

Don't drive without insurance--

Council sets airport work; golf starts May 1

Don't drive in Carrizozo unless you have insurance! Chief of Police C. A. Morales has asked that we inform Carrizozo residents of Ordinance 84-2 which the town council passed at Monday's meeting. It requires all owners and operators of a motor vehicle to carry evidence of financial responsibility, usually an insurance policy. The mandatory financial responsibility act of the state of New Mexico went into effect Jan. 1. Ordinance 84-2 goes into effect five working days after Feb. 13. Chief Morales wants town citizens to know that if they do not have proof of insurance or financial responsibility they will be fined $100 or imprisoned 30 days or both. Trustees present for the meeting were: Bob Hemphill, James R. Payne, David LaFave, Mayor Harold Garcia and city clerk Carol Schlarb. Architect

Joe Shain attended for opening of bids for renovation of the airport. Connie H. Danley Construction Company, Inc., Alamogordo, was the only bidder for crushed aggregate base course. Bid was accepted. Three bids were received for electrical cable relocation, and the engineers estimate was $4845. Alamo Electric was low bidder with $4305 but the bid envelope did not have a bid bond in with it. A bid bond of 5 percent was required of all bidders to insure the town that the bidder would sign a contract once their bid was accepted.

Ruidoso Aspen Electric was next low bid with $5800 and the bid envelope did not have a bid bond in it but a representative posted the bond in cash after bids were opened. Sun Valley Service, Tularosa bid $8070. No attorney was present and the town does not have a city attorney. Council will contact the Municipal League for advice. The town may reject all bids and call for re-bids. They will get legal advice before making a decision. The election for trustees for town council has 2 candidates and 3 seats needing to be filled Mar. 6. Polling place will be Carrizozo Municipal School conference room. Precinct board members appointed: for judge, Joan Means, for clerks, Juanita Vallejos, Margaret Martinez Chavez, Earlene Tubbs, and Mrs. Salvador M. Ortiz.

Robert Edward Hemphill is candidate for a two year term. Eddie O'Brien is candidate for one of the two seats for a four year term. Project director Jim Cooper reported on CDBG. A public meeting will be held Tues., Feb. 21 at Santa Rita Parish Hall at 7:30. Cooper said 15 applications were turned in Monday and he hopes to start the housing rehabilitation April 1.

Bob Hemphill gave the report from the airport committee. The house at the airport needs to be on a city sewer instead of a septic tank. The house also needs insulation on ceiling, and possibly for the wall to save electricity. A personal interview was held with one applicant for the airport manager position and another will fly in as soon as weather permits. One lessee is starting work on a butler type hangar building and another lessee is interested in putting up three T-type hangars.

Tentative date for opening the golf course is May 1. Work has started on the golf course to shape it up now instead of waiting until opening day. Greens have been watered and pruning and general maintenance begun. The pro shop needs work and bathrooms should be in working order. Carrizozo will be looking for a new landfill area. Water table was too high on the 40 acres south of town. Work hours at the dump will be changed to have an attendant on duty for dumping by the public. It was suggested that a charge of $2.50 per pickup load be charged for dumping. Council members welcome input from the public.

Dale Goad, president of the committee, said, "The airport will be a positive thing for the town and I believe it will have a positive economic impact." Bids were opened at the town council meeting for airport work. The only bidder for the crushed aggregate base course was Connie H. Danley Construction Company, Inc. It was accepted. Three bids were received for electrical cable relocation. None contained the required bid bond, though one bidder was present and gave his bid bond in cash after the bids were opened. There was no attorney present and Carrizozo has no city attorney to give advice. City clerk Carol Schlarb contacted the Municipal League in Santa Fe, and is sending them the material they requested in order to help make a decision. The town may reject all bids and ask for re-bids. Ground work has been started on one hangar and three lessees are negotiating for hangar space.

Both men and women are invited, said FRWLC president Dorothy Smith of Capitan. "We have membership categories for both, as well as memberships tailored for the individual woman's availability. We will also have voter registration in anticipation of the June primaries."

"This is a super opportunity for the people of Lincoln County," said Yvonne Lanelli, FRWLC publicity chairman. "You can meet Skeen and Domenici, join our group, support the band, register to vote—or all of the above!" Airport to close for extensive renovation

Architect Joe Shain and Wyatt Sparks, Ruidoso Land Survey Company, were at Monday's airport committee meeting to explain renovation of the airport.

Shain said, "The county plans to do the grading soon. Hot mix can be poured after the grading is completed and the air and ground temperature reaches 70 degrees."

The airport will be closed a week for overlay and about three days for electrical work. They will call the FAA in Albuquerque and tell them when it will be closed. During times the airport is closed, tires that have been painted yellow will be placed in the shape of an X near the end of the runway.

The committee had a personal interview with the first applicant for airport manager. Others will be held in the next two weeks and the committee hopes to hire a manager soon.

It's that time of the year tax time. The following item, "Taxes, taxes and more taxes" appeared in a 1987 publication

Tax the farmer, tax his dad.
Tax what e'er he ever had
If he's broke it's just too bad.
Go ahead and tax the man
Tax his dog and hired hand.
Tax his cow, tax his milk
Tax his bed, tax his quilt.
Tax his pig, tax his pen
Tax his corn, tax his wheat.
Tax his wagon, tax his squeak
Tax his wife, tax his boy.
Tax whatever gives him joy
Tax his baby, tax his crib.
Tax his all, who gives a fib?
Get his lambs and tax his goats
Tax his horse and their oats

Tax his fiddle, tax his bow.
Tax what he intends to sow.
Remember the forgotten man,
In your so-called taxing plan.
He has income, so they say,
Most of which he ought to pay.
Tax the man that's on the dole,
Get him in a deeper hole.
Tax the manufacturer, too,
He's more than getting through.
Tax the man who works for him.
"Fore his paycheck gets to him."
Tax his building, tax his chattels,
Tax his Ford and all its rattles.
Tax his stock, tax his cash,
Tax him double if he's rash.
Tax his light, tax his power,
Tax his payroll by the hour.
If he's making more than rent,

Add another five percent.
Tax what'er he has to sell,
If he hollers, tax his yell.

Jazzworkout

By: Lucille Montano

A combination of aerobic (with oxygen), anaerobic (without oxygen), and selective toning and strengthening exercises that will tone and strengthen muscles, promote flexibility, create power and athletic skill, and improve stamina and endurance. The combination of aerobic exercises, selective exercise and proper diet is the most effective way to reduce body fat and promote physical fitness.

Today's Workout: UPPER THIGH AND HIP FITNESS

Primary Muscles Used: Gluteus medius, quadriceps.

Type of Exercise: Selective toning and strengthening. Exercise regardless of type, reduces fat from all over the body and not merely from specific areas

Purpose: To firm and tone hips and thighs, also helps to thin waist line. Will it help "cellulite"? Medically there is no such word, however "cellulite" has become a common term in the dieters and exercisers vocabulary. Cellulite is the name given to supposedly a unique type of fat but cellulite is not a special type of fat - it is just plain subcutaneous fat. This is the fat just below the skin. It may look different because of the puckering or dimpling of fat that occurs in the buttocks and thighs of overfat and usually middle-aged women

According to the American Medical Association (AMA) and the Medical Society of the County of New York, "books on cellulite exploit women through a gimmick. The truth is that fat is fat, and wherever it is located in the body, it maintains its common characteristics."

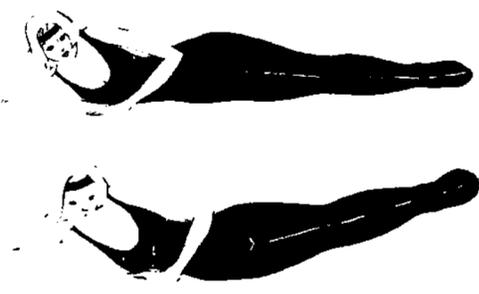

The way to lose "cellulite" is the same way you lose fat all over the body, by proper dieting. Also by doing selective toning exercises for the upper thighs and buttock such as this exercise which helps to reduce intramuscular fat.

Breathing: Exhale as you lift legs and inhale as you lower them.

DOUBLE LEG RAISES
Begin by laying on the right side with the right arm extended on the floor, place head on hand resting on elbow. For balance, the left elbow should touch the body with hand placed on the floor. With feet touching, and the legs straight, raise them sideways as high as possible. Hold to a four (4) count, slowly lower, and repeat. Begin with 20 repetitions and increase to 2 sets of 20 repetitions. Reverse side and repeat movement laying on left side of the body.

Result: Great looking, great feeling legs!

Next Week: Upper arm fitness

OPINION...

JOHN E. McDonald, sometime attorney, was in a great hurry to get to Superior Court last Tuesday where he had been summoned as a witness. Seated in the witness chair and oozing urbanity, he was unaware that he was a source of embarrassment to opposing counsel, Judge Joseph P. Murphy Jr., and members of the jury. Finally, the lawyers approached the bench and whispered to the judge. Judge Murphy turned to McDonald and asked for papers he was holding. Judge Murphy returned the papers shortly with a note included which read: "Your zipper is open, gracefully close it." A red-faced McDonald was unable to comply because the microphone around his neck was so sensitive that the least tug on his zipper resounded through the courtroom like a high-speed chainsaw. Mercifully, Judge Murphy recessed the jury while the usually unflappable McDonald adjusted himself. He now answers to the name of "Flash."

CONGRATULATIONS. As a taxpayer you have just made a contribution to the campaign of the Rev. Jesse Jackson for the presidency. The US Department of Defense spent $113,746 to transport candidate Jackson and his entourage of 92 on the Jan. 3 return from Syria with Navy Lt. Robert Goodman. Two planes were put at Jackson's disposal, and he will not be required to pay for the cost of the trip which also included Secret Service agents and 18 reporters (who also made the trip at your expense). It was a small price to pay for the release of Lt. Goodman, but Jackson doesn't deserve all the credit. The release could not have been effected without your generous support. J. A. Parker, editor of the Lincoln Review and a leader of black conservatives, says Jackson's action was sheer "opportunism" and that if Lt. Goodman hadn't been black, "Jackson would have ignored him." (There will be a slight pause here to allow readers to look up the definition of "racism.")

IF YOU have wondered why so many blacks identify with the Democrat Party, Parker's view on that matter may interest you: "It goes back to the Great Depression when so many people were unemployed that they voted for whoever would supply relief. Afterwards, the Democrat Party decided that the way to keep those voters was by over-promising benefits and helping to create an economic dependency. It's very hard to resist an opportunity to get something for nothing." Amen, brother.

THE black's love affair with the Democrat Party raises a question of values, if not of gratitude. It was a Republican Administration under Abraham Lincoln that is credited with abolishing slavery in the US. One would think, wouldn't one, that black loyalty would lie with the political party that gave them freedom and citizenship. No. Instead, they are aligned with the opposing party that promises (and delivers) more generous welfare and other handouts through expanding social programs. Or as Mr. Parker advises, "something for nothing." Summation: "Never bite the hand that feeds you, just the hand that freed you."

THIS being George Orwell's year, he deserves being quoted, as: "War is an evil and is often the lesser evil. Those who take the sword perish by the sword, and those who don't take the sword perish by smelly diseases." There being no current war to perish by, the Me Generation is racing around the bathhouses of San Francisco and other cultural centers in pursuit of AIDS, a smelly disease. While this is going on, these and other young perishables have been polled and their great fear is that a Republican Administration is more likely to get us into war than a Democrat Administration, and they fear their bodies will be sacrificed on the altar of capitalism rather than to a smelly disease in a hospital ward. This recent poll indicates they support the Democrats because they point the way to peace and salvation. It's time for a history lesson. It was a Democrat Administration that got us into World War I after President Woodrow Wilson boasted that he had kept us out of war. It was a Democrat Administration that got us into World War II after President Franklin Roosevelt promised no American boys would fight on foreign soil. It was a Democrat Administration that got us into the Korean War. It was a Democrat Administration that got us into the Vietnam War. If history means anything, if logic hasn't been repealed and if statistics don't lie, our best chance of getting into war is under a Democrat Administration. True, it was a Republican Administration that got us into the War Between the States, but that war has become so just and noble that Democrats are claiming credit for that one, too. Even the peace-at-any-prices regard the US Constitution as the law of the land. This constitution mandates that only Congress can declare war, not the president—and we do have a Democrat controlled Congress. Feel safer now?

WATCH OVER WASHINGTON

Inside Hodding Carter's "Inside Story" on the press and Grenada

By Lester Kinsolving
 WASHINGTON—Senator Robert Dole, the Kansas Republican who has one of the Nation's most devastating political wits, faced some one thousand members of the media elite at the annual black-tie banquet of the Washington Press Club on Jan. 24.

"President Reagan has informed me that in the event of another incursion like Grenada, the press will definitely go along," declared Dole, to loud applause. "No soldiers — just reporters!" (Groans and light applause) (And for some reason or other, this was not reported in the extensive coverage of this banquet by The Washington Post.)

Four nights earlier, the federally funded Public Broadcasting Network had telecast a 30-minute program on this issue, which continues to rage in our nation's capital. Host of this show, entitled "Inside Story," is Hodding Carter, former State Department press officer during the Carter Administration.

On his program, Carter emphasized that there was no reason to exclude reporters from the landings, because the Cuban government had been notified "about five hours before the (U.S.) operation, or at least two" hours before the landings began.

According to Carter's aide, Jane Stoddard (since Carter was unavailable for comment), the filming of this statement took place in December. On November 29, in answer to a November 10 letter from Sen. Malcolm Wallop (R., Wyo.), Secretary of State George Shultz wrote:

"Press reports claiming that the Department of State notified Cuba several hours in advance of the introduction of U.S. troops into Grenada...are totally false. The State Department instructed our Interest Section in Cuba by an open telephone call at 8:00 A.M. to advise the Cuban government of the operation, approximately three hours after the operation had commenced and our troops were on the ground." (But the State Department, according to Deputy Spokesman Alan Romberg, has not asked Public Broadcasting to correct Carter's erroneous statement, which was nationally telecast.)

Hodding Carter's program also emphasized that there were a number of press people who were denied access to Grenada by the U.S. military. And there were shots of either angry or disconsolate reporters. What Carter did not mention was noted by Defense Department Spokesman Michael Burch:

"There were 900 people who showed up in Barbados who claimed to be journalists. When we investigated, we found that some 400 of them were, actually. The other 500 were thrillseekers, very free lancers, college students and girl friends." Carter's program also quoted one journalist, from Newsday, who claimed that the Defense Department "lied consistently." The program cited such things as conflicting estimates of the number of Cubans on Grenada and the U.S. bombing of a mental hospital. But Defense Department Spokesman Burch noted that the Department's second estimate of the number of Cubans was made on the basis of captured documents — and was subsequently revised back to 600, just as soon as more accurate information came in. That it is inordinately difficult to conduct an island-wide census of Cubans during combat apparently did not impress itself on most of the media. And neither did the following facts which went unmentioned in Carter's filming: The mental hospital was unmarked with any Red Cross or other signs of a medical facility — except for a flag of Grenadan forces. Somebody apparently issued weapons to the able-bodied patients in this mental hospital, who began firing on American troops. The U.S. troop commanders, having no knowledge that this was a hospital, called in an air

Good guys wear white

EDITOR—With all the class B movies that President Reagan made in his long Hollywood career, better than any of us, the President should be able to tell the good guys from the bad guys. So what does he do? In the middle of January, he hosts Red China's Prime Minister Zhao Ziyang.

The President is supposed to know that the Chinese communists from the mainland wear the black hats. If it is the Chinese from Taiwan, the Republic of China, sometimes called Free China, they are the good guys who wear the white hats.

Red China makes no secret that it expects to take over Taiwan. The communist Prime Minister was quoted as saying, "the Taiwan question is the main obstacle in the growth of Sino-US relations."

Apparently some of those "obstacles" were removed. Two weeks later, Jan. 29, a front page news story tells us, "the United States has now proposed still more lenient treatment for China." (That's Red China, not Taiwan.)

This New York Times article explained, "the North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries are trying to update the list of militarily useful technology whose export to the Soviet Union, its East European allies or China is banned."

Important aid from the US has already made the Soviets perhaps the most powerful military force in the world. That's the main reason why we spend so much on defense.

Having built the Soviets into a military super-power, it now seems that the United States, that is to say, the Reagan administration, wants to build up the military strength of communist China.

In those old class B westerns, the guys who sold the guns to the Indians always wore the black hats; nowadays the guys who sell guns to the communists hold high paying jobs, and they wear expensive, three piece, Brooks Brothers suits."

Enforce Monroe Doctrine

EDITOR—The growing Communist influence in all of Latin America, especially in Mexico, should be of concern to all Americans.

Mexico's economy is now in shambles. There is persistent unrest and turmoil among its people. Inflation is rife; government controls over industry and individual citizens alike are destructive, demoralizing, and constantly increasing. Castro's influence is well established. If ever there was a country ripe for a fall into Communist hands, Mexico is that country today.

The United States shares a 1,952 mile border with Mexico, and the number of Mexicans who have crossed illegally is staggering. Mexicans want desperately to get out of their crumbling country, and their easiest avenue of escape and destination of choice is across the border into Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

If Mexico were to turn Communist today, the flow of illegal aliens would become a flood and would impose enormous problems to the US. This is only one of the massive social and political consequences that would follow a Communist takeover on our doorstep. It must not be allowed to happen, and it need not happen. Our President and the Congress have the power to ensure that it does not — if they will use it. To get them to do it, and to commit the necessary force, will take the concerted action of all voters in pushing for the steps essential to putting an end to aggression and tyranny within our hemisphere.

Those essential steps are the assertion and enforcement of the Monroe Doctrine and actions to prevent any further flow of Communist material into Cuba and through Cuba to all parts of Central America. Please write to President Reagan, your Senators and Representative asking that the Monroe Doctrine be enforced.

INSIDE RELIGION

Two peace-promoting prelates—and Admiral LaRocque

By REV. LESKINSOLVING
 Any of the nation's Greek Orthodox or Episcopalian who may have thought President Ford's WIN button campaign ("Whip Inflation Now!") was ludicrous should see what their denomination's top prelates have gotten themselves involved in for TV.

The Armstrong Information Service of Manhattan has produced a series of 30-second TV spots for television all over the nation — with the theme: "Think, Talk, Work, PEACE!"

This commercial opens with music and the one word, "Think" — immediately followed by Episcopal Presiding Bishop John Allin saying:

"What is peace?...Peace is security...even more...it is common security."

Fade to the one word "Talk" — followed by a stock shot of the happy family, with mother (accompanied by handsome husband and adorable kiddies) informing the audience:

"Peace is about the management of conflict, whether it be family, community or country." (She is not identified. Nor is there even a hint of how this will affect those peace-lovers in the Kremlin — other than stimulating great belly laughs.)

Then, the word "Work" — followed by Greek Orthodox Archbishop Iakovos. He tells the public:

"Peace is more than a good cause...Without it, there are no other causes."

(His Excellency does not have enough time to explain his views as to whether the Greeks were wasting their time at Marathon, or against Mussolini — or whether the British were wasting their time in fighting for the liberty of a few hundred residents of the Falkland Islands.)

Then, the conclusion: "Think, Talk, Work, PEACE." Mercifully, there is no Dallas cheerleader (with smile almost as gigantic as her cleavage) to screech: "Gimme a 'P'!...Gimme an 'E'!..."

Instead, there is in this series an even more provocative performer: Rear Admiral Eugene LaRocque, U.S. Navy Retired, Director of the (very cleverly titled) Center For Defense Information in Washington.

Any Episcopalian or Greek Orthodox who may be in the Navy, Marine Corps, or any branch of our armed services, may want to ask their local pastors why on earth their church offerings are being used to pay the salaries of these two prelates and their staffers who arranged for them to appear in the same series as Admiral LaRocque. For at the Pentagon, the U.S. Navy's Office of In-

Sheriff's office going computer

By P. E. CHAVEZ
The Lincoln County Sheriff's Office is in the process of going on the computer system. The county commission has approved and made funds available for the installation of a new system to be known as the Lincoln County Crime Information Center (LCCIC). Operations will begin sometime in March. The computer terminal will be located in the dispatch room.

The computerized system will improve the effectiveness of the department. This move will modernize the county law enforcement agency and make it comparable with top law enforcement agencies in the nation.

LCCIC data will include arrest and jail records, evidence and stolen property lists, department budget and vehicle expense. The intelligence file will contain information on all known criminals and their activity.

LCCIC will facilitate work in preparing the Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) that is sent to the FBI. This monthly statistical report is utilized by the FBI to record the national average on types of crime.

Part of the LCCIC process is the creation of a computerized 'outstanding warrant file'. In order for this program to succeed, it requires the cooperation of all the courts in Lincoln County. The Sheriff's Office has contacted the nine judges (3 magistrate, 4 municipal and 2 district) in the county to ask for their cooperation in the outstanding warrant file program.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Charles Cox said that the program will make the courts more effective. Law enforcement agencies would avoid the possibility of false arrest due to duplication of an arrest. Outstanding warrants will be removed from the computer immediately when the person named in the warrant is arrested.

Outstanding warrants will be entered in the computer immediately upon receipt. The file will include municipal warrants. Also included will be petty misdemeanor to felony crimes.

Each court will have a printout of all warrants issued at any time the judges want the information. This would be an aid to the courts in accounting for all outstanding warrants. In conjunction with this, the Sheriff's Office would request a disposition from the courts of all persons arrested, and this information will be filed in the computer for immediate recall whenever such information is requested.

LCCIC's outstanding warrant file will interface with the National Crime Information Center (NCIC) and the New Mexico Crime Information Center (NMCIC). All warrants will be entered into NMCIC and extraditable warrants will be entered into NCIC.

The Sheriff's Office has been with NCIC service since April, 1983. NMCIC operations in the Sheriff's Office will coincide with LCCIC in March.

NMCIC was established as a service to all law enforcement agencies in New Mexico. The objective is to allow all agencies access to the wants-warrants of each of the other agencies; improve the effectiveness of law enforcement through the more efficient handling and exchange of wants-warrants data; promote a cooperative environment between local law enforcement agencies and provide a system of accounting for each warrant.

"The custody of three men in three different states shows how effective a computerized system is," Cox pointed out.

As the result of NCIC, the three males wanted for charges in Lincoln County are being held by authorities in Atlantic City, NJ; Bellingham, WA and Wichita, KS.

Richard Keith Bumgardner is wanted for burglary. Robin Peter Brown faces 6 counts of embezzlement, and Brett A Campbell is wanted for burglary and larceny. Campbell waived extradition and was picked up in Wichita Feb. 15 by Deputy Sheriff Lerry Bond. Bumgardner and Brown refused to waive extradition and will each have a hearing in the state where they are held in custody.

Q: What is Enuresis? J. C. A: Enuresis is the medical term for bedwetting. The majority of children can be successfully potty trained by the age of 2 years. However, many of the remaining children are unable to achieve complete bladder control until much later. Sometime this is, due to urinary infections, congenital anomalies or nerve problems. Other times the problem is psychological and stems from conflicts within the family. Children with this problem need a developmental and birth history. A complete physical and an urinalysis. Q: What are all the questions for that the doctor asks about my child? R. T. A: The doctor is trying to determine if the child is developing normally in the four major areas. These include gross motor skills (crawling, walking, etc.); fine motor skills (dressing, writing); language and social skills. Early diagnosis of major delay in one of these areas is important because treatment is more successful if begun early. Referral to a specialist is often needed to completely diagnose the problem and to get therapy. The school system will often have these specialists on their staff or under contract to provide this services. Parents should contact their family doctor or a pediatrician if they have concern about the development of their children. Please send questions to Box 8, Carrizozo 88301. Dan Blodgett M.D.

strike. Those patients who were not killed were evacuated.
Did Hodding Carter ask about these things when he came to interview Secretary Weinberger for this program?
"No, he didn't," replied Burch, who was present during the interview, "and neither did Hodding's researcher."
At the Pentagon during a news briefing, Burch when asked about it confirmed the fact that the U.S. armed forces exclude all media photographers from (A) medical operations at hospitals, (B) courts martial and (C) executions.
When asked why, therefore, the media is allowed to take close-up shots of our troops when they are badly wounded or killed — and to besiege the homes of the survivors of those killed in action, Burch replied that the American people must be informed about the activities of the military — and that the survivors of civilian casualties are not shielded from the media by civil law.
When asked if he disagrees with Gen. Maxwell Taylor, one of America's best combat commanders and highest ranking officers, that the government should never again allow TV cameras on the battlefield, Burch noted that Civil War photographer Matthew Brady, as well as artists, had portrayed the horrors of war. But Burch went on to note "a need for propriety, something the media and the military have to discuss, and by and large the media have to police themselves."
On a Dallas TV panel, Burch suggested that the media have "made a game out of ferreting out US secrets — for which they show far less respect than the playbooks of the Redskins and Raiders."

Bernalillo County District Judge Thomas J. Mescall, formally announced today his intention to seek the Republican Party's nomination for the position of New Mexico State Supreme Court Justice, eight year term.
The New Mexico jurist has two children and resides in Albuquerque. He is a graduate of the University of Albuquerque, John Marshall Law School and the National Judicial College.
Prior to his election as district judge, Mescall served as Chief Assistant District Attorney and Assistant City Attorney before entering into private practice for six years. Mescall was elected to the Albuquerque Municipal Court and later to a 4-year term on the District Court where he serves as the State's sole Republican District Judge.
A veteran campaigner, he plans to wage a vigorous organized state-wide campaign. Mescall has appointed Mrs. Kay Shollenbarger as his campaign chairman and Jack J. Clifford as his treasurer. Mescall will appoint regional coordinators and establish a campaign committee in each of the state's 33 counties.
In announcing his candidacy, Mescall stated: "Seven years of judicial service has given me the experience and the desire to be a Justice on the New Mexico Supreme Court."

formation, when asked about this retired admiral, explained that they are unaware of any other Naval officer in American history who has been so widely and publicly denounced by his fellow flag officers than LaRocque.
Last summer no less than 440 of this fellow retired admirals took a full page ad in one of Washington's daily newspapers to announce the following:
"While we unequivocally defend his First Amendment rights to express his views, we question Admiral LaRocque's judgement in using a totalitarian state's controlled medium for the purpose."
"To an equal degree, we question the wisdom of the people, both in and out of the government, who rely on selected and biased institutions of quasi-military spokesmen to oppose initiatives to rebuild the nation's defense."
"As a recent daily publication pointed out, in part, those 'who consistently oppose almost every new U.S. weapons system — while just as consistently apologizing for every new Soviet weapons deployment, may be — and should be — losing their credibility because of that consistency.'"
"As a case in point, we agree with the Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee when he questions the bias of the Center For Defense Information (a private, non-government organization) in its implied assumption regarding a satellite system; that there is 'no threat to peace that the Soviets have a system deployed as they do, that it somehow would risk a war in space if the United States even tested such a system.' (Congressional Record, House, June 14, 1983, Page H-3907)"
"We deplore the attempt of certain officers, without access to the latest classified information, to advance, under the cover of their retired rank, their own biases for the reasoned conclusion of the professional active military officers, who are briefed daily on Soviet progress in weapons development and deployment.

"We particularly consider reprehensible the use of Soviet television by a retired flag officer, in this case Rear Admiral Eugene LaRocque, Director, the Center for Defense Information, to condemn the policies of the United States, his own country. (Washington Post, June 13, 1983; Time magazine, June 27, 1983)"
"We the undersigned believe we are only a sample of the overwhelming majority of lifetime professionals who, regardless of individual views on specific weapons systems, would never, under any circumstances, permit themselves to be used as 'front men' for Soviet propaganda."

At the national headquarters of both denominations in Manhattan, neither Presiding Bishop Allin nor Archbishop Iakovos was available for comment. And none of the headquarters staffers could say whether either of these prelates, or their radio-TV aides, were aware (or all concerned) about the monumental disrepute of their co-star, Admiral LaRocque.
