

$70,000 prize for best ski racers

The US Open ski race will be at Eagle Creek Ski Area March 3-4. With $70,000 in prize money, it is the richest purse of any ski race in the world.

Top professional ski racers from around the world will participate in the event, which is the third stop on the Pro Ski International Tour. The US Open Champion will walk away with between $15,000 and $20,000 from this weekend's competition. The event also includes a celebrity pro-am along with other social activities scheduled for the race weekend.

USA Television Network, which currently has more than 20 million household subscribers across the US will cover all of the action at the Open. The network also will produce two one-hour specials on the races. With reruns, the races will receive a minimum of six hours of national television exposure.

The pro race format pits man against man skiing on parallel courses in both slalom and giant slalom elimination races. Not only must they find the fastest way, but they also ski over two manmade six foot high bumps that are built into the course, occasionally with spectacular results. The first racer across the finish line starts the timing clock and the second racer stops the clock giving a time differential. The racers switch courses and race again, just to make sure there is no advantage to one course or the other. The racer who wins by the greatest time differential advances on to the next round of competition.

Unlike amateur racing or Olympic competition where the winner of a race is often determined after the first 15 or 20 racers have finished, the pros make ten runs in a day, defeating five different opponents as they advance up the ladder. Since each victory takes two complete runs, it is a grueling process to reach the finals and claim the ultimate victory.

In the US Open the winner of the giant slalom to be held on Sat., March 3, will race against the winner of the slalom held on Sun., March 4, in a course that is half giant slalom and half slalom. The winner from this match will claim the title of US Open Champion and a check for $10,000.

Pro racers not ranked in the top 40 will begin preliminary qualifications March 1. Paul Carson, executive director of Pro Ski International, said any skier can qualify as a pro if he skis within 5 percent of the average times posted by the tour's top three racers. There will be 20 spots open during the preliminary qualifications.

Opening ceremonies will be at the Ruidoso Inn Friday evening, beginning at 6:30 p.m. Pro Am teams will meet their team captains, followed by invitational "Pick the Winner" party. Proceeds from the celebrity pro am and awards dinner will help raise money for the area's handicapped ski program.

The pro-am awards dinner with celebrity entertainment, to be Saturday night at Jerry Dale's, should be one of the highlights of the weekend.

RAY BELL WITH SMOKEY 1950.

As it should be First day issue of Smokey Bear stamp will be in Capitan

WASHINGTON, DC — Capitan has been selected as the site for the first day of issue by the US Postal Service of the Smokey Bear commemorative stamp, the New Mexico Congressional Projects Office announced Thursday.

The members of the Projects Office, Sens. Pete Domenici (R-NM) and Jeff Bingaman (D-NM), and Reps. Manuel Lujan, Jr. (R-NM), Joe Skeen (R-NM) and Bill Richardson (D-NM), actively solicited the Postal Service for the commemorative stamp honoring Smokey Bear and to have Capitan designated as the place of issue.

Smokey was the name given the bear cub rescued from a forest fire in the Capitan mountains which destroyed thousands of acres of forest.

The actual date of issue has not been set, although it is expected the ceremony will take place in Capitan sometime in August. Smokey Bear Park has been suggested as the probable site for the ceremony.

Smokey Bear has been used as a symbol of forest fire prevention by the US Forest Service for more than 40 years. Smokey has become and is today a symbol of courage and honor to children everywhere and is still revered in the Village of Capitan, home of the Smokey Bear Museum.

Smokey lived at the National Zoo for 25 years and when he died in 1975, Congress adopted a resolution to bury him in Capitan at the Museum.

Expected to be at the Postal Service's issuance ceremonies is

Ray Bell, the flying game warden who helped fight the fire in the Capitan Mountains and who took Smokey home as a small cub to recuperate from his burns and become a playmate of his five-year-old daughter.

Against stepfather, mother Child abuse charges filed

By P. E. CHAVEZ
Charges of 'abandonment or abuse of a child' have been filed against a 26-year-old man and his 32-year-old wife.

Raymond Turcotte and Helen Delgado Turcotte of Carrizozo are in custody in the Lincoln County Jail under a $10,000 bond, no percent allowed.

Turcotte and his wife were arrested Feb. 27 by Deputy Sheriff Byron Baker following an investigation in connection with an incident of child abuse believed to have occurred the previous day.

The victims, three children ages 10, 11 and 12 from Mrs. Turcotte's former marriage were turned over to the Health and Social Services and placed in a foster home.

The Turcottes were scheduled to be arraigned Tuesday in Ruidoso on the fourth degree felony charges. A preliminary hearing will be set by Magistrate Judge Jim Wheeler.

Authorities at the Sheriff's Office urge people to report incidents of the criminal act of child abuse. Their department will not hesitate to investigate all legitimate reports.

Andrew Gallegos, 20, Carrizozo, was arrested Feb. 25 and charged with 'aggravated burglary', a second degree felony. Gallegos is alleged to have entered the residence of Debbie Samora around midnight Feb. 24. Sheriff's deputies Guy Brown and Lerry Bond investigated the incident.

NATIONAL NUTRITION MONTH

March 1 kicks off the 12th Annual National Nutrition Time Campaign to improve American eating habits and fitness. "Everyone Wins with Good Nutrition" is the message thousands of dietitians and nutritionists will be promoting during National Nutrition Month.

National Nutrition Month, sponsored in New Mexico by the New Mexico Community Nutrition Council (NMCNC) and nationally by the American Dietetic Association (ADA), is one of the largest public education projects designed to help Americans get in shape sensibly this year. Many people get caught up in the excitement of the Olympics and they think they can go out and start running two miles a day. They don't realize that these Olympians have been training for years. Good nutrition has a lot to do with their success.

Before starting any exercise program, ADA advises a complete assessment of your cardiovascular health through a stress test, especially if you're over 35, smoke or have high blood pressure. An exercise program should be planned around the results of the stress test and for most healthy persons, the ADA recommends 15 to 30 minutes of continuous aerobic activity three to five times a week. Begin a program realistically and work up to a goal. Each exercise should begin with 5 to 10 minutes of warm-up to avoid muscle and joint injury.

Aerobic exercise - jogging, brisk walking, dancing, swimming or cycling - should be strenuous to the point of conditioning muscles and the cardiovascular system without being excessive. A brisk walking program is recommended by ADA for persons of all ages. Jogging, however, is not for everyone and may cause foot, leg and knee injuries.

A balanced diet will help enhance the benefits of your fitness program at all levels of activity. Eat a wide variety of nutritious foods from the Four Groups that are fresh and homemade whenever possible. A well-balanced diet for adults at any age includes a minimum - two servings of milk or milk foods; two servings of lean meat or other protein foods such as eggs, dry beans and peas, nuts, seeds; four servings of raw or cooked, fresh, unprocessed fruits and vegetables; and four servings of whole grain or enriched breads and cereals. Everyone wins with good nutrition and exercise. Your physical fitness depends on it.

ATTENDS WORKSHOP

Mary Ellen Payne, Lincoln County Home Economist attended a statewide workshop in Albuquerque on Feb. 15. On Feb. 22 she presented a portion of the lesson, 'Making Food Dollars Count' to members of the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Extension Club.

Her presentation for the club included the preparation of a filling for sandwiches made of chopped beef and raw cabbage. "It sounds strange," Mary Ellen said, "but it is excellent. I made it with low calorie mayonnaise to cut calories. I used a spicy mustard."

Here is how to make four servings of beef-cabbage sandwiches:

Toss together 1 cup cooked, chopped beef and two-thirds cup chopped cabbage.

Thoroughly mix 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion, ¼ cup salad dressing (mayonnaise-type) and 1 teaspoon prepared mustard. Stir into beef mixture.

Spread ¼ of the mixture on each of 4 bread slices. Top with remaining bread. There are about 285 calories per sandwich using white bread; 270 using whole-wheat.

FOOD DOLLARS

'Making Food Dollars Count', the workshop which Mary Ellen attended at Albuquerque's 4-H Center was a national education project developed for the Office of the Secretary of Agriculture to demonstrate that a nutritionally adequate diet can be purchased on a limited budget. During the day long workshop the participants reviewed recipes, learned hints on supermarket survival and designed nutrition plans. Mary Ellen will share the recipes with column readers.

A family of four can eat nutritiously and well on $58 a week. The workshop was part of a nationwide effort to help the public obtain well-balanced nutritious diets; urge more people to invest in good nutrition for themselves and their families; and to encourage community leaders and private groups, such as supermarkets, to cooperate in making food shopping easier.

Browse through the grocery store ads in your issue of the Lincoln County News. It can be your shopper's guide to the foods from the Four Food Groups and a way to make your food dollars count.

WHITE OAKS NEWS

By ROSE VINSON

Joe Armstrong, better known here in White Oaks, as 'Lightening', dropped a tractor trailer wheel rim on his foot and is on crutches. The healing process is proving to be a long one especially since Lightening isn't always too good at following doctor's orders.

Harlen and Sally Webb are giving John and Betty Cammack a few days a week off and are helping run the White Oaks Casino and Museum. Harlen is still on crutches also, nursing his broken ankle. He still has another month before the cast will be removed.

Harlen is an outstanding story teller and keeps customers entertained.

Strong winds in White Oaks these last two weeks destroyed a metal shed and part of a roof. We were all glad to have a few days of sunshine before waking up to snow Sunday. Inch and a half in our area, more further up the mountains.

Rancher Bud Crenshaw is still in the VA hospital. Doctor's have his blood pressure under control but surgery may be necessary for another medical problem. All our thoughts and best wishes are with you, Bud.

Bobby Dan Crenshaw, Richard Daniel, Badger Burton and Lonnie Sedila were part of a cattle roundup in White Oaks Thursday and Friday. These folks are regular cowboys and a lot of people found it interesting to watch them work.

John and Betty Cammack along with Don and Ruth Schmieder traveled to Mexico and spent the day shopping Thursday. They brought back some beautiful jewelry, some of which can be seen at White Oaks Museum.

It Aint That Easy

One time a man questioned Will Rogers about his using the word "aint". Will replied "There's a lot of fellers that don't say aint that aint eating."

This being an election year, all of us would like to be able to step into that voting booth and pull down levers that would guarantee us a better life. But it aint that easy.

But there are ways you can help, and there are several ways we can help you to improve your future. How about starting a savings account, for that rainy day or for something you truly want later. Maybe we can help you with a loan to get some new furniture, to get your child's teeth straightened.

Please come by one of our banking offices, it will be a pleasure for us to offer our banking services to help you.

OPINION...

● THE LATE Lewis Lawes, warden of Sing Sing Prison, once observed that criminals springing from our schools and colleges are "more brazen, more vicious, and more desperate than ever before in the history of any civilized community." Why would he say that when he probably never heard of Merle Woo, 42, a former and future lecturer at the University of California on the Berkeley Archipelago? Woo is an admitted revolutionary Marxist who believes in the violent (if necessary) overthrow of the US government. Her collateral qualifications are outstanding by today's standards for selecting teachers to mold the minds of young students—she is a lesbian, feminist and unionist. She was so outspoken in her support of these virtues that she was fired by the university in 1982. She filed suit in federal court charging violation of her first amendment rights and discrimination because of her race (Asian), sex (not stated), sexuality (perverted) and political ideology (Marxist). Faced with going to trial next month, the university settled out of court last week. Woo will receive more than $73,000 of your tax money and be awarded a two-year contract to teach in the Education Department at the university where she is expected to espouse the causes of freedom and free enterprise, extol the virtue of patriotism, advise of the folly of going about killing people, and conduct fact-finding seminars on how to use the US courts as a means of getting rewarded for perfidy. Perhaps Stephen Muller, president of Johns Hopkins University, had Woo's counterparts in mind when he observed that the universities may be producing a generation of "highly skilled barbarians."

● AT THE Olympics in Munich in 1972 the world was horrified when members of the Black September terrorist movement slaughtered 11 Israeli athletes, five Arabs and one German policeman. To prevent a recurrence of terrorist activity at the Los Angeles games this year, the Olympic Organizing Committee is checking arrest records of prospective employees. The American Civil Liberties Union has filed suit to prevent the committee from scanning arrest records, claiming such violates the state constitution because the rule discriminates against minorities, especially blacks and hispanics, who "are arrested in numbers disproportionate to the general population." I don't suppose it would do any good to suggest that the reasons more minorities, especially blacks and hispanics, get arrested more often than the rest of us is because they commit more crime than the rest of us. What the ACLU would consider fair is, should a black or hispanic be arrested, the books of justice could only be balanced by arresting a white majority person on an identical charge. God must have a terrific sense of humor else He would not suffer the presence among us of the bubbleheads at ACLU.

● IN JAPAN, where far less money is spent on the education of children, the average IQ of Japanese children is 11 points higher than the average IQ of American children, if education researchers are correct. There will be a moment of silence while the National Education Assn. searches for a credible explanation of this phenomena.

● I HAVE been in mourning since receiving a letter last week from a medical doctor in which he cancelled his subscription to this newspaper in erudite if jaw-slackening prose. Mainly, he was outraged at what he called my "insensitivity to the poor." Since I continue to support these bums as I have for the past 50 years, I don't know what he's hawling about. He didn't bother to be specific, as he would have had he been prescribing medicine for a patient. Every paycheck I've drawn for 50 years has been nicked for a portion for the Blessed Poor. If I hadn't been sensitive to the poor all these years I could probably afford a 1984 model car instead of the 1970 one I'm driving. The doctor has it in reverse. It is the poor who have been insensitive to my needs. They won't keep their hands out of my pocket. If the good doctor will indulge me, there are no truly poor people in the United States. By whatever standard one wishes to apply, the people in this country are better off than those of any country on earth. And I do hope the doctor demonstrates sensitivity to the poor when he makes out their statements for medical services. Or is that a different kettle of fish?

● WRITING in the Sept.-Oct. issue of that great magazine of "total welfare" named Mother Jones, one Sidney Blumenthal poses what he probably thinks is an original question—"What would happen in 1984 if even one-tenth of the nonvoters suddenly made appearances at the polls?" He refers then to one Richard A. Cloward, professor at Columbia University School of (wouldn't you know it?) Social Work. Along with a female character yelp Frances Fox Piven, a "political scientist" (whatever the hell that is) at City University of New York, he wants to rouse nonvoters into a "class-based realignment of American politics." Now get this—the strategy of Cloward and Piven, according to Blumenthal, is aimed at getting "the human service workers in public and voluntary social agencies—welfare, public health and unemployment, for example—to register their clients, most of whom don't vote. In other words, these numbats want to insure a never-ending welfare state by organizing welfare recipients into a solid voting bloc who continue to vote themselves money and goodies out of the pocket-books of working people. This blatant appeal to public service people, paid with our tax money, is the most immoral thing I have ever heard of and I believe is in direct violation of the federal Hatch Act. Cloward and Piven say, he says, that these workers, "strategically placed, can register their clients, who are, in principle, natural allies." Not even the Democratic party can survive such stupid, greedy onslaughts on the public treasury, but they'll try before they will bring themselves to denounce such chicanery.

WATCH OVER WASHINGTON

The media's wailing wall

By Rev. Lester Kinsolving
PHILADELPHIA — The Christian Association of the University of Pennsylvania is no longer funding the Philadelphia Lesbian and Gay Task Force and has given this organization until March 31 to move out of its building.

The Christian Association (CA) is a cooperative, interdenominational organization of campus ministries including the Methodists, United Church of Christ, Presbyterian, Lutheran Church in America, American Baptist and Episcopal churches.

CA director Ralph Moore, an Episcopal priest, explained during a telephone interview:

"We concentrate on the students of the University of Pennsylvania. They (the Lesbian-Gay Task Force) are a state lobby. They work around the clock, seven days a week, and they want their office space enlarged. But we have changed back into a campus Christian center, instead of being primarily an activist-advocacy center as it was during the sixties. We've cut down on our hours and our staff."

For five years the Lesbian-Gay Task Force was given free space in the CA's building. Not only was there the provision of this rent-free contribution (from a tax-exempt organization to a lobby) but the Gay-Lesbian people created what Father Moore concedes as "conflicts" and "friction."

At the same time, this priest emphasized: "Our differences were never ideological. We have on our staff a half-time staff person, with an office, to run the Gay and Lesbian Peer Counseling Service."

When asked if the CA's $200,000 program would welcome either the Eulenspiegel Society or NAM-BLA establishing campus chapters, Father Moore replied that he was not acquainted with these organizations. (Eulenspiegel — for organized sado-masochists; NAM-BLA — the North American Man-Boy Love Association — organized child molesters.)

"Well," answered Father Moore, "I would draw the line at these organizations. I remember that there was a group of S&Ms that applied to use St. Mary's Episcopal Church a couple of years ago, but they were turned down."

This modest movement in the direction of Biblical morality by the Christian Association is apparently being emulated — far more decisively — by a number of foundations.

The Philadelphia Inquirer reports that Rita Addressa, age 38, the executive director of the Philadelphia Lesbian Gay Task Force, now has "an entire folder full" of letters rejecting her appeal for funds for her $34,000 budget.

Not only are the foundations rejecting her appeals, but some who previously contributed have withdrawn (like the Liberal Philadelphia Foundation.) The United Way rejected her appeal for funding because, it was explained, the Lesbian-Gay Task Force is "not a neighborhood group that provides direct services."

In New York, David Coobs of the National Gay Task Force was quoted in the Inquirer as lamenting: "The mood of the country as a whole, just a few years ago, was much more open-minded and progressive."

Ms. Addressa is less philosophical. She charges angrily that the eviction from CA and the drying up of foundation funding is due to "anti-gay bias... the refusal to recognize that this is a legitimate minority, with a legitimate need for civil rights and social equality."

And since Ms. Addressa's expressed aim is "to eliminate prejudice and discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation," she will no doubt have the support of a number of additional sexual orientations, including such people as the necrophiliacs, the pedophiles, the sado-masochists and even the foot fetishists. For who can say that most of those with these other sexual orientations don't believe that they, like the Sodomists, deserve their civil rights, too?

Well, the CA, through Father Moore, seems to be advocating a form of sexual discrimination, in its having "no ideological differences" with the Sodomists — but rejecting the sado-masochists and the child molesters.

And what about the threat of AIDS being distributed through the CA building before the Gays are evicted? Has the CA anything to say with regard to the spreading of AIDS through homosexual promiscuity? Father Moore recalled that signs had been posted urging gays to avoid promiscuity. But he was not sure of the precise effectiveness of this posted advice. Nor could he recall that the Lesbian-Gay Task Force had taken any kind of a stand against "cruising," in the manner that typhoid fever patients are quarantined.

Professional killers

EDITOR—As we watch those talented Russian athletes on our TV screens, we should be aware that there is a startling difference between Soviet sports and American sports.

"Everything connected with sports in the USSR is a party matter," so writes Baruch Hazan in his new book, "Soviet Impregnation Propaganda." (And that—most emphatically includes those Russian judges.)

The Soviet government spends ever-increasing millions of dollars on sports. All athletes, coaches, teachers, or instructors are government employees. Hazan tells us that 7,000,000 public servants are connected with Soviet sports one way or another. The Soviets maintain some "240,000 sports collectives (teams, organizations, associations, etc.)"

Hazan's reporting is reinforced by high ranking Soviet army officer, Victor Suvorov, who wrote in his book, "Inside the Soviet Army," "Sports in the USSR is an entirely professional affair. Sportsmen and sportswomen are paid, fed, clothed, and given decorations, accommodations and care for their services—and the better they are the more they are paid."

Suvorov further states that outstanding athletes are trained to serve with special diversionary troops called SPETSNAZ. SPETSNAZ contains many Olympic medal-winners. They are trained to disrupt operations behind enemy lines, to carry out important reconnaissance, "to assassinate important political and military figures, and to destroy headquarters, command posts, communications centers and nuclear weapons."

Suvorov further explains that those Olympic medal-winners serving in SPETSNAZ are more than professional athletes, he reveals that they are also trained "professional killers" as well. (p. 76)

So you see, it's more than just a friendly athletic get-together between different nations. What is also going on is a vicious propaganda war that most viewers are unaware of.

From the communist point of view, every gold medal, every silver medal, and every bronze medal is further proof of the superiority of the socialist system.

It makes you wonder whether or not we should continue sending our amateurs against their government sponsored professionals.

Glamorized view

EDITOR—Just a few lines to ask for equal time to make a statement in answer to the several history buffs that regard their word as law. Personally, I don't believe in contaminating the present with a glamorized view of the past. It is very refreshing to find that most of my friends of this area agree with the views I have expressed in my letter to the County Commissioners. So please do us a favor by giving us as wide publicity as those opposed to our view.

F.S. I certainly find myself so very often in total agreement with you, Mr. Joiner.

INSIDE RELIGION

Ivy League chaplains evict gay-lesbians

By Lester Kinsolving
WASHINGTON — When the media were excluded from the first two days of the U.S. landings in Grenada, there went up such an anguished howl of protest (from the media, not from the public) that the Pentagon reacted in Good Reagan Style: it appointed a commission, "The Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff's Panel on Military-Media Relations."

As this commission's chairman, retired Army Major General Winant Sidle is a thoroughly affable man, which quality attests to his basic magnanimity and perseverance. For he is a veteran of the unenviable mission of having to deal with the media in Saigon.

General Sidle's panel was evenly divided between the military — most of whom kept quiet — and the media, who did not.

There was no such balance in the list of those media asking to testify. This list consisted of the top brass of eighteen Big Media organizations — and me.

It remains a mystery as to why I was included — since Accuracy in Media, as well as the American Legal Foundation, both asked to testify and were not invited. My invitation may have been due to the fact that I cover the Pentagon, parttime, and that I persisted in asking to be able to testify.

The testimony of the Big Media brass could have, for all intents and purposes, been given by one or two witnesses rather than nearly two dozen. For with minor exceptions, their testimony illustrated Dorothy Parker's classic about running the gamut from A to B — as well as Solzhenitzyn's description of the American Big Media as "a herd." (The executive vice president of the American Newspaper Association, Jerry Friedham, for example, testified: "The press, in our statement of Principle..." The editors and publishers of some sixteen thousand weekly newspapers, who did not sign any such statement, should be interested to learn that Congenial Jerry presumed to speak for all of them.)

One of the few exceptions to all this lockstep testimony came from The Washington Post, whose executive editor, Ben Bradlee, testified with unusual good sense: "Some assertions of legal rights bother me."

Bradlee's deputy managing editor, Richard Harwood, had written Gen. Sidle earlier: "The First Amendment issue has not been decided and probably should not be raised through the courts." (Translation: "We would almost certainly lose.")

By striking chief of the Washington Bureau of ABC News, Ed Fouhy, told the panel of "the well established legal right of the media to have access to places which historically are accessible." And in fulminating further, Fouhy furiously denounced the Reagan Administration for what he termed its having "trampled on the right of the public to be informed."

In response to this, and by way of the only real contrast in three days of testimony, I suggested to the Sidle Panel:

It is hard to imagine just how any nation could successfully defend itself under such a burden as would suggest that the Founding Fathers so projected the John Peter Zenger case that General George Washington felt compelled to cross the Delaware only after a piece was found for Thomas Paine in the lead rowboat.

Mr. Fouhy testified that he rejects what he terms a "scenario" which, he said, "assumes that we journalists lack sensitivity." Somehow, I would imagine, a great many Americans have been fully able to reach just such a conclusion of media insensitivity — and not without ample justification. Only recently, a TV crew kept right on filming a man who had informed them in advance that he planned to immolate himself. And they filmed it all in living color for all of the living rooms, instead of trying to save the man's life.

Then there were homes all over the nation brought into massive grief by a terrorist's bomb in Beirut — along with an added burden to their agony of bereavement, when their homes were besieged by Mr. Fouhy's allegedly sensitive TV journalists.

Is this the way to conduct effective combat operations? Or isn't the effect of the transmission of such full-color horrors into the nation's living rooms really one of the most effective psychological warfare techniques — for the enemy — that has ever been devised? General Maxwell Taylor (who has advised that we never again allow TV cameras on the battlefield) has noted that this is seriously damaging to the nation.

And it is undeniably a provision of aid and comfort to the enemy; even though some dispute the use of that word "enemy" unless there is a declaration of war — which custom passed into anachronism in the early forties.

I also noted that one of the loudest media voices which condemned President Reagan for the Grenada media exclusion belongs to Washington Bureau Chief of The Los Angeles Times, Jack Nelson. But Nelson, when repeatedly questioned, finally conceded that he would not like to have such a combat operation as Grenada covered by a media pool consisting of such media liars as Janet Cook of The Washington Post, Michael Daly of The New York Daily News and Christopher Jones of The New York Times; or those who have not been fired for saying that they intend to uncover any military secrets they can find or steal, such as Seymour Hersh when he was with The New York Times; Robert Scheer, Los Angeles Times; Lyle Denniston, Baltimore Sun.

One of the civilian members selected by General Sidle for his Military-Media panel was A.J. Languth of the University of Southern California School of Journalism. Languth was one of the stars of the anti-CIA film, "On Company Business," aired over Public Broadcasting in 1980.

The main star of the film was Philip Agee, the former CIA agent who defected to the Communist side and has been devoting his energies to an effort to destroy the CIA. Languth's role in the film was to spread the disinformation theme that Dan Mitrione, the AID official who was tortured and murdered by the Tupamaros in Uruguay, was teaching torture techniques to the Uruguayan police.

The combination of aerobic exercise, selective exercise and proper diet is the most effective way to reduce body fat and promote physical fitness.

Today's Workout: Fanny Fitness

Primary Muscles Used: Gluteus maximus

Type of Exercise: Selective-toning and strengthening.

REVERSE LEG RAISES

Exercise regardless of type, reduces fat from all over the body and not merely from specific areas.

Purpose: To firm and tone the buttock and the back of the legs, and to strengthen the lower back.

Breathing: Exhale as you lift both legs and inhale as you lower legs to their original position.

Begin by lying on your stomach, chin on the floor, and arms at the side of your body, palms of hands down. Raise both legs up as high as you can, keeping hips on the floor, and then lower legs to original position. Begin by doing 20 repetitions and then increase to 2 sets of 20 repetitions.

You may also lift legs individually, alternating them, by doing an individual reverse leg raise. Begin with 20 total repetitions and increase to 2 sets of 20 repetitions.

Result: A feeling of confidence in the way you look.

Tigers capture Dist. 5-A title

The Capitan Tigers behind the 25 point performance by senior Todd Proctor battled their way to the Dist. 5A championship Saturday night by defeating No. 1 seed Cloudcroft 68-62 in overtime.

On Thursday night Capitan met Hagerman and advanced to the semifinals by struggling to a 54-49 victory over the Bobcats in overtime. Hagerman overcame a 10 point deficit going into the last quarter but ran out of gas in the overtime period, as the Tigers outscored them 9-4. Senior Eddie Davis led the way with 16 points and Dewey Keller added 14.

Against Weed the following night the Tigers put it all together and rolled over last year's champs 68-44. The Tigers outscored Weed 16-7 in the second stanza and coasted to the easy victory which advanced them to Saturday's final. Eddie Davis again leading in point production with 21. Todd Proctor and Dewey

Keller chipped in with 19 and 14 respectively.

In Saturday's championship final Cloudcroft took a 16-14 lead in the first quarter and held a 7 point advantage 36-29 at intermission.

But the Tigers outscored Cloudcroft by 21-18 and 10-6 in the second-half periods to knot the score at 60-60 at the end of regulation time. Capitan then outscored the Bears 8-2 in the overtime period for the win.

Besides Proctor's high of 25 points, Eddie Davis chalked up 17 and Dewey Keller 16 points for the winning Tigers.

The Tigers now advance to Region D play-offs at Ft. Sumner on Friday and Saturday. First round action finds Capitan facing Mountainair and Ft. Sumner going against Cloudcroft. Friday night's winners will face each other Saturday night for seeding purposes at the State Tournament in Albuquerque next Wednesday.

The finalist in Saturday's encounter will probably wind up playing the two finalist from Region B—Texico 21-2 will face Grady and Logan faces Tatum in first-round action in that region.

If Capitan captures the Region D championship they will face the second place team in the 'B' region—if they place second the Tigers will face the Region B winner at the state tournament.

Three Capitan players were named to the all-district team including senior standout Danny Cummins who was injured in the Hagerman game and did not play Friday or Saturday against Weed and Cloudcroft. Seniors Eddie Davis and Todd Proctor were also named to the team.

The Carrizozo Grizzly basketball team lost a close 55-50 game to Weed Thursday night in

ANNETTE CHAVEZ

Annette Chavez to display calligraphic works

The calligraphic penmanship of Annette Chavez of Albuquerque is on display in the conference room of the Carrizozo Municipal Schools. Chavez is the featured artist for the month of March.

The calligraphy samples, all commissioned works, vary from place cards to elaborate framed poetic verses.

Chavez is a former Carrizozo high school graduate. She is employed by the Albuquerque Public School district and is a part-time business student at the University of New Mexico. Her parents are Nat and Polly Chavez of Carrizozo.

Her interest in calligraphy stemmed from her position at APS in the public information department. Her job there consists of graphic design and layout. Chavez developed her calligraphy skills at the university.

Her work may be viewed at the conference room, Monday through Friday, 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Later in the month the display will be moved to the school library, located in Clegg Hall.

Carrizozo FHA-HERO Week was big success

The Carrizozo FHA-HERO chapter had a very active FHA Week. On Monday, Feb. 13, the FHA chapter had a meeting to plan and prepare for the week. On Tuesday, the FHA chapter delivered carnations that the organization had sold.

On Wednesday, Feb. 15, they had a pie eating contest. This event was held in the gym and grades 5-12 participated. The winners for the high school event went to Liz Beltran - 1st, Dino Baca - 2nd and John Roueche - 3rd. The winner for the mid school event was Suzanne Salcedo.

To complete the FHA-HERO Week, Blossom & Beau was held in the high school cafeteria. Guest speaker this year was Mrs.

Mary Ellen Payne. She addressed the audience about the importance of home economics and how it has changed over the years. A short film was shown titled "I Wish Someone Had Told Me." This discussed the importance of home ec. and the many areas that are taught in home ec. Afterwards, the FHA-HERO chapter presented appreciation plaques to individuals in the community who have shown the organization their support. These people were Ms. Linda Haller, Mr. Nat Palomarez, Mrs. Nena Ortiz, Ms. Charlotte Archuleta, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Stephenson, Mrs. Maxine LaMay, Mr. and Mrs. Buckley Zumwalt, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Silva, Mr. Dennis

- EYEGGLASS FRAMES
 Clear nail polish brushed on top of each screw head on eyeglass frames will keep the screw in place. These small screws often work loose and sometimes fall out.
- PATCH JOB
 A back pocket from an old, outgrown pair of jeans are good for patching holes on other jeans. The edges of the pockets are already turned under. Use a thimble to push the needle as you sew the heavy material.
- STICKING DOOR
 Rub floor wax on doors that are hard to open. Apply the wax on the door edge and the facing where the sticking occurs.
- SAVE THE LEAVES
 When you clean celery don't toss the leaves in the trash. Use the leaves in soups and stews.
- WINDOWPANE PAINTING
 If you are out of masking tape when you begin to paint window frames, you can cut newspaper to the size of the windowpane. Wet the newspaper, press against the glass. The newspaper will stick long enough to keep the glass free of paint.
- INSTANT SAUCE
 Left over ice cream not enough to go around? Melt and serve as a sauce over cake.

Susan Ramsey is 'student of the month'

Members of the Capitan High School faculty have selected sophomore Susan Ramsey as Capitan's first student of the month. To be nominated for this honor a student must have shown improvement in academic classwork, attitude, and citizenship. Attendance and extracurricular activities are also considered.

This year Susan has become more conscientious towards her work thus improving her grades as well as her attitude. Aside from her scholastic work, she is always cheerful and has a ready smile for her friends and for her teachers.

This award is being sponsored each month by the Ruidoso Optimist Club. Each student will receive a plaque for their efforts.

Superintendent Hays and high school Principal Dark have been offered contracts for the 1984-85 school year by the Capitan Board of Education.

The Capitan schools will be sponsoring a Jump for Heart on March 31 in the multi-purpose building. Jumpers will be participating for three hours in an effort to raise funds for the American Heart Association. Students and faculty will be canvassing for pledges prior to the event.

For information call Dottie MacVeigh at Capitan High School.

FFA Week very busy, and very successful

By GENEVA MAXWELL

The Carrizozo FFA Week activities were a great success last week. The chapter kicked off the week with the annual mini fair which is held to demonstrate to elementary students a little of the importance of farming in America. Grades K-3 were given a tour of the VoAg farm where several animals owned by FFA members were exhibited. The students received milk and cookies at the end of the tour and each planted a bean in their own individual paper cups to take home and watch grow.

Feb. 21 V.P. John Roueche, reporter Geneva Maxwell, and Greenhand sentinel Brian Sanchez were in Ruidoso to present a live interview on KREE Radio. This interview was intended to inform the public about FFA and some of the activities of the Carrizozo FFA and

CAPITAN, NM 88316

FFA in general. Also run on KREE were three public service announcements recorded by Adrian Sanchez and Geneva Maxwell.

On Feb. 23 several members of the Carrizozo FFA attended a tour of the New Mexico State University Campus in Las Cruces and were given a demonstration of the capabilities of micro computers in agriculture-business related occupations. After the tour these members were treated to a barbecue hosted by the university and an Aggie basketball game.

Feb. 25 the chapter attended its first judging contest of the season and brought home the sweepstakes plaque.

The Carrizozo Future Farmers of America will host its annual invitational judging contest March 3. This will be the third year in a row this chapter has hosted a judging contest and the second time there will be district contests included in the activities.

In past years this contest has been a good one and the contest this year promises to be just as good. Thirty two chapters are expected to attend with over 300 students.

The Carrizozo FFA would like to express its appreciation to the alumni members who are helping to make this contest a success.

Zozo Lions install five new members

On Feb. 21, the 46 M Lions Club District Governor Bill Fugate from Ruidoso installed five new members into the Carrizozo Club.

Those initiated into the club were James (Richie) Askew Jr.; Arnold (Abilene) Martin; Tom Hughes; John Booker and Pete King.

The club is presently raising money by selling the annual raffle tickets for the eye bank.

The Lionesses and the Lions Club extend a THANK YOU note to the merchants who donated door prizes at the Annual Valentine Box Supper, and to Mr. Doyle Woods for the use of the Recreation Center for the dinner. The next meeting of the Carrizozo Lions Club will be March 6 at 7:00 p.m. at the Lions Hut.

Logo contest for Capitan band

The logo design must be submitted to the Capitan High School front office by 3 p.m. March 6, 1984. A cash prize will be awarded the winner at the "Music in our Schools" Concert to be presented March 6 in the Capitan School gymnasium. Concert time is 7 p.m.

Marking 50 yrs. of soil & water conservation

Commemorative stamp issued

A new 20-cent commemorative stamp marking 50 years of soil and water conservation in the United States was issued by the US Postal Service at the National Association of Conservation Districts (NACD) convention in Denver, Colorado on Feb. 6.

The soil and water conservation movement began in 1934 when the Soil Erosion Service in the US Dept. of the Interior began to work directly with farmers through demonstration projects. In 1935, the agency was transferred to the US Department of Agriculture. Later that spring, when Congress passed Public Law 46, it became the Soil Conservation Service (SCS).

"Today, the USDA agency works through nearly 3,000 local conservation districts - units of local government," said Greg Haussler, SCS District Conservationist in Capitan. The soil conservation movement is a voluntary one that has involved 2.5 million landowners and operators since its inception. In the Carrizozo and Upper Hondo Soil and Water Conservation Districts over 280 landowners cooperate with the District in applying soil and water conservation practices.

The National Association of Conservation Districts is a private group which provides information and support services to aid the nation's districts in the conservation and orderly development of the nation's natural resources. The Denver meeting was one of several to be held by conservation groups during the next two years in recognition of the 50th anniversary of soil and water conservation.

The stamp depicts a stylized hand holding a flower against a black background. Bands of color run horizontally across the hand, symbolizing water and layers of soil. The stamp is in six colors and was designed by Michael David Brown of Rockville, MD.

Clem Weindorf of Hondo, State President of the New Mexico Soil and Water Conservation Districts, was present when the stamp was introduced in Denver.
