VOLUME 80, NUMBER 48 CARRIZOZO, NM 88301 THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1984 ESTABLISHED 1905

COMMISSIONERS—

Locked gates to be opened

By RUTH HAMMOND
County Commissioners presented Certificates of Appreciation to custodial and grounds employees Frances Morales, Mabel Vega, and Mario Ortiz at the Nov. 20 meeting.

County Manager Suzanne Cox said the hard work and effort by the employees has been the reason for the numerous compliments on how the courthouse looks.

In other business: A joint Powers agreement was signed with Captain for the housing and care of prisoners. Sheriff Tom Sullivan said the agreement is good through the end of December. After the first of the year the agreement will be renegotiated.

Resolution 73-12 was signed, to increase the budget by $15,000 for the roofing of New Horizon's Developmental Center Building. The roof had been originally budgeted for $25,000.

Resolution 73-13 was approved with Nogal Water Association. Lincoln County will administer the funds for the Nogal water project. Putting the items on the computer will provide a better audit trail.

Replats were approved for Sweetwater Hills Subdivision and for Wolf Creek Subdivision.

In an executive session, Commissioners agreed to enforce the state statute which prohibits locking of gates or blocking county roads. Several complaints have been received during hunting season about locked gates.

When complaints are received, the sheriff's department and the road department will be notified. They will investigate and report their findings to the county attorney. The county attorney will take any action necessary.

Commissioners have changed the December 11 meeting date to December 18.

ROTARY EXCHANGE Program—Bobbi Rogers, left, and Brendon Wolff, students at Capitan High School, will be in El Paso Dec. 6-9 for their 3rd and final interview. If selected they will be exchange students to a foreign country for one year under a program sponsored by Rotary International.

White Oaks-Ancho bus route topic at school board meeting

By RUTH HAMMOND
Consideration of extending the White Oaks-Ancho school bus route was the topic of a lengthy discussion at the regular school board meeting on Nov. 20.

Joel and Rhoda Gutsche have asked that the White Oaks route be extended 3.8 miles from the present stop at the cattle guard in White Oaks. Mr. Gutsche contended that the road is no longer a four wheel drive road as it was ten years ago. He went on to say, "The road is passable all the time."

Frank DeBerge, also living on the White Oaks route said the road gets wet and gets bottomless. He added that there is a dangerous one lane cattle guard the bus would have to cross. He went on to say, "Not everyone in White Oaks expects door to door service."

More than 20 people were in attendance when Gutsche said, "You go to Barham's for two kids, and Spencers for one child is there some kind of political back scratching going on?"

Mr. Roper, school bus driver said, "I don't go on the roads if it is too muddy. The parents bring them to the highway."

Board members agreed to designate the 4.1 miles beyond the White Oaks cattle guard as a school bus route. This will be three tenths further than was asked but will give the bus a place to turn around.

Once the route has been added to the county inventory as a school bus route, it will be maintained regularly by the county. After the road has been designated as a school bus route, the school can approach the state for funds for the road. Students living beyond the cattle guard must now be brought to the cattle guard to meet the bus. They are on a feeder route and their families are paid 27 cents a mile to bring them to White Oaks.

The school bus route beyond White Oaks is the first road listed for bus route improvement priorities with the state.

In other business: —Persons named to the teacher incentive pay committee were: Pagan T. Roueche, Ginger

Shafer, Phillip Becket, J. C. Richmond, Michael Gaines, Dennis Sidebottom, and Dr. Miller.

—Devil Bill Adams, Lincoln County EMS coordinator, presented a plan for emergency medical training for high school students.

The class would be two nights a week and would enable students to earn five hours of college credit if they would challenge the course when entering college. The school board will consider an EMT class.

Adams said New Mexico is twelfth in the nation with border to border EMT coverage. He added that New Mexico has 'dynamite EMT service.'

—An application will be filed for capital Outlay for a computer lab. Capital Outlay monies may be spent for classrooms and gymnasiums, not offices. The application will be for $49,400 for a computer lab.

—Gary Vega was hired as junior varsity basketball coach and will assist with varsity basketball.

—The high school is having a career fair on Monday, bringing people from different occupations to talk to students.

—The audience had to wait an hour and five minutes while the school board was in closed session. The meeting adjourned at 11:15.

Murder probe continues

Chief Deputy Charlie Cox said the Sheriff's Department has a full fledged investigation going on in the McKnight murder cases.

The bodies of Thomas P. "Cotton" McKnight and his wife Judy were found November 15 in their home near Picacho. The couple had been shot in "Cold blooded execution type murders," according to Lincoln County Sheriff Tom Sullivan.

Cox told the News that there is nothing new in the case though some suspects have been eliminated. He went on to say, "We don't have anything to sink our teeth into at this time."

Capitan students finalists in foreign exchange program

Ten Capitan High School students applied for the Foreign Exchange Program sponsored by Rotary International. These students are Tiffany Huey, Pete Hausler, Becky Phillips, Bobbi Rogers, Scott Burch, Brendon Wolff, Shamarie LaRue, Jedd Hall, Angie Trujillo, and Monica Montoya.

The first step was to appear before a review board in Ruidoso. The second step was to appear before such a board in Roswell. It was learned early this week that Bobbi Rogers and Brendon Wolff had passed these two boards. These two students will be in El Paso Dec. 6-9 for their third and final interview.

If accepted these two students will spend one year in a foreign country as a special type of ambassador representing the United States of America. They will be provided with room and board and a stipend. They must in turn provide their own transportation.

In other school news the ACT College Entrance Test will be given on Dec. 8.

Final exams for Capitan High School students for class periods 1, 3, and 5, will be given on Dec. 18. Exams for class periods 2, 4, and 6 will be given on Dec. 19. The high school and junior high students will be dismissed at 12:20 p.m. on these two dates. The first semester ends on Dec. 19. Report cards go out the afternoon of Jan. 8.

C'ZOZO TOWN COUNCIL—

$25.00 livestock permit is proposed

By RUTH HAMMOND
The Carrizozo Town Council held the public hearing for input on a Domestic Livestock Ordinance at their regular meeting Tuesday.

Discussion included not only horses, fees, and permits but also to dogs and leash laws.

Several persons attended the meeting to voice their opinions that they should be allowed to keep horses inside the city limits.

Mayor Harold Garcia said, "In our rural setting, we should be allowed to keep livestock in town." City Attorney Don Dutton said that any new resolution or law would have effect from now forward in time. The existing ordinance requires a fee for livestock and once an amount is set by trustees, the fee will apply to all livestock owners.

The proposed ordinance on domestic livestock will list the fee for a permit for each species of animal at $25 a year. Trustees will look seriously at the current ordinance requiring that any equine or bovine over six months of age be kept on not less than one third acre.

The proposed ordinance would eliminate restriction number 3. "All domestic livestock shall be cared for according to accepted livestock management practice and in such a manner as to not create a public nuisance.

Also eliminated in the proposed ordinance will be the restriction that all domestic livestock shall not be less than one hundred yards from any inhabited dwelling, excluding the home of the owner of such animals, or currently used food service establishment, church or school.

Additional input is desired at the next meeting on Dec. 11. Other aspects of the animal ordinance will be reviewed also.

In other business: Project Director Albert Baca said the Community Development Block Grant was three weeks behind because someone in town had asked that Santa Fe investigate his office.

He also said that his immediate supervisor in Santa Fe had asked that the project be extended one month to give the Santa Fe office time to get here and close out the project. Trustees agreed to the extension tentative on receiving the letter from Baca's supervisor.

Low bid for Workmen's Comp insurance was $5,032 from the Municipal League Self Insurance

Wording of the Pedestrian Overpass Resolution may be changed to 'a safe pedestrian crossing' or 'a safe unhindered pedestrian crossing.' The city attorney will write the resolution for approval by trustees.

The Town of Carrizozo received a bill from the Sheriff's office for $2,420 for housing and care of a prisoner. City Attorney Don Sutton suggested that the town negotiate with the sheriff's office. The prisoner had been charged in Magistrate Court.

Dutton also said the town should review the joint powers agreement with the sheriff's office.

Holidays for 1985 were approved.

Trustees held a closed personnel meeting.

THE PUBLIC Hearing for public input on a Domestic Livestock Ordinance held Tuesday at City Hall brought suggestions for changes. Among those attending the meeting were Tom Ward, Barbara Ward, and Thelma Apgar. The fee for a permit for domestic livestock may be set at $25 a year for each species of animal. Another public hearing will be held Dec. 11 at 6 p.m. for proposed changes in all animal ordinances.

1984 SUN DUCHESS Kelli Marie Vigil, sponsored by Carrizozo Women's Club was one of 14 Duchesses representing Texas and New Mexico in the Sun Bowl Parade held Thanksgiving Day in El Paso. Kelli, 19, daughter of Pat and Jackie Vigil was a 1983 graduate of Carrizozo High School and now attends New Mexico State University. The Grand Marshall of the Sun Bowl Parade was Ana Alicia, star of Falcon Crest, other highlights were Miss USA Mai Shanley of Alamogordo, the 1984 Rose Festival Queen, 1984 Fiesta Bowl Queen, 1985 Miss Texas USA, and two floats with the 22 Princesses from El Paso.

BARTER SYSTEM

One way to cope with lack of cash is to try to get along without money as much as possible. Before money was invented, the only way people could pay for goods and services was to exchange them for other goods and services. After money came into use the barter system continued to be a source of payment.

People who find swapping convenient have found that the best method of spreading the word is through the classified ads in their local newspaper:

"Sell or trade S & W mod 469, 9mm combat auto rifle, like new, $250." "Let's swap - I have several 8mm films. Will trade for some video tapes. Or sell at $4 each. Call 892-1482." "Buy, sell, trade Madam Alexander presidents' dolls. P.E. Chandlor, Box 152, Somewhere, Lincoln County."

Let others know through classified ads the goods or services you want to swap or trade.

SWAP TALENTS

When you pick up a package of cereal for your neighbor when you go to the grocery store and she does the same for you at another time, you're involved in an exchange of services. Car pooling is a form of barter.

An accomplished pianist can trade piano lessons for some other service. A person skilled in drawing and painting can design posters in exchange for goods to be sold at the event. Perhaps free admission can be swapped for the artist's time and effort in making the posters.

The list of services that could be exchanged is endless...sewing, typing, carpentry, nursing, tutoring, animal sitting, plant sitting, house sitting, crafts, housecleaning, baking.

Senior citizens are often able to contribute their services more often. Retired professional people on fixed income can exchange services with each other. The ex-seamstress, ex-secretary and the ex-beauty salon owner can alter clothes, type letters and cut hair in exchange for other services.

Swapping seems to be almost an instinct for children. Many times Zachary takes a toy car to school and returns home in the afternoon with a different one.

GOAL REACHED

Rosemary Shafer, Maxie

LaMay, Jan Barham, Lyn Miller and Trudy Torrison volunteered to help out during the school's book fair on November 12-16. Librarian Julia Hollis was pleased that the library's goal was reached and an encyclopedia set will be purchased with the fair's proceeds.

Another library activity planned after January 1 will be a reading hour for pre-school children. Parents of this age children should watch for announcement sometime in early January.

COMMUNITY PATRONS

Community patrons are welcome and encouraged to use the school library during regular library hours. Gifts of money, books or library materials are accepted for use in the library. The school library maintains a collection of over 7000 books and paperbacks, over 70 magazines subscriptions, 3 newspapers, a growing collection of AV kits and materials presently over 250 items and approximately 60 pieces of AV equipment.

NINE YEARS AGO

Following development and while rinsing last week's film at the NEWS I browsed through the 1975 file of the Lincoln County News. This column was called 'Polly's Bulletin Board'. The November 27, 1975 issue had the following last laugh in my column:

A mother was having a hard time getting her son to go to school one morning.

"Nobody likes me at school," said the son. "The teachers don't and the kids don't. The superintendent wants to transfer me, the school board wants me to drop out and the janitors have it

Huge explosive test program underway

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, NM, Nov. 27 — Preparations for a unique high-explosive test program, known as Minor Scale, are underway in the northern portion of White Sands Missile Range.

The purpose of Minor Scale is to expose military hardware, vehicles, and structures to an air-blast and ground-shock environment. Test officials said there should be approximately 300 experiments, sponsored by 10 US agencies and six foreign governments, on the testbed.

The test, scheduled for June 1985, involves the detonation of 4,800 tons of ammonium nitrate and fuel oil (ANFO). The ANFO will be placed in a 88-foot diameter hemispherical container at ground level.

The program is sponsored by the Defense Nuclear Agency (DNA), with Field Command, DNA, Albuquerque, conducting the test.

The test site is about 56.5 miles north-northwest of Alamogordo, NM and 37.5 miles southeast of Socorro, NM. An environmental assessment has determined there will be no significant environmental effects from the test.

Marine Corps Maj. Michael G. Evinrude of Field Command, DNA, is the test group director. The WSMR project engineer for Minor Scale is Lee Meadows of the National Range Operations Directorate.

Gastineau, a native Coloradan, has been a missionary since 1971. He will bring a report from Zambia, South Africa.

A December trip for elementary classes to see the movie "Christmas Lights" in Alamogordo's Omnitheater will be possible in part because of People For Kid's donation of gas.

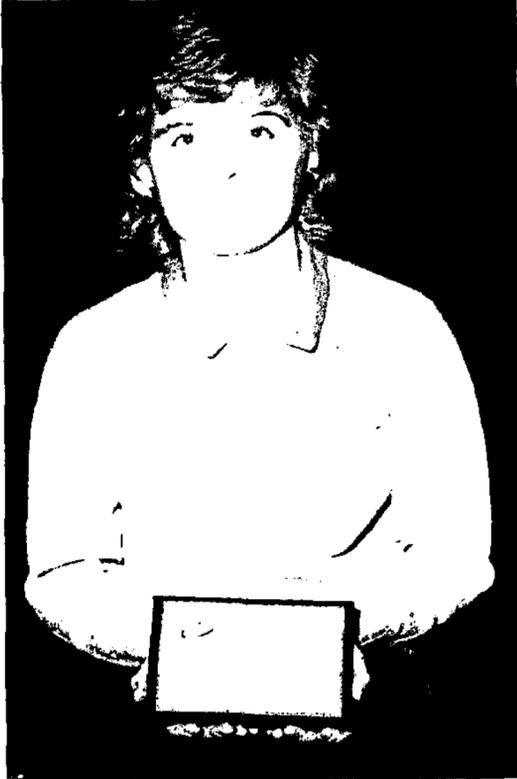

Also approved at the November 15 PFK meeting was payment of transportation for the 2nd and 3rd grade visit to the omnitheater in Alamogordo on November 7.

Linda Greer requested help from PFK for Christmas Program costumes. PFK members voted to allot $100 for costume expenses. In this way, costumes may be saved by the school for future use rather than purchased by students and taken home.

Other business included a report by Brenda Monrreal that a successful and profitable Halloween Carnival — enjoyed by many and she thanks all those who helped.

The next meeting of People For Kids will be held on December 13 in the school conference room at 7:00 p.m. Parents and other interested persons are urged to attend.

Another project underway on US 70 west of Roswell

Work is underway on another US 70 segment west of Roswell in Chaves and Lincoln counties, a Highway Department project manager said.

The project area begins 4.3 miles west of the county line and extends east for 5.7 miles, department project manager Gilbert Kimbrell said.

Crews are now working to widen road shoulders. The work areas are screened off from traffic lanes with portable screens. The project area is well marked with warning signs, he said. Motorists are requested to slow down when traveling through the project area and be alert for men working at the side of the road.

As part of the work, some rock blasting will be necessary along much of the route, Kimbrell said. During these times, there will be some traffic delays.

When the widening has been completed, the road will be completely repaved.

James Hamilton Construction Co. of Silver City is doing the job for the road agency. The $3.095 million contract was let to bid on September 28. The contractor's schedule projects work completion in August 1985.

PIPING-HOT SOUP

To make sure soup stays hot, prewarm soup bowls or mugs by filling with boiling water. Let them stand a minute to heat. Discard the water and ladle in the hot soup.

EDIBLE TREES

Frost pointed ice cream cones with frosting. Place point up on a cookie which will be the base of the tree. Frosting may be tinted green. Candy corn and cinnamon candies can be used for "ornaments." Nuts, coconut and raisins can also be used to decorate the trees.

MULLED WINE

For delicious mulled wine, heat but don't boil 1 bottle red wine, 1 cup apple cider or pineapple juice. Add 1 teaspoon allspice, 6 whole cloves, 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg, a stick of cinnamon and 1 thinly sliced orange. Simmer 15 minutes. Strain into 4 large, warm mugs. Float orange slices on top.

CARDBOARD CANDLES

Cut paper towel or wax paper rolls in various lengths. Paint them with poster paint or cover with shiny gift wrapping paper. Glue onto cardboard circles and add yellow flames. Tape together in groups of three or five. Place evergreens and ribbon around the base.

LIGHT BULB CHORUS

Paint carolers' faces and hair on old light bulbs. Place light bulb on cardboard roll. Dress singer in a robe with long sleeves. Each caroler can hold a tiny song book.

One-half inch of good slow rain arrived Friday night followed by three inches of good wet snow. Fair Sunday, Monday we awakened with 1 1/2 inches of snow with a high wind. At 1:00 p.m. snow is still with us. It is very cold and cloudy. Freezing. Winter, for certain. It is time. The moisture has all been great. Good for the country.

Thanksgiving Day was lovely and 55 degrees. I enjoyed dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Horstman and two sons in Ruidoso. Dinner at night with Doris Pounds and family. Her children and their families were present. It was delightful time and a happy one of music.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Pew of Alto Route enjoyed Thanksgiving week visit from their daughters, Dr. Nancy Lohmann of Morgantown, WV and Twyla McKee of Roswell. Mrs. McKee's husband, Clyde, joined the Pews for Thanksgiving Day. Dr. Lohmann, Dean of the School of Social Work at West Virginia University, visited San Antonio prior to her visit in Capitan. While in San Antonio, she attended the Scientific Meeting of the Gerontological Society of America to represent the Southern Gerontological Society as its past president.

Maxine Wright left Thanksgiving to visit her mother Elsie Kidd, her sisters and brothers in Lubbock, TX and returned after a wonderful trip Sunday evening. Everyone was okay and all happy to have that time together.

Mr. and Mrs. Olin Booher's family enjoyed Glenda who was home from Western University, Silver City. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Crisp and two sons of Menard, TX. His mother Loraine Booher and Tasha of Roswell, Johnnie Romero of Capitan, Roy Booher and Opal Hobbs and daughter Sue, for Thanksgiving Day.

I do wish happy birthdays to Tammie Payne and her father Curtis Payne on December 1. And to Melinda and Rhonda Strickland whose birthdays are CDecember 3 and 4.

The Smokey Bear Museum

BRIEF

The Capitan Tigarette Volleyball Team won their district this season but went down to defeat at the hands of a tough team from Tatum. This was in the first round of the state tournament last weekend in Albuquerque.

The scores with the winning team first - 6.15, 15-4, 15-10, and 18-16.

had 504 registered visitors from Nov. 19-25.

The museum received a paper from Arlington, VA "Bear Facts in Recreation News." The Official Publication of The League of Federal Recreations Inc.

There was history of Smokey This reaches dense areas, and people from everywhere are beginning to realize Smokey was a live symbol of fire prevention.

Did you know - Smokey the Bear is the second best known symbol in America, ranking behind Coca-Cola? Did you know that Smokey Bear gets more mail than the President of the United States? He even has his own zip code.

Rudolph Wendelin who has drawn Smokey the Bear since 1940. will exhibit oils and water colors of Smokey at the American Forestry Association Headquarters - 1319 15th St., NW Arlington, VA. The show will run Nov. 18-27 with some of them for sale. Sculptures, medallions and other works will also be exhibited.

Rudolph Wendelin was the designer of the Smokey Bear Stamp and was here in Capitan for the dedication ceremonies.

All of this is so important and so many here just take it for granted. It is of such great interest to hear and see the tourists that has visited here and truly learned that he was a live bear. They just bubble with interest and joy. Therefore our symbol "Smokey the Bear" is really a true fire prevention. Help him continue to be just that.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodney McCarty of Las Cruces visited his sister Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Wright and family. The Terry Stricklands joined there for Thanksgiving Day. Rodney hunted and killed a four point deer.

The Capitan School resumed Monday morning after the holidays.

Monday afternoon and really it looks like a real blizzard outside. Blowing cold snow with no visibility. Salt trucks passing by at work.

Ernest V. Joiner

● A flamboyant San Francisco lawyer who makes a handsome living filing personal injury suits against insurance companies was in the area last week rallying persons with bum knees, tennis elbows, aching backs and tic-ing eyes to "sue the bastards" under his paternal protection. Lawyer Arnold Laub told some 50 persons lusty for compensation that "insurance companies . . . are all designed to make a profit." Nobody deserves to be separated from their assets more than the selfish, uncompassionate, greedy, unfeeling characters who embark upon a business venture with the purpose of making a profit. How despicable can one get! The man who pumps the gas doesn't expect to make a profit, only to recompense deserving characters for real or imagined infirmity. Supermarkets exist only to feed the hungry, not to make a profit. Landlords shelter the homeless, but would incur Lawyer Laub's wrath if he charged enough rent to buy himself a new shirt from the dry goods merchant who is only in business to clothe the indigent and undeserving. Anyone suspecting a merchant of making a profit should immediately report the swine to Lawyer Laub so he can make arrangements to shear the errant sheep of his ill-gotten gains. He's in the phone book.

● JEAN-Francois Revel, the distinguished French writer, wrote in his book, "How Democracies Perish," that "Clearly, a civilization that feels guilty for everything it is and does will lack the energy and conviction to defend itself."

● TRADITIONALLY, Americans enter the Thanksgiving-Christmas season with thanksgiving and joy. In these times, however, those qualities have been tempered with a national guilt feeling. We feel guilty about producing the most outrageous crop of criminals in our history. We feel guilty that we are well-fed while others are not, housed when some are homeless, healthy while many are ill, even happy when we know others are sad and despondent. Somehow, somebody has led us to believe that the misfortune of others is our personal responsibility.

● BECAUSE we feel guilty we are finding tears, money and food to send to the starving in Ethiopia. We feel responsible. We have been told the suffering there is caused by drought and famine. In fact, it is caused by the Marxist regime governing that unhappy land, a Marxist power installed by the Soviet Union which has given $5 billion in arms and no food to bring it about. On Sept. 10 the Marxists of Ethiopia celebrated its 10th year in power with a party that cost $250 million—while thousands of their countrymen died of starvation.

● WE DO not blame the Soviets, we blame ourselves for permitting starvation in a world of plenty. We can't understand that the famine in Ethiopia was planned as a means of killing Eritrean rebels who opposed the Communists. We can't comprehend that the Soviets would use food as a weapon of war. Our guilt blinds us to the fact that US food and money destined for the starving constitutes little more than a subsidy to the Marxist consortium which is responsible for the starvation in the first place.

● AMERICANS have an unwillingness to spend money on defense, but it can always find money to spend for social programs that exalt the poor, the sick, the aged, the homeless and the unhappy. Which brings me back to the opening sentence quoting Jean-Francois Revel. Please re-read it.

● IN Los Angeles, our guilt complex and attendant compassion was put to the test when a Soviet woman agent, involved in an espionage case with fired FBI Agent Richard Miller, went on welfare along with her 13-year-old son. The Department of Public Social Services ruled that she was qualified to live off the people she hopes to destroy.

● AT ONE of the nation's prestige colleges, Brown University, students voted 1,044 to 687 to demand that the University's Student Health Center distribute cyanide pills in the event of nuclear attack. Exhibiting moral cowardice at the Ivy League institution, what the students were saying is that while the rest of us struggle to rebuild a civilization, these morally decadent offspring of the elite will take the easy way out. Shall we all go into the closet and feel guilty?

● HERB Caen recites a conversation at the Ed Brunner dinner table in Novato at which 6-year-old Seamus declared, "If kids were allowed to vote, Mondale would've won." Precisely. Which is why 6-year-olds are not permitted to vote.

● IF YOU feel guilty about Wild Willie Brown's continued ownership and control of the California Legislature, you should be. This fugitive from an East Texas cotton patch is now proposing that the pay of legislators be increased to $76,000 a year—up from $28,110 and due to rise to $33,732 next month. This does not include what they are able to beg, borrow or steal on the side. Willie says that if the people will only grant him and "his people" adequate compensation they won't have to steak or hold outside jobs. Between guilt spasms, think about that.

● SENECA, the Roman rhetorician, back in 39 A.D., said what Jean-Francois Revel said, only in different words: "Every guilty person is his own hangman." How about putting our guilt feelings on hold during the holiday season?

WATCH OVER WASHINGTON—

By LES KINSOLVING

Mr. Mondale's Post-mortem miscues

WASHINGTON — Only twenty-four hours after a huge majority of the American electorate handed him one of the worst political repudiations in American history, Walter Mondale had called three different news conferences, two of them in Minnesota; the other here.

Mr. Mondale would have been far better advised to have limited himself to one mini-press-conference to make a brief and gracious concession, before promptly departing into private life. Instead, he flew his chartered campaign plane, and his entourage, into Washington, where this airliner's recent title of "Louisville Slugger" made it resemble The Ghost Ship of The Lost Norwegian.

He would have done better to have waited awhile, then fly (commercially) here without further news conferences. For then he might have avoided a number of post-mortem miscues:

—He announced for the third time (or was it the fourth?) "I did my best! I worked my heart out!" (Has there ever in American history been a Presidential candidate who didn't?)

—He announced, within hours of being annihilated at the ballot box, that the Republicans, with regard to revenue, will be—in his own words—"Eating one of the biggest meals of crow." (This statement, ladies and gentlemen, straight from the mouth of the man who was at that very moment more qualified than any other person in America as a crow-eater.)

—He announced—or rather, he confessed: "My chances of winning probably disappeared" after the encounter with Ronald Reagan in Kansas City. (NOW he tells us. But exactly one week earlier, in Baltimore, Brooklyn and Manhattan, I heard with my own ears this same Walter Mondale shouting enthusiastically and repeatedly: "WE'RE GONNA WIN! POLLS DON'T VOTE!")

While no reasonable person would have expected Fritz to withdraw a week before election day, this kind of graveyard whistling and rhetorical hyperbole was as silly as Geraldine's contribution to the Last Press Conference: "We didn't lose it. President Reagan won it. He won't it on his popularity."

And speaking before this lady, there was Mr. Mondale's other, and even more spectacular miscue:

"How proud we are of Geraldine Ferraro. She campaigned with dignity and with strength and spoke of the values of the American people that she learned in her own family. She made history. America will never be the same."

We can agree with these two sentences. Geraldine made history, all right—and, God willing, America will never again be so seriously threatened as by the possibility of so high an office for such a person, who, among other things:

—Deceived the American people in her acceptance speech in San Francisco. For she praised to the skies her parents, whom she portrayed in four different references, as poor but honest immigrants. In fact, they were both arrested as numbers racketeers; they were repeatedly cited as having employed B-girls to hustle customers for drinks;

he was arrested for possession of a prodigious amount of bootleg hooch; and they were close associates of America's most notorious gangsters, including Michael DeVasto, Ferraro's employer.

—Geraldine and her husband, John Zaccaro, are presently being investigated by no less than eight different agencies of the federal, state and city governments—on allegations of repeated felonies.

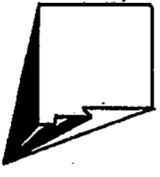

—Geraldine and her husband are multi-millionaires, who have made their money as landlords to enough Mafia tenants to comprise a Most Wanted List of the FBI—including one of the nation's largest distributors of pornography.

—Geraldine kicked two women reporters off her campaign plane, because their newspapers were printing the truth about her and her gangster friends and relatives. In August, she held one long press conference, after which, for the remaining two months of the campaign, she stonewalled all questions on this subject of her repeated scandals, which government agencies are presently investigating. That the networks and most of the rest of Big Media allowed this woman to get away with this is surely one of the worst disgraces in the modern history of American journalism.

Fritz Mondale's salute to his running mate was echoed by Katherine Graham's Washington Post, whose editorial page is run by Meg Greenfield—and strongly influenced by those syndicated sob sisters, Mary McGoGoo and Ellen Goodwoman. But all of their salutations of the really disastrous candidacy of Geraldine The Gender Candidate simply illustrate just how far removed are these Big Media Madams from the majority of the American people.

For, given the present investigation of Ferraro-Zaccaro by eight different agencies of government, the voters may well have spared the Republic from a female Spiro Agnew.

SANTA FE—Some of us who get paid to mull over such topics think Democrats are getting beaten these days because they have lost credibility on economic issues.

One major contributor to that loss was Jimmy Carter. Since the 1930s, Democrats have been able to convince the voters it was their party which protects the ordinary citizen from economic adversity. Carter blew that thesis once for all; one of his primary defects was to deepen the economic adversity which was already burying us all.

So when the Democrats chose Walter Mondale as their candidate this year, they reminded everyone of those times, just when the opposition had achieved enough economic stability so that people were not seeking change.

They chose Ronald Reagan in 1980 because they wanted change; they chose him again in 1984 because they wanted to keep what they had. In both instances, it was the economic policy of the Democrats they found wanting.

Some of that same attitude seems true here at home.

LAWMAKERS: In choosing members for the 1985-86 Legislature, New Mexico voters seemed to be about where the nation was in 1980. They apparently want change.

They sent us a Senate which is at least half Republican, an event unlike anything that has happened in that body since 1929. Whichever party formally controls that senior branch it will not matter. The conservatives philosophy will govern there.

Pretty much the same is true of the House. Even if certified liberal Raymond Sanchez retains his post as Speaker, the membership will vote conservatively; and the tenor or pattern of such votes is more important than who wears what titles.

It would appear that conservatives triumphed for the same reason Reagan did in 1980—because the electorate is dissatisfied with the way economic matters are being handled in Santa Fe.

They have a right to be.

BUDGETS: As you read these words, agency heads are appearing before the Legislative Finance Committee to propose budgets for the coming fiscal year.

In light of the fact that the only way we can pay for the government we presently have is to draw down $35 million of savings from past years, you might expect those budgets to come in at minimal levels.

Not at all. The average of those presented so far asks for 28.5 percent more money next year than this.

Who are these people making such requests? The Democrats. And who will be voting on the budgets? Republicans and those who think like them.

They will view these proposals as being, at the very kindest, economically disastrous. They will then vote accordingly.

CONSEQUENCES: Where will all this, taking place under Democrat Toney Anaya, leave his party?

Looking economically incredible once again.

When Ron Olguin, state Senator, was defeated in the June primary, he said, wisely enough, that most incumbents who get beaten actually beat themselves.

You might suspect the Anaya administration is setting out to do that for Democrats who come after them.

Failure to understand the importance of economic forces has beaten this party before. Imagine what it is likely to do at the end of the Anaya years.

THE WRONG ENEMY

DEAR EDITOR—The anti-nuclear power demonstrators are marching against the wrong enemy.

That terrible tragedy in Mexico City once again reminds us of the extreme danger of natural gas. Over 500 killed and over 3000 injured according to the reports.

Yet, whoever heard of the demonstrators marching against the ever-dangerous natural gas? Oh, no! The demonstrators save their demonstrative energy for marching against the safest of all forms of energy, nuclear power.

According to the cold facts of history, in the worst nuclear power accident ever, the one a few years ago at Three Mile Island in Pennsylvania, exactly no one was killed, and no one was injured. There has never been a fatality resulting from a nuclear power accident.

You just can't make it any safer than that.

SLAVE LABOR

EDITOR—Senator Steve Symms and 34 other members of Congress have filed suit demanding that the Customs Service enforce a Federal law which prohibits the importation of products made with slave labor. More than $200 million worth of goods are imported from the Soviet Union annually, according to the suit, and these products are made by political and religious prisoners at approximately 1,000 concentration camps in the USSR. These Congressmen believe that it is unconscionable for the United States to be an accomplice in this barbaric trade. The importation of products made by forced labor is prohibited by the Smoot-Hawley Tariff Act of 1930. Although the Customs Service acknowledges that some 38 articles that the Soviets export to this country are made by slave labor, the Smoot-Hawley ban on those products has not been enforced. That is why 35 Congressmen have joined the Washington Legal Foundation—both Republicans and Democrats, Liberals and Conservatives—in filing this lawsuit. We have both a legal and a moral responsibility to halt the slave trade and protect human rights. Attempts to enforce the law have been blocked by John Walker, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury for Enforcement and Operations.

Editorial . . .

By RUTH HAMMOND

The School Board met November 20 and once again went into closed session during the meeting.

I realize they have a legal right to go into a closed session for matters of personnel or litigation. I have no argument with their right to have a closed session.

But I do disagree with the board for taking time during a regular meeting to go into a closed session. It would be just as easy to postpone the closed session until after the regular agenda. This way the audience does not have to wait for more than an hour to be a part of the regular meeting.

There were four people at the Nov. 20 meeting that did sit while the board was in closed session for an hour and five minutes. Possibly they wanted to be an integral part of the school by attending the meeting. As it was, they finally went home before the meeting was adjourned at 11:15.

It is my opinion that the school board is rude and inconsiderate by not postponing the closed session until after the regular meeting. Then those who want to stay or need to stay, will not be inconvenienced.

I believe that more people would attend school board meetings if it was not a practice for board members to go into closed session in the middle of the meeting and leave the audience sitting.

I also feel the school board did not follow the "Open Meetings Act" when they went into closed session. 6B on the agenda was for a request for Personnel Session with the Board. Dr. Miller asked that this item be deleted from the agenda.

Wally Ferguson, president of the school board, said that he had something he wanted to go in closed session for and with that the board members walked out of the conference room.

The board members were out from 8:50 until 9:45 when they asked Dr. Miller and Principal Dennis Sidebottom to go in with them. The entire group stayed in the closed session until 9:55. When they left the conference room there was no announcement made, no roll call, and there was no announcement made when they resumed the meeting.

After the meeting was adjourned, I asked Wally Ferguson if there had been an announcement of any kind and he said, "No." According to the "Open Meetings Act", sections 10-15-1 to 10-15-4, NMSA 1978, which is a compliance guide for New Mexico Public Officials and Citizens, put out by the Office of the Attorney General in January, 1980, subsection F establishes procedures for closed meetings.

Subsection F, Paragraph 1. CLOSING AN OPEN MEETING. (Such closure) if made in an open meeting, shall be approved by a majority vote of a quorum of the policy-making body and the authority for such closure shall be stated in the motion calling for the vote on a closed meeting and such vote shall be taken in an open meeting and the vote of each individual member shall be recorded in the minutes;

THIS PROCEDURE WAS NOT FOLLOWED

I can only assume the meeting was for personnel. If it was... Subsection E-2 states: personnel matters; provided that for purposes of this act, "personnel matters" means the discussion of hiring, promotion, demotion, dismissal, assignment or resignation of or the investigation or consideration of complaints or charges against any individual public employee; provided further that this subsection shall not be construed as to exempt final actions on personnel from being taken at open meetings; nor shall it preclude an aggrieved public employee from demanding a public hearing.

As I stated, I have no argument with the right of the school board to hold closed sessions. It just seems to me that it would show more courtesy to the audience if the closed sessions were held at the end of regular meetings.

Historical landmark is dedicated

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, NM, Nov. 21—The George McDonald Ranch House, a landmark which saw the beginning of the atomic age, was dedicated in a ceremony Tuesday.

Representatives from the Army, Department of Energy, Department of Interior and area communities attended the ceremony 90 miles north of the main post.

The newly renovated ranch house is where the plutonium core to the world's first atomic device was assembled in July 1945.

"The purpose of this ceremony is to dedicate this landmark to all those Americans, living and dead, who helped make the atomic age a reality," said Range Commander Maj. Gen. Niles Fulwyler.

Fulwyler called the restoration of the ranch house a "work of love." When the general took command of the missile range in 1982, he found the house to be deteriorating. Because of its historical value, he made the decision to restore it during his tenure as range commander.

The Army and the Department of Energy financed the $300,000 renovation project. The funds were provided to the Department of Interior's National Park Service. Park Service experts restored the house to the way it appeared on July 12 and 13 when Manhattan Project scientists used it.

Fulwyler said the $52,000 left in the renovation fund will be used for maintenance and preservation of the ranch house for future generations.

"Because, regardless of how you feel about nuclear energy, we live in a nuclear age... it's impossible to put the atomic genie back in the bottle. The challenge is to use this miraculous phenomenon to serve all mankind. It offers our best hope for the future," he said.

Also speaking at the ceremony were Gordon Hobbs, Assistant for Real Property, Office of the Assistant Secretary of the Army; Maj. Gen. Edward Baca, Adjutant General for New Mexico; and Ann Morgan, Public Affairs Officer for the Department of Energy.

In his remarks, Hobbs spoke about the upward, downward and horizontal dimensions which radiate from Trinity Site. He said they reach from the high of mankind's hopes and dreams to the depths of human suffering and out to the "technical marvels which can bring about improvements in lives."

"If those who pass through here respond positively to pursue their visions, many will be favorably touched. This may be a small restoration, in comparison to others, but we hope it will stimulate and inspire the thoughts, feelings and imaginations of our fellow men." Baca paid tribute to all those who worked on the Manhattan Project. He said that in the 40 years since the first atomic detonation, the research done by those scientists has become one of the most significant events in the history of mankind. "This place is a tribute to the past, but also a reminder to harness the atom for man's benefit, not his destruction," he said.

"This place is a physical reminder that as terrible as atomic weapons may be, we must remember that the use of those first weapons ended a war that could have carried on for years longer," said DOE representative Morgan.

She added that since the end of World War II, there has been no direct conflict between any of the world's super powers.

Morgan pointed out some statistics on atomic energy. She said that 12 percent of the United States electricity is generated by nuclear power. However, in Japan, the only country to ever feel the power of an atomic weapon, 20 percent of the country's electricity is generated by nuclear power.

"As the saying goes, those who do not remember history are doomed to repeat it. Therefore, I feel the preservation of the McDaniel Ranch House is a contribution to peace," she said.

After the addresses, a commemorative plaque in front of the ranch house was unveiled by Fulwyler, Morgan and Donald Dayton, Deputy Director of the Southwest Regional Office of the National Park Service.

The red, white and blue ribbon across the doorway of the ranch house was cut by Fulwyler, Baca, Morgan and George Thorson. Thorson was the project manager for the National Park Service's McDonald restoration project.

The McDonald Ranch House and Ground Zero at Trinity Site are open to the general public on the first Saturday of each October during the annual open house.

Ask Dr. Dan

My doctor says my repeated attacks of stomach pain are due to my gallbladder. What can be done to help this? C.C.

If the diagnosis of gallbladder disease is confirmed by appropriate tests, the current treatment is surgical removal of the gallbladder. The gallbladder is a small sack located under the liver. It stores bile acids made by the liver and releases them into the small intestines to aid in digestion of fats. Most gallbladder disease is caused by gallstones. Gallstones form from crystals that precipitate out of the bile. These stones then block proper drainage of the gallbladder. This leads to an attack of severe, steady pain in the area under the right ribs. There is usually nausea, often vomiting and the pain may radiate into the back. Attacks will usually clear themselves although hospitalization may be needed for pain control, intravenous fluids and observation. An infected gallbladder is much more serious and requires antibiotics. Most gallbladder surgery may be done electively between attacks. A new medicine which will dissolve certain types of gallstones is now available. It takes a long time to work and only works in a minority of cases so it is usually used only when surgery is not feasible. Send questions to Dr. Dan, Box 8, Carrizozo, NM 88301

Raisin Spice Cake is an easy-to-make treat that's packed full of plump Sun-Maid Raisins and four favorite spices.

Attention raisin lovers: Sun-Maid has made it easy to take advantage of the lowest raisin prices in six years. Only Sun-Maid puts four cups of moist, plump raisins in a Stay-Fresh Canister that makes snacking and baking "a piece of cake."

Even after the raisins are gone, Sun-Maid's soft-sided canister is useful. Sponged out with warm water, it becomes a container to hold raisin treats that can travel to picnics or be used for gift-giving.

Raisin Spice Cake is an old-fashioned cake that can be whipped up in a hurry. Two cups of raisins keep it moist for days after it's baked. It also freezes well.

RAISIN SPICE CAKE

- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 2 cups sugar
- 2 cups Sun-Maid Raisins
- 3/4 teaspoon instant coffee
- 1 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon each allspice, nutmeg and cloves
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- 4 cups all-purpose flour
- Powdered sugar (optional)

In a large saucepan bring 2 cups water to a boil. Reduce heat to medium and add butter, sugar, Sun-Maid Raisins, instant coffee, cinnamon, allspice, nutmeg, cloves and salt. Stir occasionally and let simmer for 15 minutes. Remove from heat. Dissolve baking soda in 1 cup cold water. Add to raisin-spice mixture. Add flour, one cup at a time, stirring well after each addition. Pour batter into a greased 13 x 9-inch baking pan. Bake at 350° F. for about 20 minutes, or until toothpick inserted into center comes out clean. Let stand at room temperature until completely cool. Dust with powdered sugar if desired.

To Freeze: Do not dust with powdered sugar. Leave whole or cut into portions. Wrap well in freezer paper. May be frozen for up to 2 months. Defrost at room temperature.

Library to receive award

The Carrizozo Schools Library and Librarian Julia Hollis have been named one of 20 Quality Education Award recipients for New Mexico. The announcement came this past week, as the Quality Education Awards Committee of New Mexico Research and Study Council met in Albuquerque to review the applications submitted in the 1984 version of the awards program.

The school library, which also serves as a community library for residents of western Lincoln County, was the single library program nominated for the award, and joins four other first place recipients, five runner-ups and ten honorable mention programs from New Mexico's 88 school districts. The library services program, directed by Mrs. Julia Hollis with the help of adult and student volunteers, was one of two Class A schools recognized.

Among the features noted in the award letter to the library were the community use of the library, the use of special events such as the recent book fair, and the efforts by library staff to collect historical documents about Lincoln County Schools and other institutions.

The award will be formally made on December 7 at an Albuquerque awards banquet honoring the outstanding programs. The local library has taken this opportunity to announce the formation of two new programs, one a pre-school children's weekly story hour and the other, a historical display of school records from one room school houses in 1922 to 1938 period throughout Lincoln County.

Free books by mail

-SANTA FE- New Mexicans who don't have access to public libraries can use the State Library's free books-by-mail service.

"Books-by-Mail is designed to provide reading material to rural residents of New Mexico," said Carolyn Mathews from the State Library Division of the Office of Cultural Affairs.

With the program rural residents don't even have to leave their homes.

"Borrowers are sent a quarterly catalog," Mathews explained. "They simply send or call in their requests and we mail the books in returnable canvas bags. We even pay the return postage."

The books-by-mail service features publications on just about every topic, according to Mathews. Fiction, non-fiction, bestsellers, westerns, mysteries, romances, how-to books and southwestern titles are a few examples. Books are also available in Spanish.

Anyone who is a rural resident or lives in a community without a library is eligible for the service.

"Our borrowers include ranchers, homemakers, teenagers, homesteaders, artists and retired people," Mathews commented.

The State Library Division has received many positive comments about Books-by-Mail. Mathews said it is a wonderful service to citizens in rural areas.

"We get lots of fan mail, thank-you cards, and even Christmas cards," she said.

Mathews said one borrower had nothing but praise for the program. Her letter said, "I'm an avid reader yet the nearest library is fifty miles away." Another borrower's note said, "Books-by-Mail makes living in the county a pleasure."

The popularity of the program is reflected in circulation. Mathews said it has jumped from 15,000 to about 25,000 in four years. Sixteen hundred New Mexico households are currently on their mailing list.

Books-by-Mail began in 1975 when the State Library Division's bookmobiles began a small mail order service. The operation was later centralized at the State Library in Santa Fe.

Anyone interested in receiving the service should send a card with their name, address and phone number to BOOKS-BY-MAIL, New Mexico State Library, 325 Don Gaspar, Santa Fe, NM 87053, or call toll free 800-545-9144.
