Jail buddies share brew

"Ale in jail" brings charges

By P. E. CHAVEZ
A laboratory analysis report revealed that 'homemade' booze made by two prisoners in the county jail contained 3.78 percent alcohol, the same alcohol content in beer.

January 13 jail officials searched the cells and found a large Zip-lock plastic bag containing a substance believed to be homemade wine. A sample was sent to the Scientific Laboratory Division in Albuquerque.

James L. Strong, age 45, T or

C and Ronald J. Marsh, age 23, Hobbs were charged Jan. 20 with Furnishing Drugs or Liquor to Prisoners.

The behind-the-bars alcoholic concoction was made with some of the food served to the prisoners. Granulated sugar, juices and fruit were among the ingredients utilized in making the liquor. Lacking the yeast needed to aid in the fermentation, the jailed men added bread and bread crumbs to their mixture.

Strong and Marsh were arraigned before Magistrate Bettye Dean. A preliminary hearing is set for Friday Feb. 3.

Strong, who remains in jail, was serving a 6-month DWI sentence concurrently for Lincoln and Sierra counties. His release was to have been Feb. 1. The new charge is a fourth degree felony punishable by 1 to 5 years in the state penitentiary.
Marsh, serving a 30-day DWI sentence, would have been released the day the new charges were filed. He is out on a $2,500 bond.

David Perez Gutierrez, age 27, Pampa, FL was arrested in the Hondo Valley and charged Jan. 21 with DWI, Reckless Driving and Possession of Marijuana under 1 oz. He posted a $900 bond and will appear before Magistrate Jim Wheeler in Ruidoso.

Trankie Silva of Capitan has announced his candidacy for County Commissioner, District II, on the Democratic ticket, a position now held by John Hightower.

Mr. Silva is a lifetime Lincoln County rancher, was a school bus contractor for 47 years, has been a field auditor for the state and superintendent of buildings and grounds at Fort Stanton.

He served three years in the US Coast Guard and did foreign service for the Department of Agriculture. He knows machine shop work, and was with General Engineering and Drydock Co. in San Francisco.

Mr. Silva has considerable experience in the building trades, including homes, concrete work, plastering, all types of water storage tanks, fencing, etc.

He has taken summer courses in fleet operations, ranch management, welding, psychology and public relations and the Dale Carnegie program.

Silva has belonged to Carrizozo Rotary Club, has been commander and vice-district-commander of American Legion, and fire chief at Fort Stanton. He is a member of the Capitan Chamber of Commerce, the Knights of Columbus, and has served on the advisory board of the Smokey Bear District of the National Forest Service.

Mr. Silva believes his wide experience qualifies him to be an excellent county commissioner.

Homemade . . . CHIEF Deputy Sheriff Charlie Cox is shown with the bag full of homemade liquor discovered in a cell at the county jail. The brew was analyzed for alcohol content.

C of C organizing special day

Smokey would be proud

The Capitan Chamber of Commerce has started to organize a special day to honor Smokey Bear, and would like all the citizens of Lincoln County to participate in any way they can to help this event become a big success and an annual event.

At the present time, plans are being made to have an Arts & Crafts Fair at the Lincoln County Fair Grounds. This will be followed in the evening by a dance.

A parade will take place on Main Street (Capitan) late in the morning. Shortly afterward there will be several events and demonstrations on the Capitan High School Football Field.

Both sites will be available throughout the town for profit and non-profit organizations. The cost will be as follows: $25 for profit organizations and free to non-profit organizations. For all information concerning booth space, contact Sharon Horton at 354-2525.

Anyone wishing to participate in the parade should call 354-2610 or write to P. O. Box 621, Capitan, NM 88316. The parade theme is "Nature and Children."

If you need any ideas for floats, or any ideas for titles, please call the above number. All floats, including the tow vehicle, (CONTINUED ON P. 10)

JAMIE Patterson won 2 third place plaques in T or C where Carrizozo FFA traveled to participate in district leadership contests. Patterson placed in the greenhand quiz and creed contests.

The Board of Education approved the Athletic Event Scheduling Policy at the Jan. 17 meeting. Beginning the 1984-85 school year, all athletic contests will be scheduled and played on either Friday or Saturday. One tournament or track meet that cannot be scheduled on a day other than Friday or Saturday may be scheduled by the athletic director.

Up to two contests per season in any sport may be scheduled on days other than Friday or Saturday, provided that these contests are scheduled and played at home.

Principal Sidebottom reported on the results of the ACT test taken by juniors and seniors. Carrizozo's average was 18.8 compared to a national average of 18.4 and a state average of 17.2.

The board met at 5:30 p.m. for the purpose of evaluation of the superintendent. They have offered Dr. Miller a one-year contract for the 1984-85 school year.

Mrs. Nadine Burt voiced her concerns about too many starchy foods served in the cafeteria. She volunteered two months of her time to help in the planning of the menu. Dr. Miller accepted her offer.

Dr. Miller presented to the board the 94-142 issue, a federal law for the education of handicapped students. He said that New Mexico has rejected this money in the past and now each individual board is being asked to decide to accept or reject the money. 55 students would be eligible in this district. The board asked him to make a list or a plan on how this money could be spent.

The board asked Linda Haller to serve as an election official in case a regular official was absent. They asked Mr. Sidebottom to appoint a high school senior for an official for the absentee ballot counting in case of a substitute. A board meeting is scheduled Feb. 7 at 8 p.m. to canvass the votes.

Dr. Miller reported on the progress of the renovation of the elementary building. Plans are being developed but bidding will not be held on Feb. 8 as scheduled. He added that the conference room, teacher's lounge, and the AV room would be some of the rooms that teachers would use to accommodate their classes while construction is underway, and several teachers were already packing their equipment and supplies in preparation for the move. The district will be applying for Federal Energy Conservation matching funds for the building.

Dr. Miller reported that a $9,000 Outdoor Recreation Grant was awarded to the town of Carrizozo for swimming pool renovations, to be matched with $3,000 from the town council.

He also reported the progress of the bond issue election, and the new bond retirement schedule from Quinn & Co. was presented and discussed. Significant features of the schedule included an extension of the retirement for the bonds to 1991, an interest rate of 9 1/2 percent, and a proposed tax rate increase of $4.30 in 1985 and 70 cents in 1986. A bond election flyer will be sent to each post office boxholder in Carrizozo the day before the election. People can cast their vote on the absentee ballot on or before Feb. 3 until 5 p.m. PTA will serve refreshments during the election.

Sheriff's reserve going strong at end of first year

By P. E. CHAVEZ
It has been almost a year that Sheriff Tom Sullivan formed a Lincoln County Sheriff's Reserve Program. Forty-six male and female members from all over the county have been trained to assist regular deputies.

The members, who are all volunteers, help in guard duty, security and patrol. Women members act as matrons in the transportation of female prisoners.

The Sheriff's Reserve includes people from all walks of life, including former law enforcement officers. The group meets twice a month. They furnish their own uniforms and weapons.

Individuals interested in joining the program must be of high moral character, never convicted of a felony, 18 years of age or older, and in good physical condition.

The Sheriff's Reserve plan to purchase equipment and insurance for members by sponsoring a dance on Saturday, Jan. 28 at Prime Time in Ruidoso Downs. The public is invited to attend. Admission is $5 per person. Music will be provided by Cree Country. Businesses and individuals have donated merchandise which will be auctioned during the event.

The Sheriff's Department would like to form a Junior Deputy program for ages up to 17.

NEWS FROM SAMOA

Carrizozo friends of former resident Dr. Paul Turner, received a copy of the Dec. 16 'Samoa News' which featured an article about Dr. Turner, Carrizozo's physician for many years. The Samoa News in American Samoa, is the most widely circulated newspaper in the Pacific.

Dr. Turner suffered a massive stroke on Aug. 15 of last year. He is recuperating at his home located between Gataivai and Fagaalu overlooking the mouth of Pago Pago Harbor. He hoped to go back to work part-time this month to complete some unfinished work at LBJ Tropical Medical Center. His plans were to complete and submit his ideas for recruitment of doctors for LBJ.

The physicians at Straub Hospital in Honolulu and the therapists at the Rehabilitation Center of the Pegic have recommended that he return to work full time as soon as he is physically able. Dr. Turner said in December that he thinks he will be strong enough to go back to work full time in a matter of a few months. His most rewarding experience while working at LBJ is the cooperation he has received from the Samoan people and the professional staff at the LBJ.

Rose, his wife, said the doctor is back to his old habits of waking up early at around 5:30 in the morning and going to bed late after watching television. When asked what he misses most, Turner said, "My golfing partners and my work at the LBJ."

BEATS ODDS
At the age of 81, Dr. Turner is improving so fast and at such an unbelievable rate that even his wife has nothing but praise for his bravery and tenacity.

"It's just pure determination," said Mrs. Turner. "As a doctor, Paul knows what's wrong with himself. So he is doing what he would tell his patients to do when stricken with the same illness."

Dr. Turner's mind is as sharp as ever. As always, he never pushes into answering a question. He weighs every answer well before he gives it.

One December Saturday morning he missed his golf game so much that he took Mrs. Turner to the Lavalava Golf Course, hired an electric cart and with his wife at his side drove 18 holes watching his Saturday morning golfing buddies, including Chief Justice Robert Gardner, play the game he loves so well. Afterwards he safely drove his wife home.

IMPROVES QUICKLY
That was quite an accomplishment for Dr. Turner who was taken out on a stretcher, his left side totally paralyzed when he was rushed in August to Honolulu for urgent medical treatment. It was also quite an accomplishment for a man who returned home November 11 and had to disembark from the plane with the aid of a cane. Except for his left arm in a sling, he looks like his old self - alert, calm, courteous and extremely friendly.

Doctors told him that he would get back partial use of his left arm. Turner is determined to make a liar out of them. "I am going to get full use back," he said with determination. He explained that the pain in his left shoulder resulted from joint immobility but with physio-therapeutic treatment he receives daily at LBJ and at home from his wife, he expects the pain to disappear as the arm gradually returns to normal.

In December Dr. Turner could walk around without a cane for 300 yards and the distance increases with each passing day.

SUGARLESS RECIPE

PTA members are planning a money raising project. Watch for the announcement asking for your help in the contribution of a baked goodie. Now is the time to browse through your cookie recipes to try out some baking in preparation for the event, which is sure to bring funds that will benefit your school students.

For those of us with a "sweet tooth" reducing sugar in the diet is difficult. There are ways to satisfy that sweet tooth by preparing sweet tasting foods without refined sugar. I found this sugarless recipe for sunny Orange Cookies to tickle your palate:

ORANGE COOKIES

In a bowl beat 1 egg into 1/2 cup softened margarine. Stir in 1 teaspoon orange rind and 1/2 cup orange juice. In another bowl, combine the dry ingredients (2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/4 teaspoon salt). Add to wet ingredients. Beat until well blended, then stir in nuts and raisins.

Drop dough by rounded teaspoonfuls onto cookie sheet.

Bake at 350 degree for 12 minutes or until lightly brown. Oven temperature and baking time will vary with different ovens. Bake test a few cookies.

ASK DR. DAN

Q: I am 68 years old and in good health. Do I need to take the flu vaccine? M.O.

A: The current recommendations are that people 65 or older receive a yearly flu vaccination in the fall. The reason is that flu in the elderly often causes a severe pneumonia. The influenza virus strikes most often in the winter so a shot in the fall is needed to prepare the bodies defenses.

Because the virus changes itself frequently, an annual shot is needed to protect against the current virus type. People who have chronic illnesses such as cancer, diabetes, cirrhosis of the liver or who take steroid medication chronically should also receive the vaccine.

Q: Why doesn't the doctor give me a shot for my colds anymore? K.W.

A: "Colds" are caused by viruses which are not affected by antibiotic shots or pills. Not only do shots cost money but there is a danger of developing an allergic reaction. The best treatment is rest and fluids. Over the counter drugs can be used to help relieve the symptoms of a "cold."

Q: Does the Dr. at the Health Center make house calls? A.L.

A: Yes. For people who are bedridden or too ill to come to the health center, we do make house calls. Because of the increased cost and lack of our office equipment, we urge people to come to see us if possible.

Jazzworkout

By: Lucille Montano

By LUCILLE MONTANO
Lose fat around the midsection to get rid of back pain. The question that I get asked the most is "I need to lose on my stomach. What exercise can I do for losing on that area?" It seems that fat deposits are concentrated in the midsection of the body, more than any other part of the body, that makes for the "spare tire" that so many people acquire. Sometimes this comes with age if your activity has lessened, and your intake of calories is the same, this will mean more fat. If your activity has lessened and your calorie intake is more, the problem will become worse.

However, if your calorie intake is less and you become active you will lose fat. When you lose fat you lose it all over the body and if this fat is concentrated in your midsection that then is where you will lose it. You lose this fat by exercising more and eating less.

When exercising the abdominal muscles as you will be doing with today's workout

"abdominal fitness," you will also lose the intramuscular fat in your abdominals, and you will also make those abdominal muscles strong. These muscles are the strength center of the body. Excessive weight around the midsection is the cause of many tight and so called bad backs. If you do not have the support of strong abdominal muscles, this extra weight will gradually cause a forward pelvic tilt, causing pain and tension in the lower back. You can develop your abdominal muscles by regularly doing an abdominal workout like this one.

TODAY'S WORKOUT:
Abdominal fitness - PRIMARY MUSCLES USED: rectus abdominis

TYPE OF EXERCISE:
Toning and strengthening

PURPOSE: To tone and strengthen the abdominal muscles. Helps to improve the entire waistline. PROP: a chair

BREATHING: Exhale as you bring your knees into your chest inhale as you straighten your legs.

Begin by sitting at the edge of a chair holding firmly to the sides of the chair. Legs are straight and together, toes pointed touching the floor. Bring knees tightly into your chest and then extend them again to original position. Begin by doing 10 repetitions, increase to two sets of 10 repetitions. Then increase to 15 repetitions and increase to 2-3 sets of 15 repetitions.

RESULTS: A stronger, flatter stomach, a better looking, better feeling you!

NEXT WEEK: Waist fitness.

"A government of wolves over sheep"

WASHINGTON, D.C. — More than 962 federal social programs, costing more than $400 billion a year. A federal budget of $948 billion, plus nearly a trillion dollars a year in spending that does not appear on the budget. A deficit of $450 billion, more than twice as large as we have been told.

Those are some of the outrages discovered by President Reagan's commission on waste in the federal government. Unless something is done to reverse the growth of government, the prospect is one of a national debt growing until the economy collapses. As the commission chairman, J. Peter Grace, put it, "This stuff is really going to hit the fan."

The report of the Grace Commission details the twilight world of Congress and the bureaucracy, in which the only question asked is Who benefits? Names were deleted from the final draft, but the identity of some offenders is obvious —

It was Senator Robert Byrd (D-West Virginia) who forced Amtrak to retain the Cardinal train that runs through his state, even though it loses $10 million a year. It was Senator Robert Dole (R-Kansas) who "angrily" blocked a plan to transfer employees of the Department of Housing and Urban Development from Topeka to Kansas City, Missouri. It was Senator Ted Stevens (R-Alaska) who stopped the Defense EDefense Department from seeking competitive bids on shipments of its employees' household goods in Alaska and Hawaii.

In all, some 100 Congressmen, including the Speaker of the House and the Republican leader of the Senate, were named in the original draft of the report.

The pork-barrel politics described by the Grace Commission would astonish FDR, the father of the modern public works project. Every day Congress becomes less statesmanlike and more like a band of pirates looting each others' districts.

How did the federal government become the bloated, extravagant, inefficient monster it is today? The answer lies in the altered relationship between the people and their government.

It took the government 175 years for its annual budget to reach $100 billion, in 1962. It then took only nine years for the budget to top $200 billion. Four years later, in 1975, it hit $300 billion and two years later $400 billion. In 1980, it went over $500 billion, and spending for fiscal 1984 will be close to $900 billion.

The government now consumes about one-quarter of the Gross National Product (which itself includes government spending). With state and local taxation figured in, the government's share approaches 40 percent.

Many of us hoped and believed that under the Reagan Administration, federal social spending would decrease, but in fact it has increased. Housing aid is up 75 percent under Reagan, food stamps up 32 percent, Medicare up 63 percent, Social Security up 44 percent.

One type of social spending, direct payments to individuals, now consumes 42 percent of the budget, compared to only 29 percent for defense. Those who would balance the budget by cutting defense overlook the fact that defense spending as a portion of the budget has been cut in half in the last 20 years.

During the first three years of the Reagan Administration, state and local spending increased 27 percent, but federal spending ballooned an incredible 41 percent. Why is even Ronald Reagan, who complained about Big Government for nearly 30 years before his election, unable to do anything about the size for government?

Because the special interests that feed off the taxpayer have had years to build a well-oiled public relations machine, to install like-minded individuals in important positions in the news media, on Congressional staffs, and deep inside the bureaucracy. Attempts to restrain government are reported by the media as attacks on poor people, or minorities, or some other group of "victims."

Following the dictates of a privileged class of lobbyists, legislative aides, and journalists, our government has expanded its scope far beyond anything envisioned in the widest nightmares of the Founding Fathers. Under a succession of big-spending Congresses, our federal system has become that which Thomas Jefferson feared—"a government of wolves over sheep."

The reverend candidate on the road from Damascus

By LES KINSOLVING
WASHINGTON — We counted no less than 26 TV cameras — and nearly double that number of still photographers — all of whom were focusing on the Rev. Jesse Jackson, there in the White House Rose Garden.

Flanking this famed and flamboyant Baptist clergyman and Presidential candidate were the incumbent President of the United States and a young Naval officer named Robert Goodman.

Shortly before they came out of the Oval Office, a White House aide was obliged to usher from this "speakers' podium one of Jackson's fellow Baptist politicians, the Rev. and Hon. Walter Fauntroy, Congressional delegate from the District of Columbia.

Lt. Goodman, whose release and return from Syria occasioned an unanimous American Thanksgiving, proved to be a credit to the Naval service, as well as to his alma mater, the US Naval Academy. When the issue of black political power and Jesse's candidacy was thrust at him, he replied that he was a Naval officer and that it would be inappropriate for him to become involved in such matters. Repeatedly, with the world's attention on him, he tried to draw attention away from himself and onto his plane's pilot, Lt. Mark Lange, who was killed in action.

And when the adulation got particularly thick, Goodman kept emphasizing that he is not a hero — only a serviceman trying to do his job.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson did not try to focus any attention away from himself. Nor did he even so much as hint that he is not a hero. His Rose Garden speech was nearly twice the length of President Reagan's and Lt. Goodman's — combined.

"It is significant that we were in Damascus," he declared. "A man traveling along that road many years ago fell off of a horse and was knocked unconscious. When he awakened, he saw a new light..."

Media suspense heightened, as we wondered if he would really go so far as to compare himself to St. Paul. But the Rev. Jetstream is always full of surprises, such as his notation that while Paul was knocked from a horse, Lt. Goodman "was knocked from a plane" and was also "knocked unconscious."

We were beginning to wonder just where all this would lead, when Jackson declared: "The Syrians had a right to kill him." (Lt. Goodman)

At the daily White House news briefing one hour later, I asked Presidential Spokesman Larry Speakes: "Did the President agree with the Rev. Jesse Jackson's contention that the Syrians had the right to kill Lt. Goodman?"

THE WHITE HOUSE (after a long pause): I don't think the President expressed a viewpoint on it.

Speakes, who recently claimed to know ten thousand ways to evade any question, tried slipping away to another questioner, with another question, and might have succeeded but for ABC News's Sam Donaldson, who asked: "You say the President hasn't expressed any idea whether or not he thought the Syrians had the right to kill Goodman?"

"IT WAS AN ANTIQUE FOR SALE - UNTIL WE GOT OUR LAST UTILITY HEATING BILL!"

THE WHITE HOUSE: Well, I think probably, if you question the Reverend Jackson on it — I wouldn't pretend to be his spokesman — I think that they had the ability, not the right.

ABC NEWS: Was it a slip of Jackson's tongue?

THE WHITE HOUSE: I can't tell you.

On the previous day, when news of Lt. Goodman's release had first reached Washington, Speakes kept telling the media that Jackson's action and that of the Syrian Government were both entirely for humanitarian purposes. That met with considerable skepticism on the part of the press, as did his efforts to suggest that there is an entirely new day dawning in the area of US-Syrian relations:

Q: Haven't we pointed the finger at Syria and Iran as sponsoring, or at least abetting, the attack against the Marines? How can we not bear any hostility toward Syria?

THE WHITE HOUSE: He was indicating that we don't bear an ongoing hostility toward Syria — a warlike hostility. An effort to push a war against Syria. A territorial hostility. Those types of hostility.

ABC NEWS: As opposed to normal hostility? (Laughter)

Q: Is part of the furtherance of the peace process a forgiveness of Syria for — I mean you have made it pretty clear that Syria and Iran — is the President saying that he's forgiven the Syrians for their role in this? (Blowing up of Marines)

THE WHITE HOUSE: I don't think that's required.

Q: What happened to retribution?

Q: "Swift and effective retribution" (Reagan's statement of January of 1981) Larry?

ABC NEWS: He said that those who are identified with that act will be punished.

THE WHITE HOUSE: We bear no hostility toward them. We don't covet their territory. Those type things. We don't bear warlike activity toward them. We simply want peace in Lebanon. We're not out to bomb the Syrians. We're not out to use artillery on the Syrians — but we will —

Q: We'd just like them to turn over those murderers of our Marines, wouldn't we, Larry?

THE WHITE HOUSE: Cool it, Lester. Let's try to put a little more order into it, Lester.

Q: Did the Rev. Jesse Jackson express any gratitude at all for the hundreds of blacks that were liberated in Grenada?

THE WHITE HOUSE: That didn't enter into the conversation.

At the Pentagon's daily news briefing on the day after Jackson's homecoming, I asked the new spokesman for the Department of Defense, Michael Burch:

"Yesterday at the White House, in the presence of the President and Secretary Weinberger and in front of approximately 26 TV cameras, the Rev. Jesse Jackson made the statement, with direct reference to Lt. Goodman: 'The Syrians had the right to kill him.' Does the Department of Defense agree with that?"

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE: "I have not asked the entire Department, but my personal opinion — and I expressed it to members of my staff at the time — is that the Syrians do not have the right to kill Mr. Jackson — uh — to kill Mr. Goodman." (Laughter)

When this question was broadcast by loudspeaker throughout the Pentagon, Jackson, who was at that time waiting to see Weinberger, was asked about this by an aide. The Presidential candidate replied: "Did I say that?"

When assured that he had indeed, the Rev. Mr. Jackson replied:

"Well, I meant to say that the Syrian people had the capability to kill him."

Jackson's 35 minute meeting with Weinberger had been arranged the previous day during the welcoming ceremonies at the White House, when Jackson informed the Defense Secretary that he had some information that might be of interest to the Pentagon. The information, according to spokesman Burch, included:

"Jackson's observation that Assad is in control in Syria, which is not under the control of the Soviets, because Assad wants to deal with both sides. There were additional non-military details about what Mr. Jackson had been able to accomplish without any portfolio and about the religious makeup of the region."

During Jackson's meeting, he was accompanied by Tom Porter, his campaign manager, who traveled with him to Damascus. At the State Department, Spokesman Alan Romberg was asked whether the Department of State was aware of any expertise on humanitarian rescue missions or diplomacy as possessed by Mr. Porter. Romberg declined any comment except to refer the question to Jackson's campaign headquarters, which was impossible to reach since the line is continually busy.

At Washington's New Bethel Baptist Church, whose pastor is the Rev. Walter Fauntroy, congregants contributed $983 to help pay for the cost of Jackson's trip. At the church, no one was available for comment. But at Fauntroy's Congressional office, his legislative secretary, Walt Foster, when asked about church offerings to help transport political campaign managers, explained:

"This trip couldn't have been wholly humanitarian. As the Congressman said: This is in an area of international affairs and is a vindication of the diplomatic initiatives that the black leadership and the Congressional Black Caucus have adopted for years."

But even the liberal New York Times was disgusted and described the Jackson expedition as a "publicity stunt." And the equally liberal Washington Post, which called it "mischievous, even irresponsible," left its own political columnist, Miss Mary McGroarty, seething in the Rose Garden. To her fellow liberal, Saul Friedman of Knight-Ridder Newspapers, she lamented: "Did you see that editorial in the Post?"

"After the Fall of Chaco and Mimbres Society"

Classic Chacoan and Mimbres society was brilliant, vibrant — and brief. Beginning around A.D. 1100, after only 150 years of good times, decline set in. People moved out of the warm, scrubby basins to upland areas of mixed pinon-ponderosa forest where new farmsteads were built. In contrast, most sites of the earlier Classic Period are found in grasslands or pinon-juniper zones. As these were emptied, some groups resettled near long-abandoned villages in surrounding uplands, while others pioneered in forested districts, like the Upper Gila Drainage, or the Pajarito Plateau, north of Santa Fe.

About 4,000 sites of the "Upland Period" are known to archeologists. Many are food-gathering camps. Other are masonry pueblos of 10 to 14 rooms. Hundreds more are small villages of timber-roofed dugouts, or "pithouses"—a settlement pattern revived from two centuries earlier. These villages tended to be very modest. Two deep pithouses, surrounded by crude masonry storage rooms, often stacked, were common in northern New Mexico. A surprising number of these had been burned, and dismembered skeletons found in the ruins—evidence of widespread social disorder in the A.D. 1100's following Chaco and Mimbres decline. In the southern part of the state, four to six pithouses were more common, and the defensiveness rarely found. These pithouse settlements are found in cool, forested elevations averaging about 7,000 feet above sea level, though some have been found at 9,000 feet. In these locations, cold night-time temperatures retarded crop development. So the food economy was based on a mix of hunting, foraging, and small garden plots. Many of these sites are hidden away in isolated mountain coves, and few trade goods are found in them. Social isolation and difficult times are indicated. The re-introduction of these pithouse settlements throughout New

How Newsweek tried to smear a catholic editor

By REV. LES KINSOLVING

On the platform, behind microphones and large printed signs with their names and titles, were three bishops of the Roman Catholic Church.

These three prelates were especially selected to face some fifty reporters, columnists and editors at the noontime daily briefing of the annual Washington meeting of the US Conference of Catholic Bishops.

One of the photographers, however, was quite obviously paying no attention at all to the three bishops — and his obvious inattention itself soon attracted attention. For this cameraman, Ken Heinlen, whose equipment was prominently marked "NEWSWEEK," was zeroing in on a middle-aged layman who was seated next to me on the front row of the press section.

For no less than ten minutes I watched this Newsweek photographer focusing his lenses closeup and endlessly (but by no means noiselessly) clicking his shutters. He was doing this to Al Matt, editor and publisher of the strongly conservative Catholic weekly, The Wanderer, which is published in St. Paul, MN.

Since the TV lights were on, Matt was spared the experience of having his retinas ravished by a closeup flashbulb aurora borealis. And as this treatment went on and on, I leaned over and whispered: "What have you done to offend Ken Woodward?"

Matt guffawed at this, because The Wanderer apparently accomplishes the commendable goal of enraging Woodward almost every week.

Mr. Woodward is the powerful religion editor of powerful Newsweek magazine. Woodward is also a Catholic layman, although he is far to the left, as Matt is known in church journalism as "The Voice of the Council of Trent."

That Matt dares to put his convictions into print is apparently odious to Woodward. But what really drives Woodward up the wall is the apparent fact that a number of significant clergy in the Curia in Rome put far more credence in the comparatively tiny (circulation 37,000 — but now growing rapidly) Wanderer than they do in mighty Newsweek.

Having at one time or another reported for both these men, my experience is that in the realms of both sense of humor as well as journalistic integrity, Matt has it all over Woodward.

For example, I cannot ever recall The Wanderer (with whose editorials and columnists I am often in disagreement) producing such a blatant photographic smear job as appeared on page 115 of the November 28, 1983, issue of Newsweek.

The result of that ten minutes of shooting Matt is in the center of the page. It evoked a piquant query from Lorraine Comer of the Wanderer Forum:

"How many pictures did Newsweek have to take to get the absolutely worst possible portrait?" (About seventy five, I would imagine.)

Victim Matt was caught either as he was about to be overcome with a yawn or as he was wrestling with the temptation to tell this photographic tormenter to take a flying leap. Matt's head seems midway into a nod — with his eyes only two-thirds recovered from an apparently indiscreet blink. The expression suggests an already satiated Thomas Torquemada ordering some more barbecued heretic.

Newsweek flanked this dreadful picture with Minnesota Archbishop John Roach (in whose side Matt is a thorn) looking heavenward as a distinct contrast to Horrible Al. On the other side, there was Seattle's Raymond Hunthausen, smiling beneficently, as he stands next to a crucifix. (Hunthausen is the famed prelate who compared the US Navy submarine base in Puget Sound to Auschwitz; who allows funeral services to be electrified by clowns; and who has suggested that the United States' surrender to the Soviet Union would be preferable to any nuclear combat, because Christ was crucified.)

With this kind of art work at first glance, Woodward's familiar hatcheting came almost as an anticlimax. The Wanderer was — not described — as "sprightly," or "felicitous," or "doughty," or even "pro-Papal." No; it was described by Woodward as "A truculent Roman, Catholic tabloid."

It isn't a tabloid — which reveals the excellent attentiveness of Newsweek's chief religion writer when he is trying rather clumsily to aim for the jugular.

Moreover, according to Mr. Woodward, Mr. Matt's Malevolent Maledictories From Minnesota regularly devote themselves to "exposing liberal priests and assertive nuns as enemies of the one true faith" when in fact, such writing is little more than "mischievous reports."

Given the bizarre behavior of some priests and nuns, this Woodward terminology is almost

Skiers should check before taking off

Melting snow has created bare spots in some winter sports areas, and very muddy roads in other areas of the Lincoln National Forest. Forest visitors and woodcutters should call the Districts they plan to visit for current weather and road conditions before leaving home.

The District telephone numbers are: Smokey Bear at Ruidoso, 257-4098; Cloudcroft, 682-2551; Guadalupe at Carlsbad, 885-4181; and Mayhill, 687-3411. Skiers can check current conditions at Sierra Blanca Ski Area by calling 257-9001, and at Ski Cloudcroft at 682-2333.

On Smokey Bear District, Three Rivers Campground is open for winter camping. District personnel recommend that wood cutters go to cutting areas early in the mornings while the roads are frozen as afternoon thawing creates extremely muddy conditions.

News

By MARGARET BENCH

For the month of December, 1983, there were 732 registered visitors at the Smokey Bear Museum. From Jan. 15-22 there were 184 registered guests.

As a reminder, Smokey is being honored with a commemorative postage stamp this year. There are several petitions around and over our county that we wish our New Mexico citizens to take note of. Since Smokey Bear was found in the Capitan Mountains and is buried in the Smokey Bear New Mexico Historical State Park in Capitan, we think the first stamp should be issued there. If you see one of these petitions, your signature would be appreciated.

Blane Miller spent one week in the Ruidoso hospital with a slipped disc. He is at home now convalescing. Take it easy, Blane and get well and strong before working so hard for health sake. I do wish the best recovery.

Two weeks ago Charlie Morgan's dog was shot in the city limits of Capitan. It was a miracle that the little granddaughter who usually follows him was not present. Lets watch and be more considerate.

Mr. Morgan returned home just one week before Christmas after one month in the Albuquerque hospital seriously ill and surgery. Doing nicely at this time. I wish you the very best and complete recovery, Mr. Morgan.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Payne and children attended the funeral services of Rolley Ward in Carrizozo last Sunday. I do extend my sympathy to Dolly.

We did receive five inches of snow and for two days it was very icy and cold. Though the snow is nearly all gone it is very cold. The sunshine is great and we do appreciate it.

The city would like to remind Capitan citizens that Tuesday, Jan. 31 is the day to register as a candidate in the forthcoming municipal elections. There will be two council seats up for election and also the office of Municipal Judge. Check at the City Hall for more information.

The Capitan varsity girls traveled to Jal Saturday and lost their game. The junior high teams traveled to Cloudercroft Saturday morning, winning two games and lost one. The varsity boys participated in the Dexter Tournament over the weekend winning consolation. Eddie Davis made all tournament team.

Our Girl Scout troop 85 will be taking orders for Girl Scout cookies. Beginning Friday, Jan. 27. Please be looking for them. This community has been super for several years in helping the Scout program this way. They are very grateful to you. Watch for them.

The Roundtable Club met Thursday, Jan. 19, at the home of Bessie Jones. Bessie served a delicious turkey luncheon with trimmings furnished by other members. Following the luncheon, all of their twelve members took part in their business meeting. Their new president, Gladys Pew, president, and their new secretary, Amolene McIntosh recorded the minutes. Mary Dean was voted as their 1984 historian. Gifts were exchanged, Marie Edgar won the raffle. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mary Dean.

Stephen Strickland did undergo surgery at the Shriner's Hospital in Houston, TX Thursday, Jan. 19. He might be able to return home this week.

Brink Randle of Ft. Stanton won the beef being raffled by Robyn Peralta. The raffle was part of a fundraiser to earn the money for Robyn to attend the Youth Conference in Rome in April. Robyn, Ben Wolf and Juan Romero are still needing financial assistance for their trip. Donations can be made at Sacred Heart Church or to any of the youth or their parents.

Capitan has another new police officer. Welcome to Thomas H. Casler, age 39. Started to work Jan. 5. He came from Fort Arkansas, TX. His wife is Duchess Casler of Ruidoso. Their baby daughter was born Dec. 19, 1983, Arrika Bree Casler. Thomas has had seven and one half years of police work in Texas. We do want you to enjoy your work with us for a long time. Be happy. It is our pleasure to have you.

10:30 A.M., Jan. 14, the fire alarm sounded and the fire department responded to a fire in the Big Country subdivision. A 15 foot trailer belonging to Jack McGarry was a total loss. The State Fire Marshall was called in to investigate. By the time the fire department arrived on the scene the trailer was engulfed.

Weather delays

Eagle gym at Hondo

Weather has slowed down the construction of the new Hondo Eagle Gym and the Eagles continue to play all of their games on the road.

Hondo lost to a Tularosa 9th grade team in a game played Jan. 19, 58-50. Benjie Romero helped Hondo with 21 points. Paul Gomez burned the cords for 14 points.

The Eagles traveled to Lake Arthur Jan. 21 and dominated action all the way. It was Jamie Sanchez 21, Tito Salcido 17, Gerry Maez 12. Final score - Hondo 62, Lake Arthur 40.

The Eagle "B" squad also captured its game winning 46-29. Scoring for the Eagles - Paul Gomez 9, Benjie Romero, Kerry Clements, and John Tally 8 each, Tony Chavez 7.

Tiger tracks

The Capitan Tigers were entered in the Dexter Tournament Super Bowl Weekend. The Tigers played the winner of the tournament, the Hatch Bears, on even terms the last three quarters but could not overcome a seven point 1st quarter deficit. The final score of this Thursday game was Hatch 61, Capitan 53.

Eddie Davis helped the Tiger cause with 17 points. Todd Proctor fired off 16 points. It was nine points for Danny Cummins.

The Tigers clawed their way back on Friday defeating the Portales Junior Varsity 62-40. Eddie Davis was again high point man for the Tigers with 18 points. Credit Dewey Keller with 15, Sammy Castillo 10, and Danny Cummins 10.

The Tigers played the Weed Bulldogs on Saturday winning this consolation game 62-50. Scoring in double figures for the Tigers were Eddie Davis 19, Dewey Keller 14, Sammy Castillo 13, Chan Peters scored 16 points for Weed.

The Hatch Bears won 1st place followed by the Jal Panthers 2nd, NMMI 3rd, Capitan consolation.

Dewey Keller won the free throw shooting competition and Eddie Davis was placed on the All Tournament Team.

The Tigerettes played Dexter Jan. 19 at home bowing to the Lady Demons 54-51. Shelly Eldridge and Tracy Herd scored 18 and 16 points respectively for the Tigerettes.

The Tigerettes traveled to Jal on the 21st coming out on the short end of a 47-44 score. Tracy Herd and Becky Phillips both contributed 10 points for the Capitan cause.

The Tigerettes have played a tough schedule this season and are now entering district competition. One Tiger coach stated that the girls need to keep up their intensity and concentration. It appears that the teams to beat are Cloudercroft and Weed.

In other games it was the Dexter "B" 35, Tigerette "B" 23.

Still another game found the Tigerette "B" squad losing to Jal "B" 40-33.

The Tiger and Tigerettes are home this weekend for Friday and Saturday games beginning at 2 p.m. Cloudercroft will provide the competition on Friday and the Hagerman Bobcats on Saturday.

Weldon announces

James J. Weldon recently announced he will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination as district attorney for the 12th Judicial District.

In the 11-day write-in campaign Weldon conducted in a previous race, he claimed he received the majority of the votes but that because of minor imperfections in the spelling of his name, many votes were not given to him.

This time, Weldon said, his name will be on the ballot and not subject to judicial interpretation. In the previous campaign, he gave three reasons for running:

the misuse of the office for political purposes, conflict of interest and lack of experience of the current district attorney.

He will add others as the campaign proceeds, he said. "I will in each case supply the voters with facts, not opinions, documentary evidence, not hearsay statements. I will not do or say anything I can't back up."

Weldon said it is his firm conviction that for the proper administration of justice, the citizens are entitled to a professional, experienced, honest and impartial district attorney.

"Favoritism should play no part in prosecutorial decisions nor should political differences be settled by false accusations," he said. "It is, and will continue to be my policy, that no one fear retribution merely because we differ philosophically or politically."

His legal qualifications include many years experience in law, including eight years as public defender-trying more criminal trials in this district than anyone and familiarity with the rules of criminal procedure, he said. Weldon has always been a member of the Democratic Party.

With his background and experience, he thinks he is fully competent to perform the duties

NATURAL MUNCH

For a natural munch, team up equal amounts of sunflower seeds, peanuts and raisins. Blend in dry roasted and cocktail nuts and both light and dark raisins.

BAKED POTATOES

You can have baked potatoes in as little as half the time if you put them on an oven rack and place an iron pot over them.

Store foods of the same type (such as cheeses) together in the refrigerator. Make a special corner for leftovers. That way, you'll be sure to use them before they spoil.

NORMAN D. BLOOM, JR.

Norman D. Bloom Jr., prominent Alamogordo attorney who is an announced candidate for the Democratic nomination for 12th District judge, said today that Lincoln county activities will play a major role in his campaign.

Bloom, who announced last week in Alamogordo that he would seek the Division 1 post currently held by longtime jurist George Zimmerman, was the first district attorney for District 12 when it was created in 1971 having been appointed to the position by then-Gov. Bruce King. A year later, he was elected to the position.

"I learned a great deal about the legal needs of Lincoln county during my service as district attorney, and feel that my experience can be put to good use for the citizens of the county if I am elected district judge," Bloom said. "I invite the support of all Lincoln county voters."

Bloom will be seeking the Democratic nomination for the judicial seat in the June 5 primary. Thus far, he is the only announced candidate for the place. Judge Zimmerman has said that he will not be a candidate for re-election to another term.

A graduate of the University of Colorado and of the University of New Mexico School of Law, Bloom, 55, has been in practice in Alamogordo since 1966, with the exception of the 1971-75 period of service as district attorney. He is a partner in the firm of Fettinger & Bloom with State Rep. George Fettinger.

He is presently serving the Otero County Bar Association as its president, a position he is holding for the second time.

Bloom is married, and his wife, Betty, also is active in community affairs. They have 10 children, only one of whom is still at home, and as active foster parents for the New Mexico Human Services Department the Blooms have cared for 23 children in their home for periods ranging from one month up to three years.

Bloom said he will make an active campaign throughout Lincoln County, meeting as many of the voters on an individual basis as possible before the primary. He is also open to making public appearances and will welcome an opportunity to meet with as many groups as he can fit into his campaign schedule.

Disaster assistance for County farmers available until April 20

Applications for disaster assistance from farmers in Lincoln County are being processed as fast as they are received in an effort to speed checks to eligible farmers, Arthur D. Baca, County Supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), said today.

Farm operators in Lincoln County who suffered losses because of drought earlier this year became eligible for FmHA emergency loans on October 20, 1983, and have six months, or until April 20, 1984, to apply for loans.

We have urged farm operators to submit their applications early, even if they cannot yet certify actual losses. That will allow us to complete many of the preliminaries now. Once the preliminary application is submitted, the farmer can wait until losses are determined before providing the final information needed to support earlier estimates.

The Farmers Home Administration office for Lincoln County is located at 1007 Mechem Drive, Ruidoso, 258-5294. The office is open Monday through Friday, 9:00 A.M. to 3:30 P.M.

TRU-TEST PAINTS

HERE.

By Uncle Bob

Dear Uncle Bob:

I like to retain my leftover paint for touch-up purposes but I've had very little luck keeping it. So much is lost by evaporation and skinning over. Do you have any suggestions?

Signed, Prudent Painter

Dear Prudent:

With a mallet or hammer pound the paint can cover firmly in place first covering the can with a paint rag to catch the paint that spurts out as you pound around the rim. Then turn the can upside down to coat the closure with paint. This completely seals the can from the inside. With this method your paint will keep indefinitely without skinning over.

I telephoned Mr. Woodward, whom I reached in his New York office, to ask for his reaction — which was brief and trenchant:

Q: Whenever possible, when I write critically about anyone, I try to contact them — not only because this seems fair but because sometimes they can help me avoid any factual errors. Can you cite any errors in the following rough draft of this column? (which I proceeded to read to him.)

NEWSWEEK: Where did you hear that Hunthausen allows clowns at funerals.

Q: Time magazine reported that from Seattle.

NEWSWEEK: Oh.

Q: Any other questions or comments.

NEWSWEEK: It would take more time than I've got to give you to explain just where I stand. You go ahead and write what you want.

While it was certainly relieving to be reassured of my First Amendment rights by a person of such stature as Mr. Woodward, I subsequently learned from Mr. Matt that Newsweek's religion editor had revealed to him — and three other witnesses at the Catholic bishops' meeting — a clear revelation of the Woodward stance, position, pinnacle, or whatever. For Matt distinctly recalls Woodward telling him and three others:

"Christ was a great preacher but a lousy theologian."

Mr. Matt did not recall Woodward's having explained just what training he had had which qualified him to evaluate

"I have taken part in numerous judicial conclaves and training sessions conducted by the Administrative Office of the Courts for the State of New Mexico and the Southwest Judicial Conference which consists of the judiciary of New Mexico, Colorado, Arizona and Utah. I served on the planning and training committee of the Administrative Office of the Courts for the 1983 Judicial Conclave in New Mexico.

"In addition to my function of resolving conflicts and disputes among litigants and other courtroom functions, I have been instrumental in revising the Local Rules of Procedure for the Twelfth Judicial District, in the legislative process in the attempts of the bench and bar of the Twelfth Judicial District to obtain a Division III Judgeship to sit and reside in Lincoln County, and in the efforts of the bench and bar to computerize the Otero County Law Library and to provide such a library in Lincoln County.

"Many of my colleagues, associates and friends have asked why I do not run for the Division I judgeship, thinking that the Division I Judge is the Presiding District Judge. Pursuant to the Local Rules of Procedure for the District, the District Judge with the most tenure as a sitting District Judge becomes the Presiding District Judge. Consequently, if re-elected as the Division II District Judge, I will become the Presiding District Judge. The Presiding District Judge is responsible for the administrative duties of the Court and is a member of the Supreme Court Presiding District Judges Council.

"I am married to Tommie Jane Doughty. We have two sons, Rob, age 11, and Matt, age 8. We are members of Grace United Methodist Church in Alamogordo. I am a member and past president of the Rotary Club of Alamogordo (White Sands) and a Paul Harris Fellow, a member of the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International, a member and past president of the Otero County Bar Association, and a member of the Democratic Party. I was selected for the Outstanding Young Men of America in 1982.

"I pledge to continue a fair, impartial and efficient administration of justice."

Jesus Christ.

The results of Mr. Woodward's effort at evisceration (as well as a similar but less angry blast from Time) include an increase of more than two dozen subscriptions for The Wanderer, along with a delightful rejoinder from its Washington correspondent, Paul Fisher:

the upper Rio Grande, in the Taos district, and in the Zuni area.

In most areas, pithouse construction was followed by the resurgence of moderately sized above-ground masonry pueblos. In the Sierra Blanca region, these villages are known as the early "Lincoln" phase. In Catron County, they are attributed to the "Tularosa" phase. Those in the Santa Fe area belong to the "Coalition" period. Following the redevelopment of surface architecture in the highlands, people again drew together and village size gradually increased. This increase was most notable between A.D. 1260 and 1280, near the end of the "Upland Period".

Textbooks refer to these large, late period towns as "Pueblo III" or "Great Pueblo". Many are famous and quite impressive. Gila Cliff Dwelling, Tzuonyi at Bandelier, Cliff House at Mesa Verde, and Atsinliwa at El Moro are all well-known. But the cliff-houses, though dramatic, are comparatively rare and not truly typical of the "Upland Period". The largest of the far more common pueblo style villages might contain 200 to 400 ground-floor rooms, but their heyday spans a surprisingly brief period between roughly A.D. 1220 and 1280. Many were constructed in the A.D. 1250's, only to be abandoned a mere decade or two later. Those that endured beyond the 1280's—among them Quarai, Tabira, and Casa Colorado between Mountainair, and Ciaunch—were generally on the moist east of major resolving conflicts and disputes of the office.

"I intend to operate the office of the district attorney for the benefit of the public and not to further my own or any other person's political ambitions," he explained.

Weldon has been living in Alamogordo since 1969, when he opened his law practice. In 1974 he became the first district public defender. All of his children attended and finished their schooling in Alamogordo public schools.

He is a member of the Alamogordo Rotary Club and the Elks. Weldon was elected president of the Otero County Bar Association for 1983.

He and his campaign staff will open his campaign headquarters soon, and he invites anyone to stop by and discuss the issues personally.

"The Associated Press, on Sept. 22, 1933, reported that The Wanderer was barred from Germany by the Nazi government. Also, on July 29, 1945, United Press reported from Moscow that Pravda demanded that this newspaper be suppressed."

mountain masses.

Why did population shift to the highlands after Classic Period? The early A.D. 1100's brought drought conditions, and the decline of harvest surpluses, to the late Chacoan and Mimbres village. This led, in turn, to malnutrition and unsettled conditions. Because it was increasingly necessary to forage for wild foodstuffs, and because rainfall is greater in the mountains, entire local populations took refuge there. The early to mid A.D. 1200's were more stable, climatically, and large, well-known villages flourished at Mesa Verde and Bandelier. But the good times were brief.

The "Great Drought" of A.D. 1276-1299 was felt all the way from Colorado to central Mexico's Aztec empire. Agriculture was severely disrupted and the forested districts once again abandoned. At the famous "Site 616" or Mariana Mesa, north of Quemado, villagers simply walked away, leaving all their possessions in place. Throughout the cool highlands, cliff-houses fell silent, and cooking fires never again wafted their pungent haze into the steel-blue evening sky.

Measuring Instructions:

If installing inside window frame, measure width and length. If installing outside window frame, add desired overlap, such as molding width, to inside width. If there is no molding, recommended overlap is 1 1/4" per side.

For example, if you are installing inside a window frame that measures 23 1/2" wide, and 56" long, select the package marked 23" to 23 1/2" wide x 64" long. Blind lengths can be shortened at home.

Beginning December 26, 1983 and running through February 28, 1984, Levolor is offering a manufacturer's mail-in rebate on Ready Made Blinds. Save $3⁰⁰ per blind, a maximum of two rebates per household. You must enclose a store receipt showing date of purchase, store name, and the first page of installation instructions. Claims must be postmarked by March 31, 1984. Claims received after that date or without sufficient proof of purchase will be voided. Refund checks will take approximately eight weeks from receipt of claim. They will be handled on a first come first serve basis.
