The office that Sullivan will use had been used by Quinn Martin with the district attorney's office.

The Ruidoso Fire Fund had a budget increase of $2,490.50. The increase will be offset by receiving overpayment refund.

A budget increase was approved for the general fund in the amount of $12,940.24 for the four wheel drive vehicle that had been approved by commissioners Dec. 28. The U.S. Forest Service Department will reimburse the county in the amount of $1,000 for the vehicle.

C'ZOZO SCHOOL BOARD—

Incentive pay plan being considered

By RUTH HAMMOND
During the meeting of Dec. 18, the Board of Education adopted the Open Meeting Resolution, 10-5-1, and adopted Local Procurement Regulations. The Open Meeting Resolution states that a five day notice must be given before regular meetings, three days for special meetings, and 12 hours for emergency meetings. The notices must be posted. The Procurement Regulations are purchasing regulations. The school board considered an energy incentive plan. A study will be made as to whether the school should pay someone to see that all lights are turned off in each building to cut utility costs. Dr. Miller told the board that a 50 percent jump is expected in the electricity bill next month (January). Discussion and comments were made in consideration of teacher-administrator incentive pay plan. John Burt, a Carrizozo parent, told the board, "Incentive pay is supposed to make people work harder." It was agreed that the incentive pay plan should entice teachers to improve their skills. Dennis Sidebottom said, "80 percent of teachers is motivated." Dr. Miller told the board the enrollment is 298 but the cafeteria is only feeding 200 students. Many mid-school students leave the school grounds at noon. Miller went on to say, "At the end of this month (December), we will have used all but $65 of the subsidy for the cafeteria." He added that the commodity flow is irregular. Discussion was held as to how more students can be encouraged to eat in the cafeteria. John Burt told the board, "A certified dietician offered her assistance. Her services were not used." The dietician had offered to help with purchasing of food, preparation of food, and menus that are nutritious as well as appealing to look at. School librarian Julia Hollis showed the award the library received for "Rural Community Library Service." The award was presented in Albuquerque on Dec. 7. In addition to the first place award, the school also received a Frey Science Encyclopedia and $250 in cash.

Mrs. Hollis told of future plans for the library. Blue flyers were sent to boxholders in an attempt to increase use of the library. A pre-school story hour has been started. Dr. Miller gave a report on the White Oaks Route request. A letter had been sent asking for another bus. Economics look reasonably good for the school to have another bus if the county will upgrade the road. The state will not approve a four wheel drive bus. Bids will be opened Jan. 2 for cafeteria tables. Bids will be opened Jan. 15 at 2 p.m. for the High School Vestibules. Jan. 2 at 5 p.m. was the last day for candidates to announce for the position 1 and 5 on the school board. Candidates will have until Jan. 11 to change their mind. After that if they change their mind, their name will still be on the ballot. The election for school board positions 1 and 5 will be held Feb. 5. A special election will be held after the election for carvassing. Nat 1.

Clipboard

Four persons have filed for the school board election to be held Feb. 5. Position 1, a six year position, has two possible candidates: John Burt and Hoot Gibson have filed for position 1. Position 5, a two year position, has two possible candidates: Tom Tracey and Nat Palomarez have filed for position 5. Candidates have until January 11 to change their minds. After that, even if they change their minds, their names will remain on the ballot. Adult basic education classes will begin next week. Any adult interested in a math or English refresher course or is interested in English as a second language for Spanish speaking persons, please call Patsy Sanchez or Dr. Jim Miller at 648-2347.

LINCOLN COUNTY Commissioners A. W. Gnatkowski, Bill Elliott and Kenneth Nosker are shown just after being sworn in by Judge Parsons. Commissioner Elliott was elected Chairman of the Commission at the special meeting held Wednesday afternoon.

ESTA FACIL

It is easy to begin New Year's resolutions.

Resolved: Never again will I....

Resolved: Furthermore, I promise.....

Resolved: Also, I will change.....

The only thing unresolved is when to fill in the missing words.

LOCK-IN DOINGS

Methodist youth and friends participated in a 'lock-in' Friday, December 21. The group and three adult leaders gathered at 7 p.m. that evening at the church building. At 8:30 they went caroling. Back at headquarters they enjoyed hot chocolate, cokes and pizza.

Then began the challenge of staying awake all night. Adult leaders Rosemary Shafer, Jim Miller and Harry Riser chaperoned the twenty-one boys and girls.

A television set and a VCR provided plenty of movies - 'Foot Loose', 'Empire Strikes Back' and two John Wayne movies. Trivia Pursuit was one of the games played.

The lock-in included a talk by Rev. Riser about Christianity and hot it ties in with careers. Mrs. Shafer and Dr. Miller spoke on the plans they had career-wise and their decisions.

In the wee hours of the morning (5:30 a.m.) almost everyone 'rested' their eyes awhile. A few snores were heard here and there.

Breakfast of French toast, sausage and donuts was served. It was 9 a.m. before everyone departed - a few to attend to ranch chores or local jobs. The rest had only one thing on their minds: hit the sack as soon as they arrive home.

SANTA AROUND TOWN

The Carrizozo Volunteer Firemen were on hand Saturday, Dec. 22 to give Santa Claus a helping hand at Spencer Park. A large crowd of youngsters (and many 'oldsters') eagerly awaited the arrival of Santa who was escorted to the park atop a firetruck and sporting sunglasses.

Santa was also seen Dec. 19 distributing candy at Santa Rita parish hall. CCD students each received a chocolate filled candy cane. The Knights of Columbus sponsored the give-away and some Knights were on hand to assist Ol' Saint Nick.

CHRISTMAS WINNERS

W. A. Scott, Los Alamos area resident, was the winner of the Christmas Tree pattern quilt raffled by the Santa Rita Quilting Group following Midnight Mass.

Frances Sais, Ft. Stanton, won the Santa Rita Parish Cabbage Doll raffled following Christmas Day Mass.

Chevo Baca, Arturo Zamora and Daniel Zamora were winners of the Knights of Columbus bingo hams. Charlene Schlarb won the Santa Rita $100 bingo.

And in Capitan: Sacred Heart macrame winners were Leoner Cervantes 1st prize and Rayites Purcella 2nd prize.

RAYMOND HALLER

Raymond Conrad Haller, of White Oaks, NM, passed away Saturday, December 29, 1984 in the family residence, following a lengthy illness.

Mr. Haller was born September 13, 1930 in Orange, CN. He was a Navy veteran, having served during the Korean conflict.

Survivors include his wife, Linda A. Haller of Carrizozo, NM; son, Raymond C. Haller, Jr. of Cloudercroft, NM; daughters Jodi Dugan of Ft. Worth, TX and Nancy Lewis of Carrizozo, NM; sisters, Bettye Cooke, Gladys Haller and Clair Haller all of New Haven, CN; brother, Russell Haller of New Haven, CN and 3 grandchildren.

There are no formal services planned at this time. Cremation will be at Fairview Crematory, Albuquerque, NM.

The family suggests

ENJOY THE NEW YEAR

But...don't drink and drive.

If you care about friends and relatives you won't let them drive while under the influence. Overusing bottled spirits is a disaster-prone custom. Break with that tradition and start a new one - enjoy many holidays to come, surrounded by friends and loved ones.

Like the lady radio announcer said: "I don't want to talk about you. I want to talk to you. Don't drink and drive."

HAPPY NEW YEAR

"Ho-oh-sick!" That is the Chinese word for delicious.

At one of the world's finest Chinese restaurants, Peng's in New York City, food experts who leave sometimes tell owner Jimmy Soon not only "ho-oh-sick" but also "gong-hay-fot-choy!"

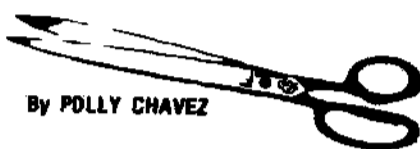

Meaning: I wish you prosperity!

Memorial contributions be made to the Cancer fund or the New, Mexico Boys Ranch.

Arrangements by Clarke's Chapel of Roses Mortuary, Ruidoso, NM.

TIP CLIPS

By POLLY CHAVEZ

OLD LUNCHBOXES

Recycle old metal lunchboxes. Sand the lunchbox lightly and spray paint. The lunchbox is handy for storing kitchen utensils, school supplies or just plain junk that gathers on kitchen counters.

LAST DROP

Before tossing away the empty bottle of shampoo, refill with water and shake. This water makes a good soap for hand laundering or for soaking and washing combs and brushes.

SHINES VINYL

A cotton ball and baby oil will shine vinyl in your car or house including furniture and handbags. Use a soft cloth to buff.

STUCK STAMPS

Postage stamps which have stuck together will come apart more easily after 15 minutes in the freezer.

CAR CARE

Baking soda quickly removes spatters and traffic grime from windshields, headlights, chrome and enamel. Wipe with soda sprinkled onto damp sponge and rinse.

WASHING WINDOWS

Try washing windows with a crumbled-up piece of newspaper dipped in water. Use another piece of newspaper to wipe dry. There is something in printer's ink that makes windows shine.

Remember: Start this new year with a positive smiling attitude and you will win with good health. Love one another that makes life much easier.

The Capitan City Hall is closed Dec. 31 and January 1. The MYD will open January 2, 1985. Also remember that the water rates and the tax rate both increase beginning January 1.

OPINION

Ernest V. Joiner

MINING engineer J.D. Sullivan is headed toward the Superstition Mountains of Arizona to renew his search for the Lost Dutchman gold mine. Before he left, he said he thinks so much of this newspaper that he is going to give each new subscriber a quarter ounce of gold from the legendary mine if his mission is successful. That's about $75, so don't laugh it off. And don't laugh J.D. Sullivan off, either.

SULLIVAN is a graduate of the Hamburg School of Mines in Hamburg, Germany. He spent almost two years (1935-36) with four burros and a bow-legged cowpoke hunting the Lost Dutchman and Lost Peralta mines. He believes he has located the Lost Peralta. Now he has come into possession of documents on the Lost Dutchman, one an old Spanish sheepskin map, which has given him confidence that he can now locate this $200 million vein of gold.

THE Lost Dutchman was Jacob Walts, who with his brother found the mine by encountering two Mexicans who were pounding rocks to separate the gold. They killed both the Mexicans, according to Sullivan, and took over the mine. The Apache Indians later killed Jake's brother. Fearing for his own life, Jake made only a few additional trips into the Superstitions to gather more gold. Sullivan claims there are authentic records at the United States Mint to show Jake sold it more than $300,000 in gold from the mine, and that was when the going price was only $16 an ounce. Today gold sells for around $300 an ounce.

A MR. Browning told Sullivan his father was at Jake's bedside when he died and was given the mine's location. Asked how much gold the mine held, Jake replied, "There is enough gold in sight on the formation of the walls of my tunnel to make 20 men millionaires."

SULLIVAN'S story about how the Apaches came into possession of the mine is gory enough to be made into a movie box office hit. Later, when Geronimo, Apache chief, was thrown into jail by the US government for the third time, he faced a life sentence. He told government officials that if they would give him his freedom he would pay off the national debt, which amounted to about $30 million at that time, according to Sullivan. The government declined because it didn't want Geronimo to continue killing and plundering white settlers. But they were curious as to how Geronimo expected to pay such a big amount. "I will pay it in gold from our mines in Arizona," the chief replied. The stomping grounds of the Apache Indians was in the Superstitions.

MANY men suffered and died hunting the Lost Dutchman. The Phoenix police tried to dissuade Sullivan from going into the Superstitions. But he was determined to find the mine, and still is. His closest brush with death was being bitten by an 8-button rattlesnake.

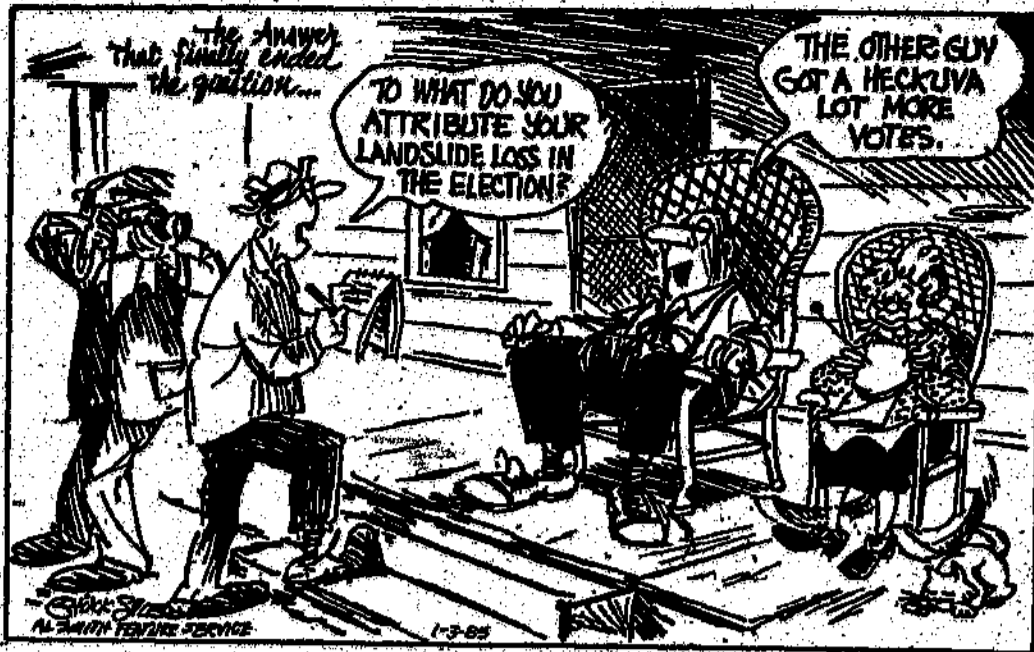

WHILE Sullivan didn't find what he was after back in 1935-36, he was rewarded by discovering an amethyst mine which produces high quality stones, ranging in color from deep purple to green. "Some as big as my fist," he said.

"AS a mining engineer, my study of the formation and geology of the Superstitions indicates that the immense accumulation of gold in one particular area such as the Lost Dutchman was caused by a powerful upward thrust of molten gold from the bowels of the earth which cooled and solidified, forming this gigantic mass of gold known as a gigantic pocket," Sullivan said.

"THIS time I will find it."

SUGGESTED for oblation in 1985 is the wine and cheese tasting event, rummage sales and the "crafts faire" that have riddled the economic fabric and undermined the social comity for so long. Discovery School, Sebastopol, CA has a bundle of pure holiday joy for all who have had it with these atrocities. For $10, Discovery School is offering "A chance to not attend another wine and cheese tasting event, another rummage sale, or yet another crafts fair." Non-tickets for the whole family are $50; for the whole neighborhood $100; for entire cities; states and nations, anything over $100. A bonus is that the non-tickets are tax deductible. Mail a check (please) to Discovery School, 500 N. Main, Sebastopol, CA 95472. The Lord will certainly smile upon you, and that alone is worth the $10.

WHEN reasoning with children fails, scare the hell out of 'em. That is the prescription offered by Dr. Helen Caldwell, pediatrician turned terrorist. At a Maine junior high school recently she told children that in the event of a nuclear war they would become "charcoal steaks" and their eyes would "literally melt down their cheeks." This Australian darling of the anti-nuke zombies went on to compare Ronald Reagan with Jim Jones and the United States to Nazi Germany. In a previous chat with young school students, she told them "you aren't going to grow up; you are living on borrowed time" and that a "nuclear war is inevitable if Ronald Reagan is re-elected." Now that Reagan has been re-elected, why is she still in this doomed country, ranting and raving against berthing the battleship Missouri in San Francisco Bay? She should be in a safe-house in Sydney. The one with bars over the windows.

WATCH OVER WASHINGTON

By LES KINSOLVING

The twenty one year imprisonment of Typhoid Mary

In January of 1937, The New York Sun reported that a Roman Catholic priest from the Bronx had made his weekly visitation to a small cottage on North Brothers Island in Manhattan's East River.

There he had administered the Last Rites to a diminutive and very devout 66 year old woman with white hair, who had recently suffered a stroke.

Mary Mallon had been assigned to this cottage by the Warden of North Brothers Jail, where she had been a medical prisoner for 21 years.

Her crime had nothing to do with narcotics, or amateur abortion, or euthanasia. Her problem was that she absolutely adored cooking — for as many people as possible. And since she was a superb cook, she had no problem at all obtaining employment.

There was one other problem, however. She was listed in the files of the New York City Department of Health as "Carrier Number 36." For Mary Mallon was a walking repository of billions of the bacillus which causes typhoid fever.

Thirty seven years before, when she was 29, health authorities in Westchester County and Long Island became alarmed at the local outbreaks of typhoid. But not until 1904 was she detected. For she had become the cook for a family of eleven in Oyster Bay, NY — the home town of President Theodore Roosevelt.

Six of the eleven members of this family came down with typhoid. But Mary, after the first of these cases became apparent, fled and went underground. She traveled upstate to Watertown and then south to Ithaca, NY, the home of Cornell University — and, after Mary began cooking, the locale of 1,300 cases of typhoid.

By now this little woman who was such a superb cook was known in the press as "Typhoid Mary." But her reputation was apparently unknown to more people for whom she cooked — and contaminated — in Sands Point, NY. She was finally apprehended while cooking for a family in a brownstone mansion on Manhattan's Park Avenue.

Some of the press became maudlin about Mary as most of the media is about A.I.D.S. victims today. The theme of assorted sob sisters of both sexes was that she was really an innocent, who had merely been careless. Their newspaper stories read like the lyrics of a musical score requiring a background of tender violins. So in 1910 she was released. Again she dropped out of sight. In 1914 a sanitarium in Newfoundland, NJ, reported two cases of typhoid — and a missing cook, who was known only as "Mrs. Brown," who, they noted sadly, had prepared absolutely superb meals.

The following year, the New York Maternity Center, Sloane's Hospital, on the west side of Manhattan, had an outbreak of 25 cases of typhoid.

That led to her final incarceration. For one who had so mastered, and who so delighted in, the culinary art, this was sad; in a way.

But on the other hand, it was a distinct blessing to one young chaplain's wife from West Point, who came to Sloane's Hospital 12 years later to deliver her first offspring — me. "Typhoid Mary" appealed her incarceration. But she was turned down by the Supreme Court, which upheld the right of the city of New York to detain anyone with an infectious disease indefinitely, until such person is cured.

Which begs the question as to why, if Mary Mallon was imprisoned for the last 21 years of her life for spreading typhoid, those who spread the infinitely more lethal disease called AIDS are not similarly detained.

Confessions of a cheap hawk

WASHINGTON, DC — One can imagine the scene at the White House. The staff argues over who must go in and break the news to The Boss. "You do it!" "No, you do it!" Finally, they draw straws, and the fellow with the short straw gets to tell Ronald Reagan that he has to cut defense spending.

Or, at least, scale back the increases that are planned for the next few years. The President will strongly resist advice that he put the brakes on defense; he remembers clearly that the most important issue in his 1980 victory was America's military strength — or more precisely, America's weakness.

During the 1970s US power deteriorated, and by the end of the decade the Soviets and their allies defied us almost at will. They invaded Afghanistan and declared martial law in Poland. During a period of only six years between the fall of Saigon and the inauguration of President Reagan, Soviet influence expanded into Laos, Cambodia, Afghanistan, Angola, Ethiopia, Mozambique, South Yemen, Libya, Syria, Aden, Congo, Madagascar, Seychelles, Grenada and Nicaragua.

With each addition to their sphere of influence, the Soviets' immediate ambitions grew; they seemed to believe that, through manipulation of the peace movement, they could stop the deployment of American missiles necessary for the defense of Western Europe, and they apparently thought that the United States would stand by helplessly while El Salvador, Honduras, and other US neighbors were added to the Soviet Empire. Not just the Soviets, but many of the world's little tin-horn dictators thought they could push us around. This country had become the world's fire hydrant, and people voted for Reagan because they thought he was the guy to do something about it.

The election of a president who would work to restore America's military strength may have been something the Soviets didn't count on. President Reagan reversed the tide of history, halting Soviet expansion and, for the first time, freeing a nation from communism. It is perhaps his greatest accomplishment. Now, after he soundly defeated an opponent who promised to hold the growth in defense spending to "only" five percent, President Reagan may be forced by political pressures to out-do Mr. Mondale's promise. Because of the deficit.

Americans worry about the deficit, but they are convinced (correctly) that tax hikes would push us into a recession and make the red ink flow even more profusely. That leaves only one way to reduce the deficit — spending cuts — and the people will accept cuts in their favorite programs only if they believe that the ax is being used fairly. After all the stories of $435 claw hammers and $9,608 hexagonal wrenches purchased by the armed forces, a program of budget cuts that spares the military is unacceptable.

Our leaders should be concerned about the unfairness of taxing the working people of this country billions more for defense, while a few corporations are allowed to sell computers, ball-bearing grinders, and other sophisticated gear to our enemies. The Soviet Union would pose little threat to the US today if American companies had not sold the Soviets the very equipment they would need to destroy us. If sacrifices are to be made, the companies that trade with the USSR should be the first to make them.

In recognition of the fact that the burden of budget cuts must be spread fairly, Congressman Denny Smith (R-Oregon) proposed more than a year ago that the federal budget, including defense, should be frozen. Smith, who calls himself a "cheap hawk" — an advocate of a strong defense who is nonetheless watchful over the public purse — wrote, "A budget freeze would find support from across the broad political spectrum; and even more important, would be supported by American taxpayers who have had to freeze their own spending," he wrote. He's right. The good news is that there are ways to save money in the military budget without reducing our ability to defend ourselves.

For example, we could divide the production of weapons systems between two contractors who would compete to produce the best product at the lowest price. That reform might save $340 million in Navy operations alone. Another cost-saving

Letters TO THE EDITOR

MARXIST MESS

EDITOR—The news tells us of terrible starvation in Ethiopia. A decade of Marxist rule has brought Ethiopia anything but prosperity.

The news also tells us that left-wing demonstrators here in America demand that American corporations remove their corporate investments from the Republic of South Africa. They would have us believe that the removal of corporate investments would somehow or other, force South Africans to do away with apartheid.

It should be pointed out that the Republic of South Africa's Black population is the most prosperous Black population on the African continent.

South Africa's Blacks are prosperous because of jobs provided by foreign as well as domestic capital. South Africa has extraordinary mineral wealth, mineral wealth vital to America's defense.

Then there is the Cape of Good Hope. Located at the southern tip of South Africa, the Cape is one of the most important military locations in the world.

Now, America's left-wing radicals are demanding that American corporations pull up stakes and leave South Africa. To stop apartheid, they say.

The proposed removal of all that investment capital would more likely intensify South Africa's racial problems. It would intensify them because without that investment capital, there would be widespread unemployment. With that widespread unemployment there would soon be poverty.

Poverty, no one needs. Ethiopia has poverty at its worst. It makes more sense to try to help that Marxist mess in Ethiopia than to create another Ethiopia in the Republic of South Africa.

Inside the Capitol

BY FRED McCAFFREY

SANTA FE—The powers-that-be in state government have put everything on hold.

Instead of acting, they sit quietly, each waiting to see what moves the others will make. That's not a question which is liable to be answered until after the Legislature meets.

That event begins less than two weeks from today, when the first gavel falls at noon on Tuesday, January 15. It will be a session of considerable meaning to the future of New Mexico.

In the first place, voters in the state chose a group of conservatives to make our laws when they went to the polls last November. That would suggest that the sort of changes which began taking place in Washington four years ago are about to touch us here at home. (There's almost always a cultural lag between the way things go on the East or West Coasts and the way they turn in New Mexico.)

But there is another fact which may have more impact on lawmaking than was at first apparent. Many of those lawmakers, especially those who will head committees and set the pace for the session, will be new at their particular jobs. That could slow down the tempo with which the Legislature comes to grip with problems.

THE FOURTH FLOOR: Inside the Governor's suite there is little feeling of any forward momentum. An administration which began as one of the most activist recently seen is now dead in the water.

Instead, we presently find a Toney Anaya who is more or less promising to keep hands off whatever the lawmakers want to accomplish.

In interviews with journalists during the last few weeks, he has been saying he will remove himself "as a personality" from the upcoming session, and even that he will "eat crow" if necessary to avoid conflicts with legislators.

That unusually humble note is probably well-advised. If he approaches this Legislature head-on, as he has other sessions in the past, trying to put his brand on every desirable piece of legislation in sight, he will end up with some more visible bruises.

He's right when he says that if legislators "make the budget a Toney Anaya issue, we're not going to have a very good session."

RAISING THE MONEY: What's more, the Governor is now saying things like this: "I'm still of the opinion there is plenty of money out there to be obtained without a drastic increase in taxes."

That line is vintage Anaya. The use of "still," for example, would suggest he has held this position consistently, when the fact is that he was talking tax increases as recently as October and November. And the "drastic," dropped in there to modify "increase," leaves him lots of room for later wriggling away. Sure, he can say, we increased your taxes, but we didn't do it drastically.

The fact is that Anaya's opinion on what we should do about taxation will get listened to considerably less than yours. Lawmakers will confer with lawmakers on this issue, and about all the Governor will have to do with whatever changes are made is to sign his name to the bills which make them.

Shaken as he is by all the bad things that have happened to him since he achieved his dream of becoming governor, he's likely to do that like a good little soldier.

"Yes, that's right, I'd like some paper clips, staples, pins, pencils, erasers, memo paper - all arranged in an atmosphere of creative clutter."

measure would be to order spare parts at the same time that the original parts are ordered. According to the Grace Commission, "combined purchasing to buy F-A-18 investment spares could reduce program costs by one-third . . . for a savings of $600 million."

The armed forces could stop paying contractors a percentage of their costs as profit; the current practice actually encourages inefficiency. The services could coordinate their purchases, eliminating needless duplication. And, whenever feasible, purchases could be conducted by competitive bid, with specifications drawn as broadly as possible.

Congress could pass a two-year defense budget, which would allow the military to buy goods in large quantities or to buy at a time when the price is low. (How would you run your household if (1) you never knew from one week to the next how much your paycheck would be and (2) you weren't allowed to save any money left over at the end of the week?)

If the President's men don't figure out where to cut, anti-defense liberals in Congress will do it for them. The liberals will spread out weapons purchases over a longer period — greatly increasing costs in the long run — or they will simply eliminate weapons we need. The armed forces need money, but more than money they need for the President and pro-defense members of Congress to work with the Pentagon to cut the fat out of the military budget, and leave the muscle and sinew.

Tree-planting educational unit available

Civic organizations, parents, and teachers can now obtain an educational unit about trees from the National Arbor Day Foundation.

"The National Arbor Day Foundation considers teaching children about the value of trees to be a very important priority," John Rosenow, the Foundation's executive director, said. "To meet this need, the Foundation has produced a special instructional unit called 'Grow Your Own Tree.'"

"The 'Grow Your Own Tree' unit includes two full-color filmstrips, audio cassettes, a teacher's guide, wall posters, student activity materials, and student awards for participating children," Rosenow said. "It is organized as an easy-to-use, week-long unit for grade schools."

"A special feature of the unit will be individual student kits containing everything children need to grow trees from seeds. The kits include seeds, planting instructions, a planting container and a growing medium. The students just add water," Rosenow said.

To obtain free information about the unit, send your name and address to "Grow Your Own Tree", National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, Nebraska 68410.

SMOKEY BEAR CLASSIC—This tournament will be played Jan. 10-12 in Capitan. The teams entered in the boys division are Hagerman, Reserve, Magdalena, Estancia, Lake Arthur, Hondo, Alamogordo Sophs, and the host team. The Girls Division includes Dexter, Hondo, Estancia, Lake Arthur, Reserve, Hagerman, Magdalena, and Capitan. Many "experts" feel that Reserve, last year's winner, should repeat in both divisions.

A unique race—

The Mt. Taylor Winter Quadrathlon

"A unique race in a very special place!" That's how race director Michael J. Caplan described THE MOUNT TAYLOR WINTER QUADRATHALON, a race considered by some to be the winter sports endurance race in America.

Run from Grants, New Mexico to the summit of 11,301 foot Mt. Taylor and back again on bicycle, foot, cross-country skis and snowshoes, the race covers 50 miles round trip and 4,900 feet up then down again.

Racers participate as four-man teams or individually for prizes and the title of World Champion Quadrathlete.

The Quadrathlon begins at 10 a.m. on February 16, 1985 and the first finishers will cross the finish line in about four hours! World record holder Bill Recinos of Albuquerque (4 hours, 22 minutes) will be among the anticipated 300 racers in this year's second annual race.

The Mount Taylor Winter Quadrathlon will cap off the week-long Mount Taylor Winter Carnival. Snowmobile races and a chili cook-off will open the Carnival on February 9. Other events, including a bowling tournament and a queen contest will fill the week before the Quadrathlon on February 16.

Entry fees for the Quadrathlon are $10 for individual contestants and $40 for teams. After February 11, 1985 the entry fees go up to $15 and $60 respectively. No entries will be accepted race day.

For more information write the Mt. Taylor Winter Quadrathlon, P.O. Box 65, Grants, NM, 87020, or call (505) 285-6909.

Ask Doctor Dan...

I am 15 years old and have been having periods for 2 years. They are irregular and sometimes are heavy and sometimes light. Is there anything I can do about this? O.M.

This is so common within your age group as to be considered normal. Menstrual bleeding is caused by shedding of the lining of the uterus. This is controlled by changes in the two female hormones (estrogen and progesterone) produced by the ovaries. The ovaries are regulated by chemicals released from the pituitary gland at the base of the brain. This complex system must be perfectly balanced in order to produce regular periods. Young women in the first 2 to 3 years after menarche (first period) are usually irregular due to the immaturity of the system.

If you are terribly concerned about the problem, you can consider taking birth control pills to regulate your periods. After 1 or 2 years you may be able to stop the pill and have regular periods on your own.

Send questions to Dr. Dan, Box 8, Carrizozo, NM 88301.

NEW MEXICO INSIGHT—

Public Service Company of New Mexico revisited

A few years ago farmers and ranchers and other independent businessmen in New Mexico were gearing up for a legislative battle with the state's largest and most powerful utility company. These producers were concerned about the acquisition of land and water rights by Public Service Company of New Mexico or PNM. Many farmers and ranchers felt it was unfair for a regulated public utility to be in direct market competition with private enterprise. The battle over utility diversification has been one of the hottest issues in past legislative gatherings and each side can claim a few rounds in the winning column.

PNM has now leased its substantial farming and ranching operations resolving a major point of contention between the company and the agricultural community of the state. However this issue is not dead but has since been complicated and overshadowed by PNM's attempt to purchase Gas Company of New Mexico. One of the main input costs for production agriculture is energy and delegates to the recent NM Farm & Livestock Bureau annual meeting worried that this acquisition would put too much power in the hands of this already sprawling company and leave the ratepayers stuck for yet higher energy bills. For this reason Farm Bureau delegates adopted a resolution opposing PNM's purchase of Gas Company. The policy resolution also called for legislation that would make PNM and its subsidiaries subject to the continuing superintendence of the New Mexico Public Service Commission—which the voting delegates said has not been the case in the past such as when PNM was buying up water rights all over the state.

So, it seems the question is, once again, "How large and powerful do we want this utility to become?" No doubt this question will be asked when the lawmakers convene in Santa Fe in mid-January. And the New Mexicans who pay some of the highest utility rates in the nation are going to want some answers.
