Commissioners canvass votes; election is official

The votes cast in the Nov. 4 election in Lincoln County are now official. The canvass by the Lincoln County Commissioners held on Nov. 7 made the vote count legal. Two minor changes were made from the final count on Nov. 4 with the changes not affecting the outcome of any of the races. In other business, the commission signed a letter to President Reagan and the New Mexico Congressional Delegation asking their assistance in helping locate the "Star Wars" project at Stallion site. Bob Tacker, chairman of the Economic Development Committee for the city of Socorro and Hal Sims, chairman of the Carrizozo Economic Development Committee, presented information to the commission about the project. The five-year project is for a ground based laser testing facility. Beavers Sand and Gravel submitted the low bid for base course. Bid accepted. No bids were received for the request for a used grid roller.

Ingram Trucking submitted the low bid for truck and labor to haul base course. The bid was accepted. No action was taken on a request to vacate roads in White Oaks.

Budget increase in the amount of $25,000 was approved for the Mescalero Water Rights litigation. The money will come from the general fund.

Budget increase of $600,000 was approved for the Sierra Blanca Airport access road study. This is funded 100 percent by the state.

Budget increase of $7,587 for the Emergency Medical Services Fund Act grant was approved. This is for the Alto Ambulance, Capitan Ambulance, Carrizozo Ambulance, Corona Ambulance, Fort Stanton Ambulance, and Hondo Ambulance with 100 percent funding from the state.

The audit report was accepted. Don Wingfield, CPA of Roswell, conducted the audit for the county for fiscal year 1985-86. The final report will be sent to the state for approval.

John Shaw of Monjeau Estates Subdivision was granted a 30-day extension for filing the plat.

Property owners objecting to an increase in property taxes discussed the problem with Lincoln County Assessor Marian Schlarb. It was noted that the notice of valuation that is sent earlier in the year contains information that should be verified and returned by the property owner. Schlarb stressed the importance of doing this.

The property owners were under the impression that since the envelope stated that it did not contain a bill that it was not important.

Commissioners approved $600 to send sheriff-elect Don Samuels to the FBI academy in Virginia for two weeks for a sheriff's school. The school will cover current issues confronting sheriffs, the role of a sheriff, etc.

An executive session was held for personnel and litigation.

Time Running Out To Support Site

Persons interested in contacting elected officials about the location of the ground based laser project have until Tuesday, Nov. 18 to make their voices heard and possibly their opinions included in the final decision.

The ground based laser testing facility, referred to as the "Star Wars" project, will be placed at one of three sites on the White Sands Missile Range. The name "Star Wars" is misleading because the project is a testing facility to see if the United States can develop a laser which can be propelled into space. There are no military consequences involved.

Stallion site needs to receive top priority for several reasons. It is the only site that would benefit New Mexico 100 percent, surrounding communities would reap the benefits as it is centrally located and most importantly, the Stallion site has a mountain range on both sides that could protect the surrounding public while the testing is being conducted. The other two sites do not have this protection for the public.

The ground base laser testing facility will be a five-year project that will help the entire state if the Stallion site is chosen. Comments from the public will be accepted until Nov. 18. After that date, all input will be used for a final environmental impact statement (EIS). The final EIS will be one of several inputs used to make the final decision on the location.

OPENS FRIDAY - Shown during recent construction is the new Allsup's convenience store at the intersection of Highways 54 and 380 in Carrizozo. The store opens for business Nov. 14 at 6 a.m.

Work to begin on overpass

Work on the overpass on highway 380 just east of the 380-54 junction in Carrizozo will begin soon. The project had originally been scheduled for April 1986 but was delayed.

The estimated cost for replacing the overpass was budgeted at $1,290,000. Low bidder for the project was J. W. Jones Construction of Albuquerque.

Plans call for a temporary structure to be built north of the existing overpass. The temporary overpass will be used while a new permanent overpass is being built.

Judge Zimmerman Rules Amend Recall Petition In A Week

By G. Norman Ashley

Residents of Ruidoso Downs who petitioned the governing body for a recall of elected officials appear to have been stopped in their efforts to oust Mayor Jake Harris. However, the legal maneuvering to bring about a recall of at least the Board of Trustees continues to progress.

After the boards' regular session Monday night one signer of that petition said that they were not too concerned about the mayor now, saying, "We just need some trustees who will stand up to him and represent the people." Retired District Judge George Zimmerman ruled last Thursday that the mayor could not be included in the recall.

Judge Zimmerman, who was appointed to handle the hotly contested case, gave the petitioners a week to amend their petition or take their case to Supreme Court. Attorney Gary Mitchell was expected to file the amended document by this morning. If so, the board of trustees will have seven days in which to pass a resolution calling for a special election.

Trustee Jacquelyn Branum complained that she had not been informed of the action taken, having found out by seeing an article in the El Paso newspaper. Trustee LaVerne Cole was also not informed of the judges' ruling until this week. Mayor Harris said, "We didn't know who was responsible for telling the trustees."

On a more positive note, the board heard from Municipal Judge Martin Valenzuela that plans to move the court into a vacant building owned by Ruidoso State Bank are going well. The Bank is not going to charge rent for the use of the building and the gas and electric companies have said that they will not ask the village for utility deposits.

Tongue-in-cheek, Valenzuela said that it only remains to be seen whether the Ruidoso Downs Water Department will require a deposit.

Judge Valenzuela also reported to the trustees that over $31,000 in fines had been assessed in the court from January through October.

C'zozo Town Council Ok's Variance to Build Tower

The Carrizozo town council will hold only one meeting in the month of November on Nov. 18 at 6 p.m. in city hall. Trustees made the decision to hold only one meeting in November and one meeting in December to avoid conflicts with other dates. The December meeting will be on Dec. 15.

Trustees faced a full house at the Oct. 28 meeting as students from the Carrizozo civics class attended the meeting on Oct. 28 as well as the meeting on Oct. 14. Joan Holborn, teacher for the civics class, attended the meetings with the students.

Business conducted included trustees granting a variance to Mountain Bell for constructing a 50 foot tower at the Mountain Bell building in Carrizozo. The tower will be a new radio link with Alamogordo and will improve the quality of service to customers in Carrizozo, according to the information presented.

The tower to be constructed will be 45 foot tall with a lightning rod. In addition to the tower, a four-foot chain link fence will be placed around the property line and a six-foot chain link fence will be placed around the tower.

William L. Burns, spokesman for Mountain Bell, said there will be no interference with television reception for residents from the tower. The tower will be one of three towers in the link and each tower will be focused from each end.

The variance granted was from 35 feet to a 50 foot height. The variance approval is contingent on approval from the FAA for the height variance.

In other business, proposals for bond counsel and financial advisor were opened. Mayor Bob Hemphill appointed a citizen's advisory committee to consider the proposals. The appointments were made with concurrence of the council. The citizen's advisory committee is Paul Guevara, Mary Chaves and Ruth Hammond. Linda Haller will sit with the committee as a councilman. The committee will meet and make their recommendation to the council after considering the proposals.

Trustee Patsy Sanchez reported that Jim Hussin of KOAT-TV's "On Your Behalf" program would be in Carrizozo, Oct. 29, to investigate the leaking roofs.

Hemphill reported that he attended a meeting in Socorro with Scott Shafer, Hal Sims and Dennis Sidebottom concerning the placing of the ground based laser project at Stallion site. He urged persons to support Stallion site as the choice for the location to

Channel 7 in Carrizozo Looking into Leaking Roofs

Jim Hussin, news commentator for KOAT-TV in Albuquerque, was in Carrizozo garnering information for his tv program "On Your Behalf" concerning leaking roofs in and around Carrizozo.

Hussin, spokesman for the Channel 7 program, arrived at the Carrizozo Municipal Airport, in a helicopter on Oct. 29 and interviewed several property owners about the leaking roofs.

The roofs in question were coated with Chevron Industrial Membrane in 1983 and 1984. The product came with a five-year guarantee but property owners complained that they have not received satisfaction from the Chevron dealership or from the contractors involved with applying the coating.

Charles Adams of Chamari Builders was the contractor for applying the coating to the town of Carrizozo old city hall, the fire station and senior citizen's center, the Carrizozo Country Club, Roy's Gift Gallery, the Culbertson rent house and the Tierra Verde Real Estate Office. Don Hoffman applied the coating to the Carrizozo Woman's Club. Mike Gray applied the coating to King's Food Mart.

Costs for the application, including the price of the Chevron coating, were from $1,624 for the old city hall to $7,943 for the Country Club.

Hussin plans to contact the persons involved and will notify the Carrizozo property owners if and when the segment will air on "On Your Behalf."

Ruidoso Gross Receipts Tax Could Be Highest in State

By G. Norman Ashley

Ruidoso Village Councilors appeared to be preoccupied with each others' drinking habits during Monday night's regular meeting. Mayor Davis opened the meeting by joking that he had spent the last few days drying out in an alcoholic treatment center.

After his scathing comments about lawyers and engineers during last Thursday's special meeting it had been rumored that the Mayor and half the board members present were drunk. However, assurances were given that this was not so, and the council went on to conduct business in an orderly and sober fashion.

Ironically, the first item on the agenda was an application for a beer and wine dispensers license for Bonnie Rue Sanchez, to be located at the business known as Appletree Terrace Restaurant. The Council approved that request unanimously.

John Jeffers, Executive Director of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce then addressed the council with a proposal to create a Convention/Events Department with joint funding by the village and chamber. Jeffers had provided the councilors with copies of the four-page proposal only minutes before the meeting, yet twice during his presentation he asked the council to act on it immediately.

However, the councilors quickly showed their resistance to act without having time to study the proposal. Councillor Victor Alonso said, "This is kind of like a cold shower, and besides it seems to me that this is what the chamber is already doing." Jeffers had asked for almost $150,000 in funding from the village through the Lodgers Tax and Economic Development Funds.

Councillor Dub Holt asked if the members of the Lodgers Tax Committee had been polled on the subject and was told that they had not. Councillor Jerry Shaw said that there seemed to be a lot of overlap in the job description. "Isn't this what the Economic Development Board is supposed to do?" she asked.

It was pointed out that the Developments boards' purpose was to raise funds and find locations for convention facilities. Jeffers said that the proposed Convention/Events Department would concentrate on attracting conventions to use the facilities currently available. "We need to increase the use of them now to bring in more revenue to the whole area."

The council then voted to table the matter and hold a workshop, open to the public, to study the proposal further. Councillor Holt said, "It appears in this meeting that we are on opposite sides, but I don't think that we are. We just need more time to 'mulch' this over."

Mayor Davis then stated that he thought the budget was excessive. "Every time the Chamber comes to the council it's to ask for more money. The lodgers all hate to see the business pass through town on their way to the Inn of the Mountain Gods. And they all hate each other too, so they won't send any business to each other."

In more moderate tones, Councillor Alonso said that some businesses don't believe that lodgers going to the Inn is business lost. "I'm in favor of them succeeding, because I see a trickle effect. Let's open our minds a little here. We can't channel all the business to the village. We need to cooperate with the Indian Reservation, and I for one don't hate the Inn."

Council member Jerry Shaw said that she saw a need for joint efforts with the Chamber of Commerce to promote Ruidoso. "If you call New York and ask if they've heard of Ruidoso, they'll tell you no. But they will tell you they have heard of the Inn of the Mountain Gods. But we don't have as much to spend on advertising as they do," she said.

Finally the subject was dropped and a representative from Boyle Engineering asked the council for permission to enter the Grindstone Canyon Dam Project in a national engineering contest as an environmental project. Councillor Elmer Pirelli asked if it would cost the village anything. Being assured that it would not, he said, "I think we should go for it then." The rest of the council agreed and granted their permission, hoping to garner a little publicity out of it.

Paul Crown of Lincoln Cablevision then approached the council with a request to renew his company's franchise with the city for cable television service. "A couple of months ago you approved a sale of assets in my company, so that new partners could be brought in with additional capital. The new owners want to be assured of a return on their investment. The existing franchise will run out in four years, before their capital outlays can be recovered. So we would like the council to renew the franchise for 15 years."

Crown provided the council with copies of the amended franchise agreement, telling them that no changes had been made other than in the names and dates. Councillor Ray Carpenter moved that the council publish a notice for a public hearing before taking any action. The council then voted to do so. However, the mayor was not through with his comments for the evening.

Said Davis, "Every few years the phone company or power company or Cablevision comes here wanting us to renew their franchise. I would hope that we would let them run out and let everybody bid on their assets. They all do a wretched job as it is, anyway. We should never extend their franchises."

Councilors then approved Village Clerk Leon Eggleston's appointments for election judges in the upcoming referendum election. The referendum, to be held Dec. 18, will decide whether to raise the city's Gross Receipts Tax an additional half-percent. If passed, Ruidoso's sales tax would be the highest in the

Nosker Addresses Capitan Council on Water Rights

A nice crowd attended the Nov. 10 meeting of the Capitan Village Council. Water again was of primary concern.

County Commissioner Ken Nosker was present and spent some time answering questions primarily concerning taxes and water.

The Mescalero Apache Indian Tribe has a law suit claiming almost 18,000 acre feet of water rights which could deplete the Ruidoso River and all its tributaries. Lincoln County would be in serious trouble when it comes to water. Nosker is a member of the Water Defense Committee which is answering this suit. He stated, "This is a threat to everyone in Lincoln County and it's very serious in my opinion."

Individual protests are needed. These protests must be in by Nov. 17. A pre-trial conference is scheduled for the morning of Nov. 24 at the Federal Courthouse in Roswell. Nosker advised those with tax problems to see Tax Assessor Marion Schlarb at the courthouse in Carrizozo.

Engineer Jack Atkins is waiting on final approval concerning plans on water from the new well from the BLM and State EID. The course for the pipeline has been finalized. Village Attorney Underwood is checking the easement situation. The Village will go out soon for quotes on six inch pipe. The pipeline from the new well will tie into the existing water line in front of the fair building. Atkins reported that work could begin near the end of December if the weather cooperates.

Stan Cox wants to lease the co-op building and store plumbing supplies there. The village must go through certain legal processes before action can be taken.

There will be a public hearing at the Dec. 8 meeting of the Council concerning a curfew for 18 years old and younger. Mayor Coker favors 10 p.m. during the week, midnight on weekends. This would not interfere with school sponsored activities.

Coker advised those present that the winter hour for closing at city hall is 4:30 p.m. The clerks make up the 30 minutes involved by taking a shorter lunch break. The Mayor felt a special meeting of the council may be called later in the month.

benefit all of New Mexico.

Hal Sims, chairman of the Economic Development Committee, stressed that it is imperative to the economic development of Carrizozo that Stallion site be chosen.

The proposed weed ordinance was discussed. Trustees decided to appoint a committee to draft a sample ordinance.

The water supply construction grant was discussed. A special meeting on Oct. 21 was held for public input. The grant application will list the water supply facility as the priority need.

The town received a letter from the state highway department that Carrizozo will receive coop money for street work. The funds are provided on a 60-40 match with the state to provide $38,568 and the town to furnish $39,046. CDBG (Community Development Block Grant) money may be used for the town's 40 percent.

An executive session was held for personnel.

LOOKING GOOD - at the Tatum playoff game were these Capitan fans.

People often ask how I can raise four daughters singlehandedly without becoming a candidate for the nut hatch.

This is a question requiring much consideration. Consideration which will be given as soon as I finish digging a padded cell in the back yard.

ON MY OWN

By Pat Kite

The 20-Minute Mile

Actually, solo parenting isn't so difficult. Over the years I have discovered that patience, wisdom, kindness and consideration are the pathways to success.

The alternative route, which I have taken, is to go out jogging in moments of stress. My neighbors are quite accustomed to the sight. Mama can be found plopping around our cul-de-sac at all hours of the day and night, sometimes even in her bathrobe and tennies.

Contrary to expectations, this has not reduced property values in the tract. Rather it provides a certain kind of class, a sort of "we have our local eccentric" type of thing.

Occasionally I even provide additional diversion by singing out loud, primarily to drown out the sounds of sisterly fistcuffs emanating through paper-thin suburban-housing walls. Or, better yet, windows deliberately opened so fugitive Mama doesn't persist in thinking outdoors equals "escape."

I would never think of escaping. After all, how many parents have children with such wonderfully healthy lungs? Or such a fantastically diverse vocabulary? Or such interest in promoting my continued good health?

"Can't you run any faster than that?" a kid asks, emerging onto the street to act as cheering squad. "Why don't you leave her alone?" her sibling defends, coming outside to rescue me.

"Because she runs like a duck," a third comments just as I whiz past.

"Well, you should see what you look like," says a fourth, drawing the battle lines.

I am pretending, as hard as I can, that all I can hear are the sparrows twittering in the treetops. I keep telling myself that if I ignore them they will go away.

"I bet I can run around the block twice in the time it takes you to go around once," says a kid, falling into step right behind me.

I tell her I am not interested in speed. That my goal is endurance.

She trots at my heels for a smidge, just to give me incentive, then zips past me full of youthful zest and sadism.

But, it is interesting to note, after all these years of stress jogging I can usually outlast her. Which means they will eventually leave me alone, which eventually they do. And when I return to the house, rosey cheeks and serene-spirited, they have usually forgotten what they were quibbling about.

So it's peaceful. And being terribly forgetful, as all parents must be, I think I've done something right to make it peaceful. Such as being patient, wise, kind and considerate. Instead of just plodding on.

Beware of Furnace Repair Schemes

Everything has its season, and fall is the season for furnace repair scams. Every fall, consumers complain about encounters with transient furnace repair crews who talk them into paying for shoddy, unnecessary and even dangerous work on their furnaces.

Furnace "Inspector" Scam
While these unscrupulous repair crews use many different schemes, posing as "building inspectors" or "health officials" is one of the more common. The phony "inspectors" talk their way into homes to conduct an "investigation." Once these con artists get in the door, they use scare tactics to convince people their current furnace is defective in order to sell them a new one. For example, they say, "If you don't install a new heat exchanger, the poisonous fumes from your furnace could kill anyone in the house!" In their panic to get the problem fixed, consumers quickly agree to repairs they don't really need. So beware.

Don't let anyone into your home without the proper credentials. All government workers and utility employees carry identification. Check them carefully. If you're still not sure, call their place of business by looking up the number yourself in the phone book.

If someone tells you that your furnace must be replaced, get confirmation from another qualified heating engineer.

Deal only with reputable firms. If you need furnace work done, get competitive estimates from different contractors and beware of an unusually low bid.

Have your furnace checked regularly by someone you trust. Competent service gives you peace of mind and assures you that your furnace is running properly and efficiently.

We've put on the dog for police safety.

Keeping the cities, suburbs and towns of New Mexico safe and sound is quite a challenging responsibility. For the hundreds of men and women who are a part of the law enforcement community, it can mean risking their lives. Every day.

So when we heard they could use some much needed safety equipment, Albuquerque rallied. During our Save-A-Cop benefit hot dog barbeque. Earlier this year, Mountain Bell, the City of Albuquerque and a host of supportive citizens, pitched in to transform a part of Albuquerque's downtown mall into a bevy of hot dog vendors.

Proceeds from the sale of the franks were given to the police department to purchase important safety equipment. And spectators were treated to a variety of demonstrations including S.W.A.T. team field maneuvers and tips on personal safety.

With Save-A-Cop, and programs like it, we're demonstrating our commitment to providing answers to some important community needs. And giving you the opportunity to lend a hand in worthy causes.

Makes sense

A NEWS EDITORIAL

The Election is Over;

The general election of 1986 is now a thing of the past. The newly elected officials are being inundated with requests to "shake hands with your former opponent and try and make the best of the entire situation!" Some candidates will be faced with loss of jobs, campaign expenses, vicious rumors that were started in the heat of the frenzy to attain the all-glorious coveted seat of power, and for most of us involved in campaigning in one way or another, there is a tremendous let-down.

Campaigning is not limited to just those candidates who made it past the primary and the few declared write-in candidates. Campaigning in the form of writing political articles, selling advertising to potential winners, attending many of the numerous events that are scheduled to place the candidates in front of the public, and just general public relations with any and all we come in contact with are all forms of campaigning. After surviving the nerve-wracking evening on Nov. 4 waiting for each precinct to call in with results, more than a few of us are very glad we are on this end of the campaign trail. Instead of being on the receiving end of congratulations or condolences.

Each and every one of our candidates has much to be proud of by making it to the final hour and the time of reckoning (known as the canvass of votes). We at the NEWS wish to congratulate all persons involved in this election, including but not limited to election officials, campaign managers, volunteer workers for political parties and candidates, those involved with money raising events for candidates, and most importantly, the people who will take the time to clean up and remove the signs and help make this campaign something to remember with pleasure.

Too often, candidates, winners as well as losers, will delay removing their political signs until after they have become faded and worn. Voters tolerated the signs during campaign time but most of us do wish the same eager workers would take the time to remove the signs. This is not to say that the newly elected officials should neglect their duties as public servants to remove signs but even the removal of one sign a week will help beautify the landscape. Thanks again, fine workers and candidates for the 1986 general election and all the hoopla that goes with it. Aren't we lucky to live in a country that will allow us to make statements and will let us stand up for what we believe in and will allow the general public to make a choice as to which of us should be the leaders?

The soapbox is out and primed for anyone who wants to step up and make a statement about this great country of ours. Maudlin as it may sound, even when we get tired of all the political falderal, without it we would be just like any other dictatorship, socialist or whatever they desire to call their form of government. Only in a democratic form of government can we have a government such as ours. At least when we get mad at the elected officials for something, we can say most of what we think with no fear of retaliation.

Our elected officials in Lincoln County will have the duty of continuing the tradition that was started many years ago. This tradition is to try and give the county the best possible representation. Each county office comes with lists of thankless jobs, hours above and beyond the normal workday just to keep some semblance of order to the office, tons of unsolicited advice, impractical suggestions by self-proclaimed experts, and a weary body by the time the term has ended. Most important, the elected official will bring a new outlook on life in Lincoln County for the elected official and for those of us who sincerely appreciate the public service you will perform, we say, "Thank you."

Now for the work that will begin for each of you on January 1, 1987. It will be not only the start of a new year, it will also be the start of a new career for many of you. Even those of you returning to serve another term of office will find that this could be the start of something BIG. We at the NEWS like to think that everything concerned with the county (Lincoln County) is great. We would like for everyone to take the time to look around and enjoy the beautiful surroundings we have. If each of you would stop and notice one new thing about you each day, you would find, as we have, that Lincoln County is the greatest place to live.

The time has not been set for the swearing in of our new county officials but it should be early on January 2, 1987. We hope all oaths will be taken with the seriousness that they should be taken and that each word in the oath is weighed and earnestly and solemnly repeated. And may each elected official expend the same energy that was used in the campaign to win the election. May each elected official put forth more for their duties as office holders than they did in trying to obtain these positions. The NEWS salutes all the candidates and wish them luck in their future endeavors whether they be in civic or private enterprises.

WASHINGTON—The District of Columbia's Court of Appeals has issued an epochal ruling that should surely enliven our nation's capital as the demonstration center of the world.

Two of the three judges, Theodore Newman and John M. Ferron, have ruled: "Public exposure of the bare buttocks is not a violation of the DC Code."

The bare buttocks in this case belong to a 56-year-old woman named Mercedes Duvallon. She displayed her bare bottom in front of the United States Supreme Court in 1983, for which she was arrested for indecent exposure.

That wasn't all that this Florida woman displayed, because she went to the front steps of the High Court nude, carrying a cardboard sign. This sign protested a legal decision involving a dispute with her husband. (Without even knowing, we're inclined to agree with the husband.)

"My nudity," announced Mercedes, "was expressing to them the shamefulness of a judicial system that has abandoned the pursuit of justice."

Judge Newman has written, on behalf of the majority of the court, that because Mrs. Duvallon's genitals were concealed from public view by the cardboard, her conduct could not be considered illegal.

Judge Newman did not explain why a female displaying her naked rear end is acceptable, yet a similar display of the front section of this very same anatomy would be illegal. The Supreme Court proclaims Equal Justice Under Law. What about the equality of orifices? Judge Newman did rule that Mercedes' actions "offend individual senses of propriety, modesty and self-respect." But he went on to note: "This court is not asked to decide whether or not Mrs. Duvallon violated notions of personal modesty or propriety."

Well, why in the world wasn't this court asked? Or shall the citizens of the United States be forced by this assinine court to see their nation's capital — and such revered places as the Supreme Court and the Lincoln Memorial — festooned with long lines of demonstrating bare bottoms?

I was not on hand on that memorable day when Mrs. Duvallon displayed her derriere. Perhaps she has an attractive derriere, and perhaps not. But there are many rear ends which are singularly unattractive. And the thought of the Supreme Court Plaza being regularly lined with a battalion of naked asses is surely an ocular eyecore and an ecological nightmare.

I say this in full recognition that I have a rear end; you have a rear end; we all have rear ends! But isn't it within the realm of sweet reason that there are some things we do, and which we uncover, only at home, or in rest rooms? Comfort stations are also a fact of life. But they still have not been moved, in this nation, from inside privacy to outside public view. And when will this silly appeals court defend the right to relieve ones self in any public gutter?

Fortunately, Chief Judge William Pryor provided some contrast to his Bare-The-Bottom colleagues. For Pryor wrote: "The underlying purpose of the prohibition against indecent exposure is straightforward: To protect the public from being confronted in public places by annoying, shocking or embarrassing displays of nudity or sexual activity."

We hope that the US Supreme Court will uphold Judge Pryor and reverse his two silly colleagues. Then, what they should do to Mercedes, is sentence her to 30 days in a nudist camp.

Inside the Capitol

By Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—This year could turn out to be a lot like 1930. That's when Big Ed Mechem, the Republicans' choice for governor, came riding up from Las Cruces to take back the governor's job for his party for the first time in 20 years.

That's almost how much time has expired since Lonesome David Cargo, the last member of the GOP to run the state before Garrey Carruthers, ended his term and moved back to Albuquerque.

Back in 1950, when Mechem knocked off John E. Miles to win the election, Republicans had the same trouble they had this year in carrying in other statewide officials in the election. Then as now, that left their governor facing a Legislature and a lot of members of his administration whose political color was opposite to his own.

MEMORIES: In those long-ago days, which most of the readers of this column are undoubtedly too young to remember, Mechem was left as a kind of free-standing monolith—a governor surrounded by those who were not of the same political faith. That's about the way it will be for the man who takes the governor's job here on January 1, though Carruthers is not nearly so calm and collected as Big Ed has always been. In Garrey's case, let's shift the metaphor and say he will be like a windmill, which is considerably more active, standing equally alone.

Since he is as much of a rarity as Mechem was back then, maybe the GOP will also want to run him over and over again.

What the Grand Old Party has found with its successful candidates for the top job is that the party's bench strength is very light. They can, every couple of decades or so, elect one of these guys, but then they don't know what to do for an encore.

After Mechem served two of the two-year terms that were the way we arranged things in those days, the Republicans, unable to clone him or find anyone who could recapitulate his good qualities, simply chose to run him again every two years when he got himself named to fill out the tail-end of a Senatorial term and moved off to Washington.

REJECTION: Those who have memories of that historical time will remind you that the conditions which brought Mechem to power were much like those that operated this year. Many of the votes the Republican at the head of the ticket was able to garner were at least as much cast against the Democratic nominee of that time, John Miles, who was seen as much too much of the sort of old-line Democrats who had been in office far too long.

This year, Ray Powell for the Democrats was not able to shake off the idea that he might be too closely connected with the faults of his predecessor, which many considered as numberless as the sands of the sea. Too bad for Powell.

But in 1986, as in 1950, though the Republicans have reason to feel quietly triumphant, there was no real movement to get behind the other nominees of their party. In other words, an individual was chosen out of the GOP pack, but the pack itself did not sell well at the polls. Any Democrat this year who ran for state office who could distance him or herself sufficiently far from Anaya got elected in preference to the Republican alternative.

The GOP did well, but it's still got a long ways to go.

Letters TO THE EDITOR

Thank You Note

EDITOR—Capitan's Halloween Carnival was held Oct. 31 as entertainment for the entire community as well as a fundraiser for the school. Both Capitan and Ruidoso gave us their support and cooperation, and, consequently, the Carnival was a success, both socially and financially.

Now, Capitan schools would like to take this opportunity to thank the residents of both communities who participated in our activities. We would also like to give a particular thanks to the business persons in Capitan and Ruidoso who donated items for prizes. The list is endless. The 7th grade and the National Honor Society, in particular, appreciated your generosity immensely. We realize that you get asked often by one organization or another, but it is this spirit of sharing that makes both communities so special.

Water Rights?

EDITOR—All residents of Lincoln, Chaves, and Eddy counties are urged to inform themselves of the implications on the area of the current court case in which the Mesalero Apache Indians are attempting to take an additional 13,000 and more acre-feet of water above their present appropriation. This affects us all, and legal and hydrology experts advise the effect on the entire region could well be devastating.

Do not believe anyone who assures you this case does not affect you. If you use water, you are involved. Along with fresh air, water is the one resource we cannot survive without. If we do not take steps to protect it, we will lose even the right to try.

Intent to participate agreements must be signed and returned by November 14. Those who do not forfeit the right to contest this action. Please seek out information on how your rights can be defended. This issue cuts across party lines and is of vital importance to you and to succeeding generations. There will be various meetings available for information. Details will be available from me at 653-4201. If our right to water is compromised, none of us may be too busy ever again.

Corona Echo

EDITOR—I feel the news reporting of the Corona Schools has given your readers a negative impression and feel it is time to point out one of the many positive aspects of our school.

I was an observer at the Flag Presentation Assembly with Congressman Joe Skeen at Corona on Oct. 24, 1986. It was a moving experience to see every student dressed in red, white and blue, sing their patriotic songs or recite their "Liberty" poem with such pride. Congressman Skeen praised our students for a job well done and stated he had never received better introductions, even by professionals in Washington, DC, than by our high school students. The Corona School System is responsible for this praise, especially Dr. John Clem and head teachers Pat Perkins and Betty Ann Bell. I am proud to be a member of the Corona School community and echo Congressman Skeen's praise to our school administration.

Higher Taxes

EDITOR—Will Rogers once said "All I know is what I read in the newspapers." NOT ALWAYS SO.

A short time ago an update from 1978 to 1980 was made on all real estate throughout our state of New Mexico. A new real estate appraisal would be made statewide. This was cause of concern among many property owners until the news reported that our Legislature had promised that the proposed tax increase would amount to no more than a FIVE PERCENT increase over the amount paid for the previous year.

It was promised that when the total update of appraisals for each county was received the TAX RATE (multiplier) would be reduced to reflect no more than a FIVE PERCENT increase in the tax dollars due for each property owner.

This news caused many taxpayers to relax and this was their undoing. Mathematically, those properties which were increased in value of two-three times or more over the previous appraisal figures were easy prey to substantial increases in the tax amount which would be due on 1-1-87.

Now that the new tax rates have been published the truth is now apparent. All a homeowner in Lincoln County has to do now is to take one-third of the new appraisal on his home and land and multiply this figure by $30.60 for each one thousand dollars to find that his taxes will be higher than he was led to believe. Some day the taxpayers will say "No More!"

communities all over the country."

"New Mexico will be severely impacted by this veto," Bingaman said. "As we are all aware, water resources are not plentiful and federal funds are desperately needed to fund the expansion of water projects in our state. Communities cannot bear the cost alone," and as a result the work will cease."

New Mexico will lose $11.5

TIGER COACHES - Shown in a pensive mood at Tajum last week are coaches Zale Woodward and Blane Miller. Also in the picture are Clay Guck (53) and Clay Layher (76).

Proper Care Insures Good Venison Flavor

Venison is a valuable food, considering the effort involved in bagging a deer and bringing it home. Deer meat deserves the best of care, from the time a deer is shot until it is a cut of steak on the end of a hunter's fork.

Several suggestions for field care, transport and cooking were offered by the Department of Game and Fish.

After killing the animal and tagging it, bleed it if necessary—that is, if it was shot someplace other than the heart-lung cavity. Insert a knife into the soft point where the bottom of the neck meets the body, at an angle about 60 degrees to the backbone. Rotate the knife point to cut arteries leading to the heart. Bleeding will be quick and complete with the deer's head pointed downhill.

With the animal on its back, open the hide right up the belly from the base of the jaw to the anus. Use fingers of one hand in a V to spread the hide away from the cut, and the back of the same hand to press the paunch to keep from cutting intestines. Many hunters cut around each side of the genitals, leaving them to be taken out with the intestines.

Open the paunch, exposing the intestines and taking care not to cut them. Cut between the hindquarters from the anal vent to the body cavity, exposing the pelvic bone. This can be easily cut with a saw, but take care that the blade doesn't hit the urinary bladder and spill its content on the meat. Either split the breastbone with a saw, or completely remove it by cutting through the cartilage on each side, where the ribs attach. Open the neck muscles, along the center line, to expose the food and wind pipes. Sever both at the base of the jaw.

With the animal completely open now, free the anal tube by cutting all the way around the vent. Pull the entire load of viscera out, cutting inside to free them where necessary. Cut around the diaphragm, the muscle separating the intestinal tract from the chest cavity, and bring the chest contents out, making sure the food and wind pipes come with them.

Roll the animal onto its stomach to completely drain it, and put the heart and liver into plastic bags.

It's best to hang the animal and skin it immediately, since removing the hide releases internal heat. It should dry until the flesh is no longer sticky to the touch, then be packed out in cloth bags. Many hunters prefer to drag their deer to a vehicle, where they should skin the carcass immediately. In warm weather or cool, internal body heat is more likely to spoil the meat than anything else.

The carcass should be hung in the coolest available place and transported with air circulating around it, but not where direct sunlight will heat it. A buck's musk glands, the dark, somewhat oily patches of hide just above the hock, will come off with the hide. Some hunters insist on removing them immediately after bleeding the animal. It may be prudent to clean your knife and hands if you get musk on them, to prevent spreading it on the meat.

The home butcher can bone out the carcass, removing all visible fat and connective tissue, and using beef tallow for hamburger mix. The packages should be tightly wrapped in double layers of special paper for freezing. Deer meat tends to be dry. Roasts should be kept moist, and steaks should not be overcooked.

Venison is superior in some ways to domestic meats, according to various studies. A 3.5-ounce venison steak will Crown Cowbells met Thursday morning at the home of Katie Sultemeier. Co-hostesses for the luncheon were Juanita Owen and Myrtle Davidson. Out of town members present were Myra Richards, Roswell, Ruth Wilson, Ancho, and Suzie Maness, Dexter. Guests present included Blanche Marlow, Las Cruces, Carol Wilson, Ancho, Cathy Pacheco, Pittsburg, CA, and Monique Johnson.

Lee Sultemeier, chairman of the dance committee, announced the Hunters' dance date is Nov. 22 with the Country Cookin' band from Clovis. She will have five or six special cakes for auction. The annual staff will have the concession. She noted having received a letter from the FFA thanking Cowbells for their support. She listed FFA members who left Monday morning to attend their national convention this week in Kansas City. Delegates were chosen on a point system: Tye Lightfoot, Emmet Sultemeier, Michael Pounds, Tina Aaron, Beverly Bell, and Julie Furgeson. Beverly had left early Friday other 4-H state officers for a leadership training seminar in Denver. She was to take a plane Tuesday for the flight from Denver to Kansas City. Plans call for the FFA to give a program on parliamentary procedure at the Crown February meeting. Crown will furnish the napkins for the Lincoln 4-H awards dinner to be given here Dec. 7.

Mrs. Sultemeier read a letter from George Ranney with thanks for the father of the year trophy and for the flowers and Johnnie bond rocks sent to Nancy. Mrs. Ranney has been released after several weeks in the hospital.

Reservations have been made for members to attend the state meeting at the Albuquerque Convention Center Dec. 5 and 6. Planning to attend both days are Jo Ann Proctor, Loretta Proctor, Eve Latham, and Suzie Maness. Esther Johnson and Lee Sultemeier will go over for the Saturday morning breakfast.

The nominating committee, Katie Sultemeier, Juanita Owen and Myrtle Davidson presented a slate of officers: President Jo Ann Proctor, 1st VP Frances Fuller, 2nd VP Carol McConnell, Treasurer Esther Johnson and Secretary Helen Porter with Loretta Proctor parliamentarian. These will be installed at the December meeting which has been postponed to Dec. 18 because of the state convention. The meeting will be in the Johnson home.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Pacheco, Pittsburg, CA spent last week with their cousins, the Melvin Johnsons.

Mrs. Lee R. Owen went home with her daughter, Blanche Marlow, for a few days in Las Cruces.

Densley and Vashti Minor Reagan stopped briefly here Wednesday. They were on route to their Fort Worth home after visiting relatives in El Paso. The Reagans left there home more than 50 years ago.

million federal dollars for waste water construction. Extension of the Clean Water Act would have earmarked $18 billion for sewer and water system clean up projects and tighten controls on water pollution nationwide. The President said the proposed spending "exceeds acceptable levels."

The New Mexico State Environmental Improvement Division (EID) reports that Albuquerque and Santa Fe, which comprise 38 percent of the state's population, will feel a "major impact." Other areas, including Santa Rosa, Socorro, Bosque Farms, Tome, and Peralta will also suffer.

Under the law, the Environmental Protection Agency was to provide Albuquerque with $5.2 million for continuation of waste water construction. Because of the veto, construction on the $7 million project will halt altogether.

Bingaman said that not only will the environment suffer, but economically the state will also feel the loss of grants. The EID estimates that 256 construction jobs will be lost statewide. The Department of Commerce predicts the loss will be as high as 475.

The bill is expected to be re-introduced in the Senate early next year.

Tigers Eliminated In Semi-Finals

The Capitan Tigers never got untracked last Friday as the Tatum Coyotes blanked the Tigers 28-0. The Coyotes scored halfway through the 1st quarter after a Tiger 4th down play failed to get the 1st down. Tatum enjoyed a 7-0 lead at the end of the 1st quarter.

Capitan stopped the Coyotes early in the 2nd quarter. A drive from the Tiger 7 yard line fizzled out when Troy Padilla was sacked on 4th down. Kerry Clements looked good during this drive.

After the Tiger punt the Coyotes began a drive at mid-field featuring the nifty running of 145 pound senior Bobby Herrera. The tally came on a pass play to Marlin Griffis. There was no further scoring in the half with Tatum up 13-0. Layher, Smith, Lunn, Eckland, McCarty, and Eldridge got in good defense plays this half.

A pass play to Buster Brown accounted for the 3rd Tatum touchdown. Tatum took a 20-0 lead over Capitan with 6:53 left in the 3rd quarter.

The final Coyote score came 90 seconds later when Royce Brown intercepted a Tiger pass and carried it in for 6 points. John Parker got a beautiful 48 yard punt for the Tigers before the quarter ended.

In the 4th quarter Eldridge got 5 yards on a pass with blue trim. Truly looks nice.

Guests at the Hitchin Post visiting Alton and Pauline Whittaker were the Jim Neatherlins, Jimmy Neatherlin and Jeff Neatherlin of Carlsbad.

Deer hunting guests last weekend of Wanda and David Strickland were Dean Strickland and son Gene of Lovington; Clay and Teri play, Eckland 17 yards, Padilla 8 yards, and Eldridge 23 yards before Bobby Herrera intercepted a stray Tiger pass. A little later Eldridge covered a Coyote fumble, but the Tigers couldn't capitalize as Padilla was sacked on two big plays.

Capitan wound up the 1986 football season with a 6-5 record. The Tigers defeated Eunice, Texico, Hagerman, Cloudcroft, Santa Rosa, and Carrizozo while losing to Dexter, Springer, Reserve, and to Tatum—two times.

Mr. and Mrs. Seligman have lled most of their married life in Hartford.

DID YOU HEAR . . .
 . . . about the Politician Dance - two steps forward, one step backward, then sidestep?
 . . . about the archeologist who told his kids the artifacts of life?

THE TROUBLE
 The trouble with installment buying is that by the time you own the thing you're sick and tired of it.
 The trouble with jogging is that by the time you realize you're in no condition for it, you've got a long walk to get back.
 The trouble with microwave ovens is that dinner is ready before the table is set.

 The trouble with politics is the winners get the jobs, losers get the ax, and nobody takes down the campaign posters.

FORTUNE COOKIES
 "People who stretch the truth often find it snaps back and hits them."
 "One thing we know about the speed of light - it gets here too early in the morning."

WHAT AM I?
 I occur once in every minute, twice in every moment, and yet not once in a hundred years. What am I? (The letter M).
 I am something that comes with a train, goes with a train, is of no use to the train, and yet the train can't go without me. What am I? (Noise).
 Take away my first letter; take away my second letter; take away all my letters, and I remain the same. What am I? (The postman).

MY POP
 Doctor's Son: "My pop makes his money easy. All he does is look at a person, talk to him, then write something down - and he gets five dollars."
 Lawyer's Son: "That's nothing, my pop sits in his office. Someone comes in. He tells them he'll look it up in a book, then he gets fifty dollars."
 Minister's Son: "Oh, but after my dad gets up to talk it takes six men to bring the money down the aisles!"

JUST JESTING
 I was in the bank the other day when suddenly someone called out at the top of his voice, "Did anyone drop a roll of bills with a rubber band around it?"
 Several people at the tellers' window answered, "I did!"
 "Well, I just now found the rubber band," said the joker.

SCHOOL DAZE
 One rainy day an elementary teacher spent over a half hour pulling galoshes onto little feet, getting the children ready to go home. When she came to a little boy, his galoshes took several minutes to struggle him into. Finally they were on.
 "Teacher, these galoshes aren't mine," Johnny said.
 "The teacher groaned, sat Johnny down again and pulled and pulled until the galoshes came off. "Now then," she asked patiently, "whom do these belong to?"
 "My brother," explained Johnny. "But my mother makes me wear them anyhow."

Progressive dinner on tap for Canyon CowBelles

Canyon CowBelles have set Dec. 7 as the date for their annual progressive dinner, beginning with appetizers at the home of Debbie King. The main course will be served at the home of Margaret Stearns and dessert at the United New Mexico Bank.

Installation of officers will highlight the dessert offering. Jan Barham will remain president of the group, with Joyce May serving as first vice president, Bessie Leslie as second vice president, Genevieve Duncan as secretary, and Stearns as treasurer.

 At the November meeting, held in the REA Building in Carrizozo, members voted to send a donation to Girls Ranch and a door prize to the annual state meeting to be held in Albuquerque Dec. 5-6. The door prize, donated by Bimby Richardson, was won by Betty Howell.

In addition to the new officers, standing committees were also named at the November meeting. They are: Stearns, cookbooks; Barham, scholarship; Leslie, beef education; and Jane Shafer and Anne Ferguson, father of the year.

The January meeting will be held at the Leslie home.

I want to express my THANKS and appreciation to my Lincoln County friends and neighbors for their help and support in my campaign for sheriff.

Sincerely,

 Lerry D. Bond

Open house to honor artist on Nov. 16

Salinas National Monument and the National Park Service announces that artist Kirk Hughey will be honored during a Sunday afternoon open house on Nov. 16 at the historic Shaffer Hotel in the central New Mexico town of Mountainair, junction of US 60 and NM 14. On display will be the series of 12 paintings and 19 drawings Kirk Hughey planned and executed for the National Park Service interpreting the history of the area and the three Spanish Franciscan and Pueblo Indian mission sites of the Salinas, today the Estancia Valley. The public reception will be from 2-5 p.m. This museum is the first Park Service interpretive center in the country to be comprised solely of works of art executed and donated by one artist. Kirk Hughey of Santa Fe was commissioned in 1984 by the National Park Service to this major undertaking, depicting his impressions of the Spanish occupation of the Salinas in the 17th century.

November 16 will also mark the date that most of the rehabilitation of the Quarai museum, 8 miles north of Mountainair, is to be completed. A large 1914 model of the Quarai pueblo has been installed in a room which overlooks the ruins and improved restroom facilities are now readily accessible for visitors.

The Lincoln County Leader, Devoted to the Best Interests of Lincoln County and the Development of Its Resources, published in White Oaks, Lincoln County, N.M., Saturday, June 28, 1890.

Coller, Corey and Keith leave on Sunday for Socorro, there to be examined in the workings of Masonry and take such other initiatory steps as will result in a dispensation to establish a Masonic Lodge in White Oaks.

Our rainy season has at last set in.

The Leader goes to press one day in advance this week in order that it's chief may be enabled to drink in patriotic inspiration on the glorious Fourth.

We last week neglected chronicling the fact that Judge Sam'l Terrell went all the way to Texas to procure a Berry. He secured a nice plump one, and his Berry is now Mrs. Terrell. We wish the couple a long and happy life.

The South Homestake Mill has been running constantly for several days and the clean-up now in progress bids fair to be satisfactory. It is more than likely that the music of this mill will be daily heard for some time in the future.

The North Homestake is following the even tenor of it's way in sinking the shaft and driving the drift to connect the north and south shafts, distance 500 feet. All the mining work in this immediate vicinity is being done quietly, but it is possible that this quiet may at any time in the near future be broken by the welcome news of a big strike.

John E. Wilson, the pioneer miner of this place, is pushing work on his claim in Baxter Mt., near town. He is getting out some good ore carrying free gold, and expects soon to make a mill run to ascertain it's practical value. It is rumored that $100,000 has been refused for the property.—Uncle John is feeble from the effects of rheumatic troubles, but his expectations and rustling qualities are as vigorous as in the days of yore. While other members of the community, in more instances that a few, are and have been for months growling about hard times, Uncle John does not know anything about such, but has worked along as if his life depended upon it, and now is reaping a golden harvest as his reward.

Will Gallagher hit the dirt road for Carthage this week.

There are now 44 stars on our National Banner. New Mexico will make the 45th.

Our cook, Ike Smith, left with Jake Ziegler this week for San Pedro. Unless Ike quits putting our elbow out of joint, getting sick and running around the balliwick with Jews we'll get a divorce from her, sure.

The other day, at Pinos Altos, Edward Fountain, son of Col. A.J. Fountain, of Las Cruces, had some words with a Mexican woman when she fatally shot him.—Before dying the young man exonerated the woman.

NOTICE—Every able bodied male inhabitant of Precinct No. 8, between the age of 21 and 50, and subject to roadwork, is hereby notified to meet at Ozanne's office, on Monday morning, July 14 at 7 o'clock, for the purpose of working the public roads Monday and Tuesday, July 14 and 15. Every person owning a team of horses, mules or oxen and who travel over the roads with any kind of vehicles, are required to work one day with such team.—See Revised Laws of 1884, page 194.

Any person may be excused from such work by paying to the road supervisor one dollar and fifty cents for each team, and two dollars for the two day's work required.

All who will come to work out their road tax are requested to bring what tools they may have, such as picks, grubbing hoes, shovels, spades, axes, plows and seapers.

Those who prefer to pay the required amount rather than work the roads must settle according to law on or before July 17, '90, with the road supervisor, as a list of all delinquents will be made after that date and they will be dealt with as the law requires.

Rain continues to fall frequently in this vicinity. Grass is growing finely, and the stock can be heard to laugh.

Ye Leader editor goes to Santa Fe next week. Readers may confidently look for a good paper during his absence.

The South Homestake Mill is making a clean-up, the second within a few weeks. This looks encouraging and there will doubtless be a golden reward for the owners.

Wm. M. Lane, the new mail contractor from San Antonio to Lincoln, is pushing affairs on his line with commendable energy.—Will is an excellent young man and deserves such success, as he will doubtless reap.

The starting of the North Homestake Mill is not an impossibility and that in the near future. The owners and managers keep their business closely and nothing definite can be learned, but more activity than chronic cloakings like may confidently be looked for.

The Republican friends of C. L. Pearman, the White Oaks hardware merchant, desire his nomination for the legislature.

The political pot is beginning to boil in this county. Since the rains came politicians have vegetated and scalping knives are being whetted.

Hen's teeth and locals have been equally scarce this week. If somebody else doesn't do something desperate soon we'll run off with a straw widow, or do something desperate. An interesting local paper we must and will have but we want to be the writer not the occasion.

The average American, the U.S. Dept of Agriculture reports, consumes some 95 pounds of refined sugar a year.

State laws govern Christmas tree cutting

In the next few weeks our local Christmas tree vendors will be going out to put Christmas trees. Around Thanksgiving these trees will be showing up in parking lots and on corner tree lots for use this Christmas season. New Mexico State Forestry wants all Christmas tree cutters and dealers to be informed of the state's laws regarding cutting and transporting of trees this year.

Most importantly all trees sold for Christmas decoration must have state Christmas tree tags attached to their main stem. These tags must be attached to the trees before the trees are transported from the forest or plantation. Tags are 5 cents a piece and can only be purchased from New Mexico State Forestry offices.

Commercial tree dealers will need to provide the following information to New Mexico State Forestry personnel in order to receive tree tags;

1.) Notice of landowners permission to cut trees including legal landowners' name, address, phone number, signature and date.

2.) Description of where trees may be cut (include township, range and section.)

3.) Number of trees allowed to be cut.

4.) If cutting trees on your own land you will need to provide a copy of your deed or current tax receipt.

When a person has this information he may fill out an application for purchase of Christmas tree tags (form SF-34). This form may be mailed on request to an individual or filled out at a New Mexico State Forestry field office. This paperwork must be returned along with a check or money order for the tags before tags will be sent or given to the applicant. Postage on all tags mailed must be paid by the purchaser on delivery. To avoid postage charges we encourage applicants to pick up the tree tags at the New Mexico State Forestry offices if possible. Checks or money orders must be made out to New Mexico State Forestry. Unused tags will not be reimbursed and tags are non-transferable. Any person handling or transporting Christmas trees must have the trees tagged, a copy of the application for tags and landowners permission notice in his possession at all times. More information can be obtained by calling New Mexico State Forestry at (505) 354-2231 or stopping by the District office in Capitan at the corner of White Oaks and Second or by writing New Mexico State Forestry, P.O. Box 277, Capitan, NM 88316.

Gun safety a must for accident-free hunting

By BEN HANSON

During the deer seasons there are more than a few people that have a fear in the back of their mind about being accidentally shot by another hunter. With from 80,000 to 100,000 hunters out in the field this seems logical. However, taking a look at the accidents that happened this past year it appears that hunters should worry more about themselves than other hunters.

Of the accidents that occurred last year all but two were self-inflicted gunshot wounds. A man at Artesia was found dead beside his vehicle. He apparently shot himself while removing a loaded 20 gauge shotgun from his vehicle. A man was found dead along the railroad tracks near Carrizozo. Reports show that he shot himself while trying to cross a fence with a loaded .22 rifle. In the Sacramento Mountains a man shot himself through both legs while pulling a loaded rifle from the passenger seat of his vehicle. He was attempting to show the rifle to two hunters standing outside his vehicle. The two men outside the vehicle were also injured when the rifle bullet penetrated the door. A man near Clayton shot himself in the chest while removing a loaded rifle from the gun rack of his pickup. Luckily he survived. A rancher near Mayhill killed himself while pursuing either a bear or cougar. He apparently slipped on a rocky hillside and used the loaded rifle to keep from falling. A man from Magdalena was killed when a loaded shotgun being carried in the back of a four-wheel drive discharged while driving over rough terrain. The two accidents where the wounds were not self-inflicted occurred near Belen and Weed. In Belen a man was shot to death by one of his hunting companions. Near Weed a turkey hunter mistook the hand movement of another turkey hunter for a turkey head and shot. The victim still carries a shot pellet buried two inches deep in his chest.

These accidents point out that by far most gunshot wounds are self-inflicted. All firearms accidents could be avoided if hunters would follow three basic rules. First, treat every gun as if it were loaded at all times. Hunters should always check first to see if a firearm is loaded, but even if unloaded it should be given the respect due a loaded firearm. Also, all firearms should be unloaded and the action left open when the hunter is not actually in pursuit of the quarry. Never, but never have a loaded firearm in a camp, vehicle or house if the terrain is difficult or footing is poor, unload. Never cross a fence, climb a tree or jump a ditch with a loaded gun.

The second rule is always to keep the muzzle of a firearm pointed in a safe direction. Do not point a gun at anything you do not intend to kill. This is true at all times and especially when loading and unloading firearms.

The last rule is to always make sure of your target and know what is beyond the target. Know where the bullet is going and where it will stop. Never, but never shoot at a noise or a movement. Never shoot at an animal on top of a hill or that has a building or vehicle in the background. A high powered rifle bullet can travel over four miles so make sure of your backstop. Never shoot at any hard flat surface or the surface of water. There may cause the bullet to ricochet.

I hope all hunters will learn and follow these basic rules. If so, the file folder I have marked "Hunting Accidents" will remain as it is without any further additions.

Helicopters To Be Used For Gathering Wild Burros

A public hearing will be held in Alamogordo, NM December 3 to receive comments on the use of helicopters and motorized vehicles for gathering wild burros in the Three Rivers area of New Mexico. "The small herd of burros in the area is not considered genetically viable," said Larry Nunez, range conservationist with the Bureau of Land Management, Las Cruces District. "For this reason, the land use plan BLM recently adopted for White Sands Resource Area called for removing all of these burros and making them available to the public through adoption. The BLM estimates that approximately 12 burros make up the Three Rivers herd.

The hearing will be held in the County Commission Room of the Otero County Courthouse, 10th and New York Streets, beginning at 6 p.m. Nunez said the public can receive a copy of the capture plan by writing to him at the Las Cruces BLM office, 1800 Marquess, Las Cruces, NM 88005 or calling him at (505) 525-8228.

If a capture plan includes the use of helicopters or motor vehicles for capture or transportation of wild horses or burros, the BLM is required to hold a hearing prior to gathering the animals.

By PAM McARTHUR

Sunny but cold, windy weather greeted brightly-vested hopeful hunters for the first deer hunt of the season this weekend. Other hunts are scheduled Nov. 12-16 and 19-25.

During National Election coverage, CBS commented that Canada experienced high voter turnout because registrars went door-to-door in that country. Canada has nothing on Lincoln County, thanks to the dedication of registrars like Alice Blakestead and Martha Proctor who put in extra time and effort. Out here, door-to-door may mean six to sixty miles.

La Junta Extension Club meets at the home of Mrs. Lorena Radcliff, Tinnie, on Wednesday, Nov. 19 for their traditional Thanksgiving luncheon. The turkey will be provided, and members are to bring covered dishes to complete the meal. The program beginning at 10:45 a.m. includes a demonstration by Edith Standhardt, Arabela, making Fours, a favorite holiday candy. Also, Mrs. Joe Phillips of the Roswell Extension Club will show Christmas table settings.

A meeting sponsored by the Water Defense Association for the Ruidoso, Hondo, Bonito, and Pecos Rivers was attended by more than 150 concerned citizens Sunday afternoon in the Hondo school gym. There was an update on the Association's executive committee work in progress. Doug Perrin, attorney, for the Association, urged water rights owners to file their intent to participate before the Nov. 17 deadline. Michael Hurd, San Patricio resident, chaired a question and answer session regarding the Mescalero Apache Tribe's claim to water usage and its impact on this area. Hubert Quintana pledged support of the State Office of Economic Development.

Every individual and group that wants to preserve the beauty of the Hondo Valley and to ensure the future of area wildlife may become a Friend of the Rivers by sending a contribution to Gail Hopkins, Picacho, NM 88343.

Hondo High students expressed their views on this issue in the school newspaper. The following are excerpts from the October issue of "El Agulla del Valle."

Celena Copeland, "I want my children's children to enjoy this land that my great-grandmother and great-grandfather settled." Danella Marquez, "As the Indians wanted their rights, we want our rights."

And from the Editorial, "The words of these two young students somehow hold an echo from the past... When will people stop hurting one another?... When will one culture stop taking rights and homes away from another?"

Peace.
