

Garbage cans not needed-

Council approves waste disposal system

By RUTH HAMMOND
A special meeting of the Carrizozo board of trustees held last Friday for the opening of bids on the contracting of solid waste collection resulted in the signing of a contract with Alamo Waste, Inc. doing business in Lincoln County as Waste Control of New Mexico.

Waste Control offered a transfer type system. They will operate an unmanned transfer site with a 20 or 30 cubic yard roll-off container with a ramp for easy loading by the residents of Carrizozo. The rubbish in the container would be disposed of in the Lincoln County Sanitary Landfill. At the present time the container will be in the landfill being used by Carrizozo. Trustees will decide later if the container should stay there or be relocated. The transfer type system will eliminate the need to dig more pits or look for another site for the landfill.

The bid of $3,300 per month from Waste Control was the only bid received. This bid will include each residential being provided with a 90 gallon kart at no additional cost. Waste Control is responsible for replacing or repairing and the resident is responsible for cleaning the kart. Businesses will be provided with larger containers from the company.

Waste Control has been contacting businesses this week to make arrangements for what size container and how many pickups per week are needed. These schedules will be reported to City Hall.
Trustee Bob Hemphill asked that residents be informed they should no longer buy 30 gallon trash cans. The 90 gallon karts have a handle and two wheels. It can be stored on private property until collection day and rolled out at that time. The dog-proof kart has a strap to keep the lid in place in case it is tipped or blown over. This should keep trash from blowing and stop animals from scattering garbage.

Waste Control has all the necessary equipment and support vehicles to provide Carrizozo with the best service possible. They have offered to lease the garbage trucks and Caterpillar from Carrizozo for $50 per unit. If trustees decide to put the equipment up for bids, Waste Control will bid on it.

Waste Control offered to hire both employees that have been in the sanitation department. At this time, Freddie Padilla has agreed to work for them. The company will provide uniforms and full benefits for employees. Padilla had been working in a temporary capacity in the sanitation department and had not been eligible for benefits from the town.

Waste Control will start running the route immediately. It will take up to 60 days for all containers and karts to be placed. Residential pickup will be once a week with no increase in rates planned for this time. Current residential rates are $5 per month.

Businesses have been having collection three times a week for $8.75 per month. These rates will be raised to where the residential rates are no longer subsidizing business rates. A hearing will be held Monday at 6 p.m. in City Hall for public input on proposed rate increases for businesses.

Town property, City Hall, parks, and churches will receive collection service at no charge.

The bid of $3,300 includes constructing the ramp at the transfer site providing all required signs, and maintaining the site to meet all Environmental Improvement Division requirements. The transfer site will be a modified landfill. Animals can't get in it and the trash will not blow around the surrounding area as it does now. If it should happen to catch fire, it will be contained in the 20 or 30 cubic yard container. It will be taken to the Lincoln County Sanitary Landfill once a week to be dumped. When dead animals are placed in the container, it must be dumped within 24 hours to meet EID regulations. The transfer site will be unmanned.

Waste Control has been providing garbage collection and disposal to the City of Hobbs and Lea County since 1974. They also provide service to Farmington, Bloomfield, and San Juan County. They operate the Hobbs-Lea County Sanitary Landfill, the Farmington Sanitary Landfill, and the Bloomfield Transfer Site.

C'ozzo school board-

Pool opens soon, teachers placed under contract

The Carrizozo board of education hired two new teachers at the June 19 meeting.

Mrs. Susan King has taught in El Paso for eight years. She has been hired to teach special education for the 1984-85 school year. She will work with one student half a day all year. Her contract is for 93 and one half days. Mrs. King has a masters degree in physical education and has had coaching experience. She has shown an interest in being head volleyball coach.

Mrs. Carol McKinney has been hired to teach language arts and this will include production of the annual. Mrs. McKinney has certificates in several areas, has experience in producing an annual, and she is bi-lingual. She has taught in Magdalena several years. Mrs. McKinney will be commuting from Tularosa where she lives.

School Superintendent Dr. Jim Miller announced that Carrizozo High School had been chosen as one of three New Mexico schools to receive the award by the President's National Commission on Educational Excellence. Three representatives from the school will go to the White House in late September or early October to receive an American flag and a plaque.

The award is the highest award any school can receive. Other New Mexico schools to receive the award were Albuquerque West Mesa High School and Jefferson Middle School in Albuquerque. The three New Mexico schools were chosen from 555 schools nominated by school superintendents in every state except Maryland and New Jersey. The 202 winning schools are from 44 states and the District of Columbia, plus three Defense Department schools in West Germany for military families.

A review team from Washington were in Carrizozo in April to make an on site visit. Experts from outside the government rated the winning schools on what the Education Department called 14 "attributes of successful schools." Other areas looked at by the experts were how students performed on achievement and minimum competency tests, their success after graduation, student and teacher attendance rates, rates of student suspensions, and awards for students and teachers. Carrizozo High School had 95 students in the four grades this past year.

Other business conducted during the regular school board meeting:

The bid of $18,726 was accepted from Western Bus Sales for a 20 passenger school bus. It will have a Wayne chassis and body and be powered by a 350 cubic inch Chevrolet V8. The bus will have automatic transmission, power steering, power brakes, and dual wheels on the rear.

Two bids were received for the solarium-vestibule. The bids in the amount of $36,410 and $56,029 were substantially over architects estimates. Both bids were rejected.

The largest adult class ever is now enrolled in adult basic education. Classes are held for the 16 students three times a week at Fort Stanton. A video tape and monitor have been bought and also a micro computer which may be used in ABE.

Issuance of the General Obligation Bonds will be July 2

instead of June 1 due to an overestimation of transfer of funds. The school district will lose interest but this option allows the district to remain legal.

Progress at the elementary school is on or ahead of schedule. The vo-ag shop is being rewired. Wiring is being put in for four new welding stations. The school will try to sell 50 old four foot fluorescent light fixtures for $10 each.

The filter system has been installed at the swimming pool. Any changes at the pool must be approved by the Environmental Improvement Division in Roswell. The pool is supposed to have a one foot slope every 12 feet. The swimming pool should be open soon.

Evaluation of the asphalt surface of the track shows that a herbicide is needed that will go down and kill the roots of weeds as well as sterilize the soil.

Board members agreed to enter a contract with Western Assurance Co., Inc. to recover social security taxes paid on sick leave for a three year period. IRS ruled that they should not have been deducted from sick leave.

Six students have signed up for the summer program in Chapter 1.

The American's Creed

I believe in the United States of America, as a government of the People, by the People, for the People; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a Democracy in a Republic; a Sovereign Nation of many Sovereign States; a perfect Union, one and inseparable, established upon those principles of Freedom, Equality, Justice and Humanity for which American Patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes.

I therefore believe it is my duty to my Country to love it; to support its Constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its Flag and to defend it against all enemies.

— BULLETIN —

The Capitan Chamber of Commerce will hold its regular monthly meeting, Monday, July 9. The special meeting room of the Smokey Bear Restaurant is the place for the 11:30 am meeting. All members are urged to attend. Dues from members who still owe should be brought to the meeting or mailed to P.O. Box 441, Capitan, NM 88316.

Jim Hiltley

Hiltley promoted

State police officer Jim Hiltley of Corona was recently promoted to Sergeant. His new position will be effective July 14. Promotion almost always indicates a change and for Jim Hiltley and his family the change will be a transfer to Santa Rosa.

Jim graduated from the State Police Academy in 1970. His first assignment was patrolman at Gallup from 1970 to 1975. A transfer took him to Farmington until 1978 and then to Corona.

Jim, his wife Cheryl and their daughter Tracey have been an asset to the Corona community and will be missed.

SUMMER READING

If you're like me, reading a story to a youngster can be a chore. Now I've been rescued by a TV reading program - 'Reading Rainbow 1984.' The program is designed to encourage students to become better readers. Twenty award winning books will be read each week over Channel 5 (KNME) beginning July 16 and continuing until August 10. Broadcast dates will be listed in this column so that students and parents can clip them and place on their bulletin board. All programs will be aired twice daily - 11:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m.

Carrizozo school librarian Julia Hollis urges parents to encourage their children to participate in this summer reading program. This is a good way to increase reading skills. All twenty books to be featured on Reading Rainbow 1984 will be available at the school's library this fall.

KICKED THE BUCKET

I provided the Colonel with some competition by trying a homemade imitation of his secret recipe. To make Kentucky 'Sly' Chicken dip chicken into a mixture of one egg and 1 cup of milk. Then roll each piece in a combination of 1 cup flour, 1/4 cup of cornmeal, 1/4 teaspoon of baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon of garlic powder, 1/4 teaspoon of paprika, 1/4 teaspoon of basil, and a dash of salt and pepper.

Dip the coated pieces a second time into the milk and egg mixture and again into the dry mixture. It can get pretty gooey on your fingers, but it is worth it if your kids like extra crispy chicken. Deep-fry the double coated chicken for 30 minutes or until done and golden brown. Then watch the crispy, golden-fried chicken disappear from the table - just like the 'real thing'.

Now check the ads in this issue for a good deal on chickens for frying.

ROUGHING IT

Nicole DeBerge and Nancy Vega have returned from a 2-week fun-filled vacation in the Sacramento Mountains. Amy Funk is there now. The three girls are Girl Scouts and the camping trip was a good way for them to try out their camping skills. The girls are among many Girl Scouts from all over who make the annual trek to Camp Mary White.

Nature study hikes were a part of the activities planned for the scouts. Sturdy shoes (well broken in) was part of the equipment list as was insect repellent. Two items that came in handy was a raincoat and waterproof boots.

DO YOU KNOW?

Mary White, who lives in Las Cruces with a niece, is known for establishing Camp Mary White in the Sacramento Mountains. She was among five people honored during the annual Oldtimers' Reunion May 12 in Cloudercroft. The reunion is sponsored by the Sacramento Mountains Historical Society.

Miss Mary (as she is known by many) was born Sept. 24, 1894 in the Llano Hotel in Midland, Texas. Her parents were Elza and Maude (Miller) White. When Mary was about 7-years-old, the White family boarded a train and moved to Roswell. Elza started ranching with a small herd of sheep in the Picacho area, and the family lived in Roswell so their children could attend school.

After graduating from Roswell High School, Mary went back East to attend Wade Park Manor, returning after graduation to Roswell. In her spare time between hostessing lavish parties in their beautiful home in Roswell, she taught school and later served as superintendent of schools of Chaves County. She later was to become the youngest postmaster in the United States, as well as the only woman postmaster in Chaves County.

CAMP MARY WHITE

In 1930 Mary went back East again, this time to train for a position with the Girl Scouts of America and was on the national staff of the organization from 1930-1937. During her working years with the Girl Scouts, the White family bought the Muleshoe Ranch in Bear Canyon near Weed and ran cattle.

It was then that Mary established the camp which served the Girl Scouts for miles around. Her father donated the land for the camp. One of the highlights of the camp activities while she was director was a trip to Carlsbad Caverns. It was a nine-day trip on horseback from Camp Mary White to the Caverns in the Guadalupe Mountains.

In 1945 Mary accepted the position of director of housing at New Mexico State University. She was housemother at Rhodes Hall. She retired from UNM in 1952, returned to the Muleshoe Ranch and operated a guest ranch there in addition to the cattle operation.

NEW ENGLAND HOSPITALITY

Pat Sullivan accompanied her husband, Tom to the National Sheriff's Association conference in Hartford, CT last month. The Sullivans, residents of Capitan were treated to the finest in New England summer hospitality with a number of social events, including an outing featuring a seafood feast.

Spouses and youngsters enjoyed the most extensive programs ever planned for the annual events and included the annual pistol and golf tournaments. There were receptions, luncheons, brunches, and even a ladies breakfast and fashion show.

At one gathering the sheriffs and their spouses saw Claud Atkins, TV's Sheriff Lobo. Another celebrity, Henry Youngman, king of the one-liners, entertained audiences.

IT'S A ROY

Allen and Barbara Langley are parents of a second son, Branden Lee, born June 22 at Ruidoso-Honda Valley Hospital. He weighed 7 pounds and 2 ounces. His brother, DeWayne is 5 years old. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wells of Claunch and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Langley of Estancia.

IT'S A GIRL

Breck and Katy Walden are parents of Amy Dominique born June 29 at Ruidoso-Honda Valley Hospital. She weighed 6 pounds and 5 ounces. The Waldens moved this year to the former Gable Ranch.

Reagan's Crime Commission:

Sicilians only? or Black Muslims, too?

WASHINGTON — Almost all of the American people will be relieved to learn that Messers Thomas 15X Johnson (AKA Abdul Malik), Thomas Hagan (AKA Talmadge Hayer) and Norman 3X Butler (AKA Muhammed Abdul Aziz) are still in the custody of the State of New York. They are numbers 66A0056, 66A0057 and 66A0058 as inmates of three New York prisons, Dannemora, Napanoch and Fishkill.

One evening over nineteen years ago, Mr. 15X Johnson, accompanied by Messers Hagan and Butler, attended a rally in a ballroom in Harlem. The featured speaker was that charismatic and fiery advocate of black separatism, a former pimp and dope pusher named Malcolm X (AKA Elijah Little). Malcolm had become the leading spokesman for the Honorable Elijah Mohammed (AKA Elijah Poole, of Georgia), boss of a pseudo-Islamic cult called the Black Muslims, whose principle thrust and appeal was hatred of the white race.

Malcolm, however, had recently defected from this hate cult. He had also dared to go public with his vehement objections to The Honorable's use of mosque funds to maintain for himself an extensive harem.

For this heretical behavior, Malcolm had been warned of the wrath to come, as befits all traitors. The May 12, 1977, issue of The Los Angeles Sentinel, a black newspaper, quoted Black Muslim leader Louis Farrakhan as saying:

"We of course, in the nation of Islam, became embittered by Malcolm's change, and we said that Malcolm is a traitor."

Malcolm, who had predicted that his death would be at the hands of the Black Muslims, was in mid speech when Mr. 15X Johnson drew a bead on him with a double-barreled, sawed off shotgun.

After this resulted in Malcolm's being ventilated, Hagan and Butler raced to the stage. There, in order to ensure the assassination, they stood over Malcolm's corpse, pumping it even fuller with lead.

The three assassins were tried, found guilty and sentenced to life imprisonment. In Chicago, The Honorable Elijah emerged from his harem long enough to insist that he was not to blame — even though Farrakhan, who had warned Malcolm of his impending doom, promptly succeeded him as head of the cult's Harlem mosque.

In 1972, two police officers responded to a call from an officer in need of assistance within the mosque. Farrakhan's bodyguards ("The Fruit of Islam") refused the officers entry — and both policemen were shot, one of them fatally. Farrakhan's reaction to this was to call a press conference during which he demanded that New York's Mayor John Lindsay apologize! Present at this astounding press conference was one of Farrakhan's good friends, the Rev. Jesse Jackson.

Two years later, when Black Muslims were charged in the massacre of seven Hanafi Muslims (including women and children), Farrakhan again threatened:

"Let this be a warning to those who would be used as instruments of a wicked government. Today there are younger men and women rising up who have no forgiveness for traitors and stool pigeons."

The government's chief witness, James Price, was sufficiently terrified by this that he declined to testify. While the Black Muslims (from the Philadelphia mosque) were convicted, the Hanafi's reacted by occupying two large buildings in Washington and holding several hostages.

Farrakhan's most recent threat was made against Washington Post reporter Milton Coleman, who dared to report a candidate Jackson's "Hymietown" slur about Jews. Since May 1, Coleman has not covered the Jackson campaign, indicating that The Post takes Farrakhan's death threats very seriously, even if the Reagan Justice Department refuses to prosecute Farrakhan, even for broadcasting the Coleman death threat across state lines.

In October of 1982, President Reagan created the Presidential Commission on Organized Crime "to redress this Administration's promise to do all in our power to break apart and cripple the organized criminal syndicates that for too long have been tolerated in America."

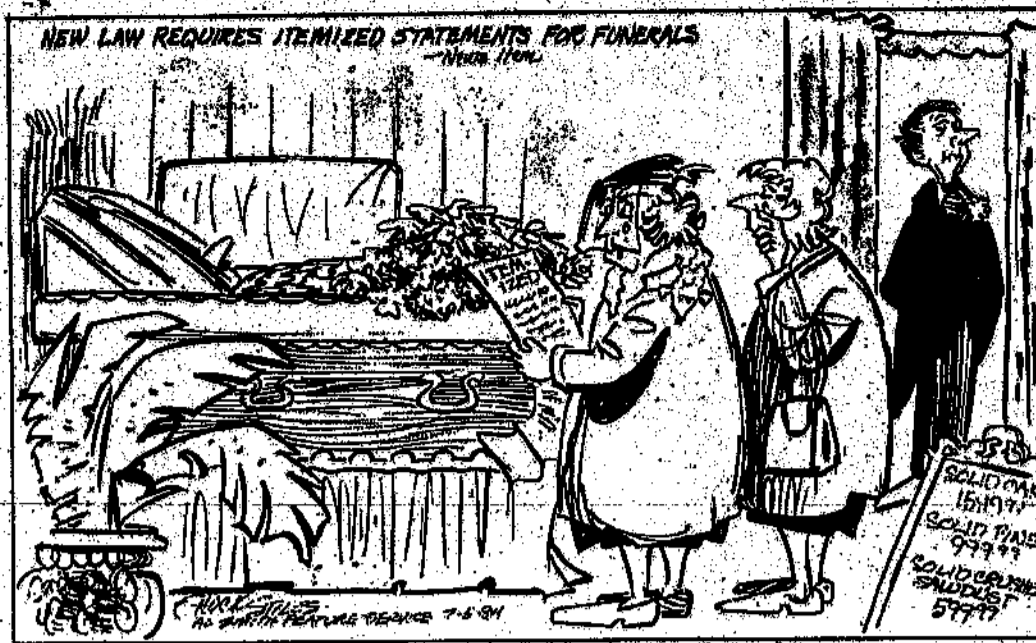

Mr. Reagan also made reference to "violence and threats against those who would testify or resist this criminal conspiracy." Surely this would seem to apply to the organized Nation of Islam and its death threats and murders.

The head of this organized crime commission is Judge Irving Kaufman, who sentenced the Mafia leaders captured after the notorious Apalachia Conference. It may be asked, therefore, will Judge Kaufman's Commission be confined to gangsters who are Sicilian? Or will it include (even in this election year) gangsters who are black?

At the commission's office in Washington, spokesman Art Brill replied:

"We cannot discuss our investigations into the activities of organized criminal behavior."

When asked why the eight murder victims of Black Muslims do not constitute a crime that is very organized, Brill declined further comment.

"THIS WOULD HAVE KILLED UNCLE HARRY!"

WATCH OVER WASHINGTON:

Will homosexuals be admitted to armed forces?

By LES KINSOLVING

WASHINGTON — "I am opposed to discrimination, period," replied President Reagan during a June 14 nationally televised news conference, when he was asked about "a measure before Congress to prohibit job discrimination against homosexuals."

Mr. Reagan, as commander-in-chief of the armed forces, is one of the nation's leading providers of jobs. But the armed forces refuse to recruit or tolerate in service any person who is either a practicing or self-avowed homosexual. So this column asked, during a White House news briefing, whether Mr. Reagan's expressed opposition to "discrimination, period" means he now intends to issue an executive order banning the armed forces discrimination against homosexuals.

After a number of obviously desperate efforts to avoid the question, Presidential Spokesman Larry Speakes referred the question to the Pentagon — and hurriedly adjourned the briefing.

At the Pentagon, Spokesman Michael Burch was asked whether the Department of Defense has prepared any sort of contingency plan for an executive order, either by President Reagan or President Mondale, that homosexuals shall no longer be barred from being recruited; or subjected to discharge, in the armed forces. Will homosexuals be assigned to separate sleeping quarters aboard ship and in barracks, like women? Or will they be allowed to "cruise" at will?

Do the armed services medics have any plan by which they can curtail the spread of AIDS? And how will such admission of homosexuals affect the continued recruiting of an all-volunteer Army? If sodomists are recruited, how will the armed forces be able to deny recruitment to other sexual orientations, such as sado-masochists or necrophiliacs, without sexual discrimination?

Spokesman Burch replied: "The President has not directed us to change our longstanding Department of Defense policy, which is that homosexuality is incompatible with military service and would seriously impair the military mission."

But what if a future president were to issue an executive order requiring such admission of homosexuals?

"There is no contingency plan," replied Burch, a retired Air Force colonel with 20 years of service. "I feel certain this will never come about."

At the White House, 40 minutes later, Spokesman Speakes replied: "There are no plans to change the policy."

When asked if this means that President Reagan agrees that "homosexuality is incompatible with military service," Speakes would only reply that "There are no plans to change the policy." He kept repeating this response and then, once more, hurriedly adjourned the briefing.

Democratic Presidential front-runner Walter Mondale has been assiduously courting the homosexual vote. But he has reportedly incurred the wrath of Virginia Apuzzo, director of the National Gay Rights Task Force. Apuzzo, who is a member of the platform committee of the Democratic National Committee, told The New York Post that former Vice President Mondale has failed to deliver on his promise of a written pledge that as President he will issue an Executive Order repealing bans on homosexuals in the military. At Mondale campaign headquarters here, Deputy Campaign Press Secretary Dayton Duncan, when asked about this controversy, said that he had "consulted highest authority" in the Mondale campaign, which was at that time interviewing potential Vice Presidential candidates at Mondale's home in Minneapolis. "He (Mondale) is opposed to discrimination against homosexuals in the armed forces," said Duncan.

When asked about Apuzzo's reference to a promise made by Mondale of a written pledge to issue an executive order to this effect, Duncan replied:

"He never did make that commitment to sign an executive order."

Then Apuzzo is not telling the truth?

"He never did make that commitment to sign an executive order."

How can Mr. Mondale be truly opposed to the armed forces discrimination against homosexuals if he refuses to provide, a written pledge that as President he will end such discrimination by issuing an executive order?

"He has not taken a position on an executive order," answered Duncan.

If Mondale really opposes discrimination, why won't he do so?

"He has not taken such a position on an executive order," repeated Duncan.

In New York, Lance Ringel of the National Gay Task Force recalled:

"Last November, when Candidate Mondale appeared before the Americans for Democratic Action in New York, Too much government . . .

DEAR EDITOR—We have too much government. The most important issue in the 1984 election should be over what to do about it.

A Reagan appointed task force of volunteer businessmen have submitted a 47 volume investigation of ways to cut down the size of government.

These 47 volumes have been condensed into a 591 page paperback book entitled, "War On Waste." (McMillan & Co.)

This fat trimming task force was headed by a Democrat, Peter Grace, who claims that his task force has come up with 2,478 separate, distinct, and specific recommendations that can save the taxpayers billions.

According to the Grace report, if it is adopted immediately, it could save taxpayers $424 billion over the first three years that it is in operation.

On the other hand, he warns that the decade of the 1990's will run up deficits of an estimated $10.2 trillion (yes, that's a trillion) if we go along the way we are presently spending.

Grace's amazing predictions need to be fully dissolved and discussed before the public. Grace makes these observations: "Equally important, the 2,478 cost cutting, revenue-enhancing recommendations we have made can be achieved without raising taxes, without weakening America's needed defense build-up, and without in any way harming necessary social welfare programs."

He further concludes that should the government follow the recommendations of that 252 man task force "the accumulated saving and economies would amount to a projected total of $10.5 trillion" by the year 2000.

That figures out $130,000 for each taxpayer. You know there was a time when $130,000 was worth saving.

Badly misinformed . . .

DEAR EDITOR—A national poll by Opinion Research Corporation found that something like 80 percent of the American public believes that nuclear power is more harmful to health than coal burning. The public is badly misinformed. There have been at least 20 scientific studies on this question - studies sponsored by the National Academy of Sciences, the American Medical Association and others. Without exception they have reached the opposite conclusion, that coal burning is more harmful. Even Ralph Nader has conceded that point. As a result of this vast gulf of misinformation, utilities are cancelling nuclear power plants and building coal-fired plants instead. Every time this is done, many hundreds of citizens are condemned to death.

Four of the leading anti-nuclear organizations are the Sierra Club, the Natural Resources Defense Council, the Environmental Defense Fund, and the Union of Concerned Scientists. These are among the most important and you should be wondering from where they are getting their backing-between 1974, the year that the national anti-nuclear movement got underway, and 1982, the Ford Foundation, the Rockefeller Bros. Fund and the Rockefeller Family Fund were the major contributors. Altogether the four anti-nuclear groups received $8,945,543 over a nine year period from the three foundations. In short the no-nukes kooks are not independent.

Not long ago the Congressional Office of Technology Assessment predicted an end to construction of nuclear power plants in this country. The Rockefellers have been the big supporters of the no nukes. That's Rockefeller, as in oil, gas and coal.

ELLEN EDWARDS,

In the palm of his hand . . .

DEAR EDITOR—When you stop to think about it, the Rev. Jesse Jackson may just hold the outcome of November's presidential election right in the palm of his hand.

We are told that there are three registered Democrats for every two registered Republicans.

Obviously, the Republican candidate must persuade a lot of Democrats to vote for him.

Another way to help elect the Republican is for a sizable group of "hard core" Democrats, that is, Democrats very unlikely to vote for Reagan, to bolt the party.

Now where would we find such a group? Jesse Jackson's followers seem to fill the bill to a tee.

Last March, San Francisco's most famous gossip columnist stated unequivocally that Jesse Jackson would run as a third party candidate. He did not reveal his sources, and I'm not insisting that he had the straight dope.

But, you have got to admit, it sure would solve a lot of Reagan's three against two problems if the Rev. Jesse Jackson would skim off enough Democratic votes to even up the count. It might even elect the Republican.

If there were no Jesse Jackson, the Republicans could afford to create one.

INSIDE THE CAPITOL

BY Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—New Mexico's next governor should be a person who is very wise.

He or she will have to start facing up to the problems the future will bring. Unless a sound long-range plan for the state is in place by the 1990s, we stand to be looking at very tough times indeed.

There's nothing very complex about the problem. We simply have, and will continue to have, an expanding population, with an expanding need for services, as we continue to depend on depleting natural resources to fund those demanded services.

It's bad enough that we are harvesting our natural resources, almost all of which, with the possible exception of timber, are depletable. What is worse is that our state has for far too long depended on this very harvesting to provide most of our revenue.

More than 40 percent of what we take in each year, for instance, comes from the oil and gas industry, and that kind of condition cannot go on ad infinitum.

The supply of oil and gas is finite. In fact it could, some now say, be almost totally depleted by the start of the next century.

That's why we so much need to generate new sources of tax revenue.

JOURNEYS: Hence the too-well-publicized trips of Toney Anaya to the Orient, the Middle East and Europe.

These may in time prove fruitful, if their main objective is something other than a hollow show.

Do they have real substance? Here's what the briefing paper distributed to those on the current tour says: "The key to the mission's success will depend on the quality of the initial presentations, the extent to which the private meetings are pursued in the days that follow, and on the effort that is put into establishing a means of continuing the thrust of the mission."

In other words, it's not the trip—the part which gets all the media attention—which matters so much as what goes on before and after.

In charge of these phases is the state's Department of Economic Development and Tourism. That's where the real hard-down work has to be done.

And that's a little worrisome.

ENERGY: Observers here

see that division of state government as one which consistently rushes into the breach ill prepared and breathlessly extemporizes something, most often composed more of hot air than of genuine content.

It's not a "class" operation, in other words.

For one thing, it has been a place Toney Anaya could dump some of his political cronies, in the hopes that in these circumstances their shortcomings would not be noticeable.

Certainly it demonstrates no expertise in the area of long-range planning, which is what we need a lot of.

The ability to make big flaps and burn undirected energy will not begin to help the state face its coming problems.

FAREWELL: Our system of changing governors every four years doesn't contribute much to long-range thinking either.

It's easy for any governor, not least of all Anaya, to say, "Heck, I'm only going to be around for four years anyway."

Big shows and noisy activities can easily provide a screen behind which hides lack of genuine accomplishment.

Many people to thank . . .

DEAR EDITOR—It is with a great deal of pride that I write to you, and through your newspaper, offer our sincere appreciation to the citizens of your community for supporting a very successful Bike-A-Thon for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

St. Jude, the largest childhood cancer research hospital in the country, is dedicated to one cause; to eliminate childhood cancer and other catastrophic diseases from the face of the earth. Please be assured that the funds raised in your community will be used to support those research programs which show promise of finding cures for those horrible diseases that threaten the lives of children.

There are many people to thank namely; the chairman, helpers, the riders, donors, merchants, the media and other volunteers.

We want you to know that progress is being made and that someday, hopefully soon, we will be able to close the doors to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital because the goal of eliminating cancer will have been reached.

Thank all of you for bringing life and hope to children everywhere.

ASK DR. DAN

Q: I have a teenage son who has been very depressed and he has been saying he is thinking of killing himself. What can I do? T. Y.

A: The most important thing to do is to take seriously what a person says about suicide. Most suicide victims give clues by their words or actions that they were contemplating suicide. Suicide is the third leading cause of death in the 15 to 24 year old age group (Trauma is number 1, followed by homicide). There has been a marked increase in the number of youthful suicides over the past 20 years. New Mexico currently ranks number 3 in the nation with a rate of 30 per 100,000 population.

Risk factors to be aware of include family problems, school problems, drug and alcohol abuse, death of a loved one, break-up of a love relationship and moving away from secure surroundings. Adolescents who are depressed, feel unwanted by their family, have poor impulse control or who are psychotic are at particularly high risk.

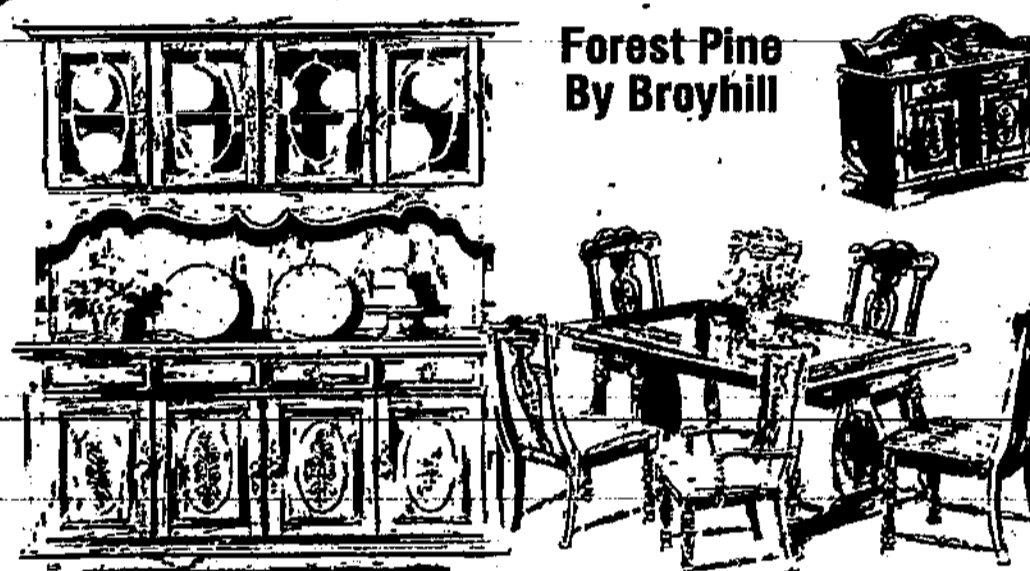

It is now well proven that asking about suicidal thoughts does not cause suicidal actions. Instead, it shows that you care about the person and that it is alright to discuss the subject. If you believe somebody is thinking about suicide, try to get them seen as soon as possible by a physician, psychologist or mental health professional. If possible, do not leave suicidal people alone, especially at night time. Other preventive measures that can be taken include removing firearms and dangerous medicines from the living area. Try to get the person to agree to call you or his doctor if he or she gets the urge to hurt their self.

Sometimes hospitalization is required if the risk of suicide is quite high. After the social support system of the person has been mobilized, treatment with counseling or drugs can reduce the risk enough to send the person home. Many youthful suicides could be prevented by friends and family being aware of the risk in a loved one and taking the appropriate steps.

Lincoln Ramblings

By ROSALIE DUNLAP

Rain, rain, rain—Severe isolated thunderstorms have hit different areas this past few days. Double Crossing area has had two such storms in the last three days washing out some of our roads east of Joe Salazar. Then Monday afternoon we had a dilly. At our house we had 1.6 inches and hail within an hour. The Bonito River ran bank to bank, with the crossing running thru all four large culverts plus over the top.

A small retention dam on Joe Salazar's gave way, making up to 3 ft. deeper erosion-ravining parts of his fields, gardens and fences and just missing one of the old adobe buildings. Salazar Canyon Road suffered some erosion problems also.

Several of us went down to Hattie's bridge which is under construction to watch the river come down. It also did some damage to the culverts and erosion of fill on the side of the detour.

The Town of Lincoln has received its plaque which designated Lincoln as being on the National Historic Registry.

Lincoln was put on the registry sometime in the 1960s. Receiving the plaque brought back some memories for Rosena Locke and myself. Several years ago a gentleman seemed to be spending an extra long time around the Torreon, so we went to visit with him. He was from the National Historic Registry office checking on Lincoln.

Maggie Leyba is helping

Horace Cordova with his shop in Lincoln.

Leota Pfingsten, Betty Shreengost and Rosalia Dunlap were among the many who attended the Coe-Perry family reunion at Glanceo.

The catholic church of Lincoln celebrated their San Juan Day on Monday followed by a covered dish supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cristobal Zamora, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Locke are the proud owners of a Dodge mini-van. I know they will enjoy theirs as much as we have ours.

Leota Pfingsten and Doretta Burchett are working for the Lincoln County Trust this summer.

For those interested in activities during Old Lincoln Days there will be horse shoe pitching tournament and the Pony Express race breakfast to be held Sat., Aug. 3 here at Double Crossing-Salazar Canyon picnic grounds (near Hwy. 380).

With the 4th of July celebration coming up, everyone have a wonderful time and be careful with your fireworks and watch for the other driver when you travel.

Mr. and Mrs. James Sanchez and Katherine returned Monday from a visit to Washington, DC.

James Sanchez is parade chairman for the pageant this year. For more information call 653-4821. Betty Shreengost is fiddlers chairwoman, for more information call 653-4893. Chris Zamora is in charge of concessions and activities, call 653-4873. Rosalia Dunlap is in charge of demonstrations etc., call 653-4047.

The Lincoln County Chapter of NARFE held its monthly meeting at the First Christian Church of Ruidoso on Tuesday. Tentative plans for a tri-county (Otero-Lincoln-Chaves) meeting to be held Aug. 7 at Ruidoso were made.

Guest speaker was the State President Elmer Mustard of Tucumcari. Some of the problems facing federal and other retirees are annuities, medicare costs and health insurance. Also discussed were plans for the fall National NARFE meeting to be held in Baltimore, MD.

Hazel Lawing was the winner of the handmade afghan by Lucy Whitfield of Raymondville, TX who is 102 years young. The afghan was made when she was 98 years old and beautifully made. She is the mother of Mrs. Mary LeCrone of Ruidoso Downs.

New Mexico's Heritage--

"The Riverine Period"

For more than a quarter of a century New Mexico sizzled under rainless skies. The "Great Drought" of A.D. 1276-1299 utterly destroyed agriculture and food reserves in great upland villages like those in Bandelier National Monument.

Eventually, even the most tenacious villagers abandoned their under-dry uplands and small settlements sprang up along New Mexico's permanent streams.

By A.D. 1325 survivors had concentrated along the Rio Grande and Rio San Jose (Acoma area), as well as the Chama, Zuni, and Gila Rivers. Some lesser creeks, such as the Galisteo, were also settled. Villages ancestral to the modern Pueblos were founded—often within a few miles of today's village sites.

The densest concentration of settlements was along the Rio Grande between San Marcial and Taos. But conditions were not stable, and uninterrupted habitation at any one location was uncommon.

In southern New Mexico, massive adobe villages, called "Saladoan" were built along the Gila, but had already been abandoned by Spanish times so little is known about them.

The Riverine Period was one of radical change. Dry-farming was generally abandoned for modest irrigation systems on low-lying flood plains. New religious patterns were established—and the Kachina Cult, associated with masked gods and rainmaking, spread to the Rio Grande from the southwest.

The earliest Riverine pueblos were usually small, 10 to 50 rooms, and built on easily fortified bluffs above the Rio Grande and adjacent streams. Black-on-white pottery styles passed out of vogue and were replaced by elaborate glazewares. Black-on-red was the dominant color scheme, but other variations are known.

By the early 1400's villages had grown larger, were often built out on the flood plains and defense was not so important. While fewer in number than earlier Riverine villages, some grew to immense proportions. The largest contained two to three thousand ground floor rooms and positively dwarf the more famous sites such as Pueblo Bonito at Chaco Canyon. A contemporary football stadium could easily be fit into the largest plazas at these great towns.

One particularly impressive cluster of late prehistoric pueblos lies along Galisteo Creek southeast of Santa Fe. The largest Galisteo villages include Pueblo She, Galisteo, Las Madres, and San Cristobal. Another Galisteo village, Pueblo Colorado, is smaller, but was constructed entirely of hand-matched red sandstone blocks. It consists of nearly 900 ground floor rooms arranged in eleven massive room blocks enclosing eight plazas.

Village size peaked about A.D. 1425, and none larger were ever built. But even in that period, the population of these massive towns fluctuated, season-to-season. Most were surrounded by many square miles of one and two room farmsteads. Called "field houses" by archeologists, these were used during the agricultural season. Once a town's size reached a certain point traveling to the farthest agricultural fields each day was no longer practical.

In the late A.D. 1400's many villages were temporarily vacated. Unstable agricultural conditions—alternating floods and droughts—forced relocations throughout the river districts as entire clans sought new farm lands.

Large-cobbed corn, squash, beans, melons, and various herbs were the mainstay of daily diet. Domestic turkey supplemented deer, buffalo, bighorn-sheep, and other large game, but community rabbit hunts provided the most commonly eaten meat.

Locally grown cotton was used to weave both beautifully made mantas and everyday clothing. Handicrafts of all kinds—pottery, basketry, tools, and

All-around money saving ideas, hints, advice, solutions, shortcuts for mothers and others.

IDENTIFY GARDEN TOOLS
To spot garden tools easily among the plants and grass (or neighbor's garage) paint the handles a bright color.

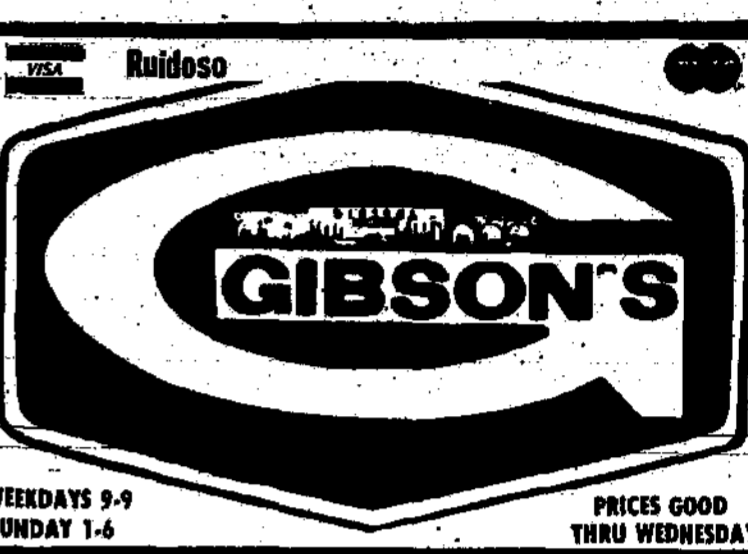

RAINY SEASON
Use transparent tape to cover the mailing and return addresses of packages when preparing them for mailing. If the parcel gets wet the ink won't smear.

DISPOSABLE PAINT BRUSHES
Cotton-tipped swabs make good paint brushes for children. Use one swab for each color of poster paint or food-color. Toss swabs away when painting session is over.

PROTECT KNEES
No longer presentable place mats can be used for kneeling when doing garden work.

AVOID FROZEN FINGERS
When looking through the frozen foods packages at home use oven mitts to protect hands from cold.

SUMMER CRAFT
Make cottontail rabbits from felt. Cut out white rabbit, orange carrot and green stem from felt. Glue on cardboard. Add cottonball for tail. Hang in child's room.

he was asked if his executive order banning discrimination against gays and lesbians would extend to the armed forces. And Mondale replied: "It will extend across the board."

Ringel went on to note: "This statement of Mondale's was tape recorded by the Democracy Project, from which we made our transcript. We are informed that Mr. Mondale made similar promises in Queens, just before the New York primary, and in San Diego, just before the California primary."

In Washington, the Democratic Platform Committee presented its initial draft, which includes the following:

"All groups must be protected from discrimination based on . . . sexual orientation. We will assure that sexual orientation per se does not serve as a bar to participation in the military." In other words, you can affirm your sexual orientation in the armed services, just as long as you don't get caught doing it. And the stipulation of "all groups" will no doubt be a delight to such sexually oriented groups as the North American Man-Boy Love Association (child molesters), the Rene Guyon Society (advocates of incest - and "Sex Before Eight or Else It's Too Late") and the Eulenspiegel Society (sodomasochists.)

The 1988 Democratic National Convention may well be the first in history to meet overseas: in an exciting resort on the Dead Sea - Sodom.

turquoise jewelry were well-made and traded over large districts.

Turquoise mines near present day Cerrillos, were an important source of wealth and influence—and had been laboriously hand-worked with stone tools for many centuries. Local turquoise was carried down the long trade routes to central Mexico, and Aztec Period artworks often contain turquoise from the Cerrillos mine.

The Riverine Period was undoubtedly the high-point of large village lifts in New Mexico, but the region-wide political system of the earlier Chacoan Period did not reappear. River populations were divided into relatively small, often competing, local districts. Continual village relocations eventually divided groups speaking the same language.

When the Spanish arrived in 1540-41, Piro speaking people lived along the Rio Grande from Los Lunas south to San Marcial. Tewa speakers, ancestors of today's Sandia and Isleta Pueblos, held the river between Bosque Farms and Bernalillo. To the north Tiwa, Tewa, Towa, and Tanoan speakers had fragmented into even smaller districts. Keresan people, then as now, lived in the Acoma-Laguna area and many villages dotted the region around Zuni Pueblo, the only one in that region to survive.

For decades archeologists have tried in vain to trace today's pueblos directly back to Chaco Canyon and to determine just who lived there in the A.D. 1000's. Sadly, two centuries of intermittent famine, warfare, disease, and dislocation following the Chacoan decline have erased the critical evidence and all but a few half-remembered legends of earlier days.

Amber Gem of the Ages!

Millions of years ago, stately conifers, giant trees larger than our Redwoods, grew in luxuriant splendor on the stormy Baltic seashores, which were warm as the Southern Mediterranean of today. Came the glacial age which swept this floral splendor into oblivion. Though this was long before the age of man, an eyewitness-captured evidence of life in that era - and that magnificent eyewitness was AMBER - the golden sap of those prehistoric trees.

AMBER is truly a window into the past. Fascination and excitement will be yours as you view the botanical debris of the great forests: the seeds and insects such as fleas that bit dinosaurs, bees that pollinated prehistoric flowers - and tiny drops of water which were trapped forever like bits of golden sunshine.

AMBER occurs in shades from clear or black to golden transparent yellow, cloudy buttercup yellow, rare blue and reds and antique browns.

We import amber from all over the world. . . .
