Sheriff lowers the boom in McKnight murders

By RUTH HAMMOND

Lincoln County Sheriff Tom Sullivan told the NEWS, "It is very apparent that somebody doesn't want me to appear before a fair and impartial grand jury."

He made the statement after filing a suit in district court only to have it stayed by the Supreme Court.

The suit filed in district court in Alamogordo on July 24 centered around the McKnight murders. Thomas P. "Cotton" McKnight and his wife Judy McKnight were found dead in their home on Nov. 15, 1984.

Sullivan, in his official capacity as sheriff of Lincoln County and Terri Ann Bussey, sister of Judy McKnight, are petitioners in the suit vs Twelfth Judicial District Attorney James J. Weldon and his offices, New Mexico State Attorney General Paul Bardacke and his office and New Mexico State Police Chief Maurice Payne and the New Mexico State Police.

The petition accused the agencies listed of tampering with evidence and interfering with the investigation being conducted by the sheriff's department.

District Judge Sandra Grisham issued an alternative writ of mandamus with the order:

Now therefore, you are ordered to appoint a special and independent prosecutor, special and independent of you and/or your assistants in each of your respective offices, to direct, counsel, advise and present all evidence, both inculpatory and exculpatory, regarding the homicide of Thomas P. "Cotton" McKnight and Judy Lee McKnight, to that Lincoln County Grand Jury to be convened within sixty (60) days of July 2, 1986, in the County of Lincoln, State of New Mexico and further, to instruct the New Mexico State Police to discontinue any further investigation in this particular matter until further order of the Court and turn over all evidence to the independent and special prosecutor appointed by the Court and/or the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department who has jurisdiction over this matter, and return this Writ with your certificate stating that you have done as commanded or show cause before this Court on the 5th day of August, 1986, at the hour of 9:30 o'clock, a.m. at the District Courtroom in the District Courthouse of the County of Lincoln, located in Carrizozo, New Mexico, why you have not done so.

It is further ordered that an independent process server, independent of the office of the Sheriff of Lincoln County, serve this Alternative Writ of Mandamus upon you, PAUL BARDACKE, Attorney General in and for the State of New Mexico, and JAMES J. WELDON, District Attorney in and for the Twelfth Judicial District, without unnecessary delay and return to this Honorable Court said service of process.

Ordered this 24th day of July, 1986.

Sandra A. Grisham
District Judge

The petition states that a relative of the McKnight family is a member of the New Mexico State Police (state policeman Phil Baiers is the husband of Cotton McKnight's first wife) and due to this reason and others to be made known at the hearing, if necessary, the sheriff's office requested that the state police be withdrawn from the investigation.

The state police were called back in the case by the AG's office after the AG took over the case last September.

The petition further states that the state police have tampered and obstructed the investigation by the sheriff's department in several ways, including but not limited to, advising prospective witnesses not to have anymore contact with the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department, not to give information to the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department, advising witnesses that a "brother officer would not murder anyone," and failing and refusing to turn over evidence that they had taken from the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department back to

DA sues county for more suitable office

A request by the assistant district attorney for more office space in the Lincoln County Courthouse has been the cause of a series of suits being filed in district court.

The district attorney first filed a motion and obtained a temporary restraining order against the county to delay the decision of the county commission to give them the extra office space that was requested. The county in turn filed a restraining order and filed a statement of disqualification and peremptory challenge to District Judge Richard A. Parsons.

The series of events leading up to the multiple suits being filed in district court began with a memorandum being sent to the commissioners on May 20 by Assistant District Attorney Harry G. Wilcox Jr. He requested the inrestaining of a wall partition and cited the need of adjacent office space which is currently being occupied by the county assessor.

The request was put on the agenda for the June 6 Lincoln County Commission meeting. Commissioners tabled the matter until a review could be made of space available in the courthouse annex. The A.S.C.S. office was to be closed in Carrizozo and that space was one possibility.

During a discussion about the request for additional office space, commissioners asked Lincoln County Clerk Marian Schlarb about the possibility of using space occupied by her office. She stated that with the state requirement of re-assessing all property, extra people had been hired to help with the reassessment and all space was needed.

It was also mentioned that at the Oct. 9, 1984 commission meeting, Commission Chairman John A. Hightower had stated that the district attorney's office is the only space for the county assessor to be able to expand. Schlarb agreed that the space currently being used by the district attorney's office was the only direction her office could expand.

At the June 17 meeting the commissioners voted to have the extension office use the former A.S.C.S. conference room with the balance of the A.S.C.S. office space to be used by the district attorney's office, and that the present office furnished as a witness waiting room. A memorandum with that information was sent to Wilcox on June 18.

Wilcox's response on July 2 was, "Since there is no indication in your memo about the date of the proposed relocation of our office to the A.S.C.S. main office, please be advised that we will not be in a position to facilitate the move until after the first of the year."

Swenor said that Wilcox was also present for the bookings.

Mary Allen of the Smokey Bear Motel said she was not at the motel when the alleged incident occurred, but she had heard about it the next day.

"I guess it happened Thursday night," Allen said. "I really don't know what to believe."

The five men involved allegedly included the son of the Lincoln County Sheriff.

The sheriff's office, however, was not involved in the arrests.

No arrests have been filed, and no charges will be filed, because the female complainant has decided there was no rape. End of alleged story.

This is an alleged story about an alleged rape that allegedly happened

Capitan Police are keeping mum on an investigation into an alleged gang rape that occurred last week at the Smokey Bear Motel in Capitan.

Capitan Chief Randy Spears refused to comment on the incident that reportedly involved five men attending a bachelor party at the motel.

"I don't want to get into it with anyone right now over these arrests," Spears said, referring questions to assistant district attorney Harry Wilcox.

Spears did say that no charges had yet been filed in the case.

Numerous attempts to reach Wilcox at his office in Carrizozo and at his home were unsuccessful. His secretary at the district attorney's office in Carrizozo said Tuesday that Wilcox was "too busy to return calls."

Ruidoso Police Chief Richard Swenor said that Capitan Police did bring several men to the Ruidoso Police Station for booking on Friday.

"I think three people were booked using our facilities, but no one was logged into the jail," Swenor said.

"I didn't know what was going on. I just heard a lot of people talking out here in the station," Swenor said. "I came out to investigate and there were about 25 people standing around and Chief Spear was asking some people through our facility."

It was only a family disturbance

There was another "youth" brawl early Friday morning at the Ross-Novotny residence on 12th Street.

The incident occurred shortly after midnight, well after curfew.

Willie Wadsworth emerged victorious in a fist-fight in which he engaged four of the youths.

In what a sketchy city police report termed a "family disturbance," the following were present or participating in the affair: Maron Taylor, Sylvia Archuleta, Wadsworth and two of his sisters, Danny Delgado, Pete Kinbello, Misty Perrea and Timothy Barela. (See town's version in Police Beat.)

No charges were filed and no citations issued.

This was not the end of the matter. Monday night, according to witnesses, Timothy Barela, who is already free on probation for another offense, pulled a pistol, cocked it, and aimed it at Wadsworth. This happened about 11:30 p.m. on a street west of the courthouse. Barela finally backed off and pocketed the pistol.

Police officer Chris Gomez arrived at the scene following the incident.

When NEWS reporter Polly Chavez viewed the police complaints Monday she based her Police Beat column (in this issue) on contents of the report that was of record on that day. However, after writing her column, city hall discovered that the Lincoln County News had hired its own investigator. So, in order to bring its records in line with what the NEWS would be publishing, city hall removed the Monday complaint report and substituted an entirely different one.

Report No. 1 and Report No. 2 are at the office of the Lincoln County News for public inspection.

Murder victim, 9, buried in White Oaks cemetery

By RIGO CHAVEZ

A warm breeze blew across the valley. It was a sunny day when flowers bloom, children play, grass grows and light wispy clouds dot summer azure skies. It was a day for living.

The 150 people gathered in this valley were not here to celebrate life, rather to mourn the death of a child whose life had just begun.

Nine-year-old Dena Lynn Gore was laid to rest Friday at the Cedarvale Cemetery in White Oaks, amongst the rolling hills and between the desert grass and hearty brush.

A hushed hush came over the crowd as the family—Colleen Gore, Dena Lynn's mother, her 11-year-old brother Jeffrey, and her father, Jeffrey Gore Sr.—entered the cemetery.

Dena Lynn was the great-granddaughter of Dollie Ward of Carrizozo. She was brought from Artesia to the Ward family plot at White Oaks.

"Dena Lynn lived in Artesia, but she did spend holidays here, like Christmas time. She was so friendly, no one was a stranger to her," said Dollie Ward, her voice straining as she recalled the good times spent with the child.

The pallbearers, who included her father, carried the small satin-covered white casket from a van to the gravesite.

The Rev. John Tarrison, pastor of the Baptist Church in Carrizozo, asked for comfort and strength for the family. As the people wept, he read from the Bible. The girl's brother Jeff placed a small American flag on the casket as another family member read a poem he had written to his sister. In the poem Jeff asked that his sister, "rest here in this place of beauty, this place you loved so well."

Later the minister asked the mourners to sing "One of Dena's favorite songs, 'Jesus Loves Me'."

"Jesus loves me! this I know, For the Bible tells me so," they sang. "Little ones to him belong; They are weak, but he is strong. Yes, Jesus loves me, Yes, Jesus loves me, Yes, Jesus loves me, The Bible tells me so."

Colleen Gore, who had kept a stiff upper lip as she stood and comforted her son, began to weep now. She sat down as other family members preceded her.

The preceding eight days had been a nightmare. Who would have imagined that a July 17 bicycle ride to an Artesia convenience store would end up like this.

After hundreds of volunteers searched for five days, police were led to a shallow grave on the Squaw Canyon Ranch in Chaves County. Terry D. Clark, 30, has been charged with first-degree murder and kidnapping.

Clark was convicted a year ago of kidnapping and raping a 6-year-old Roswell girl Oct. 8, 1984. He had been free on a $50,000 bond pending an appeal of his conviction and 24-year sentence.

Medical investigators concluded on Thursday, the day before the funeral, that Dena died as a result of three gunshot wounds to the head.

Clark's arrest has led to calls from many New Mexico residents for reform of laws that allowed Clark to remain free while his case was appealed.

Thoughts of judicial reform were taking a backseat on this day. Relatives and friends focused on the good times Dena had spent in Lincoln County.

As the service concluded, Jeffrey Gore, his son Jeff Jr. and his new wife knelt alongside the grave.

Gore remained there until the small white box was lowered into the ground and he bid a final farewell to his only daughter.

Dena's relatives and friends embraced and spoke with family members as they slowly made their way to their cars. The girl was gone but not forgotten.

"I will always remember how happy she was," Dollie Ward said.

Carl Hanson, 86, will judge Pony Express Race

Carl Hanson, 86, of Tularosa will be one of the judges at the Pony Express Race this weekend in White Oaks.

Having spent all of his life in Otero County, he has seen New Mexico change through the years. "Grandfather Hanson" settled in Tularosa in 1886, soon followed by "Grandfather Walkers" in 1888.

"I have done everything,"

Hanson stated, "from ranching, being sheriff of Otero County, to running bars and bootlegging liquor. I am the oldest living sheriff in New Mexico, I think!"

Hanson remembers the days when mail was run on horseback and with horse drawn hacks. "I remember

Art seminars continue at Carrizo Art School

By MICHELLE DeBERGE

Variety continues to be the rule at the Carrizo Art School this summer, as three well-known artists teach three different oil techniques.

Ann Templeton, Ben Konis and Ken Hosmer are currently teaching seminars at Carrizo Lodge.

Templeton of Pearland, TX is teaching oil painting with an emphasis on creative expression. Her students learn the spirit, mood and emotional level of art. Being an impressionist and colorist, she paints landscapes, still life and seascapes.

Templeton began teaching in 1972 and currently teaches 20 workshops and classes in eight different states each year.

She has a wet-on-wet style that leads to a more controlled and detailed finish.

Since 1981 she has entered paintings in the Pasadena Gulf Coast Art Society and other art competitions and has won numerous awards.

Templeton is a member of several art societies, among them, Women in Arts, the Pasadena Art League and Houston Art League.

Ben Konis of Amarillo, TX paints portraits, landscapes and still life with oils and pastels.

Exuberant color is his trademark, which he combines with dramatic design and draftmanship.

The Indians of today are his principal subjects.

"The Indians, their heritage and customs, their land, have captivated me completely. I strive to portray their proud struggle and deep reverence for life in my work," Konis said.

For the past 17 years he has been teaching and is a consultant for various universities and schools. His painting, "The Lone Star Cowboy" earned the Best Pastel gold medal in a recent Texas 150th Anniversary Exhibition.

Ken Hosmer of Ruidoso works with watercolor, oil and ink. His work is a realistic treatment of landscapes.

Hosmer develops a dynamic design and leaves portions of the painting to the imagination of the viewer.

Each painting, due to the subtle build up of pristine color glazes, appears as a "spontaneous symphony" of color and light.

In his class he presents a step-by-step system; from quick pencil and ink drawing through to the finished watercolor painting. This allows the students to explore dynamic color and organize complex subjects into easy steps.

"Workshops offer the opportunity to share knowledge, make new friends and visit exciting locations. These things are as important to my personal growth as an artist, as is painting," Hosmer said.

He is a member of the New Mexico Water Color Society, and co-founder of the United Council of Artists.

Hosmer and Konis conclude their workshops Aug. 1. Templeton will be teaching at Carrizo Lodge through Aug. 8.

Corona schools start Aug. 19

Corona Public Schools will have registration on Friday, Aug. 1, from 8:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. Call, write or come by the school if there are students who will be attending Corona Public Schools during the 1986-87 school year. New students should bring immunization records. Faculty and staff members will have a work day on Monday, Aug. 18. Students will begin classes on Aug. 19.

John Smith gets into art the easy way—by accident

By RIGO CHAVEZ

Not many people get into the art business by accident, but the owner of the new John Smith Trading Company and Pocahontas Gallery claims he did.

"I went down to Cloudcroft to visit a friend, bought a painting and sold it in Albuquerque. It was all by chance, by accident," said John Schadel aka John Smith.

Schadel, who said too many people have trouble with his name so he usually tells them it's Smith, now owns three galleries, one in Cloudcroft, one in Old Town in Albuquerque and the newest one at 2809 Suddeh Dr. in Ruidoso.

Consisting of mostly western style art, the gallery features prints and originals in oil, pastel and watercolor.

Before he accidentally got into the art business, Schadel sold building materials in Grants. "That was until the place went bust."

He said he tried to make a go of it even after business began falling off with the accident at Three Mile Island.

Uranium development and mining in Grants would never be the same. "There was no toughing out the industry," he added.

Schadel also owned several commercial properties in the area and had begun developing some land. When the mining stopped, so did all development and Schadel went from being a healthy businessman to one on the verge of bankruptcy.

Fortune smiled on Schadel and he was able to sell his property and recoup his investment.

"Without a lucky sale in Grants, I wouldn't have been able to do this (open the galleries)," he said.

Just when it began to look as if the tide were turning in Schadel's favor—he had opened the Cloudcroft and Albuquerque galleries—he wrecked his car.

Traveling from Cloudcroft to Ruidoso while stocking this gallery, he fell asleep at the wheel, went off the road and hit a tree.

"Since I wasn't hurt I was able to bounce back and go ahead with the opening," he said adding that he is very optimistic for the gallery's chances in Ruidoso.

"We've had some good days and we are working on a brochure to help us promote the artists here," he said.

Debbie Langworthy manages the gallery with the assistance of Chris Sweeney. The shop is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily except Friday, when it is open until 8 p.m.

Schadel said he has enjoyed his past several months of Cloudcroft residency. "After Grants, I just wanted to get away from it all."

He said he has decided to kick back and enjoy life more than he did before by not working at it so hard.

"I was so serious all my life and where did it get me? Now I'm going to have fun and do it or not do it at all," Schadel said with a contented smile.

KEN HOSMER illustrates his watercolor technique.

Mescalero Apaches invade bingo

The Mescalero Apaches hope that cries of "Bingo!" will bring prosperity to the tribe, while non-profit operators fear the game may have a negative impact on their efforts to raise money for charity.

The Mescaleros were set to begin a high stakes bingo game, offering up to $30,000 in prize money to a single winner Wednesday night at the Inn of the Mountain Gods.

To win the $30,000 players must bingo in seven numbers in a pick-your-own game, explained Jack Valliant, the tribe's bingo manager who was hired 10 days ago.

Valliant of Ruidoso said he had worked for the Mescalero housing authority for more than 10 years before he accepted the position of bingo manager.

The games, which will run Wednesday through Sunday year round, began with an early-bird session at 6 p.m. on Wednesday. The regular session began at 7 p.m.

In the early-bird four games were played with a possible prize of $25 for straight bingo. Cost was $4 for the early session and $22 for the regular session which included one game card for each of the 20 games. Additional game cards could be purchased for $1 each.

The Sunday games will begin with an early-bird session at 1 p.m. and a regular session from 2 to 5 p.m., Valliant said.

Regular games will feature $75 prizes. Special bonuses of $5,000 will be paid to players who have the first three bingos. Bonanza prizes of $25,000 will be offered to players who fill their cards in 24 numbers or less, $20,000 for those who fill their cards after 45 numbers have been called, $8,000 for 46 to 48 numbers and $2,500 for 49 to 50 numbers.

The games are being played on the first floor of the Inn's Convention Center, which can accommodate about 370 people, Valliant said.

Ed Pennington, who runs the Friday night bingo at the Elks Lodge in Ruidoso, said he would not be sure what the impact of the tribe's high stakes games would have on his operation until after Friday night.

"They certainly could cut into our games. We'll just have to wait and see," Pennington said.

New Mexico gaming rules limit prize money off the Indian reservations to $1,500 and non-profit organizations like the Elks must obey those rules.

Pennington said that the Elks charge $1 per card and no admission fee and have been averaging 160 players per week this year.

He said about $680 was given away in the games last week. The top prize offered is $200 for a blackout in 53 numbers or less.

Valliant said no special advertising on the games had been done yet. "We've put flyers in the rooms at the Inn, but that's it."

"If the games go the way the tribe hopes they will, they may build a whole separate bingo facility here," Mike said.

the sheriff's office, despite a written request to do so, so that the sheriff's department could have conducted further examinations of said evidence.

It also states: "The New Mexico State Police Department has certain procedures which it follows in investigating any type of criminal complaints alleged against any of the members of that agency."

"The New Mexico State Police have failed to follow that procedure in this particular matter and in fact, have largely ignored that particular procedure and have not conducted in accordance with its guidelines, a proper, internal investigation."

Accusations against Weldon include his failure and refusal to properly advise, instruct and consider reports submitted by the sheriff establishing probable cause of the arrest of certain individuals; the D.A. in fact ridiculed in a press conference, the investigation by the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department; the D. A. did at that press conference, make known to the public certain facts of the investigation which have hampered and/or interfered with further investigation by the sheriff's department, and refusal to turn evidence over to the sheriff's department for examination by experts.

The petition further states; the A.G.'s office has failed to return evidence and refuses to turn over certain evidence to be examined by a laboratory other than the New Mexico State Police; the A.G.'s office has indicated through one of its assistants, that the mere fact that a grand jury was convened, did not mean that the McKnight murders had to be considered; the A.G.'s office opposed the convening of the grand jury and argued against it in the Supreme Court; and the A.G. and the D.A. have opposed the convening of a grand jury, and have deliberately obstructed and hampered the investigation.

In addition to the petition, affidavits of disqualification were filed removing District Judge Richard Parsons and District Judge Robert Doughty from the cases. Any person involved in a case may disqualify one judge.

Instead of the show cause hearing that was scheduled for Aug. 5, a hearing will be held by the Supreme Court on Aug. 6.

On July 22 a memo was sent to Wilcox from Lincoln County Manager Suzanne Cox stating, "The A.S.G.S. office has now been vacated and the Lincoln County Commission has asked that you relocate to this office within 30 days. They have plans to utilize the office you presently occupy."

The next correspondence from the D.A.'s office to the county was in the form of a motion filed by the district attorney on July 23 stating that the present office space has proven very convenient and accessible to the courtroom and the office of the district court clerk and said location is of vital importance to the effective administration of criminal justice and should remain so; the current board of county commissioners has ordered the office of the district attorney to remove itself to a far corner of the courthouse annex, which is in a remote location and inconvenient to the courtroom; that removal from the current office is arbitrary, without reason or just cause, and that the decision should be delayed until such time as the newly elected board of county commissioners is seated on Jan. 1, 1987, at which time the matter then may be re-considered.

The temporary restraining order signed by District Judge Richard A. Parsons on June 23 ordered that the county be temporarily restrained from removing the office of the district attorney from the quarters they are presently occupying and to show cause on July 31 at 10 a.m. why the order should not be made permanent.

In a response to the motion and temporary restraining order, the county stated that the office of the district attorney had failed and refused to follow proper administrative procedure in obtaining office space and addition thereof, and modification thereof; the board of county commissioners is required only to provide adequate quarters for the use of the district attorney, along with necessary utilities and maintenance services and is and has been providing and will continue to provide adequate quarters for the use of the district attorney; the board of commissioners have the sole and exclusive authority and jurisdiction to determine where various functions of county government will be housed; that the temporary restraining order failed to state why the damage is irreparable and why the order was granted without notice, (state law requires that the county be notified in advance of any proposed litigation) and asked that the motion be dismissed and the restraining order be withdrawn and denied and that the county receive payment for its cost incurred including reasonable attorney's fees for having had to respond.

Another matter was the "Statement of Disqualification and Peremptory Challenge to a District Judge" filed by Bill Elliott as Chairman of the Lincoln County Commission stating that "he believes that Judge Richard A. Parsons cannot preside over the above entitled cause with impartiality."

Motions by the county to dismiss the petition and quash the restraining order and the motion for immediate hearing as provided in Rule 66 of the Rules of Civil Procedure in and for the District Courts, stated that the crux of the motion seems to be that the district attorney's office wants its choice of offices, and they do not have the authority or the jurisdiction to determine where they will be housed in the county courthouse.

Furthermore, that it has been determined that it is in the best interest of the citizens of Lincoln County to house in the primary courthouse those offices which the citizens of the county use most often, that is the office of the county clerk, county treasurer, county assessor, the district court courtroom, the district court clerk and the district judge; furthermore those offices are to be placed on the first floor in order that they may be more convenient to the public and because more of the public utilizes those offices and others.

Furthermore, the magistrate court, state police and county nurse are placed on the first floor of the annex of the county courthouse complex because they are rated by the commissioners to be utilized by more of the public than other offices. The office of the county manager is placed on the ground level because it is utilized by more of the general public and the offices for the county agent, County Extension Services, ASCS, which was formerly housed in the annex, are upstairs because they are used less than the other offices.

The office of the district attorney is felt to be utilized less than that of the county assessor, county clerk, county treasurer, district court clerk, county manager, county health nurse and magistrate court and thus is placed upstairs in a facility which is adequate.

The county reasoned that the district attorney would like a comfortable and quiet working area, which is provided in the annex.

The county further notes that the majority of attorneys in the county of Lincoln must drive in excess of 35 miles to the courthouse and for the district attorney to have an office within a few yards of the district court courtroom is certainly most convenient and in fact is as convenient or more convenient than that which any other attorney has to the district court courtroom.

"It is further noted that in most courthouses, especially in Southern New Mexico, that the district attorney's office is housed either in the top floor and in several instances not even in the main courthouse, but certainly does not have the primary floor of the courthouse and that they are not the offices primarily used by the majority of citizens of those particular counties."

The motion lists the locations of the offices for several counties in New Mexico: Chavez County—the office for the D.A. is housed in a separate building other than the county courthouse complex; Lea County—housed on the top floor of the courthouse; Eddy County—separate building, at least one to two blocks away from the primary courthouse complex; Dona Ana County—top floor of the courthouse and in some instances the public has to walk outside the courthouse in order to get to a separate entrance into the district attorney's office; Otero County—top floor of the courthouse; Grant County—top floor of the courthouse; and Santa Fe County—top floor of the courthouse.

The county contends that in order to satisfy and aid a larger majority of the citizens of Lincoln County, especially those who are involved either as jurors or witnesses in trials, they would need to provide a witness room separate and apart from the back portion of the courtroom; there was not available a room where attorneys could interview clients and witnesses; where the citizens could be comfortably seated other than outdoors, or in the halls which created congestion in the courthouse; was inconvenient for the citizens of Lincoln County, and further created undue hardship especially for those with small children or the elderly who need decent places in which to rest or recline while awaiting appearances in court, jury service or the like.

The motion by the county ends with, "Furthermore, the District Attorney's office has not seen fit to approach the Lincoln County Commissioners in a cooperative and correct manner, but have instead, insisted that they be given the space which they want and that which was not necessarily in the best interests of the citizens of Lincoln County."

Judge rules for county on restraining order

By RUTH HAMMOND

A hearing to quash the restraining order was held in Carrizozo on July 29 with District Judge Robert Doughty presiding.

During the three-hour hearing, Wilcox asked Elliott if the county would have funds to relocate the district attorney's office. Elliott responded, "Certainly not." He added, "You guys initiated this request. We were trying to accommodate you."

Wilcox then asked Elliott, "Would the county commission be willing to reconsider and leave us in our current office space?"

Elliott answered, "I think we are here to do what is best for people of Lincoln County." He explained that the assessor's office is the fastest growing agency in the county next to the sheriff's office.

It was announced during the hearing that county assessor Marlan Schlarb had requested the office space that the district attorney now occupies. Her request stated that three new appraisers had been added and she needs the additional space at this time.

Wilcox asked commissioner Kenneth Nosker about communications between the commissioners and the district attorney's office. Nosker answered, "A letter was sent by the county manager, that is her job."

When Wilcox asked if there was any other communication telling him of the proposed relocation, Nosker responded, "I didn't take you by the hand and as far as I know none of the other commissioners did either."

Two vehicles collide

A head-on collision occurred Tuesday at about 7:15 p.m. on E. Avenue in Carrizozo.

Kelli Vigil, driving a Ford Carrier, and David Vermilion, jailer at the Lincoln County Courthouse, driving a red Chevrolet truck, met head-on. Vermilion sustained a shoulder injury. Vigil had left the scene before Chief of Police C. A. Morales and Officer Chris Gomez arrived to investigate.

Gomez prepared an accident report. Judge S. M. Ortiz told the NEWS Wednesday afternoon that he had not received the report and was unaware that the accident had occurred.

Wilcox asked if he would be willing to reconsider and leave the district attorney's office in the present room. Nosker said, "No."

Commissioner A. W. Gnatkowski testified, "You asked for more space and we gave it to you."

A recess was called for the judge to make a tour of the offices in question.

In his closing statement, Wilcox asked that the restraining order stand until after the first of the year. Doughty asked, "What is the significance of Jan. 1, 1987?"

Wilcox answered, "As I understand, new commissioners will take office. We will renegotiate then."

Doughty found in favor of the county and said, "I have no choice but to set aside the temporary restraining order."

County attorney Gary Mitchell asked Mr. Wilcox to come to the next commission meeting and talk to the commissioners about the matter.

Doughty said, "I look forward to hearing that matter is resolved by the 30th day."

"Who authorized this sign?"

Ernest V. Joiner's
OPINION

● "PUTTING the bite" on people is being practiced literally. In Carrizozo recently, a youth was bitten by another, and required medical attention. Cases of people biting people has prompted the City of New York Health Department to include in its annual survey statistics on who's been biting whom. It states that in 1985 dogs were the champion people biters, with 8,809 cases reported. Next were people, who inflicted 1,591 bites on their fellow citizens that required medical attention. Not to worry, for as Schopenhauer once said, "It is only cold-blooded animals whose bite is poisonous."

● IN San Francisco, a 5th grade boy who was the victim of bites and other assaults by bullies in his own classroom has filed a $351,000 lawsuit against his former classmates and their school. The assaults were so bad that Jason Reilly, 10, had to switch schools just to stay alive. According to news dispatches, the boy's teacher did nothing to stop the bullies from beating on the boy, even in the classroom. For the injustice committed, $351,000 seems small compensation. If the school is smart, it will pay off and not have to run the risk of having the court add another million dollars as punitive damages.

● IT must be the silly season. In London, a taxi driver is serving seven days in jail for refusing to pay fines imposed when he refused to transport a pipe-puffing passenger from a London airport. In Grand Prairie, TX people accused of misdemeanor crimes can charge their fines or make bail by presenting their credit cards, a convenient way to raise fine/bail money and at the same time keep the jails from being overcrowded. And, the Old West lives in New Mexico. Last week, a defendant appeared before Judge Diane Dal Santo in Albuquerque Metropolitan Court, openly carrying a loaded pistol. A police officer quickly snatched the .25-caliber automatic from one Santiago Candelaria's waistband. Later, it had to be returned when the outraged judge found that it is perfectly legal to openly carry a loaded gun in a courthouse, or anywhere else, unless the owner is under the influence of drugs or alcohol. On the other hand, New Mexico leads the pack in outlawing smoking in public places, which is about everywhere. Guns, si; tobacco, no.

● LET'S hear it for Raphael Gregorian who recently sued the Soviet Union for $250,000 for libel. US District Judge David Kenyon ruled the Soviets must pay Gregorian $163,000, the first time a libel award against the Soviet Union has been made in a foreign country. How to collect? Gregorian's lawyer said that "if they don't pay, they will force us to seize Soviet assets in the United States." Good luck. But what will he do with 173,231 KGB agents?

● STILL the silly season. In a move that would make a prima donna blush, the district attorney has filed suit against Lincoln County to force commissioners to provide him with more quarters in the courthouse that are more to his liking. The commissioners, bless their hearts, are not impressed. They know the state statutes provide that the county must furnish adequate quarters for the district attorney, but they balk at letting the DA lop off some of the county assessor's already overcrowded office space to provide his assistant an office on the first floor that will save him from having to climb to proposed office space on the second floor, as the commissioners want to provide. All this isn't necessary if commissioners take the advice of the assistant DA, Harry Wilcox Jr. He told a citizen not long ago that, instead of filing a complaint against some troublemakers, he should settle the matter with his fists. Wilcox's advice seems appropriate in this instance. Why doesn't Horrible Harry take the commissioners out in the middle of Central Avenue and beat the hell out of them with his fists?

● A district judge has ordered Rio Arriba County Commissioners to pay nearly $10,000 in legal fees incurred by a weekly newspaper that sued to force the county to release a public record. Judge Patricia Serna ordered the county to pay lawyers for the Rio Grande Sun for refusing to release a document on alleged corruption and mismanagement in the county road department. Attorney for the defendant said he would appeal on grounds that the document was a criminal investigation exempt from provisions of the state's public records laws. This is the sort of bureaucratic crap the Lincoln County News runs into when its reporters attempt to extract legitimate news from Carrizozo's city hall. Everything we want to know is "under investigation," even if it isn't. Nothing has happened, even when they know we know it has. Keep it up, boys. After all, $10,000 isn't so much money, especially when it doesn't come out of the pockets of those who mess around with public records.

● IN Pipersville, PA a father has sued his ex-wife for bearing his child without permission. During their marriage, Danny Keller complains, his wife took samples of his sperm which she stored at a hospital sperm bank. After their divorce, she impregnated herself with his sperm and was rewarded with a child, Amanda, who was 2 on July 13. He has been paying $89 a week child support, which he wants stopped. He also wants $20,000 each from the ex-wife and from the hospital that double-crossed him. Now, that's a public record!

● THIS should be of interest to parents of teenagers and to courts that release juvenile offenders with a kindly fine and who consider probation to be "dire punishment." In Crown Point, IN a 16-year-old girl who pled guilty to masterminding the robbery and stabbing death of a 78-year-old Bible teacher, was sentenced last month to die in the electric chair. Paula Cooper, because her parents imposed no discipline, and because of the leniency of a succession of softhearted judges, has become the first female juvenile ever to receive the death penalty since the Supreme Court reinstated the death penalty in 1976.

Religious heritage under fire from within

When word got out that the United Methodist Hymnal Revision Committee had voted on May 17 to delete "Onward Christian Soldiers" and "Battle Hymn of the Republic" from the church's new hymn book, all hell, as they say, broke loose.

Church telephones were jammed across the country. More than 8,000 letters poured in, with only 40 of them supporting the deletion. And 12 regional conferences of the church took formal action for restoration of the hymns.

The committee, which considered the hymns to be too militaristic, voted them back in the book. It also decided to retain "Am I a Soldier of the Cross" and "Soldiers of Christ, Arise." Whew! But this is only the first round of what is sure to be a running controversy until the church's General Conference confirms or denies the committee's recommendations in 1988.

Militarism is only one of several rationales for messing with some of the great hymns of Christendom.

"Good Christian Men, Rejoice," and "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen" will be changed because they are considered too sexist. "Faith of Our Fathers" will survive, but a footnote will suggest that "martyrs" or "ancestors" may be substituted for "fathers" by those who wish to do so. "God of Our Fathers" becomes "God of the Ages." In "All Things Bright and Beautiful," the pronoun "He" is dropped when referring to God.

The traditional "Amen" at the end of most hymns is being dropped, "Aper-son" being out of the question as a substitute.

Still, with the inconsistency that has become its hallmark, the committee has agreed to retain "Rise Up O Men of God," despite the title's perceived sexism.

The end is nowhere in sight. The committee is entertaining objections from Native Americans about how the "Pilgrim feet" in "America the Beautiful" trample on Indian rights and dignity. And it is hearing complaints from the speech-impaired over the words "when falling lips grow dumb" in "O For a Thousand Tongues to Sing."

Other denominations are also rewriting and eliminating hymns, although with less zeal apparently than the Methodist hierarchy. The Episcopalians, for example, in The Hymnal 1982 eliminate references to God as "Father," "Son," and "Holy Spirit" and replace with genderfree terms such as "Creator," "Redeemer," and "Comforter." And Franz Joseph Haydn's stirring "Glorious Things of Thee are Spoken" has been deleted because it is the same melody as the German national anthem during World War II.

Aroused Methodists who succeeded in keeping "Onward Christian Soldiers" and "Battle Hymn of the Republic" in their church did so to preserve a valued part of their heritage. That is precisely what this controversy is all about: preserving religious and cultural heritage.

WASHINGTON

The mortification of Mr. Breslin

NEW YORK — On Sunday, July 6, as part of WOR-Radio, New York's observance of Liberty Weekend, I broadcast a tribute to Irving Berlin and Kate Smith, along with Lafayette's tribute to George Washington and selections from the most memorable of the speeches of Presidents Lincoln, the two Roosevelts, Kennedy and Reagan and General MacArthur.

I did not really imagine that this bi-partisan program, entitled "Liberty in Song and Speech" would engender any controversy or resentment. But in this blissful (if ostrichlike assumption), I neglected to remember the enduring aphorism: "There's one in every crowd."

This "one" came on during the opening minutes of the program immediately following mine. For Dick Oliver, an affable colleague who hosts the daily New York Daily News Show on WOR, invited me to sit in on and listen, by telephone, to the reaction of one of that newspaper's stable of columnists, Mr. Jimmy Breslin.

Mr. Oliver asked Mr.

Breslin for "Your reactions on this weekend; we are now at the concluding hours of this weekend..." which inspiring occasion. I noted, included the presidents of both France and the United States, an international fleet of ships both tall and short, enough fireworks to constitute a phatasmagoric avara borealis, a significant segment of all the stars of Las Vegas and Hollywood and several million other people.

Imagine my exhilaration when this noted columnist, Mr. Jimmy Breslin, designated me (in a manner of speaking) as the most memorable aspect of all Liberty Weekend!

"NUMBER ONE" is the precise terminology Mr. Breslin employed in his undeniably rapt attention to Little Me, when he was asked for his reactions to Liberty Weekend. This number one designation was, admittedly, marred by some rather gauche negativity, even acerbity, to wit:

"Well, number one, I'd just like to say I'm mortified that I'm on the same program with this preposterous bum like the fella you've got on. I'm a person of talent, and he's a person of stupidity."

I tried to be philosophical about this — by shouting some Schopenhauer. I was obliged to shout, because poor Dick Oliver felt it necessary to ask Mr. Breslin:

"Jimmy, are you just gonna scream into the telephone?"

For all I knew, Mr. Breslin may also have been foaming at the mouth. And I wondered if any other talk show host has caused Mount Breslin to erupt with such volcanic force. (I learned later, from an authoritative source, that Mr. Breslin has also raged on the telephone about my friend and colleague, Dr. Bernard Meltzer, if you please — which suggests that Mr. Breslin may be afflicted with amoebic dyspepsia.)

I noted with particular interest Mr. Breslin's invaluably informative statement: "I'm a person of talent!" — as nobody can deny, surely not Mr. Breslin himself.

For example, the Associated Press confirms that Mr. Breslin was recently the recipient of the Pulitzer Prize — an award controlled by the (hardly objective) Columbia School of Journalism.

Since, in my view, the interest value and literary construction of the few Breslin columns I have ever noticed makes this column eminently easy not to, I confess to a considerable measure of surprise that even Columbia J-School, along with the Big Media types it brings in as advisers for this annual awarding, would have selected Mr. Breslin over vastly more talented Daily News columnists such as William F. Buckley Jr.

On the other hand, in addition to De Gustibus Non Disputandum, there is the fact that Pulitzer Prizes have been awarded to Walter Duranty of The New York Times — for lying; to Janet Cooke of The Washington Post — for lying; to Jack Anderson for his being marvelously adept at operating the Xerox, and to Richard Aregood of The Philadelphia Daily News for savage stridency in glib illogic.

Letters TO THE EDITOR

Why?

EDITOR—After reading your newspaper for several years, I'm puzzled — just WHY do you choose to live in this God-forsaken, crime-infested, poorly managed community? You left once but returned WHY?

I keep hoping I'll see a positive side to your nature. I for one am proud of our town, our adults, our young people, and yes, the mayor!

SUE STEARNS, Nogal.

(ED. NOTE—If you're so proud of "this God-forsaken, crime-infested, poorly managed community," why are you living in Nogal?)

Why No. 2

EDITOR—Why don't we let our mayor do his job? We have a good honest man who is trying to build up our community, but he needs the town's support to do this? Why drag his name around in the dirt and exploit every petty little thing he does just because you don't like him? There is not another person who has done more for our community than Bob Hemphill, and there is not a harder working man in this town. So you don't like the fact that he is mayor. Too bad! You will have to live with it because he won't back down. It does no good to harass him, so why waste his time and yours. Why don't we leave the gossip column out of the paper and give him the support he deserves! After all, this is a newspaper, not the Carrizozo Inquirer, so let's get these reporters off of his case and let him do his job.

JAMIE PATTERSON, Bingham

Cutting off the nose . . .

EDITOR—Are we examining events in South Africa in the proper perspective? If we divest in South Africa in order to bring down the heinous apartheid government, aren't we cutting off our nose to spite our face? We are merely replacing this government with a communist government which from a humanitarian point of view as well as from our own self-interest would be an infinitely worse situation.

From a humanitarian point of view you will be replacing the apartheid government with a government whose Soviet masters and their cronies around the world are responsible for murdering or starving to death more than 100 million people since the Red Revolution.

Are we so guiltless of atrocities that we can afford to point an accusing finger at others? What about the 1 1/2 million children we murder each year through abortion? Since most of your black leaders support abortion, they are responsible for more atrocities to their people than all the apartheid leaders in South Africa.

From a self-interest point of view, South Africa is a unique source of raw materials that are indispensable to our vital industries; and if South Africa falls to the Soviets, we all will be at the Soviet's mercy.

CORNELIUS U. MORGAN, Baltimore, MD.

Tut—tut, Tutu

EDITOR—On Tuesday, July 22, Bishop Desmond Tutu responded to President Reagan's speech on South Africa by saying "the West, as represented by President Reagan, can go to Hell as far as I am concerned."

Bishop Tutu should return his Nobel Peace Prize and apologize to President Reagan and every member of the Western World for consigning them to Hell. It is hard to believe a man of God, whose primary ministry should be to prevent people from going to Hell, could wish hundreds of millions of people to go there.

It was enough for Bishop Tutu to declare himself a socialist at the 1983 meeting of the World Council of Churches in Vancouver. It is sad that he has suggested on several occasions that violence may be a necessary option for the non-whites of South Africa. But it is tragic when this man of God and Nobel Peace Prize winner would wish people to suffer in Hell forever. The Bishop surely knows that the first principle of Christianity is love and forgiveness.

If Jerry Falwell had publicly suggested that anyone go to Hell, the international media would have discredited me forever as a minister of the Gospel, and of love, and of peace—and the media would have been absolutely correct in doing so.

I call upon Bishop Tutu to apologize and ask for the forgiveness of the many he has offended.

One year ago, when I said that Bishop Tutu was a phony if he purported to speak for a majority of non-whites in South Africa, there was a clamor from the media for an apology from me. I extended it in a two-page telegram to the Bishop. If the Bishop does not now apologize, then perhaps I should recall mine.

DR. JERRY FALWELL, President, Liberty Federation, Lynchburg, VA.

Bumperstickers

SANTA FE—Those of us who live in this capital city have to guard ourselves to keep from believing other New Mexico towns are like this one. They aren't—which should be cause for reasonable happiness to those of you who don't live here.

Primarily, Santa Fe differs from wherever it is you live by reason of the fact that it is a "company" town, and the "company" isn't one that controls things anywhere else. It's government, which is far and away the biggest payroll provider for this part of the world.

With that, there is an inevitable follow-up, which makes politics a way of life.

In that way, Santa Fe is different from almost every other city in the state.

DEGREES: That is not to suggest that other towns in New Mexico are politicsless; they obviously aren't. But here, given the fact that a majority of the citizens are on the state payroll, and the state payroll is directly based upon political decisions, politics becomes something of a way of life.

When you add to that fact the one that specifies that some families here are in their third or fourth generation as political jobholders, you get a degree of intensity to the process that isn't common anywhere else.

Understanding all that, we may still be allowed to comment on how that gubernatorial race looks if you only consider events taking place in Santa Fe.

Let's limit ourselves to one measure: bumperstickers.

If that's how you count things, and you confine your observation to this county, Ray Powell is a shoe-in to be our next governor.

REASONS: After you reach that conclusion, you have to start adjusting it slightly.

For one thing, more people put political bumperstickers on their cars here than they do in other areas. They're used to politicking, so they have always been ready to signal to others who it is they are supporting.

For another, most of those who work for the state in its various central offices spread around this city are Democrats, and they want to say so. A Powell bumpersticker delivers that message.

And then there's also the fact that Powell, with no opposition in the primary, had time to get offices set up and material distributed around the state—and Santa Fe is one of the places where he would be sure to start that.

So at present the Powell bumperstickers are way out ahead, as is obvious to anybody driving the streets of the capital city.

But will that last? CRITERION: That's why we raise the point here.

If Garrey Carruthers, Powell's opponent, is going to do well in the November election, he has to draw over to his side something like 25 to 30 percent of the registered Democrats in the state. Large numbers of those will have to come from Santa Fe County, where there is a concentration of members of that opposition party.

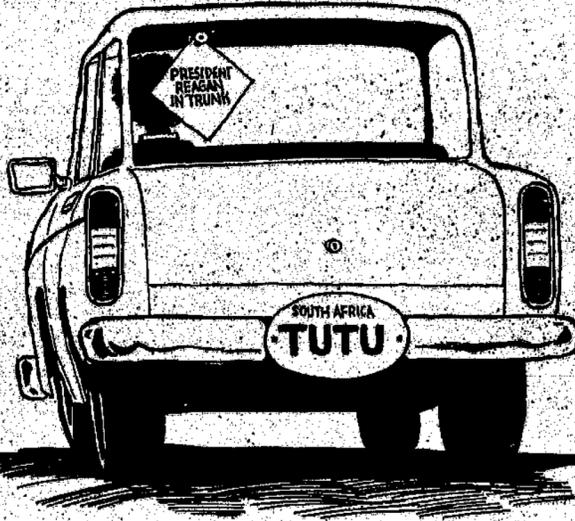

So we're going to be making a count as the summer wears on. If Carruthers bumperstickers start to appear here in any substantial numbers, we'll have an omen of how that man's campaign is doing.

Watch...

What was it that really motivated the Pulitzer People to choose Mr. Breslin? The AP reports that his award was for "Commentary" — but after Liberty Weekend Sunday, that is hard to believe. I conclude that they must have been touched by his humility.

As for the virtues of either courage or self-control, however, Mr. Breslin's behavior left poor Dick Oliver understandingly embarrassed. For after Mr. Oliver asked this Pulitzer prize winner: "Are you just gonna scream into the telephone?" Mr. Breslin hung up. (There is no way we can determine just how hard he slammed the phone—but that dial tone was very distinct.)

Burger to Rehnquist to Scalia

By RICHARD A. VIGUERIE

WASHINGTON, VIRGINIA — Pleading for votes in 1984, Walter Mondale claimed that "This election is about Jerry Falwell picking justices for the Supreme Court!" Mondale wasn't really afraid that a preacher would fill vacancies on the nation's highest court; he was afraid that Ronald Reagan would. Now his nightmare is coming true.

Appointed for life, Supreme Court members answer to no higher authority in government, yet their decisions have a great impact on America's day-to-day lives than almost anything the President or Congress can do directly. Supreme Court decisions in the last 30 years have made Huster available at the corner newsstand; bused kids across town to schools infested with drugs and violence; given unelected bureaucrats the right to make decisions that used to be made by elected representatives; and rebled unborn children of the right to life itself.

From entitlements, to racial quotas, to red tape, to rules that let murderers go free on technicalities, the Supreme Court has been at the heart of the problem. Thanks to Mr. Mondale's defeat and his opponent's victory, that problem may be nearing a solution. The Supreme Court and the lower federal courts are being filled with Reagan appointees, and that can make all the difference.

At the lower-court level President Reagan has already appointed more judges than any other recent president: 61 on the appeals court (compared to 56 for Jimmy Carter) and 214 on the district courts (compared to Carter's 206). This doesn't mean that the judiciary has been Reaganized, because the holdover judges generally range from moderate-liberal to radical, and many of the Reagan appointments were made on the recommendation of anti-Reagan Republicans like Senator Bob Packwood of Oregon.

But among the 275 Reagan-appointed judges are a good number of true believers in the conservative philosophy, and their impact will be felt increasingly as they gain more experience and prestige on the bench. As Burt Neuborne of the American Civil Liberties Union put it, "the lower courts are ready to follow if the Supreme Court radically shifts. It hasn't yet." Just wait.

Currently the members of the Supreme Court range from conservative Rehnquist and O'Connor, to moderates Burger and White, liberals Stevens and Powell and Blackmun, and radicals Marshall and Brennan. The radicals are determined to outlast Reagan, despite poor health and — let's be kind — surprising turns of mind. Remember how William Douglas, the last radical to leave the Court, held on until he was dozing on the bench because he didn't want arch-enemy Gerald Ford to appoint his successor? Marshall and Brennan, if they could, would phone in their votes from the afterlife rather than be replaced by Reagan appointees.

Nevertheless, it is likely that the President will get to make another appointment or two, because Powell, Blackmun, and the two radicals are all 77 or older. If President Reagan follows the pattern established with Rehnquist and Scalia, he will make the most of the opportunity to put conservatives on the Court, to bring an end to the chaos of the Burger Court.

Chief Justice Burger was a disaster. His intellectual weakness allowed the Court to wander all over the map, violating the first principle of law, that it should be predictable. Like the rules in a football game, the law doesn't work if it can be changed willy-nilly, yet Burger presided over such monstrosities as Roe v. Wade (the abortion decision, in which nine justices issued eight different opinions) and the recent redistricting cases (in which a plurality ruled that gerrymandering is, well, sometimes sort of partly illegal, on occasion). The Chief Justice is responsible for ensuring that the Court is at least coherent, and Burger failed. "I wasn't trying to overrule [Warren Court decisions]," he once said; "I was trying to make them work." He did neither.

Rehnquist is different. William Douglas once ruefully called him the smartest member of the Court. First in his class of Stanford — where he dated the Number Three student, the future Sandra O'Connor — Rehnquist was the Court's most conservative member for 15 years. He is the proud owner of a Lone Ranger doll, a gift from his aides that symbolizes his erstwhile position as a lonely dissenter from the Court's liberal consensus.

He's not so lonely now, not with Antonin Scalia joining O'Connor on the Court. Scalia, the son of an Italian immigrant (and the first Italian-American named to the Court), was first in his class at Georgetown. A former editor of Regulator magazine, he is so brilliant that most liberals have, so far, refrained from attacking him, lest their criticism seem partisan. Even more importantly, Scalia is no wallflower: He is an affable man, popular even with his adversaries, who somehow manages to build consensus even while he skewers the liberals in sharply-written, often-sarcastic opinions.

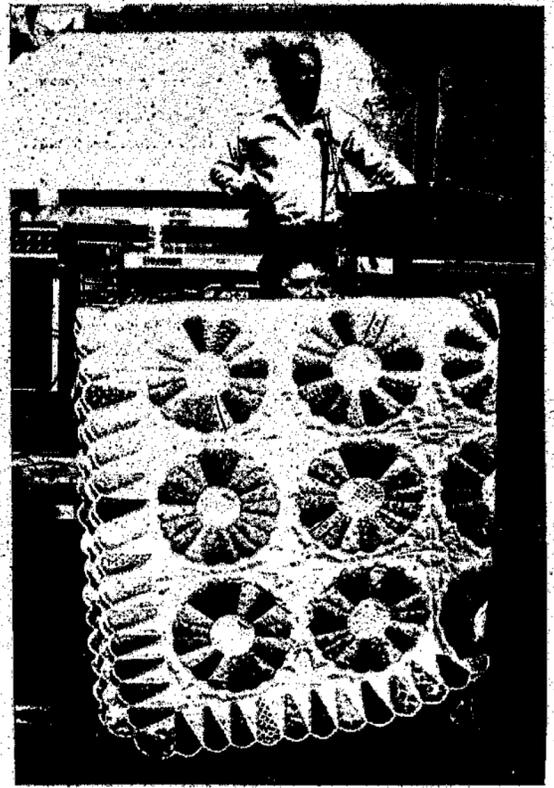

Scalia once called the Freedom of Information Act "the Taj Mahal of the Doctrine of Unanticipated Consequences, the Sistine Chapel of Cost-Benefit Analysis Ignored." When the lethal injection method of execution was challenged on the ground that the drugs used were not "safe and effective," as consumer-protection law requires, he noted, "The condemned prisoner is no more the 'consumer' of the drug than is the prisoner executed by firing squad a consumer of the bullets."

Attacking "affirmative" racism, he sarcastically suggested the perfect "affirmative action" plan: that individuals be awarded points, based on their family histories, to determine how much society owed them and vice versa. The R.J.H.S., he called it, for "Restorative Justice Handicapping system." Such a system would be difficult to administer, he admitted, but a Supreme Court that had reached the Roe v. Wade abortion decision "would not shrink from the task."

Judicial liberalism is pretty silly, and "Nino" Scalia gives it the respect it deserves. Yet he has a Reagan-like ability to get along with people despite philosophical differences and to tug his colleagues gently to the right. That's why Conservative Digest magazine, in 1984 when I was publisher, put him on its list of four recommendations for the Supreme Court.

Scalia will be Justice Brennan's current age in the year 2016. When Mondale said that the 1984 election would determine the direction of this country for a generation to come, he was right, and ain't it wonderful?

"Town to Enforce Curfew Ordinance," the headline announced in the Nov. 16, 1956 issue of Lincoln County News and Carrizozo Outlook:

"The Carrizozo town board of trustees met in regular session Thursday night, November 8, with all members present.

Lieut. Col. John J. McCarthy, School Superintendent R. G. Firman and School Board President Joaquin Ortiz were present to discuss the enforcement of the curfew ordinance. They pointed out instances of curfew violations.

"After considerable discussion, Mayor Wayne Withers stated he would instruct the town marshalls to strictly enforce the curfew. Those present agreed it would be best, in cases where children were picked up after curfew, to take them to the courthouse. There the juvenile officer would be notified and he in turn would contact the parents.

"The matter of small boys going into bars to shine shoes was brought to the attention of the trustees. The town marshalls were instructed to see that the practice was stopped."

FINAL HEARING

July 22 Carrizozo town trustees of 1986 discussed curfew ordinance. Again, only one interested parent was in the audience to participate in the plans to consider the adoption of a proposed curfew ordinance.

People who have curfew age children were at the town meeting on other business — C. A. Morales, chief of police; Faustino Gallegos, town foreman; Carol Schlarb, town clerk; Patsy Sanchez, trustee; and me.

Trustee Sanchez stated that people tell her that its "ridiculous to even have a curfew."

Mayor Hemphill's opinion: "Its ridiculous to have one (curfew) and its not enforced." I agreed.

The proposed ordinance will be published twice. At the town's 6 p.m., Aug. 12, regular meeting the council will listen to citizens' suggestions on curfew hours. If those present want to voice their opinion, this will be the final hearing.

The mother present wanted 10 p.m. straight across for curfew. Anyway, she said a provision is made for those youngsters who have a good excuse to be out later. Town attorney James R. Askew Jr. assisted the council in wording the proposed ordinance.

The proposed ordinance now has a curfew of 10 p.m., Sunday through Thursday, and 11 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays.

What do you think? Attend the meeting on Aug. 12.

POMP AND CIRCUMSTANCE

Socorro High School Counselor Robert Martinez noted at this year's awards assembly that the students who were recognized for academic achievements were the same ones whose parents had shown consistent support for the past 12 years.

"...They worried night after night that their teenage drivers would make it home safe, that friends were 'right' and that lessons in honesty and fairness would become second-nature. What remains, then, is for all high school graduates of the Classes of 1986 to turn to those same parents and say, 'Thanks. Thanks for everything.' ...And to remember the lessons they learned when they, themselves, are parents someday." —(Defensor Chieftain, Socorro.)

PARENT POWER

Sierra County Sentinel of July 23 had a police story in which five men were arrested with contributing to the delinquency of a minor as the result of a weekend incident.

I commend the mothers who alerted the officers to the situation. The women took matters in their own hands. They refused to be ostriches with their heads stuck in the sand in this big subject of teen alcohol abuse.

The mothers of two 14-year-old girls complained to police that their daughters had been picked up by the five young men and taken to area lakes and other locations. The mothers alleged the two young girls were given intoxicating beverages by the young men with immoral purposes in mind.

After police presented the evidence to the district attorney's office, warrants for the arrest of the five were authorized and issued. Those arrested include: Pablo Padilla, 26; Mark Smith, 20; Jay Smith, 23; Juan Regalado, 22; and Phillip Sanchez, 26, all of T or C.

THREE STAGES

"All truth passes through three stages. First it is ridiculed. Second it is violently opposed. Third it is accepted as being self-evident." —Schopenhauer

COUNTY BUDGET TIME

It's budget time in New Mexico, and Lea County Commissioners have tentatively set the 1986-87 budget for the county $13,030,249. (Tops 13 million.)

Lea County Commissioners each receive $7,600 per year or $633.33 per month. I was curious (as usual) and asked Fran Siddens, Lincoln County Clerk, what our commissioners receive in the way of money for their service. You didn't think it was voluntary work, did you?

Three commissioners — Bill Elliott, chairman; Ken Nosker, vice-chairman and W. A. Gnakowski, member, get $22,800, splitting it three ways at $7,600 each per year.

Starting in January 1987, three new commissioners will split $24,450 getting $8,150 each per year, says Siddens.

Salaries for elected officials are set by state statutes, she added.

Ward/Leslie families reunion

One hundred Ward-Leslie descendants and relatives of John C. and Namantha Vashil Ward gathered Saturday and Sunday, July 26-27, at the red brick schoolhouse in White Oaks for their 10th annual family picnic.

Chairman for this year, Mrs. Velma Ricciardi, assisted by Mrs. Ollie Patterson, both of Roswell, organized various activities as the family gathered Saturday morning. They then presided at a business meeting which began at 2:30 p.m. The family auction followed, featuring various arts and crafts made by family members. These were auctioned off by Zane Leslie Jr. of Farmington, NM. Children's activities were organized and supervised throughout the day by Tammy and Bill Ward of Alamogordo.

The 1986 Friendship Quilt was won by Kathy Gallagher of Roswell. The children's pillow cover was won by Terra Whellen of Los Lunas. A special commemorative medal for The Statue of Liberty was won by Joan Leslie of Capitan.

The Saturday night dance featured music by the western band "Wagon Wheel," from Alamogordo.

On Sunday morning there was a short memorial service at the Cedarvale Cemetery, a Federal Historical Site west of White Oaks where many of the family members are buried.

Four meals were cooked and served from a range recently purchased and installed in the kitchen by the Ward Family Reunion Board of Directors and the White Oaks Historical Society.

ON MY OWN

By Pat Kite

Tipping policy for singles

Has anyone ever figured out a single's tipping policy?

When I dine out alone, tipping is seldom a problem. I always leave a decent sum if the service is as pleasant and efficient as the waitperson can make it. Not only do I know it's hard work, I'm also trying to eliminate the common notion that women are cheapskate tippers. Frankly, some of the men I know.....

Which is precisely the problem and why we need some ballpark rules.

Because nobody has ever told me how to handle tipping when out on a pay-your-own way "date."

For example, I was having cocktails last night with a work acquaintance. He is older than I, prominent in his field and this is one of those "Thank gosh it's Friday" occasions.

I have my usual cocktail, price $3. He has one, price $3.75. We each pay for our own and I leave a 50-cent tip in front of my table place. I go to the lady's powder room. When I return, my tip has been moved so it's midway between he and I. There's no sign of any money from him. The waitress says "Thank you" to both of us. I'm still steaming.

Another example, I'm out with a male prospective beau for lunch. But since I don't want to start anything, which men often presume when they pay for anything, I had been insistent it be "Dutch treat."

Charles' roast beef sandwich was $3.75. My tuna salad was $4.75. The bill arrives and we split it in half. Then there's tip time. The service was exceptionally good, I leave a solid 15 percent. He leaves 5 percent, mixed with mine. When the waitress picks it up,

I want to say, "Hey, the decent tipper is me." But it sounds so awful.

The fellow never became a beau. I think he still wonders why.

But the topper was this dinner I had with a fellow who was once a long-term handholding friend and was now just a friend, period.

When dating, we really hadn't dined out much, him being sort of thrifty-fisted. At the time, this was o.k. because I was smitten and anything he did was wonderful.

Upon going our separate ways, we agreed to meet occasionally for dinner and chat. So we did. The restaurant was lovely, food great, service super.

Knowing Gene well, I asked the waitress for separate checks. Fine.

Tipping time came, I left my usual proper amount. I didn't see Gene leave anything, but that was his problem.

My problem came as we were leaving the table. For some reason I turned around to make sure I hadn't left anything behind.

My tip was no longer there. Gene. My date had put it in his pocket.

I told a friend of mine. She said she had come across the same situation and didn't know how to handle it either. Do you?

Carrizozo

Police Beat

Carrizozo town police officers submit handwritten reports to the police clerk of incidents the officers think are worthy of logging. The mayor has access to these "rough drafts."

Days later the police clerk attempts to type the reports, but they are not immediately filed for the public record. If and when the chief of police comes into the police clerk's office, he will read the type written incident reports. If the mayor is present the chief will ask him if he has read the incident reports. No mention is made of the police commissioner.

After the chief approves the typed incident reports, the NEWS reporter may or may not be allowed to see them. Sometimes an original (handwritten) report may be read by the reporter.

When the NEWS reporter is allowed to see incident accounts, the reporter checks them for name and street spelling errors. Incident grammar is clarified by asking the police clerk.

The NEWS source of some town police incident reports will continue to be taken of the radio log at the sheriff's department until the police department makes an effort to properly log the incidents and make them available to the NEWS.

Incidents called to the officers' attention by the dispatcher or incidents that the officers come in contact with in the course of their patrol are of interest to the community. The NEWS reporter does not mind waiting a reasonable length of time to allow the officer to prepare his report, after which it should be available to the NEWS.

Incidents under investigation should include correct nature of complaint, location of offense, time, date and officer assigned. The public should be aware that an accident has occurred, a crime committed, a complaint filed.

When the investigation is completed the police department should make the results available to the NEWS so that the public can be properly informed.

From the radio log at the sheriff's department: July 28, Monday, gunshots were heard around 12th Street and C Avenue at 9:12 p.m. Officer Adam Gomez dispatched... complaint of loud music at 10:24 p.m. on C Avenue... Gomez was advised at 11:47 p.m. that someone was threatening suicide. (Official reports from town police on these incidents may be available to the NEWS by next Tuesday.)

An Aspen Street resident reported July 27 at 11:50 p.m. that her granddaughter had seen someone at the window looking in. Officer Adam Montez responded to the call, no contact was made with the prowler, the officer's report states.

Montez issued traffic tickets to two on July 26. Driving separate vehicles, Charlie Gallegos and Daniel Zamora, both of Carrizozo, were each cited after midnight on charges of reckless driving and eluding an officer. The pair will appear in municipal court on July 31 according to police clerk Rosemary Gallegos. The clerk at first was reluctant to give the NEWS the names because of the possibility that the citations could be dismissed.

July 25, the sheriff's department dispatched Montez to the railroad depot at 2:33 a.m. A Mexican national suffered an amputated left foot as the result of an accident. The officer's report does not state how the injury occurred. The 40-year-old male was transported by ambulance to Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital.

From the radio log: July 25, Friday, 3:59 a.m. Montez apprehended three illegal aliens.

According to a report filed at the police department, the sheriff's department received a complaint July 25 from a citizen at 1 a.m. in reference to a family disturbance at the Ross Novotny residence on 12th Street. Chief of Police C. A. Morales was told that Montez needed assistance. "When Chief Morales arrived everything was under control. Chief Morales advised everyone to go home, which they did," the report states.

From the radio log: July 25, Friday, 11:37 p.m. Montez is told that there is a complaint of juveniles in cars making noise at Drexel Street.

From the radio log: July 24, Thursday, 4:12 p.m. A young boy says someone tried to run him over near the school. Morales talks to someone in a brown truck.

According to a report signed by Morales, a woman on Aspen Street reported to the sheriff's department that someone was "trying to steal her car and break into her house" on July 24. The sheriff's department had called Adam Montez in reference to a call from "a hysterical female by the name of Teresita Chavez," the town police report states.

Montez and Sheriff Deputy Duane Vinson, according to the town report, arrived and did not see anyone. Morales was called to assist the "possible car theft and possible B&E" the town report states.

The report concludes: "The vehicle that belongs to Miss Chavez did have some damage done to it. Pictures were taken and are on file. This is still under investigation. Investigating officer is Adam Montez."

O. B. Simmons reported July 23 that a window had been broken at his auto shop on 1208 D Avenue the previous day. Small tennis shoe prints were found and rock was discovered inside the building.

The police department has filed a report of the abandoned vehicle that remained parked in back of the Four Winds Restaurant for two weeks. Morales' report says he had the 1978 Monte Carlo towed away July 9 at the request of the business owner. The blue and white car had a Chihuahua, Mexico license plate.

A representative of Mean's Motor Co. said that their towing log show that the vehicle was picked up July 14. The employee said that a man claiming to be the owner inquired July 27 about the vehicle. Fees of $22.55 for towing plus $5 per day is charged for abandoned vehicles.

The police department has also filed a report on another abandoned vehicle. Morales says on his report that a station wagon (tan Buick) parked at Phillip 66 for a week was towed July 10. The vehicle had a Texas license.

THE EFFECT OF TALWIN ON MICE

Smith a Science Fair winner

Rusty Smith, a student at Ruidoso Middle School, placed first in the junior division at the New Mexico Science and Engineering Fair in Socorro.

In his project titled "The Effect of Talwin on Mice," Smith injected mice with the pain killer Talwin and ran the mice through a maze. He compared the performance of mice who got Talwin with mice who were not drugged.

Veterinarian Lynn Willard worked with Smith on injecting the drug into the blood stream of the mice. Smith, the 14-year-old son of Sherry Ankiam of Ruidoso and Edwin Smith of Lebanon, PA, received a blue ribbon and a $50 savings bond for first place. He also received a $100 savings bond from the New Mexico Veterinary Association Auxiliary and an honorable mention from the NM Dental Association.

The Socorro contest was held in April.

No moisture. Just heat, winds and sultry spells all of last week.

There were 2,374 registered visitors at the Smokey Bear Museum and State Park, from July 21-27. It is of interest to speak of some of those visitors and I do know that others enjoy it too. For example, Bill Stahl, who was then the lieutenant who commanded the Army platoon that found the Bear (Smokey) was a visitor July 21. Seven scouts of Troop 50 from Grants came the same day; 17 from the Baptist Children's Home, Record Cottage, Portales, enjoyed the movies as well. Forty from the Mesalero Summer Youth program showed their enjoyment. Mr. and Mrs. Claude Cundick of Blanket, TX were guests Thursday. They visited the Hobbs and attended their family reunion in Carrizozo last weekend. A group of five sisters from Perpetual Adoration, El Paso, were visitors. Some had not known Smokey was real. Then there were nine persons from "Desert Aire" Motorcycle Group, El Paso.

On the 27th, grandchildren of James Bernice Dean visited the graves of their grandparents in Capitan Cemetery. Their father was Asa Reese Dean and he was born here, and moved away when he was 10 years old. Their mother, Shirley Dean, children's names are Sandra Lynn Dean and James Bernice, were there the 27th. That same day, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hare and grandsons, Patrick and Kyle Chavez of Barstow, CA. Tom is a cousin of Geraldine Randle. He has lived in Barstow for 30 years and was a former resident of Roswell. It's great to see and know that some former residents of our village and state visit with us.

Gary and Suzie Morton had a nice guest from California, Richard Farnsworth. He has starred in many popular movies such as, The Grey Fox, Tom Horn and Sylvester, and many more. Farnsworth is a good friend of the Mortons. He enjoyed his stay in Lincoln. Gary will be attending the Cowboy Classic Art Show this weekend.

Patsy, Tammi and Brandi Peralta went to Espanola over the weekend to spend a few days with Isidro, who had been working in the Espanola area. They went to the Fiesta in Tacos, went swimming, and just enjoyed a few days away from home.

Lots of Capitan folks traveled to House, NM for the wedding of Grady Le Eldridge and his bride, Melanie. Everyone reported, it was a beautiful ceremony. Much luck to these great kids. I wish this couple many years of wedded happiness together.

The George and Dona Hobbs family reunion was held at the home of Dona Pumphrey in Carrizozo last weekend attended by 66 persons. Several friends also attended.

Terry, Kay, Rhonda and Melinda Strickland visited with the Ken Green family in Carlsbad last weekend. Karen Green is visiting with the Stricklands for a week.

Maxine Wright went to Lubbock, TX Friday to spend the weekend with her mother, Elsie Kidd, and to visit with her sister, Jonell Lucas.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Payne and family attended the funeral of his cousin's daughter Dena Lynn Gore, at White Oaks Friday. They also attended the Leslie/Ward family reunion in White Oaks.

Hilario Trujillo spent several days in the Carlsbad hospital last week when he went to visit his daughter, but at this time he is here at home. I wish you the very best recovery, Hilario.

Here is a report of an interesting and enjoyable trip taken by Sharron Darby, Devon Darby and Anthony Montes July 6-15. Oklahoma City—Cowboy Hall of Fame, Springfield, IL—Abe Lincoln home, Chicago, IL—Shedd Aquarium, scenic boat tour on Lake Michigan, Aurora, OH—Sea World, Shamoos the whale, dolphins and seals, Canton, OH—NFL Football Hall of Fame, Pennsylvania—Valley Forge and Gettysburg, New York—Time Square, Broadway, Madison Square Garden and the Holland Tunnel, New Jersey—Statue of Liberty, Washington, D.C.—White House, Jefferson Memorial, Washington Monument, Lincoln Memorial, US Capitol, Smokey Bear at the National Zoological Park and the Chinese Pandas, Pentagon, US Supreme Court and Library of Congress, Senate offices and Representative offices where they met Senators Domenici and Bingham and Rep. Lujan, also talked with aides of Reps. Skeen and Richardson.

Arlington, VA—Marine Band and Marine Silent Drill Team and special honor guard, the Iwo Jima Memorial. Devon and Anthony had their photographs with Senator Domenici and Rep. Lujan. They spent a lot of time on turnpikes, tollroads, tunnels and freeways. Sharron had her wallet stolen in Tennessee with credit cards, etc. She was very fortunate in getting a policeman who was off duty to assist her. He took care of calls to have credit cards cancelled, although she did not get her wallet back.

Thank you Sharron, for sharing this with us for it is very interesting and I appreciate it. I traveled with you as I read it. What an educational vacation and trip. Memories will linger on forever.

Lincoln County

'Long Ago'

By Ruth Hammond

The Lincoln Republican, Lincoln, New Mexico, Friday, June 10, 1892.

The Local Budget
There are several fires in the timber in the White mountains.

The County Commissioners met Wednesday and adjourned Thursday of this week.

Mrs. Roberts and Miss Lillie took in the sights of the thriving village of Nogal, Monday.

Mr. Perea, who has been out in search of the horse thief who escaped from jail last week, has returned after an unsuccessful hunt. He found no trace of him.

On Tuesday last, the thermometer registered 105° in the shade, in Lincoln, at 2 p.m., and at about the same hour 119° at Fort Stanton. The morning, till sometime after sunrise, was cool to chilliness.

Lincoln County Gold

The Fortune of White Oaks
The Promise of the Jicarilla and White Mountains.

Since the fortunate owners of the "Old Abe" struck the wonderfully rich veins in their claim, the mining interests of Lincoln county have received an impetus that, sooner or later, must result in a development of the extensive mineral resources of this section of New Mexico.

The most peculiarly attractive gold fields in this part of the country are the enormously rich placers and untold leads in the Jicarilla mountains. New leads are constantly being bared, whilst the hard rock of the entire country carries gold. The bear is of low grade, whilst all of the free-milling rock of the country carries gold in large quantities. The placers are peculiar in that the gold permeates the loose soil and does not entirely rest upon what is known as "bed-rock."

The roots of trees and even grass being carefully washed, gold is discovered.

The Local Budget

The fires in the White mountains are doing much damage to the timber. Our streets were enlivened by a mind fight between two of our citizens, the other day. Nobody hurt.

At the commencement exercises at Las Vegas Seminary, a Lincoln county girl took the "honors," the James Campbell medal being awarded to Miss Genevieve McCourt, of White Oaks.

The Editor of the Republican has been sick this week, and one of the typos absent, which may account for the small quantity of original or other matter in the paper this week.

Friday, July 8, 1892

The Local Budget
There was a Mexican circus in Lincoln, Saturday.

The Rio Bonito celebrated the 4th by getting full, so to speak.

Mrs. Roberts and Miss Lillie have returned from White Oaks.

Mrs. Frank Lesnet, is coming up the "Beautiful Roswell Country" to stay.

The local editor is visiting in eastern Kansas, and we have been promoted.

The dance last Wednesday night was well attended by the beauty and chivalry of Lincoln and was a success in every particular.

A splendid rain fall occurred here on Monday afternoon. More water fell then, than had previously fallen here for six months. The heated term is apparently broken.

The editor of the El Paso Bulletin, Prof. Longuemare, will visit Lincoln county, for the purpose of writing up the resources of our county, as tributary to the proposed independent railroad.

Mrs. S. E. Barber, the cattle queen of Lincoln county, with her residence at White Oaks, came down from the north last night and will remain in the city at the San Felipe until after the Fourth. -Citizen.

Mr. D. Perea tells us that he has lived twenty-one years in Lincoln, and never knew of the Bonito being so high as it was last Monday. He also states that quite a number of families on the low lands above us, have lost their entire wheat crops.

W. S. Ryan is again upon our streets after a spell of sickness.

Willie Gray a young son of S. T. Gray of the Salado is confinned to his bed with rheumatism.

Mr. Frank Raible, Business manager of the Old Abe Eagle, and one of the most progressive young men in New Mexico, was a caller at this office this week. He lives in White Oaks, and has great hopes for the future for that busy little town.

We were told yesterday by a gentlemen who ought to know, that Roswell was all under water and the last that was seen of the Editor of the Register, he was sitting on a board that was sailing towards the open sea, with a pencil and paper writing up the "Beautiful Roswell Country."

There is some talk of organizing a whist club. Now don't let it be all talk.

Col. Richard Hudson was confirmed by the Senate as agent at the Mesalero reservation.

Mrs. Capt. Baca who has been confined to her room and bed is able to about again.

J. V. Tully of Stanton, came down the "see the folks and get some peaches," this week.

We were compelled to make a trip to White Oaks, after our last issue, and did not get to our cases until Wednesday morning. Mrs. McGinnis being absent in eastern Kansas, it has been physically impossible to do otherwise than to offer our subscribers a half sheet this week. We hope the quality will make up for the deficiency in quantity.

Southern Rocky Mountain Rendezvous

1500 buckskinners to turn back the clock

Final preparations are underway for the first Southern Rocky Mountain Rendezvous to be held Aug. 4-10 on the lower Eagle Creek about 10 miles from Ruidoso.

As many as 1,500 buckskinners are expected from as far away as Florida, said Diana Meyer, a member of the Lincoln Mountain Men.

She said groups from throughout the United States had called to register, and a group from Canada is expected.

"We are very excited about the possibilities. It promises to be a good chance for people to see what life was like in the 1850s," Meyer said.

She said organizers were at the rendezvous site most of last week setting up corrals and several teepees for the event.

Meyer is in charge of organizing a whist club. Now don't let it be all talk. Col. Richard Hudson was confirmed by the Senate as agent at the Mesalero reservation.

Mrs. Capt. Baca who has been confined to her room and bed is able to about again.

J. V. Tully of Stanton, came down the "see the folks and get some peaches," this week.

We were compelled to make a trip to White Oaks, after our last issue, and did not get to our cases until Wednesday morning. Mrs. McGinnis being absent in eastern Kansas, it has been physically impossible to do otherwise than to offer our subscribers a half sheet this week. We hope the quality will make up for the deficiency in quantity.

The mountain men are lining up water buffalos or water tanks, setting up shooting ranges, getting the commissary area and the headquarters ready for occupancy.

"Sertoma and the Lions Club will help us, but we still need more volunteers. It will take about 100 people to make sure everything runs smoothly," Meyer said.

"All we can do is promise the volunteers one heck of a good time," she added.

Barbara Downs, the group's secretary, said about 200 pre-registration packets were mailed through last week. Four buckskinners can be expected for each packet, she said.

The 100-acre rendezvous site will be divided into four main areas. One for parking for day visitors, another for camping by conventional campers, a third for primitive campers and a fourth for traders.

The primitive area will be restricted to participants who do everything and dress in pre-1850s clothing. "Everything must be authentic. This means no plastic buttons on the clothes and no modern appliances," Meyer said.

Visitors will be permitted in the primitive area each afternoon between 2 and 6 p.m. to observe demonstrations and other events.

Meyer said it is hoped they can have horse drawn wagons to carry people through the primitive area.

In the commissary area, Indian fry bread will be sold. Frontier Barbecue will have a booth set up, a grocery store and saloon run by Pat Hanks will be selling goods, All American Deli, the Spirit of Ruidoso and the noon Lions Club will also sell food.

Waffles Away and Funnel Cakes are to provide desserts.

In another area, Dusty Claire will rent horses to those who want to see the site on horseback.

And, like the frontier-era rendezvous, there will be contests in muzzleloader shooting, tomahawk and knife throwing, survival courses, dog races, mule races, bow matches, lance throws, foot races, frying pan tosses and cooking contests.

Muzzleloaders are guns which must be loaded with gun powder through the muzzle.

Several participants in the rendezvous are expected to arrive this weekend to participate in the Old Lincoln Days Pageant in Lincoln.

Downs encouraged local residents to visit the rendezvous. "There will be plenty going on, and it's not things you see everyday," Downs said.

To get to the rendezvous site, take Hull Road to Eagle Creek Canyon Road and follow the signs for about three miles, there will be a gate and a teepee on the left and this is the entrance to the site.

If all goes as planned the wooded acreage will be transformed into an authentic pre-1850s trading village.

"Right now they have about five teepees set up. When they light fires inside at night, the glow just gives you goose bumps. It's so lovely," Downs said.

FFA member goes to Washington

WASHINGTON, DC—Jamie Patterson of the Carrizozo FFA chapter, is attending the 1986 Washington Conference Program in the nation's capital.
 The week-long program helps FFA members improve leadership skills, develop an understanding of national heritage, and prepare for more effective leadership roles in their chapters and communities.
 Visits to Mount Vernon, the Smithsonian Institution, Arlington National Cemetery, Jefferson Memorial and other historic sights in Washington are included in the conference.
 A highlight of the week is a visit to the office of Cong. Joe Skeen of Picacho.
 FFA members also had an opportunity to visit both the House of Representatives and Senate chambers while Congress was in session.
 Her FFA adviser is Mike Gaines. The trip to the conference was sponsored by the State FFA Association, NMSU, Las Cruces; FFA alumni, Carrizozo; and the Carrizozo School Board.

CC advertising contract let

An Albuquerque advertising agency in conjunction with an Irving, TX public relations firm has been selected to handle promotions for Ruidoso for the next year.
 Epstein Communications and Crume Public Relations were chosen from three presenters to handle the $164,000 advertising budget for the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce.
 The budget includes some cooperative ad campaigns with the Ruidoso Downs racetrack, said chamber ad committee chairman Robert Boverie.
 The funds also include village monies from the Lodger's Tax Fund, but not state matching dollars.
 Epstein is also the ad agency for the State of New Mexico, and Boverie said that fact played a part in his committee's decision.
 "Our choice was based partly on them having the state contract and we liked their creative ideas," he said, adding that Epstein had handled Ruidoso's account several years ago.
 At a meeting to work out a contract last week, Bob Epstein said that he was very happy to be chosen for the account. "We plan on working very hard to show you that you are not just another account," Epstein told the committee. "My words don't really mean anything until we prove that to you," he added.

 Cynthia Sutton of Crume was also at the meeting.
 Boverie said that he would like to see a marketing plan for the village worked out by Aug. 1 and a media plan on how to spend their budget by Sept. 1.
 Boverie, who owns the KOA River Ranch Kampground, was recently elected by the chamber board of directors to chair the advertising committee.
 Other committee members are Harry Georgeades, Steve Tally, Kevin Clear, Carla Trapp-Beasley, Tina Hall and Pat Breedlove.
 Mayor Lloyd Davis Jr., Rod Adamson of the lodger's tax committee, chamber executive director John Jeffers and chamber president Bill Hirschfeld are ex-officio members.

Pays for airport land

Tax hike to 6.5 percent is the highest in state

By RIGO CHAVEZ

Ruidoso Mayor Lloyd Davis Jr. cast the deciding vote as the village council approved a .5 percent hike in gross receipts taxes to pay for the acquisition of the current Ruidoso airport site.

"I hated to have to break the tie, but I feel the .5 percent was right," Davis said following the vote which saw councilors Jerry Shaw, Ray Dean Carpenter and Larry Simon line up in support of the tax increase.

Davis added that he would not have minded if the tax increase went to a public referendum, which councilor Elmer Pirelli said he supported.

Councilors Victor Alonoso and Dub Holt supported a .25 percent hike with the remaining funds to acquire the 160-acre airport site coming from other sources including lodger's tax, economic development funds and the general fund.

The airport has been appraised at $2.6 million and the new tax rate should generate $550,000 in new revenues each year, village officials said.

The new tax rate, which will bring Ruidoso's gross receipts tax to 6.5 percent, will go into effect Jan. 1, 1987.

Ruidoso voters still have the option of circulating petitions and forcing the village to put the tax to a public referendum.

Village clerk Leon Eggleston said if a referendum is called the soonest the election could be held would be Dec. 22 and that would delay implementation of the tax until July 1987.

The council heard over an hour of debate on the tax increase issue at its regular meeting Tuesday night.

Federal Aviation Administration officials told councilors last week that any delay in coming up with the $2.6 million for the current airport would slow construction of the proposed airport on Fort Stanton Mesa.

Charlotte Jarratt of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce's Economic Development Task Force asked that the council limit the tax increase to .25 percent.

Councilor Shaw said during the debate that she was opposed to the tax increase, but supported keeping the airport land.

"I can't see taking money from the general fund to pay for it," Shaw said.

Simon said that he thought letting the public decide the issue was "copping out."

"I don't think this (the tax hike) is the easy way out," Simon said.

"We're going to start cutting our throat down the line if we start taking money from the general fund," Simon said.

Holt disagreed, saying that the council already had made a 10 percent cut in the budget, "and I haven't heard anyone complain about a cut in services."

"If we could cut another 10 employees we are talking about almost $400,000 in total savings. I think it's time we tightened our belts," Holt said.

Former village councilor Al Junge told the council that they should seriously consider the consequences if the tax hike failed in a public referendum.

"If it fails, you'd really have a nut to crack. The public would probably support a quarter percent now," Junge said.

In other business, the council:

—approved a request for a change order on the Eagle Creek Well project of $7,096.92;

—approved the purchase of 10,000 village of Ruidoso lapel pins for $6,100;

—approved a dispensers license for the new Safeway store on Highway 70;

—heard a report on the Sierra Blanca Airport from Rim Morris;

—approved a conditional use permit for Debi Jester to operate a family day care center in a residential area;

—heard a report from village manager Jim Hine on a special meeting at 3 p.m. on Aug. 5 to discuss proposed bridge construction in the Upper Canyon and Community Development Block Grant applications.

Ruidoso Downs

Trustees upgrades its police communications

By NORMAN ASHLEY

The Ruidoso Downs Board of Trustees met in regular session Monday night and approved the purchase of radio equipment to add a second channel, separating police communications from other village departments.

The radio repeater would prevent jamming of radio communications, especially during emergencies. The police department will have a channel dedicated to police and emergency uses, and the fire and street departments would share the present channel.

Charles Robinson, village enforcement officer and former police captain, told the board of a case where he had responded to a domestic disturbance. There had been a fight and stabbing at the scene, but he was unable to call for backup officers because the single radio channel was being used for other communications at the time.

Trustees unanimously approved the $4,100 purchase after being assured that no other major expenses would be needed to make the change, and that the new channel would be limited to police and emergency uses only.

Trustees also approved the purchase of a second NEC computer system identical to the one already in use by the village. The present system, shared by the police, courts and administrative offices, doesn't have adequate storage for the village's needs.

Village clerk JoAnn Jenkins explained that the additional system would improve the village's monthly billing without hiring more employees. She also pointed out that no further training would be needed since the equipment is the same as that the village already owns.

The NEC system was originally sold to the City of Santa Fe but was quickly replaced when it was found to be too small for their needs. Because of this the system was being offered to the village with a full warranty for $17,212, compared to the $48,000 cost of the current system.

Monies totalling $11,800 had already been allocated for the purchase of additional computer terminals. So, only $5,412 would be needed from the general funds to provide an entire system doubling the village's computing capacity.

The board also discussed the pending application for a Community Development Block Grant, agreeing to place a priority on water and sewer improvements rather than more paving projects.

In a related item, the board approved a temporary transfer of $15,468 from utility bonds for construction of new sewer lines.

In other business, the board of trustees:

—voted to delay the purchase of a new vehicle for the enforcement officer, choosing instead to restore an already-owned vehicle to running condition;

—voted to send six members of the fire department to fire school in Las Cruces, Aug. 3-8;

—agreed to retain Trustee Jackie Branum as voting delegate at the Municipal League Conference to be held in Clovis in September;

—discussed the lowering of speed limits from 25 mph to 15 mph on the side streets of the village.

Mayor Jake Harris read a letter of appreciation from the manager of Fantasy Mountain commending the police for their help in controlling the use of alcohol at the amusement park.

The board went into executive session to discuss litigation and the acquisition of an easement to facilitate the construction of new sewer lines.

Lincoln Town —Ramblings By Rosalie Dunlap

Our hearts go out to the family of Dena Lynn Gore. We all think such a tragedy can't happen so close to home, but when it does, it hurts so much. To the Gore family, the Doll Rays and to Dollie our sympathies and prayers go with you.

Lincoln not only has the McSween dig, we also had the "Wortley dig." The Hotel septic system quit after a severe problem for several days, putting it into an emergency situation.

The Lincoln Pageant and Festivals Corp. hotel management, Kay and Glenn Dennis; wish to thank Governor Tonye Anaya; Clara Apodaca, director of Cultural Affairs of NM; the local and state EID offices; Stan Cox and crew; and all others who worked so hard.

With all working together we were able to get the emergency and have the new system in- and working by Wednesday with no interruption of service.

The McSween dig is drawing lots of people and interest. Monday, Bob Gold of the New Mexico Tourist Bureau visited the site.

Scottie Alley of Jeff Bingaman's office in Albuquerque and Otto Euchaus, history teacher for the Roswell schools, were two of many volunteer working the dig. More on this when we return home.

Otto Euchaus has taken photographs of all the courthouses in New Mexico except Raton, which he hopes to get soon. He is now working up a slide program on the McSween dig for his classes. He hopes to make his students aware of the heritage of New Mexico culture and its people.

Friday, July 25, David Kirkpatrick, director of the archaeologists, believed they had finally found part of the McSween house foundation.

Frederick Nolan is enjoying his stay in Lincoln, doing research for his new book on Sue and Mac. He is finding new information on those two elusive figures of Lincoln County history.

It is interesting to me in talking to various people doing research on Billy the Kid, the James Bros. outlaws, the McSweens and other individuals, the connecting thread seems to travel to Missouri. Is it mere coincidence that those who come from Pennsylvania, New York, and Silver City seem to have a Missouri connection with the Lincoln County War?

Richard Farnsworth, actor, was a guest of Susie and Gary Morton and family. They all enjoyed dinner at the Wortley Hotel.

Thomas Shrecengost celebrated his birthday with a party Friday. His Aunt Susie Shrecengost was a surprise guest, arriving in time for his party.

Maurilda Perry is recuperating nicely in Ruidoso Hospital following surgery for a broken hip. Maurilda's hip broke while she was in bed.

I omitted Joy Lane and son Clint from the list of Lincolmites who attended the party for D at Captain.

The Lincoln Heritage Trust is busy cleaning up the Aragon Store site.

Youth smashes car, breaks into home

Teresita Chavez was in hysterics when she phoned the sheriff's department at about 10:45 a.m., July 24, to report that someone was trying to steal her car and break into her home on Aspen Street. Because town police officer Adam Montez was on foot patrol, Deputy Dwayne Vinson, after hearing the radio call for help, went to the scene, picking up Montez enroute. On their way, they met a car traveling at high speed. Assuming it was the reported stolen vehicle, they gave chase in which the fleeing car ran several stop signs. The chase ended at a residence on F Avenue belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baca, parents of Dino Baca. It was driven by a neighbor of Chavez on his way to alert Dino's parents. The parents became abusive to the officers, and headed for Aspen Street, where later the mother used abusive language toward the woman who had made the phone call for assistance, Teresita Chavez. Witnesses say both parents interfered with officers in the course of the investigation.

A blue Cavalier, 1985 or 1986 model, had all its doors caved in and all fenders, except the left rear, had been smashed. According to neighbors, Baca broke into her home following his vandalism of the car, but the youth did no further damage before leaving the scene. Deputy Vinson declined to release names of the parties involved because the incident was a town police matter, and he was only assisting. The town's account of the incident is recorded in the Police Beat. No charges have been filed against Dino Baca as a result of the vandalism and break-in.

There's a big, fat difference between our meat and theirs.

(Their Meat)

(Our Meat) with...
1/4-Inch Super Trim

We Trim The Fat, And That Trims The Price.

The steaks above are both T-bones. They both have the same price per pound. They both give you the same amount of meat to eat. The difference is, the one on the right (the Safeway steak) costs you a lot less. It's cheaper because Safeway trims the external fat off all its steaks, down to a quarter of an inch. Our competitor doesn't. So if you buy the Safeway steak, you're not paying for a lot of fat you can't eat. That gives you more for your money, and that's what an honest deal is all about.

Less Fat Means Greater Value!

All Safeway Meats are leaner, in tune with today's lifestyles. Safeway Select Pork is younger and leaner than ever. Still corn-fed for that rich pork flavor. Safeway Select Lamb is all USDA Inspected Lamb, with every cut 1/4-inch Super-Trimmed for greater value. Safeway Veal is young, lean and tender. It's all USDA Inspected and re-inspected by Safeway's own meat experts.

Safeway Select Meats Are A Better Value Than Ever.

Safeway's new 1/4-inch Super-Trim, plus Safeway's famous Unconditional Guarantee of Satisfaction, plus the Safeway reputation for the finest meat you can buy...makes Safeway Select Meats the value-leaders. Come in now, compare the low Safeway prices, the new 1/4-inch Super-Trim, compare the variety and the selection. You'll know for certain why Safeway is America's Favorite Food Store.
