Ruidoso Downs uproar

Angry crowd demands recall of trustees, mayor

By RIGO CHAVEZ

Petitions calling for the recall of the Ruidoso Downs Board of Trustees and for an increase in the number of trustees from five to seven were presented before a standing-room-only crowd at the board's regular meeting Monday night.

The petitions, containing 109 signatures, come following a district court decision which ruled that J. C. "Jake" Harris was entitled to hold the office of mayor instead of C. L. "Bones" Wright, who ran a write-in campaign in the March 4 election.

Gary Mitchell, attorney for Wright who had been mayor prior to District Judge Richard Parsons' decision, presented the recall petitions at the meeting which drew a boisterous crowd.

He said the recall should include both the mayor and the trustees. "That's the way they did it in Cimarron and that's the way we should do it here."

Newly appointed Downs village attorney Richard Hawthorne disagreed, saying the petition would affect only the trustees. "New Mexico statutes do not deal with the recall of the mayor," he said.

"They should call for an election, let everyone who wants to run, run and get on with business," Mitchell responded.

According to state statutes, the village clerk must verify the signatures on the petition to be sure that those signing are registered voters. Valid signatures of at least 5 percent of registered voters in the last municipal election are required.

After the signatures have been verified, the trustees have 10 days to adopt a resolution calling for a new election. The election must then be held within 90 days.

If the voters choose to increase the number of trustees, the current trustees must resign within 120 days after the election and a special election to elect new trustees must be called.

WRIGHT IS READY

Charlotte Craig, who with her husband runs a gas station in Ruidoso Downs, said she had helped gather signatures for the petition. "We only started circulating them this morning (Monday) and we got enough to bring them here tonight. I'd say that says a lot about how dissatisfied the people are down here," she said.

Wright, the former mayor, was also at the stormy meeting. When asked if he would run should the recall attempt be successful, he said, "Your damn right I will."

The 7 p.m. meeting, the second one for Mayor Harris, began rather peacefully with trustees approving the appointment of Joann Jenkins as village clerk to replace Wilma Webb who was fired by Harris.

Trustees also unanimously approved the appointment of Hawthorne to replace village attorney Don Dutton, who resigned during the June 4 organizational meeting that also saw barbs fly between Harris and members of the audience.

Voices began to rise and Harris' gavel to fall, when audience members asked questions about the petitions and other city employees.

Mark Milford, the village's code enforcement officer, asked whether he would be able to retain his job.

Harris said that Milford would have to make an appointment with him to discuss it.

Milford had been told at that June 4 meeting that his job was being eliminated. "It's my job as mayor to enforce the ordinances," Harris said.

"Do you want to get rid of me because of the citations I had to serve you?" Milford asked.

Harris said he was under the impression that the citations had been dropped in court because he had come into compliance with the ordinance that restricts the number of houses on a lot.

Milford said he had a new citation to serve the mayor for a lot he owns in the Palo Verde subdivision. The mayor refused to accept the citation.

ANGRY CROWD LEAVES

At Monday night's meeting another audience member asked if everyone who had questions would have to make an appointment with Harris. Harris said the man was out of order.

Angry audience members, about half of the 45-member crowd, stormed out of the meeting after Harris refused to let former village clerk

Developers making good on violations

Penalties were announced last week against a local timeshare resort for running what the state attorney general called misleading ads, but area salesmen claim they are trying harder than ever to comply with marketing regulations.

Marketing directors for four Ruidoso timeshare condominiums said they present all their selling plans and letters to the attorney general's office for review before they begin a program.

"They OK it, but they reserve the right to sue us later if we don't do what we said we were going to do in the letters,"

Don Boss, marketing director for the 28-unit High Sierra development, said.

William Wyland of Tiara del Sol and Bill Parks of North American Developments said they too submit their marketing proposals to the AG's office for approval.

North American, which had been marketing condos under the name of Chateau de la Shay and has now changed the name to Mountain Resorts of Ruidoso, is awaiting the outcome of a suit filed against them by the attorney general for a vacation promotion they ran last year.

North American is set to go to court on Oct. 27 in Alamogordo.

Triple Crown Condominiums of Ruidoso Downs reached a settlement with the attorney general made public last week in which they agreed to pay $15,000 in civil penalties and make good on vacations it had promised to people who came to tour the development last summer.

Bill Skeen, Triple Crown's project director, said marketing of the 104-unit development has been suspended but should resume in the near future, though a specific date has not been set.

He said in a telephone interview from his Austin office that his firm is still in the process of gathering the names of persons who had attended sales presentation after being told they would receive one free airline ticket and free accommodations for two to Hawaii, Puerto Vallarta or Cancun, Mexico.

"In the meantime, people who have called have been given the vacations free," Skeen said, adding that it was Modern Marketing which had actually run the promotion for Triple Crown and it's parent company Alta Enterprises.

One of Triple Crown's more recent promotions was the subject of a report by an Albuquerque television station.

Chris Huston, consumer reporter for KOB-TV, said he had received complaints from people who had come to Ruidoso when they were promised a two-man boat. "It turned out to be more of an inflatable raft that was not worth near what the promoter had said it was," Huston said.

Boss of High Sierra said part of the problem with some people's disappointment in the premiums they get when they come to hear a presentation is that "they expect something for nothing."

"Right now we are offering a color TV set that is worth about $200 to people who come for the tour and presentation. The letter explains that they have to pay $39.95 for shipping on the set, but most don't bother to read it and expect the TV to be here ready for them to pick up."

Other promotions by High Sierra include a Las Vegas vacation, a free waterbed and mini-vacations to Ruidoso.

The mini-vacations offer three days and two nights in Ruidoso and are being advertised in newspapers in Texas and New Mexico including the Albuquerque Journal.

Wyland of Tiara del Sol said the mini-vacations are probably his most effective selling tool.

"We bring these people down from Albuquerque, they stay at the Quality Inn and they get a chance to experience Ruidoso and what we have to offer here. After all, what we are selling is Ruidoso—if they don't like the area it doesn't matter how much they like one of our units, they aren't going to buy."

Another selling approach Wyland is using this summer is booths set up in Ruidoso's downtown area. Here

Sheriff reopens McKnight case; vows to defy court's gag order

By RUTH HAMMOND

Lincoln County Sheriff Tom Sullivan told the News Tuesday, "Before the next general election in November, I will make a statement about the McKnight murder investigation and the status of the case, whether the gag order is lifted or not. The public deserves to know."

Sullivan also said, "The McKnight case has been used as a political football. I think Don Samuels and Joe McKnight dealt some low blows with their planned letters to editors from Joe McKnight in an attempt to discredit the sheriff's department's investigation just prior to the primary election, knowing we were vulnerable and could not respond because of the gag order."

The gag order was issued by District Judge Richard Parsons on Aug. 28, 1985 after Sullivan and District Attorney James Weldon publicly aired their differences about the McKnight murder investigation.

The agencies of the attorney general, state police, district attorney and Lincoln County Sheriff's Department met Sept. 11, 1985 and agreed to work together in the homicide investigation.

According to a spokesman for the sheriff's department, the case has been handled by the AG's office since then with no "working together!"

Chief Deputy Charles Cox said the sheriff's department has never stopped working on the case and just recently put two deputies on the case full time.

The McKnight murder case was in the news again last week when Terrie Bussey, sister of slain Judy McKnight, and Pancho McKnight, brother of slain Thomas "Cotton" McKnight, presented a petition to Judge Richard Parsons to call for a grand jury investigation to try and solve the murder case.

The petition requested that Judge Parsons appoint an attorney or attorneys other than the district attorney and/or the attorney general and/or their assistants to present the case to said grand jury.

Parsons received the petition on June 2 with approximately 458 signatures requesting the grand jury investigation.

The McKnights were found murdered in their home near Picacho on Nov. 15, 1984.

Judge Parson's order signed June 9 states, "The Court has no authority as a matter of law and of the Constitution of the State of New Mexico to appoint a special

THE NIGHT WATCHMAN Shady, tasty dining at Rumours restaurant

The menus say that Rumours Restaurant is "a sunny place for shady people." The food is definitely a sunny delight for lunchtime eating.

The menu includes appetizers like fried cheese, squash and mushrooms at just under $3. The have a special green chile corn chowder for $3 and sandwiches ranging in price from $1.95 for peanut butter to $4.50 for a ham and avocado.

There are also daily specials including croissant sandwiches, quiche and soups.

I opted for the green chile quiche from the specials board, while my companion sampled the ham, avocado and swiss cheese sandwich on whole wheat bread.

Served open faced, the sandwich included several slices ham and avocado topped with the swiss. It had been placed in a broiler just long enough to melt the cheese.

My companion said it was delicious.

The green chile quiche came with a small lunch salad. The chile was not hot by any means, but provided a good contrast to the moist combination of eggs, milk and cheese.

The crisp salad greens, tomato and mushrooms on the tossed salad were accompanied by a flavorful ranch dressing.

Rumours has a beer and wine license so we had our choice of Taylor white, rose or red wine and a half dozen domestic beers.

For dessert I selected the spice cake with creamed cheese icing. The cake was moist, but if the waitress hadn't told us it was spice cake I wouldn't have guessed.

Rumours is a fairly quiet restaurant and is just the ticket for a quick business lunch. Diners have the option of choosing one of three indoor dining areas or in nice weather can be seated at tables in a shaded lawn area outside.

Rumours is also open for breakfast and features a wide choice of omelets.

Our waitress was attentive without being obtrusive. The decor of the restaurant features hardwood floors and quilts hanging on the wall.

The quilt motif is also carried to the tables where small quilts are placed under glass. --By Rigó Chavez Rumours, located in downtown Ruidoso at 104 Vine Road, is open for breakfast from 8 to 10 a.m. and lunch from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m. Monday through Friday. Most major credit cards are accepted. All restaurants are reviewed anonymously with one or more guests to provide a broader sampling. All meals are paid for and restaurants receiving unfavorable reviews have been visited more than once.

'Whorehouse' gets some unexpected encouragement

The cast of the Ruidoso Little Theater's production of "Best Little Whorehouse in Texas" has gotten some words of encouragement from one of the play's co-authors.

Larry L. King of Washington, DC, who along with Peter Masterson wrote the book the play is based on, sent a letter to Linda Graham, who plays one of the ladies of the evening in the local production.

In the letter dated May 29, King begins with tongue planted in cheek, "You being a life of shame tonight—though in a good cause.

"If this reaches you in time, give my best to all cast members, director, and backstage folk for their contributions to the Ruidoso production of "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas." As we say in show biz, "Break a Leg!"

Graham, who plays Taddy Jo and an Angelette, said King learned of the production from his sister, Libby Burnett, who lives in Ruidoso.

"She told him that we were doing the play here and that her postmaster was in it. So, the letter came addressed to the postmaster here," Graham said.

She added that when she read it to the rest of the cast, they were just "tickled." Graham is a postal clerk at the Ruidoso Post Office.

Debbie Floyd, publicity manager for the local production, said that because of the good response from the community the play will be held over June 13 and 14.

"We've had a full house every night for the past two weeks," she said.

Certain time is 8 p.m. on both nights in the Upper Studio at Carrizo Lodge. Tickets are $5 for adults and $2.50 for senior citizens and students.

Ruidoso Council

Information booth plan batted down

An appeal by a timeshare developer to place an additional information booth in downtown Ruidoso was denied by the Ruidoso Village Council Tuesday night.

William Wyland of Tiara del Sol had asked to put a booth in a parking lot adjacent to a building at 2542 Sudderth Dr. that houses Caprio Dress Shop.

In past summers shoppers and merchants had complained about the street walkers harassing them, he said.

Mayor Lloyd Davis Jr. said that he had had a number of conversations with people who wanted no booths at all and others who wanted just one for each of the timeshare developers. Tiara del Sol already has two booths in the downtown area.

Councilors Victor Alonso and Jerry Shaw noted that the timeshare developments were very important to the economy of Ruidoso. "But, Mr. Wyland said he wanted to present a professional program, I don't think a $300 shack presents a very good image of Ruidoso," Alonso said.

Following a discussion on the village's new trash compactor, the council approved a motion calling for the compactor to be open to the public and to private groups.

A POTENTIAL HAZARD

Alonso said that the sanitation superintendent had opposed opening the compactor to use by the public because he was concerned that people don't know how to back up their pick-up trucks, people might fall in the pit, children many times accompany adults to the compactor, the sanitation department already provides to the pick up of large pieces of trash and the compactor is a piece of machinery and people who aren't familiar with it should be kept away.

"I don't think there are any concerns that can't be overcome with some study by our engineer. Since it (the compactor) can process 20 times more than it is, it's my belief that the department would be underutilizing its equipment, people and utilities if we don't open it up," Alonso said.

Al Junge, who was a village councilor when the compactor was approved, asked that the village wait and see a full month of operation of the compactor before opening it to the public.

In other business the council approved the transfer of a liquor license from Navajo Spirits, a former lounge and package store on Sudderth Drive, to a night club to be opened at 421-D Mechem Drive, the former site of the Sierra Sinema.

A $78,900 contract for air traffic control services with Mid-West Air Traffic Control Services was also approved. The cost is an increase of $6,900 over last year.

Texie Cole,

An accomplished individual

Texanita Cole, or Texie as she is known to her family and friends, is an accomplished individual in her own right. She is the wife of the minister at the First Christian Church of Ruidoso, Ken Cole.

The mother of two grown children—a son and a daughter—and a grandmother, who leads the choir at First Christian. Cole is also principal at Ruidoso Middle School.

As active as she is, she still desires additional time for things she has not had time to do, like take piano lessons, become more of an artist, read more and if that isn't enough, she'd like to do "more living."

"There is so much more that I look forward to doing in the coming years," she said.

The Cole's philosophy in their home has been to discipline and love their children. Their daughter Tracey works at the Ruidoso

News and has a 6-month-old son, Brandon.

Colby, the Cole's son, is an aviation technician in the Navy stationed in Norfolk, VA. His four-year stint nearly complete, he plans to sign up for another six years and make a career of the Navy.

While the children were young, Texie said she battled with guilt as she taught in the school system and left her children alone during the day. However, she learned to balance her time and rather than guilt mastering her, she found that quality time given to her children when she was home made quality adults.

Texie's role in the church has come gradually through the years. As she matured in her role, she evolved into a

Pfeffer rebuts some campaign rhetoric

By RIGÓ CHAVEZ

Former Lincoln County sheriff candidate Dave Pfeffer met with members of the media earlier this week to clear up what he called "disruptive" rumors that surfaced about him during the campaign.

Stating that politics were over for him following his defeat by Democrat Jim Nesmith in the June 3 primary, Pfeffer said he wanted to dispel any rumors about his involvement with drug trafficking.

"I'm still a Ruidoso policeman and I have a job to do. I can't do it with allegations of me being involved in narcotics floating around," he said.

One of the allegations stemmed from a sheriff's department undercover drug investigation which Pfeffer was said to have deliberately disrupted.

It was alleged at a Ruidoso Village Council meeting last month that Pfeffer had gone up to an unmarked sheriff's car in a marked police car causing the undercover officer to be identified by the people he was watching.

"It was not a marked unit and I didn't know who was in the car. But, the truth is there was nothing blown," Pfeffer said.

The 39-year-old Pfeffer has been on the Ruidoso Police Force for the past 11 years and was making his first bid for public office.

He said similar allegations had been made against him in past years and had been fully investigated. "One investigation was by the state police about seven years ago and the other by the state attorney general's office about four years ago. Both times there was found to be no basis to the allegations."

Pfeffer said he had worked to get the Crime Stoppers program going in the area and that it was helping to curb drug trafficking.

He said he has also been instrumental in setting up drug education programs at the high school and mid-school in Ruidoso.

"Why would I bring drugs into town knowing that they could end up in the hands of my children," Pfeffer said.

He also said there was no basis to rumors that he had acquired a sports car and a van with drug money or that he had once been stopped in a car loaded with marijuana which it was said he claimed he was transferring after a bust.

The sports car and the van were acquired with money he received in an accident settlement last summer, Pfeffer said.

As to the story about the drug-laden car, Pfeffer said he has never transferred any drugs following a bust. "Even when we take confiscated drugs to be destroyed, I don't have anything to do with the destruction."

When asked if he would run for sheriff again, he said "You bet I will."

But, currently he said his plans were only to concentrate on his police work and "put these things behind me."

Recording artist at fellowship

The Women's Aglow Fellowship of Ruidoso will meet Monday, June 16 at 7 p.m. at the Senior Citizen's Center.

Their speaker will be Kay Roberts, a school teacher from Los Alamos and also a musical recording artist. She and her teenage daughter will be sharing songs from her latest album to be released this summer. They will also bring teaching from "God's Word."

This meeting is open to all women of the community. Teenage daughters are especially welcome this month.

Webb finish a letter she was reading to the trustees.

"That's enough, Wilma, you'll have to submit that in the form of a letter," Harris said banging his gavel again. "This is my meeting and I'll run it the way I want."

Amid shouts of "what ever happened to freedom of speech," the meeting was adjourned and the trustees went into an executive session, apparently to discuss Milford's fate.

When contacted on Wednesday, employees at village hall said Milford no longer worked there and that the code enforcement duties had been turned over to the police department.

Many of those at the meeting stayed around afterward to discuss the happenings.

"I really don't think I was out of line," Webb said explaining that she had been called back to work to train the new village clerk. "I certainly didn't expect this."

Teri Webb, the former clerk's daughter, said she thought Harris had been terribly unfair. "We have the right to ask questions in public and expect answers."

Also upset about being cut off when she tried to ask about the petitions, Craig said, "I thought Hiler was dead, but apparently not."

"Harris didn't give anyone a chance to say anything"

'NO HORN TOOTING'
"Trustees meetings are supposed to be to conduct the business of the village, not to let people get up and toot their own horn," Harris said, explaining why he had cut Webb off.

"If she had put it on the agenda it would have been OK, but I didn't have any idea she was going to do that."

He said he expected things to begin running more smoothly soon. "I think the trustees and I understand each other pretty well, I really don't have my feet on the ground yet."

In business conducted before the meeting erupted, the trustees:

—discussed getting a written agreement with the Ruidoso police to control traffic at the "X" on race days;

—directed the village attorney to research what could be done to allow restaurants to sell liquor on Sundays while a petition is being drawn up for the November ballot;

—heard a report from the village engineer on paying and other improvement projects;

—heard a report from Trustee Conrad Buchanan on the railroad feasibility study.

passersby are given a short presentation and a $20 or $25 certificate good for cash when they visit the resort.

The number of Tierra del Sol booths has been generating controversy and Wyland was set to appeal a Planning and Zoning Commission decision limiting him to three booths to the Ruidoso Village Council Tuesday night.

Parks said the booths were a good idea and had plans to use one downtown location for selling, "but one company having so many in one three-block area is like shooting a wasp with a machine gun."

North American uses many of the same marketing gimmicks as the other resorts, and is also running a vacation contest promotion.

The contest, set to run through August, offers round-trip tickets for two to Mazatlan from Juarez and four days and three nights of accommodations.

Entry forms are available in Las Cruces area restaurants, lounges and bowling alleys.

"I've done this type of promotion for the past two years," said Parks, who has been with North American since February. "The trips have never failed to be given away, which would be the only reason we might get into trouble."

Judge Parsons referred the case to the office of the attorney general for the purpose of determining whether there is sufficient evidence to submit a criminal matter to the requested grand jury.

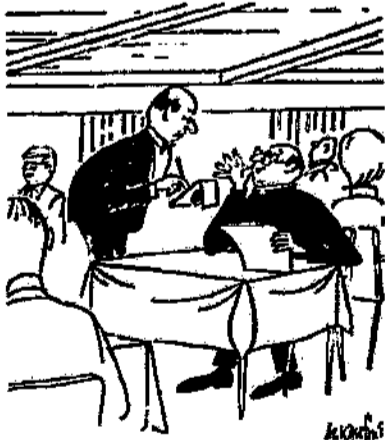

Stephen Westheimer, deputy attorney general, responded, "Although we understand the concern of the citizens who have petitioned for a grand jury at this time we have no evidence to present upon which a grand jury could act."

Don Boss

Boss agreed that timeshare marketers in Ruidoso may have suffered because of the recent attorney general's investigations. "But, I think the positive effects of timeshares on the economy here far outweigh any negatives."

"Timeshares just can't be sold with regular newspaper ads. We need big promotions to have the volume—70,000 people per year—we need to sell the project."

OPINION

●THIS is a reply to a letter to the editor from Jude Mason, president of the National Education Association-New Mexico, which is published on this page. High-flown and flawed rhetoric aside, Mason's defense of the most powerful political union in America, the NEA, is not run democratically as he states. For example, the last NEA convention was attended by roughly 7,000 persons, the most in recent years, and that number represents less than 0.5 percent of NEA's membership. Before any NEA resolution goes to the convention floor it is screened by less than 2 percent of the 7,000 convention delegates making up the resolutions committee. Whatever is decided in that committee is passed off as representing the views of the total membership of 1.7 million. Obviously, basing NEA policy on the views of 2 percent of a mere 0.5 percent of NEA's membership of 1.7 million is not democratic but despotic.

●MASON says, "every decision made about education is a political one, whether it is at the local, state or national level." I agree. So we establish that NEA is a political organization. NEA is first and foremost a political union. It poured hundreds of thousands of dollars into electing President Jimmy Carter in 1976. A grateful Carter paid off his obligation to the NEA by establishing the Department of Education and staffed it with NEA people from top to bottom. Too, more than 800 NEA lobbyists practically live with our US senators and representatives to influence legislation favorable to NEA. It is so politically powerful that President Reagan, who had promised to abolish the DOE, has been unable to do so.

●MASON says NEA "does not now, nor has it ever, controlled American education." Perhaps, but not for the lack of trying. Let us review some of the efforts of NEA to do precisely what Mason says it does not do. Terry Herndon, NEA executive director in 1980, said: "We want leaders and staff with sufficient clout that they may roam the hall of Congress and collect votes to re-order the priorities of the United States." More later about those priorities. George Fisher, 1970 NEA president said NEA intends to control "who enters, who stays, and who leaves the profession. Once this is done, we can also control the teacher training institutions." Catherine Barrett, 1972 NEA president said: "We are determined to control the direction of education." Helen Wise, NEA president in 1974, vowed "to build NEA's force over the next two years to the point where the presidential candidates will seek NEA endorsement." John Ryor, a later NEA president, boasted that "we have become the foremost political power in the nation." Tell me again, Mr. Mason, how NEA doesn't seek total control of education in this country, or are your NEA directors and presidents lying?

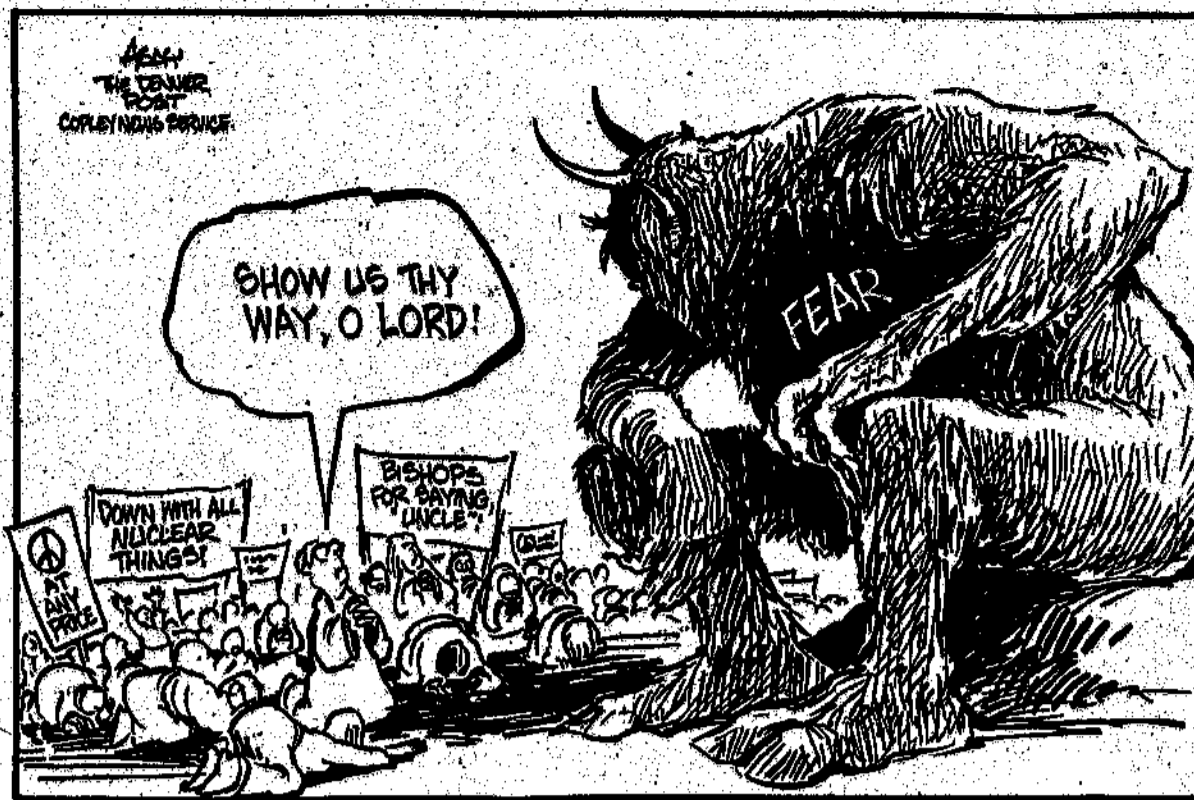

●ABOUT those NEA goals and priorities. According to NEA's own literature, which I recommend to Mason before he writes his next letter to the editor, the goal is conceded to be total control over the nation's educating process, public and private. Such goals and priorities are contained in the annual edition of the Journal of the NEA, titled Today's Education. I am quoting from a 36-page NEA "Legislative Program" published in the 1984-85 edition. Read on.

●ACCORDING to NEA literature, NEA wants to be the only national organization to control education, and to control it from a centralized, nongovernmental agency, which is, surprisingly enough, the NEA. NEA is against teacher testing for competence and against merit pay for good teachers. Here is what NEA does support: the teaching of a godless human secularism in the schools; it supports abolition of nations and global, one-world government; it supports the United Nations, the Marxist Sandinistas in Nicaragua, gay and lesbian "rights," the Equal Rights Amendment, the feminist movement, unilateral US disarmament, nuclear disarmament, resistance to the military draft, ethnic quotas for minorities (Affirmative Action), forced school busing, the right to strike, the right to extract by force dues from teachers not affiliated with NEA, the right to abortion on demand at taxpayer expense, and pornography. NEA rejects the Bible and ridicules Christianity. If these things are true, and I challenge Mason to refute them, the NEA deserves to be run out of this country.

●MASON is correct in saying that I am biased against the NEA. I am equally biased against the devil. Let me justify that observation. In 1982 the NEA was actively involved in a Solidarity Day Peace Demonstration in New York City, along with the US Communist Party and other left-wing activist organizations. One of the speakers was Communist Gus Hall. Among Communists, socialists, and America-Last advocates who paraded in this demonstration was Mary Futrell, president of the NEA. Just how sympathetic the NEA is to Communism is revealed by a reporter for the Communist Daily World who wrote of the NEA's 1981 convention: "Nowhere in the basic documents of NEA, in their resolutions or new business items, are there any anti-Soviet or anti-socialist positions." In short, the NEA is pro-Soviet, pro-socialist, and anti-American.

●I AM delighted, Mr. Mason, that the candidates you have endorsed are "insulted" by my remarks on the NEA. I am pleased that you are insulted. My hope is that every NEA member is insulted. I hope that every legislator who is paid off and his influence bought by NEA is insulted. I know that I am insulted that an organization of your stripe goes unchallenged as to your goals and objectives.

●YOU ask "only that you more accurately reflect the image of our association." If the whole truth of your nefarious activities were known to the American people, your union would be chased out of business. You say NEA does not now, nor has it ever, controlled American education. If you have read the above, you know that statement is false. As for your plea for respect, that will come when you clean up your despicable house of educational prostitution, return the public school system to the local level and to parents, and keep your tainted hands out of national politics.

Judicial hanky-panky

The results of two recent court cases cast serious doubt as to the competency of our 12th District Court.

First, in an amazing and sometimes tortuous opinion, Judge Richard Parsons rejected a challenge of the March 4 mayoral election in Carrizozo. While Parsons found there were "irregularities" at the polling place, including what he calls a "disembodied arm" that came inside the booth curtain to influence a voter, he shrugged them off. But no matter to whom that arm belonged, it was the duty of the election judges and officials to see that it was not there in the first place, and they violated the law by permitting it.

Instead of chastizing the election officials for such a violation, he wound up commending them for their long and faithful service. In substance, he ruled that a little hanky-panky at the polls is dandy, just don't overdo it. That is like being a little bit pregnant.

Second, the people of this county petitioned Parsons to convene a grand jury to investigate the murders of Thomas and Judy McKnight. Instead of following the precise wording of the New Mexico Constitution, which says in Art. II, Sec. 14 that the District Court shall (as distinguished from may) call the grand jury!

Much damage has already been done, but it is not too late for Parsons to change his mind on both the above issues. If he does not, Issue No. 1 may be headed for the Supreme Court where the secrecy and sanctity of the ballot is taken less lightly. As to Issue No. 2, we join with those who favor petitioning the Supreme Court to instruct Parsons to call that grand jury.

There must be an end to judicial hanky-panky, whether it be at the polls or whether it involves a murder investigation too long delayed.

Sodomy a divisive issue

By LES KINSOLVING

Manhattan's Episcopal Bishop Paul Moore, who is Gov. Mario Cuomo's chief adviser on AIDS, has warned the nation not to be "judgmental" about homosexuality.

Bishop Moore (who is known in some quarters as "Bishop Paul The Appalling") has not hesitated to share with anyone who will listen his judgment of New York's Roman Catholic Archbishop, John Cardinal O'Connor. For Bishop Moore contends that Cardinal O'Connor is "immoral" — because he refuses to join Bishop Moore in sodomy-sanctioning.

Two of Bishop Moore's clergy already are dead of AIDS, which deadly epidemic, this prelate has suggested, can best be checked by providing gay bathhouses with plenty of clean towels, condoms and anal lubricant.

Anyone who suggests that this is prima facie evidence of the fact that Bishop Moore is an ecclesiastical nitwit will, of course, be regarded as "judgmental."

In Manhattan, The New York Times exposed a secret plan for the annual "Heritage of Pride Annual Gay-Lesbian Parade" on June 29. The parade committee had planned to rent portable toilets to feature in this parade. Each of these toilets cost, for $70, be named for a "homophobe" (a recently coined word which really means fear and loathing of human beings.) Militant sodomists had already signed up to designate one of these toilets for Cardinal O'Connor and the other for Orthodox Rabbi Yehuda Levin.

Inside the Capitol

By Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—For those of us in the pundit profession, there's nothing nicer than sitting around after an election and telling lies about how accurate all our predictions were.

When we do have to admit we guessed one wrong, the rationalizations we come up with for that momentary lapse from our usual all-knowing position are creativity of the highest order.

If you could catch a glimpse of this reporter's pre-election handicapping, for just one of many examples of errors in guessing, you'd wonder how anybody could be so wrong.

But there were, you have to admit, some mighty strange results in this year's primary—like how many of those on both sides whose names was first on the ballot ended up winning all the marbles. Even for a state well known for its election anomalies, that happened with disconcerting frequency.

As someone said here, "What I conclude is that if you wish to be successful in New Mexico elections, you should arrange for ballot position number one and should refrain from being a sitting legislator." In statewide races, that's a pretty good example of what it took to be rendered victorious this season.

PRESENT AND ACCOUNTED FOR: Among the predictions from this corner that went badly awry was that one that said the turnout was going to be light this June.

That one turned out to be only half right. The Democrats did in fact set a new record for not showing up, with only a shade more than a third of their party managing to get to the polls. The Republicans, however, went the opposite direction. With 90,000 of their members voting, more or less, they set a new record for primary turnouts, which can stand as an example for future years.

What the big-city media don't always understand, of course, is that in some parts of New Mexico—DeBaca county springs to mind—all you have to do is get out about 200 Republicans and you've delivered 45 percent of the vote.

LONG, HOT SUMMER: So what can we expect in the way of campaigning over the next five months?

From the Democrats, more exhortations to us to vote the straight Democratic ticket than this state has heard since the days of Franklin Delano Roosevelt. The sole aim of this party has only to be to keep any of its members from straying off the reservation, and then to turn them out in massive quantities on election day, and they've got it made.

The problem for the other side is a lot more difficult. Strangely enough for them, the Republicans are going to have to battle over-confidence for the first time in the last couple of decades; too many of their people think Tony Anaya has delivered the governor's suite to them on a silver platter—which he hasn't. Instead, the men at the top of their ticket, one of them an adherent of James Watt and proud of it, and the other a man who still thinks Goldwater should have beaten Johnson, have to dress themselves up in such fashion as to convince 25 percent of the state's Democrats to vote for them. That's going to take some doing.

And all this, please note, must go on while those who currently are in office spend every last dime, just to make sure the guy who takes over in January is allowed to operate from a position of literal governmental poverty.

Letters TO THE EDITOR

Letter to the editor NEA president calls Joiner 'biased' and insulting

EDITOR—Every once and a while, readers of your newspaper are exposed to the obvious bias of Ernest V. Joiner against the National Education Association. To provide another view, we offer the following facts to your most recent invective against our Association.

In a democracy, all citizens enjoy the right to work for the candidate of their choice—whether that choice is made on an individual basis or as a member of a larger interest group. NEA has every right to become politically involved and to endorse those candidates whom it views as pro-education and willing to work for the good of children as well as for the good of those who work in this nation's schools. We do so, Mr. Joiner, for the very reason that every decision made about education is a political one, whether it is at the local, state or national level.

Educators have a special responsibility to become involved in this way. We have expertise about one of the most important institutions in our society — the school. We should not be shamed into inactivity by someone who does not agree with us or who sees conspiracy behind our actions.

Not only does your editorial insult those candidates who have been endorsed by our association, but you insult our members as mindless individuals who are easily led through a selfish agenda which has basis only in your own imagination.

You also insult our members by stating that they don't run their union or establish its policies. Your attempt to separate our members from the association is common among those who oppose our collective voice. Let me just point out that NEA is the largest democratic body which assembles annually to determine its goals and policies. Representatives from our local and state associations attend these yearly meetings and participate in the setting of policy. Believe it or not, NEA members from your own county have been among those representatives.

You certainly go far afield to make your points against NEA by quoting a 1981 out-of-state publication. Let me speak in behalf of NEA-New Mexico, which is certainly more relevant. Teaching is our profession and there is no doubt that our members as well as other teachers in this state are committed and dedicated individuals who strive to assure that this state's students achieve to their maximum potential. But that does not mean we do not have concerns about our professional status. I am sure that does not make for inflammatory journalism nor does it suit your purpose, but that's the fact.

You indicate you wouldn't "be caught dead voting for a candidate for public office endorsed by NEA." We don't know how many there are among the dead who vote. But I can tell you this: nationwide surveys have consistently shown that our organization's endorsements are among the very few that positively influence public opinion. This is due largely to the respect the general public has for educators. The public expects those involved in the field of education to know their facts and to place priority on issues that best serve the public interest.

You don't have to agree with us, Mr. Joiner. But the least you can do is to provide your readers with your own "reasoned" assessments of political candidates based on their backgrounds and their records. Last time I checked, it was still the press' responsibility to inform, educate and influence its readers on such matters as politicians who certainly have an impact on their well-being.

Finally, let me just say that you can continue to make the NEA the "whipping post" of your columns by making us out to be the "radical teacher's union" or you can assume the responsibility that most readers expect of their journalists as "fair" and "unbiased" recorders of what occurs in our society.

I ask only that you more accurately reflect the image of our association. NEA does not now, nor has it ever, controlled American education. For you to suggest that this is the case is the ultimate insult to those individuals who are elected to our nation's local, state and national policy making bodies whose decisions actually govern what occurs in this nation's classrooms.

I also invite you to pay a little more respect to those individuals who have chosen education as their profession. Give us credit for having minds of our own. Begin to write about us as though we are human beings — individuals who live and work in your community, perhaps even neighbors. Then, perhaps, we can all work in a positive way to make our schools institutions of which we can all be proud.

JUDE MASON, President,
NEA-New Mexico,
Santa Fe.

Honest elections vital

EDITOR—You are quite correct in your views of the importance of free, honest elections (Lincoln County News, May 22/28). Ballot box fraud tears at the very fabric of our republic. In the years since WWII, liberal Democrats in and out of the media have attempted to resurrect the late Harry S. Truman as a gen-u-wine, 200% American Folk Hero. Was he? Read on.

In his incisive book, The Truman Scandals (Henry Regnery Co., Chicago, 1956), lawyer/economist Jules Abels writes: "Harry Truman owed his phenomenal rise in life to one of the most corrupt political machines in America—the Pendergast machine of Kansas City. Everything under Pendergast was for sale to the highest bidder, including the police."

Abels points out that FDR appointee Maurice Milligan, US Attorney for Western Missouri, smashed the Pendergast machine for a time when he secured numerous convictions for ballot box fraud in the 1936 elections. Pendergast himself was imprisoned for income tax evasion in 1939. Abels goes on to say: "A few weeks after Truman became President, he fired Maurice Milligan. In his place he appointed Sam Wear as US Attorney; Wear had been chairman of the Democratic State Committee of Missouri. He (Truman) pardoned fifteen of the Pendergast people who had been imprisoned for the vote frauds." (italics mine) I well recall the ugly, partisan attacks Democrats made on President Ford for pardoning President Nixon who, incidentally, hadn't been convicted of anything.

Abels continues: "On December 7, 1945, the President wrote to Jim Pendergast, Tom Pendergast's nephew who was the heir to the Pendergast machine: 'Dear Jim: I am enclosing you a check for $6 in payment of my Jackson Democratic Club dues. I hope the nuffit is still going good.'" (italics mine) Writes Abels: "On the wall of Jim Pendergast's office hung a White House portrait of Harry Truman with the autograph 'To James M. Pendergast—friend, comrade, and adviser.'"

Can't please everybody I

EDITOR—You can't please all the people all the time.

12th District Judge Richard Parson's decision to reject the petitions requesting a convening of a grand jury to investigate the McKnight slayings is probably not a popular decision.

Unless you read the entire article titled "McKnight plea turned down" which appeared in the El Paso Times on June 6, 1986, you might consider the judge's action as being arbitrary.

Judge Parson's decision, as noted in the Times article, was based on an opinion from the office of the deputy attorney general whose decision was based on lack of evidence on the part of the investigators upon which a grand jury could act. For Judge Parsons to rule otherwise would have resulted in another bureaucratic exercise in futility.

A judge's job is not always easy—his decisions are not always understood.

J. A. "AI" JUNGE,
Ruidoso.

Can't please everybody II

EDITOR—Mr. Chavez, it takes no courage to sit in the audience at any event and pass judgment on those who are participating. The fact that you write for a newspaper does not give you the right to inflict pain and grief on the people who have sweated blood and even tears to bring to you an evening of entertainment.

The Ruidoso Little Theater, under the most adverse conditions has time and time again given us all a chance to see and enjoy live entertainment. We know it is no Broadway! We know the performers are amateurs!

Mr. Chavez, these people deserve our full support and appreciation. These people volunteer their time, because they love the theater and they desire to contribute to their community.

I have noticed for years that newspaper and other media people only show up when they are paid to at a particular function. Where are these media people when it's time to volunteer to help the Special Olympics, the Ruidoso Little Theater, the chamber of commerce, or city hall?? Where are they?

It is so easy to hide behind the term "I'm a reporter so I can't participate."

No, you can sit in the audience or the side lines—you shed no blood, no tears, you just pass out judgments, with no regard to the real people who have the guts to be on the front line.

Mr. Chavez, you owe the Ruidoso Little Theater and all of the performers a true apology.

MARTIN ROSE,
Ruidoso.

(ED. NOTE—Mr. Chavez was not present at this performance as a reporter but as a critic. The duty of a critic is to assess and evaluate a performance, not to lead the boosters' section. An honest criticism should offend no one. This newspaper supports Little Theater, the arts and music, but we have the right and the duty to have our reviewers "call 'em as they see 'em." The editor should know; he grew up in Little Theater work, which makes it ironic that he is charged with being "unfeeling.")

Sheriff blasts Samuels' remarks

EDITOR—Enclosed is a copy of an article that appeared in the El Paso Times on June 2, 1986, the day before the New Mexico primary elections.

Apparently, candidate Don Samuels has chosen to engage in a personal attack on me by his statement that the sheriff's department lacks "professionalism and honesty."

I resent Mr. Samuels' allegations, and would challenge him to name the instances of dishonesty or lack of professionalism that he is referring to.

I feel that honesty, integrity and professionalism within the sheriff's department are at an all-time high and I am personally proud of my employees and their accomplishments during my administration.

Mr. Samuels has never been in the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department headquarters in Carrizozo to the best of my knowledge, yet he makes public statements ridiculing the operation of the sheriff's department.

Perhaps Mr. Samuels' lack of any experience as a police administrator is a contributing factor to his obvious ignorance of the daily operations of the sheriff's department.

Mr. Samuels obviously has a good following of the Lincoln County rumor-mongers and malcontents who for one reason or another have a grudge against the sheriff's department.

Before Mr. Samuels makes any statements about honesty, integrity, or professionalism, perhaps he should examine his own conscience.

TOM SULLIVAN,
Lincoln County Sheriff.

Cole called on that support recently when her husband had a heart attack and had to be hospitalized in Albuquerque for a week.

sodomists had in mind, withdrew their product from this parade, because they didn't want their equipment "used for the vilification or lampooning of individuals."

Additional evidence of the "non-judgmental example" of Bishop Moore's militant homosexual allies came from one of the most prominent in this category, writer Gore Vidal.

Vidal, writing in the 30th anniversary edition of the heavily subsidized new Stalinist magazine, The Nation, charges that the editor of Commentary magazine, Norman Cousins, and his wife, Midge Dexten, are loyal to Israel rather than the United States. He also charges that they are members of an "Israel Fifth Column," who should "register with the Justice Department as agents for a foreign power."

In New Hampshire, syndicated columnist Jeff Hart noted that Vidal had raised "the old accused of anti-semitism. Why? Because Vidal enjoys the 'Gay Exemption.' He can say anything he wishes, because gays are now the darlings of the liberal culture, their presumptive suffering having displaced the suffering claims of Jews (Holocaust) and Blacks (slavery.) Perhaps AIDS has given them a valuable boost up the pole of suffering prestige," and speaking of boosts, anyone living in Washington, DC can probably count on (1) their health insurance premiums skyrocketing or (2) their health insurance being cancelled.

For the D.C. City Council, whose work has given us one of the most corrupt, confused and crime-ridden municipalities in the Western Hemisphere, has just unanimously voted to prohibit life and health insurance companies from testing applicants for the AIDS virus.

AIDS has now exploded to 20,000 cases in the US. It is the leading killer of men in New York City and San Francisco. But in wonderful Washington, DC the militant sodomists are a sizeable voting bloc, so the D.C. City Council passed a moronic measure which prevents AIDS testing for five years.

This legislative action also prohibits insurance companies from issuing policies that reduce or exclude benefits for AIDS and even bars them from using age, address, occupation or sexual orientation to determine policies or rates.

the insurance companies, which tried to warn the public of this lethal folly, describe this as the most sweeping and restrictive of its kind in the country.

"There is no other jurisdiction that says you cannot test an applicant for AIDS virus," noted Russell Guculeno of the American Council of Life Insurance. But Stephen Smith of the Metropolitan Committee on AIDS issues contends: "The cost of AIDS is everybody's problem."

In other words, because a horde of junkies go on using contaminated needles and a horde of homosexuals go on bugging one another, all the taxpayers should finance this. And furthermore, all insurance policy holders should pay more because the junkies continue with junk and the buggers go on bugging.

and for the past four years she has been principal at the middle school.

"Everything in our educational system is there for the student. Our job is to teach not only the basics but also to teach the skills needed for living."

School has played a very large role in her life. It was as a student at Texas Christian University that she met her husband.

She said Ken told his roommate after meeting her, "I'm going to marry that girl," although the two had not even dated yet.

They went out several times then Texie stood him up. Again a few dates, and again Texie stood him up.

It was during their senior year at TCU that Ken wanted to know what Texie was going to do with their romance. It was also during their senior year they became engaged and married.

Texie received her bachelor's degree in education at TCU and earned her master's at New Mexico State University in Las Cruces. She was later awarded an administrative certificate from Eastern New Mexico University.

Ken also received a bachelor of science degree with his major in religion from TCU. He obtained his bachelor of divinity degree from TCU's Brite Divinity Seminary in Fort Worth.

Texie said she places a great deal of importance on her husband's ministry and tries to give him 100 percent support.

"Like many pastors he has 18-hour days. There is a lot of sacrifice, but the sacrifice has been good," she said.

How does she deal with the stress that accompanies these sacrifices? She works in her garden enjoying the flowers and being close to nature.

My Pet Slug

This morning I added to my household menagerie; a pet slug, whom I have decided, for reasons unknown, to name "Dierdre."

Adding a slug to my single parent collection of four kids, three cats, two dogs, one guinea pig and 29 guppies was a particularly difficult before-coffee decision.

My four kids I had using different kinds of contraceptives, so their participation in the clan was what I optimistically call "an act of God."

One cat, Honeypots, is a leftover from the terminal phases of my marriage. (He got the dog. He wanted it in the first place. I got the cat. I wanted it in the first place. That type of arrangement.)

The second cat, Bear, showed up one rainy day dressed as a wet starving kitten. Sigh.

Cat three, FatKat, entered seemingly-attached to the tail of Cat Two. Perhaps they met on the stray road and conversation went something like, "You're a good looking wet starving helpless kitten. I'm an ugly, funny-shaped, ex-male, ex-fighter cat. Make you a deal?"

My older dog was a birthday from a dear "dog rescuer" friend who happens, for some reason, to think I am a kindred spirit. "...Lady's been abandoned twice already for no reason..." my friend said.

I spent three years toilet training "Lady." After her came "Muzzy." Muzzy was a gift from my daughter's boyfriend to my daughter. I said, "No more pets! Absolutely!" She named it Muzzy after the little cuddly nickname I had given her as a baby, etc. etc.

The 29 guppies are actually holdovers from my marriage. My then-spouse was cleaning the fish tank in his then-office and said, "These .... fish keep multiplying. Why don't you take a few home and give them away or something?"

Oh, yes. My slug, Dierdre. Every morning I go in the kitchen for my wake-up coffee and the first thing I see is a slime trail on the adjacent family room rug.

It is actually, if you happen to like slime trails, rather pretty, all silvery gray and shiny. On the other hand, if you don't happen to like slime trails, it makes you want to throw up. Take your pick.

I cannot figure where Dierdre, whom I have yet to meet in person, comes from. I have blockaded the only nearby door. I don't think she could survive the heating vent or the fireplace. I have checked for holes in the floor. I have even casually checked for holes in the ceiling, just in case.

After a while, when you can't seem to do anything about something, and it doesn't punch you out or try anything mean or vicious, you sort of get used to it. Like, "Oh, that's Dierdre's slime trail. I've tried to toilet train it off my rug, but it takes time you know."

Many people understand. Sometimes I'm surprised how many.

Lincoln County

'Long Ago'

By Ruth Hammond

Hondo Valley School honors four employees

The Lincoln Independent, Lincoln, New Mexico, February 19, 1892. Published every Friday, Mrs. A.L. McGinnis, Editor and Publisher.

If there is anything reliable in newspaper reports, Lincoln County is likely to have at least one and perhaps three railroads within the present year. The air is so full of railroads, and rumors of railroads, that one can almost hear the shriek of the coming locomotive.

The postoffice department invites bids for carrying the mails between Lordsburg and Pyramid for two years, beginning the first of July.

CLIPPINGS

Work is progressing on three irrigation projects in San Juan county.

A PAYING INVESTMENT

The A.T.&S.F., R.R. Co., having purchased the Rock Island road, having a branch to Carthage on this side of the Rio Grande, and having another road the terminus of which is now at Panhandle City near Amarillo, it would seem that the natural move next to be made, would be to connect the two points mentioned by way of Roswell and White Oaks. Such a road would secure the White Oaks and Salado coal fields, the livestock carrying trade from the larger portion of the Pecos Valley, and the long haul of merchandise for all the country from Roswell to Fort Sumner, and from the Staked Plain to White Oaks. Many roads have been built with fewer inducements. It is becoming more and more difficult every year to drive cattle to market. In Texas, along the old trails, the land is owned and the greater part of it is fenced; in New Mexico, the water is owned, and there are now few places at which large herds can be watered; and a railroad, for the shipment of cattle, has become a necessity. In addition to the inducements heretofore mentioned, the Pecos Valley, in a very short time, will be the principal farming and fruit-growing portion of New Mexico. With the irrigation facilities already secured, and others projected, which will soon be completed, a larger area of fertile land will be cultivated in south San Miguel county, and Chaves and Eddy counties, than in any other part of the Territory. We cannot believe that railroad men will long neglect so good an opportunity to secure the carrying trade of this Valley.—Roswell Record.

Chris Sellman and E.L. Hamblin have entered into an arrangement to open up the old Sam Adams mine near Rociada.

A.J. Lawrence, the United States postoffice inspector, was at a Mexican circus in Albuquerque, and it is stated that he came all the way from Denver to see the fun.

A great deal of complaint is being made that timber is being cut off in the Hot Springs Canyon, and that at the present rate it is being done it will only be a question of a few months' time till all the large trees will be gone. Some steps to stop the loss are being taken by parties now and in addition the attention of the United States timber agent at Santa Fe has been called to the subject.—Free Press.

Tin ore has been discovered recently in Grant county, New Mexico. Tin is also found in Santa Fe county, in the Oscura Mountains, situated in Socorro county in the same territory, and was also identified in Bernalillo county some years ago by Prof. Bibkow, who was then stationed at Albuquerque.—Bullion.

THE LOCAL BUDGET

A number of the young people went out to a dance at Mr. Coe's Tuesday night.

J.B. Mathews, Geo. Dena and J.J. Dolan returned this week from a trip to Roswell.

FORT STANTON CLIPPINGS
The post has assumed a more than usual material appearance of late. Gallant Co. "E" may be seen daily executing evolutions of the new drill manual on the parade ground, while the gray horse troop is having lots of fun among the prairie dog holes on the hill side below the cemetery.

Barney Coffey and Serg'l Haney, two enthusiastic hunters, went out duck hunting last Saturday. They returned with fourteen ducks and a little glassware. It is a matter of conjecture whether their beaming countenance on their return were the result of a successful hunt, or due to the contents of the glassware.

Commissary Sergeant Semler's majestic side whiskers figured conspicuously on the Boulevard in Lincoln last Sunday afternoon.

Hondo Valley School recently honored four employees with a covered dish supper at Hondo Valley school cafeteria. Those honored were Rosemary Sisneros, Alan D. Coston, Troncito Polaco Jr. and Juan Montoya.

Rosemary Sisneros was born in Dallas, TX and received her education at Hockaday Junior College, Dallas, where she received her associate arts degree in 1942 and her ABA degree at the University of Texas in 1945. She was librarian of Mesa Middle School, Roswell, for nine years, librarian K-12 and secondary English, Hondo. The last semester she taught New Mexico, US and world history also. She has served five years as a member of the Hondo School Board, two years as president. She also served twice as president of the Hondo PTA, Rosemary and her husband George had seven children in the school. Three sons graduated from Hondo, one son graduated from NMMI, one daughter from Hockaday and two daughters from Roswell High School while she was employed by the Roswell schools. The family was active in the Hondo Fiesta with Maretha as a Hondo Fiesta Queen and two sons, Ray and Brian, as Fiesta Kings. In all, her association with the Hondo schools spanned 38 years. She was married to George S. Sisneros in 1945. George is a retired sheep rancher and the son of pioneer Lincoln County families. Rosemary says she plans to "travel as much as I can just in case it's true that retirees die soon after they quit working."

Juan Montoya was born in the Hondo Valley in 1926 and has lived his entire life there. The only experience was a three-year duty in the US Navy during WW II. He graduated from Hondo High School in 1947 and then studied radar communication at the University of Colorado at Boulder. He has ranched and farmed in the Hondo Valley since 1950. In 1966 he took over the San Patricio school bus route. He enjoyed driving the activity bus the most as he felt he got to know students and teachers better. He says he drove 300,000 accident free miles transporting students and teachers. Upon his retirement he will go back to ranching full time.

Alan D. Coston began his 14-year teaching career in Hondo under Fermin Montes in 1963. The other schools he taught in were: one year at Clovis, three years at Grants, graduated from the high school in 1963. He attended the University of New Mexico for two years and completed his BA requirements at Highlands University in Las Vegas, NM in 1960. During the time his education was interrupted when he was drafted in 1957 by the US Army and was stationed in Germany for two years. He then received his master's degree in 1969 at Western New Mexico University, Silver City. Most of Francisco's teaching experience has been in the intermediate grades, but he also taught remedial math in the 8th and 9th grades. The first year of teaching was at Mosquero, NM and the following 24 years at Hondo. Francisco and his wife Ramona of 29 years are parents of one girl and seven boys and grandparents of three girls and one boy.

Francisco Polaco Jr. is a "homegrown product" of the Hondo Valley Schools. He three years at Belen, and one year at Quemado. Plus 4 1/2 years overseas in Peru. His years in Hondo are 1963-67, 1970-71, and 1977-86. He was born in New York, NY and he and his wife are parents of five children, and have four granddaughters and four grandsons. They have lived in New Mexico for 40 years. His teaching duties included mainly science but also social science, English and math.

Capitan News

By Margaret Rench

Last week this area received an inch of slow rains and it is getting warmer at this time. It is so refreshing to enjoy the country green.

Please remember that Capitan needs entries for the July 4 Parade. Contact Aggie at the Saw Shop, 354-2711, or write to Box 441, Capitan, NM 88316. Time is getting by fast. Let's do something and make this parade a huge success with lots of community spirit and happiness.

The Capitan 4-Hers participated in the 4-H judging contest last Friday in Estancia. The horse judging team did very well.

The Corriente CowBelles sponsored a team roping last Sunday at the fairgrounds. Congratulations to the winners of the 2nd Annual Corriente CowBelles Jackpot Team Roping. Miles and Neal Dyson won the first pot and Grady Le Eldridge and Hector Gomez won the second. Grady Le also won "match roping." Lynda Dyson won the open barrel race with Tammy Higgins taking the junior barrel race.

The Cinderella Drawing for Delana Smith and Tawnya Reynolds was held June 3. Diane Riska drew the names. The tickets were on the fan donated by Reynolds Electric and the carpet cleaning donated by Lightning Joe Carpet Cleaning of Capitan. Jody Kennedy won the fan. Creadith Lonf of Ruidoso won the carpet cleaning.

Just a reminder the Capitan Chamber of Commerce is still sponsoring Bingo every Thursday night at 6 p.m. at the Fair Building. They are also sponsoring a raffle to help Boy Scouts #124 of Capitan. To be raffled is a stuffed bulldog. Tickets are $50 or three for $1. The drawing will be held June 15.

The Smokey Bear Museum had 1197 registered visitors June 2-8. A sister of Floy Skinner, whose wife was Gertrude Shippman, was there last week. The Shippmans lived in this area for 10 or 12 years. He worked at Ft. Stanton and left here in 1938. He went to California and died there in 1948. A group of 13 Widowed Persons Service from Roswell were here last Thursday and they had lunch at Lincoln and talked the bus driver into bringing them to see Smokey. They enjoyed it all here with us. June 7, 12 people from Hobbs Baptist R. A. visited here.

Capitan City Clerk

Virginia Spall attended the International Clerks Annual Conference in Boston, May 23-31.

The conference was attended by 1200 delegates from United States, Canada, South Africa, United Kingdom, New Zealand, Australia and Japan. Virginia traded pins and stickers with other states and cities, and reports that Capitan and Smokey Bear are now known the world over.

The Capitan Mart has its new refrigeration equipment. It will be installed this week.

Old Corral & Sagebrush has four new styles of "Rockies." Go in and see the new summers colors.

The Wortley Hotel in Lincoln have a new waitress, Mandy Morton. Go by and have a glass of tea or a great meal. We hear many compliments.

Rain, mixed up plane schedules and a stopped up sink couldn't spoil Memorial weekend for Dorothy Spies. Attending a wedding of her grandson, Dea Shelby, to Sandy Ward, were her children together for the first time in nine years. They were Harold Shelby and family of Capitan, Jerry Shelby from Escondido, CA, Richard Shelby of Lincoln, CA, and Ron Spies of Corona, CA, and her daughter, LaDonna Parker of Dayton, OH.

Buster and Anne Mitchell of Jal were in Capitan last weekend. They were looking for property in this area and were able to purchase a cabin in Bonita Canyon.

All of the Howard Wrights, mentioned last week, gathered here at their home for a family reunion. Kay and Terry Strickland spent all of last weekend fishing at Elephant Butte. Had a good time and caught lots of fish. Maxine and the Stricklands returned home while the others remained for several more days.

Ramona Landford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Langford of Roswell, formerly of Capitan, is getting married July 19 in Roswell.

It is good news to know that J. C. Phillips is doing fine after his surgery.

Annie Moore of North Carolina is here at this time. She wants to sell seven acres of land fenced in with good water. She will finance one-half.

Mr. and Mrs. Churchill Cooke are parents of a daughter, Barbara Jane, born 12:30 p.m. June 2.

Michael Ross, formerly of Capitan and now in Houston, TX, underwent triple bypass heart surgery last week and is reported doing great.

Lee and Guy Payne, Chris Peralta and Jack Revey are home after two weeks working on the branding crew of the Adobe Ranch, southwest of Magdalena, NM.

Arthur Johanson and James Crumpton of Waxahatchie, TX visited his aunt Jessie Fay at Ft. Stanton and then went sightseeing in the area.

Happy birthdays to Creadith Long, June 4; Virginia Martin, June 17; and April Muse, June 18.

Ross Flatley entered Ruidoso hospital last Saturday and at this time is in intensive care. His daughter Margaret and husband Ernie Sizemore are here from Parker, AZ.

Cy Salas of Lincoln entered the hospital Saturday, and also is in intensive care. I wish both of you a good recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Davis, (the former Lorene, G. E. Caywood) of El Cajon, CA spent a few days in Capitan at the Smokey Bear Motel while preparing for her home here to be rented or sold. Due to Victor's health, he is unable to live in this altitude. Therefore, their plans had to be changed. Their desires were to spend the summers here. But is impossible. Stay well and happy.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Paul spent last weekend visiting their daughter in the hospital in Artesia, NM.

The Rev. Harold Perry was chosen as divisional (superintendent) of the Four-square Churches of Southern New Mexico south of Interstate 40, also ministerial adviser of Pecos Valley Christian College in Roswell.

Mrs. Jack (Ethel) Robinson of Maples, TX died last week. If you will remember, they were former residents of Capitan. Raised their family here.

Madeline Gatson died in Alamogordo last week and was buried in Angus Cemetery, June 5, beside her husband Warren. They too were former residents of Capitan. Madeline was raised and educated here.

Mary Ann Gutierrez Allred from Lincoln, NE spent two weeks here with her parents, Bill and June Allred, and Becky Eldridge and her parents, Hopy and Civilla Gutierrez of Las Cruces.

Eva and Ray Abeyta moved to New York to do their art studies.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Brooks and son Tom visited his grandparents, Cotton and Jane Perks, over last weekend.

CowBelles promote beef as best buy

The Corriente CowBelles of Capitan are promoting "Beef For Father's Day." In order to help save money and still serve the best tasting meat with lower calories, lower cholesterol and lower fat than ever before, they have asked some of the local markets to have special sales in their meat departments. Stop by Cummins in Capitan, Bennett's Shur Save or Circle M Prime Meats in Ruidoso for special cuts. K-Bob's of Ruidoso will have a steak special on Father's Day, or try fajitas at El Paisano, hamburger pizza, barbecue beef plate and more at the Pizza Place or the beef special at the Smokey Bear Restaurant in Capitan. The Wortley Hotel in Lincoln will have a special on their roast beef dinner for Father's Day also. These restaurants and grocery stores have been very willing and helpful in promoting the beef promotion.

Be sure to listen to KREB/AM Radio June 9-15 for beef trivia questions. Crown CowBelles of Corona, Canyon CowBelles of Carrizozo, Corriente CowBelles of Capitan and Bennett's Shur Save of Ruidoso will be awarding Beef Gift Certificates for correct answers.

Capitan approves budget bond sale set for June 26

By BART McDONOUGH

Mayor Benny Coker announced June 9 at the regular meeting of the Capitan Village Council that insurance for the Smokey Bear Stampede Parade will be in the name of the village, and that the Capitan Chamber of Commerce will be coordinator for the July 4 parade.

The council learned that the 2,000 gallon tanker ordered last summer by the Capitan Volunteer Fire Department should be at their June 10 meeting. It will then be shown this weekend at the State Firemen's Convention.

A professional services agreement contract was signed with Atkins Engineering Firm of Roswell. This is in reference to the well east of Capitan. Basic services are not to exceed 7.5% of the contract. Trustee Beavers wanted a definite price for additional services, and voted no. It was explained that additional services are negotiable with the contractor or put out to bid.

The legal work continues to move forward for a $25,000 grant to the village. This will be used to set up a master plan for the Capitan Water Department.

It was decided that Water Clerk Dona Runnels will be compensated for half the time that she spends in the motor vehicle department. The village trustees approved the FY 1986-87 financial budget. This is a tight budget. It was noted that overtime will be eliminated as much as possible.

What follows is part of what the budget looks like. Listed first is the fund, the 2nd listing is the proposed revenue. Listed 3rd are proposed disbursements: general $161,222 - $197,034; revenue sharing $4,118 - $4,264; fire $40,106 - $40,106; recreation $1,050 - $1,275; water/sewer $205,700 - $198,763; solid waste $38,632 - $36,700; GO & revenue bond $25,686 - $30,591; NMAC, WSC, CDBG $618,000 - no figure given. The proposed revenue totals $1,282,412. Proposed disbursements total $693,783.

Under the general fund, highways and streets are budgeted for $52,809, public safety $60,230, financial administration $23,592 and judicial $5,300.

Sale of the general obligation bonds is scheduled for June 26 at 2 p.m. This will be done at the village hall. Trustee Beavers felt that "We should not exceed the 25.94 that we told the public." It was noted that at today's rate it will not.

The next regular meeting of the council will be July 14 at 7 p.m. Note the special session called June 26 at 2 p.m. for the sale of the general obligation bonds.

HANGING OUT

Santa Rosa Mayor Pete Campos told middle and high school students in his community that this summer will be a part of shaping their future.

Campos and a panel of public officials including the police judge and police chief addressed the students, giving them advice for the summer ahead. Campos said he thought students were very responsive and sensitive to the topics discussed, mainly peer pressure.

Santa Rosa Police Department enforces curfew and checks to make sure young people are of age to drive and that traffic laws are obeyed.

The mayor told students that he seeks the students help in making their community a better and safer place in which to live.

"It is for these reasons and others, like partying, not caring or just going with the crowd, that we are here today."

"Summer will soon be here, school will be out and each of you will be looking for something to do. Some of you will be working for your parents, others at local service stations or restaurants and stores. Still others will just be hanging out."

SETTING GOALS

Campos continued: "Regardless of what you do, this summer will be a part of shaping your future. If you haven't already started, it's time to begin setting goals for your future."

He told them to discipline themselves for a good productive summer. Instead of partying and staying out late he advised them to create habits to improve themselves.

"If you look for ways to get out of working or helping around the house, then you will probably be looking for ways to escape responsibility from now on."

FORMER RESIDENTS

Magdalene Madrid of Albuquerque sent the following news item of interest to Carrizozo residents who may remember the Madrid family, former residents:

"Annamarie Madrid, daughter of Lucio (Lou) and Corine Madrid of California, graduated from the University of California at Irvine with a B.S. degree in mechanical engineering. The graduate is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jose S. Madrid and niece of Magdalene and Alfonso Madrid."

SMALL TOWNS

You know you're in a small town when:

Third Street is on the edge of town.

You don't use your turn signal because everyone knows which direction you are going.

You speak to each dog you pass by name and he wags his tail at you.

You dial a wrong number and talk for 15 minutes anyway.

You can't walk for exercise because every car that passes offers you a ride.

You drive into the ditch five miles out of town and word gets back before you do.

You write a check on the wrong bank and it covers for you.

Pickup trucks on Main Street outnumber cars three to one.

You miss a Sunday at church and receive get-well cards.

YOUR MAMA

A preacher and a fire truck driver had a smashup. The truck driver got out and started cussing the parson.

When he finally ran out of words, the preacher replied:

"You know, my good man, that I can't use your kind of language, but this much I will say...when you get home tonight, I hope your mother runs out from the porch and bites you!"

VENGEANCE

According to Aesop's tales, a wasp settled on a snake's head and tormented it by continual stinging. The snake, crazy with pain, wanted to "get even" with its tormentor.

Not knowing what else to do, it finally put its head under the wheel of a wagon.

The snake, along with the wasp, perished, but boy did it get even!

Lincoln Town

Ramblings

By Rosalie Dunlap

Music filled the air in Old Lincoln Town over the weekend.

Friday night, Jackie "La Gringa" McCarty of Chiriquito, a singing favorite of Northern New Mexico songs, was guest singer for a benefit for the Lincoln Pageant and Festivals Inc. She was joined by several talented local people, including Ann Buffinton, guitar; David and Charlotte Lee, Agatha Long, Joe Salazar and daughter Lacine.

Sunday saw the reunion of the "Share the Suds" volunteers. To help with the celebration, two of the volunteers, Marguerite Sanders and Jodine Mulliken, of Roswell, played piano duets all afternoon, and the afternoon showers didn't dampen the fun and spirit.

Among the volunteers were Bill and Ibbey Weber, Jim and Alice Bruin, Brad and Sally Pretti, John and Martha Carnes, Don and Mickey Von-Sickle, Phil and Ruffy Helmig, Bill and Jan Murphy, Lil McNally, Gayle Stokes, Sally Toles, Sonny and Sally Stockton, Jane Ann Oldrup of Roswell, Pat Patterson and Tiffany Endors, Kansas City; Curt and Carol Graham, Casey Kearos, Ruidoso; Jimi Gadzia and Cori of Albuquerque; and Sue Graham and Tommy Hall of Roswell.

Visitors in the home of Betty Martin have been Kay Harvey of Santa Fe. Kay and Betty had gone to India together last year. Son Scott of El Paso, Blake Martin and Patrick Kennedy of Midland have been in El Paso at Scott's recording studio doing a recording, soon to be released. Betty's grandson, Jade Bivens, joined them, but this time he was not in his helicopter.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Marek, Mrs. Dick Marek and two children of Albuquerque, Theus and Trent visited with the Gerry Tullys and family. They attended some of the roping in Capitan in spite of the rain. Jane Tully is the daughter of the Richard Mareks.

There will be entertainment at the Wortley Hotel Friday night. Jackie McCarty of Albuquerque will be singing. So come and join us.

Clinic set for Lincoln County Queen contestants

A horsemanship personality clinic is scheduled for Thursday, June 19, at 8:30 p.m. at the Capitan Fairgrounds. The clinic is open to any Lincoln County girl who plans to enter the annual queen contest held during the Smokey the Bear Stampede. Contestants are not required to attend the clinic, but it should prove helpful to them. All participants are asked to bring a horse and hat.

This year's contest is patterned after the state fair queen contest and will be in two parts—personality and riding. In the personality segment, judges will question contestants about personal interest items, current events, and comical situations. The riding portion will consist of a predetermined riding pattern and three minutes of freestyle riding. Each contestant will be judged 50 percent on horsemanship and 50 percent on personality.

Riding contestants must wear blue denim pants, white shirts, boots and a hat of choice. For the personality portion, they are expected to dress nicely. The Lincoln County Fair Queen contest is open to all single girls aged 17-23 who attended a Lincoln County high school. There will be a $10 entry fee for each contestant.

Contestants must agree to appear at all performances of the Smokey the Bear Stampede, July 4, and in the parade, July 4. The queen will be crowned at the afternoon performance of the rodeo on July 4.

The queen is expected to conduct the 1987 queen clinic in June 1987 and to represent Lincoln County at the state fair in Albuquerque. She will receive a trophy belt buckle, a leather crowns, money from the Lincoln County Fair board, money from the Lincoln County Commissioners, and the contestants' entry money.

Deadline for entry is June 19. Further information and entry blanks are available from Linda Gibson, Box 509, Carrizozo, 648-2981, or Willa Stone, Box 484, Capitan, 354-2356.

LEOTA PFINGSTEN

Sorority honors Leota Pflingsten

Alpha Delta Kappa, international honorary sorority for women educators, held its state convention recently at the Holiday Inn in Albuquerque.

The term of the president was dedicated to the past state presidents who have built the foundation of the Alpha Delta Kappa in New Mexico. There are now 19 chapters in the state.

Members attending the Eta chapter were Greta Cabot, Nellie Ruth Jones, Darla Latham, Ruidoso; Charlene Cooper, Cloudercroft; Angellina Provine, Barbara Abbot, Dottie McVeigh, Betty Furth, Capitan; and Leota Pflingsten of Lincoln.

The Lincoln County chapter will have two state officers this year; Nellie Ruth Jones, president-elect, and Barbara Abbot, sergeant-at-arms.

Memorial services included Louise Coe, honorary member, and Linda Samuelson, Ruidoso.

Leota Pflingsten, state president for 1986-88, was among those honored at the convention. She has held nearly all the offices in the local chapter.

Leota was born in Alamogordo, graduated from the Tularosa High School, attended NMSU, and received her BS degree from Silver City in 1957. She also attended ENMU, UNM, and North West University, Evanston, IL, from which she received a Certificate of Merit in 1976.

Leota began her teaching career as a substitute teacher in the Hondo Schools in 1952. In 1954 she joined the Capitan school system where she taught until her retirement in 1978.

Leota was a teacher who had insight to the needs of her students. She encouraged her students to follow their natural impulses and growth through investigation and communications. Her fellow teachers loved to drop in on her classes. She used her music and artistic talents throughout the school system, from grade school plays, FHA, school banquets, and proms.

On March 3, 1979, Leota was inducted into the National Education Association-New Mexico Southwest District Hall of Fame in Alamogordo. Leota and her husband, Peg, live west of Lincoln, where she still continues her artistic pursuits of woodcarving, the Round Table and Extension Club.

Carrizozo's curfew law may yet be enforced

By P. E. CHAVEZ

Carrizozo Mayor Robert Hemphill has ordered that the town's curfew ordinance be dusted off and updated.

The current ordinance states: "It is unlawful for any person under the age of 18 years to loiter, idle, wander, stroll or play in or upon the public streets, highways, alleys, parks, playgrounds, other public places or buildings, or vacant lots between the hours of 10:30 p.m. and 4 a.m. provided, however, that section 5-1-6 shall not apply to a minor accompanied by a parent, guardian or other adult person having the care and custody of such minor or where the minor is upon an emergency errand or legitimate business directed by persons having the care or custody of him."

The present curfew hour for Carrizozo in the past has been extended for school activities and or weekends. With the lack of summer activity, Hemphill does not believe juveniles should be out later than 10 p.m.

Trustee Patsy Sanchez said that she has observed juveniles past curfew on the roof of the county courthouse. She has also found evidence that the roof of her place of business on Central has also been used a juvenile hangout.

Other business people have reported after-dark vandalism.

Scheduled events sponsored by churches, school or organizations were discussed as occasions when the curfew hour could be extended.

In order to avoid the hassels of dealing with juveniles who show up for dances at Mike Hall, owner Eddie O'Brien said he would consider restricting future dances to adults only.

Trustee O'Brien's dance hall and tavern are located outside the town limits.

Hemphill would like the curfew ordinance to have "some teeth to it" and will have town attorney James Askeff Jr. provide the proper legal phrasing.

During the town's next regular meeting, June 24, 8 p.m., there will be a hearing for citizen input for consideration on changing the curfew ordinance.

Meanwhile, local juveniles are reminded that when the firehouse siren sounds it's loud warning at 9:30 o'clock each evening they have an hour "to boogie" on home and be off the streets and out of public places.

The Friday before each Tuesday meeting, trustees get copies of the previous meeting minutes for their approval and an agenda of the upcoming meeting. At the start of each meeting trustees can make additions to the agenda on hand.

At Tuesday's meeting O'Brien, who oversees the police department in his role as police commissioner, said he would like to know the employment status of Richard Baker and requested that the business be added to the agenda.

O'Brien was informed that the matter would come up in the closed session under new business.

Following their exodus from the closed-to-the-public session, Hemphill announced that "currently we have one patrolman (Morales)" and added that Chris Gomez had been hired as temporary relief officer.

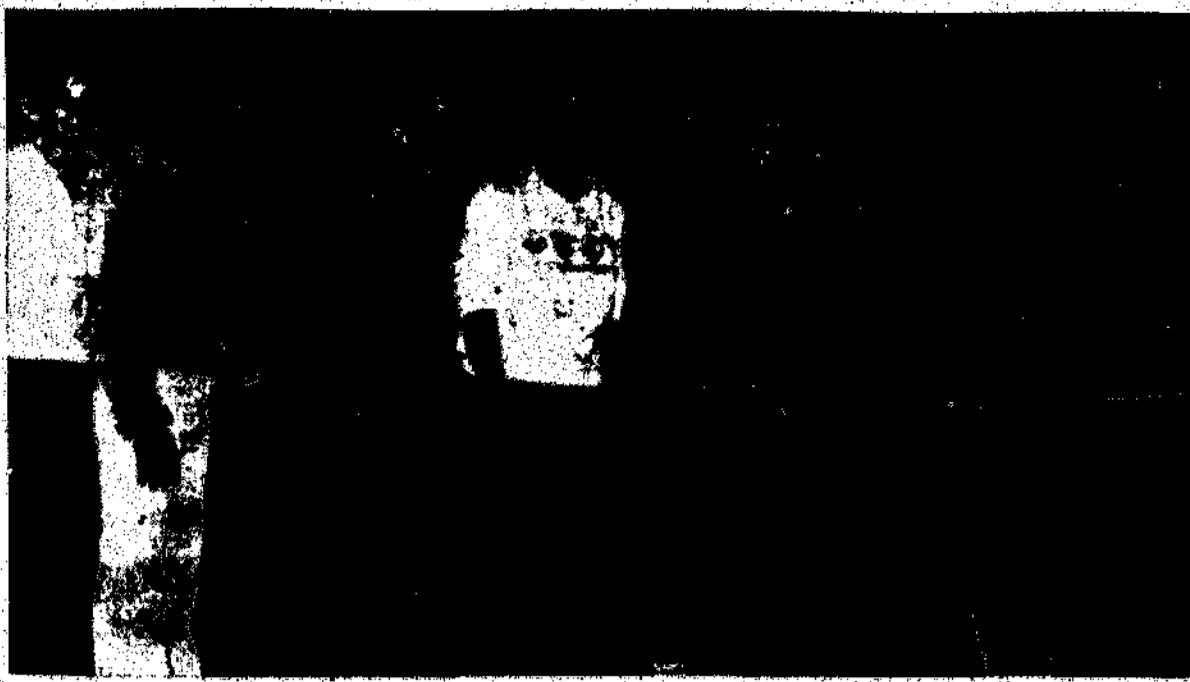

Gomez, a resident of Tularosa, is possibly in his 20s, Hemphill responded when asked the man's age. Hemphill stated that this information is not available or required in his application. Sex and nationality are other things not asked in the application. Hemphill has met Gomez, a male.

Certified? Hemphill answered: "Certifiable" and explained that it means that Gomez has all the requirements to be certified.

Where are officers Baker and Adam Montez? Baker is hospitalized and Montez is at the police academy.

Hemphill stated that the town "continues to appreciate" assistance from the sheriff's department, and he imagines the citizens are grateful, too.

Clean-Up Zozo Saturday

Police Beat

By P. E. CHAVEZ

June 3. Tuesday evening a man called the Lincoln County Sheriff Department in reference to unwelcome juveniles at his sister's residence. Chief of Police C. A. Morales was asked to help locate the man's niece, reportedly at another residence. Morales and the complainant did not locate the girl, who later turned up.

June 3. Tuesday at 5:30 p.m. a citizen reported that a juvenile was driving a truck in a reckless manner up and down C and B Avenues, down the alleys and almost hit another vehicle with other juveniles. Morales located the truck and its young male driver at his residence. The driver was contacted and warned that if the incident occurred again she would be cited for permitting an unauthorized person to drive.

June 3. Tuesday at 10:45 p.m. Morales on patrolling the town noticed three female juveniles walking down Central. Morales told the girls that he was going to take them to LCSD and contact their parents. On his way he picked two male juveniles. Parents of five youths were informed that their children had violated curfew and were asked to come for the youngsters.

June 4. Wednesday afternoon a woman complained that a man was being a nuisance, knocking at her door and calling out her name. The man was concerned because the woman was under medication and had been locked up for days. The likes being told police that she likes being alone and does not want to be disturbed.

June 5. Thursday at 10:20 a.m. a woman called LCSD and reported that a dog was being a nuisance. Morales was dispatched to the residence on D Avenue and told by the woman that a large dog was bothering her small dog. The stray dog's owner, Edward Vega Sr., was issued a written warning and ordered to tie the animal.

At 2 p.m. that same day the woman called the police again to report that the dog had returned. The owner was contacted again. At 3:20 p.m. Mrs. Vega asked Morales to pick up the dog because it did not want to be tied and could not be controlled. The dog was placed in the dog pound to await execution, June 10.

June 7. Saturday afternoon Deputy Sheriff Charles Flanagan, on duty for weekend law enforcing for the town, responded to a 3:05 p.m. disturbance report at Mean's Apartments. On his arrival a man was overheard threatening to physically abuse the woman who rents the apartment. The man directed obscenities at Flanagan.

Deputies Max Watson and Lerry Bond were called for back up. Orlando Aguilar aka "Muffler" was charged with disorderly conduct, battery and resisting arrest. Aguilar refused to cooperate with the jailer, was placed in the detox cell and later released on bond.

June 8. Sunday afternoon Watson investigated a vandalism report at the discovery of three broken windows, papers scattered on the floor and the telephone off the wall. The damages are believed to be recent and old incidents of vandalism.

June 8. Sunday evening after curfew, Flanagan observed three juvenile females on the courthouse steps. The parents were contacted.
