Paving engineer selected

Corona Mayor Ernest Luercas reported that an engineer for the street paving project was selected during the August regular meeting of the Village Council.

Brewer Associates of Farmington was awarded the contract. The project, to be paid for through Community Development Block Grant and New Mexico State Highway Department cooperative funds, is scheduled for completion next summer.

In other business, the council completed and submitted an application to Santa Fe for additional street paving funding. The council should know in September if that application has been approved.

Denies two requests, grants one

By RIGO CHAVEZ

A man who requested a building permit only to find that part of his home was on the street right-of-way, does not have to vacate the right-of-way before he adds on to his Spruce Street home.

Village attorney John Underwood said that the two matters could be handled separately.

"The new construction is on land that he owns, not on the right-of-way for (Spruce) street, so the variance for the new construction should not effect the problem with the right-of-way," Underwood said.

He added that the right-of-way encroachment would still have to be dealt with. "He's going to have to talk with village administrators and the council and work something out on the land."

On Monday, the Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission granted Wendel King a 1-foot-8-inch side lot line variance to build a deck on his mobile home.

King had been told at a P and Z meeting earlier this month that he could not build until he vacated the street right-of-way.

"Mr. King didn't build on the right-of-way without a permit," said Sandy Hall, planning officer for the village. "He thought it was his land."

Two other requests for variances of setback requirements were denied by the commission.

Hitomi Greening of 203 Heath Dr. was denied 9-foot variance for a carport he was seeking to construct on the east side of his property.

Commission member David Smith said part of the reason he opposed granting the variance was that the adjacent property owner had objected to the construction. Several of the other members asked if Greening could modify his carport by either making it smaller or moving the location so that it would fall within the setback requirements.

"I could move it around so that it would be within the 10 feet, but it would make his (the neighbor's) property look like hell," Greening said.

The commission also denied a request for a variance to build a garage by Louise B. Slentz of 105 Rainbow Dr.

"It is difficult to draw a line between this one and the one we just denied," Smith told surveyor Wyatt Sparks who was representing Slentz.

"I think the garage could be redesigned, go within the setbacks and still be used as a garage if it was only 8 feet wide," Smith added.

Slentz had requested a 5-foot-3-inch lot line variance for a 16x24-foot garage and a 7 foot variance for an existing house. The P and Z did approve the variance for the house.

The commission also approved: —a 5-foot rear lot line and

2-inch side lot line variance for Paul Crown in the Ponderosa Heights Subdivision;

—a conditional use permit for Terry Houk of Ruidoso Skateland to operate paddle boats in a pond and on part of the Rio Ruidoso behind his business subject to approval from the state Engineer's Office; —and the replat of a tract in the Palmer Gateway Subdivision for Ellen Tract. The replat divides the tract into two lots of just over half an acre.

Up With People

Here this week-end

By RUTH HAMMOND

Everyone is invited to welcome the Up With People cast when they arrive this afternoon. A parade will proceed through Carrizozo at 6:30 before cast members meet their host families.

There will be two performances by Up With People in Carrizozo, the first show will be at 7 p.m. Saturday and the next performance will be held at 7 p.m. Sunday in the old gym in the Carrizozo High School.

Interviews for prospective cast members will be held on Sunday after the show. Any junior or senior may interview now and if accepted a date can be set for their start. Persons aged 18 through 25 are eligible to join the show.

The aim of Up With People is to encourage understanding among people of all nations through an international educational program involving young men and women from many countries who travel for a year and learn from the people and places they visit while staging a musical show.

Although musical talent is needed for each cast, individual selection is based on a personal interview rather than musical talent. Personality, motivation, interest in the world around them, ability to communicate and the desire to serve others are among the attributes needed.

Up With People provides participants with a year-long learning experience that will help them better understand the world, other cultures and themselves and will encourage them to utilize what they have learned when they return home after the year is completed.

As well as performing on stage, cast members participate in all aspects of the show's production, including rehearsal, maintaining costumes and setting up and taking down of nine tons of stage, lighting and sound equipment.

They also take part in the other day-to-day operations such as the advance promotion team of Ann Hovenden and Karen Muse have been doing in Carrizozo the past three weeks. These duties include public relations, travel and transportation, business management, arranging meals, finding host families, merchandising and interviewing applicants.

While in Carrizozo, the cast will be treated to a mini ranch tour presented by the Canyon CowBelles, numerous meals, and a community pot luck dinner on Sunday at the Carrizozo Country Club. The pot luck will be held at 12:30 p.m. and everyone is invited to bring food, food and more food and join the cast in a fun time.

Mayor Bob Hemphill has proclaimed Aug. 21 through 24 as "Up With People Days" and commends Up With People for its contribution to increased goodwill and brotherhood in the community during this visit.

"Beat of the Future" is the all new show that will be performed by Up With People. With colorful costumes, songs and dances, the cast will continue its popular tradition of taking the audience on a musical tour around the world.

Advance tickets are on sale at Family Pharmacy and United New Mexico Bank in Carrizozo at $4 students and senior citizens and $6 for adults. Buying tickets in advance will eliminate the hassle at the door before the show.

Investigation continues

The Lincoln County Sheriff's Department is investigating the death of Melissa Belin, 19, of Capitan. Officers responded to a call to the home on Aug. 15.

Death was caused by an apparent self-inflicted gunshot wound and a note was found. An autopsy was planned, sheriff's deputies said.

Additional funds for sports complex obtained

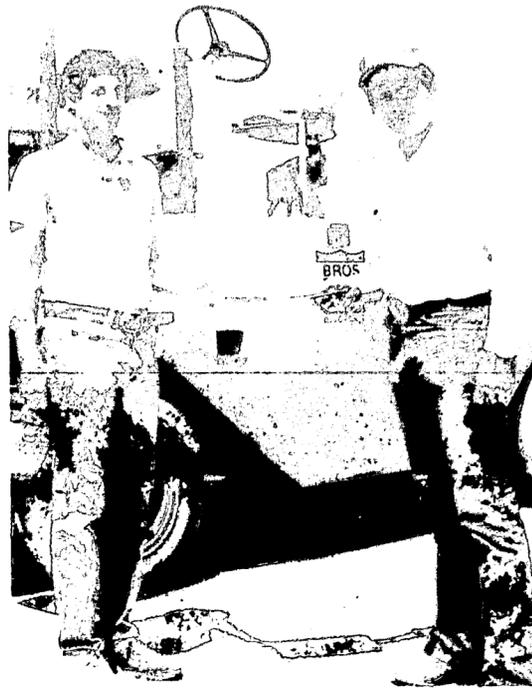

At the Aug. 14 meeting of the Capitan Board of Education those present learned that architect Jim French had obtained $154,000 in joint funding for the new sports complex. Sixty percent will be paid by the state and 40 percent will come from local sources. It appears that the land swap with the US Forestry Service will not come before December at the earliest.

Charlie Reich appeared before the board to make an official request to have a flashing amber light installed on Hwy. 380 to slow down traffic during school hours. Supt. Leonard Hays will make another request through Division 2 of the state highway department.

A bus contract was extended to Frankie Silva in the amount of $185,779.14. The contract to Nora Silva was for $13,794.16. The activity contract to Frankie Silva will be $1.20 per mile. This is to be adjustable in relationship to gasoline prices. The activity bus ran something like 38,000 miles last year.

The following were accepted as bus drivers: John Foglesong, Kathy Chapman, Junior Dean, Janet Tate, Frankie Silva, G. McDaniel,

CONSTRUCTION WAS COMPLETED at the Carrizozo Municipal Airport earlier this week just in time for the new tie down area to be used for the 3rd annual Fly-In on Saturday. Fly-In to dedicate airport improvement

By RUTH HAMMOND

Final preparations are being made for the 3rd annual Fly-In that will be held at the Carrizozo Municipal Airport on Saturday.

The Fly-In had originally been scheduled for June but was postponed until after the latest improvement project was completed this week.

The Fly-In will be the official dedication of the $104,000 project to enlarge the fueling apron and provide tie down spaces for 17 additional planes. Construction included a taxiway to connect the two aprons.

Fly-In activities will begin when the first plane arrives Saturday morning. Dr. Dale Goddard will be cooking his donuts and each arrival will be treated to the donuts and fresh coffee.

A briefing for pilots will be held at 9 a.m. and flying contests will begin after the briefing. Planned contests are spot landing and flour bombing. Trophies will be awarded to winners.

Games for the youngsters with prizes and certificates are also planned. Door prizes and awards will be presented to visiting pilots and their friends and families.

Donations for the prizes and awards are being accepted by Scott Shafer at the United New Mexico Bank.

The Carrizozo Fly-In has been designated as an official fly-in by the New Mexico Pilot's Association. The NMPA will conduct a board of director's meeting and a general membership meeting during the Fly-In in Carrizozo.

The Fly-In has also been featured in the August issue of Flying Review, which is published monthly in Albuquerque for pilots in several states.

Booster Club kicks off

The Carrizozo Grizzly Booster Club will begin their fall membership drive with a meeting at 7 p.m. on Aug. 28 at the Four Winds Restaurant in Carrizozo.

The Booster Club was formed last year and received support from businesses and members. Money collected for dues and through various fund raising projects was used for Grizzly athletes.

The Booster Club used part of the money to buy meals for the Grizzlies at out-of-town football, basketball and track events. The club also paid the entire fee of $690 for the girls volleyball team to attend camp in Albuquerque in July.

Dues are $15 for family or individual memberships and $25 for business memberships. Dues can be paid to Lucy Rickman at United New Mexico Bank.

In addition to the kick-off for the membership drive, the first meeting on Aug. 28 will be held for members to decide on the first fund raiser of the year. Everyone is invited to attend.

Charges filed in child cases

Two Lincoln County men have been arrested in connection with two separate child molestation incidents.

Robert A. Wetzel, 22, of Carrizozo is charged with one count of rape and one count of criminal sexual contact with a minor. He was set to be arraigned on the charges in Magistrate Court in Carrizozo on Aug. 21 at 1:30 p.m.

The parents of a 9-year-old girl told sheriff's deputies that a man had touched the girl's breasts on July 4 and that he had previously forced her to perform intercourse and oral sex with him.

According to court documents, Wetzel was the girl's babysitter from the fall of 1982 until March 8, 1985.

Wetzel is being held in the Lincoln County jail on $100,000 bond. He was arrested in Torrance County on Aug. 13, by Torrance County Sheriff's deputies.

Joe Medina, 30, of Ruidoso Downs was arrested Aug. 15 on charges of enticement of a child.

Medina was arraigned on the charge, a misdemeanor, on Monday and was released to the custody of his mother.

Medina was arrested in connection with an incident reported to Ruidoso News Police by the mother of a 3-year-old girl.

The girl's mother told police that a man had on Aug. 8 and in the previous three weeks, kissed, licked and touched the girl.

A date for a preliminary hearing has not been set for Medina.

4-H YOUNGSTERS from all over Lincoln County were in Capitan last week showing their animals and other exhibits. Shown here are Stacy Erwin and Danielle DeBerge. More pictures and fair results will be published in the Lincoln County News in the following weeks.

The Night Watchman

A large Monday night crowd took the staff of La Lorraine by surprise, but the flock of hungry diners did not break the stride of Richard Girot, who acts as maitre d' and is the restaurant's co-owner, along with his wife Pascale.

Cordial and efficient, Richard calmly sat his guests with no nervous running around. One of the other patrons told us that a waitress and a busboy had come to dine that night with the busboy's mother and had ended up serving tables.

We too were surprised by the weeknight popularity of the restaurant and had not made reservations. Our half-hour wait seemed shorter as we sipped a glass of wine while we watched for a table in the small but elegant restaurant.

A mirrored wall helps give the dining room a more spacious feeling. A fireplace and wood-paneling add intimacy.

Specializing in French cuisine, Pascale Girot, the chef, features a large variety of meats, poultry, fresh water fish and seafood.

On the list of appetizers were a seafood mousse with basil sauce for $6.95 and a pate with green peppercorn at $5.95.

We began our meal with a spinach salad made for two and served with a bacon dressing that was prepared tableside. A crispy crusted warm French bread served as the perfect escort for the fresh spinach leaves and large mushroom slices of the salad.

One of my guests sampled the pork chops—three pieces of meat a half-inch thick cooked in a galicy herbed sauce, they were a far cry from the regular breaded chops served elsewhere. It was accompanied by a spicy Dijon mustard sauce.

My other companion was treated to a veal and seafood dish, the night's special. Sauteed in a butter and wine, the veal was topped with shrimp and crab.

My leg of lamb was a little tough, but this was negated by the thin slices. A broiled tomato and beans made a colorful and flavorful accompaniment.

A heavenly frozen soufflé was our dessert selection. Whipped to a creamily lightness, the egg-rich soufflé had a dark chocolate topping and was served with a raspberry sauce.

Despite the unexpected crowd, our waitress was courteous and mindful of our needs. Even the over-worked Richard stopped by to make sure things were going well.

The leisure meal, not to be confused with a cheap imitation of fine food, came to $83.22 including the wine and a tip.—Rigo Chavez.

La Lorraine at 2523 Suddeth Drive in downtown Ruidoso is open for lunch from 11:30 a.m. until 2 p.m. and for dinner from 6 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. daily except Tuesday. Reservations are strongly recommended and most major credit cards are accepted.

All restaurants are reviewed anonymously with one or more guests to provide a broader sampling. All meals are paid for and restaurants receiving unfavorable reviews have been visited more than once.

UP WITH PEOPLE will perform "Beat of the Future" in Carrizozo on Aug. 23 and 24. Advance tickets are on sale now at United New Mexico Bank and Family Pharmacy.

CowBelles fete cast

The Canyon CowBelles will host a barbecue supper on Aug. 23 for the cast of "Up With People" at the home of Jan Barham.

Barham, CowBelles' president, will treat the Up With People singers to a tour of the ranch followed by the meal.

Also at the CowBelles meeting on Aug. 6 at the home of Genevieve Duncan, Ann Hovendon of Ireland and Karen Muse of Indiana, both representatives of Up With People, were introduced. Up With People will present concerts in Carrizozo Aug. 24 and 25.

The CowBelles also made plans to serve chili pie at the Lincoln County Fair Aug. 21-23.

The next meeting of the group will be Sept. 3. Rosemary Shafer and Ella Sidwell will serve as hostesses at the Shafer home.

Ruidoso Little Theatre presents

"Barefoot"/"Lovers"

Two new productions by the Ruidoso Little Theatre opened this week at the Carrizo Lodge Gallery in Ruidoso.

The two Neil Simon plays are what the Little Theatre is calling its "Festival of Lovers." The two productions are "Barefoot in the Park" directed by Eric Berg and "Last of the Red Hot Lovers" directed by Carl Mori.

"Barefoot in the Park," starring Jett Crouse and McKenzie Green, opened Wednesday night and "Red Hot Lovers" will open Aug. 21. The two plays will continue with "Barefoot" Aug. 22, 28 and 30 and Sept. 3 and 5, and "Red Hot Lovers" Aug. 23, 37 and 29 and Sept. 4 and 6.

"Barefoot" is a comedy about two newlyweds, Paul and Cory Bratter, who move into a New York apartment. It's a New York walk-up and up and up, and is surrounded by a host of strange neighbors.

These neighbors include Victor Velasco, played by Bill Don Knox. Velasco is a middle-aged mountain climber whose neighborhood nickname is Bluebeard.

Paul Bratter (Jett Crouse) is a young lawyer on the rise, so to speak. He wins his first case and is awarded 6 cents by the jury.

Mrs. Bratter (McKenzie Green) is a bored housewife looking for something new and adventurous so she sets up her mother with the infamous Velasco.

Ethel Banks, the mother, played by Sandra Weber is the typical upper-middle class widow. She pops little pink pills like candy to help calm her stomach and a number of other ailments.

When the whole crew goes out for an exotic dinner arranged by Velasco and Mrs. Bratter, Banks can't eat enough little pills, Velasco and Mrs. Bratter have too much to drink and Paul doesn't have enough as the evening degenerates into laughter for the audience.

Dan Barrow plays a 47-year-old restaurant owner looking for love in "Red Hot Lovers."

Barrow's character Barney Cashman has been a faithful husband for 23 years when he decides to have an affair with a woman, Elaine, who he picks up at his fish restaurant, Queen of the Sea.

Inexperienced at extramarital affairs, the nervous Cashman has Elaine meet him at his mother's apartment.

He is so afraid they will be caught that he constantly fluffs the pillows on his mother's couch and cleans the water stains left by the glasses he brought.

Elaine, obviously more experienced, finds Cashman cute at first, but cannot handle his guilt and finally leaves.

Although Cashman vows to never try an affair again, we find him at his mother's apartment several months later with another woman. This one, a paranoid named Bobbi, he picked up in the park.

Bobbi (Patti Lynch) has more skeletons in her closet than an anatomy professor. She thinks someone is trying to kill her, that her roommate is a lesbian and once had a 15-minute obscene phone call.

Cashman finally cashes in Bobbi and tries to make it with his wife's friend, Jeanette. Jeanette played by Sandy Knox is at least as glib as Cashman was on his first try and besides that she does not find Cashman physically attractive, a fact she continually reminds him of.

All three of Cashman's trysts, while they don't make for red hot love, do make for comedic entertainment.

Tickets for the shows are available at Don's Pharmacy in Ruidoso and at the door. Cost is $5 for adults and $2.50 for students and senior citizens. A special price of $4.50 for adults and $2.25 for students is available if tickets are purchased for both shows. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

Martinez in bronze

Understanding and compassion are very important in the practice of medicine.

The fact that sculptor Enrique Martinez, whose work is on display this weekend at the Artisan's Shop and Gallery in Ruidoso, is also a doctor probably accounts for the sympathy with which he molds his bronzes.

His horses are not only detailed in their anatomy, but they also show a passion and a range of emotion not often found in sculpture.

He will be honored at a reception on Aug. 22 at 7 p.m. at the Artisan's Gallery, 2342 Suddeth in Ruidoso.

TOO TIRED TO... McKenzie Green (standing) tries to calm the situation as "Barefoot in the Park" cast members try to recover from an exotic dinner. Also standing is Bill Don Knox, while Jett Crouse lands on the floor and Sandra Weber takes over the sofa. The play opened Wednesday and continues next weekend.

LYNETTE MCKIBBEN, WALTER GARFIELD

Lynette McKibben to wed

Mr. and Mrs. John McKibben have announced the approaching marriage of their daughter, Lynette, to Walter Garfield, son of Rick and Sue Garfield.

Vows will be exchanged 1 p.m. Sept. 20 at Corona Baptist Church with Rev. David Brunson officiating. Becky Washburn will be maid of honor with Jack Allen Davidson serving as best man. Other attendants will be Melvin and Debbie Yancey.

The two are Corona High School graduates and will make their home in Corona where the prospective groom is employed by New Mexico State Highway Department.

CORONA STUDENT AN ENMU GRADUATE
ROSWELL — Robert Stewart of Corona was among 29 students who graduated recently from Eastern New Mexico University-Roswell at the end of the 1986 summer session.

Stewart was awarded a trade-technical certificate in auto body and paint with honors.

SOLEMN PROMISE

Carrizozo students, kindergarten through 12th grade, will recite the pledge of allegiance at the start of each school day, said Superintendent Dennis Sidebottom at Monday's staff breakfast.

The 1986-87 school year began with the breakfast after which new staff members were introduced. Sidebottom told of the changes in the general school program to comply with SB 106, among them, the pledge to the flag.

Elementary grades in Carrizozo are accustomed to saying the pledge but starting Aug. 20 all students will be required to do so.

According to World Book, it was Francis Bellamy (1855-1931) of Boston, an associate editor of "The Youth's Companion," who wrote the original pledge to the flag.

The pledge to the flag is a short, solemn promise of allegiance to the United States: "I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

PATRIOTIC EXERCISE

A survey of three students in this household revealed that the definition of the word "indivisible" is unknown.

Public school children first recited the pledge as they saluted the flag during the National School Celebration held in 1892. President Benjamin Harrison had called for patriotic exercises in schools to mark the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America.

In 1923 and 1924 the National Flag Conferences of the American Legion expanded Bellamy's original wording.

In 1942, Congress made the pledge part of its code for the use of the flag.

In 1954, it added the words "under God."

FAIR PARTICIPANTS

This year Ruth Hammond and I were among the Carrizozo residents who entered items in the Lincoln County Fair. Ruth is a liquid embroidery enthusiast. Among my entries was a teddy bear which I created out of used Levi jeans. (With four sons I have plenty of worn out jeans.)

My neighbor, Nancy Bowen (Methodist minister) entered a heart applique quilt, which received top awards, as did the woodcraft of John Paul Ventura.

Walter Hudson received many first, second and third place ribbons on his leather crafts.

Bart McDonough, NEWS staffer, donated the award for the winner of the champion rooster. The NEWS will have a list of the Lincoln County winners, Four-H and open class.

TEENAGE GUNFIGHTER

Visitors to the Historical Center during this month's "Old Lincoln Days" viewed a 10-minute slide show on the Lincoln County War and the part Billy the Kid played in real life.

Was he an adolescent gone wild? Who were the villains? Who were the heroes?

It was late 1870 when William Bonney, New Mexico's notorious Billy the Kid, rode into history as a vigilante regulator in the Lincoln County War.

Still in his teens, sharp-shooting Billy sided with the Englishman, John Tunstall, and his partner, Alexander McSween, in the war that was fought in and around Lincoln for nearly a year.

After his escape from the burning McSween house, Billy became a fugitive in Lincoln County. Sheriff Pat Garrett located Billy and forced his surrender, bringing him back to Lincoln manacled and under sentence of hanging.

A daring escape it was as Billy killed both his guards and slipped away from the second story of the Lincoln Courthouse. Garrett pursued Billy, and shot him in Fort Sumner, NM in July 1881.

Chuck Mittlestadt (The Left Hand Side of the News, Hobbs Flare) had this to say: "A couple of psychics are going to Old Lincoln to check up on Billy the Kid. We doubt if their research will change anything. Most folks still consider him a punk and a juvenile delinquent."

Alvie McKibben shows grand champion steer

By LINDA CALDWELL

Alvie McKibben, a Corona High School Vocational Agriculture student, took top honors at the Lincoln County Fair last weekend with his Maine Anjou - Chianina calf. The 1260 pound, 16-month-old animal was judged Grand Champion Steer and brought $1,500/lb at the 1986 Junior Livestock Sale last Saturday afternoon.

McKibben has been showing steers for the past five years, but this is the first time his entry has been in the sale. "One year an animal in the sale dropped out, and I drew in the sale to take his place; but this is the first time my animal really made the sale," he said.

Keeping in mind the steer that won in last year's Lincoln County Fair, McKibben chose to buy a big calf that he thought could develop into a similar animal with the characteristics judges would look for. With years of ranch life experience behind him, McKibben knew the basics of grooming and feeding; but he attributed his success this year to the encouragement and special help his vocational agriculture teacher, Jamie Widner, gave him. "He taught us how and when to feed more - or less, and when to walk them so they'd work off any excess fat." When school was out, McKibben continued to get up early every morning to walk his animal and get him ready for the fair.

Even though his grand champion is already history, the Corona High School junior continues to stay busy making final preparations to show two other steers at the upcoming State Fair next month. He has hopes that, just maybe, he'll have another champ.

Corona shines at county fair

By LINDA CALDWELL

Corona 4-H, FFA, and Vocational Agriculture participants won numerous awards at last week's Lincoln County Fair including Grand Champion Market Steer, Reserve Grand Champion Market Steer, Champion Beef Female, Champion Western White Face Market Lamb, and Champion Fine Wool Lamb.

Alvie McKibben won the Beef Showmanship Award as his animal took Grand Champion Market Steer. Sandra Copeland raised the Reserve Grand Champion Market Steer and won the Champion Beef Female with her entry.

Traci Kelley's Champion Western White Face Market Lamb brought a very respectable $6/lb. to take top dollar honors at the Lincoln County Fair Junior Livestock Sale.

The Champion Fine Wool Market Lamb raised by Beverly Bell went to Corona FFA Booster Club for $4.75/lb. Beverly also raised the Reserve Champion Western White Face Market Lamb which was purchased by State Rep. Maurice Hobson for $5.50/lb.

Lamb honors stayed in the family as Beverly's brother, Dan, received $5.50/lb. from United New Mexico Bank for his Reserve Champion Fine Wool Lamb and also took second place in the Lightweight Western White Face competition.

Other Corona competitors who earned a spot in the sale were Emmett Sulfemeier who got $5.50/lb. for his first place lightweight mutton and won second in medium weight pig; Denise Lightfoot, first place lightweight pig; Jeremy Knight, first place lightweight mutton and medium mutton lamb; Candice Byrd, second place lightweight fine wool; Tina Aaron, second place Heavy Western White Face Lamb; and Tye Lightfoot, second lightweight medium pig. Of 39 animals in the sale, 17 were raised by Corona entrants.

Alethea Knight had the Champion Mutton Cross Market Lamb but chose not to sell it. She did get $140 for her grand champion cake.

Other honors won by Corona students included Hereford Queen, Sandra Copeland; and Outstanding Clothing Exhibit and Special Effort in 4-H Home Economics, Candice Byrd.

FRWLC to meet at Bullring

The Federated Republican Women of Lincoln County will meet on Tuesday, Aug. 26 in Ruidoso at The Bullring on Highway 37.

The meeting will begin at 11 a.m. with an address by US Representative Joe Skeen. A luncheon and business meeting will follow the program. Republican candidates and guests are invited to attend. Members of the executive committee will meet at 10 a.m.

THIS CHAMPION Western White Face brought top dollar at the 1986 Junior Livestock Sale last weekend during the Lincoln County Fair. The lamb was raised by Corona Vocational Agriculture student Traci Kelley and purchased for $6/lb. by United New Mexico Bank. Accepting the lamb is Scott Shafer, Carrizozo United New Mexico Bank president.

OPINION

● ONE year ago this month the media climaxed 40 years of hype that drenched this nation in guilt over the A-bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki. The media's culmination of all these years of effort to saddle Americans with guilt for having suddenly ended a terrible war, has backfired. This year, most of the 1985 lies and distortions circulated in the media are toned down. Still, the guilt beat continues as TV networks try to revive the horror and pin responsibility for bombing casualties on a callous President Harry Truman and US military establishment. This year it didn't fly, mostly because Americans have refused to bear the burden of guilt in crushing a cruel and inhuman Japanese Imperial Army. We just don't buy it any more. But for these 41 years, the liberals, media, appeasers, and America-Last nithings have labored to make us all guilty enough to reject military preparedness and, most of all, persuade us to outlaw nuclear weapons so that we would be left to the mercies of our enemies, among them the Soviet Union.

● THE "incident" at Nagasaki was terrible enough, but not as terrible as we have been led to believe. I have before me a reproduction of the front page of the Nagasaki Shimbun, a newspaper, dated Aug. 10, the day after the bombing. Buried in the middle of page one was a 10-line story with the headline, "New Type Bomb on Nagasaki, Very Slight Damage Seen." Would there have been a newspaper published if the destruction had been as great as we have been led to believe? And would the street cars in that city be running on Aug. 10, as they surely were?

● ACTUALLY, 23,753 people were killed and 43,020 injured by the bomb, Nagasaki had a population of 270,000 at the time. That means 203,227 inhabitants were neither killed nor injured by the blast. In other words, less than 25 percent of the population of Nagasaki were killed or injured. It was the same story at Hiroshima, population 343,000, where more than 200,000 of the inhabitants were neither killed nor injured. Not nearly so horrible as we have been taught, is it? Compare both Nagasaki and Hiroshima with Dresden, Germany, in World War II where Allied firebombs destroyed the city completely with twice the loss of life mourned at Nagasaki and Hiroshima. The Germans are not cry-babies.

● SOMEHOW we just don't remember that we did not start the war with Japan. The Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor, not us. What you ask for in this life you usually get, and justly so. At the time the bomb hit Hiroshima, the Japanese were hard at work completing their own atomic bomb, which they planned to use against us. Who else? Yet the whining Japanese continue to blame us for barbaric conduct in ushering in the Atomic Age. Hitler, too, was about ready to use atomic weaponry. Yet only the Japanese claim to be a victim nation, while the Germans never saw us in that light.

● IT is infuriating to see pictures dredged up by the media which show weeping Japanese at the annual propaganda festival that marks the anniversary of Hiroshima and Nagasaki bombings. It makes us forget Pearl Harbor. It makes us forget that even before Pearl Harbor, Japan massacred more than 200,000 Chinese civilians in Nanking. In Manila they doused hospital patients with gasoline and set them afire. They used live prisoners of war for bayonet practice. This is no place to recall Japanese atrocities against US soldiers who were rooting the Japanese out of the Pacific Islands.

● HOW have we rewarded this savage enemy? We imposed upon them the most benign occupation in the history of the world under Gen. Douglas MacArthur. We brought down the Emperor and turned Japan into a democratic nation. We sent them machinery, factories, technicians, hospitals, schools and a model government. Then we bought everything they manufacture—and still do. We have turned Japan into a financial giant and the chief trade rival of the United States. We have cuddled and coddled them to the point where today we are planning to give Japanese-Americans, removed from the West Coast during the war, the sum of $8 billion of US taxpayers' money to adjust their hurt feelings. Still, that isn't enough. They want a written apology! They want their descendants given free educations! They want us out of our own country!

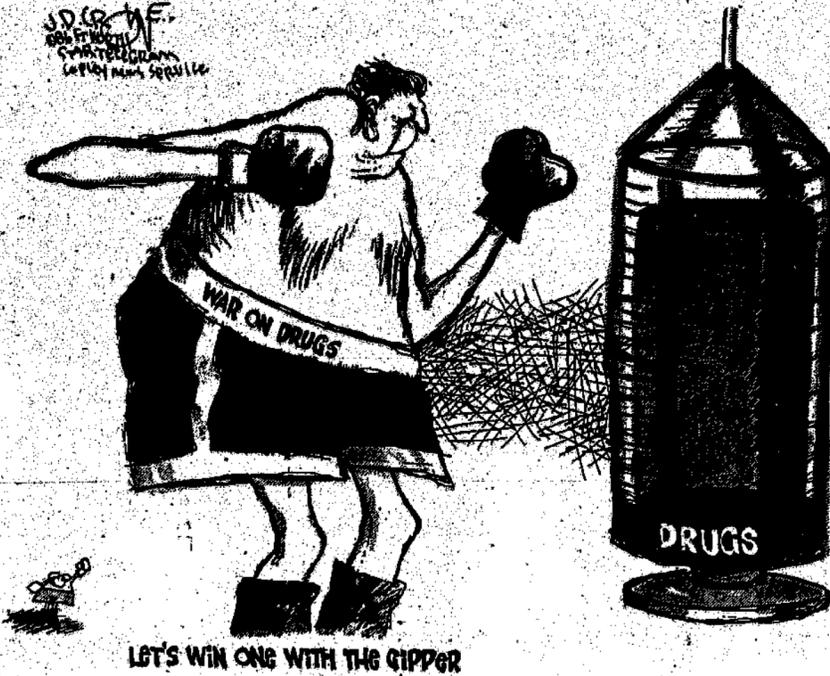

● LAST year, which marked the 40th anniversary of the bombing of Hiroshima, reporters were sent to Ohio to interview Paul W. Tibbets, the man who actually dropped the bomb on Hiroshima. The media has pictured Tibbets as either languishing in a psychiatric ward or gripped with an alcoholic remorse for his deed. In fact, Tibbets runs a successful air transport company. He was asked by reporter Pierre Laforet if he were sorry for what he did. Harken to his reply:

● "SORRY? Not a bit. I was happy, very happy. When you are at war and possess a weapon, you use it. To win a war, everything must be used to end it and bring victory. What I did saved many, many lives. Thousands of calculations and amassed statistics prove that at least a million people would have died had the war continued. The beaches of Japan were not like Normandy. To try to make a landing there would have been a massacre.

● "I had entered the military four years before with an open mind and today I am proud. I grew up with respect for my country, my flag and the heritage of my ancestors, and before I was thirty, I was in a position where I could defend the liberties acquired by my nation. I felt myself totally committed to that cause and my opinion is still the same today." The Japanese, allied to a liberal media, want us to feel guilty? Stick it.

● IF you caught this last week, you probably choked. In our coverage of the Sierra Blanca Airport Commission meeting we discovered that the commission rejected (praise the Lord!) a request by airport ad-

Watch Over

WASHINGTON

Les Kinsolving

WASHINGTON—If you, too, have been inclined to doubt the accuracy of much that has been reported about Central America by left-wing congressmen, church leaders and most of Big Media, the case of the Congressman versus The Columnist is a striking example.

And since Congressman Peter Kostmayer of Pennsylvania has proven repeatedly afraid to face his critic, syndicated columnist John Lofton of The Washington Times, this too is illustrative of what has been a major disinformation campaign by the Marxist government of Nicaragua.

On June 26, on the CBS program "Nightwatch," Congressman Kostmayer declared that 42 percent of the people killed by the "Contras" are children.

One of the viewers that night was Lofton, who noted that Congressman Kostmayer cited no source for this 42 percent claim.

So Lofton called his Congressional office and asked Kostmayer aide Jack Heck where the Congressman got this 42 percent figure.

Heck replied that Kostmayer got it from Congressman Jim Bates of California. And Heck promised he would find out from Bates where he got this 42 percent figure, and get back to Lofton.

Heck did not keep his word. And he ignored Lofton's repeated phone calls. Finally, after Lofton was told that Heck had gone home, Lofton called again and said that he's an aide to Senator Kennedy.

"At this point," wrote Lofton, "I am told that Mr. Heck—who supposedly went home—is on the other line. A nice young lady asks if Mr. Heck can call me back. I say no, that she's told me all I need to know.

"About 10:30 that night, I call Mr. Heck at his home. When I start to explain why I have called him, he hangs up the phone. I call him back. Heck says: 'Don't you ever call me at my house. You are not only a fascist pig . . . but a lazy journalist.'"

After all of this went into print, Congressman Kostmayer wrote a letter to The Washington Times with Congressman Bates, saying that they got the 42 percent figure from the Institute of Social Security and Social Welfare—in Nicaragua. They added that it had been "confirmed" by the Greater Washington Social Action Council—which turns out to be a volunteer group, run by 13 (ultra-leftwing) Unitarian-Universalist Churches.

Kostmayer and Bates added: "We have not heard from any organization, including The Washington Times, that can disprove the figure or provide us with any figure it finds more reliable."

In response to this, columnist Lofton noted that this is like saying: "There must be ghosts, because nobody ever proved they don't exist."

The maddeningly persistent Lofton checked with Pat Tatum of the Greater Washington Social Action Council, who, the Congressman wrote, had "confirmed that 42 percent of the people killed by the Contras were children."

Mr. Tatum told Lofton that his understanding is that this 42 percent figure includes children who died of measles (!) because Contra activity prevented health workers from giving these children shots. He agreed with Lofton that being a Contra victim is not the same thing as being killed by the Contras.

Inside the Capitol

By Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—What they ought to be telling us is what's in it for us. Instead, they tell us what's in it for them.

New Mexico already has a governor whose main driving force is quite clearly his personal ambition. It would be hard to find a single voter who wants another four years of what that has led our state to.

For that reason, we ought to be a whole lot tougher in our demands on the two men who are running for governor this year. We will want them to provide us with some specific reasons to vote for them, not just glowing descriptions of how personally fulfilled they will be if only we let them cap their careers by becoming our chief executive.

SALESMANSHIP: Political campaign time is supposed to be more than just a period of boasting about how "I can do it all better than the other guy can." It was designed to be an interlude in which candidates can practice their sales ability, in an effort to convince us to prefer their cause.

But successful salesmen, as any one of those can tell you, don't get into that category by thinking exclusively of how happy they will be when they have made this individual sale. What makes them successful is their ability to put themselves in the shoes of those they are selling. It's the benefits to the buyer, not the benefits to the salesman, that make the sale.

So let's hear from those guys who want to be governor how we will concretely benefit if they win the prize.

One way they might accomplish that is to answer this question: Exactly how do you plan to improve the operations of state government as presently constituted, starting with the day you take the oath of office?

DEMONSTRATION:

LETTERS

We welcome letters to the editor. Here are suggestions to expedite their publication. Letters should be brief as possible, and cover one topic or point of view only. If possible, limit them to 300 words. They are subject to editing for grammar, punctuation, brevity, and good taste. We do not publish third-party letters. All letters must be signed, and an address or telephone number included. Names of letter writers will be withheld only upon request.

There's an old principle practiced by writers that might be helpful to those who are presently seeking our votes. It says, "Don't tell 'em; show 'em."

What that means is that it is not very effective just to say, for instance, that the major character about whom you are writing is innovative and imaginative. Instead, you should picture the character in a situation that demonstrates the presence in him or her of those characteristics.

In much the same way, we'd like to see those two aspirants for the state's highest jobs refrain from retailing for us their glorious accomplishments as managers in situations that are not at all parallel to what they will find if they make it to the governor's suite. We'd like to hear them tell us concretely how they will function if we choose them to manage our state.

In other words, we're looking for some specifics, instead of the usual boasting that we have mistakenly accepted in ministrator Fred Heckman to have 1,000 letterheads and envelopes printed at a cost of $1,500. Unless this stationery is printed in nine colors using 18-karat gold ink, Mr. Heckman should have his credentials reviewed. The going price for a one-color job for 1,000 letterheads and matching envelopes is about $150, top price. If Mr. Heckman ever gets out of a job, he sounds like a natural for the Pentagon.

● YOU'VE noticed, of course, that we no longer carry Carrizozo police reports. We refuse to publish false, doctored and incomplete information that appears on the so-called "public records" at city hall. Frankly, that appears to be the way local readers prefer that crime news be handled. Recently, we asked interested citizens to drop by the NEWS office and view for themselves how false reports are submitted to this newspaper to mislead the public. Not a single person accepted the offer. During our campaign to get police information released, not a single citizen has voiced support for the newspaper in getting this news published. On the contrary, we have been accused of "giving the town a bad image" by publishing the truth about local crimes. If there had been interest in what's happening among local thugs, you would have had the details of how a Carrizozo youth nearly died last week from an overdose of alcohol. You might even have learned the name of the felon who supplied the booze that nearly killed him. Meanwhile, we shall continue to publish police news of Ruidoso, where the police department keeps good records and makes them available to reporters.

McKnight murder hearings

Qualifying for jury

By RUTH HAMMOND

Monday, Aug. 25 is the date set for the qualifying of the special grand jury that will examine the evidence in the McKnight murder cases.

Summons have been sent to 150 persons. The first 75 are to appear on the Monday and the second 75 are to appear Aug. 27.

Qualifying for the grand jury will be conducted by District Judge Richard Parson. All qualifying of the grand jury will be in closed session according to law.

Once the grand jury is in session, it has the right to do its own investigating. The grand jury may call on the court for additional lawyers and people to assist them in their investigation.

A grand jury is a fact finding jury and does not determine innocence or guilt. It merely determines whether there is probable cause to believe that someone may have committed a crime.

Thomas P. "Cotton" McKnight and his wife Judy McKnight were found murdered in their home in a remote area near Picacho in November, 1984.

The murders have been the subject of an intensive investigation by the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department, the district attorney's office, the attorney general's office and the state police.

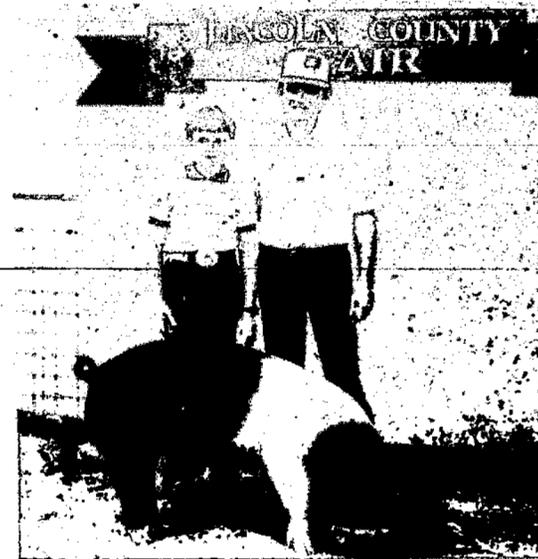

Terri Bussey, sister of Judy McKnight, has requested that a special grand jury examine the evidence and conduct an investigation of its own into the murders.

Gary Mitchell, attorney for Bussey, told the News, "All I have ever asked on behalf of any of these clients is that a fair and impartial hearing be held."

Mitchell said he has confidence in the grand jury and, "Time and time again I have put my faith in the jury system. You can't beat the system. It works if you just have a little faith."

Students to begin day with Pledge of Allegiance

By RUTH HAMMOND

Carrizozo school students began their school year Wednesday. The first thing they did in school was give the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. This is just one of the changes being mandated by the state in Senate Bill 106.

The state requires that each student say the Pledge of Allegiance each day in school. Carrizozo school superintendent Dennis Sidebottom said that Carrizozo students will begin their school days with the Pledge regardless of which class they are in.

Carrizozo teachers and staff began their school year on Monday with a breakfast in the school cafeteria followed by a work day filled with meetings.

School board president Wally Ferguson welcomed the staff and Sidebottom explained new programs for the school year. Later in the day the school buses were inspected by the state police. All buses passed the inspection.

New staff members are Mel Holland, high school head teacher and head football coach; Jodie Heckendorn, home ec, typing and office ed; Jim Ann Rasco, school nurse; and Mary Spenter, 4th grade.

Sidebottom told the staff that Carrizozo is one of the few schools in the state that did not have to cut back on programs and personnel. He explained that this is due to the board exercising fiscal restraint. He said this will probably continue until the 40th day when the student count is taken for computing the final budget.

Packets for teachers included a school calendar, sports schedules and duty rosters, and a schedule for purchasing in-town gas and petroleum products. The school buys fuel for school vehicles at a different local service station each month.

political campaigns in our past.

LESSON: If nothing else, our state's experience with Toney Anaya in the top job should have taught us not to be taken in by a lot of blue-sky promises, during the time in which ambitious men will tell us almost anything to get our votes.

The state's back is to the wall, and we can't risk getting another top dog who simply makes up government as he goes along. We need to know, well in advance of election day, what we can expect from the person we ultimately choose. If either of the two refuses to submit his plans to us and insists on simply singing us sweet lullabies, he ought to be soundly rejected at the polls.

This year, "may the better man win" may have to give way to "may the better plan win."

Ruidoso Downs

It may never happen again; trustees turn down a grant!

By NORMAN ASHLEY

In an unusual action, the Ruidoso Downs Board of Trustees voted last week to refuse a grant of $302 that had been offered by the state for installation of a trash dumpster along Highway 70 in the village.

After brief discussion during their regular meeting Aug. 11, the board decided that the cost of keeping the dumpster emptied would be more than the benefit of having it. The trustees felt that the village was already doing its share to keep the highway clean.

Mayor Jake Harris said he had contacted the state highway department twice about removing weeds from the right-of-way and median, and had finally had to hire a man to do the work. Trustee Conrad Buchanan said that he had also called the highway department and had gotten no response.

The board also refused payment of a bill for $60 from Joe Wheatley for spreading topsoil on his yard.

Wheatley had repeatedly complained of flooding in his yard, blaming the village for not maintaining a drainage ditch near his residence in River Park.

The village finally supplied a load of topsoil to replace dirt washed from his yard during recent floods and furnished a community service worker for one day to spread the dirt.

Wheatley presented the village a bill for having the work done again.

Buchanan said that Wheatley was aware that the area flooded when he rented the property. "Wheatley's landlord said Wheatley had even insisted on a lowered rent because of the flooding in the area," Buchanan added.

Municipal Judge Martin Valenzuela, who assigned the community service worker to do the work, said that he had repeatedly asked Wheatley to appear before the court and report on the progress of the work. "Mr. Wheatley has never been back. I've done all I can do," Valenzuela said.

Harris questioned the legality of singling out one person to help.

Contacted after the meeting Wheatley said that he had been very satisfied with the work done by the community service worker.

"He even brought his wife and friends to help him. They did a fine job," Wheatley said.

So good was the work that Wheatley said he treated the workers to a dinner at his home. The $60 bill was taken to the village because of the sloppy way employees delivered the top soil.

"They just dumped it in my yard. I had to hire a man with a tractor to move it where it was needed," Wheatley said adding that he had tried to contact Valenzuela.

The board also agreed to have the Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District assist the village in applying for Community Development Block Grants. The village is applying for $439,415 for water and sewer improvements.

Buchanan mentioned the availability of $25,000 to do a drainage study. "We really need to do something about our drainage, and having a full survey would increase our chances of obtaining the funds to do the work," he said.

The board directed village enforcement officer Charles

Robinson to work with Lincoln County Manager Suzanne Cox on cooperative improvement and repair of school bus routes in the village.

Robinson reminded the board of $80,000 available for the repair of village infrastructure, which must be used before the end of the year. Buchanan suggested that the mayor and Robinson prepare a proposal for the use of the money and present it to the board.

In a related item, the board decided to include Heights Drive in Phase I of the current paving project. Heights Drive is very steep and many cars have been unable to stop at the intersection with Hwy. 70 due to rocks and gravel in the roadway.

The improvements to Heights Drive and other critical areas scheduled for Phase II of the paving project will be paid for out of funds budgeted for road repair and improvement. The village will ask for separate bids on the work.

Police Chief Skip Hazel presented a report on police activities and was questioned by Trustee J. L. Wilson on the occurrence of 72 general disturbance calls. Wilson asked if this was unusual and if the chief had any other concerns.

Hazel said that the officers had been working many hours of overtime, but felt the hiring of a new officer would ease the situation. He pointed out that of 12 fight calls only two were bar fights and the rest being domestic fights.

Hazel said that the number of calls was not unusual, "but we never send an officer to a fight call without a backup. The first place a guy gets hurt is usually on a call for a family fight."

The trustees praised the police department for doing an excellent job under difficult circumstances, especially regarding visitors and race fans.

Valenzuela also reported that the court had decided to return to a policy of speedily trying cases in municipal court, especially DWIs.

The court has been rescheduling cases where the defendants have pleaded not guilty. It is then difficult to get the arresting officer, the defendant and the defense lawyer all present at the same time. As a result many cases have never come to trial, Valenzuela said.

In other business the trustees:

—Approved the hiring of Dana Cary as finance officer and Frank Hooper as police officer;

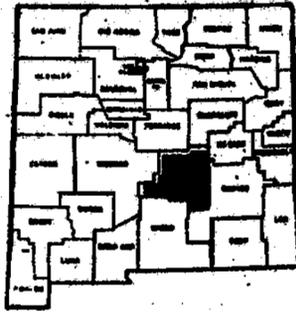

—Voted to sell two vehicles no longer being used by the village;

—Voted to donate $100 in prize money to the winner of the logo contest for the Sierra Blanca Airport Commission and named trustee Laverne Cole to represent Ruidoso Downs as judge in the contest.

Capitan News

By Margaret Rench

The first of last week we received an inch of rain in a few minutes. That was great and it was cooler for awhile, at least for a few days. Then there was sunshine and clouds with threats, and ended finally with medium winds.

The Lincoln County Fair was a success, with all exhibits, animals and fowls. Big crowds daily. Seems they all enjoyed the rodeos too. Saturday night the dance was a good one.

Bingo will resume this week starting Thursday night at the Fair Building, Aug. 21. Join them for a happy evening.

School started Tuesday, Aug. 19 in Capitan. What a joy to see those happy children go by. To me its always a joy. The first football game will be held here with Eunice, Aug. 29.

There were 2,197 registered visitors at the Smokey Bear Museum and State Park, Aug. 11-17. A bus tour of 41 persons from all over the US was there Tuesday.

Most of the federal personnel from the Forest are away on fires in several states. That is terrific battle. We wish them success, and we know they have long hard hours of duty. Bless them all.

Gary and Suzie Morton attended the Fallbrook, CA Art Show last weekend.

Rhonda Montoya visited her father in California last Wednesday and Thursday. She was back on duty at the Old Corrales & Sagebrush Monday evening.

Virginia Martin and her daughter April of Houston, TX visited her daughter Carpen, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Allred and Misty a couple of days while enroute to visit her brother Richard Pine, in San Francisco. Then to Vancouver, WA to visit her father and brother Lee Pine.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Reynolds who had taken their little daughter Tawnya to the National Beauty Finals in Miami, FL, July 23 returned Aug. 7 with a good report. She did exceptionally well in all events.

Robbie Runnels traveled to Reserve over the weekend to rope in the Reserve Junior Rodeo. Robbie's roping partner is Scott Cooke, a life-long friend in Reserve.

I join the Natural Gas Company in wishing Neo Vallejos a happy birthday and many more with good health. His birthday is Aug. 23.

Then my happy birthday wishes go to Cheyenne Reynolds, whose day is Aug. 16, Fernie Stokes, Aug. 17, Joan Hall, Aug. 18 and Sherry LaMay, Aug. 23. May all of you have the best of health and happiness.

Sheri Ann Coley and friend Leon Magly of Carlsbad visited her grandparents, Mr.

and Mrs. Wayne Hobbs, last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Wood and daughter Sonya left via car for San Francisco last Friday as his father died after several months illness. He was buried there Monday.

Mr. F. D. Hornbaker, 71, former resident of Capitan, died in Albuquerque last Thursday after several months illness. He retired from teaching in our school. Sold his home here just a year ago. He was buried in the Capitan Cemetery Monday morning, Aug. 18.

Lincoln Town

Ramblings

By Rosalie Dunlap

Dee Miller visited in Las Cruces recently.

It is schooltime again and I believe most of the students are anxious to start again.

James Sanchez, after being the Ruidoso School counselor for a number of years, has accepted the same position with the New Mexico Military Institute of Roswell.

Jerry Burchett will be teaching in Hondo again. For a while we thought we might lose him.

From all reports the fair was bigger and better this year. And the weather was beautiful. In spite of the economy, the Junior Livestock Sale was successful.

Two Lincoln area people were on TV over the weekend. Clark Taylor, son of Ray and Nina Taylor, was interviewed on his return with the New Mexico firefighters from the fires in Oregon.

Lauralee Peters Marley of Roswell and daughter of Laura Peters of Hondo was interviewed at the big Indian celebration and sales at Santa Fe.

Lorena Ratcliff is staying with her sister, Mrs. Herbert Hatch, in Roswell this week. Her daughter-in-law, Barbara, had to return to Alamogordo to get her children ready for school.

The Dunlaps are enjoying their new Dodge mini-van. They bought it at the new Dodge dealer in Ruidoso, the "Four Musketeers" are friendly and ready to help. They are Bob Prye, Fred Ayoub, David Strickland and Carol Karn. Go by and visit with them.

Our sympathies and prayers go to the Peralta family of Capitan and the Andy Nunez family of Border Hill. Two young lives have been lost tragically.

Aldaz named as Fort Stanton administrator on July 30

By RIGO CHAVEZ

They say you know its going to be a bad day when you arrive at your office and Mike Wallace and his "60 Minutes" film crew is there to greet you.

Ervin Aldaz, the new administrator at Fort Stanton Hospital and Training School, knew it was going to be a bumpy take off when at the party to celebrate his new job he learned the US Justice Department was suing the hospital for allegedly violating the civil rights of its clients.

"What a way to start," said Aldaz, who had been acting administrator at the facility since October 1985 and was officially appointed administrator on July 30.

"The staff had gotten together to wish me luck, when they told me I had a call," he said adding that he never got to return to the party.

Aldaz is the third generation in his family to work at Ft. Stanton. His grandfather, who was an ambulance driver in the 1940s and 50s, and his father, who ran dietary and general services at the hospital, both retired from the facility.

"I know it probably sounds funny, but I always wanted to work here," the 35-year-old Lincoln County native said.

Aldaz served as assistant administrator at the hospital for the mentally retarded from 1981 until last October when then-administrator Mark Delgado took a position at the Los Lunas Hospital and Training School.

A large man with bushy black hair and a beard, Aldaz smiles frequently, but his voice always keeps its serious tone. As administrator at Fort Stanton he supervises 188 staff members and looks after the welfare of 140 clients, most of who are severely retarded.

"With the type of clients we have here we are looking at teaching them the very basic skills they will need to function in a less restrictive environment," Aldaz said.

"About 99 percent have some sort of maladaptive behavior that we also try to correct. A lot suffer from both mental illness and mental retardation."

A less restrictive environment is psycho-speak for community programs such as group homes. Fort Stanton has placed about 200 clients in group homes in the past five years with a 94 percent success rate, that is they have not returned to the facility.

Aldaz said the number of clients and their average length of stay at the hospital (about seven years) has declined in the past decade, but he expects it to increase in the future.

"We have run the course of deinstitutionalization. The clients that are here are the ones that need to be institutionalized—the ones who can't survive in less restrictive environments," Aldaz said.

Aldaz, who received his master's degree in business from Highlands University in 1979, is very proud of "his" hospital.

"A lot of states act as if deinstitutionalization was some new concept. We've been doing it here for over 10 years, and today we are passed the national standards when they talk about 350-bed institutions.

"We have 140 beds and they say 150 is optimal."

He said Fort Stanton's reputation has suffered in recent years because of the frequent talk about closing the facility. "If you look at our track record we don't deserve a bad reputation. We have a good placement record and we've passed audit after audit by federal agencies," Aldaz said.

He lists among his goals as administrator to prove that the hospital is a good facility and to continue to provide the best quality of service to his clients.

Although he said he was in favor of checks and balances for the hospital, he added that the hardest part of his job is "dealing with outside entities that interfere with our development of programs for our clients."

"These people, who come in from the outside and have things drag on for two or three years, hinder our progress," Aldaz said.

Away from his job, where he controls a $4.9 million budget and is responsible as one of the largest employers in Lincoln County, Aldaz likes to play racquet ball, ride his all-terrain bike and spend time with his family.

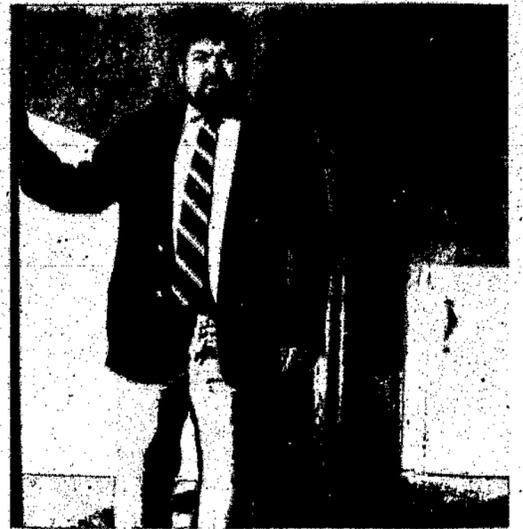

He is quick on the draw when he flashes a photo of his two daughters, ages 10 and 7, and his 10-month old son.

Aldaz's wife Stephanie cares for the children at home.

He took up racquet ball about two years ago for the exercise and as a way to lose weight. "I placed in a tournament last year at the club (the Ruidoso Athletic Club) but it wasn't that I'm so good. There was me that was bad and there were guys that were worse," Aldaz said.

Strolling the grounds, the talk returns to the hospital and a mandate from state government to have zero budget growth this year.

"We can do it, but it's not going to be easy," he concludes noting that Fort Stanton gets no general fund allotment.

ON MY OWN

By Pat Kite

The flea and me

I don't think I had so many fleas when I was married.

Perhaps it's because I was a better housekeeper when I had a husband to point at something on the floor and tell me to pick it up.

Or perhaps it's because I have more pets now, there being nobody to tell me they don't belong on the kitchen table, chairs or my bed.

Anyhow, last night I found one hopping about on my pillow, a spectre guaranteed to give one itchy nightmares, so out came the pestidiffusers.

Every year it's the same hassle. One summer we practically had to abdicate half the house, the little "Q" were so bad.

I still shudder recalling the Saturday I was expecting an out-of-town cousin. "Whatever you do," I told the kids as I made a last minute supermarket sprint, "don't let her in the living room."

Of course, when I returned, the young woman was sitting on the living room couch. She was staring at her socks. Prior to entering my house they were white. Now they were white covered with tiny black specks. She seemed to be in shock. Not only didn't she stay long, she never came back.

I'm used to people not coming back. Neighborhood kids, who love to play super-slitther on my floors, are actually prevented from visiting during prime warm weather months. "Betsy comes home with too many flea bites on her stomach," one mother complained.

I suppose in the best houses one only gets flea nips on the nose or some other high-echeleon position? Is it my fault my fleas are tacky and like thighs?

Anyhow, the worst episode I ever had with fleas took place three seasons ago.

My girlfriend, the super picky, the one who always runs her finger along my furniture to test for dust, the one I only invite when I want to spring clean, came over for a visit.

There Amy was, sitting in my polished kitchen table, sipping special purchase exotic-brew coffee in a genuine china cup brought out of cupboard hiding for just this occasion.

We were having a lovely conversation until I noticed she was paying more attention to her coffee cup than she was to me.

"Can I get you a refill?" I asked.

Amy's face turned pale. "No, thank you," she said.

Long story short, when she finally departed, I glanced in her still half-filled china cup and there was this dead flea. Presumably she had watched it drown.

So, as every summer, I defogged the entire house, almost gassing myself in the process. I washed the dogs, flea collared everything including the fish, threw eucalyptus leaves in the corners, just in case.

This morning I calculated how much each flea cost me in terms of sprays, baths, etc. I kept telling myself a dead flea is the only thing you can buy for a penny apiece these days and it's really quite a bargain. One which I'd rather skip.

Seat belts help

Dunlaps survive one-car accident

"Oh, Daddy," I heard myself saying, as I opened my eyes and realized we were off Interstate 25 and going down the 45 degree embankment. Next thing I knew, we were upside down, hanging by our seatbelts, Ralph hanging limp in his, skidding on the car top. "My God, I hope I haven't killed him."

Then we rolled over onto the wheels and coasted into an embankment on the Interstate frontage road.

Ralph and I had left our home in Lincoln for a trip to Colorado the week before.

We had spent Friday night in Alamosa, CO, then on to Gunnison to spend Saturday and Sunday morning with friends. Sunday afternoon we drove to Colorado Springs to attend the National County Agents Association along with other members from New Mexico.

It was a full week of activities—programs, meetings, luncheons, tours and get-togethers.

On Thursday, I had taken the early morning cog-train to the top of Pike's Peak. Only Mother Nature decided to be cloudy that morning and I also suffered high altitude sickness—even though we live at 5800 ft. elevation.

That night was the final banquet and awards program, so we didn't get to bed until late.

As we wanted to be back in Lincoln for the Old Lincoln Days celebration, we left early Friday morning. We had breakfast in Raton.

Ralph drove a while and was sleepy, so asked me if I could drive on to Las Vegas.

After a few miles, I thought "I'm going to have to pull off and sleep some."

The next thing I knew we were going over the embankment.

I had "straightened" out the road where it made a slight turn to the right. I went straight on.

We just missed the guard rail, rolled over onto the car top and slid down the median, hit a small tree which righted the van back onto its wheels onto the frontage, coasted across the frontage road and hitting the embankment—just missing the Interchange pillars. Luckily, there was no traffic. This was around 8:30 a.m.

Meanwhile, Ralph regained consciousness just as we hit the embankment. He undid his seat belt, got out, and asked me if I was alright. I told him my back hurts. He had blood running down his face from a cut on his eye. He tried to open my door but the drip strip had crimped it shut. He went back to the passenger and undid my seat belt.

By this time, help was at hand, Ralph telling everyone not to move me as my back was hurting so.

The help consisted of a LPN and also a certified EMT, State Highway personnel and Forest Service and State Police.

They talked to me, keeping my head still in case of a whiplash, treating Ralph's cut and helping to gather our belongings that were strung out on the road.

I kept wondering "How are they going to get me out if my back was broken?"

Everyone was wondering why it was taking the ambulance so long to arrive. The first ambulance had had a head-on collision leaving Las Vegas so they lost 20-30 minutes getting the second ambulance. (No injuries.)

An ingenious plastic seat that can be slid under the victim and car seat was put in place with my legs drawn up by belts. Then they slid me onto a back board and they started to put my legs down, but it hurt too much to put my left leg down.

I heard Ralph ask the EMT if he could ride in the ambulance. "Yes, but you will have to ride in front."

About that time, Phyllis, an ambulance driver with over 14 years driving experience, came up and told Ralph he could ride up front with her.

They got me loaded into the ambulance, then Phyllis drove slowly until she found a place to get back onto the Interstate for Las Vegas.

It was enroute to Las Vegas Northeastern Region Hospital the EMT told me about the other ambulance's accident.

When we reached the city limits of Las Vegas, the EMT asked me if I minded if they used the siren. I said "No, but it wasn't a life or death situation, why use it?" He laughed and said, "You don't know the drivers of Las Vegas!" So they used them.

Phyllis had already relayed all the vital statistics to the hospital so the emergency crew was all set by the time we arrived.

After x-rays, it was determined I had a T-12 fracture of the spine.

Later Ralph suffered a delayed reaction to his concussion. He had hit his head on the post by the seat when we rolled over. He was under observation for 24 hours and I was hospitalized for six days.

Everyone was so friendly, caring and concerned, from the hospital staff, emergency and ambulance crew, doctor, friends and strangers, that it made our stay bearable.

And the next time you think about not buckling up—even for short distances—think again. It can mean the difference between not so serious and serious injuries; and life or death for yourself and loved ones.

The Lincoln Republican, published in Lincoln, New Mexico, Friday, Oct. 7, 1892, James J. Dolan, editor.

Columbus Day will be celebrated at White Oaks.

"Do not bite your thread, it is silk," was the warning a man gave a young woman the other day, who intent on her fancy work, was snipping off with her teeth the frequent ends of silk her work produced. "Serious cases of lead poisoning have resulted from the practice, as silk thread is soaked in acetate of lead to increase its weight."

Skim milk and grass range make a perfect combination for growing young chickens profitably.

The Local Budget
Mr. Demetrio Perea has returned from the Agency.

Messrs. Dowlin and Anderson came in from Dowlin's mill Tuesday.

R. J. Kerr, of El Paso, was in town during the week completing arrangements for active work on his contract to supply the new canalgre factory with 1,200 tons of canalgre root. It is estimated that it will require 250 men to dig the root.—Deming Headlight.

James Clasen, while prospecting for water and about thirty miles west of this city, uncovered a grave and found a skeleton which to all appearances had been buried for centuries. Over what was originally the face was a bowl of earthenware on which was the painting of some imaginary animal. While in the city this week Mr. Clasen exhibited the skull and bowl. The gentleman states that there are many ruined huts in the vicinity where he found the skeleton, which would indicate that it was once the site of a village.—Las Cruces Republican.

Wedding Bells
Saturday, October 1st, at the residence of Sheriff D. W. Roberts, the hearts of Mr. George B. Barber and Miss Eugenia Roberts were made to "beat as one" through the authorized dictum of Hon. Judge Cronin. The contracting parties are well known and highly esteemed in this county. Mr. Barber holding the position of District Attorney and the bride being a popular society belle. That Mr. and Mrs. Barber may walk but upon pleasant paths, and that their united pathway may be as long and satisfactory as was that of "John Anderson" and his "auld wife" is the ardent wish of the Republican.

A number of poor women and poorer girls in New York sell papers for a living. This is a grievous injustice to the newsboys who are growing up to be able-bodied voters. It is a political outrage almost as the sweating system." The women and girls and the Chinese must go!

Friday, October 21, 1892
A lot of job-work, coming in late this week, has left no time to "set up" local news.

Mr. Riley, of the Lincoln post office, states that the entire paper mail, sent from this place Sunday morning, was returned Thursday afternoon in the same mail bag in which it was sent away. We have it from good authority that the Republican, which is mailed here the latter part of the week, seldom reaches White Oaks earlier than the following Wednesday and then comes back from the railroad. It is evident that there is careless handling of the mails, somewhere.

Friday, November 11, 1892
The Local Budget

A fight occurred on our streets, Wednesday, in which Yginio Salazar was cut in the ribs and sent to the Post hospital.

Lost, on election day, a bunch of keys. The finder will confer a favor by returning them to the owner, John Thornton.

The house of G. W. Barrett, on South Fork, was burned last week while he was absent. Mrs. Barrett had to break down the door with an ax to save her children. The fire is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary.

The supply of printing paper in this office has run short, and the Republican is compelled to make its appearance this week on a half-sheet. A lot of paper which was ordered long enough ago to have made the trip twice, is delayed somewhere between here and Topeka.

A large white dog belonging to a family in the lower part of town, showed signs of hydrophobia, last Sunday, and several members of the family narrowly escaped being bitten. After biting the cat, which afterward showed symptoms of hydrophobia and was killed, the dog went to Mr. Ellice's and mangled a small dog so severely that it had to be killed. He was seen a day or two later some distance down the river, and as other dogs may have been bitten, it will not be amiss to "look a little out" for mad dogs for awhile.

November 25, 1892
The new steam fire engine for El Paso left New York via the Southern Pacific company's steamer, "El Norte," at 3 p.m., October 22d and arrived there via the C., H. & S.A. road at 5 o'clock on the morning of November 1st, making only nine days and fourteen hours en route. This is lively time. This trip was the second one this fast steamer—Optic.
The "Crochet" club will meet at the usual place, this week, at which time applications for membership will be received and considered. No person is eligible who is not crochety, cranky, or does not ride a hobby of some description. Any member who has any "choice bits" to retail, is expected to save them up for discussion by the club, when they will be remodeled and put in shape for general circulation.

Tom Babers polo tournament held last weekend, 2nd annual

The second annual Tom Babers polo tournament was held at San Patricio the past weekend.

Tom has been active in polo since 1945. Peter Herd had just returned from World War II where he was on assignment with Life magazine. Herd wanted to re-organize the polo games again, and asked Tom and his son, Billy, to join him. Thus began a lifelong love affair with polo.

The Babers tournament was begun by Micky Samuels, El Paso, a friend of Tom's, also Border Circuit Governor of the National Polo Association. Samuels contacted friends of Tom to sponsor a large silver cup as a traveling trophy.

This year the trophy was won by a local team called the Ft. Stockton team, composed of Paul Hagsdale, Scott Goodpasture, Randy Reddell, John Garnett and Bill Shrecengost.

The Three Rivers Ranch team came in second. Besides the traveling trophy, each member received a small replica donated by Fred and Ann Heckman of Ruidoso.

GOOD GROOMING was important for 4-H animals before the sale at the Lincoln County Fair last Saturday. Tammy Paine of Capitan grooms her pig before their appearance in the sale.

GRAND CHAMPION PIG—Ronald Joiner of Capitan sold this animal at the Lincoln County Fair for $5.10 a pound to Shaw Engineering of Ruidoso. Mr. and Mrs. Shaw are shown here with Joiner in the middle.
