BILL GALLACHER NAMED . . .

Outstanding agriculturalist

Alumni of New Mexico State University's Alpha Lambda Chapter of the Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity honored two of their heroes this year in special banquet ceremonies during the New Mexico State Fair. Alpha Gamma Rho is a national social professional fraternity that works for the betterment of their members and all agriculture. The AGR creed reads in part to make better men, and through them a broader and better agriculture."

Bill Gallacher, a feisty 86-year-old rancher from Carrizozo, NM, was recipient of the 1985 Plow and Spur Award presented by the AGR alumni. Gallacher has been in the industry for 75 plus years and has been unfailing in his support of the industry and New Mexico State University during that time.

Gallacher graduated from New Mexico A&M in 1908, which makes him the oldest living graduate. He claims to have witnessed the killing of Pat Garrett. He's lived his lifetime to the fullest, and those who know him say he's never seen anything wrong with having a good time while he was doing it.

Gallacher has a long history of involvement in state and local activities. He was on the school board, served twice as Lincoln County Commissioner, and was at one time chairman of the Republican party in Lincoln County. He was one of the founders of the Carrizozo Country Club and served on the regional board for the Taylor Grazing Act.

But the awards don't mean near as much to this rancher as does his ranch and family. The acreage now known as the Srawing Indian Tank Ranch started as a homestead and took the combined efforts of Bill and his mother and two brothers to run. Both brothers were killed at a young age, but Bill held the ranch together, first with the help of his mother and later with his wife Edna. They expanded the ranch, kept it debt free, and added size and acreage.

He's been a source of guidance for the whole family," noted Scott Shafer, Bill's grandson. "He taught us the wholeness of life and always taught us to be proud of what you are."

Bill and Edna have seen the changes in the ranching industry. They had to stay on their early claims to keep someone from jumping them. They ran a trap line when first married, miles away from the meager comforts of the day. They ran sheep, and later cattle, anything to make money. They witnessed the revolution in the range cattle industry, from Longhorns to exotic breeds, from waterholes to windmills, from free grass to haystacks and from open range to barbed wire.

After almost four decades in the business, Bill has turned the reins of the ranch over to his three children. In that time, this honored agriculturalist has never shirked his family, ranching or civic duties. He's been an inspiration to many New Mexico ranchers in his quest to take what he had and make it better. The alumni are proud to recognize him as the recipient of the 1985 Plow and Spur Award.

Guidance program explained

By RUTH HAMMOND
The Carrizozo School Board of Education met Sept. 17. School counselor Judi Sidebottom and Voc-Ag teacher Mike Gaines were guest speakers.

Mrs. Sidebottom explained the software that had been purchased for the guidance program. She demonstrated the college find software and the financial aids software that are available for use by students and former students.

School Superintendent Dennis Sidebottom said, "We welcome past graduates to come in and talk with Judi to learn what financial aids are available." He went on to say, "Our goal is to show how much money is available for schooling."

Letters have been sent to the parents of seniors to let them know what credits their child has and what credits are needed to graduate.

An ACT test taking program is also new at the school.

Mike Gaines explained the application for $19,862 in grant money that has been submitted. Ninety percent of the items asked for are related to the meat lab and the majority are safety oriented. Gaines said that 35 to 40 tons of meat products go through

Kelly is honored at fair

Eighteen-year-old Kelly Simmerman of Nogal, Lincoln County's representative, was named Miss Congeniality in the Fair's annual event. The daughter of Michael and Johanna Simmerman, Kelly is a 1984 graduate of Capitan High School and an active member of 4-H, FHA, and the Drama Club. She is the 1985 Lincoln County Queen and was sponsored in the State Fair Queen contest by the Lincoln County 4-H. She has competed in barrel racing and pole bending for three years.

Twenty four young ladies represented their counties in the Queen competition and were judged 60 percent on horsemanship and 40 percent on personality. Contestants had to be single, between the ages of 16 and 21 and a permanent resident of the county which they represented. They also had to be sponsored on the county level by a responsible organization such as 4-H, Sheriff's Posse, Chamber of Commerce or a similar group.

C'ZOZO TOWN COUNCIL—

Accepts bids

By RUTH HAMMOND

Sealed bids for surplus municipal equipment were opened by Mayor pro-tem Bob Hemphill during the regular Carrizozo town council meeting on Sept. 24.

Six bids were accepted by trustees Patsy Sanchez and Eddie O'Brien and Hemphill and three bids were rejected.

Bids accepted: W. L. Martin Construction, $1,776 for a 1962 Hough loader; Montene Baird, $587.60 for a 1954 Stan truck cargo; W. L. Martin Construction, $706 for a 10 ton flat bed trailer; Wesley Weehunt $500 for a 1952 International 5 ton truck; T. F. Hurley, $587.50 for a 1965 Ford dump truck, and Four Winds, $76 for an 1968 Chevy pickup.

Bids rejected: $22.50 for the 1963 garbage truck, $53.80 for a one and one-half ton cargo trailer, and $165 for 1965 Ford flat bed.

The $4,233.10 received from the sale goes into the general fund.

In other business, trustees discussed the 1985 changes in traffic laws. The town will need to enact an ordinance to coincide with the New Mexico Uniform Traffic Ordinance in order for any fine money to go in municipal coffers.

Changes brought about by the 1985 state legislative session include mandatory use of seat belts, use of passenger restraint devices, immediate license revocation of a person refusing a chemical test or of a person who submits to a chemical test whose blood alcohol level is too high, and speed limits.

There are 13 changes in the ordinance that will be considered by the town council at the Oct. 8 meeting. A public hearing will be held before the ordinance can be adopted. The amendments must be adopted before they are put into use by local officers.

The auditors have recommended that the town return to the manual system of billing for water, sewer, etc. The bills have been consistently late being sent out because the software for the computer is not adequate.

A letter was received from Roy Harmon about the cemetery committee wanting to add new and additional water lines at the cemetery.

Complaints about Waste Control were reviewed. Hemphill said, "I think they are problems that can be resolved. I just hope they can be resolved rapidly."

By the way

by POLLY CHAVEZ

THERE ARE 46 school districts represented in the school arts exhibit building. Over one half of the school districts in the state are represented. A wide variety of New Mexico culture is reflected in the booths. Carrizozo's booth is representative of a unique area in New Mexico. The art display is delightful and creative and will be on display through Sept. 22 at New Mexico State Fair.

WHERE IS IT?

The 'Creative Woman' show which used to air on KNME (PBS) Channel 5 from Albuquerque could be carried again if enough fans of the program would contact KNME. 'Creative Woman' was taped at Portales and shown over Channel 5.

The shows are produced and hosted by Sheryl Borden. The show airs on Portales's KENW-TV at Tuesday and Thursday and on Saturdays. When I viewed the programs on Channel 5 I could request copies of printed materials offered on the show by calling on KENW-TV's toll free number (1-800-432-2361). Call this number for information on how our area can be offered the program once again. Or call KNME in Albuquerque to request the shows (377-2250). Since this number is not toll free perhaps you would rather send a post card: KNME-TV, 1130 University Blvd., Albuquerque, NM 87102.

OCTOBER PROGRAMS

Mary Ellen Payne of Carrizozo will be featured on two October shows. Mary Ellen, Family-Community Leadership Coordinator, will tell how to conduct an effective group meeting and how to buy ready-to-wear clothing. Other programs include women's and men's fall fashions; demonstration of microwave cooking; making soft luggage; monogramming on the sewing machine; proper and safe food storage; new trend in flowers; cake decorating; quick fruit salads; wine punches; deli-party tray and much more. Contact KNME in Albuquerque to request the shows in our area.

MANY NEW CHANGES

The coming season will reflect many new changes according to the show's producer

Wedding announced

Mr. and Mrs. John Ramsey of Capitan announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter Susan to Rudy Polaco, Jr. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Polaco, Sr. of San Patricio.

The couple will celebrate their marriage vows on September 28, at 2:00 p.m. at the San Juan Catholic Church of historic Lincoln, NM.

Reception immediately to follow at the Wortley Hotel also in Lincoln.

and host, Sheryl Borden. The new series will be called 'Creative Living'. Based on viewer feedback and statistics from the Nielsen reports, they found that in addition to their women viewers, many men were watching and enjoying the show. In order, to reflect that viewership, they decided on a name change. This change will allow them to appeal more often to singles, older people, women in the work force and men interested in homemaking skills - what is now called 'bachelor arts.'

HEY, GUY!

Going through some of my kid's school work that I've saved over the years I came across a Language Arts paper that I would like to share with column readers. The elementary writer will remain anonymous. His work is titled, 'How to care for a Human Being.'

"To care for a human being you have to give us water. To keep us alive you have to give us air and warmth. To give us something to live in we need houses. We need clothes so we don't freeze. We need names so we don't have to go, 'Hey, guy.' We need cars so we don't have to walk far away."

"We need school so we can learn. The people have to have a teacher to show them how to do their pluses. (Addition, I believe the writer wants to say.) We need to know how to read. We need lights so we can see at night. We need phones so we can call the police for a robbery or a thief."

That's why we need policemen in the United States. We need maps so we will know where places are. We need space shuttles so we will know what's happening on the moon."

"We need a government so there will be laws. We need TV so we can watch the news. We need what's happening on the news. We need clocks so we will know what time it is. We need wheat because it is something to eat. We need glasses so if we are blind we can see. We need flags so we will know the custom of the state."

According to the young writer life on earth can be simple. A human only needs the following to survive: water, air, warmth, houses, clothes, cars, schools, teachers, electricity, phones, policemen, maps, space shuttles, laws, television, clocks, wheat, eyeglasses, flags and of course, a name.

Anderson with Kuralt on CBS

Dr. Patricia M. Sullivan Anderson, daughter of Maureen Sullivan and sister of Sheriff Tom Sullivan of Capitan was on the CBS Charles Kuralt Program September 22. Dr. Sullivan is the Director of Psychological Services at Boys Town Institute in Omaha, Nebraska.

Five years ago Dr Sullivan became interested in the deaf child who has great potential, but also difficulty in communicating with the hearing world. She felt that many a brilliant and talented child would be doomed to silence unless something drastic was done. Her superiors were enthusiastic about her idea.

Dr. Sullivan received funding from Sertoma International and started a small group of intelligent students with a hearing impairment. This program consisted of two weeks on the Boys Town Campus, sports activities, a camping trip, and training in drama.

The program has mushroomed in the past five years and is now known all over America. Students apply early for acceptance and admittance.

On January 9, 1983, Dr. Sullivan was featured in a story appearing in the New York Times. Godfather's Pizza funded the program for 2 years and Mutual of Omaha held a buffet dinner to raise funds. It is now necessary to have 2 encampments lasting a month each.

Many parents come to see their children receive recognition for outstanding achievement at the awards banquet and compliment Dr. Sullivan on her wonderful work.

PILT payments released

WASHINGTON, DC — The Department of the Interior will be sending payments of more than $10.3 million to 32 New Mexico counties as their part of the federal government's Payments-in-Lieu-of-Taxes (PILT) program for 1988, Congressman Joe Skeen, R-NM, announced today. The funds are to help compensate counties for non-taxable federal lands within their boundaries.

$283,720.00; Lea County, $306,379.00; Lincoln County, $334,387.00; Luna County, $464,079.00; Otero County, $618,654.00; Quay County, $593.00; Roosevelt County, $7,538.00; Sierra County, $306,826.00; and Union County, $35,811.00. The counties can use the funds for services such as road construction and repair and police and fire protection.

that encompasses a substantial amount of federal lands, can not collect sufficient property taxes to provide needed services.

The amount of PILT funds a county government receives is based on the number of acres of certain "entitlement lands" within each county. Entitlement lands include lands in the National Forest Service and the National Park Service, lands administered by the Bureau of Land Management and lands dedicated to the use of Federal Water Resource development projects.

The Department of the Interior will mail the PILT checks by the end of September.

Eddy County will receive the highest payment of $946,965.00; with others being Chaves County, $675,158.00; Dona Ana County, $574,441.00; Grant County, $682,837.00; Hidalgo County, Skeen said the $10,332,972.00 New Mexico will receive in PILT funds for 1988, is more than any other state will receive this year.

Skeen added that PILT funds are authorized by Congress which recognizes that counties

OPINION

Ernest V. Joiner

WORKING feverishly against time, concerned citizens of Sebastopol, Cotati, Camp Meeker, et al. have declared their respective centers of culture to be nuclear free zones. Alert citizens of Robnett Park have noted that since these towns have enacted ordinances banning nuclear bombs, not a single bomb has been dropped on any of them. Thus heartened and emboldened, about 80 Robnett Park citizens have joined in an effort to have their city declared an earthquake free zone, with a petition to that effect being delivered to the city council. Earthquakes, Mother Nature's very own subversive movement, are as destructive as nuclear bombs, according to survivalist Frank Klingner, a honcho of the Earthquake Free Zone Committee. Klingner, who probably never did anything more heroic in his life, is calling upon Sebastopol to amend its nuclear free zone ordinance to include a ban on earthquakes. "It would be ironic to so easily escape nuclear holocaust only to lose your collective asses in a devastating earthquake," Klingner pleaded. To avoid such embarrassment, he asks that you contact the EFZC, Box 7055, Cotati, CA 94928, and make Sebastopol a "City With No Faults."

THERE is other hopeful news. University of California's Board of Regents will meet Sept. 20 to consider divesting itself of management of two laboratories engaged in nuclear weapons development, one at Livermore and the other at Los Alamos, NM. The university now has a contract with the federal government to operate these two major labs, which certain pointed-head professors want cancelled. For the first time, I find myself in agreement with the professors. Because nuclear weapons have kept the peace among major powers for the longest time in history, and because our national survival depends upon expanded nuclear research, it is important that the labs, operated by people and institutions friendly to the United States and to its defense. I suggest that if the government would transfer this important research to the University of New Mexico, academics there would not consider it unbecoming or socially subversive to be involved with nuclear weapons. Columnist Abe Melnikoff recently pointed out that it was UC scientists who put together the first atomic bomb, before the Nazis completed theirs. Had it been otherwise, he wrote, "the rooting section at Memorial Stadium on football Saturdays might be shouting 'Hell Hitler' instead of 'Fight, Cat, Fight.'"

STUDIES show low income people spend proportionately more than people from other income groups on lottery tickets. reads the opening paragraph of a recent Press Democrat editorial titled "Taxing the poor." It holds that the new California Lottery will "provide government with a method to take money from the poor in order to reduce the tax burden of middle and upper income people." Horse-bleep. I rise to the defense of a poor man's right to buy a lottery ticket.

OF course more poor people buy lottery tickets than the rich. The rich are already rich, so why should they bother with buying a $2 ticket? It is equally true that more poor people drink beer than dry martinis, but nobody has suggested that beer is a tax on the poor, even though beer is heavily taxed to support government. More poor people patronize legal poker parlors than do the rich because the rich prefer intimate, luxurious surroundings and higher stakes. Nobody has suggested that poker parlors, albeit taxed, are a tax on the poor. More poor people ride the bus than do the rich. Are bus tickets a tax on the poor? The poor play the horses via bookies; the rich attend the event swathed in fancy, colorful garb and sit in expensive boxes. Is horse-racing a tax on the poor?

NOBODY escapes taxation, poor or not. The consumer is the ultimate source of all taxes. The cost of all consumer goods includes still more hidden taxes. The only way a poor man can escape taxation is not to exist. So what's all this billyonny about the injustice of a poor man voluntarily buying a lottery ticket? If nobody must profit from the spending of the poor, let us hang the heavily-taxed supermarket owner, who, after taxes, sometimes makes a profit for his labor and investment. By all means, hang the myriad of government officials who owe their jobs to taxes, mostly extracted from low and middle-income people.

IT isn't just a lottery ticket a poor man buys; he also buys hope. He hopes to strike it rich, and many do. I have never heard of a rich man winning a lottery. All winners I know about have been from low-income groups. O.S. Marden had something to say about hope: "There is no medicine like hope, no incentive so great, and no tonic so powerful as expectation of something tomorrow... The hopeful man sees success where others see failure, sunshine where others see shadows and storm." Hope for a better life, here and hereafter, is what prompts the poor man to place coins in the collection plate on Sunday. Hope makes him work hard to support a family and educate his children. By upholding traditional moral values he hopes to reap the promised rewards of virtue. Without hope, what else is there?

PROMOTERS of special privileges for minorities will have to silence the US Census Bureau. Last week this federal agency published figures indicating that in 1984 two-thirds of the poor people in this country are white. The very idea is heresy; especially so since a booming industry and a new culture have been built upon the notion that blacks and other racial minorities are victims of a white-dominated society, and that their plight entitles them to special privileges (read that money) as compensation for their having endured the slings of social discrimination. It could upset the US economy, much of which has been built upon the premise that the rewards of poverty are a special privilege of blacks. Social scientists and their compliant followers will have one less thing to criticize in capitalism—unless the media gets to work and shows the Census Bureau to be wrong, biased and noncompassionate. Any day now the Rt. Rev. Mr. Jesse Jackson and his fellow Marxist junkies will come charging out of left field to correct the census figures. The census director will be accused of conspiring to destroy the civil rights movement. But somewhere down the line it may be shown that the reason for this poverty imbalance is because white folks, envious of the wealth and attention lavished upon minorities, may have decided to cut themselves a piece of the poverty pie.

WHAT happened to minorities that abandoned poverty and are now padding their own canoes? Woodrow H. Sears Jr. of Bodega Bay, author of a fine book titled "Back in Working Order", may have the answer: "It is an ironic fact that after all the energy expended in behalf of integration (racial), the United States is almost more segregated today than in the past. As Eric Hoffer has noted, ethnic minorities are climbing out of the melting pot to establish themselves as special cases due even larger shares of the good life."

Sperry finances Columbia's anti-military propaganda

By LESTER KINSOLVING

NEW YORK — One of the nation's substantial defense contractors is the Sperry Corporation. As such it is surprising indeed that Sperry would contribute $100,000 to the three part nationally televised series called "The Military and the News Media," produced by the Columbia School of Journalism. For while the invited panelists included balanced numbers of representatives from the military and the media, the selection of media panelists was almost completely unbalanced — running from liberal to far left.

Co-producer of this series was Miss Cynthia McFadden, a Phi Beta Kappa from Bowdoin and a Columbia Law School graduate. Her experience with the media was said by Columbia University spokesman Judith Lensey to exist; but Lensey and McFadden both refused to specify precisely what this experience is.

During a brief interview in her Columbia School of Journalism office, Producer McFadden was asked if she could identify even one of the 21 media panelists as a conservative. Panelists included Daniel Schorr, CNN; Meg Greenfield, Fred Hitt, Karen De Young and Richard Harwood of The Washington Post; Sydney Schanberg, Charles Mohr and Bill Kovach of The New York Times; Victor Navansky of The Nation magazine; John Chancellor of NBC; Jane Wallace, Richard Salant, Morley Safer, Robert Chandler, Van Gordon Sauter and David Martin of CBS; John Laurence of ABC; William Beecher of The Boston Globe; Alvin Schuster and Jack Nelson of The Los Angeles Times; author Theodore White; Paul Nussbaum of The Philadelphia Inquirer; Charles Lewis of AP; Charles Madigan and James Squires of The Chicago Tribune; and Benjamin Schemmer of Armed Forces Journal International.

(The Chicago Tribune USED to be a conservative newspaper, while Benjamin Schemmer has editorially roasted Secretary of the Navy John Lehman's build-up of the US Navy.)

Rather than admit that she had selected only the liberal-to-far-left to represent the media, Producer McFadden tried to evade by replying loftily: "I'm not going to label anybody."

Graduates of Columbia School of Journalism by the hundreds regularly label people like Sen. Helms as "ultra-conservative" or "far right." They do not hesitate to describe New Hampshire's Manchester Union-Leader as "extreme right wing." President Reagan's Director of Communications Pat Buchanan is currently widely pilloried as a right wing hatchet man. But Miss McFadden doesn't want to label anybody.

Prior to this, she had emphasized that her purpose was "to allow both sides to argue both positions."

But the conservative segment of the US media went entirely unrepresented on this panel — which could have included such conservative media people as Buchanan (last December), James J. Kilpatrick, William Buckley, Evans & Novak, Joseph Sobran, George Will, John Lofton, Stan Evans, Dorothy Rabinowitz, Norman Podhoretz or Michael Novak.

When asked why there were no conservatives among the media panelists, Producer McFadden began to take umbrage. "Your questions sound adversarial," she complained. She said this in her office there in the Pulitzer-endowed journalism school whose graduates have constituted an army of adversaries in their much harder questions to people in all walks of life.

Eight months before Miss McFadden's production was filmed at Princeton, the Defense Department held three days of hearings on the same issue: the media and the military.

These videotaped hearings were conducted by a commission headed by retired Maj. Gen. Winant Sidle. They included testimony detailing the Library of Congress's extensive record of numbers of instances in which reporters have exposed military secrets.

Since this major media embarrassment — which Big Media refuses to report — went unmentioned in McFadden's production, we asked if she was aware of three of the most notorious cases. She was not.

Had this Columbia School of Journalism producer ever bothered to examine the transcripts or videotapes of the Department of Defense's three days of hearings on the same subject?

No, she had not. But, she added: "One of my researchers, Jack Hitt, looked at that." (Hitt, she explained, is a free lance writer for Columbia Journalism Review.)

But later, after it was apparent that she knew nothing of this record of media exposures of US military secrets, Miss McFadden amended her statement about Hitt: "I believe it was Jack, but they I'm not sure."

During a telephone interview, Hitt admitted that he had learned of this Sidle Commission's report of media exposure of US secrets. But he added that the three attorneys who questioned the panelists had not been asked to bring this up. He did not regard this record of media betrayal or the one-sided selection of the media panel as significant.

At Sperry's New York headquarters, William Newborg, Manager of Advertising Services, during a telephone interview, explained that four days before the filming of this series, he had been approached for financial support by Public Broadcasting affiliate WNET. He also recalled that after he had agreed to Sperry's underwriting, he had been supplied with a list of the panelists.

"I don't recall that the ideological orientation of the media panelists ever crossed my mind," remarked Newborg.

Not only the general public but Sperry's shareholders and management have good cause to wonder why this did not occur to Mr. Newborg.

For the result is that a prominent defense contractor contributed $100,000 to produce a film whose all-liberal-or-left-wing panelists contended for the media's "right" to:

(a) Take close-up, full color film of US, dead or wounded in combat — whether or not their next of kin have been notified, and

(b) Publish or broadcast military secrets.

For some time the public has had good cause to ask why the KGB needs any agents in the US with such media loose. Now, an even more pressing question is why on earth Sperry financed this latest left-wing propaganda from Columbia School of Journalism.

The least of many evils

WASHINGTON, VIRGINIA — Worse than communist China? Worse than Poland? Worse even than Ethiopia or Cambodia? That's what the anti-apartheid activists would have us believe about South Africa. Recently, on a Washington interview program, Roger Wilkins of the Free South Africa Movement said that "The worst and most vicious repression on the face of the earth since Nazi Germany is going on in South Africa."

That statement is absurd on its face. In South Africa, there is a free press, highly critical of the government. Opponents of apartheid travel around the world denouncing that system and then are allowed to return home. There is political violence, but fewer people are killed in a year than in a typical week in countries like Uganda. There is poverty, but less than anywhere else on the continent; there are more automobiles owned by South African blacks than by the entire population of the Soviet Union. South African blacks live, on average, 10 to 12 years longer than blacks in Nigeria and Tanzania. Black Africans migrate to South Africa to escape the political and economic oppression they suffer in their home countries; there is not a single country in Africa where the average black has more freedom than in South Africa.

Make no mistake: South Africa's regime is not democratic, though it comes as close to democracy as almost any African nation. But to say that it is the worst in the world in the last 40 years — worse than the Islamic states where the sexual mutilation of women is considered a normal practice, worse than Afghanistan where the SANTA FE — A government built around checks and balances functions well only when there are adequate and effective officials to do the checking and balancing.

Apparently most New Mexicans don't think we have that condition operating here at the moment.

Latest public-opinion poll results show 81 percent of those questioned feel Tony Anaya is an ineffective governor, or worse. What's more, 74 percent of those same people feel the same way about the Legislature.

Please observe the size of the share of our citizens holding such views. When only 18 percent can find anything good to say about the chief executive and only 26 percent view the lawmakers warmly, it's likely there is some validity to the argument that they are not functioning as desired.

Clearly, when two of the three branches of government are being run badly, trouble is bound to be the rule.

NORMAL CONDITIONS: Ordinarily, at a time when one of the three branches is in bad shape, we have the fortune to have effectiveness in another. That allows the stronger branch to fill in and make up for the inadequacies in the weaker.

That's not the shape we're in now. If the views of the vast majority of our people are correct, both those who make our laws and those who apply them are not up to performing the tasks we chose them for. (The third branch, the judiciary, is an important part of the check-in-balance system, but its powers are defined and rigorously limited to function after the fact.)

All that leaves us in a state of affairs few democratic governments have ever found themselves in, and there is nothing we can do to change the condition for at least another year.

ILLUSTRATIONS: Most readers will require little demonstration of the apparent incompetence of Governor Anaya; the front page of the daily paper give all-too-frequent proofs of that.

In the case of the lawmakers, however, the point may not be quite so clearly illustrated.

It is plain that these people spend a majority of their time in fruitless wrangles and jousts for power, but their actual bangles when they do take action are even more demonstrable.

For instance, given the poor state of things in the Governor's office, the legislators mistakenly gave him even more power than his predecessors have had in at least these ways:

—appropriating "development" money at any exceedingly high rate, including funds for an advertising program almost certain to be botched up;

—shifting power over disposition of severance-tax money from the State Treasurer's office, not quite so screwed up as the fourth floor of the Roundhouse, to the Investment Council, where Anaya controls all the votes;

—giving him, without being asked, power to shut down or otherwise change boards and commissions which license professional and other practitioners to such a degree he has never even figured out how to use it; and —enacting a procurement code which included sweeping changes in purchasing practices for every government in the state, from Santa Fe through the counties and school boards down to the towns and villages.

QUERY: Why would a sensible, competent group of people with power to enact legislation give away their control in this profligate fashion to a man whose conduct in office seems to make: most New Mexicans sure he's not the man for the job?

Letters TO THE EDITOR

EDITOR—Which is the most dangerous to the United States; the apartheid existing in South Africa, or the international communist conspiracy that has threatened to bury us?

It would seem to be the communist conspiracy in view of the fact that the US military spends billions of dollars each year to protect us from that communist enemy.

But, when it comes time to really get tough, our leaders just do not get tough with the communists. Right now the US is increasing trade and credit with the Red Chinese and with the USSR. At the same time, the US Congress places rigid economic sanctions on the anti-communist government of South Africa.

Economic sanctions can be effective. We recall only a few years ago an American boycott helped bring down another anti-communist government, the Ian Smith government that governed Rhodesia. (Rhodesia is now called Zimbabwe, and it is ruled by a Marxist dictator.)

The sad part is that both Rhodesia, under Smith, and South Africa, under Botha, wanted to be friends with the US and the free world.

A good many of us would like to see those economic sanctions put on the enemy that our military is supposed to be defending us against.

It just does not seem right to defend against the communists militarily, and at the same time to aid and assist them financially, commercially, and industrially.

OUTSTANDING PLAYERS—Head football coach Willie Gallegos named Daniel Zamora, Gabriel Chavez, Tommy Escamilla, and Robert Conner as 'Players of the Week' for their effort against the Estancia Bears in their 1985 homecoming game at Laabs Field last week. The Grizzlies downed the Bears 20 to 8.

Grizzly defense stifles Bears - - sparks 20-8 homecoming win

Carrizozo ran its record to (3-1) on the season by defeating the Estancia Bears 20-8 Friday night.

The Grizzly offense put two quick scores on the board early in the first quarter for a 12-0 lead—then turned the game over to its defense to make their homecoming a success.

Quarterback James Guevara hit tightend Tommy Escamilla with a 29 yard scoring strike on their first possession of the night culminating a five play scoring march after forcing an Estancia punt. PAT failed for a 6-0 Grizzly lead.

A fired up Grizzly defense forced the Bears to cough up the football on third down following the ensuing kickoff and recovered a Bear fumble at the Bear 32 yard line. Running back Kenny Crenshaw gained 27 yards on two plays before Guevara ran the last five yards into the end zone with 3:29 still showing on the scoreboard clock. Two point conversion failed for a 12-0 Carrizozo lead.

Both teams traded punts and turnovers during the rest of the first half. Carrizozo blocked a Bear punt (by Escamilla and recovered by Daniel Zamora), but Estancia returned the favor by intercepting a Grizzly pass one play later. Half ended with Carrizozo holding on to their 12-0 lead.

Carrizozo padded their lead at the 3:45 mark of third quarter when the Guevara to Escamilla combination struck for a 15 yard scoring strike. Crenshaw added two point conversion for a 20-0 Grizzly lead.

Meanwhile the Grizzly defense managed to keep Estancia off the scoreboard until only 2:43 remained in the ball game. A pass interception by cornerback Frank Gallegos, Jr. gave the Grizzlies a good scoring chance in the fourth quarter but a 41 yard field-goal attempt was wide.

Carrizozo will travel to Anthony, TX this Friday trying for their fourth win of the season before getting into district play following an open date next Friday. Gametime set for 7:30 p.m.

Thanks, guys

As we look back on the summer's events and remember all of the good Lincoln County folks who brought them about, our bank expresses its gratitude to each and every one. A lot of outsiders, tourists, hometowners and visitors from far away places were in Lincoln County for these times, enjoying themselves and boosting our local economy in a variety of ways.

People's Market Place in Carrizozo this year was a fun stop - the strains of good old country music and the church singers added to the pleasures of the day. Jack Richardson, Richie Askew, Glen Ellison and Barbara Askew were among the entertainers.

Woody Schlegel and Patsy Sanchez of Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce, with a number of other volunteers and members, worked tirelessly on this project. Our bank appreciates being involved and having a part in Lincoln County going on as well as being involved as the financial partner when people need our help. Pay us a visit, we enjoy finding ways to help by providing you with the financing you require.

27-21 IN OVERTIME—

Tigers lose heart-breaker to Hagerman

By BARTLEY McDONOUGH
For the second time this season the Capitan Tigers ended regulation play in a tie. Hagerman came out on top in the tie breaker 27-21.

The Tigers travel to Springer Sept. 27 for a game scheduled for 2 p.m. Coach Woodward feels that this should be a good game between evenly matched teams.

The Tigers took the opening kickoff and started play on their own 20. After a couple of penalties an 18 yard pass to Keller gave the Tigers a 1st down. A face mask penalty gave Capitan another 1st down. Capitan was forced to punt and the Bobcats took over on their own 23 yard line.

Hagerman attempted a pass which Capitan's Jay Eldridge intercepted and carried to within 13 yards of pay dirt. A 13 yard pass completion to Mike Lunn and the Tigers were on the scoreboard. Keller kicked the PAT and the score stood Capitan 7, Hagerman 0.

A nice run back of the ensuing kick off failed to produce anything and Hagerman had to punt. The Tigers took over on their own 20. A 9 yard run by Lunn and the 1st down by Padilla set up the next play. Chris Peralta did his thing once again! A 60 yard ramble by Chris and the Tigers had another 6 points. The PAT was no good. With 4:52 left in the 1st quarter the Tigers led the Bobcats 13-0.

Hagerman could not move

Corona whips Mt' Air

By LINDA CALDWELL
Corona volleyball teams had mixed results in last week's matchups with Carrizozo and Ft. Sumner.

Cardinal jr. high girls whipped the Carrizozo squad 15-3 and 15-8 to get things started in the Lincoln County contest. But the Carrizozo high school team came back to win three out of four to beat the Corona girls 15-4, 1-15, 15-8, and 15-11.

Corona fared better against Ft. Sumner on Sept. 21 when both teams won. The jr. high girls won two out of three with scores of 8-15, 15-6, and 15-6. It took four competitive games for the high schoolers to finish off the opponent, 11-15, 16-14, 15-12, and 15-11.

Volleyball teams will meet Vaughn, there, on Sept. 28 at 6 p.m.

Viguerie . .

sanctions against South Africa and against communist nations, why did liberal Senators vote it down overwhelmingly?

Why don't liberals blacklist Soviet athletes the way they do South African athletes like Zola Budd? Why don't they blacklist entertainers who perform behind the Iron Curtain the way they blacklist entertainers who have supposedly performed in South Africa, like Helen Reddy and Cher? Why don't they encourage longshoremen to refuse to unload ships from the Soviet Union?

Why do so many liberals take their vacations in communist countries, when their principles would forbid them from vacationing in South Africa? Why do they have their pictures taken at Soviet embassy parties, laughing, with drinks in hand and their arms around KGB thugs, when they would sooner pose with Idi Amin than a South African official?

And why don't they make the point that, just as it is immoral to aid apartheid financially, it is immoral to assist the countries of the Soviet empire? Why do liberals in Congress continue to vote for loans and credits that pay US companies to do business with communist nations -- with governments that have sworn to wipe America from the face of the globe -- while supporting sanctions against the South African government?

One of the major factors in Ronald Reagan's 1980 victory was the fact that Jimmy Carter had helped bring down the dictator in Nicaragua and the dictator in Iran. Carter, you see, had given little thought to the form of the government that would come after Somoza and the Shah were run out of town on a rail. The US lost two valuable allies; the budding freedom of the people of Iran was crushed; and the people of Nicaragua are today obliged to fight a bloody war to obtain the freedom that should have been theirs five years ago. If his actions on South Africa are any guide, it appears that President Reagan does not intend to repeat Jimmy Carter's mistake.
