Wallet Contains Olinger Probate File

By RUTH HAMMOND

Bob Olinger, deputy and jailer for Lincoln County under sheriff Pat Garrett, lived and died more than one hundred years ago. Olinger was shot and killed by the infamous Billy the Kid in 1881. Now his wallet, long held by the Lincoln County Clerk's office as part of the probate record, is in the News.

The Lincoln County Heritage Trust requested that the wallet be loaned to them to be put on display in the Historical Center in Lincoln to coincide with the 75th anniversary celebration of the state of New Mexico scheduled to begin June 1, 1887.

Fran Siddens, Lincoln County Clerk, says the wallet is part of the Olinger probate file and therefore cannot be removed from the safekeeping of the clerk's office. She offered to provide photos of the wallet and photocopies of the probate file.

The wallet in question is merely an old wallet, referred to as a 'long' wallet. It measured 8½ inches by 4½ inches. It contains a sheaf of papers that are the personal correspondence of Robert Olinger beginning in October 1879. Included:

Territory of New Mexico, County of Lincoln, to Jesus Sueras, Justice of Peace of Precinct No. 1 of the County of Lincoln Treasurer of New Mexico.

You are hereby requested to hold an inquest over the dead bodies of Robt Olinger and J.W. Bell who are now lying in a room in the correll of the Court House in the town of Lincoln and ascertain by means of a Coroners investigation how the said deceased came to their death. Dated Lincoln, April 29th 1881.

To the honorable Constable of Precinct No. 1, Lincoln County. You are hereby commanded to forthwith summon six men voters in Precinct No. 1 of said County of Lincoln to act as a Coroner's Jury in Garrett, Administrator of Estate of Robert Olinger Deceased.

In Probate Court Lincoln County Special Term April 2nd AD. 1883. In the matter of the Estate of Robert Olinger Deceased, I Pat F. Garrett, Administrator of said Estate of Robert Olinger Decd. do hereby certify that after using due diligence that all the property belonging to said Estate that I have been able to find is an account allowed by the County Commissioners for work done by said Robert Olinger Decd, to the amt. of Fifty Dollars ($50.00) in Lincoln County scrip. Against said Estate I hereby present an account for Eighty four dollars ($84.00) for money loaned to said Robert Olinger Decd. & as there is nothing remaining belonging to said Estate so far as I have been able to ascertain, Therefore I ask for a final settlement of said Estate to be discharged by the Honorable Court of any further responsibility therein. Pat. F. Garrett.

2 Fatalities in Truck Accident Near Corona

An Arkansas family met with tragedy last week as the semi-tractor in which they were traveling went off the road and overturned just south of Corona. Dead were Marilyn Zercher and her young son Gordon Don Zercher III. Don Zercher Jr. was taken to Lincoln County Medical Center in Ruidoso with minor injuries.

According to the State Police report filed by Officer Scott Jimenez, the vehicle was northbound on US Highway 54 at approximately 4 a.m. when the driver, Marilyn Zercher, apparently fell asleep. She failed to execute the sharp left-hand curve going into Corona. The truck veered onto the uneven shoulder and overturned, throwing Mrs. Zercher and her son through the windshield.

EMT's Byron Yancey and Danny Lueras administered medical aid to the survivor, who was in shock. Yancey believed the boy was approximately 15 months old and had been sleeping on his mother's lap at the time of the accident. The two were not wearing seatbelts. Zercher had been asleep in the sleeper compartment, and according to Yancey, did not know how he got out of the truck.

While first aid was being administered in the Corona ambulance, a second truck hit the vehicle, damaging the right front corner. No one was injured. At that time, a Carrizozo ambulance was summoned. The Corona ambulance is in Ruidoso for repairs.

According to State Police Sgt. Darden in Ruidoso, drugs found in the Zercher truck were of the caffeine "pep pill" variety in one small bottle.

The fatalities are the first in the Corona area this year.

Capitan Village Council

By BART McDONOUGH

Enough signatures were received on a recent petition to call for a special election for voters to decide if liquor should be sold by the drink on Sunday. The Capitan Village Council has passed a resolution calling for this election on May 4.

The village council is accepting bids for a consulting engineer to deal with the G.O. bond money.

Action was tabled on whether Capitan should join the Water Defense Alliance. Some local citizens know this as the Hondo group. There is also a group in Ruidoso. It was learned that the Mescalero Indian Water Suit does not involve Eagle Creek Water at this point. Mayor Benny Coker stated that he feels that this suit affects anyone with water rights. The three rivers involved are the Hondo, Bonita, and Ruidoso.

The Water Master Plan as presented by the Dennis Engineering firm of Socorro was approved by the council. The plan is available for public inspection at the village hall.

It was learned that a Community Development Block Grant in the amount of $25,000 is available for a master study plan concerning storm drainage and utilities.

The council approved a payment of $5,800.00 to move a water line due to construction at the bridge site.

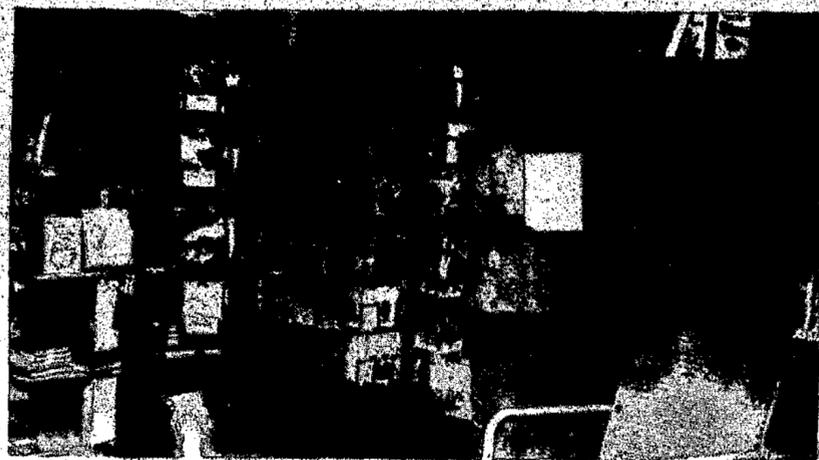

During an interview Mayor Coker stated: He believes that the pipeline construction from the new well is ahead of schedule. Workers will soon be pouring the foundation for the 500,000 gallon storage tank east of town.

Water from the new well will go into this tank. Its overflow has the capability of going into the 100,000 gallon storage tank just above the football field. A pump will move the water from this tank to the 200,000 gallon green storage tank next to the filtering plant.

At the present time water from Eagle Creek goes into a distribution line along with water from Bonita Lake about a half mile below Bonita Dam. It stays in this line for approximately five miles before going into Capitan's distribution line near Hwy 37 and Nogal Road. From here it goes to the filtering plant.

Water from Eagle Creek/Bonita Lake System is Capitan's primary water system. Water from the new well is an alternate system. Both systems have the capability of being operated independently from the other system.

The Village of Capitan is authorized to use only 50 percent of the new well's capability. A new water line from Eagle Creek will be installed in the future when monies become available.

The next stated meeting of the Capitan Village Council is April 13. This 7 p.m. meeting will be at the village hall.

GET STRAIGHT

Your children and mine, grades 7 through 12 attended a school assembly last week in which man's best friend, the dog, demonstrated how illegal drugs can be detected by trained animals.

Principal Mel Holland explained the schools drug policy and procedure. Holland introduced Ed Britt, dog trainer and handler.

"Get straight or get out," was the message Britt gave students. The students learned that Carrizozo Schools has hired Britt Detection Agency to visit the school unannounced in the future.

Britt told students how his dogs, Cocker Spaniels and Golden Retrievers breeds were trained. He told students that amnesty would be granted for last weeks assembly in the event that drugs were detected on them but students who thought they could beat the system at later visits would be identified by his dogs. Students who are caught with drugs or students who hang around drug users would be pinpointed and their parents will be notified, and proper officials notified.

NO GIFTS, PLEASE

Chief of Police C.A. Morales and several citizens and parents attended the assembly.

Students were encouraged to ask questions.

"What if someone plants (hides) a drug on you the day of an unannounced visit by Britt Detection Agency?" asked a student.

Britt told students that they should have control of their pants and no one should be able to slip their hands in their pockets. They should check their gym clothes before putting them back on. He advised students to notify school officials if he or she finds illegal drugs on his person or belongings.

"They shouldn't merely say, 'Oh, wow! Someone gave me a gift.'"

POLLY'S BAG

While a school student and Britt's assistant went for T.J., marijuana was hidden by Britt in three places in the gym, site of the demonstration. One of the places in which Britt placed the drug was in my strap bag resting near my feet and later moved by a student.

Despite 12 items in my bag that gave off odor T.J. was able to pinpoint my bag as having the hidden marijuana. (I repeat, the marijuana was placed in my bag by Britt Detection Agency. It was not my 'stash'. I did not attempt to cover up the 'pot' odor. I've carried hair spray in my bag since it was invented and cosmetics since I was 15 years old.)

T.J. grasped the handle of my bag between his jaws indicating that the bag contained the drug he was trained to sniff out. Britt was curious in the contents of my over 5 pound bag. In addition to hair spray other items that gave off odor: roll of film, permanent mented as to the contents of my bag which serves as my sub office and a do-bee-ent. People have taken guesses as to how much the bag actually weighs.

Tuesday while at the NEWS office I took inventory of the items in my bag as I rinsed the film processed for the week. In addition to the items already mentioned this is what Polly carries in that bag:

Coins, purse, wrist watch (no band), 2 sets of keys, kitchen timer (to process film), scissors, ball point pen, paper clips, checkbook, utility bill receipts, grocery lists (past, present, future), Avon receipt, toothbrush, sunglasses, hairbrush, hair picks, 2 combs, Catholic Devotional, address book, staples, bank money bag (to hold small items), mirror, pocket knife, 2 nail files, calculator, nail clippers, address labels, textbook (Perspective Drawing) and last but not least, paper and pencil to doodle, take notes and make lists.

When the demonstration was over it was embarrassing to not be able to locate Britt's plastic bag of pot. My bag features many zippered side pockets and pockets inside pockets. Imagine Britt's surprise when I handed him a plastic bag containing blue eye shadow, blue eyeliner pencil and a blush stick.

Nail Design VIA the Airbrush

By F.E. CHAVEZ

Airbrushed nails - in vivid or subdued colors and fancy designs - is another service now offered at Rita's Creative Hair Styles salon on Central Avenue.

Airbrush artistry in the cosmetology field is a first for Lincoln County.

Rita Narvaez, the shop's owner has sculptured nails for the past four years. Eager to learn nail paint design via the airbrush, Rita attended a March 2 and 3 seminar in Albuquerque.

A pen-size airbrush that uses air pressure is used to blow colors onto nails. Two to three different shades of nail color is used and the look is smooth with no brush strokes showing. The look gives each finger individual decorative art.

Clients pick their own pattern or a personalized logo design to match personality can be created. Airbrushing creates a total look for special occasions, day or evening. Eye-catching nail designs can also be worn as lapel pins, cuff links and tie clips.

The instructor for the 2-day course was Robert R. Sanders, president of Nails by Design, Inc. based in Hollywood, CA. Sanders, who has created nail designs on many celebrities including Elizabeth Taylor, held an airbrush nail color and design seminar in Japan before stopping in Albuquerque.

Day one lessons for Rita and her 15 classmates began by learning the basics in color - primary, secondary and intermediate. Art terms and techniques such as value of color, opaque, toning and contrasting color were carefully noted.

The color is contained in a bottle attached to the airbrush and pressure for spraying is provided by a small air compressor. An important function of the airbrush is its ability to apply color in soft, subtleties which may range from the lightest tint to complete opaque coverage. Color can be applied in any pattern, ranging from a thin pencil line to a broad spray.

Instruction on how to clean and keep the brush parts and air supply unit in proper working order was given at the nail color and design seminar.

Advanced classes next day began with techniques in applying design. Negative and positive masking was explained and demonstrated. A mask is used to shield an area from color and is made from thin, clear acetate sheets. A mask can be cut in various shapes.

"The airbrush nail color will do everything that the current nail polishes do and then some," Rita says.

Airbrush nail color is organically made and does not contain formaldehyde, a chemical used in embalming and found in most nail polishes on the market, Rita explained. Designs on nails airbrush-ed by Rita at the seminar included various graphic designs. One nail featured an eight-ball, a design for the billiard enthusiast. A unique design created by Rita is a skyscraper silhouette by moonlight. A Carrizozo client calls the scene, 'Moon Over Manhattan'.

The airbrush is used in practically every phase of the commercial art field - in illustration, photo retouching, and in design such as textile, plastic and poster. Hairdressers become designers via the airbrush.

price on nail color and design. Price varies on the number of colors and masks used. Airbrushed nail color and design is a way for a client to get more from the professional salon.

RITA DISPLAYS the air-brushed look in nails, a technique she learned in a 2-day seminar in Albuquerque.

Gnatkowski Elected President

Corona School Board

Corona School Board elected Pete Gnatkowski as its new president at the regular monthly meeting last week. Gnatkowski began his term by commending past president Ernest Copeland for the good job done during trying times. Margaret Lightfoot was elected vice president and Milton Romans was voted to serve as secretary.

In routine business, the Board voted to allow Special Education teacher Trish Faykus to apply for funds to fill needs as indicated in a needs assessment.

Representatives of the senior class outlined plans for a trip to California May 31-June 4. The Board approved the senior trip.

Vocational Agriculture teacher Jamie Widner asked the Board to approve his application for a New Mexico State University sponsored program whereby the school would receive over $800 in computer services and programs during the next year. Widner said the program would necessitate a telephone in the ag building. The board approved submitting the application, but in view of dwindling funds, advised Widner to use the library phone until the new budget is set and the program, should Corona receive it, could be reconsidered.

Elementary School Head Teacher Betty Ann Bell reported that parent-teacher conferences resulted in better communication and that $1,496.24 was raised for St. Jude's Children's Hospital by Corona Elementary students participating in the recent Math-A-Thon.

In establishing the 1987-88 calendar, the Board set aside a week for the State Fair, Sept. 7-11 and designated Oct. 23 for teacher and school board member attendance at statewide meetings. In 1988, Feb. 15 and March 14 will be holidays unless needed for make-up of snow days. May 26 will be the last day of school unless make-up days are needed.

In other business, the Board voted to advertise for an auditor and changed the regular April meeting date to the 15th.

Training Completed

He is a 1984 graduate of J. Earl Seiz High School, Pilot Point.

Students Receive RIF Books

Carrizozo School Librarian Julia Hollis announced that the first distribution of RIF books was made March 17 to grades K-4.

Reading is Fundamental (RIF) is a program that was started to encourage youngsters to read and own books. The RIF program is federally funded with the books being distributed being paid for with 75 percent federal funds and 25 percent local library funds.

Mrs. Hollis said there will be two more RIF distributions before the end of school. Each student in K-4 will probably receive five books.

Looking Ahead: Troubling Times Or Better Times?

"These are troubling times," says Dr. James Green, professor emeritus of economics at the University of Georgia. "Our debt loads are far beyond the ability of our incomes to service. Our spending spree is ending. We are sinking into deep recession. American living standards are due to decrease significantly."

Dr. Green, who also is editor-in-chief of the Florida Investor, supports his gloomy assessment with some grim-sounding statistics. Bankruptcies approaching 500,000 a year; total public and private debt nearing $9 trillion, almost double that of six years ago; interest on the federal debt swallowing more than 25 percent of government revenues, and the United States now the world's largest debtor nation with some $230 billion owed to foreigners.

By contrast, Donald Lambro, an authoritative critic of wasteful government spending and author of Land of Opportunity (Little, Brown & Company, Boston, $17.45), takes a decidedly upbeat view of America's economic future. "Since the beginning of this decade," he told a Heritage Foundation audience in Washington recently, "an explosion of new businesses - almost 3 million of them - have created most of the nearly 12 million new jobs that have been added to burgeoning US employment rolls."

"Today," said Lambro, "the United States is in the fourth year of one of the longest economic recoveries in postwar history (and) some forecasters say we may be entering a new long-term period of economic growth, fueled in part by a technological boom that could be as sweeping as the Industrial Revolution. . . . One thing is for sure: By the end of 1987, America will be celebrating the recovery's 11th anniversary."

Only time will tell who is right, the pessimists or the optimists. But Lambro marshals some impressive arguments in support of what he calls "America's economic miracle." In 1985 alone, he said, the US created a record 634,000 new incorporated businesses, plus millions of unincorporated enterprises. "Nothing like that has happened ever, anywhere else in the world."

While lauding America's thriving entrepreneurial spirit, Lambro believes we can and must do better, especially to counter rising pressure for trade protectionist legislation, the reimposition of costly and counterproductive economic regulations and, above all, renewed calls for higher taxes. What's needed, said Lambro, are not higher taxes but further reductions in tax rates, including sharp cuts in taxes on savings and the eventual elimination of the capital gains tax in order to encourage greater investment in business expansion and modernization.

Among Lambro's other recommendations: Enactment of the proposed "Enterprise Zones" program, expanded to include 350 of the nation's most needy inner-city areas; approval of the administration's Youth Opportunity bill, lowering the minimum wage for summertime employment to create more jobs for youths under 20. "The challenge now," concluded Lambro, "is to make sure that the promise of America endures, that it remains a land of everlasting opportunity for every American."

Residential Bill Passes House

SANTA FE--Two bills that would require municipal officials and school board members to reside within the districts they represent were passed by the New Mexico House of Representatives last Wednesday.

Both measures, House Bill 524 and House Bill 525, were sponsored by Rep. Vincent "Smiley" Gallegos, D-Curry.

HB 524, pertaining to municipal officials, passed by a vote of 62-1, while HB 525, on school board members, passed 64-1. Both bills now go to the Senate for consideration there and are expected to pass that body also.

Another bill that passed the House on Wednesday makes several major changes in the state's Election Code. HB 689, sponsored by Rep. Max Coll, D-Santa Fe, gained approval on a 59-7 vote.

Coll's bill changes the deadline for voter registration from 42 days before an election to 28 days, changes filing dates for statewide offices from the first Tuesday in April to the first Tuesday in March to allow the Secretary of State more time to process challenges before printing primary ballots and requires county clerks to report unofficial voting results within 10 hours of the poll closing.

It also requires clerks to send absentee ballot applications to all registered voters over the age of 65 or those who are handicapped.

The Family Violence Protection Act, HB 515 sponsored by Rep. Gary King, D-Torrance-Valencia-Bernalillo, also passed on a reported vote of 54-0 after the automatic vote counter in the House chambers malfunctioned.

HB 515 allows victims of domestic violence to get from a court an "order of protection" that could grant to the victims sole possession of the family residence, temporary child custody and injunctive relief. That measure also goes to the Senate for further consideration.

R. Cross Month

Governor Garrey Carruthers has proclaimed March as Red Cross Month.

The proclamation states that the American Red Cross is one of the largest and oldest services organizations in America and that volunteers make it possible for the Red Cross to provide blood to the ill and injured, disaster relief, emergency needs of Armed Forces personnel and their families and courses in health and safety.

Political Ennui May Have Set In

SANTA FE--I'd be willing to bet most New Mexicans haven't followed what went on here during the 1987 Legislature with any real interest.

Many citizens seem too tired from four years of political turmoil to want to get involved in much of that sort of thing. Others may have decided that we have a shiny new administration in place, and they just want to give it a chance to function without hearing too much about it.

A certain amount of political ennui, in other words, may have set in.

That's understandable, but while it happened, lawmakers have been here in town going at it hammer and tongs, just as in the bad old days of yesteryear.

HYPERACTIVITY: You may judge that latter fact from this indicator: Legislator this year introduced more bills (1406) than ever before in the state's history. As a result, they had an almost endless variety of topics over which to wrangle as that many measures made their way through the complex legislative process.

But most of those proposals were of absolutely no moment in the real order. Something like 90 percent of them reveal themselves, on close inspection, to have been put in because the prime sponsor didn't understand what's going on here in the first place, or, in the alternative, because the bill was meant to impress the homefolks, with no known likelihood of ever passing.

That means that the important legislative wars have been limited to a few topics.

ESSENTIALS: What has been going on here for the better part of the last two months is a sometimes violent argument over the amount by which state government spending should rise next year.

Those of us who firmly believe that in a time when the state's economy is at a virtual standstill, government spending should go down, not up, have been brushed aside as though our view is too idiotic to be worthy of consideration. Nobody, not even our brand-new Governor, representative of the conservative, or Republican, party, appears to have given serious thought to spending less rather than more.

The reason it has been hard for Governor, House and Senate to come together on the final spending total is that any increase in that figure over the one for the current year inevitably involves tax increases for the patient citizens. What these folks have really been wrangling about is how much you and I will stand still for.

Achieving that balance of income and outgo, when the income involves tapping the citizenry for more bucks, is a chancy thing. No one wants to take the blame for raised taxes, which have been known to get the people all irked up.

RESPONSIBILITY: With the session still not quite finished its work, it is already clear that there is plenty of censure for all concerned for the tax increases they will end up laying on us. Don't let one political party tell you what happened is entirely the fault of those in the other party; this year, they were all in this thing together. Please note that the last statement includes the new administration, which didn't have courage enough to cut back spending either.

Don't fail to welcome your local representatives when they get home, and be sure to make them explain why they did to us what they are about to do.

Higher Prices Due for Beef/Cattle Industry

LAS CRUCES--The beef industry might be at a point of profitability right now, but Larry Foster, beef cattle specialist, for the Cooperative Extension Service, New Mexico State University, expects it is a cycle of the industry.

"This has been the most intensified that I have seen," he said, "and I hope cattle producers can weather this one as they have in the past."

The difference is that competition from other sources of protein is so great that there is a fear that beef could lose its share of the market, Foster said.

He is recommending that beef cattle producers keep their inventory up and be ready to capitalize on the better price as soon as it comes.

"In January 1987, the national cattle inventory was very low and decreasing. There were about 102 million head of cattle in the nation. In New Mexico there were about 1,360,000 head of cattle and calves, about 30,000 less than we had in January of 1986," Foster said.

"At some point the supply should reach a point low enough to cause an increase in price," he added.

According to Foster, when the low point in the supply is reached, the cattle growers start to keep heifers to rebuild the herds. That reduces the beef supply even more. But that shortage is only temporary until the herds are built up again. Then, as the supply increases, the price goes down.

Herd rebuilding could create a 10 percent to 15 percent decrease in beef supply per American, he said.

"It is an open question, however, whether consumers will pay the higher price that results, or simply by-pass beef for other protein sources like chicken," Foster said. "In other words, could the next price rise in beef be the occasion for a loss of market share for beef?"

During this marketing cycle, beef producers are seeking to increase the profitability of the industry by putting more emphasis on developing new beef products. A nationwide promotion and research program supported by money checked off from cattle sales could result in consumers buying more beef as new products are test-marketed and become available, according to Foster.

Changes in beef include trimming more of the fat. Larger supermarkets are already doing that and more are expected to do it soon.

At least one meat packing firm is offering beef under a brand name which makes it identifiable for the consumer. Most beef has been sold as the store's meat market product.

Another firm is testing beef in vacuum sealed packaging that extends the shelf-life of the cut. It is cut, packaged and priced by the packer and sold by the grocery store. It has a date by which to either use or freeze.

"These promotions give the consumer flexibility in beef purchases that has never existed with such a highly perishable product," said Foster.

The New Mexico cattle and calves segment of the livestock industry had cash receipts of $525,787,000 in 1985, the most recent year for which figures are available. New Mexico ranks 28 among the 50 states producing cattle and calves and produces about one and one-third percent of the United States total.

A POTASH STORY: CARLSBAD VS. CANADA

Chances are good that "potash" is not one of those subjects you talk about over the dinner table, unless you're a potash worker and you're wondering if there will be food on that table tomorrow.

You may know that potash is used for fertilizer, and that a lot of it is mined in Carlsbad. But you may not realize how important potash is in New Mexico's economy.

Approximately 85 percent of America's potash is produced in the Carlsbad area. During the past two decades, the industry has struggled with crop surpluses, worldwide recessions, cheaper foreign potash, outright dumping of foreign potash, and changing corporate ownerships.

Until recently the importance of this industry was hardly mentioned in the press. And unless Carlsbad is your hometown or someone in your family works in the potash industry, you probably didn't realize that U.S. potash production has dropped nearly 50 percent since 1981.

The city of Carlsbad and nearby communities have been devastated. In 1981, nearly 3,300 people were working in New Mexico's potash industry. Employment now stands at 2,100. And those still employed wonder from day to day: "Will I have a job tomorrow?"

As just one example, the Lundberg mine reopened recently after being shut from November through February. Those who still have jobs in the industry often work less than full-time, due to these shutdowns.

Industry and labor are trying to become more efficient and competitive than ever before. Yet for the past two years, our industry has confronted a lot of unfair marketing by some Canadian producers.

These Canadians sell their potash at prices below production costs. New Mexico producers simply cannot compete with Canadian potash dumped at less-than-cost. How could anyone?

In 1976, the Canadians nationalized a significant portion of their potash industry as a way for the government to bring in some cash, and to provide jobs for its citizens. Thus the Canadian competition pays no taxes, and lets taxpayers cover any losses.

And the Canadians have had losses: $68.7 million in 1985 alone.

In 1980, the Canadians had begun a $2.5 billion expansion of their potash program, with the goal of producing more than 11 million tons of potash by the 1990's. Three new mines opened in Canada in 1985 -- that year of big losses -- while mines in New Mexico were closing.

The Canadians say their subsidies and over-expansion are not the problem; they argue that our potash industry is dying. That is simply not true.

While the Carlsbad producers cannot meet all of America's demand for potash, they remain clearly capable of serving a large segment of the market. They deserve a fair chance.

I will do everything I can to strengthen this mainstay of the Carlsbad economy.

But how do we provide that chance to Carlsbad? Industry officials and I have struggled with a number of initiatives:

-In 1979 and 1980, potash industry managers, union members, and I met to discuss our concerns on several occasions.

-In 1983, after meetings and investigations in Washington, we set up an Ad Hoc group of community leaders, labor representatives, and the potash companies.

-By 1984, we won protection from potash dumping by East

Germany, Spain, and the Soviet Union.

-In 1986, I sponsored legislation to enforce those Canadian promises against dumping, given back in the 1970's, and hosted seminars for the Ad Hoc group and top Washington officials to plan ways to eliminate Canadian dumping.

The latest -- and possibly most important -- development was the petition filed by two Carlsbad producers with the Department of Commerce and the International Trade Commission in February. They asked the government to investigate and impose an anti-dumping duty against Canadian potash.

The case has two parts and two main issues. The International Trade Commission must determine first whether the U.S. potash industry has been injured because the Canadians have violated our trade laws. That will occur by March 26.

If the Commission finds we have been injured, then the Commerce Department must determine if the Canadian companies have been selling potash in the U.S. at less-than-fair market value.

That finding should be made by the end of June. If we are successful, the Commerce Department can impose a potash import tax, and impose it immediately.

This tax, imposed in the form of a tariff, would be as high as 43 percent on shipments coming in at below cost. That should have a great benefit to Carlsbad, making our potash truly competitive!

The final decision on this dumping case will be decided by the Commerce Department and the ITC sometime later this year.

Together with elected officials in Carlsbad and members of the Ad Hoc group, I will continue to work with our New Mexican workers and businesses to use our trade laws to defend ourselves against unfair trade practices by foreign governments.

In the case of potash, it is time to halt, and halt for good, the unfair selling by Canada. Our New Mexico potash industry deserves a fair shot at American markets.

EMT of the Month

By DOROTHY GUCK

The State Emergency Medical Service, in need of permanent funding for the purchase, repair, and maintenance of Emergency Service vehicles, equipment and supplies; and the training and licensing of local Emergency Medical Services personnel, submitted a bill to the New Mexico Legislature this year. It suggested that $1 be assessed to all vehicle registrations for this purpose. It was called "Dollar for Life." At present, the bill has passed the House and is in the Senate.

The helicopter called in to transport critically hurt people to a hospital is heralded as a "Life Line." But in far more numerous incidents, the Emergency Medical Technicians themselves are the "Life Lines" for the victims.

Many times, it is only the quick response and efficient care of the EMT's that save lives. For this reason, it is most essential that anyone calling in to report an emergency, remain in contact to give specific directions to the ambulance crew as to how and where the victim can be reached, without aimless searching and wasted time. Minutes saved, may be vital.

Corona has five permanently available EMT's and a few more with basic training to offer auxiliary help when needed. The regulars are Byron Yancey, Dorothy Neil Lightfoot, Danny Lueras, Rand Perkins, and Sharon Young.

The Lincoln County EMS Board chose Dorothy Lightfoot to be the EMT for the month of March. She first came to Corona in 1954 when she was in the fourth grade, and stayed to finish high school there. Her father worked for the Natural Gas Company. From 1967 to 1980, Dorothy lived in Roswell, then returned to Corona. She has a 21 year old son.

She said, "About four years ago, Byron Yancey practically forced me to sign up for EMT training. It is the most satisfying type of volunteer work I could ever do. After one ambulance run, I was hooked. I'll never quit."

"Seeing the light of hope in the eyes of a person suffering excruciating pain, when we arrive to assess the injuries, then use our training to give the care required, makes our work very rewarding."

Dorothy, Rand, and Byron are on call 48 hours, then off 48 hours. Danny and Sharon have 24 hour sessions. Dorothy runs a motel and is a substitute school bus driver. But when she first became an EMT, she ran the motel, was head cook at the school, drove a bus, helped out pumping gas at the Enco Station, and yet volunteered her time to the EMS. She has never lost her enthusiasm for the emergency aid she can give.

"Corona is a caring, giving community," she boasts. "We are like one big family, each ready to help our fellow man. The town hasn't changed much in many years. It is still without local medical services so our ambulance runs are long transports to Ruidoso, Alamogordo, or Albuquerque. Not only the EMT's, but all our neighbors are ready to help in any way possible.

"Our work is not the glamorous rescue mission featured on TV. In their agonies, the victims of disastrous accidents, plagued by intolerable pain, may curse, retch, fight our ministrations, yell ugly words, or try to push us away. But the quiet tolerance of the elderly, or fearful trust in the eyes of a child, are most hard to face, when you know our help will not be enough."

Dorothy was reluctant to speak of her own qualifications. Byron Yancey said of her, "When I'm driving an ambulance, there's no one I'd rather see in the back with a patient than Dorothy."

Kathy Williams said, "She is so sensitive to the needs of her patients, to comfort and sustain them while applying her technical expertise."

Rather than speak on her own experiences, Dorothy preferred to relate a couple of stories of others. "George James of White Oaks, who died in the early '80s, told that one time he was on an ambulance run when an auto accident between Corona and Carrizozo killed three people. A tiny three-year-old boy, unhurt, stood at the side of the road and told George, 'My car fell down.' He was joined by a little older boy who was unable to talk at the stum of seeing the mangled bodies of his family.

While the bodies were placed in a vehicle to be carried to Carrizozo, George took the two boys on the seat where he was driving. "Now, you young fellows are going to have to help me," he said, trying to distract their attention. "See up here is where we make that siren work. Everytime you see a car coming toward us, you make that siren work. That will help me." In no time, those youngsters' attention was diverted to helping George drive.

"Probably the most amusing incident happened before I had finished training," Dorothy continued, "but it happened at the motel that I manage today. A huge man came into the lobby to secure a room. After signing in, he went to his room. He soon returned. Mrs. Casey, the proprietor, gasped to see this 6 foot 4 inch, 250 pound, red-headed, freckle-bodied man wearing only panty hose and a skinny chemise!

As he moved about the lobby, she realized he was mentally deranged. She was afraid of disturbing him to violence. She kept up a steady conversation while slowly maneuvering her way to the phone to call for help. After what seemed hours of watching this almost naked man strut around the room, help arrived. The man was transported to the mental institution from which he had departed.

"Mrs. Casey sighed in relief to see him go but laughed when she said, 'I never saw so many freckles over all of such a big body!'"

The trauma and misery of
(Cont'd Up There?)

EMT of the Month cont'd...

accidents are not only difficult for survivors to forget, but their EMT rescuers are never left untouched. "Yet, the satisfaction of knowing our work is that of the Good Samaritan, gives us a warm feeling in our hearts," Dorothy claimed with a smile.

Her fellow workers appreciate her sunny disposition during their grim duties, and her efficient, capable, ever-ready help. As Byron says, "She is always available. She is always dependable, and does her job in A-one form."

It is wise to learn how the services of our Lincoln County EMT's can be obtained. For the Corona people, phone 911 for emergency help, but please do not use that number except in necessity for an emergency. If the phone gives out a busy signal for a non-essential call, it could result in the loss of a life.

Corona Village Council

Bob Echols of Brewer Associates, Inc. presented Corona Village Council with an updated paving project schedule at last week's regular monthly meeting. The schedule outlines five phases of the project, with construction tentatively scheduled to begin in mid-July. In other business, Council voted to accept the lowest bid for insurance coverage of all village property. Cost will be $7069 with $250 deductible.

The Fire Department CD will mature soon and Council agreed to leave it for another 90 days. Work on the new fire station will not necessitate the funds within that time frame.

Hubert Quintana of Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District reported that the Department of the Interior has approved funds for the park improvements, but no money has yet been received.

Crown CowBelles met Thursday morning, March 5, for beef enchiladas in the school lunch room. They then adjourned to the auditorium. Myla Pounds and Linda Caldwell were guests. On display were a Latham afghan and a Maness dolly for the treasure chest. The two beautiful quilt tops in turquoise and earth colors were designed and made by Alma Hobbs. Work on these will be done at the April 2 meeting at the home of Loretta Proctor. One will go to the person who receives the most $1 donations. The other will go to a lucky winner in a drawing. Members were urged to attend the District One workshop hosted by Chuckwagon at Cedarvale, April 8.

Eve Latham was reported ill, and Lea Sultermeyer had gone to Deming where her grandfather, Fred Latham, is critically ill.

Frances Fuller, program chairman, introduced Don Gerhardt, USDA Statistician in Charge for New Mexico. Mr. Widener brought his VoAg class II and III to hear Mr. Gerhardt speak on "It's a Time for Change!" He stated that with the rising costs of labor, energy, interest and taxes, and rising imports, a rancher must forget sentiment and face reality. He urged understanding and applying the facts presented in statistics. Food producers must be good business people ever keeping in mind a sensible ratio of debts to assets. He stressed cooperation with those making surveys and stated that such surveys are completely confidential and that the numbers are not slanted toward any special interest group.

Mr. Gerhardt was given a cowbelle cookbook and napkins, and then there was time for questions and visiting over cups of Porter coffee.

Mrs. Maness brought copies of recipes for the goodies served at the legislative tea and promised a copy for each member.

A mid-February executive meeting was held in the home of Helen Porter to discuss plans for the year. Myrtle Davidson was named membership chairman, and Carol McConnell chairman for the Summer Festival August 8.

Friends and relatives here are following closely the progress of Gerald Cosby of Gallup who underwent a heart transplant operation early Saturday. He was enjoying the Lobo-BYU game when called to the hospital. He is a graduate of Corona High School and is a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer DeVaney.

Mrs. Tom Pounds and Mrs. Jim Brown were in Albuquerque recently to spend a night with Captain and Mrs. James Fox, who had been in Savannah, GA, for a week of pilot update for Capt. Fox. They had visited in Houston and were returning by way of Hawaii to Saudi Arabia where Capt. Fox is a pilot for King Saud. He is keeping a journal of his experiences, excerpts of which may be published in this column in coming issues. Charlotte, too, has interesting observations of life in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia.

Relatives here have been advised of the death of Mrs. Ola Beever, 93, on March 3. Services were held in Dripping Springs, TX, her home for the last 20 years. Interment was in El Paso where she was laid to rest by the side of her husband, Roy Beever. Among the survivors are three daughters, Novella Sorrels and Neoma Whetstone, Dripping Springs, and Dorothy Cathey, El Paso, grandchildren and a sister-in-law, Viola Pruitt, of Denver, CO. Mr. Beever was the uncle of Lena Mae McKibben.

The American Legion Beaver-Bond Post No. 35 is sponsoring two delegates, Lee Land and Chad Brown, to Boys State to be held in Socorro in June. The American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 35 is sponsoring two girls, Sandra Copeland and Wanda Miller to Girls State at Roswell in June.

These boys and girls will spend one week learning about government functions. The Legion and Auxiliary are very proud of these boys and girls who are interested in their government.

Nolan Vickery, Commander of American Legion Beaver-Bond Post No. 35 and District No. 3, and his wife, Lola, president of Unit No. 35 and Dist. No. 3 recently attended the American Legion and Auxiliary, Dept. of New Mexico mid-year conference in Santa Fe. They attended all functions and sessions while there. Members present were from all post and units in the state. Business began to the Roundhouse to talk with legislators and if one was not in his office he was left a message asking them to support veteran benefits. They were extended an invitation to a Legion and Auxiliary sponsored legislative luncheon.

While at the Roundhouse the American Legion National Commander, Jimmy Dean, Department officers and all members in the gallery were introduced to the legislators. Commander Dean gave a short speech and later met with Governor Carruthers, Lt. Gov. and department officers.

The American Legion Auxiliary vice president Barbara G. Williams attended the meetings. She addressed the Auxiliary and Legion and was honored with a luncheon sponsored by the Auxiliary.

Those of the American Legion feel that the mid-year conference and meeting with legislators is very important in keeping veteran benefits intact.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Tyree were in El Paso the first of the week to check his broken foot.

Mrs. Tommy Latham and children, Mirand Mrs. Jim Latham, Sterling City, TX, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Maness and children and the Clint L. Sultermeyer attended funeral services in Dripping Springs for grandfather Fred Latham, 83, who died after an extended illness. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Porter attended the services also.

By Margaret Rench

Cold spring like temperatures with a few high thin clouds, very few light winds; several days of beautiful warm sunshine days and ending Sunday night with light snowshowers that were there Monday morning. Elm blossoms falling. Report for last week.

Capitan school break is Monday, March 23-27. When they return it will be 15 minutes earlier and be let out 15 minutes later in the afternoon to make up the time lost due to the snow storms. Have a happy time.

Attention teenage girls from three years through 17 years. Surely we do have girls with talent, like singing, dancing, speaking, etc. If there is anyone interested in the Cinderella Pageant held at the Elks Lodge in Ruidoso May 2, 1987, this pageant offers scholarships. Think about it and join them. It is lovely to see these girls perform. If you are interested, Call Kay Reynolds, 258-3292. They really want you.

The Smokey Bear Museum had 735 registered guests from March 8-15. That is just great and we do appreciate it.

Do remember Capitan Clean Up Day designated by the Chamber of Commerce for April 25. Lets do a good job. I have mine ready for the moisture and the days ahead. Start early and it will not be such a big job.

Wayne Hobbs is improving daily. Keep up the good work, Wayne. They are so thankful for the kindnesses, greetings and prayers from everyone and all of the cooperation. May God continue to bless them.

Their guest this last weekend were Sheri and Margaret Coley of Carlsbad, NM. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hobbs of Roswell were there on Saturday.

Wayne's cousin who lives near them underwent a heart attack after midnight Sunday. Betty Hobbs took him to the Veteran's Hospital in Albuquerque. I wish him a good recovery.

Wesley Noack of Lovington is visiting his grandparents in Capitan and Carrizozo and his dad in Ruidoso during spring break.

Maxine Wright is back at her duties at the post office smiling and happy as she brought her husband Howard home from the Albuquerque hospital from heart surgery March 9 and he is doing O.K!

1987 Wool and Mohair

Fred Pfingsten, chairman of the Lincoln County ASC Committee reported today that the 1987 Support Prices for wool and mohair have been announced by the US Department of Agriculture.

The announced prices are $1.81 per pound of shorn wool and $4.93 per pound for mohair. This compares to the 1986 prices of $1.78 for wool and $4.93 for mohair.

Payments are based on a percentage of a producer's return for sales made during the calendar year with an anticipated average of $0.70 for 1987. 1986 incentive payments are expected to be disbursed during the first part of April and are being computed on the national average price for 1986 sales.

NOTICE OF A FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT OF THE FORWARD AREA AIR DEFENSE SYSTEM (FAAD) TEST AND EVALUATION PROGRAMS WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, NEW MEXICO

TO ALL INTERESTED AGENCIES, GROUPS, AND PERSONS:

PROPOSED ACTION: The US Army proposes to conduct test and evaluation programs of the Forward Area Air Defense weapons systems on White Sands Missile Range, New Mexico. Four or more phases may be conducted in the area east of the Oscura Mountains, 21 miles west of Carrizozo, New Mexico, 10 to 20 miles south of the north Range boundary. The first phase of this program scheduled to be conducted during the summer of 1987 shall consist of evaluation of four candidate systems. Tracking and firing evaluation will be made against fixed target and aerial drone aircraft. Firings will be limited to about 40 rounds of inert munitions. Placement and use of range instrumentation equipment (telescope, telemetry radar, etc.) will be required. Countermeasures equipment (jamming, chaff, etc.) will be used.

PURPOSE OF THE ACTION: The purpose of the test and evaluation programs is to determine the effectiveness of the FAAD system to defend against attack helicopters, high performance fixed wing aircraft, and various ground weapons systems during combat situations. The results of the program will facilitate the determination of the need for subsequent funding for further research and development of the FAAD system.

ALTERNATIVES CONSIDERED: Alternative locations were considered during the preparation of the EA, as well as the no action alternative. These are described below.

1. Location: Several Army installations were evaluated as potential sites of the programs. Evaluation criteria included drone control, tactical employability, and background terrain. WSMR ranked first among all installations for the sum of these criteria. Other sites on WSMR were also evaluated. One of the primary reasons for selecting the Oscura areas as the FAAD test site was the vegetative clutter background provided by the Oscura Mountains. As such, every effort must be made to maintain this background throughout each engagement.

2. Schedule: Numerous schedules were considered; however, the proposed schedule is the only one which coincides with both the production phase of the FAAD system and the available schedules at other installations.

3. No Action: The no action alternative would preclude all impacts. However, the project's purpose and need would not be satisfied. This alternative is still viable.

ENVIRONMENTAL CONSEQUENCES: Potential environmental consequences are briefly discussed, by category, in the following paragraphs.

1. Water Quality and Supply: Water supplies will be trucked into Oscura Range Center. Due to the short time frame and limited personnel, no significant impacts to the area's ground water supply is expected. Portable latrines and solid waste dumpsters will be maintained by an approved and licensed contractor(s). No significant impacts to the area's water quality would be anticipated.

2. Geology and Soils: Construction activities would disturb soils at tracking, maintenance, and firing sites and tank trails. These sites will be revegetated at the conclusion of the program to avoid excessive erosion and runoff rates. Offroad activities will primarily include drone recovery and fire suppression teams; these activities will be localized and should not result in significant impacts to the area's geological or soil formations.

3. Air Quality: Air pollutants expected to be produced include suspended particulates (i.e., dust), carbon monoxide, hydrocarbons and nitrogen oxides. These emissions are not expected to cause significant adverse effects due to the relatively small amounts of emissions, the limited time frame, the remoteness of the project area, and the prevailing winds which will allow for rapid dispersal.

4. Ecological Resources: Vegetative communities will be altered or destroyed as a result of construction activities, offroad vehicle traffic, and fires. Tank trails and construction activities will destroy several acres. No fish populations occur in the project area. Wildlife populations would be adversely affected by increased noise levels which may disrupt breeding and courtship rituals of birds which may be in the area. Laser targeting systems on the FAAD may be hazardous to wildlife. No significant impacts will occur to Federally listed endangered and threatened species. Swainson's hawk, a New Mexico protected species, may nest in the area.

5. Cultural Resources: An intensive cultural resource inventory of potential impact areas of the proposed Forward Area Air Defense (FAAD) project area is being conducted. Location of cultural resources has been made and steps will be taken to avoid and protect sites, including monitoring of project operations.

Twenty nine archeological sites and 280 isolated occurrences have been located to date. Six sites have been found in the 6 one-by-one-km blocks and Pivot Site, 11 sites at Oscura Range Center, and 12 sites on surveyed road rights-of-way. Site density equals approximately 1 site for every 100 acres surveyed.

Site types include prehistoric lithic scatters, prehistoric ceramic scatters, and historic sites. All of the open prehistoric sites are nonstructural artifact scatters. Additionally, one rock shelter with pictographs was found. Historic sites include both structural and nonstructural sites.

If any cultural resources are discovered during field activities, the area should be avoided and the WSMR ENRO contacted immediately.

6. Socioeconomic Resources: Slight beneficial economic impacts are expected to occur due to lodging and per diem allowances that will be expended at private hotels/motels and restaurants in the area. Other expenditures, such as solid waste contractors, will also result in slight short-term benefits. A portion of WSMR's special oryx and mule deer hunt areas may be lost because of ongoing FAAD tests. No other recreational facilities or activities would be affected.

CONCLUSION: The aforementioned analyses demonstrates the conclusion of the Environmental Assessment (EA) that the proposed action would not cause significant impact upon the area's environment. Accordingly, the US Army White Sands Missile Range has determined that an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) pursuant to the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL-91-190) is not required. All interested agencies, groups, and persons not in agreement with this decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration of the Commander, White Sands Missile Range 15 days of this notice. The proposed action will not be implemented prior to the expiration of the specified comment period. A copy of the Environmental Assessment will be available for study at Building 1740, White Sands Missile Range (Phone (505) 678-2224). Address all correspondence in reference to this notice to: Commanding General US Army White Sands Missile Range ATTN: STEWS-IS/ Colonel Milton L. Howell Jr. White Sands Missile Range, NM 88002
