

County commissioners meet

Eagle Creek Road may get straightened

By RUTH HAMMOND
After five years of talking about it, the bad curve on Eagle Creek Road may finally get straightened. The S curve is not only where many accidents occur, but is also a school bus route.

Surveyor Tim Collins planned to stake the curve Wednesday or Thursday of this week and clarify which trees will need to be removed or trimmed.

At their Tuesday meeting, Lincoln County Commissioners asked that road superintendent Guy Henley check to see if the proposed change will be acceptable. Collins and Henley will then meet with the property owner to see if it meets with his approval.

Sheriff Tom Sullivan asked the commission if the department could participate in the distribution of the Law Enforcement Protection Fund. It was enacted last year and this will be the first time for them to apply.

The purpose of the Law Enforcement Protection Fund Act is to provide for the equitable distribution of funds to municipal and county police and sheriffs departments for use in the maintenance and improvement of those departments in order to enhance the efficiency and effectiveness of law enforcement services.

Commissioners approved application for money to recondition a four-wheel drive jeep, buy a breath analyzer and radio equipment and train officers.

A road committee was appointed to decide if a public road located near San Patricio should become part of the county system. Those appointed are: Israel Miranda, Sonny Chavez and Dennis Nosker. Gerald Montes was selected as alter-

County Manager Suzanne Cox said, "We have more requests to close a road than to open one." The method of having a road review committee make the decision has been a law since 1918.

Bids were awarded for emergency medical supplies. Dyna Med will furnish two cots and 30 rigid extrication collars. Anti-shock air pants that force the blood back up into the body will be provided by EMS Supply.

Liquor license fees will be the same as last year for the period from July 1, 1984 to June 30, 1985 as follows: dispenser's license $400, club license $25, retailer's license $250, canopy license $250, restaurant license $250, and special permits $10 per day.

Surveyor Tim Collins requested an exchange of deeds of easement on the Fort Stanton road. It was approved when he explained that the road is beside the county's present deeded easement.

Also approved; a budget increase of $11,000 for purchase of two lots adjoining county property in Carrizozo; replat of Lot 15 of block 1, K, M Middle Cedar Subdivision; replat of part of Lot 9, block 2, Hutson-Carrizo subdivision, which is zoned commercial beside Carrizo Lodge; treasurer's report, and a contract with Ernst and Whinney to do the audit for the year ending June 30, 1984 at a cost of $10,000.

Bonita fire chief Howard Puckett asked if a 1/4 cent sales tax could be put on the November ballot to be used for rural county fire departments. Lincoln County Firemen's Association was formed in January for chiefs and all officers at no cost to members. The LCFA would recommend how the tax money should be spent. Suzanne Cox asked to see the state survey made in 1982 with figures on how much money it might generate. A study will be made to help make the decision.

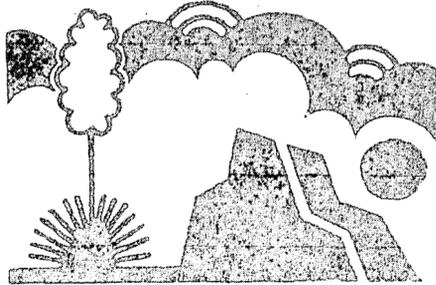

Commissioners tabled action on the access road to Lincoln Hills. It is a public road not on inventory of the county. They asked that the two parties involved get together and work it out before a decision can be made.

County road superintendent Guy Henley gave a progress report and showed a map with the eight blade districts. He said the engineer was impressed with the work at the airport. Chips will be hauled after the new trucks are delivered, hopefully next week.

The present historical review board will be retained until the new ordinance 17 is drafted, approved, and goes into effect. Draft for a new ordinance 17, better defined than the present one, may be completed in the next two weeks. Hearings will begin then.

John Hightower said, "We will consider every comment on ordinance 17."

Sheriff Tom Sullivan will see about opening a road that is blocked by a chain and locked in Shangri La subdivision.

School has $$$ problem$

CARRIZOZO

A special school board meeting was held Mar. 12 to consider approval of elementary school building bids. Brackeen Construction Co., Roswell, was low bidder at $264,056. This was considerably less than the estimate of a year ago for $280,000.

Grant money has been received for the project for $30,100 (Federal Energy Conservation Funds) estimated interest of $18,000, in addition to the $280,000 from the state. Architect fees of approximately $19,000 will be added to the $264,056. This will leave a surplus of $44,044 which must be returned to the state. Board members are going to see if the surplus can be used to remodel cabinets in classrooms. If this is possible, the elementary building will be complete. Work will start April 2 and approximate completion date is Aug. 15.

Superintendent Dr. Jim Miller explained to the board that Carrizozo schools will be in serious trouble if the state legislature does not increase funding for the coming year.

This is not the first time the district has had money problems. Last year three employees were laid off and two were not replaced in an effort to meet the projected budget.

Even with that, there was a shortage of $38,000 last year. The state agreed to let money be used from the cash balance with the stipulation that the money be replaced. The rule is that cash balance cannot be used on re-occurring expenses such as salaries and utilities. It can be used to purchase equipment, furniture, and make one-time repairs.

Money from the recently passed two-mill levy and school bond issue cannot be used to help balance the budget. It must be used as was stated in the election.

Expenses for the school will go up next year. Medical insurance will take a hike of 15 percent and electricity is to go up 10 percent next month followed by another 7 percent next fall. Added to this is the calculated increase in the cost of supplies.

If the state legislature insists on a five percent salary increase for all non-administrative employees, it will put the district even further in the hole.

Dr. Miller said, "We will need $62,851 extra from the state just to break even July 1. A five percent salary increase would raise that amount by $39,409 along with $2759 for FICA and $2,995 for educational retirement. This would raise our total requirement to $108,014, which would be a unit value of $1658."

Presently the state is paying $1486 per student. If they make the district give a 10 percent guaranteed salary increase, some employees will have to be laid off to make up the $62,851.

A conference call was placed to Sen. Charlie Lee and Rep. Maurice Hobson. They were not able to reach them and plan to make individual calls to explain the district's problems.

The education package was tied in with House Bill 2 that did not pass during the regular session of the state legislature. It is being changed daily in the special session.

Carrizozo Town Council

Trustees sworn in

Newly elected trustees Patty Sanchez, Robert Hemphill and Eddie O'Brien were sworn in at Monday's town council meeting. A special indoctrination meeting will be held March 19 for the new officials to take office.

City clerk Carol Schlarb requested that a plaque be given to Roy W. Harmon for his ten years of faithful service on the council. It will be presented to him March 19 at the council meeting.

Mayor Harold Garcia thanked David LaFave for serving as appointed trustee for one year to fill a vacancy when Betty Fields resigned. The council accepted the proposed contract from attorney Don Dutton of Ruidoso, he will take it to his partner for approval and will be at the meeting Monday as the new city attorney.

School superintendent Dr. Jim Miller announced the Federal Land and Water Conservation grant of $9000 to remodel the swimming pool. He asked for $3000 from the lodger's revenue tax for the matching funds from the town. Trustees released the money since the balance was $3247.

Work on the swimming pool will include replacing filters, raising the shallow end to make it safer for small children, replacing rotten metal steps, roofing the shower room, replacing tile, sandblasting and painting, and a new fence.

Two bids were received for relocation of cable at the airport. Both bids were over the engineer's estimate of $4845. Ruidoso Aspen Electric Bid $5653.42 and Sun Valley Service bid $6102. Action was tabled to the 19th subject to approval by the engineers.

The CDBG grant was signed and project director Jim Cooper gave a progress report. Applications have been received to rehabilitate 26 houses. Tentative approval has been given for 14 houses, and write-up is done on four houses. Cooper and assistant project director Al Baca have met with contractors and hope to go to bid on the first unit by April 3. They also talked to people in the State Weatherization program to get help on joint improvements on some houses.

Trustees agreed to hire a temporary employee to work on the garbage truck. The position will be temporary because it will be up to the new officials to decide if the town needs a city manager more than it needs help in maintenance, parks, water, sewer departments.

Town foreman Emilio Beltran asked that a sign be posted at the golf course lake about littering. Parking is not allowed at the golf course after 10:30 p.m. and Chief of Police C. A. Morales was asked to see that it is patrolled.

David LaFave reported that work on Third Street should start soon.

Work is going well at the airport, and is ahead of schedule. Negotiations are continuing with two prospective lessees. The

Woman charged

Sheriff's Department crackdown on alcohol related offenses

By P. E. CHAVEZ

A 47-year old woman has been charged with selling liquor to minors while on duty at the Nike Tavern, west of Carrizozo.

Sheriff's Deputies Lerry Bond and Guy Brown witnessed the transaction, which occurred at the drive-up window, around midnight, Saturday, March 10. Victoria Flores, arrested shortly after the incident, has bonded out and was released.

Curtis Zumwalt, 18, Carrizozo, was arrested and charged with allowing himself to be served alcohol. Bond and Brown stopped Zumwalt for a traffic offense and for buying the liquor. A full case of Coors beer in cans was confiscated as evidence. Various 'empties' and the remains of a fifth of whiskey were found in the yellow El Camino's floorboard.

A male juvenile companion was also arrested on the same charges and referred to juveniles authorities. Zumwalt was released from custody after posting bond.

In a separate incident that same Saturday the officers stopped a vehicle in connection with a traffic offense. Two local youths were each charged with possession of alcohol. The two juveniles were turned over to juvenile court.

The Sheriff's Department is putting a greater emphasis on the apprehension of people who sell or give liquor to those under age. Contributing to the delinquency of minors is a 4th degree offense. Deputies will not hesitate to also arrest juveniles who allow themselves to be served or are in possession of alcohol.

Numerous alcohol related complaints from community members, including parents, have been reported to the sheriff's office. Chief Deputy Sheriff Charlie Cox asks for the cooperation of the public, whose information could lead to the arrest of offenders.

Cox expressed a desire to work with parents in reducing adolescence alcohol use and abuse. Cox believes that increased awareness by parents on how to give guidance to their youngsters on how to handle potential alcohol situations would help to curb the problem.

The Sheriff's Department has also stepped up their DWI enforcement. Drinking drivers - adult or juvenile - will begin feeling the bite of deputies, whose goal is to reduce potential deaths and injuries which can be caused by drunk drivers. The department asks for public support in their attempt to prevent innocent local people from becoming victims of intoxicated drivers on town streets and county roads.

A vehicle parked by a historic sign between Lincoln and Capitan was recovered March 9 by Sheriff's Deputy Rudy Saiz. The National Crime Information Center (NCIC) computer revealed that the '82 Mazda was stolen in Santa Ana, CA. The abandoned vehicle is in storage and it's owner has been notified. No suspects have been apprehended in the case.

Saiz also was the investigating officer following a report by an employee at Fort Stanton that $900 in cash was taken from his wallet which he had locked in his car. Saiz recovered the cash and returned it to a thankful owner.

A camper trailer, stolen in Nevada was recovered March 12 by Deputy Sheriff Byron Baker. The trailer was found in the Capitan residence of Mike Castle. Authorities in Parump, NV presently have Castle in custody.

Bishop visits Carrizozo

Bishop Louis W. Schowengerdt will preach at Trinity United Methodist Church, Carrizozo, this Sunday at 11:00 a.m.

Following the service, a potluck dinner will be held at the church.

Schowengerdt is responsible for United Methodist activity in New Mexico and Northwest Texas. This will be his first visit to Carrizozo.

TOLL FREE NO.

On Feb. 11, 1984, on the Richard (Pappy) Coon's place west of Capitan near the city limits on Hwy. 380, person or persons apparently caught a shetland pony belonging to Mr. Coon's grandchildren and probably tied it to a vehicle and ran it a great distance and then dragged the pony until it was dead. This is a severe act of cruelty and larceny.

The Carrizozo Crime Stoppers and Rancher's Coalition are offering a $500 reward to any one who may furnish information for the arrest and conviction of any person or persons involved in this crime. Please call 1-800-432-6933 or write P.O. Box 331, Carrizozo, NM 88301.

Callers to Crime Stoppers do not have to reveal their identities even to collect the reward.

Woody Schlegel announced, at the Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce meeting Tuesday, that Carrizozo may become a scheduled stop for Air Midwest in the future. With 23 planes in their fleet, Air Midwest is presently making six round trips daily from Albuquerque to Roswell. They will send the director of flight control here to inspect the airport. Their airplanes will hold 17 passengers and have a maximum take-off weight of 12,500 pounds.

Engineer Joe Shain said the two-engine turbo props will not harm the runway. Work at the airport is ahead of schedule.

A fly-in will be held in June to celebrate re-opening of the airport. Carrizozo as host will provide brunch.

An added money bowling tournament will be Mar. 24 with businesses in town donating money to make the prizes larger. Expected for the tournament are 60 to 70 teams of four members.

Chief of Police C. A. Morales suggested that Carrizozo have a clean-up day. Jim Miller, Patsy Sanchez and Aggie Bucsek will bring a plan to the next meeting as to how it can be organized. They will advertise in the paper and try to get the town to cooperate.

The ranch tours will originate in Hondo June 9. This year there will be more things to see because of less travel. Reservations are being accepted, cost will be $8 for adults and $4 for children, and some of the things to see are a vineyard, a farm meat processing and a foundry.

Carrizozo Fun Days will be Sat., Oct. 13 and some events will carry over to the 14th. Planned events include softball, fireworks, pet parade for the kids, fishing tournament, a fly-in, hot air balloon take-off, beard contest, a raffle for $500 cash, and a beef barbecue with beans, salad and bread.

The Beta Alpha chapter of the women's service organization

Epsilon Sigma Alpha will be chartered here in Carrizozo this weekend. The international organization works with St. Jude, Ronald McDonald House, Special Olympics, Girl's Ranch, and also works with individuals on the local level. Mignon Sims has been a member for nine years.

A letter was received from a Michigan corporation about establishing a manufacturing plant in this area.

An Albuquerque firm answered the ad for a CPA to come to Carrizozo. The ad was in the 'New Mexico CPA Journal'.

The chamber will also advertise for a lawyer in the 'State Bar of New Mexico News and Views'.

Zia Senior Citizen Center is now catering lunch for the meetings. The annual 'Peoples Market' will be held on July 29.

The Capitan 4-H meeting was held on March 12 at 3:30 p.m. to elect new officers. Our new officers this year are Jay Eldridge, president; Ronald Joiner, vice-president; Toni Crain, secretary; Scott Dye, treasurer; Nicki Ponder, reporter; and Rhonda Montoya, parliamentarian.

There were 52 members present. Our next meeting will be held on March 26 at 3:30 p.m. to learn how to give demonstrations.

Special thanks to Mrs. Leota Pfingsten, who gave an interesting wood presentation. Also, a special thanks to Willa Stone, our 4-H leader, whom we all feel will lead us in a productive year.

Assessor Candidate

MARIAN L. Schlarb, has announced her candidacy for the office of Lincoln County Assessor on the Republican ticket. Marian has over 25 years of experience in the office as Assessor and Deputy Assessor, she feels that with this number of years of experience she is qualified to fulfill her duties as Lincoln County Assessor.

People on social security

Annual report deadline nears

People who get Social Security checks and who earned more than the annual exempt amount in wages from a job or in self-employment in 1983 have until April 15, 1984, to file an annual report of their earnings, Don Austin, Social Security district manager in Roswell, said recently.

The 1983 exempt amounts were $4,920 for people under 65 all of the year and $6,800 for people 65 or over any part of 1983. In general, a person has $1 in benefits withheld for each $2 of annual earnings over the exempt amount.

Social Security uses the annual report to decide whether the person received the correct amount of benefits during 1983. If too much or too little was paid, any adjustment necessary is made based on the annual report.

A special monthly test is used during a person's first year of retirement. Under this test, a person can get a benefit for a month in which he or she did not earn wages over the monthly limit and did not perform substantial services in self-employment. This monthly test can be used only in the person's first year of retirement.

Most people who need to file a report should have received one in the mail. If a person did not get a form, or lost or misplaced the one he or she did get, another copy of the annual report form can be obtained at the Roswell Social Security office, located at 5th and Richardson in the Federal Bldg. The telephone number to call is 1-800-432-5900.

The people at the office will be glad to answer any questions. They also have a leaflet, How work affects your Social Security checks, which contains more information about the earnings test.

The annual exempt amounts for 1984 are $5,160 for people under 65 and $6,960 for people 65 or over. A different test applies to people who get benefits because of disability.

Rates for the coming golf season were not decided. A new roof is needed for the pro shop patio.

Revenue Sharing Regulations prohibit discrimination against individual because of their handicapped status. A revenue sharing meeting is to be soon.

Phyllis Schlegel asked if a sign that has fallen down on the industrial tract can be painted and put up. She also requested if the stack of old tires could be removed as it detracts from the area.

New trustees will have an orientation session April 3 in Alamogordo. The program will focus on understanding the relationships among the mayor, governing body, municipal judge, clerk-treasurer, and manager. It will explain the duties and authorities of the various elected and appointed officials and their legal limitations.

The New Mexico Municipal League conduct the meeting to help newly elected and appointed officials learn how to work together effectively and how to avoid internal warfare that can destroy citizen support.

By ROSE VINSON
A resident of White Oaks was taken ill early one morning. An ambulance was requested. Answering the call at 4 a.m. was Brian and Robert Wetzel. This resident is back home and doing well. EMT's are exceptional people. Their training consist of emergency treatment in life or death situation. This training is on their own time and with little or no pay. EMT's are also on call 24 hours a day and in addition to their regular jobs. Brian and Robert are only two among many who give up their sleep and take time off work to help in time of accidents or serious illness. To all of these people we here in the White Oaks area take this time to say a special 'thank you.'

Eight inches of snow this last week caused some problems for White Oaks area residents. At least one vehicle wound up in a ditch and several found driving difficult. The County Road Department worked steadily to clear the main roads and did an outstanding job.

Rancher Bud Crenshaw is home for awhile. He is doing well but will have to go back in a few weeks for more tests. Bud sends a heartfelt 'thank you' to all friends and neighbors who came to visit and who have expressed concern.

White Oaks area children were among FFA members who traveled to Hatch Saturday for another round of judging. Carrizozo took first place in Beef and third place over all. A special thanks goes to Mr. Gaines and Randy Rhue who drove the bus and van. The kids were treated to a good time and enjoyed the trip although it was hot in Hatch.

OPINION...

● A VAST reservoir of social sludge has accumulated since last we met here, and must be dealt with. Sure to touch off a day of national anguish and breast-beating and trigger tons of tomes on human rights is the plight of John Bassake, 23, of near Madison, WI who insists he is entitled to state and federal succor because he is "allergic to the 20th Century." Forced through no fault of his own to devour lion's meat that is costing him $1,000 a month, not including the cost of bottled water with which he washes down his Simba Sirloin, he appeals for our help. Federal purveyors of distress money have already agreed to fund this loony's lion loin. However, Wisconsin's Guardians of the Quaint & Queer Folk have so far resisted this cowpat's plea that he cannot cope with society unless society coughs up some cash. It is hoped that Wisconsin will set up a halfway house on the road to the 20th Century, or at least fund a rehabilitation program to assist Mr. Bassake before he depletes the dwindling supply of lion meat. In need of lion meat is Assemblyperson John Vasconcellos who proposes to eradicate violence, crime, drug abuse, welfare dependency, teenage pregnancy, alcoholism and fruit fly by creating the California Commission on Self-Esteem. This 20-person body would spend $750,000 (money that should rightfully go to Mr. Bassake) to inquire into elements of self-esteem, which, had the citizens of San Jose possessed any, they would have sent him to Madison, WI instead of to Sacramento, CA.

● NO SOONER had I been advised of this Vasconcellian plot to save civilization through self-esteem than he delivers AB 3083 into the Assembly hopper. This bit of statesmanship is calculated to improve the economy and end poverty, along with the Ayatollah Khomeini. AB 3083 designates Aug. 8 as Peace Day, probably as a cooling off period during which one may not with impunity slap the cat or go around firing nuclear missiles willy-nilly. Significantly, Aug. 8 follows the climactic end of National Clown Week, which we must endure Aug. 1-7. Still on the stuff, Mr. V births AB-3064 which would establish the California Exchange for Peace Program, something I support on a vague hope that under its terms we can exchange Jane Fonda for someone, or anything.

● BLUNDERING right along, today's cancer scare comes from Petaluma. Residents there have divined that a herbicide used to kill weeds along the highway will do them in as quickly as did cyclamates, burned toast and filets of fish that had ingested mercury. No one knows that chemical aminotriazole causes cancer, but some jackass said it may, and that's that. We may have to abolish Hwy. 101. Mr. Vasconcellos has probably already introduced a bill to create a commission to designate a day of peace for uplifting our esteem by removing this cancer-causing thoroughfare.

● A SAN Francisco street preacher can, thanks to Municipal Judge Phillip Moscone, continue to refer to women as "whores" while delivering his sidewalk sermons. Not to allow him to do so, the judge observed, would deprive him of his freedom of speech under the First Amendment of you-know-what. It is going to be difficult, Mr. Vasconcellos, for women to raise their level of self-esteem if the judiciary joyfully sanctions the practice of calling them whores.

● FEDERAL workers should be able to muster an abundance of self-esteem. The average federal worker's pay nationwide is nearly 36 percent higher than that paid for comparable jobs in the private sector. According to Department of Labor statistics, the average annual wage for workers in California's private employment in 1982 was $17,891—and $22,299 for federal workers in the state. Now you know why there are nine applicants for every federal job.

● VIRGINIA Satir, according to the Los Angeles Times, is a crackjack family therapist. She says the average hug requirement is four a day "if one is to feel nourished." I pray this form of nourishment is exchanged between man and woman, swain and swainee, or parent and child. On the other hand, a study of 1,400 Cleveland families, conducted by the Project on Human Sexual Development (didn't know your tax money went there, I'll bet), deplors its finding that only three out of 10 men admit that they hug their male friends, a blatant example of sex discrimination and one well calculated to shoot one's self-esteem all to hell. Shape up, fellows.

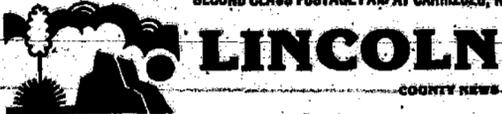

● THERE is hellfire and fulmination in Congress today over the issue of prayer in public schools. There may be reasons why prayer is not needed in public schools, but none of them have anything to do with an alleged "establishment of religion." Prayer is a personal matter. Children, like adults, can pray anywhere—at home, in any of 10,000 churches designed for that purpose, riding horseback or in the closet. They can even pray in school, just don't let teacher catch you. Nobody who wants to pray is denied the privilege, in school or out.

● WHAT enrages me is the hypocrisy attending this controversy. It is hypocritical when Congress takes our tax money to hire chaplains to minister to their consciences, then defend the practice as not violating the constitutional admonishment against the establishment of religion, or the separation of church and state tradition. It is hypocritical to stamp our money with "In God We Trust" and forbid it to appear on the classroom blackboard. It is hypocritical to provide ministers of many faiths to take care of the spiritual needs of members of the armed forces, yet raise the church-state hullabaloo should the biology class be led in prayer.

● WHAT is hypocritical is that most Congressmen, foundation of this government, daily make pious references to God and all his Angels, then demand that a Nativity scene on city hall lawn be pulled down as "establishing a religion." The same Congressmen indicate to the world that this is a Christian nation

WATCH OVER WASHINGTON

New York Times credibility gap

By LES KINSOLVING
 WASHINGTON — Managing Editor Seymour Topping of The New York Times came to the nation's capital on Feb. 8 to testify before a Defense Department hearing on military-media relations — held as a result of Big Media complaints about reporters being excluded for the first two days of the US landings in Grenada.

Mr. Topping mentioned what he termed "the right of the public to be informed," and he added that the origin of the problem "resides more in the White House and the Department of Defense than the realities of the press coverage of any battlefield."

Topping also referred to the panel to "the article in last Sunday's New York Times Magazine on reporters on the battlefield, written by Drew Middleton, our military correspondent, who has covered most of the major conflicts since the Second World War."

This article is subheaded: "A tradition of open coverage going back to the Civil War was shattered in Grenada..."

But reporter Middleton summarized the Civil War press situation in one paragraph as follows:

"Reporters earned the enmity of some top soldiers on the Union side. Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman, who led the North's march through Georgia to the sea, complained of correspondents' picking up dropped expressions, inciting jealousy and discontent and doing infinite mischief."

This is all that Middleton mentions about the press in the Civil War. By striking contrast, the Press Reference Section of the Library of Congress Information Office was able to provide a great deal of more relevant information than this, through the various books about the press during the Civil War as well as the biographies of Sherman. Some of this material must be available through the New York Times data bank, since it includes the involvement of The Times itself:

What reporter Middleton did not include in his article included the following:

—Gen. Sherman not only complained about the press — whom he called "paid spies" and whom he described as "more valuable to Jeff Davis than his army," but he court-martialed one of them, Thomas Knox of The New York Herald, after Knox had disobeyed Sherman's order excluding reporters from his Yazoo River flank attack on Vicksburg. (In contrast to The Times 1984 subheadline of "A tradition of open coverage going back to the Civil War...")

—Reporters not only exposed the size of Sherman's army but its destination before he had left Atlanta for his march to the sea.

—Reporter De Bow Randolph of The New York Herald exposed the military secret that the Union Army had cracked the Confederate signal code.

—Reporter William Swinton was caught hiding in the bushes, eavesdropping on a conference of Grant and his generals. This reporter was ordered shot by General Burnside. But Grant modified this death sentence to banishment from the war zone.

That Swinton was a reporter for The New York Times was not mentioned by Middleton.

But his affiliation was, mentioned, in testimony by this writer, to the same Defense Department hearing at which Times' managing editor Topping testified. This hearing was reported in The Times by reporter Jonathan Friendly.

But reporter Friendly's story does not mention this testimony.

The New York Times is not so modest in regard to another of its personal involvements in history. For in an editorial on October 28, which deplored the exclusion of the press from Grenada, The Times noted that 39 years ago, a New York Times reporter named William Laurence was aboard the plane that dropped an atom bomb on Nagasaki.

The Department of Defense organized a national panel to consider this issue — after the great volume of repertorial bitching and editorial fulminations, such as those editorials in The New York Times. Panel members were paid consultants' fees of $252 per day plus travel and subsistence for five days.

For Times editor Topping to refer Times reporter Middleton's article to this panel was a deceptive and disgraceful waste of the taxpayers' money. For Times reporter Friendly to refuse to report the testimony which detailed disgraceful press conduct during the Civil War — starring New York Times reporter William Swinton — is an example of media misbehavior and lack of candor for which The New York Times owes an apology to both the Department of Defense as well as the nation.

LETTERS...

Greetings

DEAR FELLOW NEW MEXICAN—You've heard me say it time and time again — budget deficits are too high. Businessmen and women, like yourself, share my concern over the government's fiscal situation. They feel, as I do, that the future of American business depends on our success in bringing deficits down.

For the past few months, the Senate Committee on the Budget, of which I am Chairman, held hearings on the First Concurrent Budget Resolution for Fiscal Year 1985. I wanted to make sure that the views of business were heard; therefore, the committee scheduled two hearings where business groups were represented. The committee heard testimony from the National Association of Realtors, the National Association of Home Builders, the National Federation of Independent Business, the National Association of Manufacturers, the Business Roundtable, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and the Conference Board. As you can see, all types of business, large and small, were well represented.

Every witness that was questioned agreed that deficits must be reduced, and action must be taken as soon as possible. High, sustained structural deficits raise real interest rates and dampen capital investment. Most witnesses agreed that high deficits are in some way responsible for the high value of the dollar, which is damaging our trade position and costing jobs in export-sensitive industries. The witness from the National Federation of Independent Business put it best: The government should be run more like a business — we cannot afford to overextend ourselves.

What this means to me, simply, is that we must bring spending and revenues more in line. I believe we can do this, but we must move one step at a time. With patience and common sense, members of both parties can be successful in putting together a "down payment" deficit reduction package — a "down payment" with the promise of more to come. We will start with a mix of spending cuts and revenue increases that will bring deficits down at least $100 billion over the next three years.

I plan to lead the way toward deficit reduction. Every citizen and every business will benefit from a more fiscally sound government.

PETE V. DOMENICI
 United States Senator

P.S. I would appreciate your views as we continue our deficit-reduction efforts. Please write and share your thoughts with me.

24 Karat

DEAR EDITOR—President Reagan rides to the rescue of bankrupt Poland; assures interest payment on Poland's national debt ($70 million)!

- The President saves PLO terrorists from certain death by the Israelis!
- The Marines invade Grenada!
- The Marines in and out of Lebanon!
- The biggest budget in history ($225 billion)!
- The biggest deficit in history (estimated $106 billion for 1984)!

And all this, plus much more, from an administration led by a President heralded far and near as a genuine, 24 karat fiscal conservative, anti-communist? (Calvin Coolidge must be turning over in his grave.)

The only way that they can sell President Reagan as a fiscal conservative is for the Democrats to nominate a presidential candidate with such a super-spending record that the super-spendingest president in history will seem "conservative" only if the people believe his speeches, and if they avoid his record.

Enter stage left: Jimmy Carter's vice president, Walter Mondale; or, if you like heroes, Ohio's Senator John Glenn; should you like an older candidate, California's Alan Cranston; (never mind, he quit) and then, the personable Senator Gary Hart from Colorado. Every one a super-spender according to his own record.

Regardless of which one gets the nomination, news columnists and TV newscasters will use a super-spending Democratic candidate as a measure from which to judge or compare the "conservativeness" of a President who has already headed the most prodigious spending administration in American history. If Reagan is labeled "conservative," conservatives should be asking, "Conservative compared to who?"

From that sorry looking field the American voter is supposed to make an intelligent choice? The super-spenders are playing a cinch.

Well, I'll tell you friend, you can argue that the fox is more "conservative" than the weasel, but if you've got good sense, you don't send either one out to guard the hen house.

Counterfeit Money

DEAR EDITOR—Many countries print paper money that is much prettier than ours. They include beautiful pictures and many varied colors. But all of that is not what makes money worth something. Money gets its value from what's behind it.

Once upon a time, a paper bill certified there was gold or silver of real value behind it, and the precious metal could be collected on demand. No more. Now most paper money is just an unbacked governmental promise. It's something like "play money" that is used by common consent. And it may be increased in supply just by speeding up the printing presses. That, of course, runs its value down, creating inflation.

We are all familiar with our old green and black Federal Reserve bills. But how there is talk that our government may replace some of our currency with money printed in pink and blue and other colors. The reason is not for beauty, but to make counterfeiting harder.

Why blue? Could it be that color is to represent sadness because of the way we have depreciated the value of the dollar? And why pink? Could the new bills be blushing because they have no gold or silver behind them? It certainly would not be because they are "in the pink" of health.

It is important of course, to thwart counterfeiters. But the truth is that when government issues money that has no real valuable backing, it becomes the biggest counterfeit of all.

INSIDE RELIGION

The incredible apologetics of the Rev. Jesse Jackson

By REV. LES KINSOLVING
 When Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz told a disgusting joke about blacks, the Big Media erupted and Butz was fired by President Ford.

When Secretary of the Interior James Watt made a tasteless joke which mentioned Jews and cripples, the Big Media erupted and Watt's resignation was accepted by President Reagan.

When the Rev. Jesse Jackson, a Baptist clergyman and candidate for President of the United States, made a slur reference to Jews — and lied about it for two weeks in claiming that he could not recall saying it — neither the Big Media nor any of his fellow Democratic candidates suggested that Jackson, like Butz and Watt, should get out of public life.

For the Rev. Jesse Jackson to have made such a statement involves an odium above and beyond the Butz-Watt blunders. For Jackson voluntarily took ordination vows as a minister in the service of Jesus Christ, a Jew. How would Christian clergyman Jackson react to any other candidate for the Presidency who might make such a reference as "The Last Supper of the Hymies"?

The tone and content of the Jackson "apology" was typical of his campaign, which has been described by Washington editor Smith Hempstone as "running from the shameless to the outrageous." For in New Hampshire, candidate Jackson arrived late and delayed his scheduled appearance at Manchester's Temple Abath Yeshurun even further by talking first to the media and then to Rabbi Arthur Starr.

Finally, at 10:15 p.m. (after having announced between 9 and 9:30), Jackson appeared and "apologized" — if that's the word for it. For along with his concession that his "Hymies and Hymietown" statement was "insensitive and wrong," Jackson added a whole wagonload of qualifications and alleged extenuating circumstances, including the following:

"However innocent and unintended" were these remarks, he was "shocked that something so small could become so large." (Prior to this, would-be President Jesse Jackson had been claiming to inquirers about this "small" statement that he has been "hounded and persecuted" simply because of his 1979 public embrace of the PLO's Yassir Arafat, whose organization has murdered so many Jewish civilians.)

—He had used these terms "in a private conversation" that was "overheard by a reporter." (As if reporters are somehow dastardly if they report what they hear said during a Presidential campaign.)

—Beaides, Bill Moyer of CBS called him "Kingfish," a character in the racial Amos 'n Andy radio show. (Huey Long, the famed — and white — Governor of Louisiana was known as "The Kingfish" long before Jesse Jackson was born.)

—All of us have sinned and fallen short of the glory of God. And if there is one among us who can throw a stone, let him think about the texture of the rock before they throw."

This reference to Scripture ought to bring to recall the Congressional testimony of James Watt, in which he referred to the Second Coming of Christ — and the Big Media hooted. But Watt never attempted to defend his tasteless remark about Jews and cripples by contending

'Student of the Month'

Shawna McDaniel

Shawna McDaniel has been voted the 'Student of the Month' at Capitan High School. She was nominated by David Collins, social studies teacher at Capitan High School. Collins had these comments: "I nominated Shawna for Student of the Month because she is displaying on a real long term and constant basis outstanding and excellent achievement in my American history class. The achievement is nice, but I'm not as impressed with that as much as I think her fine effort and attitude are good examples to her classmates. She tries to do neat, well done work, her study habits seem real good, the quality of her work is superior. I'm proud to have her as a student. I feel strongly that she is an asset to the class and the school. Her being selected as Student of the Month means that other teachers agree with me. This lets her know and other students, too, that trying to do a good job pays off. Others should learn from her example."

ASK DR. DAN

Q: If there is cancer in the family is there a chance that family members can get that same cancer? P. S.

A: The risk of cancer is elevated in certain kinds. These include the common cancers such as breast cancer and colon cancer. In addition, certain families show clusters of cancer of the lung, stomach and uterus. The following rare diseases also show a familial tendency—Von Recklinghausen's disease, medullary carcinoma of the thyroid, multiple endocrine adenomatosis, retinoblastoma, Wilm's Tumor, multiple familial polyposis of the intestines. If you know of family members who have these particular cancers, you can consult your family doctor to help decide if other family members are at increased risk. He may need access to medical records to determine the exact kind of cancer. A family tree (genealogy) will help decide if an excessive number of cancers are occurring in a family group.

Q: Every spring and fall I get constant runny nose, sneezing, watery and itchy eyes and sinus congestion. I have tried several over the counter remedies but none seem to work. What do you recommend?

A: Your symptoms are classic for allergic rhinitis. This common malady is caused by inhaled particles which cause certain kinds of white blood cells (eosinophils) to release chemicals into the blood. These chemicals lead to the above symptoms. The commonest allergens (particles which trigger an allergic reaction) are plant pollens, dust, molds, and animal danders.

The best way to deal with this problem is to take a detailed history to try and find out which allergens are causing the problem. Then simple avoidance of the allergens can relieve the symptoms. Unfortunately, it is impossible to avoid many airborne particles.

Antihistamines are often used to block the effect of the released chemicals (which include histamine), but many people cannot tolerate these drugs or find them effective. A relatively new treatment has been found to be very effective for many people. This involves inhaling an aerosol (fine drops) of steroid medicine into the nose. This suppresses the eosinophils from releasing the chemicals into the blood that cause the symptoms. However, these inhalers need to be taken 2 or 3 times daily to be truly effective. Lastly, if other treatments fail, allergy injections can be given to try and develop resistance to the allergens. Skin testing or blood tests are needed to exactly define what the allergens are so that the injections will have the right ingredients.

American Agriculture Day, Mar. 20

At the request of Corriente CowBelles, Mayor David Cummins, Village of Capitan, issued a proclamation declaring March 20 American Agriculture Day in Capitan.

Agriculture is an important part of the economy of Lincoln County so it is appropriate for our community to recognize this special day in conjunction with National Agriculture Week, proclaimed nationwide March 18-24.

Spring officially arrives March 20, so that day signifies the beginning of new life for our livestock, crops, wildlife, forests and rangelands. As stewards of the land and what it produces, ranchers and farmers will be busy starting the production process anew.

The agricultural community appreciates the consumer. It is our hope that the consumer will give some thought to where his basic needs come from on American Agriculture Day.

Remember, if you eat, you are involved in agriculture!

Jump rope-Mar. 31

Heart project

Capitan school students are participating in a Jump Rope for Heart Project March 31. Jumpers have been given pledge forms and will be working to get pledge donations up until the 29th of March.

Rope jumping, as an avenue to risk reduction of heart disease, is extremely beneficial to young people throughout the country. It is one of our most effective aerobic activities for improving the cardio-vascular system.

The American Heart Association, New Mexico Affiliate, sponsors the Jump Rope For Heart in association with the American Association for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance.

Pledge donations are made by signing up for a certain amount of money multiplied by 180 minutes or the same as three hours of team jumping. Example-2 cents x 180 would be $3.60. A 6 member team jumps for 3 hours. After the event jumpers return to their sponsors to collect the pledges.

Prizes for the jumpers include ropes, T-shirts, caps, backpacks, frisbees, warm-ups, medals and certificates provided by the AHA.

This Capitan event will take place from 9 a.m. to noon at the multi purpose building of the school. Parents and sponsors are welcome to attend and cheer their jumpers in this worthwhile project.

and requires that "under God" appear in the Pledge of Allegiance. But let a teacher make reference to God in a public school classroom and the cry goes up that church and state have been wedded.

● THERE are few Congressional hypocrites who will not privately or publicly admit that some study of God and Christianity are absolute requirements for a well-rounded education, and the same few will view with horror their inclusion in a child's education!

● TO THE hypocrites, God is Great off publicly-owned land and an evil elsewhere; a virtue in his mature mind and an abomination in that of a child. It is hypocrisy when a convicted criminal comes to Analy High School to advise students not to register for the draft, and in so doing become criminals themselves. It is considered legal and proper to invite clowns like Dr. Helen Caldwell into public schools to denounce anything nuclear and invite students to march on and destroy, if possible, nuclear power plants—and her authority for such is that she's a baby doctor, and not the authority hat. It is considered legal and proper for card-carrying Communists like Gil Green to advise students on the goodness of a goddess political system. It is legal and proper for ministers to open school athletic events by calling down His blessing on those who are about to mutilate each other. But we must not mention God in the classroom, or mutter a silent prayer, or hang up a religious symbol, because that, to these hypocrites, constitutes an "establishment of religion."

● IT IS possible that hypocrisy is the true religion of this land. If so, may I suggest that its exercise be banned as "an establishment of religion?"

Capitan News

By MARGARET BENCH

Last week was windy and cold. Though there was a day or two that was a little better, slightly warmer but windy. Just March.

The Capitan school spring break starts March 19-25. They held their Science Fair last week. They now have decided to buy new curtains for the stage in the multi purpose building.

Girl Scout Troop No. 95 visited Sun Spot Saturday, March 10. They have taken on a guided tour by one of the scientists at the facility. The girls who made the trip were Lori and Tammy Longbotham, Danielle Riska, Melinda Strickland, Michelle Branham, Pauline Montes and Doris Salazar. The adults were Lee Ann Longbotham, and her son Nathan, Diane Riska, Kay Strickland and Cathleen Massey. A picnic was enjoyed near Sacramento Peak after the tour. It was a great day.

There were 404 registered visitors at the Smokey Bear Museum from March 5-11.

The Trinity Southern Baptist Church of Capitan is having Sunday school for preschool through youth in the Woman's Club building and Adult Sunday School in the fair building at 9 a.m. Church services will begin in the fair building each Sunday at 11:00. All are welcome to attend to study the bible.

Frank Scott of Alvin, TX killed a mountain lion on Sunday. Frank was being guided by Robert Runnels of Runnels Outfitters Guide Service along with Arvel Runnels and Tom Chaffins.

Gid Allen, son of Butch and Tommy Allen who is attending Eastern New Mexico University is in Capitan for spring break.

Mr. and Mrs. Randy S. Baker became the happy proud parents of a daughter Melissa Kay born March 9 at the Hondo Valley Hospital in Ruidoso weighing 7 lbs 5 ozs.

Alton and Pauline Whittaker celebrated their second wedding anniversary recently. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Price to see their daughter Elisen Price-Kim perform with the Nevada Ballet Theatre. The ballet was performed at the New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell.

I wish this happy couple many more happy anniversaries.

The children of Bud and Dorothy Payne hosted a reception in honor of their 40th wedding anniversary at the Recreation Center in Carrizozo Sunday, March 11. A large crowd of family and friends attended. Again there are my wishes for this happy couple of many more years of wedded bliss.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Lacy visited their home folks over the weekend. They were married in Honolulu, Hawaii and spent one week there before returning to Ruidoso where he is a building contractor.

Frances Shaw went to Las Cruces to visit her son Mr. Jeff Shaw and family Fri., March 2 and returned Tuesday afternoon, March 6.

Our municipal election was a success as always. I am very proud of our citizens. We have 378 eligible voters and 301 cast their ballot. That is great. That is the way it is in all elections. They do their duty. That is as it should be. It is such a pleasure to work with those lovely sincere workers and to meet everyone. It is happiness for me.

Everyone check your voting address, etc. Do check before Primary election as there has been some mistakes. Check now and know everything you should know as time seems to have changed things. Do it now. Do not forget. It is important. Let's keep our community going right and smoothly.

All groups and people or persons who use the fair building watch to keep those nice tables in good condition. I noticed some unnecessary marks on one. It hurts to see that happen. Keep them new and pretty. We can do it. We are so proud of that building and everything in it. It took lots of hard work to have that; now lets keep it nice. Respect it.

Mayme Payton passed away at the age of near 76 years in Arkansas. She was laid to rest in the Hale Cemetery, March 6. Two of her sons live here. James E. Payton and Roy Payton. Many years ago she lived in Capitan. She also lived in Ruidoso. I have very beautiful memories of her.

The Capitan cemetery board met March 1 at Smokey Bear Restaurant dining room and enjoyed a good dinner as well as their informative meeting. Carol Reamy, vice chairman presided. Lois Aldrich, George Beaudry, Virginia Spall and Dorothy Smith attended. San Hammons will run his trencher in the cemetery for the trees to be planted there in May. Carol Reamy will let the cemetery board use her parking lot to park cars on Smokey Bear Day, May 24, as a fundraiser. Capitan residents are urged to attend these monthly meetings the first Thursday of each month, 12 noon at the Smokey Bear Restaurant dining room. Do go, learn and enjoy.

The new housing units on west First Street are progressing nicely at this time. Roofing is being added and materials are on ground ready for them when needed. Those on East Fourth Street have been started too. They have had some bad weather but are doing a good job.

The Capitan FFA chapter has been very busy the past few weeks. Chapter members have participated in various judging contests around the state.

On the weekend of Feb. 25 the Capitan judges traveled to Dora, NM. The team won 2nd place in wool judging and 3rd in horse judging. They were many members who won high individual honors. They were Becky Ravey, 3rd high in Dairy; Jack Ravey, 3rd high in Dairy; Mark Romero, 4th High in Ag-Mechanics; Robbie Runnels, 7th high in horses; Jay Eldridge, 8th high in horses; Kime Lunn, 3rd high in wool.

The weekend of March 3 saw the Capitan team participated at the Carrizozo Judging Contest. The team won 3rd place in Livestock judging. Individual winners were Jay Eldridge, 4th high horses; Tom Crain, 10th high Horses; John Parker, 4th high Livestock; Ronnie Sanchez, 9th high Livestock; Mike Lunn, 10th high Livestock and Glyn Story, 10th high Crops.

On March 10, 30 members traveled to Mesquite. The horse team won first place, livestock team won 3rd place and the Wool team won 3rd place.

The High Individuals for this contest were John Parker, 6th high Livestock; Mike Lunn, 9th high Livestock; John Parker, 6th high Wool; Jay Eldridge, 8th high Horses; Robbie Runnels, 8th high Horses; Nicki Ponder, 7th high Horses.

TIGERS

In opening action of the state Class A Basketball Tournament played March 7 in Albuquerque Cimarron squeaked by the Capitan Tigers 68-67.

The Tigers, bothered by a man to man press, blew a 13 point lead in the second half. Cimarron's John Casias connected with 4 seconds left in the game to give the Rams the victory. Davis led the way for the Tigers with 21 points. Proctor and Keller followed with 19 and 14 points respectively.

Capitan will be graduating seniors Danny Cummins, Todd Proctor, Eddie Davis and Sammy Castillo. Only Dewey Keller return next year from the starting five.

Eddie Davis made the all tournament team as the Tigers finish the season with a 19-9 record.

VISITS FATHER

Lt. Col. William R. Harman of Fort Lewis, WA was in Carrizozo Tuesday through Sunday to be with his father, Roy Harman. March 7, Roy underwent eye surgery in Alamogordo.

WEEKEND VISITORS

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bucksath and family, Shawn, Onika, Ann Marie, Edward and Michael visited last weekend with Mrs. Bucksath's mother and brother, Viola and Manny. The Bucksath family reside in Portales.

DOUBLE BIRTHDAYS

Recent visitors in the home of Raylene Greer were her aunt, Edith Record and a family friend, Hank Newman both of Desert Hot Springs, CA. The occasion was the joint birthday celebration of Raylene's mother, Edna Greer and Mrs. Record who are identical twins.

A few funny moments occurred when Mrs. Record went downtown and tried to convince local people that she was not Edna. During the short stay Mrs. Record and Mr. Newman stopped at the newly renovated group home, 'Casa del Sol', at New Horizons. They are active long distance supporters of various programs at New Horizons.

SABBATH-SUNDAY WEEKEND

March is Mental Retardation month and the weekend of March 17-18 is the Sabbath - Sunday weekend set aside especially as a time to remember the six million mentally retarded Americans. Three out of every hundred Americans are mentally retarded.

The Association for Retarded Citizens (ARC) is helping retarded citizens be more self sufficient. Over 85 percent of America's retarded citizens can lead productive lives. Lincoln County has a chapter of ARC which meets quarterly.

There are many things you can do for ARC - donations of time and energy and supporting ARC functions. Interested persons can find out more about ARC by contacting Mary Funk at 648-2190 or 648-2379.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS

St. Patrick's Day.....'tis March 17. Helen Lock and Solomon Sanchez each celebrate a birthday on that day.

There are many legends about Ireland's patron saint, among them, the one that he charmed the snakes of Ireland down the seashore so that they were driven into the water and drowned.

Others celebrating birthdays in the next seven days: March 15 - Mary Means, Catherine Eaker, Birdie Walker; March 16 - Tammy Barnes, Michael Barela Jr.; March 18 - Jack Hefker, Daryl Lindsay, Don Ward; March 19 - Marsha Lynn Lynch, Herb Totten; March 20 (first day of spring) - J. C. Richmond, Ramona Ortiz, Minnie Herrera, Ralph Baroz Jr., Dorothy Simmons; March 21 - Mabel Zamora, James Guevara, Ruth Armstrong.

SIGNS OF SPRING

Garage sales, yard sales, rummage sales - they're one of the surest signs of spring. They are a good way to make extra cash and clean out the house and garage at the same time. Here are some ideas to help you plan a rummage sale:

An important step in conducting a successful sale is to advertise. Your objective should be to tell as many people as possible about your sale. Of all the ways to tell people about your sale, your best bet is the classified or want-ad section of your local newspaper.

Anyone can write a classified ad. In addition to items, make sure the ad contains date or dates of sale, time of sale, and the address. Deliver the ad personally to the news office. Deadline is Tuesday, 5:00 p.m. Thursday through Saturday is a good time to conduct a sale.

Most people attend rummage sales for one primary reason - to get a bargain. If the sale is nearing the end and some items haven't moved, price them downward.

EVEN HANGERS

When you gather your items for the sale don't overlook anything. For every item you have in or around your house, there is a buyer somewhere. Even wire clothes hangers can be sold in bunches of 10. Begin your search for items in the closets. Used clothing, shoes, hats, ties and purses can be found there which you no longer want.

Try the kitchen next for glassware, utensils, pots and pans, and appliances. Check the basement, attic and garage for tools, furniture, sports equipment, ladders, garden hoses, old typewriters, wigs, empty jars, toys, books and mirrors.

Don't overlook the possibility of running a sale as a joint enterprise with neighbors, relatives or as a group. The mothers of the Carrizozo high school seniors will join forces (rummage) on March 23 and 24 to help send their little darlings on a senior trip. Watch for the ad in next week's NEWS.

The sale will be a 'potluck' type sale - meaning all seniors will share the gains evenly no matter whose mother brought in the most items for the sale.

Get the necessary supplies for conducting an efficient sale. Have change available, supply paper sacks and boxes for people who buy several items, keep paper and pencil ready to figure totals. Try to have several helpers on hand to assist. Be prepared at least two hours before the time you set the start of the sale.

Travels to Hatch & Melrose

brought home the 5th high individual honors.

In the wildlife contest the chapter was tied for 3rd with Hot Springs. Adrien Sanchez was 3rd high individual in that contest. The Crops contest provided some percentage points for the chapter when they brought home the 3rd place plaque, with Gray Gallacher as the 4th high individual. In Wool Carrizozo earned 3rd place honors, without the help of any high individuals.

Randy Rhue drove several of the rest of the students to the Melrose contest to compete there in contests not available in Hatch. The result was a 3rd place plaque in the Poultry contest and a high individual pin for Kenneth Crenshaw. Teams also competing at the Melrose contest were the Ag-Mechanics and Horse people, along with Michael Cooper who was competing as an individual in the Farm Management contest.

Completes training

Dale C. Patrick Jr., son of Dale C. Patrick Sr. of Ruidoso, NM, and Mary K. Patrick of 211 College St., Stevensville, Montana has completed the basic field artillery cannoneer course under the one station unit training (OSUT) program at Fort Sill, OK.

During the course, students were taught the duties of a howitzer or gun section crewman. They also received instruction in communications, maintenance in communications, and the handling of ammunition and explosives.

Meet the new boss, same as the old boss

WASHINGTON, D.C. — "Moscow mourns Andropov" screamed the headline in the Detroit News. It was another example of the tendency of people who live in democracies to believe that communist governments share our values.

Alas, it is not so. Andropov did not come to power like an American president, by winning a dozen primaries and a TV debate or two; he climbed a large pile of corpses to the top.

As Soviet ambassador to Hungary during the 1959 revolution, Andropov lured Hungarian freedom fighters to their deaths. Later, he coordinated aid to North Vietnam, transformed mental hospitals into prisons for dissidents, and ordered the use of poison gas in an attempt to wipe out the Afghan freedom fighters. He demanded that the Polish government smash Solidarity and he may well have ordered the assassination of the Pope. For 15 years he headed the KGB, the Soviet secret police.

The real Andropov was very different from the fellow described by the American news media as Brezhnev's successor some 25 months ago. Through their contacts in the Western news media, the Soviets created an image of Andropov as a man sympathetic to dissidents, a lover of American culture, and the kind of fellow Ronald Reagan ought to be able to get along with.

He was described by the Baltimore Sun as "a pragmatist, reformer, intellectual, and liberal" who liked "scotch whiskey and American jazz."

The Washington Post said he was something of a rebel, "fond of cynical political jokes with an anti-regime twist." "(He) dances the tango gracefully." He was, according to the Post, "probably the best informed man in the country," with "the highest IQ in the Politburo." He was a "closet liberal" who invited dissidents to his home for cocktails.

Time called him "a witty conversationalist, a bibliophile (book-lover), a connoisseur of modern art — a kind of closet liberal" who enjoyed Chubby Checker, Frank Sinatra, and books like Valley of the Dolls. The Wall Street Journal described Andropov as "silver-haired and dapper."

What a guy! Of course, there was little truth in the stories about Andropov. The Soviets call it disinformation — the spreading of false information that crowds out the truth. Each year the Soviet Union spends billions of dollars to mislead the Free World about its intentions and to spread false rumors about the United States and its allies.

We can expect a similar campaign to create a likeable, reasonable image for Andropov's successor. Deep in their hearts, many reporters want to believe that the Soviets are ready to beat their SS-20s into plowshares if only the U.S. would stop being so irrational.

Every time there is a change of leadership behind the Iron Curtain, the media bring out the same old liberal analysts who offer the same old theories about how things will be different this time. Washington Post TV critic Tom Shales said that, when Andropov died, "television news programs went into their little game plan on big Russian stories; they scrambled about for their favorite Soviet experts who appeared on the air with various and often conflicting speculations about who Andropov's successor would be and what impact this turn of events would have on the West.

"It didn't matter that the experts disagreed and that prognoses were wildly divergent," Shales wrote. "As long as the voices seemed authoritative, they were encouraged to rattle on, and did."

The "experts" ranged from moderate liberals to communists. Among those who appeared were former secretaries of state Henry Kissinger and Zbigniew Brzezinski, to Senator Charles Percy (R-Illinois), former ambassador Malcolm Toon, Foreign Policy magazine editor Charles William Maynes, and disarmament proponent Paul Warnke, all the way to Joe Adamov, the spokesman for the Soviet government. (Not a conservative in the bunch, but who expects national media coverage to be balanced?)

Almost all these liberal experts saw Andropov's death as an opportunity for the U.S. and the USSR to move toward peace, because they let their ideology, which seldom or never sees an enemy on the left, interfere with their analysis.

Only one type of man can rise to leadership of the Soviet Union — someone cold, ruthless, and totally committed to the spread of communism to all of the world by force. In a democracy, a new leader often means a change in the direction of the government. In a communist society, it makes little difference whether the leader is named Stalin, Krushchev, Brezhnev, Andropov, or Chernenko; approximately the same policies of world conquest will continue.

In the words of the rock group The Who: "Meet the new boss, same as the old boss."

STUDENTS

PORTALES—Three students from Carrizozo and Capitan High schools were among the 243 students who recently participated in Eastern New Mexico University's Talent Scholarships and Career Day.

Students from 59 Texas and New Mexico high schools were given the opportunity to compete for one of 80 $200 scholarships—making a total of $16,000 awarded during the day. There were 25 test areas from which to select, and each student was limited to one area of competition. Scholarships of winners who decide not to attend Eastern will be awarded to alternate winners.

Christetta Chavez from Carrizozo High School was a winner of a business administration scholarship.

Attending from Capitan High School were Tommie Armstrong and Barbara Long, participants,

THANK YOU . . .

—I would like to take this opportunity to thank the citizens of Carrizozo who turned out to vote in this past Municipal Elections.

—I particularly want to thank my supporters, and yes, even the few who voted against me—the fine, respectable innocent people who were "duped" by the "Popularity twins".

—I am looking forward to being your public servant and will conduct my term to the very best of my ability. Again thank you so much.

THE JUMP ROPE TEAM
Mrs. Cooper asked Mr. Sanchez if we may go to Capitan to perform at a basketball game. He said "yes..." We are all very excited. We have learned many new tricks. We all have improved. In Capitan on Feb. 3 we are all going to do a group routine. I know we'll all have lots of fun. The cheerleaders are teaching us cheers because we're going to be their pep squad. Now all of us have red scarves and white shirts for our uniforms. We hope to see everyone from Hondo at the game.

Inside Religion

Biblically that, after all, nobody's perfect.
The Rev. Mr. Jackson explained to the Synagogue congregation: "I was not sinful because I chose not to lie. I chose to protect my integrity."
If this brand of tortured logic is outrageous, there was still more:

"The great issues of our campaign were being interfered with by the lack of a statement."

What, pray tell, is greater in the Jackson-for-President campaign than the question as to whether the candidate himself will slur several million of his fellow Americans and then spend the next two weeks lying about it?

Is there any acceptable standard for the ministry in those Baptist denominations where the pastors have been using their tax-exempt church buildings to campaign for the Jackson Presidential bid?

Are there none of these reverend gentlemen who will dare to tell Jackson publicly that this is conduct unbecoming a clergyman -- not to mention a Presidential candidate -- for which he should surely withdraw from the race, if not the ministry?

The seven (now four) other Democratic candidates reacted to this Jackson outrage as if they were Snow White's seven little friends. George McGovern, a one-time Methodist pastor in Illinois, and like Walter Mondale a minister's son, even announced that he had no desire "to be passing judgement on the other candidates." Walter Mondale, who has been repeatedly torn apart by his fellow Democratic candidates, will no doubt be surprised to learn of this new standard of campaign gentleness -- toward Jackson -- as what may be termed Political Affirmative Action.

Jewish leaders like Howard Friedman of the American Jewish Committee were far more realistic. They called (in vain, thus far) for Jackson to apologize for his other statements on Jews; for his statements about the Holocaust (that the Jews have been oversensitive) as well as for his support of Yassir Arafat and the PLO. And Nathan Perlmutter of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith called on Jackson (also without any result thus far) to repudiate Black-Muslim leader Louis Farrakhan's statement: "If you harm this brother, I warn you in the name of Allah this will be the last one you do harm."

The Rev. Mr. Jackson has not yet seen fit to repudiate this ominous threat in the manner that so many Jewish leaders have repudiated the offensive violence of the Jewish Defense League and have disassociated themselves from the Jews Against Jackson organization. And if a national conflict breaks out between militant blacks and militant Jews, the Democratic Party may ask its seven other candidates why they were so gentle or tonguetied about the shameless antics of the Rev. Jesse Jackson.
