Alto area

Ground broken for first county paving district

By RUTH HAMMOND

The Alto Lake Golf and Country Club was the scene of a first in New Mexico on April 6. The event was the groundbreaking for the first paving assessment district that was formed in a county in New Mexico.

While paving districts are common in municipalities, this is a first for a county in New Mexico. The paving assessment district is a result of the Alto area property owners working with the Lincoln County Commission to rebuild and pave their roads.

Construction for the project began April 1, 1987 and will cost $3,396,700. Completion date has been set for Oct. 27, 1987.

The official ceremony was not met with agreeable weather, and was moved from the intended location of the entrance to Alto Village to the county club.

William H. Schwettman, president of the board of directors of the Alto Lake Golf and Country Club, gave an outline of the history of Alto Village with its 2,000 members and explained the need for the paving assessment district.

Former county commissioners Bill Elliott, Kenneth Nosker and A. W. Gnatkowski were instrumental in getting the paving assessment district started. Contractor for the project will be Bill McCarty Construction Co., Inc., engineers are Pajo Technical Services, Inc., bond counsel is Modrall, Sperling, Roehl, Harris & Sisk, Bond counsel-assessment roll is Bowen and Sanders, attorneys and underwriters are Rilee and Associates, Inc., Quinn Southwest and United New Mexico Trust Company.

A no-host luncheon at K-Bob's Steak House in Ruidoso followed the groundbreaking ceremony.

GROUND BREAKING CEREMONY for the Alto area paving assessment district was held April 6 at the Alto Lake Golf and Country Club. Participating in the ceremony were Lincoln County Manager Suzanne Cox, former Commissioner Bill Elliott, Jack Foster of the Ruidoso State Bank, William H. Schwettman, president of the board of directors of Alto Lake Golf and Country Club, Lincoln County Commission chairman John A. Hightower, Engineer Joe Shaln, President of Pajo Technical Services, former Commissioner Kenneth Nosker, Commissioners Ralph Dunlap and Bill Karn, and Tom White of Bill McCarty Construction Co., Inc.

38 apply for school job

The Carrizozo Board of Education has received a total of 38 applications for the position of school superintendent. April 5 was the last day for applications to be submitted.

The board met in special session on April 7 to select candidates for interviews that may begin as early as next week. The selection for interviewees was made during an executive session that lasted three hours.

Twenty-one of the applications had been received by the March 17 meeting when the board met in executive session and eliminated 12 of the applicants. Another 18 applicants were eliminated April 7, leaving the remaining eight candidates to be interviewed by the board.

School Board President Wally Ferguson said that it is hoped that a superintendent will be hired by the regular school board meeting of April 21, and if not then at least by the end of April.

The search for a school superintendent began when Dennis Sidebottom submitted his resignation effective July 1. Sidebottom and his wife Judi, a guidance counselor for Carrizozo schools, will return to their home state of Michigan.

Border patrolmen explain new immigration laws

Three members of the US Border Patrol were in Carrizozo March 26 to present two programs to the public about new laws concerning employer sanction provisions of the new Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986.

The first program was presented at the noon meeting of the Carrizozo Rotary Club and the second meeting was held at 7 p.m. in the city hall conference room and was sponsored by Carrizozo Mayor Bob Hemphill.

The new law will affect every employer in the United States and concerns illegal aliens of all nationalities, not just Mexicans, according to Border Patrol Agent Arturo H. Brito. He said that all kinds of illegal aliens were apprehended on the Mexican border last year and represented people from 76 different countries.

The new law, which was signed by President Reagan on Nov. 6, 1986 deals mainly with the legalization of illegal aliens. The three main sections of the law are legalizations, special ag workers and employer sanctions.

The agents presented a video and then opened the session for questions from the audience.

Most questions centered around ways to help an illegal alien obtain the verification of residency in the United States in order to apply for legalization. The cost will be $185 for adults and $50 for each child with the total not to exceed $425 per family.

Brochures are not available at this time that will give more information about the legalization process. Information may be obtained from the Border Patrol office.

A Bakersfield, CA man escaped with only minor injuries Tuesday morning when the semi-tractor he was driving overturned and slid off the road just south of Corona.

Steve Van Harn, driving the truck for M. C. Van Kampen, Inc. of Wyoming, Michigan, was hauling lettuce from California and Arizona to Grand Rapids, Michigan. "I've been driving this route since 1960," he said, "and depending on the produce season, I run this route as often as once a week." Van Harn had begun slowing down on the notorious curve when a skunk ran across the road. "You don't want to smell skunk for six weeks," observed the veteran driver; he opted to brake and swerve to the inside of the curve, believing that his speed was slow enough to do so without mishap.

"I could see the trailer going over in the rear view mirror," he said, and he knew the cab would be going over with it. "I remember thinking, 'Relax! Go limp!! It's hard to stay limber, but I guess I did.'"

Van Harn explained that the lettuce was in 1,000 pound cardboard bins which, when loaded, left approximately one foot of excess space around the trailer's interior. When he braked and swerved, 46,000 pounds of lettuce shifted, and "over she went."

After calling authorities and insurance representatives, Van Harn enjoyed a hearty breakfast at the Village Cafe in Corona. He had stayed in Las Cruces Monday night, arising around 1 a.m. "I like to drive this stretch at night," he said, so after filling his coffee cup, he drove into Carrizozo. "I stopped at that little grocery store and got me some cinnamon rolls, then came on up here," he calmly said over eggs and hash browns.

Van Harn received one small cut over the mustache; he thought a couple of ribs may have been cracked and admitted to being sore. "I'll probably be black and blue tomorrow." X-rays would probably be taken in Albuquerque before returning to his wife, Robin, in California. "I'll probably take a few days off," but the trucker loves the road. "I drive now more for fun than work; I can make a run and then stay home five days—and sometimes my wife comes with me."

Van Harn said he had been in one "pretty bad wreck in 1965" when he was hauling beef carcasses. That accident was caused when an air bag blew and the suspension dropped.

Aside from being amazed and thankful to be alive and uninjured, Van Harn grieved the loss of his truck. He got the 1987 Peterbilt in February and had put only 30,000 miles on it; "There's $137,000 in equipment laying there—dead."

THIS PETERBILT was totaled Tuesday when it overturned and slid off the road just south of Corona.

Firearms classes scheduled

A firearms familiarization class will be presented by Sgt. Duane Vinson of the sheriff's department April 20 through 24.

The class will be held in the county commissioners room in the courthouse at Carrizozo, 7 p.m. each evening.

Persons over 18 years of age are invited to attend the first meeting at 7 p.m., April 20.

Carruthers to speak at Ruidoso

Gov. Garrey Carruthers, accompanied by Mrs. Kathy Carruthers, will speak at a reception May 1 at Cree Meadows Country Club.

The reception will be held in the South Forty Room and will begin at 6 p.m.

The reception is being sponsored by the Lincoln County Republican Party, with Jack Page, county party vice-chairman, in charge of the arrangement committee.

According to Pat Hume, county chairman, the governor is scheduled to speak about 7 p.m.

The public is invited to attend the reception. The cost is $5 per person. There will also be a no host bar.

Library Week is observed

The week of April 5-11 has been designated as National Library Week. People are encouraged to use their local libraries.

The Carrizozo school library is also a community library with more than 7,000 books and paperbacks, more than 70 magazine subscriptions, three newspapers, and a growing collection of audio visual kits and materials. The library has room to seat 34 individuals.

School librarian Julia Hollis urges community patrons to use the library during regular hours, 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on school days.

Services provided include inter-library loan requests being accepted and the number of books checked out to any library patron is determined by the librarian or an adult aide. Fines are not charged for overdue materials checked out to teachers and community patrons.

Gifts of money, books or library materials are accepted by the school for use in the library.

CARRIZOZO MAYOR BOB Hemphill (right) sponsored the presentation on the special agricultural worker and employer sanctions provisions of the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986. US Border Patrol agents making the presentation on March 26 in the city hall conference room (from left) Arturo H. Brito, El Paso, Jim Orgeck, Alamogordo and Raul Ruiz, Alamogordo.

CHARLES AND LINDA WARD, Capitan, announced the marriage of their daughter Lori to David LaMay of Carrizozo. The ceremony was held March 31 in the home of the groom's parents, Dale and Maxie LaMay in Carrizozo. Rev. C.R. Wells of Nogal performed the ceremony. Lori is a 1984 graduate of Capitan High School and Davis is a 1984 graduate of Carrizozo High School. The groom is employed by Lamay Distributing.

'On the scene' reporting in 1881 They were going to hang Billy Kid on May 13, but—

By CHRIS HARKEY

(On Feb. 14, 1901 the publisher of the White Oaks Eagle, S.M. Wharton, published details of an incident that happened 20 years before and originally published May 5, 1881. Headlined "Happenings in White Oaks Twenty Years Ago" during what he called "The Golden Era," Editor Wharton revealed details leading to today's flap over the wallet of Robert Olinger, deputy US marshal.)

May 5, 1881

The city of White Oaks was startled on last Friday by the intelligence that Billy Kid had killed two of his guards and made good his escape. About three o'clock in the afternoon of the same day a courier confirmed the report and the following account of the daring break for liberty.

It seems that while Mr. R. Olinger was at supper on last Thursday evening as usual Deputy Sheriff J.W. Bell was guarding the prisoner, when it is supposed that Kid, watching his opportunity, slipped his handcuffs and struck Bell over the head and then grabbed the revolver from Bell's scabbard while he was in a dazed or stunned condition and shot him through the heart, killing him instantly. About this time it seems Mr. Olinger was returning from his supper when Kid aimed at him through the window with a double-barreled shot gun, and fired, hitting Olinger in the breast and after he fell emptied the other barrel, loaded with buck-shot, in his shoulder. It is reported that Kid then came out on the porch, broke the stock of the gun from the barrel and threw the pieces at the corpse, at the same time saying, "You will never follow me again with that gun." He then ordered a Mr. Goss, under cover of a winchester, which he secured in the adjoining room where he was being guarded, to saddle Billy Burt's horse, which Mr. Goss did, and as he (Kid) attempted to mount, the horse jumped sideways, breaking loose from the new master. Again the winchester came into position, threatening one on Mr. Goss, and again ordered to get the horse. This done, Billy Kid bid the people of Lincoln adios and rode off at a rapid gait. These are the facts as reported to us in a nut shell. A great deal may be surmised as to how he first secured the revolver and got his handcuffs and shackles off. But there is no surmising the fact that two brave and vigilant men were killed and Billy Kid is at large.

Lincoln county is at present without a jail and prisoners must all be guarded instead of closely confined, as is the custom and proper way in such cases, in other counties in New Mexico. Why Lincoln county has remained so long in this condition we are unable to state. Surely in days gone by she has needed one as badly as now. However one is now being erected of sufficient size and character to hold all classes of criminals. But this does not help matters in the least. It has in this instance proven disastrous in the extreme that such is the condition of affairs. It has been the means, in a measure, of depriving two good men of their lives in the flush of their manhood, and also turned loose a desperado whom the county and territory has spent much money in trying to capture.

Rumors state that Kid said to one or two after he was free that he did not want to kill Bell, but Bell would not surrender to him and that he had to do so to effect his escape. Also that he had a revolver on his person ever since he left the Pecos river, when the posse of men were escorting him from La Mesilla to Lincoln, where he was to be executed on the 13th of this month. Other reports say that he went round the town of Lincoln and bid several of the citizens good bye, and said that now he would still have a chance to kill the three men he spoke about while in the Mesilla jail. It is also reported that he carried away three revolvers and a winchester, arming himself to the teeth. That his hands were smaller than his wrists and that he could slip any hand cuffs that were put on him. That after he got the cuffs off he procured a file and severed one shackle from his ankle and rode off with the other one dangling. It seems hard to get at the exact facts, as every thing was done so quick and every one taken so by surprise.

J.W. Bell was made deputy sheriff last January and filled the office becoming an officer of the law and had won the esteem of all law abiding citizens. His loss is greatly mourned by all the citizens of White Oaks and surrounding camps.

Mr. Robert Olinger, was a deputy United States Marshal, and we understand was admired for his efficiency as an officer and his bravery and geniality as a man. Mr. Olinger was buried at Fort Stanton and Deputy Sheriff Bell was buried at Lincoln.

Carrizozo FFA teams win District 6 honors

The Carrizozo chapter of Future Farmers of America was in Silver City March 28 to compete in the second half of the District 6 Judging Contest. Carrizozo competed in three areas: ag, mechanics, meats and wildlife.

The ag, mechanics team placed 3rd in team standings. Team members included Jamie Patterson, John Maxwell, Shawn Gore and Leah Patterson. The Carrizozo team was beaten out by teams from Cliff and Gadsden. Jamie Patterson was ranked 3rd in individual standings.

The Carrizozo meats team won the District 6 meats contest. Marcia Hefker, John Maxwell, Shawn Gore and Lisa Hightower narrowly beat out teams from Hatch, which placed 2nd, and Gadsden, which placed 3rd. Marcia Hefker, a Carrizozo sophomore, was high point individual at the district level.

Wildlife was a disappointment for the Carrizozo team when Jeanna Sims, John Maxwell, Lisa Hightower and Leah Patterson placed only 5th. The experience will serve the team well, since all four will return to competition next year.

Lady judge rallies to defense of whoremonger

WASHINGTON — When the homicidal maniac "Son of Sam" began marketing his memoirs for millions, New Yorkers were so furious that the state legislature in 1980 passed the "Son of Sam" law.

But even the most reasonable law is undermined when there are nitwits on the bench. State Supreme Court Justice Hortense Gabel ruled last summer that the so-called "Mayflower Madam," Sydney Biddle Barrows, can add to the immense loot she has already pocketed as the proprietress of a huge stable of high-priced whores.

Incredibly, the five-judge panel of the Appellate Division has unanimously upheld Justice Gabel's bizarre ruling.

There is the story of one well-heeled person of Madam Barrows Telephone Brothel who spent an entire night (and a small fortune) with one of Sydney's well-scrubbed and expensively attired tartes.

He slept late, and when he finally awakened, she was gone. But she left a message, in lipstick, on the mirror: "WELCOME TO THE AIDS GENERATION!"

Even more bizarre than whoremonger justice in New York is a lawsuit filed by Washington's self-proclaimed "sex entrepreneur" Dennis Sobin. Mr. Sobin has charged that he was libeled and slandered by the attorney for Marine Lt. Col. Oliver North's gorgeous secretary, Fawn Hall. Sobin, who ran for Mayor of Washington and who was charged with running a house of prostitution (which charges were dropped), identified himself as the new (but temporary) owner of an escort service with the title "Liaison."

Since this escort service has been dormant for a year, Proprietor Sobin's only assets are 10,000 brochures with a cover photograph of a gorgeous model — who, it turns out, is Fawn Hall.

When word of this gamey destination of one of Miss Hall's modeling photographs began circulating in our nation's capital, Fawn Hall's attorney, a barrister with the equally enchanting name of Plato Cacheris, rose gallantly to the defense of his client.

would never be involved in something like that," declared Plato. "She's not that kind of girl."

That Plato's statement is, in truth, worthy of his namesake in ancient Athens is apparent in Fawn Hall's reaction to a $500,000 proposition by the Great Sleazebag of Gynecological Closeups, Bob Guccione of Penthouse magazine.

Guccione made this offer, if Fawn would disrobe and spreadeagle herself for Guccione's skin magazine. She refused, commendably.

Inside the Capitol

SANTA FE—We have all gradually become acquainted with the former agricultural economist who is our current governor, but an essential part of his personality remains elusive.

Maybe now that the legislature has gone home, he can settle down, and we governor-watchers can begin to get a sense of how to "read" him.

Governor Carruthers is clearly an enthusiast, overflowing with good will to a point that can seem unreal to those not possessed of his bubbling enthusiasm. That positiveness of spirit he conveys is obviously in part a deliberate choice aimed at demonstrating things have changed in the Roundhouse since his predecessor left it.

THE QUESTIONS: Up till now, this thicket of fol de vivre has proved so impenetrable some of us are left wondering what if anything is actually behind it.

Does this guy really find his new job such a klock that he goes around in a perpetual fit of happiness at having achieved it?

Shouldn't there be more to a governor than meets the eye—some depth, some unchanging convictions, some beliefs worth fighting for? Three months into his four-year term, Carruthers has managed to avoid giving any hints of whether there are such things behind his facade.

IN THE CLASSROOM: It's clear this man is having something of a problem leaving the educational setting behind.

But her attorney's true statement, "She's not that kind of girl," has been designated as "libel and slander" by Plaintiff Sobin. Mr. Sobin alleges that Miss Hall's revulsion, as enunciated by Attorney Cacheris, gave the dormant Liaison Escort Service "such a bad name" that after purchasing it for $2,000, he felt obliged to sell it for $100. So he is suing for his lost $1,900.

Here is a case that simply cries out for malicious prosecution. Cacheris ought to hit this blighter for nineteen thousand dollars.

As a university professor, after all, your main task is to impart wisdom, or at least knowledge. You function as a sort of fountain, which is very stimulating to the ego because a never-ending succession of students is provided to drink at your font.

Being a governor, of course, isn't that way. In this political job, because you are a pol, your every utterance is instead viewed with considerable skepticism. Those media people who surround you and sometimes give you the feeling you are important then go off and write or speak harshly of you. Other politicians, having their own agendas, often choose to clash with you in public—and sometimes they defeat you. Even the ordinary citizen makes demands on you, which is quite different from the classroom, where the sanctions belong to the lecturer.

Being the gov is a lot tougher. DANCING: So far in the Carruthers term, there has been a lot of fast footwork, but that alone isn't going to get the job done. It's the day-to-day running of government that the chief executive is selected to do, and that requires production. It also is a portion of life where responsibility is clearly focused; no matter

A unique smell?

EDITOR—It has been stated many times throughout the years that Lincoln County is very unique! It must be to have two attorneys present when the county commissioners meet for their monthly three-ring circus.

Steve Sanders has held a contract with the county for several years to serve as county attorney. This position did not appear to draw much attention until last year when a grand jury was called to look into possible overpayment to Mr. Sanders from the county manager's office.

Gary Mitchell, an appointed public defender, came upon the scene early last year at the request of then Sheriff Tom Sullivan, to defend him against the district attorney. Mr. Sullivan stated that he was afraid the D.A. was after him and needed legal representation. This action, needless to say, never occurred.

The taxpayers of this "unique" county should demand a complete explanation of the following questions from the county commissioners and county manager:

- 1. How much of the taxpayer's money has been spent in the last year for legal services of these two attorneys? Mr. Mitchell alone, from January to March, has received nearly $9,000. Only a portion of this involves the Lewis Water case.
2. How much money has been budgeted for legal advice for the county? It appears with the amount of litigation involved and unwarranted services charged, this amount might be as much as $175,000 to $200,000 this year.
3. Why is Mr. Mitchell present at every commissioners meeting when, surely, not everyone concerns the water case? Could it be the commissioner's let Mr. Mitchell control the meeting, and even go so far as to word motions for one commissioner who is unable to do so?
4. Was it ethical for Mr. Mitchell to file suit against our county sheriff three weeks ago in district court as public defender while charging the county for legal services?
5. How can Mr. Mitchell be an attorney for the county and a public defender at the same time? Is this not a conflict of interest?
6. Finally, is there a questionable situation involving County Manager Suzanne Cox and Gary Mitchell? In view of the fact that her husband, Charlie Cox, who was defeated in the primary by Don Samuels, is employed by Mitchell as an investigator, I begin to wonder if this has something to do with the recent harassment of Sheriff Samuels from the county manager's office over so-called incomplete paperwork and the suit filed by Mitchell against the sheriff. Our county governing body has a "unique" smell of mismanagement and incompetence which, if goes unchecked, will result in a stench that will be hard to get off our hands and out of our pocketbooks.

No longer alone

EDITOR—I am contacting your newspaper because since childhood I have suffered from a rare, debilitating and potentially fatal disease called scleroderma. Not only did I feel frustrated and alone growing up, but to complicate matters, my mother recently came down with this devastating disease.

In our search for answers and support we eventually located the United Scleroderma Foundation. Not only did we receive information, we received a renewed "hope" that we were no longer alone. We learned that this disease affects some 700,000 people and that President Ronald Reagan declared the second week of June as National Scleroderma Awareness Week.

I'm so thrilled to no longer feel isolated that I want to shout from the rooftops so others won't have to suffer alone as I did these last 40 years.

Kenneth Crenshaw at the White Oaks Bar. Armstrong suffered multiple slashes across the back and neck as Crenshaw played tic-tac-toe with a machete. Armstrong was taken to a hospital while a registered nurse applied pressure to severed arteries. Had he arrived at the hospital 10 minutes later than he did, physicians said he would have bled to death. Last week the grand jury returned a true bill against him. If this decision is correct, Armstrong started the whole thing, grabbed the machete off the bar wall and lashed himself instead of his antagonist! According to witnesses at the grand jury hearing, Armstrong pulled a knife with his right hand to assault Crenshaw. Never mind that Armstrong is left-handed and that the knife sheath was on his left side, which makes it nigh impossible for a left-handed man to accomplish this near miracle! Armstrong is to stand trial for assault with a deadly weapon. The machete hacker goes scot-free. And at least two witnesses who committed perjury to "railroad" Joe Armstrong have made a mockery of New Mexico justice.

Friday's Albuquerque Journal carried a big front page picture of Gov. Garrey Carruthers nailing up the first 65 mile an hour speed limit sign on New Mexico highways. This will probably slow highway traffic down to about 75 miles an hour.

COOKIE A DAY

A couple trapped in their car for 13 days by roof-high snowdrifts in Kansas said they survived with two boxes of Girl Scout cookies, blankets, arguments, a copy of Good Housekeeping and prayer.

Nelle Obendorf, 65, and her husband, Orville, 70, had melted snow for water and rationed the peanut butter and mint cookies. "One cookie a day," Nelle said.

Some people objected to what they call the song's racist message, and they questioned the station's motive for broadcasting it.

The station program director said that their morning disc jockey put together the 60-second parody to address the illegal alien problems specifically and that the song was not intended as a commentary about the Latino community in general.

The lyrics that caused the anger:

"They'll be coming across the border when they come.
"They'll be coming across the border when they come.
"They'll be coming across the border when they come.

"They'll be coming across the border, cause there is no law and order;
"They'll be coming across the border when they come.
"They'll be carrying drugs and handguns, so they can have some real fun;
"They'll be carrying drugs and handguns when they come.
"They'll not have a green card, but they sure know how to run hard;

"Well, they will not have a green card when they come.
"Now, all they know is Spanish, and if you don't they will vanish;
"Well, now, all they know is Spanish when they come."
(In the song's background is heard the words tortillas, Taco Bell, que pasa and Frito-Lay.)

DID YOU KNOW?

Little-known facts about the presidency include:

—George Washington was called the Father of His Country. James Madison was called the Father of the Constitution. Both men were childless.
—Until the 1850s, American Indian chiefs used to come to Washington to negotiate with presidents and were treated as foreign diplomats.
—John Adams had the longest life span of any president, nearly 91 years.
—Thomas Jefferson ward off colds by soaking his feet in cold water every morning.
—As president, John Quincy Adams rose as early as 4 a.m. to write in his diary. On warm mornings he liked to slip down to the Potomac River behind the White House and skinny-dip. One day a reporter, Anne Royall, surprised him. She sat on his clothes and refused to go away until he promised to give her an interview. She got it.

Carrizozo FFA ranks 10th in state

The Carrizozo chapter of Future Farmers of America traveled to Las Cruces and the campus of NMSU to compete in the annual State FFA Contest. Carrizozo took three teams to the contest with a total of only seven people.

The Carrizozo agriculture mechanics team placed a disappointing 2nd in state competition, being narrowly beaten out by the team from Cliff. Two Carrizozo team members made the top five individual list. Jamie Patterson, a senior, ranked 2nd in the state. She was beaten out by David Dutton, an FFA'er from Gadsden. Leah Patterson, a sophomore, placed 5th, being beaten out of a higher placing by judgers from Cliff, Hatch and Gadsden, and her older sister. Two other Carrizozo team members, John Maxwell and Shawn Gore, ranked in the top half individually.

Carrizozo's meats team came in 4th, being out ranked by teams from Lovington, Melrose and Hatch. Team members Marcia Hefker, John Maxwell, Shawn Gore and Lisa Hightower will be back next year, however, because this was a three sophomore, one freshman team.

The wildlife team, John Maxwell, Jaenna Sims, Lisa Hightower, and Leah Patterson, placed 10th in overall standings. It wasn't an excellent finish for this team of sophomores and freshmen, but it was a definite improvement over last year's finish of 26th.

Trip sponsors included Mike Gaines, Carrizozo v.o. ag. teacher and FFA adviser, and Kelly Chavez, student teacher. The Carrizozo FFA Alumni provided financial support for the trip.

CARRIZOZO FFA winners at the state FFA contest in Las Cruces and the second half of District 6 judging contest in Silver City: Jaenna Sims, Leah Patterson, Jamie Patterson, John Maxwell, Marcia Hefker and Lisa Hightower. Not present for picture was Shawn Gore, also a winner.

That's not fair, and it certainly isn't pleasant for a man who has indicated that being "pleasant" is one of his major motivations in life.

It takes a lot more than that to make a good governor, of the kind New Mexico needs at this point in its history.

The highly liberal media

EDITOR—In a recent review of a book, "The Media Elite" co-authored by S. Robert Lichter, an interesting insight of the media press is observed.

How this country's top journalists think, why they think the way they think, and how they affect the resulting news, is not only extremely interesting with a profound effect on the lives and futures of all of us.

Are most of those in the press of liberal persuasion? It would seem so—at least that is what their critics say. If true, then on what basis do the critics state their case? Let's take a look. "The Media Elite" discloses facts based on research made by the authors.

Interviews conducted with several hundred "newspersons" of the true elite proved that most were of East Coast origin and socially liberal in philosophy which affected the way the news is being reported. Reporters, it appears, are by no means a cross section and are overpaid, over educated, and have a higher socio-economic leaning which gives us liberal slant to most of the reported news.

Strange enough, the high pay of journalists would place them in favoring capitalism, while at the same time, asserting liberal social values. Over 80 percent vote Democratic, 86 percent seldom darken a church door, 60 percent think that our government exploits the Third World.

Regarding coverage of nuclear energy with all of its ramifications, both local and worldwide, reporting has been consistently on the negative side. The interviews disclosed six out of seven media outlets reported negative views on nuclear energy. Not a single TV (nuclear) topic came across in a pro stand on the use of nuclear energy.

It was once said "What a man sees depends more on what is behind his eyes than what is in front of him."

If we readers and viewers are to escape a total brainwash it is hoped that what we see and read will not control a sound mental view of our country, the world, and all that is happening on the daily scene.

Capitan rates high

A group of Lincoln County students did well at the New Mexico State Convention of Future Homemakers of America in Glorieta, NM, March 20-21. These students are members of the Capitan FFA chapter and were led by teacher/advisor Laura Jones. Capitan's chapter was the first in New Mexico to affiliate (pay its state dues) during the 1986-87 school year. The chapter membership showed an increase of 82 percent. Competition in the FFA is known as a star event. A 3-star rating is the highest one can obtain. The Capitan results are as follows: Illustrated talks, 2nd place, Cindy Castillo received a 3-star rating; chapter manual, 3rd place, Doug Eckland received a 2-star rating; chapter banner, 3rd place, and a 3-star rating. Other competition: Baked goods—receiving a 2-star rating were Doug Eckland, Pauline Montes and Teresa Burgess. Tina Eldridge and Henrieta Griego were awarded

1-star ratings. In the job interview category Chyleen Smith received a 2-star rating. During the convention Gina Griego was installed as state vice-president of Inspiration and Recreation. Chapter adviser Laura Jones was presented a certificate of appreciation for her work and dedication with her chapter.

PAUL AND RONDA MILLER placed second in their respective age group competitions at the Elk's District Hoop Shoot contest in Lordsburg. Each received a trophy. They missed taking first place by only one basket. They represented the Ruidoso Elk's Lodge at the contest. Ronda is a 4th grader and Paul is a 7th grader at Corona Schools.

Free testing for diabetes

The Valley of Fires Lionsess Club will conduct a free diabetes screening for the public on April 17 in the lobby of the United New Mexico Bank in Carrizozo starting at 9:30 a.m.

The Lionsess have the loan of a diabetes tester from the American Diabetes Association (ADA). Dr. Amy Barton, a Lionsess member, will conduct the screening. Other Lionsess members will help with the written reports.

According to "Diabetes: Facts You Need to Know," a publication distributed by the ADA, more than 11 million people in the United States have diabetes, one of the worst diseases of our time. Unfortunately, almost half of them don't know they have this chronic disease, and every year 500,000 more Americans are diagnosed with diabetes.

Diabetes is a disease in which the body does not produce or properly use insulin, a hormone that is needed to convert sugar, starches and other food into the energy needed for daily life. It often leads to serious complications that involve nearly every tissue of the body. When high levels of sugar build up in the blood, heart disease, kidney disease, blindness, nerve damage and leg and foot amputations from gangrene occur.

There is no cure for diabetes, but research has made progress in the treatment of people with diabetes. Self blood glucose monitoring, pancreas and islet cell transplants, oral medications, laser therapy to prevent diabetes-caused blindness, and new insight into the dietary needs of people with diabetes are just some of the recent advances that are helping many live healthier, longer lives.

There are two major types of diabetes, insulin-dependent diabetes and non-insulin-dependent diabetes.

Insulin-dependent diabetes is the most severe form of diabetes which affects about one million people and usually hits people when they are young children or adolescents. Warning signs are frequent urination, accompanied by unusual thirst, extreme hunger, rapid weight loss with easy tiring, weakness and fatigue, and irritability, nausea and vomiting. These symptoms occur suddenly. If they do occur, contact a doctor immediately.

Non-insulin diabetes usually develops in people over the age of 40 who are overweight. Proper diet and exercise are essential to controlling non-insulin-dependent diabetes although oral medication or insulin also may need to be taken.

The onset of non-insulin-dependent diabetes is often gradual and undramatic. Many first become aware they have the disease after they develop one of its life-threatening complications (i.e. heart disease, kidney disease or eye problems). Warning signs are blurred vision or any change in sight, tingling or numbness in legs, feet or fingers, frequent skin infections or itchy skin, slow healing of cuts and bruises and drowsiness. If a person exhibits any of these symptoms, a test should be conducted.

Diabetes screening is a first step for many in learning more about this disease and complications that arise from this disease. People with diabetes are two to four times more likely to have heart disease and two to six times more likely to have a stroke than people who do not have diabetes.

Twenty percent of all people with diabetes are either black or hispanic. The rate of non-insulin-dependent diabetes is 300 percent higher in hispanics.

Direct and indirect costs for diabetes run to $14 billion annually and account for 3.6 percent of total US health care costs.

EMTs qualify for recertification

Seven Lincoln County Emergency Medical Technicians (EMTs) participated in an EMT-Intermediate refresher in Capitan March 6-8.

Gwen Jones of Ft. Stanton, Yvonne Lanelli of Alto, Bryan Wetzel, Kathy Williams and Trudy Torrison of Carrizozo, Gail Hopkins of Hondo, and Devil Bill Adams of Capitan passed the three-day class. Auditing a portion of it was EMT-Basic John Schrandt of Capitan.

State licensing requires that EMT-Is complete a 16-hour class every two years in order to maintain certification at that level.

Skills learned above basic life support level include use of the esophageal obturator airway and intravenous therapy. In addition, EMTs were informed of the latest updates in trauma to the chest, head and abdomen.

Course was taught by Rob Wagoner and Terry Landess of the University of New Mexico-EMS Academy.

US ARMY WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE NOTICE OF A FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT OF THE COMBINED EFFECTS MUNITION LOT ACCEPTANCE

FLIGHT TESTING WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, NEW MEXICO

DESCRIPTION OF PROPOSED ACTION:

White Sands Missile Range (WSMR) proposes to conduct lot acceptance flight tests for the Combined Effects Munition (CEM) in the area southeast of Stallion Range Center, Socorro County, New Mexico. The effort consists of dropping loaded CEMs from aircraft for function testing (explosions). Two CEMs will be tested each month over a period of approximately fifteen months. Each CEM contains a large number of explosive submunitions, each designed to detonate upon impact.

ALTERNATIVES CONSIDERED:

A large number of other locations were considered for conducting the lot acceptance tests including two other sites on WSMR. No locations other than White Sands Missile Range were found which could meet the necessary criteria for safe and effective testing. Use of the Stallion Warhead Impact Target was considered but was rejected because of possible interference with other programs scheduled in this area. Another site in the US Air Force (USAF) Red Rio Range was rejected because of potential for soil erosion and impact of remoteness of the area on project and maintenance efforts. The no test alternative was rejected because of the need for testing to ensure that CEMs were reliable and safe in order to ensure US defense needs were met.

AFFECTED ENVIRONMENT:

The impact area is the North East Center Impact (NECI) area located seven miles southeast of Stallion Range Center in Socorro County, New Mexico. The area is a sand gypsum grassland and has been moderately disturbed by past military operations and is contaminated by explosive munitions due to use during the 1960s for similar munitions testing. The site is two miles from the north edge of the Trinity National Landmark, ten miles northwest of the Trinity Site. The area is remote and testing effects will be contained within WSMR boundaries.

ENVIRONMENTAL CONSEQUENCES:

The anticipated environmental impacts associated with this effort have been fully addressed in the Environmental Assessment for Lot Acceptance Flight Testing of the Combined Effects Munition at White Sands Missile Range dated March 17, 1987. There will be no significant impacts to the water quality, land use, flora, fauna, wildlife refuges, historic sites, archaeological sites, air quality, noise pollution or socioeconomic situation at WSMR or the surrounding area. Minor impacts will occur as a result of noise, dust and air emissions from site clearance and test operations. These impacts will be small and localized. There are no known endangered species in the test area. There may be minor impact on wildlife, but because of the small area and limited activities, no significant impacts will occur. Test operations will result in no harmful residues nor any emissions of materials at toxic levels, therefore no significant impacts on air or water quality will occur. There will be no significant impact on cultural resources.

CONCLUSION:

The aforementioned analyses demonstrates the conclusion of the Environmental Assessment (EA) that the proposed action would not cause significant impact upon the area's environment. Accordingly, the US Army White Sands Missile Range has determined that an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) pursuant to the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL-91-190) is not required. All interested agencies, groups, and persons not in agreement with this decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration of the Commander, White Sands Missile Range within 15 days of this notice. The proposed action will not be implemented prior to the expiration of the specified comment period. A copy of the Environmental Assessment will be available for review at Building 1740, White Sands Missile Range (Phone 605-678-2224). Address all correspondence in reference to this notice to:

Members of the Hondo FFA Land Judging Team which took 5th place at the final state judging competition last weekend were Gail Aragon, Patrick Kelly, Ronnie Aragon, and Moses Chavez. Under the direction of Jerry Burchett, the team traveled to NMSU at Las Cruces for the competition. They were selected as one of the five New Mexico teams to represent our state in Oklahoma City for the International Land Competition to be held the first week in May.

Spring is still playing April Fool's jokes on us. The snow is no longer funny. Visitors from Michigan who were having breakfast at the Wortley Hotel said they have seen more snow in New Mexico than they had all winter back home. The last two cold fronts ruined our hopes for fresh peach cobbler this summer.

Kim Castro's Dance Club performed at the Hondo Talent Show Saturday, April 4. There was good attendance at the school gym for the show and everyone enjoyed the entertainment. First place winners in the judging portion, were Robert Herrera and Jennifer Chavez for their skit "Hit the Road, Jack." Lisa Gutierrez won 2nd place for her Jump Rope Routine. Third place went to a group of dancers, age 4 to 10, whose theme was "The Surfers."
