Capitan Sets April 25 as Clean-up Day

The Capitan Chamber of Commerce conducted its monthly meeting Feb. 2 in which its Thursday night Bingo came in for a lengthy discussion.

Chamber members decided that there will be no arts and crafts fair this year. It was also decided that clean up day will be April 25 from 8 a.m. until noon.

The chamber would like to see Christmas type decorations placed in Capitan throughout the year. These decorations would be added a little at a time. A committee consisting of Kay Strickland, Louise LaRue, and Norm Renfro was appointed to facilitate this project.

Frank Miller of the Senior Center told the chamber that the dedication of the Center's new addition will probably be in March. Miller also talked about putting in a miniature golf course behind the Senior Center. This received the chamber's endorsement.

The Capitan Chamber of Commerce meets on the first Monday of the month at the Smokey Bear Restaurant. Meeting time is 11:30 a.m.

Engineer Asks for Help on Street Paving Project Info

By RUTH HAMMOND

During the regular Jan. 27 Carrizozo Town Council meeting, Engineer Joe Shain of Pajo Technical Services reported on the street paving project. He said the initial surveying was nearing completion but necessary information from residents was needed before the next phase of construction could begin.

Shain explained that the drainage problems on the streets to be paved are posing problems that need further study. He stressed the need for future drainage plans and suggested the town apply for a grant for master drainage plan.

The street paving project will be completed with money received from the Community Development Block Grant and the state highway department, along with the town's share that comes from the quarter cent infrastructure tax voted in by residents to be used for streets. Shain has asked that everyone with information about the drainage in Carrizozo regardless of whether it seems important or not, to please attend the Feb. 10 meeting at 6 p.m. to share this information with the engineers.

Shain explained that the new curbing on 3rd Street and the old rock curbs further down on 3rd Street and on 4th Street will be used to channel the water toward the drainage ditch near Aspen Street. There is an existing problem on Aspen Street in that there needs to be a half foot drop per 100 feet to drain properly.

Shain said that the entire scope of the paving project will be to try and accommodate a curb and gutter plan in the future. He also said that not all streets being surveyed will be in the two paving projects.

In other business, discussion was held about changing the request of paving Lava Loop. A decision will be made later.

Mayor Bob Hemphill said that the Carrizozo Trading Co. is being emptied and work will continue on the cleaning of the burned building.

Fire Chief Albert Najjar spoke to the council about the new fire truck that is to be ordered soon. He said the new truck will be a 4x4 in-between size to be used on fires out of town. This will save the large truck for fire calls in town.

Solutions to the roof problems on the Rec Center were discussed. The roof is a 20 years old flat roof that needs to be replaced as soon as possible to stop further damage to the inside of the building.

The town council reviewed the budget at the six-month operation point.

Review of the personnel manuals resulted in a meeting scheduled with employees and council to discuss the manuals.

Resolution was signed to apply for the Beautification Grant for this year.

The weed ordinance was discussed.

Aggravated Burglary

Suspect Bound Over

By RUTH HAMMOND

During a preliminary hearing held in Carrizozo on Jan. 28 in the court of Magistrate Judge Gerald Dean Jr., testimony was heard concerning the aggravated burglary in which the home of Mr. J.E. Thornton, 90, of Carrizozo, was entered on Jan. 13 and Mr. Thornton was assaulted.

Mr. Thornton was a key witness in the case, telling the court that he had lived in Lincoln County since 1939 and had been in business for 32½ years before retiring 15 years ago.

Mr. Thornton told of the incident and said that he was hit, "not less than a dozen times, I know!" and he said the attack lasted, "not over two or three minutes." He went on with a description of the attack by saying, the person, "grabbed my hat and put it over my face." He clearly stated that the attacker had only made off with not more than 75 cents or a dollar.

The defendant in the case, Baldimar Apodaca, 18, of Carrizozo, did not testify in the case. Apodaca had been arrested on Jan. 16 and made a first appearance before Judge Dean that same day. The charges were aggravated burglary, a 2nd degree felony, and residential burglary, a 3rd degree felony. A juvenile is also involved in the incident.

Apodaca had remained in custody in the Lincoln County Jail in lieu of $25,000 cash bond until the preliminary hearing.

Judge Dean, after hearing the testimony of seven witnesses, bound Apodaca over to district court. The bail will continue.

Ruidoso Village Meeting

Sign Variances Discussed

By G. NORMAN ASHLEY

Tuesday night the Ruidoso Village Council overturned a recent decision by the Planning and Zoning Commission which had granted approval for a neon sign to be erected at Cattle Baron Restaurant. The council was advised by Village Attorney John Underwood that P&Z's approval was clearly in violation of village ordinances.

Underwood said, "The ordinance doesn't allow for any variances on signs. However, the council could rewrite the ordinance so that P&Z could consider variances on a case by case basis, or allow for an architectural review committee." Don Eckland, a visitor and professional sign painter, said that other towns that he had worked in usually had provisions for non-conforming signs which could be considered individually.

Underwood asked Village Enforcement Officer Sandy Hall if she knew of any provisions for allowing variances on signs. She replied that P&Z had granted allowances in the past - mostly for signs that were larger than the rules allow. "There was one case where a portable sign was allowed, which is prohibited, but this is the first opinion I've heard that no variances should be allowed," Hall said.

Councillor Victor Alonso said that he felt the sign should not be allowed. "Those of us who have businesses here have had to live under the rules and I don't think someone should be given an unfair advantage now." Another visitor, Gail McIntosh, said that what she really wanted to see was some consistency. She and two others had filed protests with the village.

The council unanimously voted to overturn the Planning and Zoning Commission action, but most of them agreed that the sign ordinance might need to be reviewed.

The council then agreed to propose notices for public hearings regarding amendments to the new Municipal Gross Receipts Tax and the village code regarding use of the proceeds from the Lodging Tax. Both amendments are minor changes in wording that will not affect the basic content of the ordinances.

The council also discussed the proposed ordinance which would combine the Parks and Recreation and Adult Recreation Departments. The councillors were once again divided on whether the department heads or other village employees should hold voting positions on those advisory boards.

The council decided to publish a notice for a public hearing on the proposed ordinance to create the new department which would be made up of five persons to be appointed by the mayor, two of which would be senior citizens. Councillor Rick Davis, who is a member of the current Parks and Recreation Board cast the only dissenting vote.

The council also discussed the action needed to move ahead with the forming of two or more Special Paving Assessment Districts. Residents of Town & Country and Pinecliff Subdivisions have requested that such districts be formed. In such an arrangement the Special Districts are formed to help residents of the area get paving done on their streets. The village collects the money from the residents and sells bonds to cover the cost of the paving. Residents can pay cash in advance or make time payments to the village.

The council also moved to accept a request for proposal from the Chamber of Commerce regarding the creation of a new Convention and Visitors Bureau which would be separate from the chamber. The village is expected to contribute approximately $48,000 the first year, out of a total budget of $163,900. $112,500 is to come from the Lodgers Tax, with the remainder coming from the chamber itself.

Village Clerk Leon Eggleston then told the council about the plans for remodeling a building behind the police station to house a central purchasing and warehousing operation for the village. Eggleston said that if each of the 17 departments affected were to contribute equal amounts it would cost each department $2771. One of the proposed items is a gas card conversion which would automatically keep track of vehicle mileage and simplify maintenance procedures.

The council approved a request for an on-premises beer and wine license for Derf Dot Inc. DBA as Fred's, to be located at 2327 Sudderth Drive. The governing body also heard from Tim Morris of Sierra Blanca Airport Commission. Morris said that the notice to proceed with construction had been given to Tri-Con Kent and that they were waiting for the roads to dry so that equipment could be moved onto the site.

The council also heard from Al Junge, who was disappointed that nothing had been done about installing guard rails along Warrior Drive near the high school. The mayor informed Mr. Junge that he expected to have a report from the village engineer by the next meeting.

Before going into executive session, the council was addressed by Jeff Wilson of Cattle Barons Restaurant, who said that he wished to thank the council for helping his project to come in under budget. "Seriously, though, we didn't want to get involved in any controversy. But I think it would be good if the village polled the residents to see how they feel about the sign ordinance. In fact, I'd be willing to pay $1,000 to help pay for such a survey," said Wilson.

Bill Rawlins also spoke to the council and asked for their support in getting Lincoln Cablevision to keep channels 3 & 16 on the air. The mayor informed Mr. Rawlins that the village had no regulatory control over the cable company, but said he hoped that they would listen to the wishes of their customers since they just got a new 15 year franchise.

RDPD Answers Accusations; Say 'Trap' Charge is not Valid

By G. NORMAN ASHLEY

The Ruidoso Downs Village Trustees heard a police report Monday night that was aimed at silencing accusations that the Ruidoso Downs Police Department is running a speed trap and otherwise harassing residents and visitors to the area.

The report prepared by Sergeant Jan Cary showed that the number of citations was down from 1985. A total of 1877 citations were issued in 1986, compared with 2022 in 1985, and a high of 2918 in 1983. Sergeant Cary said, "This means that each officer issued about one ticket per shift which is not excessive."

Trustee J.J. Wilson asked whether the department was on a quota system, as several residents had stated. Police Chief Skip Hazel flatly denied that saying that it was illegal. Cary added that on many shifts no tickets were issued at all.

The report stated also that out of 176 reported criminal offenses 47 were cleared by arrest or other means. Burglary and vandalism appeared to be the worst problems, with 52 cases of burglary and breaking and entering. 30 cases of vandalism were reported during 1986. There were also 29 cases of larceny in the village

GREEN CARDS ALL SEMESTER meant that 28 Carrizozo students in grades K-3 received $5 gift certificates from Roy's Gift Gallery. People For Kids President Rosemary Shafer presented the gift certificates. The 'Green Cards' are part of a new assertive discipline policy that began this year in Carrizozo for grades K-5.

Woman's Club to Host One Man Show

The Carrizozo Woman's Club invites everyone (men too) to attend a one-man dramatic presentation on Tues., Feb. 10.

Boyd Barrett of the New Mexico Humanities Council will perform a musical drama called "Trouble in Lincoln County" based on the Lincoln County War and the last days of Billy the Kid.

Barrett portrays 12 to 15 characters in the fast moving play which will last about 45 minutes. The presentation will be held in the United New Mexico Bank conference room at 7 p.m.

Woman's Club President Sue Stearns asked that everyone be aware of the change of meeting date. She is pleased that Barrett, who performs all over the state through schools and civic organizations, will be performing for the Woman's Club in Carrizozo.

Carrizozo Schools

Assertive Discipline Policy

The Carrizozo school system began an assertive discipline program at the beginning of this school year for elementary grades K-5.

Each child was given five chances each day to conform to the discipline policy by beginning each day with a green slip in his or her personal envelope pocket posted in the classroom.

Each time a student needed to be reprimanded for their behavior, the teacher asked the student to "Change a card." The first change was from the starting color of green to yellow, which indicated a warning. The second change of a color was to orange, which caused the student to miss recess. The third change of color was red and meant a call to the parents. The fourth change was to purple and at that time the student was paddled.

Parents received a notice of the discipline plan at the start of the school year and were asked to sign it and return it to the school, indicating they were aware of the procedures.

A total of 28 students stayed on 'green' the entire first semester and received a $5 gift certificate from Roy's Gift Gallery. These students were:

Kindergarten: Cora Baker, Briton Goad, Amanda Miller, Cody Moore, Miguel Najjar, Melissa Nava, Julie Samora, Katie Sidebottom, Amber Vallejos, Amber VonDerwall, Melanie Whitaker, Chrissy McFall, Candice McFall, Consuelo Chavez, Jessica Malone, Joseph Nickless, Jimmy Vermillion, LaVanna Sumpter, Cortney Maynard, and Elizabeth Avila.

First grade: David Medina, Amanda VanderWall, Sunshine Parra.

Second grade: Katie Hightower.

Third grade: Sarah Funk, Tabitha Means, Debbie Bond, and Jim Brown.

School superintendent Dennis Sidebottom said the purpose of the program was to ask the students to take responsibility for their own actions and to avoid personal conflict with the teachers when the student misbehaves.

Classroom rules are posted in each room, making certain the students understand what is expected of them and where they stand. Each child starts on green each day.

Money for the gift certificates was furnished by the People for Kids, and PFK President Rosemary Shafer made the presentation of the gift certificates.

PFK earns money through bake sales and the Halloween Carnival and will accept donations. Memberships are available for $2 each. PFK meets the first Thursday of the month with a unified purpose to provide volunteer help and support, supplies and equipment to school functions such as the spelling bee, Halloween carnival and special programs.

The second semester incentive to students to stay on 'green' will be ten free passes to the swimming pool. These passes will be presented at the end of the school year.

work had been assessed in 1986, and whether the work was being done.

Wilson also wondered if the judge was cooperating with the Ruidoso Community Service Program, and how many hours had accumulated. The Ruidoso program has an immense backlog of assigned work that has never been done. After three months the assessments are removed from the books.

In his response, Judge Valenzuela first stated that he had assigned only eight persons to do community service work in 1986, for a total of 120-150 hours of work. This surprised the board, especially Trustee Buchanan who had had a worker assigned to him.

Buchanan said that one person who had been assigned to him had flatly refused to work. He had attempted to have the man jailed. Judge Valenzuela stated that he was unable to do anything without a letter from Buchanan, and that the man had left town before he got a complaint from Buchanan. Buchanan had also had two others assigned to him. "Out of 200-400 hours that they were supposed to work, I think we got maybe 4 hours of work." It turned out that the people assigned to him had come through the Ruidoso program.

Village Administrator Charles Robinson said that most of the offenders from the Ruidoso Downs Court had worked their time off for the village itself. Judge Valenzuela confirmed that, saying, "The ones we have handed down here have performed the work just fine." He estimated that half of the hours he assigned were worked out.

The board then unanimously approved ordinance 87-1 which raises building permit fees in the village.

Mayor Harris then asked for a motion to go into executive session, but before doing so trustee Wilson commented on a recent newspaper editorial which called attention to the frequency that local governing bodies use the closed door sessions. "I'm a newcomer to this, and I want to affirm that these are open sessions, for the most part. I think we should be selective about going into executive session."

Mayor Jake Harris said that if Wilson felt like the public had been deprived, that he should inform them. "I'll be the first to recommend that we follow the law," he said, "and for my part these closed door sessions should only be used for discussion of personnel, acquisitions and litigation." Trustee Buchanan said, "I think we need to be specific about our purposes for executive sessions. You'll see this abused at other places and I think we need to be careful of it."

This reporter has yet to attend a meeting of the Ruidoso Downs Village Trustees when they have not entered into executive session. Monday night was no exception as they once again retreated behind closed doors to discuss litigation. It might be interesting to note, however, that the Village Attorney was not even present.

Behind the Headlines

By Phillip C. Clarke

Our First Priority: Defending the United States

Twenty-five years ago, things were different. During the Cuban missile crisis in 1962, President Kennedy told the American people in a televised address: "To recognize the possibility of nuclear war in the missile age without our citizens knowing where they should go or what they should do if bombs begin to fall would be a failure of responsibility." Congress responded by increasing civil defense appropriations in 1962 to $207 million, equal to about $750 million in today's dollars, or more than five times the current budget of the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

In the 1960s, plans were developed for a standardized shelter system capable of protecting tens of millions of Americans. There also were numerous innovations, including a home-warning device to be inserted in an ordinary electric outlet. It would be activated by a sudden surge in the current by central power stations in case of emergency. Also devised was a $10 adapter that would automatically switch on a radio or TV set. The Office of Civil Defense Mobilization estimated that by warning people within 30 seconds that an attack had been launched, rather than waiting for sirens to sound, an additional 10 million to 20 million lives could be saved. But such potentially useful measures languished and died.

As detente and arms control became the fashion in the 1970s, even some previous supporters of civil defense called for cutbacks, labelling attack preparedness "futile," "undoable," or "absurd." Anti-defense critics went so far as to charge that civil defense was part of an administration "war-fighting strategy."

Preparedness was replaced by a policy of so-called Mutual Assured Destruction, or MAD, which resulted in the dismantling of US defenses while the Soviets kept on building. Today, under MAD, our only defense - if it can be called that - is our capacity to absorb a Soviet first strike and retaliate by killing millions of Russians. In effect, the American people are being held hostage to an immoral and dangerously flawed strategy of deliberate and unilateral defenselessness.

The American Civil Defense Association's executive director, Walter Murphey, says reliable studies indicate that an effective civil defense program, combined with President's Reagan's Strategic Defense Initiative (SDI) to intercept enemy missiles in space, "could reduce American losses from over 60 percent to under 3 percent of the population." The cost of an effective space-civil defense system would amount to about $10 per American per year, or less than motorists now pay for a tank of gas. Standing in the way are two major obstacles: The fatalism of defeatists who insist that defense in the missile age is impossible, and the wishful thinking of those who somehow believe our security already is assured. Both are wrong. What's needed is a healthy dose of realism and a defense that defends.

Inside the Capitol

Dramatic Contrast

SANTA FE—You couldn't have arranged a more dramatic contrast than the one between House and Senate here this year if you set out to do so.

One group, the House, came to town prepared to work and got right down to it. The other group, the Senators, started off acting like small children from the first hour of the year's legislative session. If anything, their conduct grew worse as the days went on.

REPRESENTATIVES: On the House side of the capitol, the members did have one clear advantage. Due to the 1986 elections, it was now clear that one party, the Democrats, had a measurable majority among the membership. That allowed Raymond Sanchez of Albuquerque, chosen by his majority party to be Speaker this year, to get ahead of the game. He had drawn up a tentative list of committee assignments even before members were sworn in. After they assembled and adopted their rules, members voted for him for Speaker and then went along with the assignments he had prepared.

That left the House ready to go, which it immediately did. Bills started to come in, committees started to meet, and hearings started being held.

Since those are the responsibilities of the two bodies in the early days of any session, the House was off to a good start. Nobody there was being obstructionist in any way.

But that wasn't true in the Senate.

DISSEDIFICATION: Since 1986 was not a year in which we elect a new Senate, the members of that group were almost all carry-overs from the years before. Unfortunately, what that seems to have meant in practice is that they brought back with them the hard feelings and animosities they had developed during the past year. What's worse, they immediately proceeded to give vent to them.

The group that wanted Senator Ike Smalley of Deming to remain as President Pro Tempore of the Senate had exactly 21 members, one half the total membership of the upper house. That meant those who did not want Ike back also had the same number of votes, 21, and that gave opportunity for a stand-off.

That's exactly what we got, principally because three Democrats, Manny Aragon, Fernando Macias and Tom Benevidez, were voting with the Republicans instead of in support of Smalley, their fellow Democrat.

That held things up for a few days. After lots of emotional meetings behind closed doors while the world waited to hear what would be decided, the Democratic threesome changed its mind and went back to the other side, giving us a breakdown of 24 votes for Smalley and 18 against him.

That should have settled things, but it didn't. After that, the loser took every opportunity to make things unpleasant for the winners—and "unpleasant" is exactly the word for the spirit they created.

After a full week, the Senate was finally able to begin doing what it should have been doing from the first day, and what the House had been doing all along—going about its business.

We will continue to see and hear the results of the original Senate battle all during the two months of this year's session. That bids fair to make this one of the most difficult ones in recent years, when we have had plenty of those.

"ROUGH DAY AT THE OFFICE, DEAR?"

Improving New Mexico Economy Means More Than New Manufacturing Jobs

LAS CRUCES—New Mexico's economy is at a low point, according to many measures. The strength of many sectors is poor, and may remain poor without radical measures.

"The standard response is: bring manufacturing to New Mexico. We are low in our share of manufacturing. And focus on high technology!"

"These solutions are good in many cases, but are only part of a complete solution," says Robert Coppedge, Extension business and economic development specialist at New Mexico State University. "Addressing the economic needs of all parts of our state requires improving income and employment by other strategies as well, and realizing different parts of the state may need creative approaches rather than blind application of conventional wisdom."

The less populated areas of New Mexico cannot be expected to benefit in the same way as the big cities. Policies to attract major employers to Albuquerque or Las Cruces or elsewhere in the Rio Grande Corridor will not necessarily bring prosperity to Raton, Lovington, Silver City, Aztec, or similar communities, Coppedge says.

The appropriate strategy is to realize New Mexico communities are different, he says. In some cases, they require programs and policies that recognize relative geographic isolation and low population base.

At the same time, such programs and policies must recognize the goods-producing (manufacturing) sector of the economy is becoming less important as a source of new jobs. The greatest increase in employment will come through service-producing industries. Projected employment in 1990 for the United States shows manufacturing will account for only 14 percent of employment growth. Trade and service occupations will be responsible for 63 percent of the new jobs.

There are several strategies by which income and employment can be improved. All of these have a place in New Mexico's economic development picture. Some strategies will receive more or less emphasis in some communities because of local preference, unique characteristics, or lack of knowledge. All strategies, however, deserve more consideration than has been the case in the past, Coppedge says.

Attracting new basic employers is the first strategy to be considered, and often the only one. These employers may be manufacturers, new tourist attractions, transportation businesses or regional offices.

The second method to improve local income and employment is to improve the efficiency of existing businesses. This makes local businesses more competitive in regional, state and national markets. It also helps create a more attractive business climate for all employers, current or future.

The third survey is to improve the ability to capture local dollars. Studies underway at NMSU show many of the less populated areas are losing half or more of the local consumer dollar to outside businesses.

Developing new businesses, owned by residents of the community, is a fourth strategy for improving local income and employment. This strategy is often overlooked, but with a little effort can be very effective. Simply recognizing and being alert to possibilities will go a long way to implementing such a program.

The fifth strategy is to increase aids received from

Skeen Pushes for Speed Limit Increase

WASHINGTON, DC—Congressman Joe Skeen, R-NM, has again joined House Democrats and Republicans in a bi-partisan effort to ease restrictions on the mandatory national 55 mph speed limit.

Skeen and several other House members, who represent predominately rural districts are offering a proposal that would allow the states to raise the speed limit to 65 mph on most interstate highways. The proposal is identical to one that drew the support of nearly 200 congressmen in 1986.

"This is basically a states' rights issue. Our proposal would return to New Mexico and all other states some of the responsibility for establishing higher speed limits where it historically has resided, in the state capitol," Skeen said.

Skeen said the current mandatory 55 mph speed limit penalizes New Mexicans because it does not take into account substantial regional differences in driving conditions that exist throughout the country.

state and federal governments. Get back some of those dollars taxed away. Develop efforts to properly use public assistance programs. The elderly are increasingly a major economic force. Retirement programs and retirement incomes can bring in major dollars.

"There are different roles in economic development for local government and state government. Likewise, the emphasis of local business leaders will differ from the concern of state business leaders. In any case, economic prosperity is most available when the state recognizes and enhances the needs and responsibilities of the individual community," Coppedge says.

Capitan News

By Margaret Rench

I do wish my friends and readers a Happy Valentine Day. Do make your loved ones happy and smiling with joy with the expression of your pride and love. That will give them joy for years to come.

Rhonda and Curtis Reeves of Silver City spent last weekend in Capitan with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Strickland and Melinda.

Clay and Terry Strickland of Hobbs were guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Strickland and family.

Dennis Cooper was taken to the Ruidoso hospital Saturday morning very ill. From there was taken to Las Cruces. I wish him a good recovery. His son and wife are there.

Howard Wright is back on duty on the mail route this Monday morning after a bad two weeks of serious flu. Take care, Howard, easy does it. Grow strong and well before you get too brave.

Bob Rice has been in St. Mary's Hospital in Roswell and very ill, though at this time is much better.

Cy Salas is in the Medical Center in Roswell too, has been very ill but is doing better.

Arcenia Castillo recently underwent surgery in the Ruidoso hospital but is home at this time.

I wish all of you the very best and complete recovery. May God bless you. May your good health return and give you smile and joy. We do care.

Just cold winter winds last week until Saturday morning when a cloud appeared and gave us one inch of wet snow then passed on with clear skies until late afternoon. Then cold fog and dampness, etc. Two days then of sunshine and wind again, so cold.

The Capitan Extension Homemakers will hold an enchilada dinner on Friday, Feb. 20, 1987 in the Capitan School cafeteria. All proceeds will go to benefit the Capitan Special Olympics. Anyone wishing to make a monetary donation or meet for the preparation of the dinner is encouraged to do so. Please contact Debbie Bird, Jan LaRue or Inez Marrs.

Please watch and listen to New Mexico Today, Channel 10 KBIM Roswell at 10 a.m. Feb. 9, 1987. Two Capitan FHA/HERO students will appear for promotion of FHA/HERO. Those appearing are Gina Griego, state officer; and Henrietta Griego, Capitan chapter president; and Laura Jones, chapter advisor.

The Lincoln County Fair Board will meet Monday, Feb. 8, 1987 at 7 p.m. at the Fair Building.

The Capitan Chamber of Commerce met Monday, Feb. 2 at the Smokey Bear Restaurant for their regular meeting.

The School Board election was held Tuesday, Feb. 3 in Capitan at the Fair Building. I am proud of our Village for they always take good care of their elections. That is as it should be.

The highway crew is back to work again after two weeks of bad weather. Gravel is being worked, etc., trucks and workman buzzing on in their work.

There were 804 registered visitors at the Smokey Bear Museum during the month of January. That is excellent for the kind of weather we had.

Tiger sports

By BART McDONOUGH

Capitan Tigerette Katherine Sanchez had an outstanding weekend scoring 41 points against Cloudcroft Friday night and 21 points Saturday night against the Grizzlies.

Capitan fought its way back from an early deficit to tie the score at the end of regulation play. The Tigerettes outscored the Cloudcroft girls 13-6 in overtime to win 76-69. Katherine Sanchez had help from all of the Capitan squad. Scoring 12 points each were Kateri Sanchez and Sherry Gowen. Warren led the way for the Lady Bears with 28 points.

The Lady Grizzlies from Carrizozo made it tough on Capitan before losing 55-52. Capitan was seven points better than Carrizozo in the 4th quarter enabling the Tigerettes to pick up the win. Katherine Sanchez led the way for Capitan with 21 points. Kateri Sanchez found the hoop for 12 points followed by Sherry Gowen with 10 points. Claudia Lopez was the big gun for Carrizozo with 22 points.

The JV Tigerettes defeated Cloudcroft Friday 56-31. Nanette Boyd looked good for Capitan with 19 points. Tyana Trolinger contributed 7 points.

The Cloudcroft Bears were 17 points better than Capitan defeating the boys varsity 74-57. John Parker was high point man with 16 points. Ronnie Sanchez helped out with 12 points and Troy Padilla with 11. Derrick led the way for the Bear with 20 points.

Capitan's defense allowed Carrizozo's Tommy Escamilla only 6 points Saturday night as the Tigers defeated the Grizzlies 56-39. Steady Ronnie Sanchez had a good night for Capitan with 20 points—it was John Parker with 14 points. Richard Guevara was high point man for the Grizzlies with 8 points.

In other action a Capitan squad defeated Hondo 58-37. The Tiger JV boys were six points better than Cloudcroft winning 53-47. Anthony Sanchez had the hot hand with 16 points followed by Warren Russell with 11 points. This same team outscored the JV Grizzlies 29-17 in the 1st half and coasted to a 40-33 victory. Shanks and Eldridge led the way for Capitan with 8 points each. Saucedo was high point man for the Grizzlies with 11 points.

A Painter's Quest: Art As A Way of Revelation by Peter Rogers will be made available to the public next month by Bear and Company Publishers, Santa Fe. In prose and painting, the San Patricio artist shares his vision of the universal spiritual journey and personal transformation through his art. His work has been compared to the images of William Blake and the frescoes of Giotto. A Painter's Quest consists of 160 pages and includes 50 full-color and 40 black-and-white reproductions of his paintings, many which depict the life of Christ. Mr. Rogers was trained at St. Martin's School of Art in London and elected a member of the Royal Society of British Artists in 1957.

Groundhog's Day to the English is called Candelmas. "If Candelmas Day be fair and bright, Winter will have another flight. But if Candelmas Day be clouds and rain, Winter is gone and will not come again." Another folk forecast says, "If February brings no rain, 'Tis neither good for grass nor grain." Vamos a ver.

Visiting the McArthur house last weekend were Misty and Pat Hooper of Roswell and our 7 week-old granddaughter Bethany Gay. While everyone else went horseback riding, "Grandma Pam" hitched myself to one of those denim baby totes and hiked down to one of my favorite spots on the Hondo River. On the bank of the turquoise water, I noticed how still and quiet Bethany became, almost in a meditative state it seemed. I realized how similar the sounds of the river were to amniotic fluid which had been her safe place in the womb.

Remember to come for enchiladas, tamales and other good stuff to eat on Sunday, Feb. 8 at the St. Jude Center, San Patricio. The Senior Class of Hondo High School will be serving from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m., with all proceeds going toward their senior trip project. Hope to see you there!

New Comet to be Here in Early May

ALAMOGORDO—Last May the Space Center staff thought they had seen the last of comets for awhile. Comet Halley had made its long heralded and less than spectacular visit and according to Space Center Executive Director, Gregory Kennedy, "We thought we would have a respite."

But Space Center Assistant Director to the Planetarium, Arthur Barton says, "that respite may have to wait awhile. Somebody went out and discovered a new comet while nobody was looking." The discoverer of the new comet was Christine Wilson, a graduate student at the California Institute of Technology. Wilson discovered the comet last August as she was examining some star plates. The comet was given the designation 1986 I and also bears Wilson's name.

Comet Wilson will make its closest approach to the Sun on April 20 and its closest approach to Earth in early May. "Some astronomers are saying that it may be a naked eye object," continued Barton, "others aren't so sure." Barton said that even at its closest approach to Earth, Comet Wilson will be nearly twice as far away as Comet Halley was last year and will be visible very low in the southern sky. "That's great if you live in New Zealand or Australia, but not so great for North American viewers."

Barton noted that comets are unpredictable and that Comet Wilson could turn out to be a very average comet or surprise astronomers and put Halley to shame. "Right now it's too early to tell, but if it does show signs of being a winner, you can bet we will be having a round of Comet Wilson watches, just like we did for Halley."

The Space Center is a division of the New Mexico Office of Cultural Affairs. For more information call 437-2840 in New Mexico or call 1-800-545-4021 out-of-state.

Around Corona

Mrs. Bryon Yancey invited friends to drop by the State Highway office Friday afternoon for coffee and cake. The occasion marked 30 years that Bryon Yancey has been on the job day and night in Corona. Mrs. Martha Garza baked the chocolate cake and decorated it appropriately with stop signs, a grader, etc.

Paul Keelin loaded his small tractor and came from Santa Fe to move some of the snow around his parents' home.

Postmaster Debbie Moore has returned to the office here after four months as officer in charge at Cimarron. OIC Patti Brady has returned to Sacramento where she is postmaster.

Dewey Hand is again home from a stay in the Alamogordo hospital. He came home Thursday and Monday was reported to be improving.

Doug Riley has been hospitalized in Roswell for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Dickie Winchester are the parents of a daughter, Tabatha Jo, born Jan. 12 in Ruidoso. The baby has three sisters. Grandmothers Ola Mae Tryon, Albuquerque, and Joyce Winchester have been spending some time with the family at TransWestern.

 13 YEARS OF BUSINESS TO THE AREA

SNOW SCENES were normal in Lincoln County this last week. This three-foot fence in the Ruidoso area marked the boundary of drifts of snow up to two feet high.

REMEMBRANCE
MOLLIE LUCILLE DALE

Lucille Dale, 72, of Kapowsin, WA died Dec. 30 after a lengthy battle with bone cancer. She died in Denver, CO while staying with her son.

Lucille was born in Ardmore, OK on May 21, 1914. Her parents, Arthur William Drake and Ola Sue Peters, lived in Texas near the Oklahoma border. Lucille and her family moved to New Mexico on a ranch and farm near Ancho when she was 10 years old. She grew up and lived there until she married John J. Dale in 1937. They lived in Alamogordo, NM for 22 years before moving to Kapowsin, WA in 1964, they owned and operated the Casa Blanca Motel in Alamogordo, NM and operated a general grocery, feed store and laundry mart in Kapowsin, WA.

Lucille was active in the Mount Ranier Baptist Church, the Kapowsin Grange, the Republican Party and the Daughters of the American Revolution.

She was baptized in the First Baptist Church of Alamogordo in 1950 and has been a member of local Southern Baptist Churches since that time. She was currently a member of the Mount Ranier Baptist Church of Graham, WA.

Besides her husband, John, survivors include two daughters, Sue Davis of Ft. Worth, TX and Kay Lemka of Puyallup, WA; two sons, Ted Dale of Denver, CO and Abe Dale of Kapowsin, WA; two sisters, Layona Miller of Ancho, NM and Lallah Lee Dale of Graham, WA; and eight grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted Jan. 2, at the Hamilton Funeral Home Chapel in Alamogordo. The Rev. Francis Wilson officiated.

Lincoln County Long Ago

By RUTH HAMMOND

The Lincoln County Leader, Devoted to the Best Interests of Lincoln County and the Development of Its Resources, published in White Oaks, Lincoln County, NM.

satisfied himself that we had not exaggerated, indeed had not told half the fullness of the truth, hence we feel a special pride in the success of the "Lincoln County Bank of White Oaks."

Local Roundups
What is the matter with Dr. Paden? He seems to have lost his grip. Last week he gave us a cluster of five births and this week only one—to Geo. El Slight—a son.

Saturday, January 31, 1891.
Local Roundups

Will Henley, of Nogal, took in the sights of this Gotham last Tuesday.

It is expected that the time for holding courts in this county will be changed to the last Mondays in March and October.

Charles Mayer is making glad music on his anvil, since the advent of his boy to keep time with his thoughts, and if anyone has a fit of the blues just look into Charley's face and they'll fly instanter.

The new bank in and at White Oaks is now an established fact and institution. That it is and will be a credit to the town in which it is located and the county after which it is named, "Lincoln County Bank," goes without saying. As yet we have neither borrowed money from said institution nor deposited from our wealth in its coffers, but we feel a sort of paternal affection therefor inasmuch as it's propogator, Mr. A.H. Reynolds, assures us that were it not for a 'fugitive copy of the Leader which he came across at a R.R. point, presenting advantages and opportunities never would have come here. Attracted by our alluring article he came hither and

W. H. Weed returned on last Monday from a short trip to points in New Mexico and Kansas. He is a close observer and keen businessman. He is now more enthusiastic than ever in his faith in the future of White Oaks. He says he did not see any place in his travels that he would trade White Oaks for, either as a business point or the value of it's realty. Mr. Weed is a large owner of real estate in this town and well knows it's true value, and with the bright prospects now before this section he does well to hold on knowing that it will soon produce him a rich reward.

The Three Rivers country is just now peopled by prospectors. Everybody and his friends are out in force trying to catch on to some of that promising Eldorado. A recent assay of ore from that section gave the flattering result of $8.60 in silver and that was not considered any great amount either.

Saturday, February 7, 1891
We read in a newspaper that 250,000 women are married annually in London. The average American woman thinks she's lucky if she gets married every 10 years.

Saturday, March 7, 1891
Local Roundups

It is said that a man in the Jicarillas will be a candidate for Dr. Lane's place. He says he can steer a Church as well as anybody.

We had the pleasure, since our last issue, of making the acquaintance of O.H. Vail, of the firm of DeLaney & Vail, post traders, Ft. Stanton, and sized him up as a gentleman of the first water.

The North Homestake Mill, which the Old Abe has leased, will soon commence running on their rich ore when the new output of many thousands per month will be a common factor in the history of this camp.

The Old Abe is still sending forth it's golden stream. From the surface down, at each succeeding level, the ore has increased in richness until it is now an open secret that on the fourth level the ore will average over $100 per ton.

Saturday, March 14, 1891
John H. McCutcheon, editor of the Socorro Advertiser, paid our town a visit this week. He had been here before. In 1880 his father was commissioned the first postmaster of White Oaks. The office was located in a log cabin, still standing near the Academy building. The family then consisted of father, mother, son and daughter. The latter is now the wife of J.S. Sniflen, Socorro. In '80 the family moved to Socorro, where the old gentleman died in '81. Albeit an editor and a democratic one at that, Jno has all the attributes of a true gentleman as he is acknowledged to "be up in his part" as an editor.

Saturday, March 21, 1891
Local Roundups
The streets were so muddy on St. Patrick's Day that even the Irish couldn't raise a dust. John Y. Hewitt has leased the McPfeerson mansion on the hill, and is fitting it up for a residence.
Bob Duffie, of San Antonio, spent a couple of days in town this week, and his stay was made pleasant by his multitude of gushing friends.

Bingaman Named to Two Subcommittees

WASHINGTON - Senator Jeff Bingaman (D-NM) announced today that he had been named to two additional Subcommittees of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Bingaman will serve on the Subcommittee on Strategic Forces and Nuclear Deterrence and on the Subcommittee on Readiness, Sustainability, and Support in addition to chairing the Subcommittee on Defense Industry and Technology as announced last month.

The Strategic Subcommittee has responsibility for all the strategic weapons and research programs and for the Department of Energy nuclear weapons complex. The Readiness Subcommittee has responsibility for the operations and maintenance and military construction budgets of the military services. The Defense Industry and Technology Subcommittee has responsibility for the industrial base and the technology base and for acquisition policy and the strategic stockpile. It has particular responsibility for the DoD and DOE laboratories.

"Together I believe that these subcommittee assignments will ideally situate me to keep abreast of defense programs important to New Mexico and its military installations," Bingaman said. "I look forward to vigorously participating in the work of the Strategic and Readiness Subcommittees while also leading the Defense Industry and Technology Subcommittee."
