon be back at work to improve the value and productivity of the facilities.

They hope to have the show ring completed for use in the annual Carrizozo judging contest held in the spring. Last year's was a huge success.

The fruit sold in the recent fruit sale by the Carrizozo FFA members has come in. The fruit will be delivered to your house or businesses by the member who sold it to you within the next couple of days. If it has not already been delivered. There is some extra fruit in storage so if anyone would like to buy some, please contact Mr. Gaines.
