$1.04 million for police proposed

Budget problems bedevil council

By RIGO CHAVEZ

More than 40 spectators showed up at budget hearings at Ruidoso Village Hall expect-ting fireworks and a lively discussion on the proposed police department budget last week.

Audience members, including Paul Sanders who thought he was going to get to present a plan for the reorganization of the department, were disappointed when Mayor Lloyd Davis Jr. cut off questions from the spectators following presentation of a proposed $1.04 million budget by Police Chief Richard Swenor.

Davis said he had cut the discussion short in order to stay on schedule for the presentation by other departments. "Besides, this is only a very preliminary proposal. We still have to review it before any action is taken," he said.

Sanders said following the meeting that he was prepared to speak to the council on the Thursday afternoon budget hearing. "I had been led to believe that I would get to at least ask questions about the police department's budget."

Sanders, a former border patrol agent who currently runs the Bonito Hollow Campground near Bonito Lake, said in an interview before the budget hearing that there were a number of questions he hoped would be answered at the hearing.

Sanders, however, was allowed to ask only one question. It dealt with expenditures for vehicle maintenance.

Among the questions Sanders sought answers to were: What is the population of Ruidoso and how does the police department figure it? What is the total budget less capital outlay? What is the operations budget? How much is the uniform allowance for officers?

Many of these questions were answered by Swenor's budget proposal which called for an increase of 2% over last year's $1.02 million expenditure.

"I decided to approach this council because they are new and I felt they might be more receptive to suggestions," Sanders said adding that he had not met with Swenor because he had heard from people who approached the chief and were only "stonewalled."

He said he still hopes to make a presentation to the village council at some time in the near future. "Somebody has got to do it and I'm probably better equipped with my background in law enforcement than most people," Sanders said.

Sanders said during the interview that he had done research showing that while on the average New Mexico had one police officer for every 355 residents in 1983, while Ruidoso had one officer for every 238 residents and Lincoln County had one for every 210.

In a separate interview, Swenor defended the department saying that it was efficient and that it was staffed based on average daily population figures of 14,000 to 16,000 residents. "We only have one officer for every 1,500 people," he said.

Swenor said that while most city employees are paid overtime for working on holidays, police officers are not. "We believe we are doing our part to hold costs down. There is no overtime budgeted and there is a lot of disparity between the wages we can offer and those offered by other departments," he said noting that three officers have recently left the force to take higher paying jobs.

Village Councilor Victor Alonso said that there was a perception that the village has shrunk, "yet you are reducing your personnel count by only one."

Swenor said this was because of scheduling restrictions that call for three officers to be on each 12-hour shift and two communications and corrections officers for each shift. "It is physically impossible to do the work with fewer officers," Swenor said.

The councilors said they were concerned that most of the budgets proposed by the city's 20 departments showed increases while revenues were projected to be lower in the 1986-87 fiscal year that begins July 1.

"There doesn't seem to be any continuity in the percentage of proposed salary increases," said Councilor Larry Shaw. "We have some depart-

Physical forms are ready now

Carrizozo students planning to participate in athletics at any level during the 1986-87 school year will need a physical examination this summer.

The school requires physical examinations to insure that students are physically able to participate in athletics.

The form includes parental consent, medical history and examination information, medical authorization and insurance information. The forms are available at the high school office until May 30.

Big Bold Boz squares off for Kindergarten Futurity trials

RUIDOSO DOWNS-- Ruidoso Downs kick off four straight days of horse racing programs over the Memorial Day weekend with Friday's trials for the $50,000 Rio Grande Kindergarten Futurity.

Five stakes events offering more than $55,000 in added prize money are slated for the holiday weekend, which features 12-race programs Friday through Monday (Memorial Day) beginning at 1 p.m. each day. The track's gates open at 11 a.m.

Big Bold Boz, the young colt that captured the $250,000 Riley Allison Futurity only three weeks ago, heads a list of 36 New Mexico-breds who will face off in four elimination trials for the Rio Grande Kindergarten Futurity on Friday's program.

The 5-furlong heats are scheduled as the 4th, 6th, 9th and 11th races. The top three finishers in each of the divisions will advance to the final of the Kindergarten Futurity on May 31.

Trainer Terrell Davidson sends out Big Bold Boz in Friday's 11th-race headliner (4th Kindergarten Division) for his first appearance since pocketing $120,000 earlier this month in a victory for the 23rd renewal of the Riley Allison Futurity at Sunland Park.

Larry Byers took Big Bold Boz to a widening 3-length victory in the Riley Allison on May 4. The win was most impressive since the gelding broke from the far outside post in the 10-horse field to step the 4-furlong stake in 59 seconds flat. Owned by Jacqueline Spencer of Alto, Big Bold Boz was purchased in the 1985 Summer Thoroughbred Sale at Ruidoso Downs for $14,500. He holds total earnings of $121,281.

Big Bold Boz is among the first crop of Bold Ego, who accounted for the Riley Allison in 1980 before going on to run 2nd in the Preakness. He is undefeated in three starts and will have the services Friday of veteran rider Byers.

Friday's 6th race (2nd Kindergarten Division) brings out Sid's Ego, another Bold Ego offspring, who finished 5th in the $10,000 consolation for the Riley Allison on May 3. He'll be matching strides with the only $2,500 supplement to the Kindergarten - Dancing Dugan, a Choreographer filly trained by Wayne Buehrer.

The 3rd Kindergarten trial division (Friday's 9th race) features Egor, the son of Bold Ego who scratched from the Riley Allison Consolation off a 3rd-place finish in the trials for the rich stake. Trainer Elmer Shepard saddles Total Proof in the same division.

Ruidoso students improve basic skills

Standardized test scores among Ruidoso students are continuing to rise, according to reports presented at school board meeting last week.

Students in the 3rd, 5th and 8th grades have continued to show improvements on the California Test of Basic Skills (CTBS) over the past four years, Assistant Supt. Mike Gladden told school board members last Wednesday.

Gladden said that teachers deserve the credit for bringing the scores to levels above the national average in the 10 subject areas tested. He added that in some cases new courses have been added to address specific deficiencies identified by earlier test results.

"We have begun offering more language arts at the middle school and I feel adding that language arts course has had the direct result of bringing our language mechanics to 85% (at the 8th grade level)," Gladden said.

Karen Tillman, principal at White Mountain Elementary School, said the teachers and students should work towards a level of competency in all skills.

Among the areas tested on exam are reading, vocabulary and comprehension, spelling, language mechanics and expression, math computation, math concepts and applications, reference skills, science and social studies.

"What we want is a continuum so that we have an evenness across in all skills," Tillman said, adding that scores for students in Ruidoso schools "are way above state norms."

At the 3rd grade level, students scored highest in the language mechanics area, coming in at the 78 percentile nationwide. The national norm for all the skills is 50%.

The third graders two lowest areas were math concepts and applications and science, both at 59%.

Fifth graders scored best in math computations at 77% and worst in math concepts and applications at 59%.

Although still a weak area, 5th graders showed an improvement over their 3rd grade math concepts scores in 1983-84 when they scored at 56%.

A 64% ranking in math concepts and applications was the lowest for the 8th grade

Members toast Club's facelift

Five-hundred and fifty Ruidoso Downs Jockey Club members and their guests celebrated the new racing season with a champagne brunch, Saturday at the club.

Over the years the brunch has become a tradition. It's a way of welcoming back the out-of-town members and a way of informally inaugurating a new summer of racing.

This year the function was particularly festive for several reasons. First, the club's quarters were redecorated during the off-season, and the handsome new decor was the subject of much praise from those present. Redwood was used extensively in the decorating, and with the new lighting fixtures, additional fans, a new color scheme, and expanded bath facilities, it seemed as if, as one member expressed it, "This place has really had a facelift!" Credit was given to Lloyd Davis, general manager of the jockey club, and Jean Anderson for the creative "facelift."

Another reason for the festive feeling at the brunch was jockey club member Fern Sawyer. Sawyer, who has received many awards for her horsemanship, was honored again Saturday by the jockey club for being the only woman ever inducted into the Cutting Horse Hall of Fame.

She has been in the Cowgirl Hall of Fame for several years. Saturday also happened to be Sawyer's birthday. A three-tiered birthday cake was cut to commemorate the double honors for Sawyer.

Long time members Elvin Crow of Roswell and Alex Adams of Ruidoso also celebrated birthdays on Saturday. There were hundreds of birthday congratulations and a loud group rendition of "Happy Birthday to You."

Although the day was as chilly as the champagne, the spirit of celebration was not dampened.

Gertrude Hale rates her first 'Meal Care' meal

Gertrude Hale of Ruidoso Downs made her first visit of the year to the Ruidoso Adult Recreation Center on Monday as she attended the first lunch served by the Meal Care program at the center.

The 93-year-old Hale said she enjoyed the congregate meal of chicken fried steak with gravy, green beans, mashed potatoes and cherry cobbler. "I'll come everytime I can to these meals," she said.

Hale, who has lived in the Downs for some 69 years, said she likes to get out when the weather is nice. She lives along in a trailer parked in a trailer

A New Mexican in Manhattan

BY FRANCES BARTON

Every time I arrive at La Guardia and cross the Triborough Bridge to Manhattan I feel like Alice tumbling headlong into Wonderland.

Although I have been going to New York for a long time, every visit is an expedition of discovery, an adventure into new realms.

If I sound like a country girl agog in the big city, that is exactly what I am. Any sophisticates out there who are blasé about the Big Apple should be out scouting around the solar system for another planet to inhabit.

Whoever first said, "It's a great place to visit, but I wouldn't want to live there," was probably talking about New York City. Many people feel it is too big, too dirty, too noisy, too crowded; yet, they can still enjoy a weekend of rubbernecking, theater-going, and shopping before flying back to the familiar sanity of whatever boonies they came from.

off as a three-day fling, consider this: that strip of land called Manhattan Island, 13 miles long and 2 miles wide, between the East River and the Hudson River, is home sweet home to over a million and a half people, most of whom will tell you they live in the greatest city on earth. It is a cauldron, a true melting pot.

It is absolutely and purely American.

Manhattan is, of course, only one of five boroughs which comprise Greater New York. But sister boroughs Brooklyn, Queens, Staten Island, and the Bronx are mere satellites. Manhattan is the cultural, financial and, considering the United Nations, the political capital of the world. Ask any New Yorker.

MAY UPSTAGES APRIL

May was up-staging April with mild and sunny weather while I was there. The city was decked out in miles of red tulips and yellow jonquils. Up and down the avenues the street trees were greening, and prettier. The famous Kwanson Cherry trees were in a pink riot of blossoming from 59th Street all the way to 110th. Window washers working from their narrow platforms (and some hanging like flies in "saddles") were shining thousands of windows.

Green grocers and florists were moving their colorful stocks outside to attract customers, peddlers and vendors were hawking their wares on every corner, and it seemed that every restaurant in the city had turned into a sidewalk cafe.

New Yorkers, after a gloomy, cold winter, take the sun seriously. They flocked to the outdoor tables like ants to a picnic.

I am familiar with the ways of country dogs. I understand waggy, rowdy, natural dogs, riding shotgun in pickups, cruising in Cadillacs, or running around on the loose.

New York City dogs are unique.

The city dogs, like the city people, try to ignore each other as much as possible. Large, small, show-types, mongrels—all stroll on leash with the urbanity of style show models. On the crowded sidewalks these haughty canines sometimes are forced to brush against each other as their handlers hurry along. I did not witness a single dog being disagreeable about these encounters. In fact, they would just trot on, poker-faced, as if there were no other members of their species in existence anywhere. Now, that's discipline. Or maybe it's just New York.

DOG DAYS IN NYC

One morning I was approaching Central Park from West 70th Street when I observed a professional dog-walker with nine dogs on leash also headed for the Park. Among his charges were a Russian Wolfhound, a Great Dane, a pocket-sized poodle wearing a yellow jacket and matching earmuffs, and a broad-shouldered mutt who had been shaved to look like a those of us seated at the table because our waitress had all but disappeared. She did not return until we were almost ready for coffee.

The main course was served with a baked potato, rice or french fries. A little chicken stock would have done wonders for the otherwise bland rice.

All the portions were ample and my friend who ordered the beef kabobs ended up taking half of her little chunks of tender marinated meat home in a doggie bag.

During the meal, we were treated to a fashion show featuring both men's and women's clothing from The Attic. One of the models told us the fashion show was a regular Friday night attraction. By RIGO CHAVEZ

A Review

The menu contains mostly steak and seafood with a smattering of chicken dishes. The wine list is short, but adequate.

My companions and I (there were six of us) started our meal with the onion loaf—thinly sliced, deep fried onion rings shaped into a loaf—and the more standard chicken wings. The loaf had just the right amount of spice and was not too greasy. The serving of chicken wings was very generous and it too was not overly spicy.

To go with the meal we selected a carafe of the house rose, a good tasting if unexciting wine.

My spinach salad was crisp and topped with a warm oil base dressing. One of my companions couldn't say enough good things about the ranch dressing on her tossed salad.

For the main course we all stuck with the featured attraction—beef, including filet mignon, what the menu referred to as the petite filet mignon, New York cut and beef kabobs.

The difference in size between the regular filet and the petite filet was hardly noticeable. Both were very tender.

One of the people dining with me complained that his medium rare New York cut was too rare. Unfortunately, the only ones he could complain to were

'Speed' showing at Space Center

ALAMOGORDO, NM -- The long-awaited Omnimax feature film "SPEED" premiered at the Space Center's Omni/Space Theater in Alamogordo, May 21.

"SPEED" explores the role of speed in man's life from the dawn of time to the farthest reaches of the conceivable future. Special effects abound in "SPEED" and the reality of the large-format Omnimax projection system sweeps the viewer up with an intensity that challenges the senses.

From the pace of a human running (27 miles per hour), to the speed of light (670,616,629 miles per hour), "SPEED" captures man's insatiable hunger to move himself ever faster through his world and eventually to the stars.

The movie is told from the point of view of thoughtful, soft-spoken Albert Einstein, who spent his life searching for answers to the riddles of "the magnificent structure of nature."

"SPEED" will show in double feature presentations with "The Universe: Believe It Or Not" daily from May 21 through Sept. 29. Show times are at 10 a.m., 12 noon, 2 and 4 p.m. An additional 7 p.m. show will be presented Monday through Thursday beginning May 26. A Triple Feature Family Show, including a general audience laser light show, is presented at 7 p.m. each Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

For further information and group reservations, call the Space Center at 437-2840 (in New Mexico) or out-of-state call toll-free (800) 545-4021. The Space Center is a division of the New Mexico Office of Cultural Affairs.

lion. The walker was experienced, but it was easy to see the dogs were no less experienced at group walking. Each animal's leash was taut and untangled, and each stayed on its own invisible path. All nine dogs were studiously pretending to be alone. It was a real study in urban behavior.

We went back to the Metropolitan Museum because the exhibits are always changing, and because the place draws me like a magnet.

We went back to the Guggenheim Museum just to walk down the quarter mile ramp that spirals through the heart of the Frank Lloyd Wright building. It's nice to be able to visit with the works of Pablo Picasso, Paul Klee, and others as we walk. While doing my art appreciation thing, I exchanged comments with an elegantly dressed lady who must have been at least 80. She heard the Southwest in my voice and asked me where I lived. When I told her I was from New Mexico, she smiled knowingly and said she had a cousin who lived in Albuquerque. Even after I explained that my home was in Ruidoso—three hours away from Albuquerque and that Albuquerque was quite a large city, she still seemed unconvinced that I didn't know her cousin. Native New Yorkers can be provincial too.

Wherever I went in the city people responded curiously when I mentioned that I was from New Mexico. A cab driver asked me if we were still having trouble with Indians: wanting to talk local politics with a New York cabbie, I assured him that all was peaceful on the western front.

Many people asked about our climate, where to go and what to do when in New Mexico, and I put on my best chamber of commerce face and told them about Ruidoso. I got my spiel down so pat that I could turn it on wherever I had a willing audience. I told them about the marvelous climate, the panoramic scenery, skiing, horse racing, hunting, fishing, etc., etc. A lady in the shoe department at Bloomingdale's said Ruidoso sounded like Shangri-la. I promised her it was.

I spread the good word at Lincoln Center before and after an organ recital, at Madison Square Garden to some wild ice hockey fans who actually stopped yelling long enough to listen and ask questions. I made my pitch on the Long Island Railroad coming back from Massapequa Park.

I talked about Ruidoso in restaurants, in shops, even at my granddaughter's school during visitor's day.

Somehow, I never thought of Lucille Ball, my favorite redhead of all time, as a grandma. But she was at Walden's School's open house watching her grandkids perform with the same shameless pride as the other grandmas. When she saw my name tag with "Ruidoso, New Mexico" written under my name, she grinned and her famous grin and said, "You come from a beautiful state. I have good friends in Santa Fe." She didn't ask me if I knew them.

Now that I am back in my mountain home, Manhattan's concrete canyons seem very far away. In the easy silence of this village, the movement, the noise, the raw human mix of that great city seems unreal.

But I will go back. Like I said, "I wouldn't want to live there, but New York is a great place to visit."

Frances Barton is a free-lance writer now retired and living in Ruidoso. She has been published in the Saturday Evening Post, Ladies Home Journal, and other national publications.

Budget...

Proposed budgets from other departments were as follows:

class. But they too had showed some improvement from the time they took the CTES as 5th graders in 1982-83 and scored at the 82 percentile.

In other business, the board approved a resolution for the sale of general obligation bonds and issued a request for proposals for an agent to handle the bonds.

During a discussion about the improvements at Ruidoso Middle School, board member Don Swalander questioned the need for the planting of trees in front of some of the windows.

"Why are we putting trees in front of those windows," Swalander asked, "I thought one of the reasons our architect had recommended new glass was to take advantage of solar energy."

"What are we paying that yo-yo for? If the reason we put those windows in was to cut our heating costs and now we're covering them up with trees, I move that we fire him," Swalander said.

Frank Cannella, a teacher at the middle school, said that he thought the trees were being planted for aesthetic reasons. "They wanted to be able to see trees when they looked out."

Supt. Sid Miller said that he didn't understand why Swalander was upset with the architect. "I think the reason we replaced the windows was because the new ones are better insulated and it had nothing to do with solar heating."

There was no motion to fire the architect and Swalander appeared to be satisfied with the explanations.

In other business, the board awarded a bid on a new well at the high school to Pioneer Drilling, which bid $11.45 plus a certain amount per foot. Miller said the drilling would probably total $20,000.

Bids were opened for all instructional and janitorial supplies for the upcoming school year, but Miller said money would not be spent on anything until he can be sure where the budget stands.

Miller said the district has a contingency plan to cut the budget by 3% without having to lay off personnel.

"But if we don't make our enrollment we are going to be in trouble," Miller said, noting that the district is still losing students.

The board's next regular meeting is June 11 at 7:30 p.m. at the Administration Office in Ruidoso.

court owned by her daughter Alice Allison. "Alice keeps an eye on me and she is the one who brought me here today," Hale said.

Although she is almost blind and doesn't hear well, Hale said she still does most of her own cooking. "A girl comes into cook lunch at noon, but I do all the rest."

Ena Hale, who was married to Gertrude Hale's nephew Willie Hale, said she too would like to attend the meals as often as she could. "It depends if we can get someone to bring us," said Hale, 76.

Ena Hale also lives in Allison's trailer park. "I usually just take out TV dinners. I haven't done any real cooking in quite a while," she said.

The senior Hale owned and worked a ranch in the Valley area until 1969. "It was hard work, but my husband and I liked it."

The hard work probably accounts for Hale's remarkably good physical condition. She does not appear frail and said if it weren't for her eyesight she'd probably be able to do more for herself.

"I'd get up and go to the table to pay for my meal, but I probably couldn't even see it," Hale said when Evelyn Miller offered to take her $2.50 up for her.

Both the Hales and Miller said the food was very good. "The chicken fried steak was tender and easy to cut," Miller said.

Charlotte Jarratt, project director for the Meal Care program, said that a total of 42 people had eaten at the first lunch. The total included six persons who are homebound and had their meals delivered and one person who was served a free meal.

Meals are Mondays and Fridays at 11:30 a.m. and to participate persons over 65 should call the Adult Recreation Center by 4 p.m. on Friday for the Monday meal and 4 p.m. on Thursday for the Friday meal.

SWEDEN is such a progressive land, one where a father can be jailed for spanking his son but officials happily condone his sleeping with his daughter. Now, according to Reason Magazine, a Swedish court has ruled that a woman who stole clothes and sold them must be taxed as a business. She can, however, deduct any expenses she incurred on her shoplifting spree. A Linköping court ruled that the woman must pay taxes on $55,000 worth of goods she was convicted of shoplifting and selling. However, she can deduct any money she spent on traveling to and from stores, as well as storage and telephone costs at her home. Crime does pay, and it's tax deductible as well!

JOHN R. Torrison in a letter to the editor this week (see page 4) asks who the winners are in the lawsuit now in progress that challenges the validity of the March 4 municipal election in Carrizozo. Then he concludes that "there are no winners." Wrong, Mr. Torrison. Because the sanctity of the ballot box is the most precious possession of an American citizen, any hint of fraud, or any alleged irregularities at the voting booth, deserve to be challenged. If fraud is found, those responsible for it should pay the price of heavy fines and imprisonment. If fraud is not found, the very thought that someone vigilant enough, concerned enough, and ready to personally finance a costly investigation of election proceedings, deserves the admiration and the thanks of us all. If fraud is found, election officials responsible earn the contempt of righteous citizens. If fraud is not found, then an uneasy public can take comfort in knowing the election was properly conducted. No price is too much to pay for preserving the secrecy and sanctity of the one instrument that keeps Americans free—the ballot.

AT THE turn of the century, Benjamin R. Tucker wrote: "What is the ballot? It is neither more nor less than a paper representative of the bayonet, the billy, and the bullet. It is a labor-saving device for ascertaining on which side force lies and bowing to the inevitable. The voice of the majority (heard at the ballot box) saves bloodshed, but it is no less the arbitrament of force than is the decree of the most absolute of despots backed by the most powerful of armies."

THERE is nothing in local, state or federal government that cannot be killed, reversed, removed or amended by Americans armed with the secret ballot. The ballot can make and unmake presidents and Congresses, courts and corporations. The ballot is more powerful and more deadly than all the armies of this world, and it belongs to me, to you, and to every American. As President Eisenhower once said, "a voter without a ballot is like a soldier without a bullet."

WHEN Americans began building the foundation of their judicial system they contemplated punishment for convicted felons. One of the first punishment to be imposed was denial of voting rights to convicted felons. Tampering with the ballot box is a felony. But like many of our cherished rights, the right of the secret ballot is being eroded. New Mexico has a history of hanky-panky at the ballot box. I have personally witnessed corruption of the ballot process in Bernalillo County. Had the perpetrators (including one governor and one US Senator) been found guilty of what I actually witnessed, they would have gone to prison. So, it was inspiring that at least 23 Carrizozo citizens sacrificed their comforts, their valuable time, and even their personal safety to come into court and testify to election irregularities.

NO winners, Mr. Torrison? Every American is the winner. A little discomfort waiting in the witness room, a little time lost from work, a little aggravation, a little expense—all constitute the small price we pay to preserve the guarantor of our freedoms—one that substitutes for bullets on the battlefield—the secret ballot. God bless the secret ballot, and those with guts enough to defend it.

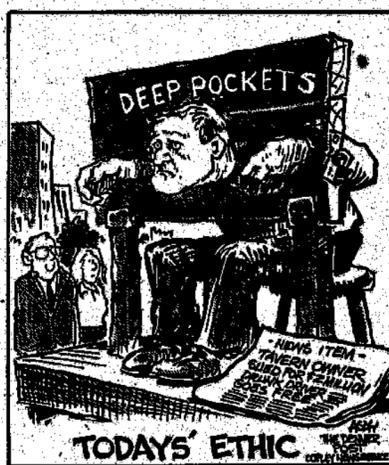

ON May 25, Americans will be treated to a curious and ironic spectacle called "Hands Across America." On this day, an estimated six million Americans, are expected to join hands and form a human chain coast-to-coast to protest "hunger and famine in America." This, mind you, in the best-fed land in all history!

LAST year, Americans spent only 14.4% of their income on food, the lowest amount in history. At 3,470 calories per capita, per day, Americans are not only the best-fed people on earth, but have earned the reputation for over-eating to the point where their lives are endangered, according to some medical authorities. We eat 20% better, per capita, than any of the European democracies. How can anybody subscribe to the notion that there is "widespread hunger and famine in America" as the sponsors of Hands Across America contend? There is not a single nutrition study by a credible organization that supports such an outrageous claim.

THERE are some hungry people in America, to be sure. It is a tiny share of the population. But there is food for all who know where to apply. The US government's nutrition program for 1986 calls for spending $19 billion on food for the needy—an all-time high. In 1986, the government will give free food stamps to every American family with an income of less than $14,280 for a family of four—an income comparable to that of the average British family, where "widespread hunger and famine" is not alleged. In the US, free food stamps are available to any destitute individual for the asking. If there are hungry people in this country, it's by their own choice. Hunger in America? Baloney.

HANDS Across America can only be a political ploy to sway emotional citizens toward the Left in the November

Les Kinsolving

Walter Duranty, Pulitzer Prize-winner--and liar

NEW YORK -- Page 16 of The New York Times Company's 1985 Annual Report, which was sent to me as one of its shareholders (two shares), notes the following:

"The New York Times is one of the world's foremost newspapers, winner of 54 Pulitzer Prizes, far more than any other newspaper." (Plus two more, this year.)

One of the most prominent of these Times Pulitzer's was Walter Duranty, that newspaper's Moscow correspondent in 1932. Mr. Duranty's Pulitzer citation hailed his "dispassionate, interpretive reporting, marked by scholarship, profundity, impartiality, sound judgement and exceptional clarity . . . excellent examples of the best types of foreign correspondence."

By striking contrast to this citation, Malcolm Muggeridge, the famed British author, editor of Punch and in 1932, Moscow correspondent for The Manchester Guardian, had an entirely different opinion of Times correspondent Duranty. For while Duranty kept categorically denying in his dispatches all the reports of Soviet-imposed famine in the Ukraine, Duranty admitted to his colleagues -- including Muggeridge -- that as many as 10 million Ukrainians had been deliberately starved to death, by order of Josef Stalin.

Muggeridge has therefore described Times correspondent Duranty as "the biggest liar I have met in 50 years of journalism."

By contrast to this, Comrade Stalin awarded Duranty the Order of Lenin, and further "honored" him by saying: "You have done a good job in your reporting of the Soviet Union."

Stalin further rewarded Duranty by arranging for him to accompany Maksim Litvinov to Washington, where the USSR was given diplomatic recognition -- even as millions of Ukrainians were being starved to death by this American-recognized dictatorship.

The New York Times is still justifying its publication of Duranty's monumental lies. Both film critic Vincent Canby and former Times foreign correspondent Harrison Salisbury have defended Duranty's lying, by explaining that he was not a communist ideologue, but merely a "calculating careerist" -- as if that were a valid defense for fraud.

The enormous influence which The New York Times has had on most other media, and upon modern US history (as a "newspaper of record") is illustrated by the fact that most Americans are not aware of Stalin's genocide by planned starvation in the Ukraine.

Harvest of Despair is the title and the content of a 55-minute documentary produced with the cooperation of Harvard University's Ukrainian Institute and the National Film Board of Canada. This massively researched documentary won the gold medal for TV documentaries at New York's 28th Annual International Film and TV Festival, which attracted 5,313 entrants from 44 countries, along with delegations from ABC, NBC, CBS, HBO, BBC, and Turner Broadcasting.

Harvest of Despair also won this festival's Grand Award Trophy Bowl, as the most outstanding entry of all 837 films entered. Yet none of these networks has been willing to televise this award-winning documentary. And Time magazine, which frequently focuses on anniversaries, when asked about the 50th anniversary of the Ukrainian genocide, replied loftily that it is "not considering such an article at this time."

This mass media cover-up of the starvation of some 10 million Ukrainians by the Soviet government may possibly be brought to an end -- by the publisher of The New York Times, Arthur Ochs Sulzberger.

At the annual meeting of The New York Times Company on April 30, I quoted Malcolm Muggeridge's denunciation of Duranty as a liar:

"Since Muggeridge, as well as British diplomatic records, reveal that Mr. Duranty of The Times knew full well of as many as 10 million Ukrainians starved to death -- and he said he knew this -- why haven't you returned Duranty's (Pulitzer) Prize, like The Washington Post returned Janet Cook's?"

SULZBERGER: That all took place when my grandfather was publishing the paper. The prizes are not awarded to newspapers; they are awarded to the individuals. The New York Times has received three Pulitzer Prizes for its coverage, but this prize was for the individual.

Q: But you've honored Duranty by putting him (his photograph) up on the wall (in the corridor near The Times private dining room, where all Pulitzer winners have their photographs on the wall.) Is Muggeridge wrong in your opinion?

SULZBERGER: I don't know.

Q: Would you be willing to investigate? Are you willing, by way of trying to correct the mistake of the past -- to which you said you are dedicated -- are you willing to direct that The New York Times give extensive coverage to this Harvard University Ukrainian Institute-Canadian Film Board project, Harvest of Despair, which won the gold medal and grand trophy among 5,000 entries, at this year's International Film Festival -- in New York?

SULZBERGER: I'll tell you what I'd certainly be willing to do: I'd be willing to ask our editors to take a look at this thing.

This could, of course, result in the said editors looking askance and doing absolutely nothing. On the other hand, the expressed willingness of their publisher to bring this scandal to their attention might possibly result in some sort of inaction in print that would constitute an apology for Duranty's news that was surely not fit to print.

Sorority elects officers

Eight new officers were recently installed by the Eta chapter of the Alpha Delta Kappa international teachers sorority at the Wortley Hotel in Lincoln.

The luncheon meeting was conducted by out-going president Charlie Cooper who was presented with a gift from the chapter.

New Mexico state president Iva Beth Hartman of Rio Rancho installed the new officers. They are president, Beth Nosker; vice-president, Dorothy MacVeigh; recording secretary, Eva Clarke; corresponding secretary, Mary Shanks; treasurer, Darla Lathan; historian, Angie Provine; sergeant-at-arms, Greta Cabot; and chaplain, Ofelia Salas.

Each officer received an African Violet plant from Provine and a miniature violet corsage from Hartman.

Guests were past state president Virginia Tingley of Roswell, Barbara Hays and Lou King of Capitan schools, Cathy Overdorf of Nob Hill school and Charlott Lee of Hondo school.

Eta chapter was honored at the recent Alpha-Delta Kappa state convention in Albuquerque by having three state officers elected from its membership. They are state-president, Nellie Ruth Jones; state sergeant-at-arms, Barbara Abbot; state candidate qualifications committee chairman, Betsy Firth.

Letters TO THE EDITOR

'No winners'

EDITOR--I am writing this letter before the results of the trial concerning the Carrizozo election are known. My question is this: Who is the winner in a case like this?

If we take a hard look at each one involved in this election, we will find that there are no winners. The city certainly is not a winner because of the publicity of the trial. The people who live in the city are not winners because it is hard to promote a city which can't seem to be united. Mr. Hemphill certainly is not a winner because even if he is found to be officially the mayor the time he has lost from work and the financial burden he has had to bear in attorneys fees would overshadow the victory.

Mrs. Kuhnel, even if she wins the court decision, would not be a winner because she has lost the backing and respect of many who originally supported her. The election officials who have served this community for many years, are not winners because of all the accusations that have been made against them, not counting the time lost while waiting to testify and the stress placed on them from the beginning of the election.

So I ask you, who are the winners? Even your paper may or may not be a winner depending on how fair the trial is covered by your reporters. I submit to you that there are no winners. Unfortunately, we all lose.

I am praying that this problem will be resolved quickly so that our city can begin working toward our future. Then, possibly, we might be winners.

JOHN R. TORRISON
Carrizozo,

Having it both ways

EDITOR--You think 40 years doesn't change things. Delve into this recent movement to pressure Congress into paying reparations to those Japanese people interned during World War II under the War Relocation Act of 1942.

If Congress appropriates the money, each person who was interned under the act will receive some $20,000, one report said $25,000. The total cost is estimated at $1.5 billion.

One who was interned at that time, a writer named Shoin Yamashita, says that a somewhat similar demand was made in December of 1942 by the evacuees interned at Poston, AZ.

According to Yamashita, the camp's resident representatives demanded $200,000,000, but they insisted that the damages be paid by the Japanese government. Communicating with Tokyo through the Spanish Consul in Los Angeles, the Poston camp's resident representatives demanded that the Japanese government pay each evacuee some $4,000 per year of internment.

Yamashita goes on to explain, "We all knew that the whole evacuation mess was caused by the act of Tojo government, not Washington."

Now, you can't have it both ways. But, isn't it interesting how a younger generation, 44 years from the scene, insists that it can see what happened back there in 1942 more clearly than those who were there?

Of course, the vision of a billion and a half dollars could have something to do with that.

RAYMOND C. WILSON,
San Juan Bautista, CA.

Here's an idea!

EDITOR--The United States is spending $350-$400 billion per year for defense.

I would like to suggest that you write your Congressman and two senators asking the question, in your estimation, who is the enemy of the United States?

The answer will probably be the Soviet Union. Why are we paying for huge defense budgets that are supposed to defend us from Communism while our leaders supply aid and promote trade with virtually every Communist nation? Why doesn't the president cut off aid, trade, technology and US financing to the Soviet Union?

Congress has all the power that is necessary to fatally weaken the Soviets. It can pass legislation denying them the trade, technology and credits that have enabled them to take over two-thirds of the world, including relatively tiny Nicaragua.

A visit to the CFNP

EDITOR--On April 6, 1986 I had my daughter-in-law call Rosemary Zink, the certified family nurse practitioner in Carrizozo, to see if she could see me because I was not feeling well, and had a temperature of 103.8.

During the conversation my daughter-in-law was having with Rosemary Zink, she refused to see me due to a $38 bill that I owe her. She also stated that because every time I whistled, she was supposed to jump, and that she didn't give a damn about Delia; that she was no miracle worker. Is that the kind of a CFNP we want here?

She also said that if I wanted to see her it would cost me $25 for something, possibly for a shot, and $10 for something else.

I'm not the only person that she has refused to see. As a result, I was taken to Ruidoso Hospital that evening and was diagnosed as having pneumonia.

What we need here is a CFNP or physician who is concerned about one's health and not about the money.

DELIA S. BELTRAN,
Carrizozo.

Capitan News

By Margaret Wrench

This area received 3/4-inch of moisture in rain and snow showers after midnight Saturday to near noon, with 22° temperature.

Strange happenings are the reason my readers did not get the news last week. Monday, May 12, I mailed that newsletter and it was weighed and sent with proper postage. It arrived in Carrizozo, envelope torn and postage due on Thursday. Why? The news promised that that news and this week's will be in this week's issue.

The Annual Memorial Day Service at Angus Cemetery will be observed Sunday, May 25, with the usual program. Preaching service at 11 a.m., basket lunch at noon, followed by the annual business meeting. It is important that all interested persons attend this meeting. Thank you, Chloe Peters.

There were 580 registered visitors at the Smokey Bear Museum, May 12-18. A science group of 18 from White Mountain School in Pinetop, AZ enjoyed it there the 15th, and 23 kindergarten students from Capitan visited it and the park.

The Capitan Roundtable Club met in the home of Amoleene McIntosh in Roswell last Thursday. Gladys Pew and Hattie Phillips were the only two members absent. Guests were Shirley McIntosh, Bill Edwards, Nona Barnett and Dixie Edwards. Mrs. Edwards gave us a talk on wills and living trusts. Winifred Cozzens won the raffle. Alice Traylor reported on tea served in the Ruidoso Home, and refreshments served during Capitan Clean-Up Day.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Maureen Sullivan.

Everyone be sure to attend the graduation Saturday at 5 p.m. in the multi-purpose building at Capitan High School. Come show these youngsters how proud we are of them.

The senior class traveled to Phoenix, AZ for their senior trip. They have had a hard time getting organized, but thanks to Sue Townsend, class sponsor, things finally got going.

The 1986 senior class of Capitan High School will walk across the stage to receive their diplomas Saturday, May 24, at 5 p.m.

Processional will be the Capitan music department. Invocation will be given by Perry Jones. Honor addresses will be given by Stephanie Stowe and Leslie Guck.

Congratulations, Capitan seniors have been offered numerous scholarships from area colleges and universities.

The Capitan girls came in 3rd at the state track meet in Albuquerque, behind Tatum and Ft. Sumner.

The athletic banquet was held Tuesday night at school.

The high school students are taking their semester tests Thursday and Friday.

Sandy Ward and Dean Shelby will be married May 25 at the Ward residence in the Ft. Stanton Estates. All friends are invited.

Jerry and Janet Tate are grandparents to Alyx Nicole

Sheehy, new daughter of Tony and Debbie Sheehy of Nogal.

In memory of Dr. Mark J. D'Elia who died May 8, just two weeks and a few hours after the fatal one-car accident. He was in intensive care at St. Mary's Hospital in Roswell. Rosary was held at St. Eleanor's Catholic Church in Ruidoso, May 9, and the funeral Mass was held there at 9 a.m. Saturday.

The doctor was a very fine man and a gentleman as well. Most assuredly a dedicated doctor. To know him was to love him, as all of his many patients will verify. They came from near and far from over United States and Mexico and India. He never let people on. After x-rays and tests, he would tell them the truth. If he felt he could help them, he would say so. He gave his all to his profession with all sincerity to his every patients. He was kind, thoughtful and loyal to his family and his practice. God truly gave him a talent and the doctor learned it correctly, he can never be replaced. May God give him rest, peace and quiet. He has earned it.

Carrizozo Booster Club Treasurer Lucy Rickman, right, presents a check for $670 to Carrizozo School Superintendent Dennis Sidebottom to help with expenses for 9 girls to attend volleyball camp in June. The Booster Club raised the money through bake sales, dinners, raffles and cake auctions. Total expense of the camp is $1665. Linda Gibson, left, represents Parents for Volleyball.

Mr. and Mrs. Lesley Watts of Midland, TX, were guests at the Hitchen Post Lodge. They are friends of the Potters.

A school for election of officers will be held May 27 at 9 a.m. in the commissioners room in the courthouse in Carrizozo. This same school will be held again on May 29 at the Ruidoso library.

Welcome to Calvin and Sarah Wiloughby, new residents in Capitan, May you have years of happiness with us.

election. The Left is in disarray everywhere in this country, and this ridiculous propagandea device can only be the hyping of hunger to the best-fed people in history. These millions of misled and misguided musards, 500,000 of them in New Mexico alone, could better solve any hunger problem by dropping their hands to apply them to pick and shovel to earn some money to combat hunger—if they can find any.

MEANTIME, a productive nation put its business on hold while these millions perform for their unseen masters. Those endless lines of big trucks along Highway I-40 must pull over and wait out the senseless scenario. There will be massive traffic foul-ups from coast-to-coast. Police and emergency agencies will be over-taxed. Millions of dollars in wages will be lost. Hospitals and ambulances will be directed to six million hand-holders instead of to those in better need of them. Sanitation facilities will be lacking. What a glorious event! And when it is over, all six million should be required to troop back to the 3rd grade to acquire a better understanding of what America really does to deserve her reputation as the best-fed nation on earth.

I support the candidacy of Garrey Carruthers for governor in the June 3 primary election. All six Republican candidates for the office support the right-to-work legislation that passed the New Mexico Legislature last year but was vetoed by Democratic Gov. Toney Anaya. Carruthers was singled out as "waffling" on the right-to-work proposal. However, I spoke with Carruthers on the phone last week. He assured me that he has said he supports the proposal, and that he means it. In a newspaper interview, Carruthers is quoted as proposing that employees already locked into forced-unionism be required to remain in them, even if a right-to-work law is enacted. True, Carruthers said. "But I said my first choice was for a strong right-to-work law. Then I listed several alternative in case no right-to-work law could be passed. One of these was that present union members be permitted to hold membership in unions, but newcomers to the labor market be covered by right-to-work. The reporter ignored my first choice and hit on my last alternative." That being the case, I support Carruthers for the governorship. But I will never vote for any person, however else highly qualified, who does not believe that it is wrong to force an individual to join a labor union against his will.

POLICE BEAT

By P. E. CHAVEZ

The case remains on hold regarding the incident where a local juvenile was assaulted by an unknown assailant or assailants late Wednesday evening, May 7. The youth was jumped as he walked by the blinking amber lights south of the town by the railroad tracks.

Police said Joseph Candelaria and Wayland Hill Jr., who were sitting across from the Outpost Bar, noticed the injured youth as he staggered down Hwy. 54 by the bank. The two approached the youth for assistance and escorted him to the sheriff's department to report the incident.

An ambulance was called for the victim, who was transported to Ruidoso and then to Roswell hospitals, suffering from head and neck injuries.

Sheriff's department investigator Byron Baker was asked next day to assist in the case which is still under investigation. Two suspects were detained but later released, according to police log.

MONDAY, May 12 9 p.m. Polly E. Chavez reported to local police that she had received an anonymous telephone call. The agitated young male caller reprimanded Chavez for featuring teens and alcohol abuse in her column, "By the Way," which appears in the Lincoln County News and the Recorded Times of Lincoln County.

The youth claimed that his parents allow him to hold "alcohol parties" and warned Chavez that she should cease writing on the subject, "before you get hurt." Mountain Bell and the sheriff's department were advised of the threat.

WEDNESDAY, May 14

4:30 p.m. Neva Ventura, Lincoln County Abstract Company, reported to the police department continuing vandalism to the business location at 409 Central Ave. Step rails and a business sign have been broken; there has been littering of trash, and a polycart is missing.

Ventura requests that local youth be prohibited from assembling on the steps of the business between 5 p.m. and 8 a.m. Town policeman Richard Baker has been advised of the situation.

THURSDAY, May 15

6 p.m. Municipal court action against Brian Vigil, 21, included a dismissal on the charge of driving on suspended license. The man produced a current valid driver's license. Ortiz deferred sentencing on the careless driving charge until Vigil makes restitution to the owner of the vehicle parked on a town street on May 10. There were no injuries.

SUNDAY, May 18

2:35 a.m. A resident on B Avenue reported to the sheriff's office an attempted break-in. The head of the household had driven into his driveway when he spotted a person at his front door. The resident detained Robert Otero, 37, Tularosa, until Baker arrived. The officer placed the intoxicated man in county jail for detoxification.

6:55 p.m. Betty Howell, reported to the sheriff's department that her pet poodle had been severely mauled. Howell and her dog were on their daily walk down E

Avenue when a dog charged out into the street and attacked her poodle. The 10-year-old male dog required an overnight stay at a Ruidoso animal hospital at a cost of $56.99.

Baker was told that the offending animal belonged to Joe Padilla. Howell, who wanted to file a complaint, was told by Baker that she needed to talk to Municipal Judge S. M. Ortiz to handle the matter. The complainant will be at municipal court Thursday, May 22, at 6 p.m. to seek justice in an incident that is covered by an ordinance.

9:38 p.m. A local resident reported an unknown person or persons inside the fenced area of Nickels Hardware on Central. On his arrival at the scene, Baker reported negative contact. He called for assistance from Sheriff's Deputy Charles Flanagan.

11:27 p.m. An unknown observer reported a possible drunk driver near the over-pass. Baker was dispatched to Hwy. 380 at the bottom of the overpass where a local man's vehicle was off the road. The driver told Baker he had a tire blowout.

According to last months police report (as submitted to the town council) April cases investigated by town police that have been closed are listed in the following manner:

"Prowler, drunk, arrest, missing bike, vandalism, 10-44 (accident-no injuries), dog, loud noises, assist, disorderly subject, prowlers, 10-47 (drunk driver), missing daughter, disturbance, careless driving, missing daughter, Lloyd fighting, assist ambulance, dogs knocking over dumpsters, kids riding 3-wheelers on gold

ON MY OWN

By Pat Kite

The telephone call

My daughter has been awake half the night waiting for this fellow to call at 9 a.m. It is now 10:23 a.m. She stares at the phone. Her stomach is upset, her heart is breaking.

"What should I do now?" she asks her solo parent advice factory at 10:47 a.m.

Ordinarily I would say "pick up the phone, dial the dude and ask what time the movie starts tomorrow." But, like most single's things, it's not that easy.

First, my daughter is rather shy. Second, she was the one who asked him out, and it took all her nerve. Third, the reason she asked is he has been flirting with her at work, she developed a crush on him and figured it would be forever if she waited for him to gather up the nerve to ask her out. So she blurted out "How about if we go to a movie and get a chance to talk some more?"

The young man eagerly accepted the invitation. This made my daughter's heart leap with joy. She gave him her telephone number. Which is where the plot thickens.

The young man, being relatively new in town, claims he can't remember his phone number. In lieu, he gives her his address. (Did he truly not remember his phone number? Or did he just not want her to have it?)

It is now 11:14 a.m. "Should I go over to his apartment and ask why he hasn't called?" my kid mumbles sadly, dreams shattering about her feet.

(Has he not called because he forgot? Has he not called because he doesn't want to? Has he not called because something urgent has come up? Has he not called because he lost her phone number?)

"I don't think you should go over to his place. He is liable to think you are pursuing too avidly and be frightened away."

"I could put a note in his apartment mailbox," the kid says hopefully.

"What if the mail has already been delivered and he doesn't check the box again today?"

"I know what his car looks like," she says. "I could leave a note with my phone number under the windshield."

"Wait until this afternoon," I caution. "Just in case something urgent did come up and he really means to call. If you act too rapidly, you take away his masculine initiative." (I sort of skipped over the possibility of his not using the car or some stranger removing the note.)

She waits. I go grocery shopping. I return. It is now 1:17 p.m. "He called," she says.

"Oh?"

"He overslept. He kept yawning on the telephone." I sigh with relief. One more household problem solved. The kid is now happy. The kid is now happy?

"He kept yawning on the telephone," she repeats. "Does that mean our conversation bored him? I don't want to be boring tomorrow. What can I talk about so our conversation will be exciting?"

She looks at me hopefully. I remind myself I have to take out the garbage. Taking out the garbage is often a great response when asked for romantic advice.

Birthing room welcome addition to hospital

By HELENE McCOY

Almost a year ago, the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital Auxiliary raised and donated $25,000 to the development of a new addition to the hospital, a "Birthing Room."

The grand opening was celebrated in mid-February 1986, although the first patient to use the room was admitted on October 26, 1985.

Katie Wickware, an assistant hospital administrator, showed the room, "It's a very special room," she said, "where mothers can give birth in an atmosphere just like home."

The birthing room provides a sharp contrast to the traditional austere operating delivery room, Ms. Wickware added.

Special, low-risk pregnancies, like uncomplicated births and deliveries, are the criteria for mothers who want to use the birthing room.

The hospital offers a new O.B. package that includes traditional delivery room or the use of the birthing room. The cost can be as low as $900. (It does not include the physician's fee or circumcision). It does include a 36-hour-or-less hospital stay, child birth classes and a champagne dinner for the mother and father.

Wickware explained the birthing bed used in the room is highly mobile and can be easily rolled to the operating room, if necessary. "The mother can give birth in the birthing room, just like old-time home delivery."

The birthing bed is a totally new concept and design. It is adjustable to different positions allowing the mother to respond to the signals of her own body during labor and birth. "The bed can be adjusted to the most comfortable position, making birth easier," Wickware said.

The mother's hands and arms are free. The mother can position herself and bend forward, a long way from the flat delivery table where the mother had to lay on her back, and was sometimes strapped down said Wickware, who is also a registered nurse.

At the time of the visit, the birthing room was occupied by Betty Silhan-Beier, mother of a new baby boy. The proud mother was happy and shared her enthusiasm. Silhan-Beier has been a registered nurse in the operating room for the past 7 years at the hospital.

Mrs. Silhan-Beier said it was her third child, but the first she has had in an environment like the birthing room. She said she felt "relaxed" and "much more at home" in the room.

There has been a lot written about the emotional stress to mother and baby immediately before and after birth.

She said the decoration of the birthing room had a positive, emotional impact on her and the baby, and the family relationship. "I felt just like I'd given birth in my own home, with the safety and convenience of hospital delivery," Mrs. Silhan-Beier said.

Soft peach and blue drapes cover and hide the hospital equipment attached to the wall. The furnishings—an oak baby bassinet, a combination dressing table on wheels, and oak chest of drawers, oak rocking chair, and in the corner a large overstuffed recliner - added to the warmth of the room.

The opposite wall, covered by a soft flowery-patterned wall paper, and a large oak framed mirror also add a cheeriness not found in a regular hospital room.

Mescalero Apache run

MESCALERO--The Mescalero Apache Super 9-Mile and 3-Mile Runs will take place Saturday, May 24, beginning at the Tribal Store.

Check-in time is 7 a.m., and the race starts at 8 a.m. In the 9-mile run there will be 1st, 2nd and 3rd overall prizes. In the 3-mile race, 1st, 2nd and 3rd awards go to the finishers. T-shirts will be given to the first 90 participating entrants.

There will be an awards ceremony after the races, at approximately 10 a.m.

Entry fee is $7 before the race date, $8 the day of the race. Entries should be mailed to Joseph Via, Box 396, Mescalero, NM 88340.

"You can watch in the mirror from the birthing bed, the birth and delivery," Mrs. Silhan-Beier said.

A large designer rug, matching curtains and comforter also created a safe home-like atmosphere for the mother, baby and family.

Wickware said the birthing room is a welcome addition to the hospital. "It gives parents the option of a home-like birth, without the risks."

Ruidoso biology trip nets sea creatures

By RIGO CHAVEZ

Landlocked New Mexico seems like an odd place to observe sea creatures, but that's just what they do in the marine biology class at Ruidoso Middle School.

Of course, the marine life has to be imported and kept in salt water aquariums.

Recently 26 students—22 eighth graders, two seventh graders and two freshmen—traveled to the beaches of Northern California to collect new specimens for the class.

"We brought back 75 specimens including shore crabs, purse crabs, hermit crabs, limpets, anemones, sea cucumbers and snails," said Jackie Branum who teaches the course.

Packed in styrofoam ice chests, the sea creatures all survived the bus ride back to Ruidoso, she said.

While in California the students visited Sea World in San Diego, Knott's Berry Farm in Buena Park, Marineland in Rancho Palos Verdes, Anahelm's Disneyland, Monterey Bay beaches and the Monterey Bay Aquarium.

Knott's Berry Farm, an amusement park, and Sea World ranked among the two most like attractions.

"Sea World with Shamu the Killer Whale was best," said Kari Barrick, an eighth grader.

Craig Sears said he enjoyed Sea World because it demonstrated what sea animals can be trained to do.

"We got a behind the scenes look at the Sea World animals, something the regular tourist wouldn't see," Ms. Branum said. "We saw how they are trained and what has to be done to ship an animal."

Most of the samples the students collected came from the Monterey Bay beaches.

Eighth grader Perk Heid agreed. "I wish we could have had more time to collect things on the beach," he said.

Now that they are back in the classroom, the students will observe the creature's behavior and eating habits.

"It gives the students some idea of what animals can be put together in an aquarium too," Ms. Branum said.

All the marine biology students are required to have Campaigning: Ben Hall of Ruidoso chats with Republican gubernatorial candidate Collin McMillan.

Capitan FFA passes out annual awards

Sixty members of the Capitan Future Farmers of America had their Spring Awards Banquet the evening of May 5.

Those receiving awards included: Star Greenband, Sarah Dockery; Star Chapter Farmer, Robbie Runnels; Honorary Chapter Farmer, Dr. Leonard Hays; Outstanding Senior Vo-Ag Student, Merry Sue Hogan; Hustler Award, Mark Valenzuela.

Other awards included outstanding judging in the following categories: dairy, Johnny Castillo; entomology, Johnna Patterson; horse, Travis Frey; land, Hoss Stewart; livestock, Mike Lum; meats, Marnie McDaniel; poultry, Johnna Patterson; wildlife, Robbie Runnels; and wool, Ronald Joiner.

The Capitan FFA is currently working on its BOAC (Building our American Community) project. The Village of Capitan has paid for streets signs and the necessary materials, and they are being installed in the subdivision by FFA members.

Teacher/adviser Mark Daugherty said that about 10 of his students plan to attend the State FFA Convention this June in Las Cruces.

Volleyball before Corona school board

Corona School Board met last week for its regularly scheduled monthly meeting and discussed the issue of offering volleyball next fall. The matter was tabled until next month to allow more time to study the question.

In other business, the board hired Trish Faykus of Deming to fill the vacated special education teaching position. The board also agreed to offer drivers education this summer.

—accepted a bid from Mitchell's of Albuquerque for refinishing of the gym floor.

—changed board policy concerning student work days. Students are now allowed three excused "personal leave" days rather than the previous three "work" days.

Jamie Widner, Corona agriculture teacher and FFA sponsor, explained to the board his efforts to form an FFA Booster club and its goals.

Corona Athletic Booster Club reported its volleyball tournament was a success and requested that the club retain exclusive rights to a volleyball tournament as a moneymaking project each year.

an aquarium at home and are encouraged to take specimens home with them.

At the Monterey Bay Aquarium, the students went snorkeling in a barrier reef and got an up-close look at marine life that inhabits the reef. "We even saw a trigger fish," said Sears.

Before the students left for California, they studied most of the creatures they would be seeing. "But, it's alot different reading about it in a book and actually being able to see and touch the animals," Ms. Branum said.

"The students learn so much without realizing they're learning. And at the middle school age, they stay with things longer than older students might," she said adding that the marine biology class in Ruidoso is the only one she knows of that is offered to middle school students.

Ms. Branum said that next year she hopes to take the students to San Diego for a week because of the variety of sea life in that area.

All the students paid their own expenses and were accompanied by Buddy Bundick and David Sailor, both of whom had children making the trip.

Diorly and Darrell Steirwalt, also made the trip with Mr. Steirwalt driving the bus.

"Seeing the students get excited when they spotted an animal and knocked down by the waves was the best part for me," Ms. Branum said about the 8-day trip that was made over springbreak, March 28-April 5.

Commission approves airport road plan

By RIGO CHAVEZ

The State Highway Commission has authorized $600,000 for a feasibility study to determine the best route for a road leading to the site of the proposed Sierra Blanca Airport on Fort Stanton Mesa, airport commission chairman Ken Nosker announced recently.

Nosker told commission members at a meeting last week that Bill Lee of the New Mexico Highway Commission had informed him of the funding allocation. "He'd like us to give the highway department some input on where we'd like the road," Nosker said.

After a brief discussion, the commissioners approved a resolution stating that they supported the road laid out in the airport's master plan.

That road goes west from the airport site to Highway 37. Nosker said he supported that alignment because several of the property owners in the area have already offered their land for the road right-of-way.

Commission member Conrad Buchanan, who represents Ruidoso Downs, said he thought that "there is only one choice, that is to come to 37." He added that the commission should look at exerting pressure on the state to improve State Road 214 which leads from Ft. Stanton to Glencoe.

The commission formally approved the contract for the newly hired airport administrator, Fred Heckman.

Heckman will be paid $60 per hour for not more than $1,500 hours per year or up to $90,000 until the airport is completed or three years, whichever comes first.

For travel expenses

Heckman will be paid $55 per day and reimbursed 24 cents per mile for car travel in addition to the $60 per hour.

Earl Cooke, of Leadhill and Herkenhoff, the project's engineers, reported that work on the well is continuing, although there have been some problems.

"In the past week they hadn't progressed one inch because of some problems with water recirculation. They should meet their June 13 completion date though," Cooke said.

Other problems encountered were a drill bit which froze up and could not be moved and a backflow valve which fell into the hole and had to be retrieved before drilling could continue.

Cooke also told commissioners that the State Engineer's Office had informed the well contractor, Rodgers and Co., that the well would have to be cemented.

Cooke said that the Albuquerque office of the Federal Aviation Administration had received final comments from the US Fish and Wildlife Service on the site's environmental assessment and would be submitting their comments to the FAA's Fort Worth office by the end of the week.

Heckman said he believed the evaluation by the FAA was "moving along on a timely basis," and that the commission should try and be patient. "We will do everything we can within the law to keep things going," he assured the commission.

A discussion on what the Fish and Wildlife Service might require airport planners to do with regard to the Kuenzler hedgehog cactus, which has been found in the area and is an endangered species.

Cooke said that the cacti will probably have to be fenced or removed.

Suzanne Cox, Lincoln County manager, reported that all the government entities represented on the commission—Ruidoso, Ruidoso Downs, Capitan, the county and the Mescalero Tribe—have paid their yearly $500 contribution to the SABC's regular fund and the fund has a balance of $5,989.93.

She said the improvements account, which has funded with a $300,000 state grant, has a balance of $198,513 with $69,620.29 in bills outstanding.

Buchanan moved that the outstanding bills, which included money owed to attorney Steve Sanders and the engineers, Leadhill and Herkenhoff, be reviewed by Heckman and be paid as soon as possible.

Responding to a question about the Mescalero Apache Tribe's support of the airport given the continued absence of tribal chairman Wendell Chino from SABC meetings, Heckman said Chino had told him that a representative would be attending the meetings in the future.

"He is very interested and supportive in what we do," Heckman said adding that he talks with Chino on a regular basis.

WILLIAM L. KARN

Karn enters race for commission

William L. Karn, a candidate for the Republican nomination for Lincoln County Commission in District III, believes that his experience with budgeting and lobbying will make him a good commissioner.

Karn, a 13-year resident of Ruidoso, served on the Ruidoso Village Council from 1984 to 1986. "Because of my experience with the village's budget, I can help Lincoln County with any budget shortfall from declining revenues," Karn said.

He added that his experience also taught him to "shuffle funds so that services don't have to be cut back, and to be responsible with taxpayers' money."

Karn said his lobbying efforts helped get funding approved by the New Mexico Legislature for four new bridges in Ruidoso. "And I'll do all I can to help any community in Lincoln County that might have a problem."

He said he will work to attract more industry to complement the county's tourism base. A graduate of New Mexico Military Institute, Karn holds a bachelor's degree in psychology from the University of Texas at El Paso.

Karn owns a construction business in Ruidoso and has interests in cattle ranching and oil and gas leasing. He and his wife Carol are active in several civic organizations.

$5,000 reward for murderers

On or about Nov. 13, 1984, Lincoln County rancher Thomas P. "Cotton" McKnight and his wife Judy were murdered execution style in their ranch home near Picacho.

It is known by phone calls made, that the McKnights were alive at 5:30 p.m. on Nov. 13. By 6 p.m. they were not answering their phone and are assumed dead at that time. The road leading to the McKnight ranch is, for the most part, isolated. Any movement on that road should have been noted that night or the next day. Unfamiliar vehicles or people in the area should also have been noted.

The McKnight's bodies were found in the kitchen of their ranch house. Cotton had been shot three times with the final bullet to the back of the head. Judy had been shot twice with the final bullet to the back of the head. This execution style killing is totally out of character for the residents of the area. Joe McKnight, father of the slain Thomas P. "Cotton" McKnight, is offering a $5,000 reward for anyone furnishing information leading to the ar-

AMERICANS HELPING AMERICANS

Mayor John B. Salvo and Moriarty council members have asked Carrizozo municipal officials to participate in the May 28 Hands Across America (HAA) project.

The project is an effort to end hunger and homelessness in America while raising between 50 to 100 million dollars to combat the serious problem.

Sunday, May 25 thousands of New Mexicans will join six million other Americans to form a human chain across our nation. The event involves forming a chain of people from Los Angeles to New York between 1 and 1:15 p.m.

New Mexico is one of 16 states and the District of Columbia that will be on the route of the HAA line. Moriarty is the point on the HAA route closest to Santa Fe.

The invitation from Moriarty was read at the May 6 Carrizozo town meeting. The New Mexico League is in total support of the project. Entertainment and other events will be held at Moriarty.

TOWN MEETING VISITORS

New residents of Carrizozo, Bobby Wadsworth and his mother Ann Reed, attended the May 6 town meeting. Bobby has purchased the Crossroads and Frontier Motels from Weldon and Janie Spencer, Ann and Jack (Bobby's parents) are managers of the Crossroads. They are former residents of Grand Prairie, TX.

Bobby plans to open a tourist information center at the Frontier to promote Carrizozo. His daughter, Kim and her friend M. J. Norman will be in charge of the center. The rest of Frontier will become an arts and crafts market place. Plans include a mini-park. Sounds interesting and good for the community.

Bud Payne is in race for commissioner

J. O. "Bud" Payne, born and raised in Lincoln County, announces his candidacy for County Commissioner District II.

Payne has spent his life in ranching, except a few years in the army during World War II. He is now retired. His main concern is to keep the public lands open to the public, mainly the forest for the sportsman.

He is one of the county's first Emergency Medical Technicians and wishes to keep the EMTs and ambulances in good standing.

"We have good men running for this position, so we can't lose. I just need something to do. Vote Your Choice! Payne said.

morning and then went to the house, police officers said.

The youth, born in Tularosa, was to graduate this year from West Mesa High School. When he resided in Alamogordo, he was involved with baseball from Little League up to high school.

WARNING TO PEOPLE

Ozzy Osbourne appeared last Tuesday at Albuquerque's Tingley Coliseum. The British rock star says he has given up drugs and drink. The heavy metal musician has become a family man.

"I would hate for my kids to say, 'Mum, how did dad die?' and to have her answer, 'Well, he died of an overdose of drugs,' or 'He drank himself to death.' That's a horrible thing to leave your kids," said Osbourne.

Osbourne and his wife Sharon, who is also his manager, have three children, ages 2 months, 1 1/2-years old and 2 1/2-years old. He has two children from a previous marriage.

MISINTERPRETATION

Last October Osbourne was sued by the parents of a 19-year-old California youth, who shot himself to death while listening to Osbourne's music.

Osbourne said the youth's parents misunderstood his songs. "Suicide Solution," he said, "was nothing more than a warning to people on the dangers of drinking too much alcohol."

The songs words said Osbourne are: "Wine is fine, but whiskey's quicker. Suicide is slow with liquor."

and 18. Archers from Alamogordo, El Paso, Las Cruces, Arizona and Colorado entered the 2 day event. Archers came from 4 clubs in 3 states in Mexico for the competition. Mexican states represented were Nuevo Leon, Coahuila and Chihuahua.

The competitors shot 60 arrows for score with a possible score of 300 per day. Distances of the contests were 20 meters and 30 meters.

The 44 archers from the United States were accompanied by 3 factory representatives, 3 members of the news media and 11 family members.

A banner with "Welcome USA Archers" was across the front of the Victoria Hotel when the 2 buses arrived. The trip from El Paso took 5 hours with a stop at the Diaria de Juarez for a publicity picture of the travelers.

Hosts for the event were the Chihuahua Archers of Mexico. They named the event "The Archery Tournament of Union and Friendship."

The first International archery contest was held in November 1985 in Chihuahua. The next event for friendship between the 2 countries came when the Chihuahua archers came to Alamogordo in June 1986 for a Fun Shoot.

American guests were treated to an enchilada dinner on Saturday and Carne Asada on Sunday prepared by wives and family members of the Mexican archers. The atmosphere during the 2 day event was one of friendliness and companionship. Everyone appreciated the efficient management of the shoot by Mr. Campos and the effort by Mrs. Campos in supervising and helping prepare the meals.

Everyone attending received a pin in the shape of the state of Chihuahua with the Chihuahua Archer emblem on it. Winners received hand-made plaques at the end of the contest.

Special awards were presented to Micaela Russell, El Paso, as organizer of the event, Stu Ware, Alamogordo, as coordinator, Dave Russell, El Paso, as coordinator, Bill Sparks, Pro-Line factory representative, Jack Head, Hoyt/Easton factory representative, Jim West, factory representative for Golden Eagle and American, and Robert Duke, vice-president of the New Mexico Bowhunters Association. Special media awards were presented to Tony Genta and Ronny Diaz of Alamogordo and Ruth Hammond, Carrizozo. The International contest will continue. Ware and the Russells are in the process of scheduling an event to be held in the United States with the archers of Mexico as guests.

Lincoln 'Ramblings'

By ROSALIE DUNLAP

Mrs. Inez Gunn of Logan, NM has been visiting her daughter and her family, Sharon Daughtery, and Mr and Mrs. Gary (Susie) Morton.

Heritage Trust, and Lincoln County Commissioners for making the sign a reality. Prior to the sign dedication, everyone enjoyed a social hour of coffee, punch, cookies and cake.

There are a lot of our groups through Lincoln-Otero County Extension Homemakers and schools from New Mexico and El Paso, TX. Among some of the visitors have been the National Make-It Yourself With Wood co-ordinator Mrs. Wayne Krehbiel of Hydro, OK and the UNM Museum director.

Several members of the Lincoln County Historical Society worked at Dr. Woods' house, so it is ready for the opening Memorial Day weekend.

The Artisans of Lincoln Historic area had a nice show at the Worley Hotel Saturday and Sunday in spite of rain and snow. Saturday morning, although it was only scheduled for Saturday, everyone had such a good time, they came back Sunday.

Clark Pflingsten was a big hit with his artifacts and hand-made toys. Others showing were Gary Morton, Elisa Phillips, Doria and Joe Salazar, and Horace Cordova; paintings; Glenn Dennis, sculpture; Leota Pflingsten, woodcarvings; and Horace Cordova, jewelry.

How about all that rain and snow last Saturday? The Captains were still covered with snow Monday at noon.

Neighbors, friends, and family members attended the funeral of Edward Penfield Thursday afternoon. Services were held at the community church with burial at the Lincoln cemetery.

It was a breezy, but sunny day for the "Hanging In Lincoln" for the historic and sign dedication. Betty Shrecengost, president of the Lincoln Historic Preservation Board, was master of ceremonies. Among those she recognized for getting the sign foundation and frames up were David Lee, Chris Zamora, Mathew Borowski, Ralph Dunlap, Glenn Dennis and Ron Barone. Others recognized were past board members, New Mexico Highway Department, Lincoln

The reason for such a decision not to prepare such Statement is as follows:

Planning studies for activities authorized by Section 105 (a) (12) of Title I and listed in 24 CFR 570.205 and 571.205 are exempt activities.

The project will have no impact on the environment.

The reason for such a decision not to prepare such Statement are as follows:

1. The streets identified for the improvement project presently exist within the Town limits. The improvements will not substantially change the use or capacity of the streets.

2. The improvements are necessary for the health and safety of the residents of the Town. The improvements will not contribute to the growth of the area.

3. No negative effects are anticipated beyond the short term construction traffic, noise, and dust.

An Environmental Review Record for the project has been prepared by the Town of Carrizozo which documents the environmental review of the project and more fully sets forth the reasons why such Statement is not required. This Environmental Review Record is on file at the Town of Carrizozo, City Hall and is available to the public for examination and copy upon request between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:00 p.m.

No further environmental review of this project is proposed to be conducted, prior to the request for the release of Federal funds.

All interested agencies, groups, and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration by the Mayor. Such written comments should be received at the City Hall on or before June 9, 1986. All such comments so received will be considered and the Town will not request the release of Federal funds or take any administrative action on the project prior to June 9, 1986.

Cemetery project is nearing completion

Work at the Corona Cemetery is progressing and, according to project organizer Lee Roy Owen, "We are going a lot faster than we had expected."

The improvements are being done by private citizens, and the completed cemetery will be turned over to the Village of Corona.

Griffin Brothers of Tularosa volunteered their labor to build the stone entryway arch as a memorial to their father, Clarence Griffin, a former Corona resident. The brothers were recently in Corona and completed work on the archway. Stones were donated by Denny Wood and Al Muse of M&W Rock Co. of Capitan. Cotton Yancey built the wrought iron top that completes the archway, and it was put in place last week. Chain link fencing has been installed and at week's end, only one gate was left to be installed.

Members of the Corona 4-H Club have worked on the project, as have many other Corona area citizens. Mike Alirez, Melvin Sultemeier, Ellis Hodge, Elbert Owen, Lee Roy Owen, and Pete Porter contributed time and effort to the endeavor. Leonard (SI) Porter helped gather material and money through letter-writing; Clint Sultemeier, Gene Roper, and Earl Roper all put in a lot of hours of just plain hard work; Byron Yancey, Jim Young, Henry Chavez, Walter Garfield, Gene Garza, Silo Saiz helped with cleanup and installation of cattle guards.

Project committee members hope to run a water line to facilitate upkeep of cemetery grounds. Owen conceded that that could take a few more months, if money is available for that phase of the project. After completion of the improvements, a ceremony will be held at which time the official transfer of the cemetery to the Village of Corona will take place.

Cemetery Improvement project in Corona included laying new stones on the cemetery archway. Some of the many Corona area residents who donated their time, money or material were Yunk Griffin, Cleve Griffin, Garvin Griffin, Pete Griffin, Earl Roper, Gene Roper and Clint Sultemeier.

Students receive ACT awards

Valerie A. Garner and Stephanie A. Stowe, Capitan High School seniors, have been awarded 1985-86 ACT Scholar Certificates.

The awards go to seniors in New Mexico public and private high schools who have exhibited high achievement in academic skills, as evidenced by an ACT composite score of 26 or higher and a high school grade point average of 3.5 or better.

ACT is a standardized achievement test taken primarily by high school students who intend to enroll in a college or university. Less than 4 percent of all graduating seniors from New Mexico high schools receive an ACT Scholar Certificate.
