Halsnes of Norway takes Pro Ski International Race

By RUTH HAMMOND
Jarle Halsnes of Norway won the giant slalom race Saturday at Eagle Creek ski area. After placing second to Alain Navillod in the slalom Sunday, he then went on to win the final match against Navillod and claim the title at the US Open.

The sport of professional ski racing is one of the most demanding and competitive in the world of athletics. Years of training and hard work are judged and measured in thousandths of a second, as was the case when Halsnes won the match against Navillod by .036 seconds. Those milliseconds mean realizing the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, in this case it was $20,500 for the weekend's work.

The Pro Ski International tour is the proving ground for the top professional racers from around the world. Halsnes' win pushed him into first place. At the end of the tour, the overall winner will wear the crown of World Champion.

The Celebrity Pro Am race Saturday afternoon played an important role in the events surrounding the US Open. It gave amateurs the chance to run through the gates on a team made up of three amateurs and one pro. It is during this event that Pro Am participants get a chance to ski with, and be taught by, the best professional ski racers in the world. The pro captains gave a short clinic to their team members and gave them tips on how to best negotiate the triple elimination race course.

The winning team of the pro am was made up of professionals Ewald Zirbsegger of Austria and Ruidosoan's Clifford Deaton, Tommy Thomson and Chuck Wooddell. The Pro Am course was set off to the side of the main racing hill on the bottom half of the run for the 27 teams to have their competition.

Many celebrities were skiing on the teams. Barry Williams was on the third place team. Barry is now playing the role of Alexander Hannibal on the popular daytime series 'General Hospital,' but for seven years he played the role of Greg Brady on 'The Brady Bunch.' When not acting he is starring in plays such as 'Pippin' and 'Grease II.'

Lyle Waggoner was master of ceremonies at the Pro Am awards dinner Saturday night at Jerry Dales. Lyle has many television credits. He hosted over 400 segments of the game show 'It's Your Bet,' co-starred on 'The Carol Burnett Show' for seven years and starred with Lynda Carter on the 'Wonder Woman' television series.

Other celebrities in Ruidoso for the Pro Am included Richard Anderson, the only actor to have co-starred in two network series at the same time. He portrayed Oscar Goldman in 'The Six Million Dollar Man' and 'The Bionic Woman.' Richard has been skiing 20 years but this was his first time to ski at Ruidoso. He was enjoying the clear air and dry climate.

Raina English appeared on the 'Lawrence Welk Show' for ten years and is now performing in nightclubs all over the United States.

Christopher Holder plays the role of Kevin Bancroft on the hit daytime television series 'The Young and the Restless.'

Tim Culbertson is one of Hollywood's busiest actors, having guest-starred in over 35 television shows. He is a semi-regular on 'Hill Street Blues.'

Sharon Waggoner, wife of Lyle Waggoner, is a former Miss Missouri. She is an actress and a model, participates in many celebrity tennis tournaments throughout the country and is the national spokeswoman for the National Homes Corporation.

Bruce Penhall played the role of officer Bruce Nelson on 'Chips' and was recently voted one of America's sexiest athletes. Besides being a fine actor, he is a two-time world champion in speedway motorcycle racing. He is a frequent guest on 'Circus of the Stars.'

Robin Mattson created one of the most popular roles on daytime television as Heather Webber for ABC's 'General Hospital.' She started acting at the age of 7 and at 9 starred in 'Namy, the Killer Whale.' She has guest starred on many television shows and for two years starred as Hope Bauer on 'The Guiding Light.' She most recently appeared on 'Fantasy Island.'

Robert Walden received three Emmy nominations for his portrayal of the hard-bitten reporter Joe Rossi on the award winning series 'Lou Grant.' Robert just started skiing this year.

Adam West is one of those few actors who has been on the cover of 'Life Magazine.' He created the character 'Batman' who became famous throughout the world.

C'zozo school board names co-valedictorians

By RUTH HAMMOND
The Carrizozo 1984 graduating class will have co-valedictorians this year. Two students had the same grade point average and school board members named them at the regular meeting of Feb. 21. John Roueche and Mary Jane Ferguson will be co-valedictorians and Christetta Chavez will be salutatorian.

The board accepted the low bid of $1925 from Leandro Vega, Jr. for sidewalks and a retaining wall. Bid opening for the elementary building remodeling project will be Mar. 8 at 2 p.m. at the main office. Opening of bids for a new telephone system will be Mar. 13.

A special board meeting will be held Mon. Mar. 12 at 6 p.m. in the conference room to discuss the 1984-85 school budget. Dr. Miller reported that the legislature had failed to pass an act including increases for public education. Another special legislative session will probably be called in March. The board discussed possible ways of informing local legislators about the school's financial needs for next year.

The athletic director has encountered scheduling problems as a result of the new board policy on athletics. Carrizozo schools have been asked to play in the Hondo and Capitan Invitationals. The athletic director will have to decide, as Carrizozo cannot attend both of them. Board members agreed that Jr. High games can be played on Tuesday and Thursday if they start at 4:30. Carrizozo schools will join the Bean Valley Conference for track next year and look into joining the basketball conference in 1985-86 season.

Driver education classes will begin in April. The $20 fee per student will include 30 hours of classroom study and 6 hours of driving. A DWI presentation will be conducted. J. C. Richmond will be the instructor.

Quemado schools have agreed to buy the football scoreboard for $500 and 25 band uniforms at $20 per uniform. The band will receive the money for the uniforms.

The Vocational Advisory Committee held a meeting Feb. 20. A scholarship committee was selected and applications for the Vocational Scholarship are due on May 1. Betty Lou Snapps from APS had visited the child care program, was very pleased with it and would recommend it for an exemplary program award.

Kelly Sheehan won the mid-school spelling bee contest for the second year in a row and will represent Carrizozo schools.

A family living west of Bingham would like to send their child to kindergarten in Carrizozo next year. They live out of the local school district and cannot receive a feeder route from where they live. They would have to drive their child to the Bingham post office where Mrs. Hefker would pick up the student.

Dr. Miller asked the board for suggestions for the Summer Recreation Program. He mentioned that a Babe Ruth baseball team could be established with the school donating the equipment and someone from the community coaching the teams. The swimming pool will be open and the gym and weight room will be available for those interested.

The board adopted the P. L. 94-142 Resolution, federal money for the education of handicapped students. Carrizozo schools will receive $258 per student for the 55 students eligible in this district.

The board will have the option to accept or reject the money each year.

The board will adopt a notice of sale resolution of the school bonds at the Mar. 20 meeting. Sealed bids will be received at the April meeting.

A possibility of Carrizozo schools going to a 4-day week was discussed. The school would save on utilities, buses would run only 4 days and athletic trips could be scheduled on Fridays if the school had a 4-day week.

Dr. Miller had a meeting with Mrs. Burt to review her suggestions for the cafeteria. Mrs. Burt offered a menu rotation schedule which Dr. Miller agreed to consider.

The itinerary for the April 25 region VII school board's association meeting, to be held in Carrizozo, was reviewed. The school did not receive the grant from the Apple Education Foundation but will apply again.

The March 20 meeting will be held in Ancho to make it easier for people in that area to attend

Quick theft takes Chrysler

By P. E. CHAVEZ
Carrizozo Town Police continue to look for a two-tone 1978 Chrysler stolen March 3. The brown and yellow 2-door LeBaron model Chrysler was taken from a residence on Aspen Street.

Peter Baca, the driver of the vehicle, was a visitor that Saturday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Baroz. Earlier in the evening, Baca, unable to locate the keys to the vehicle, accepted a ride home leaving the Chrysler behind. The Baroz couple retired for the evening at 11:15 and Baca's vehicle was still on their property.

About 11:30 p.m. they noticed that the car was gone. A telephone call revealed that Baca had not returned for the car. Baca reported the car's disappearance to the Sheriff's Office at 11:37 p.m. Town policeman Stan Benson responded to the call.

Teacher resigns

By RUTH HAMMOND
The first emergency school board meeting in five years was called Sat., Mar. 3 at 7 p.m. Board members went into closed session to consider the resignation of special education teacher Tom Tracey.

The resignation will become effective the last day of school, May 25. School superintendent Dr. Jim Miller said the emergency session was necessary so that the school may begin canvassing the country for the position.

An applicant will need a B-C level in special education. B level is learning disabilities and C level is educable mentally retarded. Dr. Miller said, "It could be a difficult position to fill and we need to get started interviewing right away."

Subdividers fail to comply with regulations

The Lincoln County Board of Commissioners and the Lincoln County Planning and Zoning commission held a special joint workshop meeting to discuss subdivision regulations on Monday, March 5, 1984.

It has come to their attention that there have been sales of land in Lincoln County that have not been subdivided in accordance with the County and-or State Regulations, and do not believe it is fair to require some subdividers to comply with the County regulations and not require other subdividers to do so.

Therefore, after the entire County is surveyed, to each person alleged to have failed to comply with the County Subdivision Regulations. The letter will invite that person to appear before the Planning and Zoning Commission at a private hearing to allow that person the opportunity to explain his position.

Mary Ellen Payne, county home economist continues to test the recipes featured in the cook booklet she received at the workshop, 'Making Food Dollars Count.' The recipes emphasize economical foods. The recipes include dessert dishes. M.E.P. will share her hints on the preparation of dessert dishes, such as orange fluff and rice pudding.

An associate of hers has tried two of the 'Making Food Dollars Count' recipes. One of these recipes was macaroni salad for four people, 1/4 cup each at about 110 calories per serving.

To prepare, mix 2 cups cooked, drained, elbow macaroni with 1/4 cup sliced celery; 1/4 cup coarsely shredded carrot; and 2 tablespoons chopped onion. Mix 2 tablespoons salad dressing (mayonnaise-type); 2 teaspoon vinegar; 1 teaspoon prepared mustard and 1/2 teaspoon pepper. Stir into macaroni mixture. Mix well. Chill.

OPINION

● A THIN volume worth its weight in rubies has been published by Woodrow H. Sears Jr. of Hodega Bay, CA titled "Back in Working Order, How American Institutions Can Win the Productivity Battle." It tells why America isn't producing goods and services and what can be done about it. His credentials for his subject are impeccable—PhD, George Washington University; 20 years as management consultant to hundreds of corporations and organizations; lecturer, Marine officer, newspaper and radio reporter and photographer. Page 5 sets the theme: "In the fifty intervening years (since Roosevelt) governments have made it possible for people to live without working. Indeed, there are people who do not work, whose parents did not work, and whose children probably won't work either." Page 8: "Executives invited social scientists to turn parts of their organizations into laboratories for social change, and the literature suggests that managers were evaluated more on their interpersonal style than on their productivity." Business and industrial productivity fell as management, workers and politicians substituted government-funded social programs. Page 11: "Confrontation was one of the chief tools and tactics of the civil rights movement, and it seldom failed" in the crusade to reduce work and promote social inventiveness. "With sympathetic media coverage by television networks, everyone became participants in the latest contest of will and values on this continent since the Civil War." All that's just for openers. Read the book.

● ROBERT Aguilar, a federal judge in San Francisco, recently refused to extradite one William Quinn, an IRA terrorist wanted for murdering a London policeman, to England to stand trial. Aguilar, according to a London daily, set the killer free by ruling that the murder of the policeman wasn't a criminal act. The judge ruled that the murder was political and therefore was no crime. The message here seems to be that if you want to kill somebody, get him into a political discussion first! All I found out about Judge Aguilar is that he was a "child of the 60s" in the Peoples Republic of Berkeley. I called his office. "When was the judge appointed?" I asked the clerk. "I don't know," she replied. "Who does know?" I asked. "I don't know," she snapped. End of interesting and informative conversation.

● AGUILAR's legal logic is not without precedent in this country. In United States v. Eganons the US Supreme Court ruled that a person who commits crimes of violence as a means of forcing employers to pay higher wages and benefits cannot be prosecuted. The case involved acts of violence, just short of murder, by a union striker, all of which were punishable by the federal law known as the Hobbs Act. The court ruled: "... the (Hobbs) Act does not apply to the use of force to achieve legitimate labor ends." This simply means that union bosses can burn, bomb, vandalize, terrorize and even murder and escape federal prosecution because a "legitimate labor end" is whatever the labor bosses say it is. If they decide that murdering their employer is necessary to the union's "legitimate goal" of taking over his business, the boss is in a heap of trouble.

● EVERYBODY, I suppose, has some knowledge of what hell really is. The British seem to rely on this description, which certainly does not understate the case for not going there. Hell, the Britisher believes, is a place where the Germans are the police, the Swedish are the comedians, the Italians are the defense force, Frenchmen dig the roads, the Spanish run the railways, the Turks cook the food, the Irish are the waiters, the Greeks run the government—and the common language is Dutch. Repent!

● SWITZERLAND doesn't get involved in war. Americans know the Swiss people for their cheese, watches, yodeling, peasant costumes and the League of Nations. They don't know why war doesn't come to Switzerland as it does to its warring neighbors. We don't know how the Swiss stay neutral, or that it has no standing army, or even that it has a terribly democratic government. We don't know that in Switzerland all able-bodied men are in the army reserves, or that they are required to keep their army rifles in their homes, day and night. We have forgotten that they are very tough cowards who have been the finest mercenary fighters for as far back as 300 years. The famed Swiss Guard protected the kings of France. Last Sunday we got a glimpse of why the nasties of the world leave Switzerland alone. Swiss voters rejected by a 2-to-1 margin a proposal that would have abolished the mandatory military draft and created a volunteer army. Pacifists and left-wing groups and conscientious objectors forced the vote, hoping to substitute 18 months of "civilian service" for the mandatory 12 months in the military reserves. Swiss voters would have none of it. In the US, on the other hand, high school and college campuses are swarming with similar pacifists, agitators and conscientious objectors who "counsel" young men to refuse to register for the military draft. They are not deterred by the fact that their activities violate federal law, but they are aware that here they go unpunished for their acts of near-treason. In Switzerland, a conscientious objector is tried by military court. In a top-sided guessing game, which nation do you think has the best chances of survival?

WATCH OVER WASHINGTON

Virginia's presidential son-in-law may lust for top banana spot

By LES KINSOLVING
 RICHMOND — Virginia's handsome Governor Chuck Robb has been busy lately in emphatic denials that he has aspirations for the Democratic nomination — for the Vice Presidency.

Reports that he had this almost unprecedented political lusting in mind have been circulating ever since his successful transition from Lt. Governor to the highest office in the state that is known as "The Mother of The Presidency" (but which, as the cynics note, has not been pregnant in years).

Governor Robb's congenial press aide George Stoddard also explained that his very much doubts that the governor has ever had any desire to see the Executive Mansion in Washington (where he was wed to Miss Lynda Bird Johnson) changed in name from "The White House" to "The Rainbow House."

Such an idea was sent into orbit by two recent actions of Robb's Secretary of Commerce and Resources, Miss Betty Diener. For Miss Diener has evoked rave reviews for her Historic Revisions (or Revised History, if you will.) One of these raves came from Virginia's most widely circulated daily newspaper, The Richmond Times Dispatch:

"Miss Diener's highest duty seems to be to operate an Orwellian ministry of truth, dedicated to rewriting history to make it more palatable."

This editorial observation was occasioned by Miss Diener's order that tourist-promotional material no longer suggest visits to "Virginia's Historic Plantations" but visits to "Virginia's Historic Manor Houses" along the James River.

Miss Diener's apparent intention to eliminate a term which she imagines might offend one or more descendants of plantation slaves (who are now voters) backfired into something which is virtually unprecedented: a unifying of the United Daughters of the Confederacy with the NAACP — in opposition to this attempt to castrate history.

Miss Diener's previous triumph along this dubious line was her order to delete from any Virginia tourist promotional material any reference to the Virginia State Song, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," because it contains such forbidden words as "Massa" and "Darkies." (Miss Diener has not — as yet, reportedly — drawn any beads upon copies of either Huckleberry Finn or Gone With The Wind in Virginia's libraries.)

Yet another Diener development was her changing the state's famed tourist-promotional motto, "Virginia Is For Lovers," which has been either distributed or emulated in bumper stickers all over the nation.

How did the Robb Administration improve on this classic?

Brilliantly. With soaring poetic achievement and memorable promotional ingenuity.

Now "Virginia Is For Lovers" has been changed by Miss Diener to the following: "THESE ARE EXCITING TIMES IN VIRGINIA"

(Exclamation point?) "This was recommended," explained Stoddard, "by an ad agency in Philadelphia. 'Virginia Is For Lovers' just wasn't pulling."

Governor Robb has evoked some additional static by appointing lobbyist William Thomas (Mobil Oil and a pipeline from Southwest Virginia to Tidewater) to the board of Virginia State University in Petersburg — and lobbyist Thomas's wife to the State Board of Education — and lobbyist Thomas's brother, Henry, to Virginia's State Commission on Game and Inland Fisheries.

This series of one-family appointments moved Robb's fellow Democrat, State Senator Dudley Emick, to declare:

"It's difficult for me to determine from the Administration's perspective exactly where the personal friendship ends and his legislative liaison and lobbying begins."

When asked about this Senator's comment, Robb press aide Stoddard replied that the Governor had no comment on this "because Emick says things like that all the time."

Senator Emick was not available for comment. But he might have additional observations if he were to ask just how much the LBJ Corporation of Austin, Texas, claimed as a tax writeoff for its donation of radio station WZLX in Fairfax, VA, to the nearby George Mason University.

This question — which the LBJ Corporation says is not the public's business — might be interesting in light of the fact that Mrs. Charles Robb is a majority stockholder in this corporation, which LBJ tried to sell, without success. When George Mason U. (an institution of the State of Virginia, Charles Robb, Governor) accepted this donation, the proposal for the transfer, as submitted to the Federal Communications Commission, was written by Dr. Michael Kelley, an employee of this state university.

When asked about the possibility of conflict of interest, Dr. Kelley became annoyed enough to refer to the questioner as a recital office, in a vernacular which is not often associated with most cultured ideals of education.

INSIDE RELIGION

Reagan spokespersons shy about responses to religious questions

By Rev. Lester Kinsolving

WASHINGTON — President Reagan's speech to the National Religious Broadcasters Convention here on Jan. 30 was frequently interrupted by enthusiastic applause. But nobody got a chance to ask Mr. Reagan questions about it.

So, since this column is the only religion-oriented medium which regularly covers the White House, I sought diligently to obtain some explanation for a number of puzzling things which the President said in this speech. But if I had been Fritz Mondale's brother (who is a former Unitarian minister) with bubonic plague, and carrying a bomb, I might have gotten more response from Reagan staffers, than when I asked some questions about his religious speech. For example:

Karna Small, a warmly congenial and pulchritudinous former TV star, whom I knew years ago in San Francisco, is the Director of Media Liaison for the White House. But when she learned the nature of my inquiries, it was as if I had come bearing both herpes and AIDS. With all of her beguiling charm, Karna begged off and earnestly pleaded that they be passed on to:

Faith Whitlesey — who was not available for comment, time after time; so I tried:

Carolyn Sundt, the Associate Director for Public Liaison, who, I was informed, has been handling most of the religious questions since the departure of special assistant Mort Blackwell (reportedly in a huff, due to Mr. Reagan's long delay in addressing the imprisonment of the conservative clergy in Nebraska.) But Carolyn, who sounds both sincere and affable, explained that she would have to secure the permission of the White House Press Office in order to answer any of my questions on this matter. The proprietor of the White House Press Office is a Mr. Larry Speakes, who usually enjoys disposing of any and all religion questions with his own inimitable brand of Mississippi Delta wit. So I tried:

Elizabeth Penniman, the researcher for the President's speechwriters department, who, I learned, had researched this speech. But Ms. Penniman resolutely refused to give even her name, rank and serial number or even what training or experience she has had that qualify her to write a Presidential speech on religion. Instead she asked me to repeat my questions and to give her a day to reflect on them before she would comment. I did. She didn't. So:

I next tried President Reagan's chief speechwriter, Ben Elliott. Mr. Elliott, a stern-sounding fellow, provided only partial answers to two of my eight questions, which I read to him:

QUESTION: President in this speech said: "Within the covers of that single book are all the answers to all the problems that face us today...if we'd only read and believe." Did the President, when he discussed this speech with you, explain why he considers The Bible to be a "single book" rather than sixty-six books — many of which appear to contain contradictory statements to each other?

THE WHITE HOUSE: He meant that The Bible is all bound between two covers. I have no comment on the comparison of Biblical books.

QUESTION: Did the

Terrorist attacks becoming common

WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 8, 1983 — A powerful bomb exploded in the U.S. Capitol Building last night, claiming the lives of 14 Senators and seriously injuring 12 others. The blast tore through a hallway adjacent to the U.S. Senate Chamber at 10:55 p.m. Just as the Senate was adjourning. A group calling itself the Armed Resistance Unit claimed responsibility for the bombing and said the action was taken in response to U.S. "military aggression" in Grenada and Lebanon....

That's the way the story could have read, had the Senate not cut short its planned late-night session by adjourning at 7:08 p.m. on November 7. As it was, the bomb went off after the building was deserted. There was more than $250,000 in damage, but no one was hurt. If the Senate had stayed in session late — as it did the night before — the toll would have been much greater.

We should not be surprised when our nation's lawmakers become the target of such an attack. Since 1968, CIA files record over 3,000 terrorist incidents worldwide, and almost half of them were directed at U.S. citizens or property.

Some members of Congress have demanded courts martial for the military commanders caught by surprise when terrorists bombed the Marine headquarters in Lebanon. Yet by the same standard Congressional leaders could be held accountable for allowing someone to bomb the Capitol! Indeed, it was Congress (along with various administrations) who, in the name of "civil liberties," restricted our intelligence agencies and damaged our ability to protect the national security.

In 1973, the Office of Management and Budget failed to allocate funds for the Subversive Activities Control Board, thus shutting it down.

In 1974, the Hughes-Ryan Amendment required the President to approve covert actions in advance and then report the actions to a congressional committee. The Privacy Act barred the FBI from keeping files on "First Amendment" activities. This meant that the FBI could no longer keep files of subversive newsletters or press reports on the statements of potentially violent subversives.

Also in 1974, the Freedom of Information Act gave the courts the power to decide whether documents were improperly classified. The act discouraged informants and foreign governments from giving information to the FBI and CIA.

Between 1974 and 1976, the CIA demanded the retirement of 2,000 officers.

In 1976, the House Internal Security Committee was abolished. The Rockefeller Commission and Senator Frank Church (D-Idaho) reported on CIA "wrongdoing," exposing many covert operations and demoralizing the agency.

In 1977, the files of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee were ordered destroyed. Two years later, Senator Edward Kennedy (D-Massachusetts) managed to abolish the subcommittee.

By 1978, no fewer than eight congressional committees had oversight of CIA and FBI funding. The Foreign Service Intelligence Act required a warrant before electronic surveillance could be used as a measure against foreign spies; before a tap could be placed, the FBI was obliged to prove that a terrorist group received "substantial" direction from abroad.

During the Carter Administration, the CIA director removed 830 officers from the agency's covert operation section (the section attempting to counter terrorism). President Carter de-emphasized Human Intelligence Gathering and relied President, when he discussed this speech with you, explain where it is in The Bible that he has discovered what he termed "all of the answers to all of the problems we face today" — such as all of the answers to cocaine addiction, contraception, tobacco addiction, nuclear energy, laser and particle beam warfare and the 100,000 blacks who are reported as being held as slaves in the West African nation of Mauritania?

THE WHITE HOUSE: Go ahead with your next question.

QUESTION: Did the President tell you that he himself reads The Bible more than he attends church services? (Our President has not, reportedly, darkened a single church door since last Easter.)

THE WHITE HOUSE (after a long silence): Go ahead; read your next question.

QUESTION: The President said: "Medical science doctors confirm that when the lives of the unborn are snuffed out, they often feel pain; pain that is long and agonizing." Which medical doctors have confirmed this?

THE WHITE HOUSE: A medical study reported this.

QUESTION: Which medical study?

THE WHITE HOUSE: Well, I don't know if right here at my finger tips. (But Mr. Elliott did hint that he would get it, along with answers to all of my questions. "When?" I asked. "Someday," he replied.)

QUESTION: The President said: "Fifteen million children will never laugh, never sing, never know the joy of human love, will never strive to heal the sick, feed the poor or make peace among nations. . . . Abortion has denied them the first and most basic of human rights." My question is, did the President tell you how many millions of unborn children will never laugh or sing because of contraception?

THE WHITE HOUSE: No comment.

QUESTION: When the President said: "How can we survive as a free nation when some decide that others are not fit to live and should be done away with?" — does this mean he has changed his mind about supporting the death penalty?

THE WHITE HOUSE: No comment.

QUESTION: When the President said: "I believe no challenge is more important to the character of America than restoring the right to life of all human beings," does this mean that he will side with the Vatican and introduce legislation to ban contraceptives as well as abortion?

THE WHITE HOUSE: What's the next question?

QUESTION: The President said: "How much better off might Americans be if all of us tried a little harder to live by the Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule." Could you tell us how — or if — the President will begin again to live by the Fourth Commandment? (Remember the Sabbath Day, to keep it holy"). And could you tell us how the President believes that an alcoholic or a cocaine addict should go about following the Golden Rule?

THE WHITE HOUSE (after a long pause): Is that all of the questions you have? I replied that it was, for the present. But since the conclusion of this telephone conversation with the Chief of Presidential Speechwriters, I have begun wondering

ASK DR. DAN

Q: I need to lose weight and would like to use diet pills. Why won't my doctor prescribe them for me? T. F.

A: Some people have medical conditions which make it dangerous to take these types of appetite suppressants. High blood pressure, angina, strokes and other blood vessel problems can all be worsened.

The ability of these drugs to suppress the appetite will generally only last for two weeks. An additional problem with using drugs is that the weight lost will usually return after the drug is stopped. A more successful approach to long term weight loss includes:

- 1.) Regular exercise (most overweight people are less active than lean individuals)
- 2.) Restriction of calories (best accomplished by eliminating high calorie-low nutritional value foods such as candy, cake, pie, soft drinks and other refined sugars)
- 3.) Behavior modification

Q: Why is ice more effective for sprains, bruises and other soft tissue injuries than the old fashioned "soaking in hot water and epsom salts"? Y. L.

A: Sprains (stretched or torn ligaments that hold the bones together) and strains (torn muscles) are followed by a 24 to 48 hour period of swelling. This is due to bleeding and fluid leakage into the area around the injury. Ice helps reduce swelling by causing the blood in the area to shrink. Lessen discomfort. Other treatment for acute sprains-strains includes elevating the injured part (to keep swelling down) and immobilizing the area with splint or sling. Resting the injured area until pain and swelling are mostly gone will speed healing and lessen the chance of further injury to an already weakened ligament or muscle.

EXERCISE TO RESIST STRESS

Why? The intensive work that a modern lifestyle demands places tremendous physical and mental stress on the body. This type of stress tends to tighten the muscles to the point of spasm. The exercises that meet the requirements for muscle tone, strength, flexibility and weight control are the exercises that will help to relax these tightened muscles and help eliminate stress. You may say "I get plenty of exercise in my job or when I do chores." But in your work you may be using the same muscles over and over again. Your work and your chores can make you tired, but not necessarily fit, you need a total fitness exercise plan, which cannot really be achieved through normal daily activities. A daily exercise plan will not only help you resist stress, but it will remove fatigue, it restores muscle tone, it improves your posture and brings a healthy glow to your face, skin and eyes, that will make you look more vital, energetic and younger looking. When you look better, you definitely are better. It shows on your face, and even in the way you walk down the street.

Today's Workout: Hip and thigh fitness.

Primary Muscles Used: Quadriceps, adductor, magnus.

Type of Exercise: Toning and strengthening.

If you have a problem with "saddlebags" on your thighs, and they are caused by out-of-shape muscles, then today's workout will be very helpful. However, if they are caused by excessive fatty deposits, you will also need the help of a proper diet, and also by using the big muscles of your legs aerobically, to lose the fat.

Purpose: To firm and tone the thighs and shape the entire leg. Also, helps stimulate the circulation.

Breathing: Do not hold your breath. Inhale and exhale steadily throughout the entire exercise.

LIFT HIP LEG SCISSORS

Begin by lying on your back. Lift your legs, hips and buttock by pushing upward with hands on your lower back. Toes should be pointing at the ceiling. In that position spread legs apart as far as possible and bring them together in a crossed position and repeat. Begin by doing 20 repetitions and increase to 2 sets of 20 repetitions.

Results: Beautiful firmed and toned thighs.

Next Week: Abdominal fitness.

Sierra Blanca receives 25 inches new snow

ALAMOGORDO, NM—A late winter storm brought new snow to all Districts of the Lincoln National Forest this past week, but it is melting away as the weather warms. Smokey Bear District reported eight to ten inches of snow district-wide, with Sierra Blanca Ski Area receiving 25 inches of new snow. The Cloudercroft District received only four to five inches, not enough to reopen Silver Snowplay Area. Guadalupe District had about six inches of the white stuff, and Mayhill reported ten inches.

Wood cutting areas are closed. Visitors can call the District offices for latest fuelwood information and driving conditions. Numbers to call are: Smokey Bear at Ruidoso, 237-4095; Cloudercroft, 882-2551; Guadalupe at Carlsbad, 885-4181; and Mayhill, 887-3411.

Arbor Day will be observed in New Mexico on Friday, March 9—it is a time when hopes and dreams of lovely trees for future generations to enjoy are planted along with each tree-planting ceremony held by schools or civic groups. Three Rivers Campground on the Smokey Bear District, and James Canyon Campground, near Mayhill, are the only facilities open for winter camping, other campgrounds and picnic areas are closed until spring. Fishing continues to be fair on the Penasco River near Mayhill.

Capitan takes regional--looks to state contest

It took two overtimes for the Capitan Tigers to edge by the Cloudercroft Bears 67-66. Todd Proctor led the way with 28 points. This March 3 action in Ft. Sumner saw Danny Cummins, Eddie Davis and Dewey Keller also score in double figures.

The Bears took a 28-22 halftime lead with Proctor and Castillo on the bench most of the 2nd quarter in foul trouble.

The Tigers came back in the third quarter to tie up the score with 6 unanswered points. The game was played on an even basis with the score tied at the end of regulation play.

With seconds to play in overtime a "prayer" shot by the Bears put the game in double overtime. With the buzzer about to go, off Castillo of the Tigers was fouled. Castillo sank the 1st of two free throws and the Tigers enjoyed their second victory in 48 hours.

Two days earlier the Tigers had stopped the Mountainair Mustangs 70-45 on the same court. The Tigers dominated the boards and were able to stop Archuleta, the Mustang big gun, the last three quarters. Cummins, coming back from an ankle injury, had a good game for the Tigers. Proctor helped the Tiger cause with 20 points.

The Tigers must get by Cimarron on March 7 and the winner of the Reserve-Texico game on March 8 to advance to the final game to be played in the "Fit" March 10 at 7 p.m.

NONFAT DRY MILK

Use nonfat dry milk in recipes and as a beverage. It's less expensive than fluid milk, especially if you buy it in the large box. A cup of hot cocoa using the prepared dry milk will warm up a cold, chilly morning.

COSTS REDUCED

Substitute dry beans and peas, peanut butter, and eggs for meat some of the time to vary meals and reduce cost. These foods provide protein and many of the same nutrients found in meat.

INEXPENSIVE NUTRIENTS

Use small servings of meat, poultry, and fish, and rely on more economical foods - potatoes, rice, macaroni products, and breads - to fill in meals. These foods are inexpensive sources of nutrients and an essential part of a balanced diet. Contrary to popular belief, these starchy foods aren't high in calories...unless extras such as sour cream, margarine, butter, jam, or jelly are added.

GENERIC AND STORE BRAND

Try generic or store brand items. These are usually less expensive than brand name foods, yet often similar in quality.

COUPONS AND SALES

Use coupons and watch for store specials on foods your family normally eats. But beware! Not all couponed items and specials are bargains, even at discounted prices.

Nice days last week warmed to 60 degrees on the 1st and 2nd after dropping to 10 degrees on Feb. 27. Then Sunday afternoon the snow started with 8 inches on the ground by Monday morning. The moisture content was 0.24. The highway crew worked all night.

Crown Cowbelle met Thursday at the home of Eleanor Smith with 18 members and one guest, Linda Dobbs, enjoying the spaghetti luncheon. Zelma Atkinson came from Belen, Sue Maness from Dexter, Myra Richards from Roswell and Ruth Wilson from Ancho. Eve Latham presided and again introduced the four newest members present, Hazel Bickford, Yvonne Jones, Judy Stone and Carol Wells.

Members expressed pleasure that the Smokey Bear stamp is to be issued first from the Capitan post office.

Mrs. Latham announced the date of the District One meeting March 1 in Santa Fe. The state meeting is March 29-31 at the Albuquerque Convention Center. Ag Week is March 16-22 with National Ag Day March 20. Observation Ag Week in Corona will be postponed until the first week in April because of the spring school break and the state Cattlemen's convention. There are tentative plans for a petting zoo as part of Ag Week at school.

Carol Wells and Linda Ponder were appointed to the aprons-bonnets committee. Others are making forty-five potholders in bovine shapes to be used as favors for the National Beef Cookoff in September. Mrs. Ponder will bring a large straw basket, and members are asked to indicate what each will bring for the chest so advertising may begin. Proceeds go to the Beef Cookoff. Longhorn pins are being sold for the same purpose.

Crown Cowbelle will have a booth at the Corona Summer Festival August 11 and will sell cookbooks, jerky, napkins, food and chances on the treasure chest and quilt. Sue Maness, Marie Owen and Sue Ponder were named to the yearbook committee. Linda Ponder reported on the Lincoln County Ranch tour to be held June 9 in the Hondo Valley area. A meeting March 15 will be held to check out the route and to finalize plans for the lunch and tour. Crown will furnish the ditty bags. Suggestions for filling the bags are welcome.

Crown will donate the Lincoln County Fair championship female beef trophy. Nominations for Father of the Year must be in by April 15.

Carol McConnell presented the president with a mooring cow for her collection. Lee Sulzmeier reported on the dishwasher needed for the school lunch room. A commercial tray washer will cost at least $1,000. Options being considered include direct purchase, lease-purchase and rental based on the number of loads per month.

Mrs. Maness presented Linda Ponder, Crown Cowbelle of the Year, with a wall hanging. Mrs. Maness had made an original of filet crochet with appropriate symbols, placed over a blue background and framed.

The next meeting will be April 5 at the school recreation room with Ruby Davidson, Myrtle Davidson and Carol McConnell coffee hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogene Alford and Roe Ann went to Deming and Cotton City Friday to greet their first grandson and nephew, Nathan Michael Tracey. Mrs. Alford is staying with the family this week.

Kayla and Arley Dial were weekend guests of their cousin, Sara Foster. Mrs. Heronemus took them back to Estancia as she went home Sunday afternoon.

Kathi Garfield, bride-elect of Wade Jackson, was honored with a delightful miscellaneous shower Saturday afternoon in the school library. Hostesses were Sandra Alford, Myrtle Davidson, Jeannette Foster, Shannon Garfield and Teresita Stewart. They used Miss Garfield's chosen colors of cream and shades of blue in table appointments and food. The table was covered with a light blue cloth with dark blue streamers. Three baskets containing cream and blue roses with cream candles centered the table. The napkins were light blue and some of them were arranged in fan shape in porcelain napkins rings as part of the table decoration. Refreshments included finger sandwiches, blue and cream mints, nuts, blue deviled eggs, blue macaroni salad, blue daiquiri punch and a cake made by Richard Lightfoot. The round cake had cream icing with blue trim, unicorn head with blue roses for the mane.

Mrs. Carroll Jackson, mother of the prospective bridegroom, was the lucky winner of the potato drop, a hilarious contest. She won also the prize for finding Kathi's name on the bottom of her plate. Sherri Lueras won the prize for finding Wade's name on the bottom of her cup. These prizes were little books of recipes.

Out of town guests included Sue Garfield, mother of the bride-to-be, Mrs. Bernice Bratcher and Mrs. Steve Harkey, Artesia, Mrs. Carroll Jackson, Mrs. John Jackson, Mrs. Effie Lamon and Michelle Lamon, all of Lake Arthur, Sherrill Bradford, El Paso and Mary Heronemus, Gallup.

Skeen appoints Dacy and Kimsey in Lincoln county

WASHINGTON, DC—Congressman Joe Skeen, R-NM, announced today that Wayne Dacy and Ms. Dorothy Holt Kimsey will serve as finance co-chairmen in Lincoln County for his 1984 re-election campaign.

"I can't tell you how pleased I am to have people of this caliber working for me," Skeen said. "Having them on my side makes what I do a great deal easier. They are hard working and dedicated and I appreciate their help."

Dacy is president of Service Contractors, Inc. and a partner in C.S.D., Inc. in Ruidoso. He is a graduate of Texas A&M University and was named an "Outstanding Young Man of America" in 1980. He is a former director of the Lincoln County Home Builders Association and the Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce and serves on the board of Security Bank in Ruidoso.

Ms. Kimsey was born and raised in Midland, TX, and is a member of an old pioneer ranch family in that area. She has long been active in Republican politics in the Ruidoso area and has served on the symphony board.

"Joe Skeen represents New Mexico in Congress well," Dacy said. "I've been a supporter of his for a long time and I am pleased with what he has done in Washington. We need to keep him working for us there."

Ms. Kimsey said she is "looking forward to Campaign '84. Joe Skeen is a good Congressman and New Mexico is fortunate to have him working for them. Let's keep him there."

33 schools, 7 chapters, 750 students turn out

By GENEVA MAXWELL
Carrizozo FFA and FFA Alumni were slightly surprised by the turnout at the local judging contest held on Saturday the third of March. Thirty-two schools, and over 500 students were expected to attend the contest, with the final total coming out to 33 schools, seven county 4-H chapters and approximately 750 students.

Out of 12 possible contest areas, 10 were held at the Carrizozo contest. These contests include the following: Land, which was headed by Randall Mansell, was won by the Honda chapter with Alice Bonky from Honda as high individual; Entomology, headed by Hal and Woody Mignon Sims and Woody Schlegel, was won by the Tatum chapter, and Melvin Franklin from Hagerman was the high individual; the horse contest was set up by Gordon Barham and Bob Curtias and won by the Goddard chapter with Lisa Narin from Tucuman as the high individual.

4-H horses was won by the DeBaca County team and Lynnette McKibben from the Lincoln County 4-H was the high individual; Meats identification and classes were put together by Mike Gaines and Danny Ware. The Meat for the contest was donated by Carrizozo FFA and FFA Alumni members. This contest was won by the Roswell-Goddard chapter, and Ronnie Neal from Hatch was high individual.

The livestock contest was organized by Billy Bob Shafer, Allen Langley, Alton Wilson, Morgan Maxwell, Gary Hightower, Jim Cooper, Stirling Spencer and Jimmy Green. Goddard walked away with the first place plaque, but Bret Smith from Hot Springs High School took high individual; 4-H livestock was won by the DeBaca County team and Gary Ratliff from DeBaca was the high individual.

The farm management test was put together by Bob and Judy Hemphill, won by the Elida chapter FFA and Janell Brown from Estancia was the high individual in the contest; crops samples were set up for the contest by Woody Schlegel and Hal and Mignon Sims. David Fraxler from the Melrose chapter was the high individual and helped his team to first place in that area.

Ag Mechanics was put together by Randy Rhue, Linda Gibson and Lucy Rickman, and was won by the Roswell chapter with David Battin from Roswell as the high individual; Ag Mechanics was a district contest hosted by the Carrizozo chapter at their invitational, and the Carrizozo team won first place in that contest in the district, with Steve Stearns as high individual from Carrizozo. However, as the Carrizozo chapter did not participate on the invitational level the results were not posted as Carrizozo having won that contest area here. The district results will go on the district records, as the rest of district competition starts next week.

The wool contest was headed by Scott Shafer, Pete Gnatkowski, Mike Cassabone, and Rick Richardson, Mike Hart from Goddard chapter earned high individual, and helped his team to take home the first place plaque. Wool for this contest was donated by Knollene McDaniel, Tommy Knight and the Roswell Wool and Mohair Company; the 4-H wool award went to the DeBaca County chapter, and Shane Drake from DeBaca earned a high individual in the contest; Joel Pafford and Ben Hansen arranged the Wildlife contests, which the Goddard chapter won with Robert Kashoeki from their chapter as the high individual. The all-over Sweepstakes winners were the teams from the Roswell-Goddard school.

Arranging and holding the contest areas is just part of the work, and the Carrizozo FFA would like to thank all of the people who helped out in the tabulation room—all day long. Wally Ferguson was the brave leader of the strongminded persons who swam through the flood of numbers created by the overflow of participants. These people include the following: Sue Stearns, Doris Maxwell, Phyllis Schlegel, Rosemary Zink, Linda Gibson, Bob and Judy Hemphill, Jim Miller, Eugenia Vega, Stacy Wilson, Charlotte Archuleta, Cis Grant, Anne Ferguson, Johnson Stearns, Jan Barham, Walt Wilson, Harry Riser, Joy Gallacher, Mary Hasenbuehler, Susan Wells, Randy Rhue, Joelyn Pafford and Ginger Shafer.

Also all of the Carrizozo FFA members who were group leaders, card runners, and general helpers on the days before the contest when there was meat to process, animals to be taken care of, tests to write, and wool to lay out so that the contest would be a success. Out in the middle of all of the activity, there was Wes Lindsay, Roy Dow, Morgan Maxwell, Bob Stearns, Bill Gallacher, Dennis Sidebottom, Mary Ann Patterson, Ken Wells and Hoot Gibson all working in the concession and hamburger stand.

For judging contest

THE horse contest coordinated by Gordon Barham and Bob Curtias was among 10 contest areas in which 33 schools and seven 4-H chapters participated in. Other areas in the event hosted by Carrizozo FFA were land, entomology, horse, meats, livestock, farm management, crops, ag mechanics, wool and wildlife.
