New property appraisal notices draw complaints

By RUTH HAMMOND

Lincoln County Commissioners announced at the July 8 meeting that the county and the assessor's office have been inundated with questions regarding the new property appraisals. Notices of the new appraisals were mailed June 30.

A bill passed by the state in 1983 mandated that property values be brought up to 1980 values by 1986. Property had previously been appraised at 1975 values.

The notices of valuation are not tax bills and will not reflect an increase of taxes in proportion to the increase in property value because the state legislature passed a yield control bill in 1985 which states that taxes may not be increased more than 5 percent in any given year.

According to Lincoln

County Assessor Marian Schlarb, the questions asked of her office center around the valuation being doubled or tripled and property owners are concerned that their taxes will also double or triple.

County Attorney Gary Mitchell stated that the evaluation of the property and the amount of taxes will be different because the state law says that taxes can not be increased more than the 5 percent per year. He said, "The law will be in effect until repealed."

Commissioners discussed the fact that the 1980 property evaluations are higher than they are now. The state mandated that by 1983 the assessment is to be at 1985 values. It was agreed that the 1980 to 1982 prices were inflated, and when property is reappraised at 1985 values it will probably make some property tax go down.

Mrs. Schlarb said property owners have 30 days from the date of mailing the new appraisals in which to protest the increase. The procedure then is for the property owner to go before the protest board.

Property appraisals were usually mailed by April 1 but were delayed this year due to the requirement by the state to reappraise all property. The mandate to reappraise property includes every county in the state.

In other business, commissioners adopted Ordinance 1986-1 creating "The Lincoln County Fair Board," setting out its membership, prescribing the board's duties and providing an effective date.

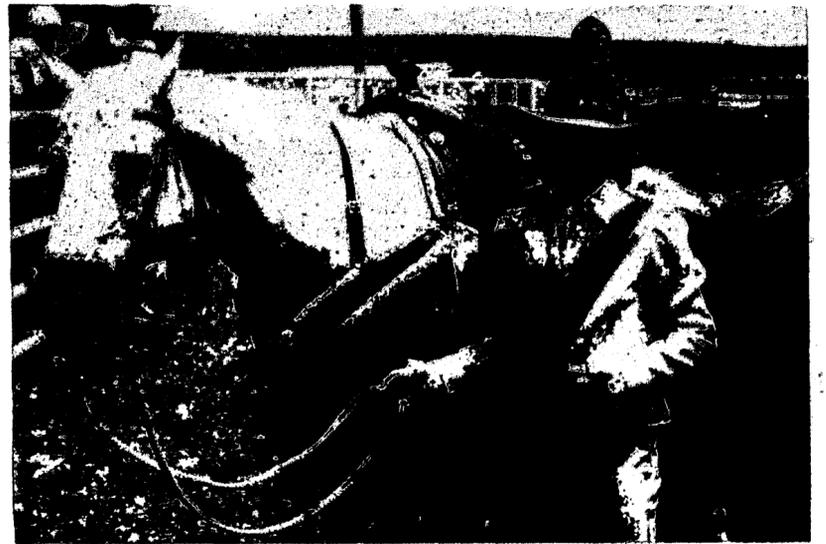

The Lincoln County Fair Board will consist of 15 members appointed by the Lincoln County Commission for three-year terms. Except for the county commission member, all nominees shall be submitted in writing to the county manager at least seven days before the appointment.

Ralph Dunlap presented commissioners with a quit claim deed to the proper property the fair board owns and the lease of the property by the commission to go in effect after the ordinance goes in effect in 30 days.

Burdette Stampley, as secretary and member of the board of directors of the Family Crisis Center in Lincoln County, gave information

$2.6 million for current airport purchase debated

By RIGO CHAVEZ

Ruidoso Village Councilors rejected a motion to postpone a June 29 public hearing to enact a .5 percent gross receipts tax to fund the purchase of the current airport site.

Buddy Bundick, a representative of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce Economic Development Task Force, asked for a delay while his committee researched other funding sources, including general obligation bonds, state funding or a federal grant.

"We have been working very hard on it, but we feel a two-week postponement would give us time to study things more in depth," Bundick said.

About the possibility of using general obligation bonds and a .25 percent gross receipts tax, Mayor Lloyd Davis Jr. said that he thought the village had reached its capacity on general obligation bonds.

"It would take the tooth fairy to get us authority for another G.O. bond," Davis said.

Village Councilor Ray Dean Carpenter and Fred Heckman, contract administrator for the proposed Fort Stanton Mesa Airport, said they were concerned that any delays in coming up with a plan to pay the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) for the 160-acre airport site would delay the new airport.

"The FAA would like to see this matter of the old airport land resolved and resolved quickly," Heckman said.

The appraised value of the current airport is $2.6 million and in order to retain possession of the land the village must pay the amount to the FAA.

In moving to postpone the hearing on the gross receipts tax increase, Councilor Victor Alonso said he thought the village needed to take more time and evaluate other funding sources.

Alonso's motion to postpone was supported only by Councilor Dub Holt.

"I think if we pass the half percent tax then everyone will forget about alternatives," Holt said.

Davis said that because the tax, even if it is approved, would not be collected until Jan. 1, 1987, there was still time to explore other funding alternatives.

"If we find one, we can repeal the tax before we start collecting it," Davis said.

In other action related to the purchase of the old airport property, the council approved an agreement with the Sierra Blanca Airport Commission (SBAC) allowing them to begin loan negotiations with the Farmer's Home Administration (FmHA).

Under the agreement, the SBAC would borrow the money for the village and the village would deed the airport land over to the SBAC as collateral until the loan is paid off.

Village attorney John Underwood had expressed doubt about the village's ability to deed public land to a private group like the SBAC.

"We got those problems worked out," he said. Heckman called the agreement "a hunting license," saying that it gives the SBAC a chance to hunt for funds.

Under an amendment added by the village, Ruidoso can approve or disapprove of any deal the SBAC may work out with the FmHA and can terminate the agreement at anytime before accepting the loan.

Councilors Carpenter, Elmer Pirelli and Jerry Shaw voted against entering into the agreement.

Holt also presented a proposal on the airport to use Lodger's Tax matching funds coupled with a quarter cent gross receipts tax increase.

"As a businessman I just can't afford another tax increase," Holt said noting that if the .5 percent increase is approved it will have raised Ruidoso's gross receipts tax by a full percent in less than a year.

Shaw said that about $170,000 in Lodger's Tax funds could be available from the 3 percent tax on motel rooms.

Davis said he would be opposed to using that money because it was supposed to be used for promotion.

County braces for suit

Lincoln County Clerk Fran Siddens received a letter on July 3, from Daniel A. Bryant of Parsons, Harris & Bryant, Ruidoso law firm, stating that he is representing Duane Shannon in his claim against the county. His claim stems from his (Shannon's) arrest following a six-month undercover operation conducted by the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department.

Shannon was arrested and charged with the crime of distribution of marijuana. A suppression hearing held April 22, resulted in the voluntary dismissal of all charges against Shannon.

Sheriff Tom Sullivan said, "Assistant District Attorney Harry Wilcox encouraged Mr. Shannon to sue the department. He did this in my presence and the presence of Chief Deputy Charles Cox. At that time, Mr. Bryant said there would be no lawsuit. Concerning the arrest,

Sullivan responded, "There may have been a question as to the identity of an individual in the case."

The letter of intent is pursuant to the appropriate provisions of the New Mexico Tort Claims act which require that a letter of intent be sent if anyone is planning to bring suit against any department of the county.

Sullivan also said, "It seems ironic that his (Bryant) law firm (Parsons, Harris & Bryant, P.C.) sued us on the same day Judge Parsons was ordered by the Supreme Court to call a grand jury in the McKnight case."

People's Market Fiesta date is set

Weekend festivities will get underway Saturday night, July 26, with a Mass at 7 p.m. in St. Rita Church. A Fiesta Dance scheduled for 9 p.m. at the Nike Tavern and Dance Hall will conclude Saturday's activities. Music will be provided by a well-known band from Albuquerque.

People's Market on Sunday, July 27 will get underway about 10 a.m.

The 11th Annual People's Market Place is set for Sunday, July 27, in Spencer Park, Carrizozo.

An entire weekend of family fun has been scheduled by St. Rita Catholic Church and the Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce. Exhibitors from flea market items to arts and crafts, antiques, jewelry and many other items will welcome the visitor.

BARBARA DICKINSON of Four Seasons Realty accepts an invitation for the annual Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce Banquet from Rod Wright and Heather Delling. "Ruidoso, Then and Now" is the theme for the July 17 banquet at Carrizo Lodge.

Chile bells—something new in Southwest art

By MICHELLE DeBERGE

Griswolds of New Mexico have a new Really Chile line that is taking over the Southwest, handcrafted chile bells.

Chile bells are ceramic wind chimes topped by a bell with three dimensional red chiles. Ann and Tom Griswold, founders of Griswolds of New Mexico, make all of their merchandise by hand. They presently live in Las Cruces but plan to move back to Ruidoso permanently in January.

Ann took art classes in high school where she learned to paint with oils and was awarded an art scholarship that she never took advantage of. She taught herself all of the crafts she knows including woodworking, knitting, and ceramics.

Ann loves crafts of all kinds and for the past 30 years they have provided her with "constant entertainment." Tom is a self-taught leather craftsman, and has sold much of his work in shows all around New Mexico.

Two months ago she made her first chile bell as a gift for a friend. Since then she has been busy. Presently she has a contract with a company that needs 600 chile bells for its 1987

Southwestern Christmas Catalog. These chile bells are made in three different sizes; the 12-inch bell with two red chiles, the 9-inch bell with one red chile, and the 4-inch bell with two red chiles. All chile bells have red chile clappers of various sizes.

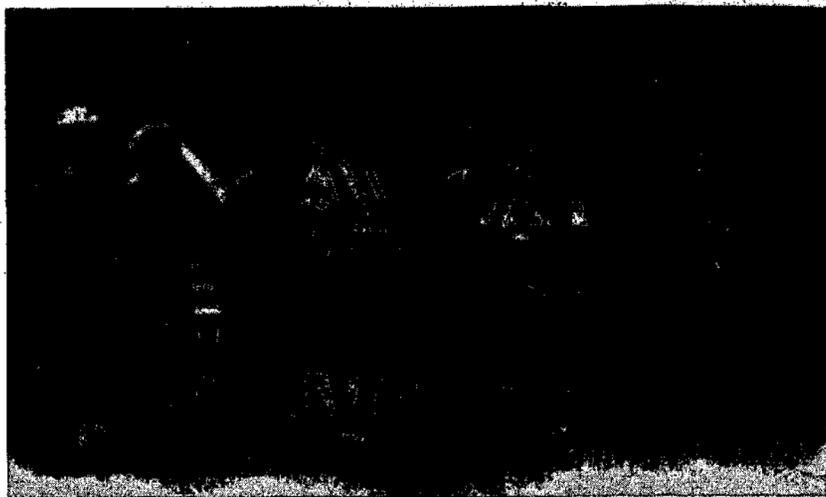

When making these bells, the clay is poured into plaster molds and exposed to air so that the water will absorb into the molds. The clay is then removed and allowed to dry for 24 hours. Once dry, the bells and chiles are painted with a san type texture glaze and are fired twice in the kiln.

For information concerning the chile bells write to: Griswolds of New Mexico, Box 2775, Las Cruces, NM 88004.

Ann Griswold attended many craft shows with her different products before the chile bells. "I originally intended to exhibit them in craft shows, but due to constant backorders, I have found it is virtually impossible to build up enough inventory to consider these shows at this time."

In the spring of '87, "Carlos Carrera and Crowd" will be added to the many different lines of Griswolds of New Mexico. It is a surprise line and "will be the conversation piece."

Andrew Wyeth

Portrait of a famous American painter

By REVA TALLMAN

Andrew Wyeth probably ranks as one of the most popular American painters of his time.

Wyeth, the brother of Henriette Wyeth Hurd of San Patricio, will celebrate his 69th birthday on July 12.

It was Henriette's husband, the late Peter Hurd, who taught Wyeth the demanding tempera painting techniques. Wyeth and Hurd studied with Wyeth's father, N. C. Wyeth, who was an illustrator and painter in Chadds Ford, PA, where Andrew was born.

The youngest of five children, Wyeth had sinus trouble and was educated at home by his parents.

He is probably best known for his realistic and thoughtful works of people and places in rural Pennsylvania and Maine.

His most popular tempera, "Christina's World," depicts a young crippled woman crawling in a field. It is displayed at the Museum of Modern Art in New York.

Much of Wyeth's work features uncrowded rural scenes that are reminders of earlier American life. His work includes paintings of abandoned boats on deserted beaches and old buildings with base windows and cracked ceilings.

Wyeth's style follows the tradition of Thomas Eakins and Winslow Homer, two realistic American painters of the 1800s. His work is often extremely detailed, almost photographic. Wind and fog seem as real as actual objects in Wyeth's work.

All of his figures are portraits of people he knew, especially his family and neighbors. Wyeth uses egg tempera, a medium which gives his paintings a smooth, delicate, and detailed surface. His watercolor method is called "dry brush."

Wyeth said in a 1965 Life magazine interview, "In the art world today, I'm so conservative I'm a radical!" Betsy Wyeth said in a telephone interview last week from the couple's home in Cushing, ME, that he has not changed his thoughts on that.

Married in 1940, the Wyeths maintain a second home in Chadds Ford, PA. They have two sons, Nicholas, a New York art dealer, and James, an artist.

Betsy Wyeth, might be viewed as the backstage muse for many of her husband's paintings. She has an intuitive flair for creating environments responsive to the artist's unspoken needs and helps foster his imagination through wide readings in history and genealogy, two of his own passionate interests. She is always alert and sensitive to the complexities of Wyeth's creative process.

Mrs. Wyeth has inspired and managed the meticulous restoration of a cluster of three 18th century buildings that once constituted a grain mill on the Brandywine. The Wyeths live in the miller's house, using the granary and mill for other family purposes.

Mrs. Wyeth said that her husband has not changed much over the years. Asked what his hobbies were, she replied "strictly painting." He wakes up every morning and starts working mostly with watercolors. According to Mrs. Wyeth, he completes about 20 paintings a year.

Wyeth thinks timing is one of the most important things in painting. Sometimes he will lay it down and let it rest. He wants to keep it fluid — to be able to dream about it. He starts every painting with an emotion, something he just has to get out. His "wild oat" side really comes out with watercolors. Watercolor nudes are also an addition to his repertoire.

Wyeth often goes into his studio and looks at his work in the dark, with maybe a moon outside, to enjoy it for a completely different reason — the abstract quality. That's why he would never let anyone watch him paint. He doesn't want to be conscious of himself. According to Wyeth, it would be like somebody watching you have sex — painting is that personal to him.

Wyeth does not like to have his prices publicized, because he feels sometimes they're very exaggerated.

He can think of nothing more exciting than just sitting in a cornfield on a windy fall day and listening to the dry rustle. When he walks through the rows of blowing corn, he's reminded always of the way a king must have felt walking down the long line of knights on horseback with banners waving.

He loves to study the many things that grow below the corn stalks and bring them back into the studio to study the color. If one could only catch the true color of nature...the very thought of it drives him crazy.

A wealthy man, he is very modest and lives a modest life. He doesn't like for people to think of him as being a millionaire. He socializes, but doesn't care to impress people with fancy cars or fancy clothes.

It's extraordinary for a person like Andrew Wyeth to bring life into his paintings. To be able to reach out and grab something in his thoughts that no one else can capture.

Because of artists like Andrew Wyeth, we have preserved the past so that it may nourish our future.

The Night Watchman

With a name like Casa Blanca, you would think that the Mexican specialties would be this restaurant's best bets. If you want your palate to come out a winner though, you'll avoid them.

I first tried this comfortably decorated restaurant with patio seating for lunch. I chose the day's special, beef enchilada at under $5. My companions decided to go with lighter entrees, the two of them opting for the generous club sandwich.

They were both very satisfied with their selection, I was not. The ground beef used to prepare my dish looked and tasted greasy.

The menu described the chile on the enchiladas as "red or green sauce." This was appropriate because there was almost none of the hot and spicy flavor normally associated with red chile sauce.

I ended the lunch with the cheesecake accompanied by cherries. The cherries were good. The cheesecake had more refrigerator flavors than a week-old box of Arm & Hammer baking soda. I was unable to finish it.

My second visit was for a late-night (after 10) dinner. The dinner menu, much more extensive than the lunch, features a number of Mexican appetizers, salads, hamburgers, Mexican food, steaks, a couple of chicken dishes and even some fish.

Always an optimist, I selected the carne asada—a 8-ounce steak topped with melted cheese and salsa. It was accompanied by guacamole and refried beans and at $8.95 was the most expensive of the Mexican entrees.

One of my companions chose the beef enchiladas with refried beans at $5.75, while my other friend had the 8-ounce filet at $11.95. We all had beer, though a full bar was available.

The entire meal served with the filet was rated "very good." She said they cooked her steak to perfection and it was quite tender.

My steak told a different story. It was undercooked and tough. As far as I could tell, the salsa contained no fresh ingredients and the refried beans had been housed in a very flavorful tin can before they appeared on my plate.

While my friend who had the beef enchiladas fared better with regard to the refried beans, he described his red sauce as "tomatoey."

During both visits our servers were friendly and attentive. Our dinner waiter, however, failed to check and make sure our steaks were cooked to our satisfaction.

And, on second try, the cheesecake was much improved and back to its smooth and creamy self sans the Frigidaire flavors.

One of my companions found the $1.75 apple pie a little too sweet, but with the apples crisp and tasty. — Rigo Chavez

Our thanks to the Lions Club for the display of fireworks on the 4th of July. We really enjoyed the evening. The Lions Club is still taking donations for the fireworks so contact Roy Dow. They are planning a bigger and better show for next year.

Have you been watching the century plant? It's still not in full bloom, but is so tall and heavy that it's leaning to the north. Does anyone know how often they bloom?

Glenn Ellison, who is the publicity chairman for the Pony Express, was thrown from a horse June 30. He is in the hospital in Alamogordo and the word is that he will be there for a while.

Don't forget the picnic at Ft. Stanton, July 18. Bring a sack lunch. The center will furnish cold drinks. The vans will leave the centers at 9:30 a.m. We encourage as many as possible to come to this outing. The centers will be open to those who can't go on the picnic.

Ernest Pittillo went back in the VA Hospital in Albuquerque last Tuesday. He spent five days in Scott and White Hospital in Temple, TX in June. We are all deeply concerned for Ernest and hope he gets better soon.

The center is having a pancake breakfast Saturday, July 12, 7 to 11 a.m. We will deliver, just call the center at 2121. Only $3 per person.

The rattlesnake clock, donated by Bud Payne, was won by Rose Lueras.

On a personal note: I would like to thank everyone for the cards and calls I received on the death of my sister, Gracie Conklin of El Paso. Carl Holden's garden didn't get completely washed out. He has been donating fresh squash, cucumbers and apricots to the center. But Carl says he planted a peach tree and now it's making almonds. Which just goes to show that some people don't know the difference between fruit and nuts!

Maydelle McDaniels is in the hospital in Las Cruces where she underwent surgery July 2. Send cards to 3305 Wesley, Las Cruces, NM 88301.

The center transports seniors to the hospitals and specialists in Alamogordo and Ruidoso when it is necessary. We received a very generous donation this week from one such participant of this service. Thank you!

It could happen only in Carrizozo—Even the eggs in Carrizozo are as tough as the people. One man dropped his raw egg from the spoon in the egg race, picked it up and threw it 50 feet and it still didn't break!

CAPITAN NEWS
Linda Padilla, who has worked for the center as van driver and the Out-Reach program for over a year, was promoted in June as site manager. Linda is married and has lived in Capitan for almost two years. She moved here from Roswell.

The center is raffling a ripple design afghan, donated and made by Helen Efthimiou, to be given away Aug. 3.

Dennis Cooper is in the hospital in Las Cruces. Cooper's son is a doctor and has his practice in Las Cruces.

Mrs. Orva Ayhens is now living in Arizona because of her health. We don't know when she will be able to return to Capitan. We miss her and hope she will be able to come home soon.

Helen Efthimiou is leaving for Florida on July 13 to visit her brother, who is very ill.

CC forms information committee

The Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce received 92 requests for information on New Mexico from the state. More requests for information are expected. During the July 8 meeting a committee was formed to respond to the requests.

Scott Shafer is chairman of the committee and volunteers to help answer are Dennis Sidebottom, Linda Haller, Bob Hemphill and Ruth Hammond.

It was suggested that sub-committees be formed to answer specific questions on economic development, industrial park, work force, etc. In other business, Shafer reported on the Christmas decorations. The minimum cost for decorations for the town would be $2,250 with a middle price of $2,925 and a maximum price of $3,200. Donations are being accepted for the Christmas decorations.

—People's Market will be held July 27 in Spencer Park. —A copy of the approved Finding of No Significant Impact for the development of the processed Sierra Blanca Regional Airport at Ruidoso was received for public inspection.

—It was announced that the Carrizozo brochures are out. There were 5,200 printed and half have been given out.

Carrizozo FFA has a busy summer

The Carrizozo chapter of Future Farmers of America held its annual awards banquet May 21.

Mary Jane Ferguson, a Carrizozo graduate and past chapter president, was the master of ceremonies. The guest speaker was Crystal Wooten, 1985-86 New Mexico State FFA president. Deana Calhoun, 1985-86 District 6 President and State Secretary, was also a guest at the banquet.

The Carrizozo chapter presented numerous awards to members of the club and community whom the chapter felt deserved special recognition. Among these awards was the coveted Honorary Chapter Farmer Degree. This award goes to people of the community who have donated their time and effort towards the advancement of the FFA. This year's Honorary Chapter Farmers were Steve Gore, Steve Harkey, and Jim and Mariann Patterson.

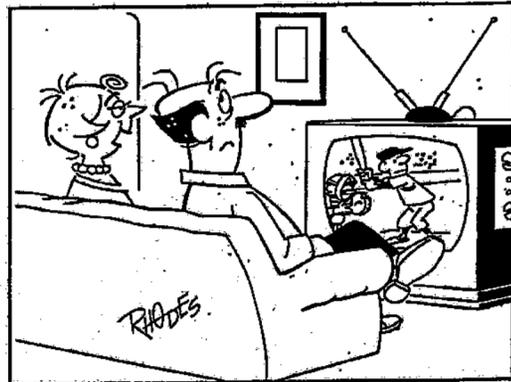

Carrizozo also sent delegates to the annual State FFA Convention June 9-11 in Las Cruces. The students attended, among other things, a workshop given by the current National FFA President Rick Malli. Jamie Patterson, Carrizozo FFA president, was elected District 6 FFA reporter. Other students who attended were Jeanna Sims, John Maxwell and Leah Patterson.

June 28 through July 1 were also important dates for Carrizozo. The chapter sent two delegates to the Third Annual Summer Leadership Camp near Cloudercroft. Jamie and Leah Patterson attended workshops on everything from alumni relations to etiquette.

OPINION

● IT is doubtful any of us will ever see a more magnificent, glorious and inspiring spectacle as the one held over the July 4 weekend to mark the 100th birthday of the Statue of Liberty and what the Great Lady symbolizes. Of all the tributes from US citizens representing every nation on earth, none capsules this renewed "feeling for America" as does the words of Doan Van Tuai, a Vietnamese. He spent a two-year nightmare in Communist Vietnam prisons before coming to the US in 1979 to become a citizen. He writes:

● "I have found (the United States) a blessed land, a place where one can work freely and give one's children a decent life, a place where one can be oneself and go about the business of life unafraid and unimpeded. I have also found that Americans are largely unimpressed by the peculiar beauties of their culture—the rights they enjoy. Perhaps it is the immigrants' function from generation to generation to remind them of what a treasure it is they own."

● THE Soviet's "useful idiots" in the United States (including the Union of Concerned Scientists who say the whole idea is preposterous and impossible) are uncuriously silent on results of a test in the Star Wars (SDI) research program. A few days ago at White Sands Missile Range, next door to Lincoln County, a supersonic missile with 216 small rocket motors in its nose struck and destroyed a moving target—a 134-inch drone flying at 44,000 feet at a speed of 2160 miles per hour, within seven seconds. The drone was traveling at three times the speed of sound. This marked the first time that such a missile had been fired at a moving target, and used its on-board guidance system to track and destroy the target by direct impact. Not so uncuriously, the Senate Armed Service Committee had just lopped more than $1 billion from the SDI budget. One more successful test, I hazard, will result in withdrawal of funds for the entire SDI program.

● DANIEL Ortega, president of Nicaragua, has denounced the US decision to grant $100 million in aid to Nicaragua's contras in their attempt to topple his Marxist government. Ortega said such an action will lead to US military intervention against his government. I earnestly hope his fears are realized, and soon.

● OUR lack of military intervention in Nicaragua will certainly lead to the establishment of a Marxist regime that will continue to export its ideology throughout Central America and Mexico, after which we will have a hostile Marxist force of great strength on our southern border.

● IF this hemisphere is to be free of Communist aggression, Ortega's government must be ousted. It cannot and will not be ousted without US military assistance. If we have any concern for our own national security, and if we have the slightest concern for the ultimate fate of the Nicaraguan people, the US will put its military might on the side of the contras.

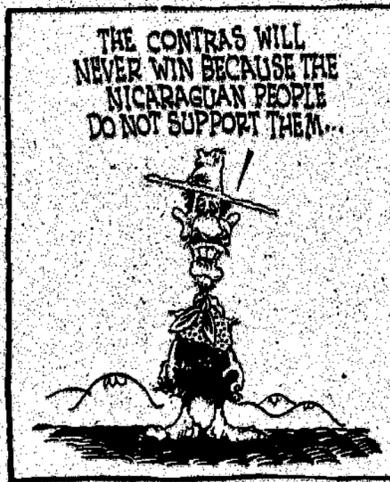

● HAD we adhered to the Monroe Doctrine and prevented Castro's take-over of Cuba, we would not now be faced with Communist aggression in Central America. President Kennedy is almost solely responsible for establishing what is now a Soviet bastion in the Caribbean, and which is now furnishing Soviet military hardware and advisers to Nicaragua. We have paid a heavy price for the vacillation, indecision and political paralysis of John Kennedy, who delivered Cuba to the Soviet Union. Because of it, we have Nicaragua. If the US Congress continues to vacillate and dally, Nicaragua will fall. If Nicaragua falls, so will all of Central America—and Mexico is waiting in the wings. Then we will have a strong anti-American military force on our border. If we can prevail over it at all, it will be at a terrible price.

● WHAT Nicaraguans think about what is happening to their country is no concern of mine. My concern is with the security of this nation, which requires a strong defense by striking the enemy wherever its head rises. I don't care about their "one man one vote" drive. Civil and human rights violations on either contra or Sandinista side are of no consequence. The issue is the survival of this country. Sure, some Nicaraguans will be killed. Well, better them than us. Or must we all believe, as some do, that this country should be destroyed to appease the notion of "self-determination" in Nicaragua?

● SINCE 1823 the national dogma of this country has been adherence to the principles of the Monroe Doctrine which says, "the American continents, by the free and independent condition which they have assumed and maintained, are henceforth not to be considered as subjects for future colonization by any European powers."

● THIS doctrine was pronounced to halt Russian aggression on the northwest coast of the United States in 1821. It was applied in the 1840s against Great Britain and France, who tried to prevent the annexation of Texas to the United States. It was invoked in a later dispute with Britain over Oregon and what we perceived as her efforts to take California. In 1861 Spain reasserted sovereignty over the Dominican Republic, and we forced Spain to back off. Napoleon III tried to take over Mexico and without direct reference to the Monroe Doctrine, Secretary William Seward, aided by the resistance of the Mexican people, forced France to withdraw. The doctrine was used to discourage European powers from domination of the Panama Canal. The policy was asserted in 1902 when Great Britain, Germany and Italy threatened to blockade Venezuela on the pretext of collecting some loans made to that bankrupt country. We used it in 1919 when France and Germany threatened Haiti. To prevent foreign powers from gaining a colonial foothold in the Western Hemisphere the

Time Magazine's expose of the Great Anti-South Africa Hypocrisy

WASHINGTON — In his address at the graduation ceremonies at the University of Virginia, the state's lieutenant governor Douglas Wilder declared that "this country's insistence on right can make a change" in "the blood-drenched townships of South Africa."

Sadly, Lt. Gov. Wilder neglected to mention that nearly all of the blood-drenching is the blood of blacks—drawn in almost continual lynching of blacks by black members, or adherents, of the Communist-dominated African National Congress.

Also regrettably, the NAACP, which used to display a large flag: "TODAY A NEGRO WAS LYNCHED," is no longer doing so, very probably because they are well aware of who it is doing the lynching of so many blacks.

In Manhattan, two Episcopal parishes, St. Mary the Virgin and St. Thomas on Fifth Avenue, invited South African Bishop Thomas Stanage to preach. When Stanage dared to mention that he disagreed with Archbishop-elect Desmond Tutu about divestment, there ensued a furor in both parishes — which hardly edified the Episcopal Church reputation for free pupils.

By striking contrast, Time magazine devoted an entire page to an interview with South Africa's Foreign Minister Roelof (Pik) Botha.

Mr. Botha delivered some well-chosen words to describe what might be called The Great Anti-South African Hypocrisy. Excerpts:

"We simply do not understand how it is possible for the US to attack bases and terrorists in Libya, to proclaim that the US will protect interests and citizens against any form of terrorism wherever it occurs; and then urge all governments in the world to do the same; but when we do it and, with all respect, do it more professionally than they do, the US blames us."

"At a time when this government is extending democracy and can demonstrate that we took steps in one year that the US could not take in 20 years, not only do we get no credit for it; not only do you Americans have no perspective of history as far as this is concerned; not only have you forgotten your own trauma, hesitance and difficulties in persuading your people to accept a new order of civil rights; you punish us for doing what you did but in less time than you took to do it."

"We believe the strategy of the West is not to give South Africa any credit, in any circumstances. You in the West are blind and insensitive to the possibility of the South African Communist Party ruling this country. You will not be concerned about what the results would be and what would happen to the rest of Africa. In Mozambique and Angola, the facts are readily available of the repression, the suffering, the dying in these countries after nine years of friendship with Moscow... In the process you are going to harm job opportunities immensely for 2 million blacks from outside our borders, whose wages provide sustenance and upkeep for 8 million in Lesotho, Swaziland, Mozambique, Zimbabwe, Zambia, Botswana and Malawi."

"Eight years ago there was no Crossroads. Due to various phases of economic recession, many of the black people in the homelands and in their own areas could not find jobs; so they flocked here illegally. We spent millions and succeeded in creating thousands of jobs, but the influx was too great. We warned that factions would get to killing each other before long. The faction-fighting started, and now we are getting the blame."

"We cannot be held to ransom by the US, or the international community, when it comes to the protection of our security... If we are forced to choose between international ostracism and punitive measures on the one hand and our right to defend ourselves against terrorism, then we have no choice. If the US, Europe or the rest of the world feels this country ought to be punished for protecting its citizens — a right you Americans insist on — then we say, and not in a challenging way but with sadness and reluctance, 'Go ahead. Just go ahead. We have no choice!'"

The governor regrets

SANTA FE—Somewhere out there, even as you read these words, two candidates are planning how they will change things in government after they become governor. Only one, of course, will be allowed the opportunity to try to turn those bright proposals into reality.

And if they are like almost all previous aspirants to the governor's job, these two aren't even listening to the proper people as they dream of what tomorrow may bring. About the only ones who have anything worth saying on the topic of how to be a good governor are the folks who have held the job—and who ever listens to those has been?

THE BOOK: Toney Anaya was heard to say on a recent television program that he wishes he had sought the advice of those who served in his present post before him. He sounded both sincere and humble when he made the observation recently, but at least one listener couldn't help remembering how different his attitude was at the time he took the office.

Before Bruce King left Santa Fe's for the second time, he had prepared, under supervision of Garry O'Dowd, his consultant on legal and other matters, a 385-page office manual that lays out with remarkable clarity what a governor must, may and may not do. It's so valuable this writer keeps his copy close at hand, to consult when commenting on how the incumbent does his job.

You could make money betting, however, that Toney Anaya never so much as cast a glance at the volume.

When he was asked by us at his initial news conference after being sworn in if he found that book helpful, he shrugged it off with a remark to the effect that he wanted no advice of any kind from his predecessor's organization.

He knows better now—and at least he has the honesty to admit it.

POSSIBILITIES: One of those still at the top in the Anaya administration (who wouldn't want his name used at just this moment) says he has learned at least two things he hopes the incoming governor, whoever he is, does not fail to appreciate.

One is that government is only capable of "incremental change." Translate that into English (this guy has an advanced degree in public administration) and it comes out like this: "You can't alter everything at once. In fact, you must make such modifications as you may achieve by small steps, taken in a very patient

Letters TO THE EDITOR

Rapping Joiner's knuckles

EDITOR—(This letter is primarily for Mr. Ernest V. Joiner, but other readers might be interested.)

Since your first editorial in the Lincoln County News, for me, this has been the best feature of the entire newspaper. I look forward to each issue as the information you present seems most credible and indicates considerable knowledge and tremendous research on your part.

In the June 26/July 2 issue, you rightly point out the general ignorance of Americans relative to history and geography, and deplore elimination of proper emphasis on these subjects in the public school curriculum. Right on, Mr. Joiner, we are still with you!

However, are you putting us on or did you really intend to state that "The Palace of Governors in Santa Fe, New Mexico was established in 1610, 10 years before Columbus did his laudable number on Plymouth Rock"?

Columbus in 1620? You gotta be kidding, EVJ. Are you sure that wasn't Martin Luther King? Tsh, tsh!

Keep those controversial editorials rolling, Mr. Joiner. A devoted student of history, and a Carrizozo High School graduate, OPAL MILLS, Ruidoso.

(ED. NOTE—You are correct. It was Columbus in 1492, Santa Fe in 1610 and the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock in 1620. First mistake I ever made, you know!)

EDITOR—In reference to your column of June 26/July 2, 1986, two comments.

In the interest of history and geography would you please expand on "...10 years before Columbus did his laudable number on Plymouth Rock"?

Second, a retraction is due in regard to the shooting incident in Cleveland. The black man was arrested by the Cleveland police, both his name and his photograph were published in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Subsequently, the grand jury did not indict him, but this was due to the request from seven of the eight shooting victims that charges be dropped.

How does your newspaper find its way to Cleveland Heights?

Initially, my subscription was for the Sebastopol Times, courtesy of my sister-in-law, and solely for the purpose of reading your column.

When you moved, she cancelled that subscription and started to send me your current publication, again, so that I could keep up with your ideas, which closely parallel my own.

I do look forward to receiving the paper every week and over a period of time have run off copies of your columns for distribution to others, friends & business associates, of similar persuasions.

Keep writing and "righting."

JAMES J. HUNT, Cleveland Heights, OH.

(ED. NOTE—I have already done penance for carelessly landing Columbus at Plymouth Rock. I am happy to retract elements of the story on the shooting in Cleveland. I relied upon wire service reports, when I should have known better. Thanks for being our "watchdog" on such matters.)

Poor English; who's fault?

EDITOR—In a recent local news item it was reported that our high school students could not spell. Apparently spelling scores are now under the acceptable national average.

The local school administration was understandably upset. Who's to blame that spelling by our students should be so bad? It is not entirely the fault of the students, that's to be sure.

One only has to watch television—notice the wording and the audible mistakes which are made "as a matter of course" in what we watch and hear every day. The repetition of "bad grammar" is bound to make an impression on our young people. There are many misspelled words which are intentional in order to make a point more noticeable.

Our news reporting is not much better. A misused word, the wrong verb tense or a dangling participle is heard much too often.

Many of us butcher the King's English. We have lost the habit of using correct English in our everyday conversation. Some of our learned speakers do not do much better. Perhaps they think slang and poor grammar help make a point in their presentation.

We have all slipped since the days of the 3 Rs. Our young people are simply following the speech patterns we have set for them.

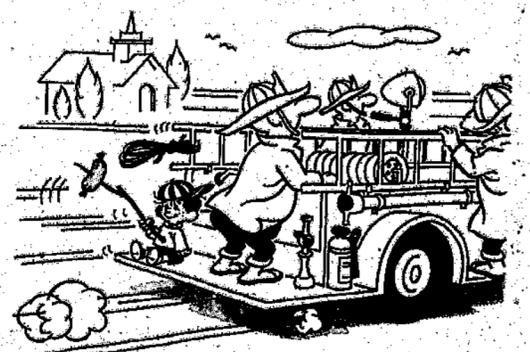

I suppose that it is easier to accept poor grammar when our children speak poorly than it is to correct the error when it is made. Don't blame the teachers!

Max a good officer

EDITOR—Answering Leslie Guerra (Harassed at the Nike, July 3), I have known Max Watson for 20 years. It is hard to believe Max would lose his head and start trying to hit anybody. I know Max Watson as a New Mexico State Police officer, and I am sure his training is at least as good as they have in the state. I have been known for doing some foolish and dangerous things, but never would I try to commit suicide by trying to scare Mr. Watson.

Man-bites-man news suppressed by mayor

By P. E. CHAVEZ

July 7, 4:44 p.m. Chief of Police C. A. Morales was dispatched to Carrizozo Health Center in reference to a man treated by Nurse Practitioner Rosemary Zink. The 18-year-old man was believed to have been bitten by a human. The incident is under investigation.

The biting incident was obtained by the NEWS from the radio log at the sheriff's department. When the NEWS approached Morales for details he was reluctant to provide more than the basic details for fear of jeopardizing the case which he said was under investigation. He did appear willing to cooperate with the NEWS. (Morales knows that juvenile names are not used in the Police Beat unless the incident involves traffic violations.)

Mayor Robert Hemphill was present July 7 when the NEWS reporter was interviewing Morales. Hemphill objected when P. E. Chavez asked Morales for the injured man's name. Hemphill stated that revealing the man's name would "impede investigation."

Hemphill is not public record," Hemphill ordered.

Hemphill's command to withhold all names from incidents requiring investigation was made following adjournment of municipal court. Hemphill was present at court as an interested observer; Morales was a witness; Rosemary Gallegos, police secretary was present in her capacity as court clerk, and Chavez was representing the NEWS.

At Tuesday's regular town meeting, July 8, Chavez asked police commissioner and trustee Edward O'Brien for his opinion of the NEWS request for the injured man's name.

O'Brien said if this person who was bitten was his son, he would not like for the public to know.

Again Hemphill made clear his stand that no names will be available to the NEWS of incidents under investigation.

O'Brien said that he "concurred" with the mayor.

Trustee Linda Haller voiced little or no comment on the matter. Trustee Albert Baca was absent.

Trustee Patsy Sanchez tried to explain to Chavez the prudence of not revealing names in a police NEWS story, citing an example. She stressed that the subject matter of her example was merely to point out the cleverness of withholding names.

Sanchez' distasteful attempt to educate involved placing the reporter's spouse in an imaginary situation with an imaginary "girlfriend" when the police are called in connection with some type of incident. Sanchez said the use of names in a police report would reveal a clandestine affair and thus cause unwanted embarrassment. (?)

The point of Sanchez' example cannot be quoted verbatim due to the fact that the tape recording of the meeting is not public record. (This action was taken by Hemphill several months ago when Chavez had access to the tapes for reference.)

James Askew Jr., town attorney, attempted to quote municipal public record guidelines, siding with the mayor's view on the releasing of names.

Hemphill suggested to Chavez that Zink be contacted for the name the NEWS seeks. (See POLICE BEAT)

Chapter I program winds up

The Carrizozo Chapter I summer program began June 2 for students pre-kindergarten through 8th grade. An average of 30 students were enrolled and attended classes three times a week for an hour.

Mrs. Nickless, Chapter I teacher, said the classes were more relaxed with a one-hour atmosphere. There was more parent involvement and parents could check out computers to help their children at home.

Pre-kindergarten and kindergarten classes were language arts, math and readiness skills. Older students classes were language arts and math.

The four-week program ended June 27 with students walking to Roy's Gift Gallery for ice cream cones and going to Spider Park to play.

Why 4th offender DWI was not sent to jail

Carrizozo Magistrate Judge S.M. Ortiz explained why the June 18 sentencing of Lester Wilcox, charged with DWI, did not state 4th offense on the citation. The fine of $250, lab fee $25 and $20 court cost is the sentence for a first offender. Second or subsequent offenses carry a penalty of mandatory jail time.

Ortiz said, "As a magistrate judge I am bound by what the complaint states on it's face. I cannot amend a complaint unless a request is made by the complainant to correct the deficiency in the original complaint. An amendment can only be allowed up to the time a judgement and sentence is passed."

The complaint against Wilcox did not state that it was his 4th offense. Ortiz learned later that it was the defendant's 4th offense.

Ortiz said it is the duty of the arresting officer to get the driving record of any alleged offender and to put the information on the citation. The arresting officer should make a routine check with the dispatcher and get a computer readout of the defendant's driving record and list any previous violations on the citation.

fashion over a long period of time."

That's a hard one for the new kid on the block to appreciate, as we learn each time a new governor comes along. Is it too much to hope that this good advice will make its way into the ears of the present two running for the job?

The second piece of wisdom to be passed along for their consideration is this: "The only people who can help you are the ones who are on hand."

What that means is that it is extremely unwise for any future chief executive, either while running or after taking office, to lash out in sweeping criticisms of every one of the state's hired bureaucrats. After he takes the oath, he will need their support, not their enmity. Plans are worth nothing if they don't get carried out, and these are the troops in the trenches with whose support change must be brought about.

To put it simply, one thing that's dangerous about candidates is that, like the rest of us, they think they know more than they do. Whichever one we select in November, he's in for some rude surprises, which could be reduced then if he were a good listener now.

about services provided.

—No bids were received for comprehensive general liability insurance coverage. Risk Management, state of New Mexico, will cover the county until coverage is obtained. The county will request bids for coverage again.

—The $5 minimum penalty on delinquent taxes was not waived.

—The 1986-87 contract and notification of grant award with Eastern New Mexico Area Agency on Aging for the senior citizens center was signed.

—Agreements for predator and rodent control were signed. The funding is the amount specified in the current budget, $40,500.

—Memorandum of understanding with the New Mexico Cooperative Extension Service was signed. The county's contribution is one-third of the total budget $40,962.92.

Lease agreement renewal for the magistrate court facility in the courthouse was signed at the rate of $75 a month. Commissioners agreed to renew the current lease agreement and to write a letter stating that the rent next year will be $150 a month.

—The county will apply for state and federal emergency funds for the $49,634 in flood damage in the Eagle Creek area.

—An executive session was held for possible litigation and personnel.

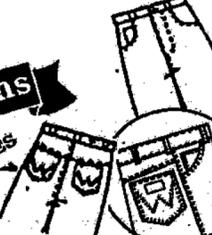

OPINION from P. 4)

US has invaded Haiti, Nicaragua and the Dominican Republic. Let it be known that sovereignty was returned to the people of all three countries following the end of the emergencies.

●IN no instance where the Monroe Doctrine was invoked by the US has it taken any territory, just as the Soviets have never returned any territory once taken. The doctrine has been applied wisely and profitably to all parties concerned. It has kept war off our soil. If there are any free people south of the border it is because the US had the guts to come to their rescue, whether they liked it or not. It was fear on our part, if not cowardice, that put Castro and the Soviets in Cuba. It will be fear on our part, if not cowardice, if Ortega's Marxist government remains in Nicaragua. When President Reagan appeals for military aid to Nicaragua contras he is following the letter and the spirit of the Monroe Doctrine that has kept the empires of Europe from gaining a foothold (except for Cuba) in the Americas. His routing of Marxism from Grenada was wise and generally supported by the American public, if not by the pulling press. If there ever was a time to reaffirm the Monroe Doctrine it is now.

Remember When

This street scene in Oscuro from another time recalls stories and makes us think of the many changes constantly happening in our lives, in our communities and in our nation. The folks in this street scene could never have imagined the fast approaching space age and that the first atomic bomb would be exploded only a few miles to the west of Oscuro only about 35 years later.

Many changes had to be made to keep ahead in the twentieth century and Miss Liberty again made us remember the heritage we have as Americans.

Banking has undergone many changes that also had to be made to keep up with our faster moving society. The important thing that didn't change in our bank was our appreciation for our customers and how we could better help them with their financial needs and safely protect their funds entrusted to our care. Remember when and remember now that our banks care. Pay us a call, we may just be able to give you a hand.

TEXANOPHOBIA

Bob Hagen says in the New Mexico Business Journal (July 1986):

"In general, Texans have money; New Mexicans don't. On the other hand, New Mexicans have things Texans don't - the world's best chile (with an 'e'), mountains, water, adobe condos in Santa Fe and other amenities lacking east of the border."

Hagen's story, "TEXAS MONEY," tells of Texanophobia, symptoms of which include an irrational fear of black and white license plates and the uncontrollable impulse to laugh at Texas jokes.

Dave Nordstrand, columnist in the Albuquerque Tribune is a notorious Texanophile, according to Hagen, who tells of a column Nordstrand wrote complaining that Clouderot would be a beautiful place if it weren't filled with Texans, who Nordstrand found "boisterous, crude, loud and generally obnoxious."

That column and two subsequent ones got a response from transplanted Texans. Nordstrand stated he is not sorry he wrote the columns, saying that it is a columnist's job to get his readers' juices flowing and besides, Nordstrand added: "they (Texans) deserve it. They are obnoxious."

DAD OF THE YEAR

Canyon CowBelles last month held their monthly meeting at the Flying J Ranch in Ruidoso. More than 60 members, family and guests attended the chuckwagon dinner and western show. The Father of the Year award went to Pete King of Carrizozo. Hostesses for the CowBelle gathering were Cheri Goad, Betty Howell and Joyce May, all of Carrizozo.

MONTESSORI ALUMNI

Two Carrizozo children have graduated from Montessori Preschool in Ruidoso. The graduates are Cara Lee Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Baker, and Briton Sharod Goad, son of Dr. and Mrs. Dale Goad.

WEDDED BLISS

I have been a recent observer at several magistrate and municipal court hearings in Carrizozo. The time spent listening to the judge of both systems conduct his court proceedings has been very educational.

In the course of one municipal court proceeding it was revealed that a witness in a case was living with her boyfriend. Judge S. M. Ortiz asked the woman if she was aware that the situation was a violation, and read to her from the municipal code book. The woman said that she and her boyfriend have been issued a marriage license and that a wedding was to take place very soon.

The following is what the book has to say about cohabitation: "It shall be unlawful for any man or woman not being married to each other, to live and cohabit together as man and wife, or lewdly and notoriously to associate together. Any person found living together publicly as if they were married shall be required immediately to contract and join in the bonds of matrimony, if there shall be no impediment to prevent their so doing, and if they do not form such reunion on the first requirement of any judge, or if they do not separate, after having been required so to do, they shall be deemed guilty of a violation of this chapter."

SNUFF USERS BEWARE

The law aroused my interest, so I had to visit the town hall to ask to see the town code book for other no-no's: Assisting in lottery, beer (procuring or selling to minors), false pretenses, false representation, fraudulently avoiding payment of admission fees, house of prostitution, hypnotists prohibited, minors in pool halls, obscene literature, riot, sale of cigarettes or tobacco to minors...and would you believe expectorating (to spit) on sidewalks or in a public building? And there's others.

JOHN Q. PUBLIC

Somewhere I read that newsmen are paid to ask the hard questions. John Q. Public wants to know too but is too shy to ask.

Did you know that you can ask at the town hall to be shown the voter registration? On request you can also ask to see business registrations, meeting minutes, contracts, bids, resolutions and ordinances.

Carol Schlarb, town clerk, patiently explained to me last week that the utility bills, all bookkeeping and employee salaries are records open to the public. You can ask for the names of all employees, their addresses and birthdates. According to Schlarb, what you cannot see are letters of employee reference, evaluation and disciplinary action reports and medical records.

The clerk said an agenda of an upcoming regular meeting can be obtained Friday of the week before the Tuesday meeting. She sees that the mayor and trustees are delivered (person-to-person) packets which include copies of the draft minutes of previous meetings for council approval at the upcoming meeting.

The agenda is included to which they may make additions to at the start of the meeting. By having a guide of the meeting items they have the opportunity to do research if needed and thus be able to have the information on hand by meeting time.

Perhaps you wonder how you and your concern can be listed on the agenda. See the clerk that week prior to 3 p.m. on the Friday when she will hand deliver the packets to the town fathers (and two mothers).

You didn't make it by 3 p.m.? Not to worry. At the start of the meeting that coming Tuesday ask to be added to the agenda. Your matter may not be worked out that evening, but at least you are able to put in your two cents worth of opinion.

FULL OF BALONEY

Chama Village Council objected to a June 5 Rio Grande SUN editorial, claiming the paper had "created news." Although no reporter has ever opened the mayor's mail, Mayor Harry Apodaca told a SUN reporter in May that looking at the draft minutes before they are approved was "just like coming in here and opening my mail before I read it."

The SUN editorial begins like this: "Chama Mayor Harry Apodaca better wipe off his spectacles and read the New Mexico Open Meetings law if he is going to be a public official. The law requires that public officials must comply with the law, as worthless as it may seem on occasion, and when Apodaca offered himself to the voters of Chama as their next mayor, he was agreeing to comply with that law.

"However, last week His Honor refused to allow a reporter to look at the minutes of a recent council meeting until in his terms, the minutes were made official by approval of the village council at the next meeting or the meeting after that or the meeting after that, etc.

"However, upon reading the Open Meetings Law Mayor Apodaca will find one phrase that is very specific and even the village attorney admits cannot be challenged. It reads 'draft minutes shall be prepared within 10 working days after meeting' and available for public inspection.

"Mayor Apodaca says to allow the public to examine minutes of a public meeting is like 'coming in here and opening up my mail before I read it.' Well, Mayor Apodaca, that mail is the public's mail, not yours. And when you say the village attorney told you the minutes of a public meeting are not public until approved by the city council you are full of bologna. Ask your village attorney to put that in writing."

OTHER TOWN WOES

The Grants Daily Beacon newspaper contended in a lawsuit that corrections officials have violated the New Mexico Inspection of Public Records Acts. The lawsuit contended corrections officials have repeatedly refused to release the names of five former officers at Western NM Correction Facility at Grants.

In Santa Fe, the mother of a 21-year-old city police officer killed in a collision that also left three teenagers dead sought $2 million in district court action. An earlier, $2.5 million lawsuit was filed against the city by the estates of two of the youths and the sole survivor, charging at least 10 city officers encountered the policeman that evening and should have known he was intoxicated or had been drinking. State Police said that alcohol was involved on both sides.

The lawsuit charged the city had a policy of professional courtesy which prompted the officers to turn a blind eye to the dead officer's drunkenness.

Carrizozo Police Beat

By P. E. CHAVEZ

The following police incident reports were made available to the NEWS at the town police department. Among them are those recorded in the radio log, a free service to the town of Carrizozo by the Lincoln County Sheriff's Dept.

Monday, July 7

Carrizozo Chief of Police C. A. Morales observed two illegal aliens on 17th Street and transported them to jail until border officials arrive.

The sheriff's department dispatched Morales to Pehms Department Store. The owners complained that they have been receiving annoying phone calls. The crank caller, a female, had requested to speak to Ernie Pehms asking him if he wanted to date her. The woman called at 2 p.m. Monday and at 2 a.m. Sunday.

The Pehms, landlords of a house on 12th Street, reported that they discovered a storage shed had been broken into. Nothing was reported missing.

Morales, during routine afternoon patrol, observed several persons fighting on 18th Street near the former site of the old City Garage. Names of persons involved were withheld. Apparently no citations were issued.

Sunday, July 6

The sheriff's department

dispatched Morales at 4:44 p.m. to Carrizozo Health Center in reference to a man treated for human bites. The name of the injured man was withheld. The case remains under investigation.

The sheriff's department received a call at 10:50 a.m. from a mother reporting that her son, Victor B. Farra, had been bitten by a dog as he rode his bicycle in the alley between Birch and Aspen. Officer Chris Gomez and Mayor Bob Hemphill checked the alley for a dog. The young man described the dog as black, fluffy and 3-foot-high.

Saturday, July 5

Gomez investigated the alleged assault on Richard Neiderstadt, age unknown. The incident was reported to the sheriff's department at 3:32 a.m. The man suffered head and facial injuries which he says were inflicted by several assailants at a party.

Steven Pumpfrey, riding a bicycle, was struck by a 1975 Ford driven by Pauline Palomarez. Passengers with Palomarez, Annette Hill and Kelli Vigil, signed statements that the 11-year-old had pulled out in front of the vehicle they were driving. No citations were issued.

The pedalcyclist ran from the scene of the accident. According to Gomez who was dispatched to Birch Street scene at 7:27 p.m. the impact knocked the front tire off the bike and the youth ran off with it. An ambulance was dispatched for the missing youth, who turned up at his mother's place of employment.

The sheriff's department was dispatched at 11:30 p.m. to a Cedar Street address in reference to a man causing a family disturbance. Sabino Sandoval, age unknown, was picked up by Gomez and placed in the county jail for detoxification. According to the radio log at the sheriff's department, town police were advised several times, on different days, different locations about the man's condition.

Friday, July 4

Morales observed three illegal aliens walking by the railroad tracks on 13th Street. The men, ages 17, 18 and 24 from Delicias, Chihuahua, Mexico, were coming from Tucumcari on Independence Day and were headed home because they could not find jobs in the US, according to Morales. The trio was taken to the county jail around noon where they awaited a free ride back to Mexico, compliments of the Border Patrol.

Thursday, July 3

Gomez on routine patrol at 1:09 a.m. observed an open window at the Day Care Center. Everything appeared in order, he closed the window and locked up.

Tuesday, July 1

A local woman called the police clerk at 8:30 a.m. to report that her dog had been involved in a confrontation with a porcupine—again. She requested that Morales have the animal destroyed, but later changed her mind and took the dog to a veterinarian.

Lincoln County

'Long Ago'

By Ruth Hammond

The Lincoln Independent, Friday, April 15, 1892. Published in Lincoln, Lincoln County, New Mexico.

The Local Budget
Sheriff Roberts returned Wednesday from a trip to Nogal.

Three prisoners are confined in the county jail at the present time.

Deputy Sheriff Langston brought in a horse thief last Saturday and lodged him in jail.

Dr. Paden, of W. O. made final proof on the 13th on his homestead claim, which has been the subject of litigation for the last six years—the final decision being in his favor. He was accompanied by two witnesses, Messrs. Charles Bull and W. C. McDonald.

During the absence of the mother, who had locked the doors leaving two small children within, a house occupied by a blacksmith in the employ of Ozanne & Co. in White Oaks, took fire and burned to the ground. One of the children was burned to a cinder, so that the remains could hardly be found in the ashes. The baby was saved, though severely burned.

The ball at the court house Saturday night was well attended, most of the elite of Lincoln and a portion of that of White Oaks being present. The music was fine, and everything was noticeably quiet, the absence of calling in the Spanish quadrilles being a very agreeable feature. The festivities were kept up till a late hour, the dancers dispersing about 2 a.m.

New Mexico has just as valuable lands as Oklahoma, but because they are open to peaceable settlement there doesn't seem to be any great demand for them. —Rajon Range.

Friday, April 22, 1892

C. Hance is putting his mesa land in shape near Folsom, to plant several acres in orchard, this spring.

A colony of fifty families from Utah contemplate locating in Santa Fe county. They are not Mormons.

The Local Budget

W. F. Blanchard is surveying in the neighborhood of White Oaks.

Mr. John Forsythe was in town Saturday, making final proof of his land near White Oaks. He gave this office a call and left two dollars for a year's subscription to the Independent.

The Carrizo mountains, in the Navajo reservation, and generally credited as the site of the "Lost Adams Diggings," are likely, soon to be thrown open to the prospector. A commissioner has been appointed by the government to treat with the Indians on or about May 10th, next. Gen. A. McCook will be in charge of the commission, and congress has already appropriated $5,000 as a preliminary sum in payment for the lands.

Friday, April 29, 1892
A Republican Paper in Lincoln

The next number of this paper will appear under the name of the Lincoln Republican, Mr. J. J. Dolan, editor. Mr. Dolan has been long known in Lincoln county as a staunch republican, and this change will doubtless be gratifying to his party and friends. As he will speak for himself next week, comment is unnecessary.

The last stake in the survey of the Denver, White Oaks & El Paso line was driven at Las Vegas, April 19.

An American firm will start a wagon factory at Guadalupe, 16 miles from Zacatecas, that will employ 800 men.

Death Valley, California, has created another sensation. The latest wonder is a mammoth ledge in which the solid gold predominates over the rock as three to one. A rush in that direction will probably be made.

Once upon a time a certain man got mad with the editor and stopped his paper. The next week he sold corn at four cents below the market price. Then his property was sold for taxes because he did not read the sheriff's sales. He was arrested and fined eight dollars for hunting on Sunday, simply because he did not know it was Sunday, and he paid three dollars for a lot of forged notes that had been advertised for two weeks, and the public cautioned not to negotiate them. He then paid a big Irishman, to kick him all the way to the newspaper office, where he paid four years subscription in advance, and had the editor sign an agreement to knock him down and rob him if he ever ordered his paper stopped again.

The Local Budget

A sale of condemned horses took place at Fort Stanton yesterday.

Everybody was at the Post yesterday and the town was quiet—even unusually so.

"Doc" Patterson, having given bond for his re-appearance, was released from jail yesterday and has returned to White Oaks.

The cattle are starving all over the county. It is said that the loss this year will be greater than ever before.

W. T. Thornton took with him to Santa Fe from Las Cruces samples of natural soda deposit which he and twenty-seven others have recently located in Dona Ana county. The deposit covers an area of about four miles long by one mile wide.

2ND PLACE AWARD—The Smokey Bear Stampede Parade 2nd place trophy in the antique car category went to this 1927 Ft. Stanton fire truck.

ON MY OWN

By Pat Kite

A story remembered.

Everybody knows you're not supposed to criticize an ex-spouse in front of already-wounded offspring.

Instead, despite memories that range from body odor to brazen unfaithfulness, you're supposed to smile sweetly whenever your former partner's name is mentioned and utter some bland remark as, "Your other-parent and I are both wonderful people. We just happened to grow apart."

This is fine in theory. It is also fine for those who claim to adore each other but crossed machetes in the divorce court because they couldn't agree on the best brand of bologna.

For the rest of us, shutting up often requires a mouth tournament. Raising children alone can be downright difficult, and regardless of other reasons, this leads to a certain amount of hostility. Hostility it isn't always easy to repress.

But a woman I met once, grey-haired and sad-bitter voiced, told me a story which helps, and I'm going to share it with you...

"My parents were divorced when I was very young," she said. "My father was an alcoholic and I saw him very seldom as I grew up. But my mother would go on and on about how terrible he was, how selfish, how mean, how uncaring about me. Over the years, with this drummed into my head, I learned to hate my father. I probably would have learned to hate him anyhow. But this way I learned to hate my mother too."

I thought about her story a long, long time afterward. I rang a bell, loud and clear. Up to that point I had vented my rage at being "left" to the nearest listeners, my children. I wanted them to see that I was "right" and my ex-spouse was "wrong." And maybe I could have won the game I was playing. Won it in the short term. But what about the long term?

Would my children learn to hate me too?

So I stopped. Not right away, but little by little. Just because the children's father and I don't get along, doesn't mean he doesn't care for them, as best he can, in his own way.

What faults he has, they will learn to deal with, just as they have learned to deal with mine.

And maybe, if they're lucky, they will continue to tolerate, like, care for, both parents, each in separate ways. It's sad enough that two adults grew apart, but all children would like to have two grown-up parents that they can love.

Capitan News

By Margaret Rench

Monday through Thursday we received 7/10th of an inch of gentle rain. Remainder of the week was dry with a few clouds and wind.

There were 5,756 registered visitors at the Smokey Bear Museum in June, July 1-6 there were 3,360. On July 4 there were 800. David McFarland, who was born in Capitan July 27, 1925 and delivered by Dr. Woods, whom many old timers far and near will remember, enjoyed the museum and its history and gave us this information.

Lucy (Aguilar) Hernandez and Augustina Aguilar, who lived in Capitan 1930-45, now living in Albuquerque, visited there July 6. It's great to know these people visited us.

Congratulations to Lincoln County Queen Robyn Peralta, who was crowned Friday afternoon, July 4 before the first performance of the rodeo. Robyn has been the queen in waiting for one year. This year's "queen in waiting" is Kelly Marr, who was chosen Friday morning in a contest with the former Lincoln County Queen, Rhonda Montoya. Kelly will accompany Robyn to the State Fair in September to see what goes on, which will help her when she represents Lincoln County in the fall of 1987. Both Robyn and Kelly are beautiful girls and we are proud to have them represent our county. Enjoy your work, young ladies.

The July 4 Stampede parade and rodeo attracted large crowds. The Grand Marshall, Virgil Hall Sr., and Grand Lady Margaret Rench, rode in a 1913 model Ford Speedster owned by Virgil, led the parade. The floats: 1st place, Capitan Chamber of Commerce; 2nd, mixed churches singing group; 3rd, B&L Pizza. Judges special: Ft. Stanton float; mounted groups, 1st, Barbara Langley and family; 2nd, Indian and his captive (Ray and Christopher Misquez) from Texas.

At this point I would like to mention the 1913 Ford Speedster had kerosene lights and its original engine. It was tuned perfect by its owner, and we enjoyed the ride, thank you.

Antique cars, 1st, Ray Mae; 2nd, 1927 Ft. Stanton fire truck; 3rd, Marguerite Trujillo. The Capitan band received the band trophy. Most Original, Baca's Buggy; bicycle, Matt MacVeigh; motorcycle trophy, Pecos Valley Christian Group; best-dressed, 1st, Capitan Boy Scouts; 2nd, Lisa Reamy. Special recognition, Holloman Air Force Base; Honor award, Staff Sgt. Speed in charge.

The Corriente CowBelles served more than 400 barbecue plates after the parade. It was delicious and enjoyed by everyone.

We were fortunate that the weather cooperated with us for the 4th. Those parade winners who have not picked up their trophies may do so at The Saw Shop in Capitan.

We are very proud of the Capitan EMTs for their performance in taking care of Paul Mousshaven, who received injury when a bull stepped on him. I wish him a good recovery.

Bartley McDonough played the national anthem at the opening of the rodeo. We enjoyed and appreciated that. Thank you, sir. All of the performances at the rodeo was attended by large crowds and the dances likewise. It was great to have all of those people, and we enjoyed them. Our atmosphere was filled daily with good gospel music on the west end of our town.

The new sign given by Capitan Chamber of Commerce was placed just east of Capitan before the 4th. It is a nice one and had good color.

The Capitan veterans were remembered by the American Legion on July 4th. Flags were placed on veterans' graves by Angie Trujillo and Rachel Lacy. The Legion sponsors were Irma Linda Trujillo and Hattie Phillips.

Remember the Church of Christ Bible Vacation School, July 14-18. Busses will pick up all children ages 2-high school from 9-11:15 a.m.

Sego's Gifts and Candies is having a going out of business sale.

Terry and Kay Strickland and Ken and Linda Green of Carlsbad spent the July 4 weekend at Elephant Butte Lake.

Happy birthday and many more to little Misty Muse who reached her second birthday July 7. She enjoyed a party with her little friends and relatives on Sunday.

Erin Keller, Melinda and Amber Canning are spending one week at the Lone Tree Bible Camp.

I wish Mr. and Mrs. Isidro Peralta many more happy anniversaries as they celebrated their 20th on July 8.

Beverly Payne and Kay Strickland at the gas office in Capitan took their holiday vacation, July 3-8, to be with their families.

Emelita Jenkins and son Bobby of Roswell enjoyed the holidays in Capitan.

Edward Garcia of California is visiting his aunt Inez, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Marrs.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Marrs, who were married in Capitan June 21, are now located at Medical Lake, WA. He is stationed at Fairchild Air Base.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Setzer and Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Arrington were holiday guests of the Runnels family. The Setzers, Dona's aunt and uncle from Atoka, OK, and her parents, the Arringtons, drove over from Lordsburg.

Gabe Paul of Albuquerque spent a few days last week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Paul. They took one day to visit Mr. and Mrs. Bullard of Artesia.

The Neighbert family held its reunion last week.

Bill Nickles, who taught school in Capitan at the old school house, has inquired about the block on which his name was inscribed, wondering if anyone knows of it. If you do, talk to him.

Lee Hust who was born in Carrizozo, lived in Nogal until 1948 and went to school in Carrizozo, was here for a family reunion in Carrizozo and visited his friends. Enjoyed a nice visit with Dolly Helms and Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Dobbs of Oscura.

I had the pleasure of a visit from Louise Shelton Korges of Menlo Park, CA whom I had not seen since her childhood days in Corona. I met her husband, W.W. Korges, retired USA veteran. They have two sons. This is the ninth summer they have spent at the old Shelton place in Corona. It was a joy to meet them. Thank you and may God bless you for remembering me. You made my day.

PSYCHOLOGY

Whether you swim, sail or play softball, you probably not only enjoy the sport itself, but the rewards that come with it. One such reward many may not always think about is relaxing after you've been out and keeping fit. After heading for the showers, rest those tired limbs and muscles. Settle down in your most comfortable chair, with your favorite book or magazine and treat yourself to a refreshing glass of iced tea. It may feel good to know that all those calories you burned are not being replaced by this delicious low calorie beverage.

Carrizozo trustees

Budget approved; bar owners protest license fee

By RUTH HAMMOND

The town of Carrizozo board of trustees approved the final budget for fiscal year 1986-87 during the July 8 meeting.

In other business Hector Nava approached the council and asked to lease the Rec Center; Dave Cooper, manager for Waste Control of New Mexico, explained the 3.1 percent increase that will take effect July 1, 1986; and letters were received from the three liquor business owners protesting the $400 liquor license fee.

A letter from Jackie Martin of Jackie's Liquor and Lounge stated, "I am paying for the license under protest, because I feel the liquor industry in Carrizozo is being discriminated against."

The letter from James W. Silva stated, "I submit to you these $400 for my Liquor License, under protest, I still feel that to single out this industry and impose an unfair fee for conducting a legal and sanctioned business is discrimination. Our establishment has been forced to close 52 Sundays a year but no effort to adjust or pro-rate the fee has been made. I request your response in writing."

The letter from Harold G. Garcia, owner of the Outpost Bar and Grill stated, "Please find enclosed my check for $400 #2731. This is for renewal of liquor license #222 for fiscal year July 1, 1986 to June 30, 1987. I pay this amount under protest for the following reasons: (1) I believe this licensing fee discriminates against liquor dealers. (2) No other business is required to pay more than a $25 fee to do business in Carrizozo. (3) The amount of days we can legally sell alcohol has been reduced by 1/7th or 14.2 percent and our fee of renewal has not been commensurately reduced. I respectfully request that you hold this renewal fee in abeyance until we can qualify by time sequence to request a change in the ordinance."

Mayor Bob Hemphill explained that any change in the ordinance has to be completed by June 1 to be applicable for this fiscal year.

Hector Nava spoke to the trustees about leasing the Rec Center and said he wants to put it back in good working capacity. A special meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m., July 16 to discuss the lease.

Cooper explained the second increase in the contract price for waste removal by Waste Control of New Mexico. The rate is based on the consumer price index as published by the University of New Mexico. The 3.1 percent increase will amount to $106.60 per month.

The new rate will include 5 1/4 percent gross receipts tax that Waste Control had not been charging. The total amount that should have been charged since 1984 was $3,629.89 more than had been charged because the gross receipts tax had not been included in the bill.

During audience participation Polly Chavez asked that a name be given to her to include in her police report. She said, "Once a person comes forward and asks help from the police department it becomes public record."

The request for the name was denied because "the case is under investigation." Mayor Bob Hemphill said, "You can have any information on any case that is closed."

Trustees approved the purchase of equipment and repairs for the animal control truck. Police Chief C. A. "Choncho" Morales will be in charge of the animal control unit.

Ted Ebert spoke to trustees about the D7 Caterpillar. He submitted a bid for the D7. Hemphill told him the unit can only be sold by bid. Legal notices will be printed for the sale of the D7.

Hemphill announced that the 3rd annual Carrizozo Fly-In will be held Aug. 23. The airport improvement project should be finished by then.

Trustee Patsy Sanchez asked about the ordinance on flea markets. Information on flea markets will be discussed at the July 22 meeting.

Hemphill reported that the state will not chip E Street. The state has suggested that the town apply for co-op for E Street on the next co-op cycle in October.

There was no public input at the meeting about what the town should apply for in the next Community Development Block Grant application. The only suggestions any of the council had received were for a master plan and for more street work. The application is due Aug. 15. The town will apply for more work on streets.

Hemphill accepted recommendations for the citizen's advisory committee for the current street project that will begin soon. The environmental study took 60 days and the town is now advertising for proposals for engineering for the street work. Appointments to the citizen's advisory committee will be approved by trustees at the July 22 meeting.

—Contract with

Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District was approved.

An executive session lasting 28 minutes was held concerning personnel. It was announced after the executive session that the matter would be "dealt with internally."

Carrizozo alumni gather for their 30th reunion

The Carrizozo Alumni Reunion was held June 27-29 in Carrizozo. Former students traveled as far as 1,100 miles to attend the three-day affair. The class of 1956 had the largest turnout with 17 former classmates attending their

The oldest alumni present were Roy Harmon and Louella Crenshaw Counts from the Class of 1926. During registration on Saturday afternoon seven alumni from classes in the '20s, 13 from classes in the '30s, 21 from classes in the '40s, 43 from classes in the '50s, two from classes in the '60s, one from the Class of 1978 and one from the Class of 1986 were registered. More alumni attended the barbecue and dance on Saturday but were not registered.

Festivities began with a reception at the Carrizozo Country Club on Friday, registration on Saturday followed by an assembly in the old gym in Carrizozo High School on Saturday afternoon.

The program with master of ceremonies Bob Stearns and a welcome by Mayor Bob Hemphill included music by the Carrizozo Alumni Singers and the school song "At the Foot of Nogal Mountain." Speakers were Johnson Stearns, S. M. Ortiz and Vernon Petty. Eva Zumwalt sang "If I Loved You" accompanied by Phyllis Schlegel, Roy Dow sang "Bells of the Sea" accompanied by Phyllis Schlegel, and Scott and Rosemary Shafer sang "Roses are Red" and "If There Was Only Time for Love," accompanied by Jane Shafer. The alumni singers sang a Spanish song "De Colores" and ended the program with "Auld Lang Syne."

Carrizozo cheerleaders led the group in a school yell and cheered the alumni on to the barbecue and dance.

More than 250 people attended the barbecue and dance at the country club. Wes Lindsay cooked the barbecue and Charlotte Archuleta prepared the beans, cole slaw and hot rolls. Music for the dance was by the Stage-Coach Band. A potluck picnic was held in Spencer Park on Sunday afternoon.

An award for traveling the furthest distance went to Hilda Barnett Coffelt and the youngest alumni award was presented to Julie Vega, Class of 1986. Recipients of the 1986 alumni scholarships received their scholarships at the assembly. They were Julie Vega, Kenneth Crenshaw and James Guevara.

Awards for having the most grandchildren of the class of 1956 went to Bill Means, Jeff Morris and Guy Warden. Other door prizes and awards: Coffee Cup gift certificates went to Bill Stephenson, Mickey Sidwell and Agnes Hein; Four Winds Restaurant steak dinners for two went to Jim Barnett and Roy Dow; Patty's Beauty Shop gift certificate went to Ramona Holguin; Western Auto watch went to Eugenia Vega; Family Pharmacy cologne to Jerry Gore; Nickel's Building & Hardware jar opener to Skeeter Carl; a glass window decoration made and donated by Liz MacVeigh went to Louella Counts; Roy Dow Gift Gallery "Oldie but Goodie Trivia Game" to S. M. Ortiz; Rita's Beauty Shop gift to Bertha Lopez; A&I Auto window wash and car cleaner to Tino Lopez, United New Mexico Bank $50 savings bond to Katie Snodgrass; one night's lodging for two was won by Dixie Harmon Reeves, and Ramona Ortiz won the Avon gift donated by Joan Means for having the most "chicks" graduate from Carrizozo High School.

Margo Lindsay was chairman of the 1986 Alumni Reunion with the assistance of Chiquita Wiggins Mahler, publicity and correspondence chairman, and Roy Dow helping with plans of the reunion. Barbara Branum and Connie Dean Pratt were on the committee.

Margo Lindsay advises that the classes of 1937, 1947, 1957 and 1967 should start preparing now for their reunion in 1987.

CARRIZOZO ALUMNI enjoyed an assembly in the old gym at Carrizozo High School on June 28. More than 250 people attended the barbecue and dance following the assembly.

Lincoln Town

Ramblings

By Rosalie Dunlap

Isn't it nice to see the sun part of the time? Lincoln area has had 10 plus inches of rain the past month.

The 4th of July was a very busy one for all of Lincoln. The streets, shops, and hotel were humming with people.

Smokey Bear Stampede is now history and was a very successful celebration. With lots of work by the fair board members, Village of Capitan, Capitan Chamber of Commerce, Mounted Patrol, Lincoln County Sheriff's Department, CowBelles, Charlie Thompson and his rodeo crew, and Aggie (her parade crew put on a great parade.)

Cecilia Apodaca has her fry bread stand open at the Bonita Farms Stand. So come to Lincoln. We are a busy, exciting town this summer.

The courtroom of the old courthouse was the setting for a joint meeting of the Lincoln Heritage Trust, sponsor; New Mexico state monuments and residents of Lincoln, June 26-27-28. It was a brainstorming session of National Historic Preservation members, state preservation Rosalie Dunlap and her grand-daughter, Patricia Coleman, visited Christina McKinley at Portales last week. Mrs. McKinley is Rosalie's mother and Patricia's great-grandmother. On their way home they visited with Ruth Fenfield in Roswell.

The sing-a-long at the Wortley Hotel was a fun evening, with everyone filling the lawn with their chairs and iced tea. They had a bonus when singing artist Linda Petty and her husband joined the group. The husband Larry could really make the piano talk. Several said they were close to tears when she sang "Dixie" and "America." Her singing reminded them of Kate Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Shrecengost Jr. and family attended the Purcella reunion at the Baca campground over the 4th.

Jack Rigney reports the Old Lincoln Courthouse tours are doing great. The tour lasts approximately 45 minutes. The reaction of the tourists has been very positive, feeling they learn more of the history of the area and get the feel and character of the building better as is. The fee is $1.00 for the tour and includes the Tunstall store.

Lincoln also is gearing up for the McSween dig and the Old Lincoln Days. There is a lot of activity for everyone to enjoy. Friday, some dowers will be in Lincoln at the McSween dig to see what they can find in the way of foundations, rubble and even maybe the feel of excitement, danger and other emotions from the day of the fire.

Mohair owners to vote

The US Department of Agriculture has scheduled a referendum July 14-25 to allow mohair producers to decide whether to continue a market promotion and improvement program, according to Milton Hertz, acting administrator of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Hertz said the proposed program is similar to one passed in 1982. The new program would continue to authorize deductions to be made from producer incentive payments.

If the referendum is approved by two-thirds of the producers voting—or by two-thirds of the total volume of production represented in the referendum—mohair incentive deductions would be the same as the 1982 rate of 4 1/2 cents per pound, Hertz said.

Deductions will be used by the Mohair Council of America to finance advertising and sales promotion programs for mohair and goats in domestic and foreign markets, as well as information programs for producers on production management and market improvement, he said.

Hertz said ASCS county offices will distribute the ballots in early July. Completed ballots to be returned in person to the county office or postmarked by the July 25 deadline, he said.

To be eligible to vote, a person must have owned goats six months old or older for at least 30 consecutive days in 1985. A cooperative may vote for its members, but if it does so, its members then are ineligible to vote for themselves, Hertz said.

In the most recent referendum in 1982, 78.4 percent of the producers approved the program.

members, members of the trust, monuments and residents on the future of Lincoln and Ft. Stanton. Various ideas, solutions and problems with growth, cooperation among all the various agencies and the residents, with the inter-action of Lincoln and Ft. Stanton were discussed with no solutions. Everyone went home with lots of food for thought and enthusiasm for the future of our area.

For those interested in participating in the upcoming Billy the Kid pageant, casting will be held Tuesday, July 15 at 6 p.m. at the Lincoln Park.

cent honor ribbon for 1986, and District 3 received the 100 percent honor ribbon for 1986.

Commander Vickrey was sworn in at the state convention as Commander of District 3 of the American Legion.

American Legion Post 35 of Corona presented Marvin Pounds with a $100 savings bond for participation in the American Legion oratorical contest. Marvin won the District 3 at Corona and the bi-regional at Roswell. He went to the state contest in Albuquerque where a Santa Fe contestant won.

Post No 35 sent two high school junior boys to Boys State in Socorro in June. The boys are Eric Wetzel and Danny Cordova. Both report having had a wonderful time, learning much about government. They will make their reports later this summer to the American Legion.

Michael D'Arco was elected state commander of the American Legion at the state convention in Roswell. Commander D'Arco is married to the former Viola "Vi" Jaramillo, who was a cheer leader in Corona High School, graduating in 1962. D'Arco will attend the Summer Festival parade on Saturday, Aug. 9.

RAYMOND S. DAVIS Raymond S. Davis of Mesa, AZ died Friday, July 4 in the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital following a brief illness.

Davis was born April 24, 1933 in Greensburg, PA. He married the former Nellie Aguilar on July 5, 1958 in Las Vegas, NV. He was retired from the US Air Force in 1980 after 20 years of service.

Survivors include his wife, Nellie A. Davis of the family residence; son, Steven Davis of Las Vegas, NV; daughter, Terry Carter of Alameda, CA; parents, William and Grace Davis of Irwin, PA; and three grandchildren.

A rosary was recited Tuesday, July 8, and Funeral Mass was said Wednesday, July 9, at St. Francis de Paul Catholic Church in Tularosa, with Fr. Vincent Young officiating. Burial followed in the Tularosa Cemetery.

Pallbearers were P. C. Baldonado, Pete Herrera Jr., Ralph Vigil Jr., Ramon Duran, Mike Barrera and Eddie Abeyta Sr.

Arrangements were by LaGrone Funeral Chapel of Ruidoso, NM.

PSYCHOLOGY
Cold or rainy days may be just the right ones for cleaning out your closets and drawers. That will be one thing less to do when better weather rolls around. Set your radio to your favorite station, or put a good record on and get down to business. Don't feel you have to finish everything in one fell swoop. You may find your work a lot more pleasurable if you take a refreshing hot tea break. You can sip this delicious beverage while leafing through a long-forgotten family photo-album.

This recipe is simple as can be. We've taken a basic chocolate cake mix and added our own luscious filling of whipped cream, melted chocolate and bananas.

CHOCOLATE CREAM BANANA CAKE

- 2 extra-ripe, medium Dole Bananas, peeled
- 1 package (18.5 oz.) chocolate cake mix
- 2 squares (1 oz. each) semi-sweet chocolate
- 2 cups whipping cream, whipped
- 2 firm, large Dole Bananas

Slice extra-ripe bananas into blender. Puree until smooth (1 cup). Prepare cake according to package directions for 2 (9-inch) layers, replacing 1 cup water with 1 cup pureed bananas. Melt chocolate according to package directions; cool to lukewarm. Mix a small amount of whipped cream, into melted chocolate. Pour over remaining whipped cream. Fold into whipped cream thoroughly. Split cooled cakes in half through center lengthwise to make 4 layers. Peel and split firm bananas in half lengthwise. Spread one cake layer with chocolate cream. Top with second layer. Spread with chocolate cream, top with split bananas. Top with third layer. Spread with chocolate cream. Top with fourth layer. Spread remaining chocolate cream over entire cake. Refrigerate until ready to serve. Garnish top of cake with additional sliced bananas, if desired. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Stock Index Options: A New and Versatile Investment Tool

Stock index options—financial instruments that approximate the overall make-up of the stock market and reflect its up and down moves—have been around for only three years, but in that short time they have become an important addition to the portfolios of both conservative and aggressive investors.

The two types of stock index options are puts (the right to sell) and calls (the right to buy) the cash value of an index at a certain price during a specified period of time. They work similarly to options on individual stocks and use the same terminology. (Selling an option, for instance, is called "writing" an option.) When you trade options, you have many courses of action to choose from: buying puts, writing puts, buying calls, writing calls, or any combination of these strategies.

Index options give conservative investors a way to buy low-cost "insurance" against temporary market declines. When the market is considered to be very high, investors can cushion themselves against the possibility of a short term decline in their stock holdings. Instead of selling outright the stocks or equity mutual fund shares they believe will gain over the long term, they can buy index puts. There is, of course, no assurance that an individual's portfolio will behave in the same manner as the index stocks.

The investor protects his portfolio because the value of an index put option rises as the market declines. When this happens, the investor has the alternative to sell the index put at a profit, thus earning money that may offset losses in his stock positions. This technique has been embraced by professional money managers who handle huge portfolios, but it is equally useful for individuals with smaller portfolios.

More aggressive investors may buy index puts not to protect a portfolio, but as a way to speculate that the market will decline. Similarly, they buy calls if they think the market is about to rise. In both cases, their risk is limited to the amount they pay for the option while their potential gains are virtually unlimited. Other strategies, such as writing puts and writing calls, entail potentially greater risk and are best suited to experienced options traders.

The strategy you choose at any given time depends on whether you anticipate that the market will go up or down and how much risk you are willing to assume. Index options simplify the investment process for you. You have only to make a single decision about the market's direction, rather than several separate decisions about the direction of individual stocks. This innovation has been welcomed by investors who are frequently right about the overall market trend but wrong about particular stocks.

Index options have proliferated since the first one, the Standard & Poor's 100 Index option, was introduced by the Chicago Board Options Exchange. That index is still by far the best-known, most active stock index option, with an average daily volume (as of April, 1986) of 512,128 contracts.

Other index options that have achieved sufficient volume, activity and liquidity to merit investors' consideration include the Major Market Index option (which trades on the American Stock Exchange), the New York Stock Exchange Composite Index option, and the Value Line Composite Index option (which trades on the Philadelphia Stock Exchange).

You'll need the expert assistance of a financial consultant to start using index options because they are quite different from other types of investments. Options, like any investment, are not suitable for all investors. Before trading options (whether on indexes or individual stocks) you should read the option risk disclosure document entitled, "Characteristics and Risks of Standardized Options." Brokerage firms are obliged to give this booklet to anyone interested in options.

* The average daily volume figures can be obtained from the Chicago Board Options Exchange's Marketing Services Department.
