Carrizozo hires new teachers

Three new teachers/coaches were hired during a special meeting of the Carrizozo board of education on May 28.

Dan Burnett, who will take over as school superintendent on July 1, and school principal Mel Holland had worked together two weeks in May to make selections of personnel to provide services for several areas in the school.

Burnett made recommendations for hiring new teachers following review, screening and interviews. He began the process of selection of personnel in April with Dennis Sidebottom.

Burnett told the board that even though he is not officially on duty until July 1, "I think some of the best personnel can be hired before July 1 because there is a better selection of personnel with better credentials and experience."

"I want for the Carrizozo schools to be able to take advantage of the situation," he said.

David Zale Woodward was hired as language arts teacher, head track coach and assistant football coach. He was formerly head football coach and head track coach for Capitan for the 1986-87 school year.

John Wootton was hired as elementary level P.E. teacher, high school civics or social studies, head football coach and assistant track coach. He is from Moriarty.

Gerald Montes from San Patricio was hired as guidance counselor and will teach civics if needed.

Burnett told the school board that the band/art positions will probably be the most difficult positions to fill because the possibility of finding one person to fill both positions is remote. He suggested other alternates if it is impossible to find a qualified person to place in the combination position.

"The main concern is to provide programs in the curriculum that meet the needs of students, provide quality instruction and is a viable part of the educational curriculum. Programs should not be provided just to offer credit, provide easy instructional opportunities or keep children occupied," he explained.

The school will continue the search for teachers in band, music, art, special education, office education and elementary education.

Burnett's question of the salary schedule for school employees was the reason for an executive session for personnel at the special meeting. No decisions were announced following the closed session.

Airport engineering services approved by commissioners

By RUTH HAMMOND

The Lincoln County Commission met in special session June 1 to approve the addendum to the original agreement with Bohannon-Huston, Inc., Albuquerque, for professional engineering services for the Sierra Blanca Airport access road.

Bohannon-Huston will perform the professional engineering services for the construction of the access road from the west boundary of the Bureau of Land Management property, on which the airport sits, on the east, to the access road's intersection with State Road 37 on the west.

Their duties will include making periodic inspections and observations of the work in progress, furnishing consultation and advise during the course of construction, provide reports of each inspection indicating project status, progress and any potential problem observed, making final inspections of the project, preparing reproducible "As-Built" drawing to reasonably reflect construction as it was actually accomplished, prepare periodic pay requests and certificates of payment at appropriate intervals and prepare construction contract change orders as required and authorized by the county.

They will provide a competent resident engineer/inspector together with such inspectors as necessary during the time when construction is in progress to insure compliance with the project plans and specifications.

Also included in the construction survey will be to provide the necessary field parties, technicians and other personnel for the setting of grades, lines and limits of the work and to verify the accuracy of the work as it progresses.

The addendum as presented must be approved by the state highway department. The specifications for the building of the road will be according to state highway department specifications.

Money to build the road, in the amount of $6,455,000, was appropriated by the 1987 state legislature. The state highway department has a joint powers agreement over the construction funds and their approval is necessary to pay invoices for the actual work.

Michael Emery, president of Bohannon-Huston, explained that the main portion of the road work would be earthwork and asphalt. He said that work should begin by Labor Day. Local people are to be hired when possible and applications will be at the county manager's office in the courthouse.

Commissioners also accepted the joint powers agreement with Chaves County and the New Mexico Department of Natural Resources to receive a grant from the state board of finance in the amount of $75,000 to be used for historic and economic impact research and preparation of technical evidence to protect the water in the Rio Hondo, Bonito and Ruidoso Rivers against the claims of the Mescalero Apache Tribe.

According to the agreement, Chaves and Lincoln counties agree to transfer the entire $75,000 to the New Mexico Department of Natural Resources. The Department of Natural Resources shall be the responsible agency for the hiring of the expert or experts, contracting for technical evidence and historic and economic impact research and presentation of said evidence in the appropriate court.

No portion of the funds received subject to the joint powers agreement are to be used for legal services.

The joint powers agreement is to take effect immediately upon approval by the secretary of Finance and Administration.

A portion of the meeting was videotaped by the county extension office for its use. Barry Herd, county extension agent, presented a report of the work being furnished to the county by the extension office during part of the videotaping.

An executive session was held for contract negotiation, litigation and personnel.

July 4 Stampede occupies chamber

By BART McDONOUGH

The Capitan Chamber of Commerce met June 1. Those present learned that the July 4 Smokey Bear Stampede Parade needs many more entries. An entry blank is in this edition of the News. Fill it out and mail it to: Parade Committee, Box 441, Capitan, NM 88316.

The parade marshal will be Fletcher Hall. The grand lady is Frances Shaw. Both have lived in Capitan for most of their lives. Parade judges are Dorothy Guck, Woody Schlegel, Frank Miller and Dr. Cox of Ruidoso. A special meeting has been set for June 8 to discuss building a chamber of commerce float and the Capitan brochure.

Chamber members learned that Pat Bailey and Virginia

Danielson of the Capitan Zia Senior Center both earned gold medals at the state Senior Olympics last weekend in Roswell. Both qualified for the national competition in St. Louis beginning the end of this month. Dorothy Payne of Carrizozo won a gold medal and will go to St. Louis.

The chamber agreed to contribute $300 to help defray expenses of Danielson and Bailey at the National Senior Olympics.

Christmas lighting for the village was assigned to a committee consisting of Norm Renfro, Kay Strickland and Maxine Wright. It was also decided to feed the Holloman Banner Guard barbecue after the July 4 parade. The Lincoln County Fair Board will "do" the barbecue.

PUZZLING QUESTIONS

Riddles are fun for children. A riddle is a form of puzzling question which is to be solved by guessing. Sometimes it is a statement which has a hidden meaning to be discovered or guessed. A riddle has come to mean anything puzzling, uncertain in its meaning or complicated.

Riddles have always been popular. They are a type of folklore. The earliest riddles were presented by ancient oracles and were of a serious character and sometimes called sense riddles.

Modern riddles are less serious and may be described as 'conundrum' puns. A conundrum is a kind of riddle based upon some imagined likeness between things that are quite unlike. The answer to the puzzling questions often involves a pun, or play upon words.

In Greek mythology we find the famous riddle asked by the Sphinx, "What has one voice, and yet becomes four-footed and two-footed and three-footed?"

Oepidus guessed the answer, "Man," who crawls on all fours when a baby, then to stand erect, and in old age walks with a cane. The myth goes on to say that the Sphinx was so grieved that she killed herself.

MODERN RIDDLING

These are some of the riddles heard this week around this household:

- (1) What three-letter word is a mousetrap?
- (2) If two is company, and three is a crowd... what are four, and five?
- (3) When are cooks mean?
- (4) A butcher is six feet

OPINION

There are purblind citizens who believe that crime doesn't pay. The myth persists in spite of government statistics to prove the contrary. Crime does pay, and handsomely too.

Well, take the latest in a long list of entrepreneurial burglars, Clifford Karnson of New Britain, CT. The City Council of New Britain has agreed to pay him $350,000 for burglarizing a transmission shop.

Burglary is only one item in the arsenal of remunerative crime. Even ministers of the gospel embrace crime, as witness the latest capers of some TV evangelists and the peccadillos of assorted Catholic and Protestant moral revisionists.

Then there is the hero of Washington, DC, Mayor Marion Barry. The popular black mayor is known as a ladies man. On March 28 he dashed into the home of Jan Evered, uninvited, in hot pursuit of one of her tenants, an attractive female of 23.

One does not have to be adept at crime to achieve public recognition and prestige. If the Democrats hope to win more elections they will have to spring criminals such as Sirhan Sirhan and run them for congress, where so many of our famous thieves are ensconced by an admiring electorate.

Want more proof? A most prestigious university is a training ground for sophisticated criminals. Recently the chairman of the Commission on California State Government Organization and Economy issued a report which revealed that the University of California at Berkeley was "the No. 1 campus for crime in America" in 1986.

Admiral Hyman Rickover is an American hero. When Secretary of the Navy John Lehman found that General Dynamics was funneling thousands of dollars of taxpayer money to Rickover "for some purpose," he sent a letter of censure to the famed submarine expert.

Norman Lear, who gave us such cultural television shows as Archie Bunker and Maude, is founder of People for the American Way, an outfit regurgitating anti-American propaganda, while waving the American flag.

Carrizozo is not a wealthy community and thus does not boast white-collar crime. But the town benignly accepts the petty crimes of those who hope to emigrate to more lucrative fields. It even refuses to provide this newspaper with the names of offenders because, as the mayor once proclaimed, we "don't want to give the town a bad name."

Mark Twain saw all this coming back in 1875 when he wrote: "He grew up and married, and raised a large family, and brained them all with an axe one night, and got wealthy by all manner of cheating and swindling; and now he is the most respected and successful man in his native village, and is universally respected, and belongs to the Legislature."

No, not again!

A special election in Carrizozo has been called for June 23 at which time voters will again be asked to vote on the question of legalizing the sale of alcoholic beverages by the drink for consumption on the premises of the two licensed bars in town.

This same question was presented to voters in March 1986, and was rejected by a vote of 133-127.

Now the same two bar owners are back with the same proposition, apparently undismayed that voters have already spoken on the matter. It is no credit to the town council that it is putting the town to the expense of a special election on a subject that should already be settled.

boondoggle for the benefit of two bar owners is $1,000.

It is no problem for residents to obtain liquor in Carrizozo, weekdays or Sunday. Drinkers who fail to provide their liquor for Sunday drinking in advance can always drive a half-mile to Nike Tavern or to White Oaks, both of which are licensed to dispense liquor on Sundays.

We have enough drunks staggering around town every weekday and night. Sunday, we believe, should provide a sober climate for rest, family gatherings and religious observances.

It is hoped that voters will go to the poll and vote this measure down by a convincing majority and stop this annual effort to further enrich only two citizens.

Hart disaster puts Chappaquiddick behind

Kennedy charting road to White House in 1988

By JOHN E. McDONALD

Only one campaign hurdle remains between Senator Ted Kennedy and the Democratic nomination for president in 1988—the press.

"Americans, by two to one, say that Gary Hart should not have given up his political race," reported the Los Angeles Times poll last month. Those answering the Times and other polls also criticized the press for making Hart's private life public.

No one appreciated that news more than Senator Ted, now fine-tuning his plans for the Democratic convention and campaign for the presidency in 1988.

No one appreciated that news more than Senator Ted, now fine-tuning his plans for the Democratic convention and campaign for the presidency in 1988.

Hart's fiasco answered the important question of how much weight voters will give to questions about a candidate's moral qualifications — an answer that the senator could only guess at, until the campaign effects of Hart's womanizing and withdrawal were indicated in the resulting polls.

All the 1988 primary polls showed Kennedy to be the front-runner for the 1988 Democratic nomination — until he announced that he would "not" be a candidate for the 1988 Democratic presidential nomination. But though he is now never mentioned in the polls as a candidate, few doubt that he can resume the lead at any time.

Kennedy has never concealed his consuming desire to be President of the United States. Everything he has done or said confirms that.

He fought for the nomination in 1980, losing a close race to the incumbent Jimmy Carter.

He wisely passed up the 1984 race to avoid tarnishing his future plans by losing to the then unbeatable Ronald Reagan.

After the Democrats regained control of the Senate in 1986, he turned down the chairmanship of the powerful Senate Judiciary Committee in favor of the even more politically rewarding Labor and Human Resources Committee, which passes out health insurance and other massive social vote-getting goodies.

He has just returned from a triumphant tour of cold-war front Poland, attending mass with world-respected labor and civil rights leader Lech Walesa — highly publicized activity/experience in "foreign affairs" so important to a presidential candidate.

In short, he has done all the right things a candidate for the presidency should do.

The public sympathy for

Hart in his hours of agony now strongly suggests that immoral conduct, occurring more than 15 years ago, is no unbeatable campaign burden. In fact, those intervening years also serve to insulate "Chappaquiddick" from the consideration of millions of younger voters who know little or nothing of the senator's role in the death and cover-up that occurred there.

If so, Ted Kennedy may now justifiably feel that Chappaquiddick is far from the minds of most voters.

His 1988 announcement, that he "would not be a candidate for the Democratic nomination in 1988" did not mention 1992, nor did it rule out a campaign for the presidency in 1988. He closed the door only on a campaign for the 1988 "nomination" of the Democratic party.

If he wanted to be president in 1980, why not in 1988? If he wants to be president in 1992, why not in 1988? Why step aside for someone in 1988 who might well be an unbeatable incumbent in 1992? And if he wants to be president in 1988,

Ruidoso's winds of change

Taxpayers in no mood for more taxes; just cut operating costs

By J. A. "Al" Jung

There is definite evidence of administrative changes being made at the Ruidoso City Hall. It is like walking into an old dilapidated building expecting to see the same old worn out structure, only to discover a new interior—fresh paint, new walls and flooring giving evidence to a new satisfying change which is always welcome to the taxpayer.

This change is the result of a new, open door policy developed by the present city manager, Frank Potter. His door is always open and, in spite of a backbreaking schedule, he now patiently listens to anyone who will require his ear. In conclusion, he may agree or not on the matter in discussion and render a decision. As you leave his office you feel that a "yes" answer means exactly that and the request will be considered or, in some cases, implemented within a given time frame.

The fiscal control of city funds has been assigned to Leon Eggleston. This assignment should prove to be a wise choice. Eggleston is well versed in state laws on fiscal matters, along with rules established by the Municipal League covering the conduct of city councils and other phases of city government. He has had several years of "on the job training" and is a professional

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Where the money comes from

EDITOR—As the newest member of the Policy Making Board of the Eastern New Mexico Area Agency on Aging, I would like to clarify the Zia Senior Citizens budget. Although the Lincoln County News was correct in stating the total budget was $151,221, I would like to breakdown that figure to indicate where the funding comes from as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Source and Amount. Includes Federal grant ($31,085.00), State (52,618.00), Program income (17,235.00), and County of Lincoln (10,692.00).

1986-1987 budget cash balance 8,010.00 $119,638.00

1987-1988 One time Expenditure-Nutrition 693.00 1987-1988 One time Expenditure-Literacy Program 890.00

Anticipated Capital Outlay from Legislature 30,000 $151,221.00

As you can see, this is not a free program. Our seniors contribute to the programs, and I thought the taxpayers would like to know the source of funding and the amounts contributed to the programs for Carrizozo, Corona and Capitan.

Inside the Capitol

By Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—Those who have been where Garrey Carruthers is are less likely to be critical of him than certain of the rest of us have been.

Some of New Mexico's ex-governors may be a tad envious of the man, but they don't incline to say tough things about his performance. Bruce King, who has more experience on the fourth floor of the Roundhouse than anybody else in the state's history, did tell a reporter from Arizona that "reporters are sure easier on Carruthers, giving him more of a honeymoon than they ever gave me."

THE BUCKS: Jerry Apodaca, when responding to the same Phoenix reporter who came over here to see how our new Republican governor is shaping up, was even kinder. Speaking of what some saw as a contradiction in Carruthers, his support for a tax increase even as he described himself as a "conservative," Apodaca said, "He is an economist in a down economy. He is being pragmatic."

In circumstances of that kind, Apodaca suggests, "It doesn't make much difference what political philosophy you've got."

Governor Carruthers, I think we can be relatively sure in saying, probably isn't impressed that we in the media have given him a softer time than those who served as chief executive in the past. You can be pretty sure he feels his "honeymoon" to use Bruce King's term, didn't last long enough.

Part of the reason it didn't is that very contrast between believing one way and acting another that Jerry Apodaca was commenting on. To say the least, some of us found that confusing—not to say possibly downright phony.

If you're in that category, we may have to go a step further and see what it was Carruthers was trying to accomplish by the horrendous jump he engineered in our taxes this year.

THE PROGRAM: Part of the Carruthers plan is that notion of "tax stability" he talked about so much at the time he took office but hasn't referred to a whole lot since.

The idea behind this activity is that we take from the citizens in taxes today more than is necessary to run government now, so that later on we have reserves to use to avoid some of the wrenching tax increases for which recent years have been famous.

As far as I can see, Carruthers did not do a very good job of explaining that to the citizens, much less of selling it to us. I am further doubtful about whether the average New Mexican would have been overly enthusiastic about the notion of paying more than is needy right now, when the state's economy is about as bad as it has been since the grim 1930s.

But there was a second string to the Carruthers bow. He clearly gambled that if he could get a sizeable tax increase out of the first legislature he had to face, he could coast through the rest of his term without any more of the same. That way, as he plainly saw it, we would remember him favorably, instead of as we do Toney Anaya, who arranged such a tax increase for us—or at least threatened to—annually.

THE FUTURE: Rank me among those who are dubious about whether we can go three more years without another infusion of tax dollars. It's a pretty shrewd move if Carruthers can accomplish it, but we will all be watching to see whether or not it can be done.

If he can't pull it off, he's in deep trouble.

Les Kinsolving

'All whites are racists,' says Gov. Cuomo staffer

NEW YORK — Within a few months of qualifying for retirement from decades of service to the Dodgers baseball team, once "Dem Bums" of Brooklyn but now gontool in Los Angeles, baseball executive Al Campanis was abruptly fired.

Mr. Campanis made the terrible mistake of telling a network TV show that the reason he believes there are not more black baseball executives is because "They may lack the basic necessities" for such a business position.

He didn't say all blacks are lacking — even though it is a bad mistake to use the word "they" when referring to an entire race. For this is not only unfair and inaccurate, but it plays directly into the hands of racial political demagogues, who want you to believe: "If you've seen one, you've seen 'em all," or: "They're all alike, and they only vote for candidates of their own shade of skin."

Mr. Campanis said the word "may" lack, not that all blacks "do" lack.

That the percentage of blacks in baseball management is almost as small as the percentage of Hispanic players in the heavily black-dominated professional basketball may be due to Hispanic lack of height — although nobody knows for sure.

Mr. Campanis apologized profusely for this kind of racial speculation. But he was almost immediately fired.

By striking contrast — no, make that screaming contrast — nobody has been fired by New York's Governor Cuomo for the incredible racist claim: "All white individuals in our society are racists. Even if a white is totally free from all conscious racial prejudices, he remains a racist; for he receives benefits distributed by white racist society through its institutions. Our institutional and cultural processes are so arranged as to automatically benefit whites, just because they are white."

This did not come from Louis Farrakhan, or the African National Congress. It is part of a 28-page training manual used and distributed by the Cuomo Administration State Insurance Fund and The Civil Service Department and the State Division of Parole.

It was compiled by Carolyn Pitts, a $39,000 a year staffer of the State Insurance Fund, who previously worked for Benton and Bowles advertising agency.

Ms. Pitts has been ordered to appear at a May 28 hearing of the Board of Commissioners to explain why she wrote and distributed this stuff.

And while Gov. Cuomo has accurately described this material as "divisive" and "obnoxious" (to say the very least), he has not even suggested that this compiler of black bigotry (at state expense) be fired — although Cuomo reportedly ordered this incredible white-hating material withdrawn from circulation in all New York state agencies.

New York State Legislator Dov Hikind, a Brooklyn Democrat, compared this manual to the Ku Klux Klan and the American Nazis — and has called for an investigation by Gov. Cuomo.

But Mario the Magnificent, who is quite apparently looking forward to a draft from the Democratic National Presidential Nominating Convention in Atlanta next summer, has passed the buck, quietly. For one of Cuomo's Corps of Press Secretaries, Kathy Meehan, explained imaginatively:

"The governor has asked for a report. The governor's office does not have statutory jurisdiction over the State Insurance Department Fund which is an independent commission."

So I asked: "Who appoints the commissioners?"

Gov. Cuomo does. "And would it be illegal for the governor to ask that if Pitts is definitely responsible for this despicable bigotry and hate literature, she be fired?"

Again spokeswoman Meehan repeated her statement about the governor's not having statutory jurisdiction.

This proves that the Dodgers are not all in Los Angeles. But those that are there are surely more decisive about racial stereotyping than that Big Dodger in Albany, New York.

Kennedy

why should he remain a senator and run for the nomination in 1988?

Consideration of "family"? No, he has no immediate family life which would be disturbed by a run for the presidency. Nor has he any apparent interest in life other than politics.

A desire to spearhead a drive for national health insurance from a seat in the senate? No. He knows that, as a senator, he is but one of one hundred. He also is keenly aware that the real place to spearhead any legislation is in the White House.

Why, then, would he be willing to campaign for president but not for the nomination? The difference is 64 days instead of 10 months of endless media questioning.

A long primary campaign for the nomination would mean the certainly of an unbearable 10 months of campaign press conferences, filled with such aggravating questions as, "What really happened at Chappaquidick?" "Why won't you open up the autopsy and inquest records to public review?"

So, even though he now has strong public support, how can the senator gain the nomination without those tension-filled months of traveling with the press, and the possibility that the mere asking and re-asking of those embarrassing questions will re-open his whole can of worms for a fresh public debate?

The answer — a deadlock of the Democratic convention on July 20, 1988.

Hart and Jessie Jackson were far ahead of all other Democrats in all the polls. None of the others has enough name-recognition to poll more than 10 percent. With Hart and Jackson maintaining their leads, none of the others could count on raising enough money to be a serious challenger by convention time in July of '88.

But Ted Kennedy, his staff and most experienced political managers also have known that neither the Hart nor Jackson leads in the polls would translate into a majority vote in the November election against any likely Republican candidate, and that the Democrats would lose another presidential election.

Faced with that prospect, Kennedy has been confident that the convention delegates will demand that a true Democratic Super-Star make himself available for the presidential race.

"Democratic Super-Star"? Does anyone qualify other than Ted Kennedy and Governor Mario Cuomo?

Cuomo was the only Democrat, other than Ted Kennedy, Hart and Jackson, to show deep strength in the primary polls. Yet he apparently doesn't have the burning fire necessary to endure a primary campaign now. Even if he did, Cuomo would be no match for the senator from Massachusetts in a convention fight.

The other trailing Democratic candidates are also counting on a deadlock, hoping to be in the right spot when the convention starts demanding a real live candidate, much like bridesmaids maneuvering for the right spot when the convention bride tosses her nomination bouquet.

Astutely, however, the senator and his staff remain publicly aloof from this all-important party problem. Time enough, says the senator, when the Democratic delegates assemble in Atlanta on July 18, 1988, just 113 days before the Nov. 8 election and too late for any other hopeful to generate the necessary organization and money — which Kennedy already has — to capture the nomination.

Once the nomination is in hand, the senator will quickly retire with his staff to "plan" the campaign, a campaign undoubtedly now already planned in detail.

That further "planning" in July and August is designed primarily to sequester Kennedy from the press and its questions until his opening speech on Labor Day, Sept. 5, leaving only a brief 64 days for his campaign and press conferences, which will be limited, strictly, to questions on "current events and issues."

"Chappaquidick? This is a presidential campaign, not a history class. Next question." The Hart withdrawal alters the cast of candidates somewhat, but not enough to change Ted Kennedy's plans. The nomination is still his, if he wants it.

And he wants it in 1988.

computer operator. City budgets prepared by his office can now be trusted with cash transfers, which confused matters in the past, to be a thing of the past.

The choice of Mrs. Becky Durham as head of the operating departments (Infrastructure) should be very interesting. While limited in actual operating experience, she has performed well in other departments over several years. She has an excellent attitude towards her new responsibilities, is a dedicated worker and willing to learn. She should be an asset to the administration—time permitting.

Needless to say there are many capable employees on the city payroll.

So, let's turn the page for a further insight on the overall city operation.

The most immediate problem facing the administration is a shortfall of income. Lower income than experienced in the past affects budgets, planning, and everything relative to running the city. In the past, with the economy on a high with ever increasing income, operating a municipality was simple—determine the income and spend it!

Now, the situation is reversed and with income on the decline, the shortfall, and the possibility of payroll reductions is the subject of all council meetings during the next few weeks. Reduction in payroll is not easy! My experience with a corporation operation included payroll reductions on demand. You were told on one day to reduce the corporate payroll within the next two days. It was not easy, but it was done. Operating expenses had to match income and when that changed the payroll changed. There are other problems.

It is not unusual to have some comment "I saw several city trucks parked in an area with several city employees standing around doing nothing." Whether this is true or not is not important; however, it does lead many taxpayers to say "No more taxes, just reduce your operating costs to match your income."

In the May 25, 1987 issue of the News report of a city council meeting, several suggestions were made to reduce services. Reducing services would be acceptable to the taxpayers if properly explained. Why not obtain some input from the taxpayers? They may be able to help.

Councilman Alonzo suggested that part of the one-half sales tax (airport tax) be set aside for operations. This would be in violation of the concept of the sales tax and its purpose. Tax receipts representing an excess would be applied to the sales tax bonds as prepayment. This would also be true of any funds generated through the sale of lands from our present airport. The Grindstone Bonds developed over $1,000,000 in excess funds which were not applied to the Grindstone Bonds but spent on a water improvement project.

At the same council meeting it was proposed that taxes could be increased through the increase of a mills tax.

At the present time, and with the current mood of the taxpayers, an increase in taxes won't fly. If city services are to be reduced then let the city council have the "guts" to go ahead and do it!

You can't have it both ways.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jim Miller of Carrizozo, NM, and Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Henegar of Plainview.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white alencon lace over satin designed with an off-the-shoulder yoke of English net and a wedding band collar. A lace ruffle edged the yoke and cuffs of the long tapered sleeves. The full skirt extended into a cathedral train.

Her veil fell from a silk organza hat appliqued with lace motifs, the brim was fastened to the crown on one side with a nosegay of silk roses and pearl sprays.

She carried a bouquet of white silk roses, pearl sprays with white, red and gold ribbons woven through the flowers.

Maid of honor was Brenda Miller of Carrizozo, sister of the bride. She wore a red-satin tea-length gown with puff sleeves and white roses accen-ting the scoop neckline and carried a bouquet of red and white silk roses.

Rhonda Miller, sister of the bride, was flower girl. Paul and James Miller, brothers of the bride, were candlelighters.

Lowell Owens of Lubbock, cousin of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Lance Henegar, brother of the groom, and Gaylen Armstrong of Clovis, cousin of the groom.

Wanda Miller, sister of the bride, registered guests. Daryle Carter and Gary and Alice Morton presented the musical selections.

A reception was held in fellowship hall following the ceremony.

Reception assistants were Cindy Miller and Matilda Miller, sisters of the bride; Deborah Moody, Dorothy Owens, Christy Henegar, cousins of the groom, Mrs. Anthony Henegar and Henegar is a graduate of Evangel Christian Academy and attended Wayland. He is employed by WIN News at Wayland and by Taco Bell.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at the Golden Corral. Other bridal courtesies included a shower at the Assembly of God Church in Carrizozo and a miscellaneous shower in the home of Mrs. Albert Thrasher in Plainview.

WINNERS OF THE recent talent show at the Capitn Schools are, front, Joni Autrey and Priscila Quinones; back, Jody Scott and Mark Hays. All four did vocal numbers.

ON MY OWN / Intense excitement

By Pat Kite

Today you are going to be treated to a column on orgasms.

Right away mothers hurry to cover their children's eyes, fathers tear out the newspaper section and hide it in the bathroom for later reading, single people without kids get ready for a bit of titillation with their doughnuts and coffee and people who object to anything resembling pornography get out the wrathful hatchet. All of which goes to show what happens if you act after reading only the first sentence of anything.

Now, let's start over again. According to my New Webster's Dictionary, "orgasm" has several definitions, including "intense excitement." And the problem with that is I, the modern single, get most intensely excited upon entering a garden shop.

That's correct. Give me a sale on roses and my heart goes pitty-pat, pitty-pat. Is there a new dwarf fruit tree almost guaranteed to survive in local soil? My breath comes in short-rushing gasps. And when I discover a seed packet of hitherto-untried variety which proclaims "Just stick it in the ground and it grows," my face flushes and my palms become moist.

I am not alone in this phenomenon, although the action takes place in diverse surroundings. For example, Margo sees an ad for an exclusive shop half-price sale on a blouse she's been wanting forever. She cannot wait to get her clothes on. She writes in anticipation. Even a brief pause in traffic sets her nerves at breaking point. And when the blouse fits, well... lights flash, stars sprinkle, and meteors explode in the sky, or dressing room, take your choice.

Carl feels the same way about the new power saw just on market which does the job in half the time with half the effort.

Show 16-year-old Pete a shinier polish for his restored Corvette and forget about women; he's got more rewarding things to do with his day.

Tell Marion you've discovered a new wine, nectar from the gods, you can get a few bottles wholesale but it's "now or never" and see what Marion puts off for another day in order to dash out the door right now.

And if you've got an inside hot tip on the stock market, absolutely certain to triple in price by tomorrow morning, a very definite population percentage would leave Dolly Parton or Paul Newman at the boudoir entrance in order to talk to their broker.

You don't believe it? O.K. Tiptoe in the hallway. Whisper you have two tickets you don't need to (1) The Grateful Dead, (2) Frank Sinatra, (3) Paris,

(4) A $500 shopping spree at the supermarket.

Now that's intense excitement. Even sometimes more excitement than... if you could get people admit it.

Lincoln

'So far from heaven'

BY BOB PINNELL

A territorial governor of New Mexico once said, "Poor New Mexico, so far from heaven, so close to Texas."

The southeastern portion of our state has been called "Little Texas" for years. The terrain is similar to West Texas and many former citizens of the Lone Star State have settled there. Few are aware that that whole area was once part of Lincoln County.

The largest county in the United States in its early days, Lincoln constituted 27,000 square miles, an area only slightly smaller than all of New York state today. It was home to many Indians when the Spanish explorers skirted its borders. Many years later the mountain men came, eventually followed by settlers who fought fiercely for the land and greedily took for their own great tracts on which to raise sheep and cattle.

Lincoln County was created by act of the territorial legislature in 1869. From its original area as stated above have come all of the counties that now make up southeastern New Mexico.

The town of Lincoln became the county seat of this huge piece of real estate. It had been known as Las Mesas del Rio Bonito prior to becoming such a town of importance and, before many years passed, became the meeting place for cattlemen from 200 miles around.

There were frequent raids by the Mescalero Apaches, outlawry was rampant and there were famous trials in its old courthouse that reached the ears of easterners who were astonished at the infamy.

But no wonder man fought for such land! From an elevation near 12,000 feet at majestic Sierra Blanca and neighboring El Capitan, towering, snow-capped peaks gave way to timberline and grassy slopes, rugged canyons led to the dry, sun-scorched desert and offered a contrast to be found only in New Mexico.

Lincoln County, though a fraction of its original size, still contains the very best of what it had in 1869. Some of the original towns are gone, or well-nigh disappeared save for a few almost pitiful structures. But others have taken their places for better or worse. The red man, an inhabitant of the area since prehistoric times, fought bitterly against ever-advancing whites over the ages. What a study in contrast, that the first atomic device was detonated at Trinity Site, only a few brief miles west of Carrizozo, present-day seat of Lincoln County!

Carrizozo became the county seat in 1909, but was actually founded as a town in August of 1906. In the early days there was a railhead depot and little else. The station served as a shipping point for the mines of Lincoln County over the lines of the El Paso & Southwestern Railway, a situation dreamed of originally by the residents of White Oaks some 12 miles to the north; an opportunity lost because of the greed of some of its citizens.

Carrizozo is situated in a valley eight to 15 miles wide and 30 miles long. When it was first settled a brick factory at nearby Ancho provided a cheap means of building construction. Mountain water was available by pipeline from the Bonito River (mostly for the convenience of the railroad). Soon there was a $10,000 school building, several churches, all lines of staple businesses, a smattering of professional men and two newspapers, The News and The Outlook.

The town of Lincoln, of course, was the first county seat and is situated in a beautiful location in the Bonito Valley. The coming of the railroad, however, did much to stunt its growth as a town. Capitan was the terminus of the Capitan branch and its station had to serve the first county seat of Lincoln as well as Fort Stanton and area coal mines.

A man-caused fire in 1950 that destroyed 17,000 acres of Lincoln National Forest land near Capitan brought Smokey the Bear to national prominence. Firefighters found a frightened bear cub clinging to a tree. The cub was badly burned, but was eventually nursed back to health and flown to the National Zoo in Washington, DC. There Smokey was viewed by thousands and became a symbol against carelessness with fire in our forests.

Much has been written of White Oaks, one of the first settlements in this area. It first came into prominence as a gold mining camp, and once was the largest town and major distributing point. White Oaks was a substantial town, with well-constructed business blocks, attractive homes and a fine school building, but without railroad communication its doom was spelled early on.

When Lincoln County was young other towns included Corona, on the northernmost border of the county, an important shipping point for livestock, particularly sheep. At the mouth of Nopal Canyon was Nogal, a bustling village when the mines were operating. In a lovely location three miles from Walnut station on the Capitan branch of the railroad, Oscuro, near the southwest corner of the county and on the railroad's main line, was a community devoted mostly to dry farming.

Other towns and settlements in 1909 included Angus, Alto, Ruidoso, Glencoe, San Patricio, Hondo, Analla, Picacho, Meek, Arabella, Richardson, Ancho, Jicarilla, Fort Stanton, Parsons and Bonito. Some have all but disappeared, some are little more than remnants of their former selves, but others are thriving and a mecca for tourists from all over the country.

Adjoining Lincoln County and a sight to see is the Mescalero Apache Reservation, 460,000 acres of lush, well-tended forest preserve of great beauty. Of this total, 100,000 acres serves as a tourists region operated by the Mescaleros and includes the popular Sierra Blanca ski area, campgrounds and the multi-million dollar hotel complex known as The Inn of the Mountain Gods. The region is a sportsman's paradise for bear, deer, wild turkey and newly-imported elk. There are wild horse descender from cavalry remount studs of decades ago and scenery to amaze the most jaded traveler.

Also high in the mountains is Ruidoso, a popular convention site with a main street eight miles long. Though its permanent population is but 5,000 souls, summer visitors swell that amount to 30,000, and nearly double that on big racing weekends. Ruidoso, Downs, in fact, is the center for the world's richest horse race with its million dollar purse, the All-America Futurity for quarter horses.

Lincoln County is indeed unique. The stark beauty and limitless miles of the desert offer a startling contrast to the grandeur of its mountain peaks, and every mile traveled presents a different perspective, ever-changing with the vagaries of weather. Modern conveniences are at hand, to be sure, but relatively unobtrusive. One must seek them out. One also need not peer round billboards on the highways to see the view. It is there, everywhere you look outside of towns, and it makes a man feel small and put in his rightful place, as is proper. There are not many places like this left on earth these days. One can still savor solitude and live in a climate that is as a kiss from heaven.

US ARMY WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE

NOTICE OF A FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT OF THE AMENDMENT TO THE FORWARD AREA AIR DEFENSE PROJECT

TO ALL INTERESTED AGENCIES, GROUPS, AND PERSONS:

DESCRIPTION OF PROPOSED ACTION:

Construction of an electrical transmission line from D-10 site (Sec 18, T85, R8E) Lincoln County, NM, to the FAAD command post (Sec 19, T75, R7E), Socorro County, NM, a distance of ten miles, is proposed. The proposal is to eliminate the need for portable generators at the command post. The line will consist of a three-phase, 4-wire, 24,900/14,400 volt alternating current, built on 40-foot wood poles. Power lines will be constructed in accordance with Raptor Research Publications.

ALTERNATIVES CONSIDERED:

a. Electrical power is required for conduct of tests. A no power alternative is not a viable alternative in accordance with the Environmental Assessment.

b. Use of diesel powered generators was considered but is less dependable, more expensive and would create noise and emissions.

c. A transmission line from North Oscura Peak was considered. It would be shorter but is not feasible because of steep terrain and availability of a better option.

ENVIRONMENTAL CONSEQUENCES:

Environmental effects should be minimal. Construction of the transmission line and necessary service roads will require resources and will result in minor disturbance to soil, plant life and wildlife. Existence of lines and maintenance requirements should have minimal impact on wildlife. No endangered plant or animal species have been identified in the area and no impact should be expected. Any cultural resources will be identified and will be avoided and protected.

CONCLUSION:

The proposed action is non-controversial and no significant impact on the environment is anticipated. Accordingly, the US Army White Sands Missile Range has determined that an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) pursuant to the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 is not required. All interested agencies, groups, or persons not in agreement with this decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration of the Commander, White Sands Missile Range, within 15 days of this notice. A copy of the Environmental Assessment and this amendment will be available for study at Building 1740, White Sands Missile Range, NM, (505) 678-2224. TO ALL INTERESTED AGENCIES, GROUPS AND PERSONS:

On or about June 4, 1987, Corona, NM will request the US Department of Housing and Urban Development to release Federal funds under Title 1 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (PL 93-383) for the following project:

Street Improvement - Phase II, Paving of streets running east and west in the Village, Corona, New Mexico.

It has been determined that such request for release of funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment and accordingly the Village of Corona has decided not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL-190).

The Reason for such decision not to prepare such Statement are as follows: The activity will take place on existing streets within existing rights-of-way with no significant change in the use, size, or character of the present use, size, and character. See Part 58.35(a)(1)(ii).

An Environmental Review Record respecting the within project has been made by the Village of Corona which documents the environmental review of the project and more fully sets forth the reasons why such Statement is not required. This Environmental Review Record is on file at the above address and is available for public examination and copying upon request at Village Hall between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. No further environmental review of such project is proposed to be conducted prior to the request for release of Federal funds.

The Village of Corona will undertake the project described above with Block Grant funds from the US Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) under Title 1 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. The Village of Corona is certifying to HUD that the Village of Corona and Ernest Lueras in his official capacity as Mayor consent to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental reviews, decision-making and action; and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect of the certification is that upon its approval the Village of Corona may use the Block Grant funds and HUD will have satisfied its responsibilities under National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. HUD will accept an objection to its approval only if it is on one of the following reasons (a) that the certification was not in fact executed by the certifying officer or other officer of applicant approved by HUD; or (b) that applicant's environmental review record for the project indicates omission of a required decision finding or step applicable to the project in the environmental review process. Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedure (24 CFR Part 58) and may be addressed to Mayor Ernest Lueras, Village of Corona, P.O. Box 37, Corona, NM 88318.

Foster Eaton, Mineral Wells, TX was here last weekend to tend the grave of his mother and a sister-in-law. He reported the February death of his sister, Lettie Eaton Ogden, widow of Edgar Ogden in Ontario, CA. Mr. Eaton is planning to move to Paris, TN, his former home.

The Ranney children and grandchildren, assisted by Esther and Melvin Johnson, hosted a Sunday supper and party honoring Mr. George Ranney on his 75th birthday. Jack Davidson Sr. held the lucky ticket for the door prize, a large and sleepy hen. He left the live bird and took home the rubber chicken. Friends enjoyed a long evening of food and conversation on the patio. Family members present were George Jr. and Vicky Ranney, Sara, Allison and Ben, Chicago; Ed and Melanie Ranney, Amelia, Lucy and Ellie, Santa Fe; David and Kay Ranney, Nora and Melissa, Des Moines, IA; and Nancy and David Levy, Joseph and Willie, Sacramento, CA.

Several couples are planning a party for Allen Sultemeier and his fiancée, Kristin McCaw of Roswell. There will be a covered fish dinner and miscellaneous shower at 7 p.m., Saturday, June 20 at the Lincoln Station recreation room. Everyone is invited.

At the awards assembly Saturday morning Nolan Vickrey, commander of American Legion Beaver-Bond Post, presented the school with a New Mexico flag. It is the goal of the American Legion to have an American flag in every classroom. Since the Corona schools have new flags the state flag was given. Jason Gibbs, new president of the student council, accepted the gift. Mr. Vickrey, then called for Tracie Proctor and gave her a $100 savings bond from the post as a reward for representing CHS at the state level in the American Legion oratorical contest.

Marie Sultemeier, 57, died at her home May 27 after a long illness. The Rev. Ken Cole officiated at graveside services at Corona Cemetery Friday afternoon. Casketbearers were Wayne Larson, Clint, Allen, Mark and Brent Sultemeier and Ellis Hodge. Survivors include the hus-

ZIA SENIOR CITIZENS CENTER. DOROTHY PAYNE, Carrizozo, Virginia Danielson and Pat Bailey of Capitan. The seniors pictured attended Senior Olympics for State at Roswell this past week and have qualified to attend the National Olympics in St. Louis, MO, June 26 through July 3. Dorothy Payne qualified in two events; horseshoes and the 400 meter run. Dorothy not only qualified for national, but received four gold medals in the 100, 200, 400 and 800 meter runs. Virginia Danielson and Pat Bailey qualified in bowling for the national and each received a gold medal at state olympics. In an effort to raise funds to see that these seniors arrive in St. Louis representing Lincoln County, we are selling raffle tickets for a battery operated clock made and donated by Bud Payne. We have asked that the seniors who attended State be at the Lincoln County Commission meeting on June 16, at 9 am. That evening we will be having a Fried Chicken dinner at the Recreation Center in Carrizozo at $4 per person. We are asking for donations of uncooked chicken in order to defray costs of this event. Transportation and housing for the three will cost approximately $500 per person with one team leader making the trip. As you can see, we need to ask that donations be made directly to the center or they can be mailed to Zia Senior Citizens, Box 519, Carrizozo, NM 88301. We continually thank everyone for their enthusiasm concerning our endeavors and ask that you help us get to St. Louis and bring back national medals for Lincoln County.
