Man killed in one-car accident

Robert M. Vega, 34, Santa Fe, was killed last night in a one-car accident north of Corona early Wednesday morning. Vega, whose mother is Della Vega of Capitan, was pronounced dead at the scene by Wayne Granger, medical investigator at Estancia, at 12:20 a.m.

According to New Mexico State Police reports, Vega was traveling north on Highway 54 at a high rate of speed. The car swerved into the southbound lane, over-corrected, swerved back to the northbound lane, and began rolling over. The vehicle was airborne twice, rolling over several times at each impact. Vega, who was alone in the vehicle, was ejected 42 feet north of the car's final impact.

The body was taken to Harris-Hanlon Mortuary in Mountainair.

Paving bids to be opened on July 28

Joe Shain, Pajo Technical Services engineer, announced that bids for the Carrizozo street paving project would be opened at the July 28 meeting of the Carrizozo town council.

Shain said five sets of bid specifications had been requested by prospective bidders. After the bids are opened, they will be reviewed by Pajo engineers for the project, and Santa Fe before an order to proceed with construction can begin.

Shain said the three miles of paving that will be done in the town should be completed according to schedule and he is hoping for completion in October.

The street paving project will be paid for with funds the town will receive from the Community Development Block Grant. The Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District (SENMEDDD) in Roswell is administrator for the project and will administer all funds and be in charge of the paperwork involved.

New students should bring immunization records and birth certificate. For information call 849-1911.

Carrizozo hires new teachers; approves school year calendar

By RUTH HAMMOND

The Carrizozo Board of Education presented a plaque to Sam Roper at the July 21 meeting for "sincere appreciation for 20 years of faithful service as a school bus driver."

Roper retired as bus driver on July 1. His wife Lois will take over the Ancho route that Sam had been driving. Lois had formerly been driving the Oscuro route.

In other business, school superintendent Dan Burnett reported he would participate in a study on consolidation of small school districts that is being conducted by the state.

Burnett will attend a meeting in Albuquerque July 28-31 to "gather as much information" as he can and report back to the board.

He disagreed that the state could save $50 million by consolidating small school districts and said he plans to "stay on top of the study."

The school year calendar was approved by the board. School will start Aug. 19 for students, Aug. 17 for teachers' workdays and Aug. 14 will be a workshop for substitute teachers.

There will be no school on Sept. 7, Oct. 12, Nov. 26-27, Dec. 21 through Jan. 1, Feb. 29 through March 4 and April 4. Baccalaureate will be May 18 and graduation will be May 20. The last day of school will be May 24.

Resignations were accepted from Glenda Moore and Joan Weaver.

Four new teachers were employed: Jerry Rice for special education, art, and special education coordinator; Patricia Coulter for special education, art and diagnostician; James Gattis for band and music; and Mercedes Zamora, Epperson for the Chapter One Program.

Mary McGlass, former Chapter One Program teacher, was transferred to the first grade teaching position.

The board approved a supplemental contract document presented by Burnett. The supplemental contract lists the minimum expected of sponsors, coaches, coordinators, etc., the dates for the supplemental duties and amount to be paid for the supplemental work.

The contract calls for the instructor to insure that equipment and supplies are turned in at the conclusion of the activity and to submit a written report detailing location of all equipment and supplies at the conclusion of the activity.

Instructors are also to submit an activity report to include a roster of students participating, students completing the activity or season, awards, win/loss records if an athletic event and problems or concerns.

The increment schedule for coaches, sponsors, coordinators and the diagnostician was approved.

Burnett discussed with the board the scheduling of students, the seven-period day and remediation and make-up programs. He said the seven-period day will enable the school to offer more to students and he hopes the school can offer more electives.

Study halls will probably be eliminated and the new schedule will be more demanding for students. Remedial classes will be offered in social studies, math, science and English.

Burnett reported that the block fence on the north side of the football field was to be repaired soon. He plans to do preventive work by installing a drop inlet to run the water out of that area and said it would "eliminate most of the problem."

Burnett said the new gym was re-keyed and the old gym would be re-keyed next week. He explained a master lock system that could be installed that would help with problems of keys to the various buildings. He said the only drawback was that the master lock system is expensive to install, estimated to be $11,000 to $15,000 for the entire system.

The salary schedule for certified and non-certified staff was approved. Burnett said Carrizozo school employees are compensated fairly for their work.

The board approved Burnett's request to increase hours and days for the clerical staff. Barbie Roper had conducted an inventory of all supplies and materials last week and will be needed in the administration office from July 27 through Aug. 7.

New procedures will be started on ordering supplies and a checkout sheet will be used to determine who takes what.

The board approved the deletion of items from inventory and a sale of surplus items will be scheduled.

Burnett and the board discussed the status of school bus routes. Suggestions were made to alleviate the problem of the Ancho students being on the school bus a hour and a half twice a day. Burnett will continue to work on improving the situation.

SAM ROPER (right) received a plaque from the Carrizozo Board of Education on July 21 as a "token of sincere appreciation for 20 years of faithful service as a school bus driver." Board president Wally Ferguson (left) made the presentation. Roper resigned on July 1.

Carrizozo to participate in Constitution's 200th

Carrizozo will be among New Mexico communities that will participate in a "We the People Picnic" on Sept. 19 to celebrate recognizing the United States Constitution's 200th anniversary.

Glen Ellison will be in charge of the local event at the request of Carrizozo Mayor Bob Hemphill. All persons interested in the 200th anniversary of the United States Constitution and the 75th anniversary of the statehood of New Mexico are encouraged to participate.

"Since Carrizozo is the hometown of the state's first elected governor," Ellison said, "We feel we have a chance for special state-wide recognition."

The "We the People Picnic" was endorsed by the New Mexico Diamond Jubilee/US Constitution Bicentennial Commission at its June 10 meeting.

The celebration in New Mexico will be held Sept. 19 because Sept. 17 is the 200th anniversary of the date the delegates to the Constitutional Convention in Philadelphia signed the United States Constitution.

According to the New Mexico Bicentennial/Diamond Jubilee Commission, the celebrations can be as elaborate or as simple as each participating community desires. The state endorsement was made to encourage participation in an event every citizen can enjoy.

"At this point, we are waiting for word from Gov. Garrey Carruthers as to whether he can attend the Carrizozo celebration," Ellison told the News.

Corona Festival set for Aug. 8

Corona Summer Festival is just around the corner, and area organizations and individuals are gearing up for the annual event.

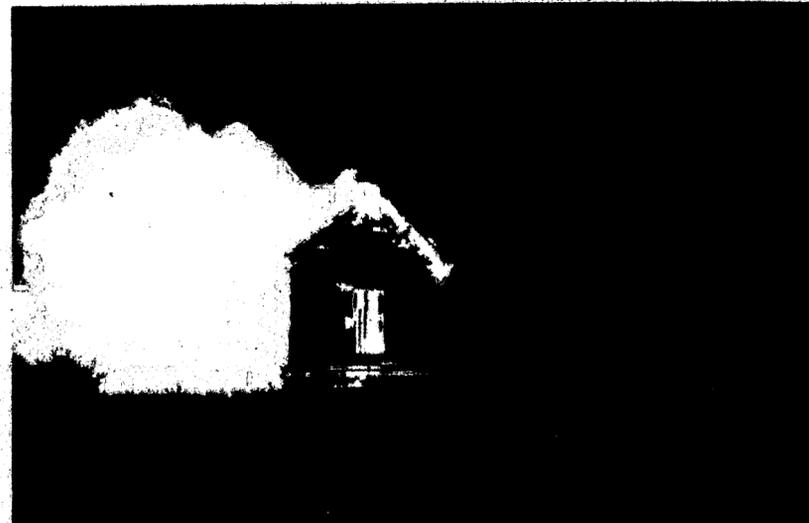

Scheduled for the second weekend in August, activities will get underway on Saturday, Aug. 8 with booths opening at 8 a.m. and the parade at 11.

4-H will sponsor its annual horse show at 8 a.m. (for Lincoln County kids only) and will host the fried chicken dinner at 11:30 a.m. in the school cafeteria. Cost for the plateful will be $3 for adults and $2 for children. The rodeo and playday for all youths 19 and under will begin at 1 p.m. at the Corona Arena.

A variety of booths will feature hand tooled leather goods, crocheted items, stuffed animals and sun bonnets. Food booths will include baked goods, rolled tacos, and snow cones.

Shriners and their little motorcycles from Alamogordo will be among parade entrants; Corona FFA, American Legion Auxiliary and the Senior Citizens will enter floats. A variety of categories allows everyone to participate in the parade, and it's not too late to enter—Aug. 3 is the deadline.

Class and family reunions will again be part of the program.

FLAMES LIT UP the area Saturday night when this abandoned building on E Avenue in Carrizozo burned. While Carrizozo firemen were working on this fire, another fire call came in about an abandoned car near the railroad tracks. Causes of both fires are under investigation.

Apodaca is still in jail

It was previously reported last week that Baldemar Apodaca, 18, who was arrested July 11 on several charges, had been released on $10,000 bail, no 10 percent, by Municipal Judge Gerald Dean Jr. of Carrizozo.

In fact, Apodaca remains in jail in lieu of $10,000 bond. Judge Dean says it is important for senior citizens to know the man is in jail because Apodaca posted $25,000 bail several weeks before his latest arrest for assaulting J.C. Thornton at his home in Carrizozo.

"I was not informed that Apodaca had been released for the assault upon a 'senior citizen,'" Judge Dean explained, "but I think senior citizens would feel better if they knew the man is in jail and thus not free to assault anyone else at this time."

Robert Dutchover Jr., 39, San Patricio, was arrested July 20 on charges of DWI second offense, driving on a revoked license and careless driving. Judge Wheeler sentenced the man to two days in jail.

Also on July 20, Frank Martinez, 34, a Sierra Blanca inmate, was jailed for a camp infraction. He was released the same day to Sierra Blanca authorities.

Robby Joe Rainey, 40, Ruidoso Downs, was arrested July 18 for assault and violation of probation. He was sentenced to 180 days in jail.

New Mexico State Police are investigating an incident where five Southern Pacific employees were found in possession of a stolen vehicle Monday night.

Promoting county economy is aim of new corporation

Approximately 150 Lincoln County business men and women met at Cree Meadows Country Club last Thursday night to hear Dr. David Henkel, director of Economic Development for New Mexico, tell them why they need an Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County.

Henkel warned against becoming too dependent on any one source of income, such as tourism. Instead, he said, "you must diversify."

The state's goal, he explained, is to sell New Mexico as a product. "But when you want to sell a product, it's important to know what that product is," he said.

He suggested that Lincoln County prepare a list of everything it has to offer. Once everyone agrees on what the county has to sell, it will be easier to sell, and to the kind of people the county would welcome.

A countywide corporation makes sense, he said. "You have different economic regions and different local directions."

Henkel said his office (ECD) helps reconcile the total state facilities and tries to improve the business structure of the state. "It is necessary to know just what kind of businesses you are trying to attract—not just any kind of business."

More than 30 members joined the corporation by donating $200, tax-deductible, to become voting members. The corporation hopes to raise $50,000 before it elects its board of directors for the Lincoln County group.

Don Shaw has worked on the corporation plan for the last year. He hopes it will benefit the entire county by attracting businesses that contribute to a broad economic base. "We must do something more than just attract tourists," he said.

The reception was chaired by Buddy Bundick, who introduced Dr. Henkel.

Anyone wishing to join the Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County should contact one of these three people: Buddy Bundick, 258-5511; Ronnie Paulger, 257-4033; or Don Shaw, 258-5479.

MAN'S CREATIVE SPIRIT
Last Saturday I finally got an opportunity to stop at Carrizo Lodge, listed on the National Register of Historic places. The lodge, located 3 miles from Ruidoso, is a year-round resort and art school adjacent to the Mescalero Apache Indian Reservation.

The Plaza Building which spans Carrizo Creek includes the Canyon Art Gallery, featuring the art and craft items of Carrizo's instructors and other artists.

The original lodge, completed in 1927, was of Southwestern architecture and built by New Mexico Military Institute's Athletic Department as a summer camp facility for their students.

Annie Coe Titsworth bought the property from NMMI in 1943. Annie, who was raised on the Coe Ranch in the Hondo Valley, was born in 1885 to Frank and Helena Coe.

Under Titsworth's ownership, the property was undisturbed. It was tended by a frontiersman who lived off the wild turkey and trout on the land.

In 1952 new owners Herb and Pauline Greggorson made several attempts at business ventures: summer theater, girl's and boy's camps, a baton twirling school and square dancing.

Artist Frederic Taubes

began a tradition with his first art class in 1966. It was the Greggorsons who persuaded Taubes to instruct the first art school at Carrizo. In the next 20 years the Greggorsons included other nationally acclaimed artists who have since continued to provide workshops in almost every area of the arts and crafts fields.

GROUP OF TEXANS

March 1961 a group of Texas investors purchased the Carrizo property, restoring and adding construction that provide the facilities that exist today. The buildings' exteriors were matched to the Southwestern architecture of the original lodge to maintain the appearance of the structure and to preserve the historic look of the property.

Lodging for art students and nonstudents include modern rooms, condominiums and apartments. A convenience store, fitness center and video arcade are a part of the accommodations.

Of interest to art students are eight studios. The surrounding grounds provide picturesque places to sit and sketch. The areas surrounding present forests, lakes, mountains and streams to inspire the landscape painter.

The original lodge has been constructed into a restaurant serving Mexican specialties. A bar and lounge is available for art students and other guests.

The 1967 Spring/Summer art workshop schedule started in March and continues until August. Workshops have included alabaster sculpture, Sumi-e (oriental brush), papermaking and east paper sculpture and lessons in creative writing.

Gwyneth Jones, who was often seen around Carrizo because she was a reporter for Ruidoso News, was a March instructor at Carrizo Lodge. Contemporary twined baskets as taught by Jones (or Gwyneth as I knew her) uses primitive techniques to explore new design possibilities. Her baskets are exhibited in galleries and private collections in Texas and New Mexico.

While visiting Carrizo Lodge I noticed that El Paso and Alamogordo have a shuttle service. How nice for residents of those cities!

MOST VALUABLE PLAYER
Tony Moore, grandson of Mrs. Agnes Hein of Carrizozo, has been selected to play in the Little League state all-star baseball tournament in late July in Roswell. Tony will be playing for the Pecos Valley All-Star Team. His valley team, the Hagerman Pirates, won the Pecos Valley Championship and he was awarded the 'Most Valuable Player' award for his team.

They will be in the 5th grade at Hagerman Middle School and is son of Joe and June Moore of Hagerman and grandson of Mrs. Mildred Moore of Florence, AL. All are former Carrizozo residents.

DID YOU KNOW?
Did you know that former Lincoln County home economist Mary Ellen Payne joined the Union County Cooperative Extension Service as home economist on July 17? I didn't until I read the Union County Leader, a weekly newspaper of that area.

A native of Missouri, Payne (or Mary Ellen as I knew her) has been involved in cooperative extension work in New Mexico since 1965, including 15 years of service as home agent with the Lincoln County Extension office in Carrizozo. She was also state coordinator for the Family Community Leadership Program headquartered at NMSU at Las Cruces.

The pilot project was designed to teach, women especially, public presentation skills so they could effectively meet with policy makers, such as school boards or the national congress and become involved in public policy and the political process.

Kathy Williams is EMT of the month

By DOROTHY GUCK

A course in basic training for EMTs will be started in Carrizozo, Aug. 11, at 6 p.m. at the school.

Personnel who deal with public services, physical activities, or are in isolated living areas should be especially concerned in learning these basic life-saving skills. If anyone would like more information on the course, contact Nancy J. Guck, EMS director at the courthouse. Her phone there is 648-2385. At home, it is 254-2741.

In Lincoln County, the course will have two qualified instructors, Devil Bill Adams and Kathy Williams. They received their training and were certified by the Emergency Division of the University of New Mexico.

Kathy Williams, who has long been an EMT, has been chosen by her co-workers as the EMT of Lincoln County for July.

Kathy Brodie Williams was born and raised in Douglas, AZ where her father worked for Phelps Dodge. At the age of 18, she married Robert Williams, a Navy man. Their first station after marriage, was in Mobile, AL. In 1956, Robert went to work for El Paso Natural Gas. They were placed in El Paso, and various parts of New Mexico, staying the longest in Thoreau until going to Lincoln Station, 12 miles south of Corona, in 1968.

"While our three children were small," Kathy said, "I was mainly a housewife, although I served as a teacher's aide and librarian's aide in Thoreau and Corona. Small communities often find it necessary to seek substitute educational help among people who can qualify for a short term teaching job."

In 1977, Byron Yancey begged and threatened Kathy, among others, to sign up for the EMT basic course. If Corona could recruit 20 persons to take the training, they would qualify for an ambulance to be stationed there. Byron was adamant that Corona should have that ambulance.

"For some of us," Kathy said, "Byron's tactics of persuasion were the best thing that ever happened to us. His enthusiasm in having us learn the emergency technical skills, soon permeated our own spirits."

Several of the 20 who took the training were moved or for other reasons were not available for continued service. "I was one of those always available," Kathy said. "All it took was a phone call and I'd make it to Corona in less time than I care to admit."

"My introduction to EMT work after certification was with the worst possible accident that could have happened.

A woman was thrown from an 18-wheeler truck onto the highway, then run over by the wheels. We had been trained to efficiently handle the various single injuries we might encounter. But never in my wildest nightmares did I expect to be faced with such a multitude of fractures, abrasions, cuts, and contusions as that woman had. She had been bodily crushed. But she still lived! We had to sustain that life! My nervous qualms when first viewing her, were quickly forgotten with the need to act with the skills I had learned.

"After it was over, I silently repeated to myself, 'I did it. I can always do it. I've passed my test. I'll never forget my learning. I'm confident now that I can help the sick and injured people who need me.'"

"Of course I wasn't an expert all at once. I was too slow at times, or made simple minor mistakes such as using too large a bandage on a cut. We are all faulty at the beginning, but never for more than an oversized bandage, and never make the same error twice. It takes confidence which strengthens with experience, and team member support to work at our best."

The Williams children are grown and married. Colleen is Mrs. Rick Thomas of Newark, OH. She and husband have two sons. Susan is Mrs. Mike Frazier. She and husband live in Albuquerque. Son Scott, with wife Patty, a son and daughter, live at Continental Divide where he works for El Paso Natural Gas.

From 1979 through 1984, Kathy volunteered one day a week in the Corona Clinic. In 1981, she worked part time as medical assistant in the clinic at Carrizozo. In 1984, she started working full time there, and still does, with Rosemary Zink, Mike Lafayette and Mary Hernandez. In 1984 she and Robert bought a home in Nogal, still keeping their house at Lincoln Station for as long as Robert works there.

During 1981, Kathy secured IV technical training; in 1984, she took CPR instructor course; and July of 1987 she obtained her Instructor Coordinator Course in very intensive studies at the University of New Mexico Emergency Division. She will need to put in 150 hours of teaching every two years. Kathy was thoroughly tested at the university for her knowledge of medical techniques and her ability to convey that knowledge to students. In her teaching sessions, she will be periodically monitored by the university instructors.

Besides her work as an instructor, she is on EMT calls for ambulance and first response from Carrizozo and Nogal. Then too, she responds to Captain calls if the need arises. In fact, the number of ambulance and first response calls over the past 10 years, are too numerous to cite.

EMTs are taught to always observe the rules of personal safety in their work. They wear practical rubber-soled shoes for possible climbing in rough terrain to rescue victims; caution in securing pertinent information as to the location of an accident and the quickest means of getting there; try to wear working clothes; and wear their identifiable jackets.

Kathy sought greater use of her capabilities after her children were grown. From the position of housewife, she has developed a career in professional expertise for the EMS that is outstanding in Lincoln County. She has held several offices in the Lincoln County EMT Association, and remains active in the association.

She has the reputation of always being calm and controlled in all circumstances. "That isn't the way the butterflies flit around inside me at times," she said, "but through experience, I've learned to blank my mind to all emotions, and only recall the exact steps and procedures to be taken. I am totally absorbed in the patient's immediate care, to the exclusion of all other distractions."

Her co-workers consider her wonderful sense of humor one of her greatest attributes. But she is mighty serious when she says, "Not all people can handle EMT work, but everyone who is able, should have the basic training for the welfare of their own families and friends. They may not realize until they do so, that they can be of service to others too."

KATHY WILLIAMS

Artifacts uncovered at McSween Site Dig

Archaeological excavations are continuing at the Alexander McSween house site in Lincoln. The McSween house was burned down 109 years ago on July 19, 1878 at the end of a five-day gun battle between the Dolan-Riley and Tunstall-McSween supporters.

Archaeologist from Human Systems Research, Inc. are excavating in the vicinity of the west wing of the McSween house. They are hoping to find remains of exterior and interior walls. The archaeologist have found pieces of burned adobe bricks and wood, including milled lumber, possibly from furniture, flooring or trim for doors and windows.

Recently recovered artifacts include an 1868 shield nickel, several types of glass beads, fragments of glass from window panes and bottles, charred cloth, and several exploded cartridges. The beads may have been on parlor lamps, necklaces, purses, or articles of clothing. Metal artifacts include nails, a drawer pull, fragments of hinges, and numerous unidentifiable metal fragments. Charred coffee beans and peppercorns have been found as well as animal bone from cattle and possibly deer, sheep or goats. Numerous pieces of egg shell have also been found in the screens.

The public is invited to tour the site and to observe and talk with the archaeologist. The site is open Thursday through Monday between 8 a.m. and noon and 1 and 5 p.m. The excavations will continue through Aug. 10.

The McSween Archaeological Project is sponsored by the Lincoln County Heritage Trust and New Mexico State Monuments.

● Congratulations to that great peace-loving, caring and sharing organization, the United Nations. One of its great contributions to mankind was in designating 1986 the Year of Peace. It was during the 1986 Year of Peace that five million people died in 86 armed conflicts around the world.

● More great peace news! South African Archbishop Desmond Tutu, a Nobel Peace Prize winner, urged black youths in 1983 to burn down their schools "and to study abroad in communist countries." This testimony was given before the Republican Study Committee hearings by Salamimah Borephe, a former African National Congress (ANC) organizer who participated in ANC violence. She also testified in this Washington hearing that Tutu attended a church meeting in 1983 at which Russian AK-47 rifles were distributed to youths 12 to 18 years old to carry out the revolution against the white-led government of South Africa. According to her testimony, Anglican ministers taught youths to make gasoline bombs and to use machine guns. She quoted one Anglican minister as saying the guns were to kill white people, "but we never killed white people, only blacks," she said. The media was predictably silent on this testimony—no newspaper articles, no TV cameras. So the US continues to help the ANC destroy a valuable friend, South Africa, by continuing sanctions against that country. And, if there is any substance to Christianity, Tutu and his fellow Anglican ministers have reserved seats in hell.

● Closer to home, Gov. Garrey Carruthers recently gave a rousing sendoff to 12 New Mexico high school students who will join students from other states in a 21-day program of "education" and "cultural activities" in the Soviet Union. I understand the program is sponsored by the Initiative for Understanding/American Soviet Youth Exchange. This organization is new to me. It would be interesting to know who founded it and who finances it, and learn what possible advantage the US can gain by a 21-day tour of the Soviet Union by high school students. Peaceniks want us to believe that the Soviets are just like the American people. Fine. But the Soviet people have no impact on the Soviet government; American citizens do have an impact on American government. So the Russians gain here because our youth come back sympathetic to the Soviet people and elect officials who support Soviet peace proposals. The Russian students return home, but whatever their impressions of America, they are lost upon the communist dictatorship. Their views do not matter. Ergo, it pays the Soviets and their satraps in the US to finance such "educational" exchanges of youth.

● I am bored with all this genuflection toward the noble ideal of peace. There has never been a genuine peace. You might like to recall what happened to the original Prince of Peace, and to those who followed Him. What we call peace is an interim period between war which gives nations time to recover, produce more soldiers and generate wealth to wage war. War began with the first two people on earth (remember who killed Abel) has continued unabated despite noble rhetoric on the virtues of peace. War is a reality; peace is a dream. Peace is what results from war.

● There never has been and never will be an institution that can insure peace, as witness the League of Nations and its contemptible successor, the United Nations. George Washington believed that the most effective means of preserving peace is to prepare for war. Few nations challenge the militarily strong. Strength, not recourse to idealistic claptrap about peace, is the most persuasive argument against attack. Nobody seems to care what George Washington believed.

● For 45 years an uneasy peace has been achieved among world powers only because of the threat of nuclear retaliation. Nations without nuclear arms keep on waging war. Love, humanity, negotiation and compassion are useless against an enemy. People who cherish freedom have always been prepared to die in war to achieve or preserve that freedom. Less nobly, they will also fight and die over such things as religious differences, a chunk of land or a mere insult. People just naturally fight, with or without reason. Argument for peace are better conducted with sword in hand.

● God tried to settle the war and peace issue in 700 B.C. when He spoke in Micah 1, 3: "They shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks: nation shall not lift up a sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." If God can't keep us from killing each other off, what can we expect from our current cast of impotent peacekeepers? Let's fold the peace banners, tone down the speeches, and get on with the business of making ourselves so powerful our enemies will hold still.

● Show me an organization that incorporated the word "peace" in its name and I'll show you an outfit whose aim is either (a) war, or (b) peace by capitulation to the enemy. Examples: United States Academy of Peace, World Peace Council, Women's League for International Peace and Freedom, Women Strike for Peace, People for Peace, U.S. Peace Council, Christian Peace Conference, et al, not nauseum. Some of these worthies advocate outright war against "US capitalism and imperialism." Most advocate surrender to Soviet demands as an alternative to war.

● This is degrading to the point where peace is synonymous with cowardliness and the showing of the "white feather." History, which so many ignore, well describes the fate of those who succumb to demagogues of peace. They opt for mutilation or slavery as more virtuous than fighting for life and freedom.

● Well, bully for peace. But let old Samuel Johnson have the last word for it: "It is national cowardice that keeps us in peace. Were one half of mankind and one half towards the brave would be always looking the other way. Were all brave we would lead a better world. Were all weakly between us fighting, but being all cowards, we go on very well."

Webb deplores State Department's suicidal 'rules of engagement'

NEWPORT, RI — When our new Secretary of the Navy James Webb, a highly decorated Marine veteran of Vietnam, addressed the Current Strategy Forum on June 16 at the US Navy Base here, he made statements which surely should have been reported nationally, such as: "When we were operating in Beirut, the rules of engagement (ROE) that the Marines had were so narrow that an individual had to identify the person who was firing at him, gain the permission of an officer to fire back, fire back with a like weapon, rifle versus rifle, only at the individual who was firing at them, and if the individual who was firing at them ceased fire, the Marine had to cease fire.

"I was with Outfit 18 one day and watched this drill work. They had three guys shooting at them from the third story of the building outside their perimeter. They were firing back, specifically with small arms (ROE requirement). The people who were firing at them would stop; they had to stop.

"These three guys went to sling arms and walked across the street, right in front of us. I was standing with the Company Commander, and I said: 'Shoot 'em.'

"And he said, 'Oh, we can't.'

"I said: 'We can, and we'll explain later.'

"Anyway, these guys went back up to the third story again and started shooting again.

"By contrast, the Israelis went in; they set up a perimeter defense; if they took any incoming fire, they went into a 360-degree 'mad moment'; they'd flatten the place. You can criticize them for it; you could see where the Israelis were set up all through Beirut. But people got the message.

"The decision point is whether you're going to introduce military force. Beyond that, you have to back up your commander in the field."

During the question-and-answer session, Secretary Webb was asked:

"Why did it take the Stark tragedy for us to explain our ROE to the combatants out there and also to our own skippers? It seems to me that the skippers of the Middle East Force, not only on the Stark, were in a no-win situation..."

Secretary Webb's reply included the following:

"The problem really is more complex in these environments than the rules of engagement, and I think most people here understand that. There is a second problem, and that is the 'Think twice' syndrome: — 'What if I blow this guy away?' "First of all, that is an historic American mind-set.

Don't forget that 12 hours after Pearl Harbor, we almost lost an entire Army Air Force on the ground in the Philippines, because the guys sitting in Washington didn't want to believe they were at war, and the Japanese blew them away. There is a tendency in the United States to give the other guy a break, and the second problem, particularly over the last 20 years, which goes to accountability in a political environment, the possibility that you're going to create an international incident, etc.

"It's that second attitude I have tried very hard over the last month or so to reinforce to the people in uniform, and I think that the president started it when he made his statement. Nobody who makes a considered judgment and shoots down the wrong person is going to have a problem when his case reaches my desk.

"The other thing is to clearly tell this country that if we put our military people into that environment, they are going to have a military mission. Don't be surprised if they have to execute that mission, and if they execute that mission, then they should do it in a way that clearly responds to the Iranian threat."

That our fighting men today have such an outrageous burden put on them by the Department of State is something of a timeless problem. For Secretary Webb noted in his opening speech:

"The Duke of Wellington, while fighting the French in 1812, wrote the following to British Foreign Office in London:

Gentlemen: While marching from Portugal to a position which commands the approach to Madrid and the French forces, my officers have been diligently complying with your requests, which have been sent by His Majesty's ship from London to Lisbon and thence by dispatch rider to our headquarters. We have enumerated our saddles, bridles, tents and poles, and all manner of sundry items for which His Majesty's government holds me accountable. I have dispatched reports on the character, wit and spleen of every officer. Each item and every farthing has been accounted for, with two regrettable exceptions for which I beg your indulgence.

Unfortunately, the sum of one shilling and nine pence remains unaccounted for in one infantry battalion's petty cash, and there has been a hideous confusion as to the number of jars of raspberry jam issued to one cavalry regiment during a sandstorm in Western Spain.

This reprehensible carelessness must be related to the pressure of circumstances, since we are war with France, a fact which may come as a bit of a surprise to you gentlemen in Whitehall. This brings me to my present purpose, which is to request elucidation of my instructions from His Majesty's government, so that I may better understand why I am dragging an army over these barren plains. I construe that perforce it must be one of two alternative duties, as given below. I shall pursue either one with the best of my ability, but I cannot do both:

(1) To train an Army of uniformed British clerks in Spain for the benefit of accountants and copy-boys in London, or perchance (2) To see to it that the forces of Napoleon are driven out of Spain.

When 241 Marines, who were following State Department rules of engagement, were blown up in Beirut, President Reagan gallantly took the blame — even though the fault was not his. It was the State Department's.

At the very least, Commander-in-Chief Reagan should insist that the State Department have nothing more to do with our armed forces — lest their lethally stupid rules of engagement result in the killing of more American boys.

Inside the Capitol

By Jay Miller

SANTA FE—What was accomplished by the superconducting super collider special session?

The legislature budgeted $190,000 for the two-day session. It appears that most of that will be used because a Senate Finance Committee amendment designated any unused money budgeted for session expenses would be used for PCB abatement. Paula Tackett, Legislative Council Service acting director, estimates this to be around $25,000. Legislators evidently don't want to be contaminated when they come to the capital city.

MONEY: The stated purpose of the session was to authorize issuance of severance tax bonds not to exceed $11 million for the purchase of the land necessary for the project if New Mexico becomes a finalist in the competition to attract the $4 billion prize. That purpose was accomplished in fairly short order.

If the senate leadership had been able to organize its troops as effectively as House Speaker Ray Sanchez and Republican Floor Leader Dick Knowles the session would have been completed in a few hours. The senate chose to go into committee hearings and fight it out on all legislation introduced. Although this lengthened the session and cost taxpayers another day's per diem for the 112 legislators, it did help cast a bit more light on the pros and cons of the issue facing the session.

If New Mexico succeeds in attracting the super collider project the $120,000 special session cost will have been a good investment. The committee headed by New Mexico Tech president Laurence Latman to develop the state's proposal has spent $700,000 compiling its massive report. It's a gamble but it is exactly the type of industry we want to attract. MEDIA: You will recall that the governor and legislature had a disagreement over whether it was necessary to have legislative authorization to donate the land for the project or whether a letter of commitment from the governor and legislative leadership would suffice. Inside sources tell me that the primary reason for going ahead with the session was to enhance New Mexico's position in the bidding war by attracting national media coverage of our state legislature's unanimous commitment to bring the project to New Mexico.

That effort was a bust. For a while it appeared NBC might be interested in the story since their writers were talking strike and network execs were desperate for material. Unfortunately, New Mexico staged another event which was of much more interest to the media. Our state received a lot of national attention that weekend but it was all on the prison break.

MARKETING: Even if New Mexico eventually loses to one of the 40 other sites competing for the super collider the special session may have caused state officials to take their first serious look at what factors are most important in attracting clean industry to our state. What strengths should our economic development folks be promoting when they are marketing New Mexico.

The decision reached by our state and congressional leaders was contained in the special session's two other pieces of legislation. One expressed the state's commitment to strengthening its education system. The other extolled the state's infrastructure to support the project.

Ranchers compensated for Missile Range land

Peter Mocho, president of the New Mexico Cattle Growers' Association, has claimed partial victory for ranchers whose property was confiscated to form White Sands Missile Range.

The transfer of payment by the federal government for state land leases taken 40 years ago, represents settlement of litigation brought by the state in 1979.

By terms of a 1985 agreement, 15 percent of the settlement to the State of New Mexico, or $3,024,428—will go to compensate grazing lessees for the loss of value of their interests in the Trust Lands as a result of the federal government's taking of their ranches within the missile range. The 15 percent payment was approved by the claims court for the lessees, who had joined the State Land Office in an inverse condemnation suit against the federal government for the lost value of the land.

The principal amount was based on the value of the 270,000 acres of Trust Land as of July 1, 1976, which is the date the federal government formally took the property. In addition, attorneys for the ranchers received $62,105. Mocho said, "while the settlement is significant, it must be considered only partial payment. This settlement does not affect a separate action by grazing lessees in the claims court for the loss of federal grazing permits within the missile range. This separate action involves a congressional reference case."

Letters TO THE EDITOR

'God does not take sides'

EDITOR—During all those Iran-Contra hearings one of the most unusual revelations was provided by Sen. George Mitchell, D-Maine, who startled at least some of us when he informed the viewing audience, "God does not take sides in American politics." (Testimony, Mon., July 13)

Many Christians believe just the opposite. They would point out that our pledge of allegiance reminds us regularly that we are, "One Nation Under God." Our currency proclaims to all the world, "In God We Trust."

Now we are told by a United States senator that God does not take sides in American politics. We wonder where the senator gets his information.

If God truly does not take part in American politics, maybe that's where the trouble is. If God truly does not take part, maybe we should all pray that He intervene immediately. Heaven knows that the issues at hand are far too urgent to leave solely in the hands of a bunch of politicians.

'On My Own' By Pat Kite Down Memory Lane

One common divorce happening is you think you're rid of "that person" and instead you trip over memories every time you traipse around the house, apartment or teepee.

An equally common reaction to this is you're "going to move." In my case, the grand flight sojourn was going to be Houston, TX, sole rationale being my cousin Lea lived there and I would thus get "moral support." I actually went so far as to call Bekins for an estimate, which is one of the reasons I'm still here. Not that the estimate was unreasonable, given moving estimates, but given the junk I'd accumulated over 13 years of marriage, it was a lot of sentimental junk for a lot of sentimental dollars, and I decided to keep both.

I also decided that picking and packing up four kids, one of whom was an infant, and donating one more emotional trauma via the moving process, wasn't really fair play. But I still didn't like tripping over memories.

Anyway, I learned to cope by trial and error and I'd like to share learnings with you. (1) If you can afford it, get rid of the bed the twosome of you slept in. Flopping around solo in a double bed is not half so dismal as drowning "by yourself" in a king-size desert.

(2) If this isn't immediately possible, then at least get new sheets and pillowcases. Go to the thrift shops if necessary. For a couple of bucks more, pick up a new bedspread. You'll be amazed at how much better you'll feel.

(3) Rearrange the furniture, put ex-spouse's favorite chair so its back faces you, and try to change room color schemes. Go to garage sales and put a few new pictures on the wall. When the bedroom-living room-kitchen goes from maroon and black to red, yellow and purple paisley, it may give you a headache, but at least it won't be from "reminders."

(4) Even if you fought tooth and nail for the Limoge china and the Baccarat crystal, put it in someplace and acquire new daily eating ware. Plastic will do, as cheapo mix and match will do. Anything but being reminded, every time you chomp macaroni and cheese, that a spouse was once there chomping macaroni with you. You can take the old stuff out later, if you want, but wait for about two years before doing so.

(5) Either give your ex-spouse all his/her favorite books and records or donate them to charity. Subscribe to different magazines. Change newspapers. I even got a new phone number.

(6) And if you're still wearing the perfume or cologne that was your ex-spouse's favorite, why are you torturing yourself?

Sometimes a visit to Memory Alley can't be helped, but you don't have to make your stroll there any more hazardous than necessary while passing through.

School disciplinary policy pursued by Capitan board

By BART McDONOUGH

The Capitan Board of Education announced July 16 that there will be a series of three public meetings to discuss school disciplinary policy. These meetings are scheduled for 7 p.m. in the foyer by the school cafeteria.

The initial meeting will be Aug. 3. A draft of the policy will be made on Aug. 6. It is hoped that the policy will be finalized at the Aug. 10 meeting.

The board approved Clayton Allen as assistant football coach. He has coached in Roswell and Dexter. The board also approved Frankie Silva to be assistant volleyball coach. Superintendent Scott Childress announced that certain items were being deleted from the school inventory.

Crow Motors of Roswell has offered the use of an automobile for one year to be used for driver education.

In other business the board approved the 1986-87 (end of the year) budget. It also approved a new salary schedule with an $18,622 base. Non-certified personnel may receive a 3 percent pay raise if the school enrollment "stands up" after the first 40 days of school. A new RIF (reduction in force) policy was also approved.

It was learned that the sod on the new football field should be in place by the middle of August. A rolling gate will be used at the Hwy 380 entrance. A fence near the old elementary school building will help keep the crowd away from school buildings when the new football field and track are completed.

Weldon Denton informed the board that his yard had been torn up last winter when a school bus turned around in the snow. Denton asked to be re-imbursed for $147 spent to correct the situation. The board listened patiently and then informed Denton he would have to settle this matter with bus contractor Frank Silva. Silva later denied that one of his busses had caused the problem.

After taking just 75 minutes to complete its business, the board announced that its next meeting is scheduled for Aug. 13 at 7:30 p.m.

Anyone want an FM radio station in Alamogordo?

"The most historic FCC rule change in the past two decades has benefited Alamogordo, NM, according to Communications Specialist Jim Price of Chattanooga, TN. Alamogordo has been chosen by the FCC to receive a new FM radio frequency for which any citizen may apply. Price, with his company, Sterling Communications, Inc., has been successful in helping individuals all across the United States establish new broadcasting stations for their communities.

In an unprecedented proceeding known as "Docket 80-90," the FCC determined that its rules governing FM stations were too restrictive.

The proceeding designates Alamogordo as one of the communities to receive a new FM radio frequency providing that someone applies for it within the proper "Filing Window."

A "Filing Window" is a 30-day period of time in which interested persons may apply for the FM frequency. According to Price, the Alamogordo "Filing Window" closes Aug. 20, and this may be the last opportunity for a new FM station at Alamogordo.

More information may be obtained by contacting Sterling Communications, Inc., Chattanooga, TN, (615) 899-8393.

By Margaret Rench

Hot, dry and windy all of last week. A storm passed through one evening and left 1 inch blowing rain.

The Smokey Bear Museum had 3000 registered visitors to date this month. Last Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Lester Doyle of Hayden, CO were there. They reported that her mother (Ruth Thomas) is a good friend of Margaret Rench. They are the same age. (Yes, this friendship has been one of 55 years.)

Twenty-three members and friends of the Roundtable Club enjoyed a picnic at the Ft. Stanton picnic grounds in July. Alice Traylor was hostess. There was fried chicken, watermelon, other picnic goodies and "Mr. Traylor's cowboy coffee." The August meeting of the club will be at the country home of Marie Edgar.

At 2:30 a.m. this morning the fire alarm sounded. They were called to the subdivision west where the Allen Townley house was on fire. They were not home. The house was badly damaged.

The Capitan Chamber of Commerce is selling chances on a doll that was donated to them by Doreen Lykins. Watch for that.

Dr. Patricia Sullivan-Anderson, daughter of Maureen Sullivan and sister of Tom Sullivan, will be on CNN News next week. She will be interviewed by Gary Schwelster, host of the show "Your Health and Today in Medicine." Dr. Sullivan is clinical director of the center for Abused Handicapped Children at the Boys National Institute for Communication Disorders in Children. They have counseled over 250 handicapped children from 26 states.

Mr. and Mrs. Jace Anderson and eight-month-old granddaughter of Omaha, NB visited her mother, Maureen Sullivan, all of last week. Mr. Anderson is known as Dr. Patricia Sullivan, and she spent three days in Santa Fe where she made a presentation at the National Convention of School Superintendents.

Many will remember Jack Aldrich. Lois Aldrich received a card from her stepson Jack Aldrich in the foreign country. He and a friend are traveling there in. They visited Corregidor and Bataan where he and his brother were captured and were prisoners for three years during World War II. They were going to Bangkok and various places of interest.

Happy 40th wedding anniversary to Maxine and Howard Wright with many more, July 23. Happy birthdays and many more to Janet Keel, July 14; Hollis Cummins July 21, and Marilyn Leek July 21.

Donna Keel and three children of South Dakota are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Dock Keel.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert H. Sorrels of Tucson, AZ arrived the 17th and spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Sorrels of Capitan.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Payne and family attended the Leslie family reunion this last weekend at the old schoolhouse in White Oaks. Approximately 175 members of the Leslie family attended. There was lots of good food, barbecue, games and a dance on Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. King Francis of Colorado celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary July 16. They visited Maurice Francis here last week, and held their family reunion.

Thirty members of the Wright family gathered at Bonita Lake Camp last weekend for their family reunion, which Maxine and Howard Wright attended.

A large gathering of family of the Purcellas met at the Baca Camp for their reunion for several days the first part of July.

Mamie Stearson is visiting her daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy LaMay, Irene Watkins and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Anderson's granddaughter, Kim Bader, will be leaving for Brazil where she will spend five years serving as a Peace Volunteer. She will leave in August.

Lou Roberts attended the Sanders family reunion in Fortales last Wednesday where seven brothers and sisters and their families gathered. They came from New Mexico and other states. They reported a good time.

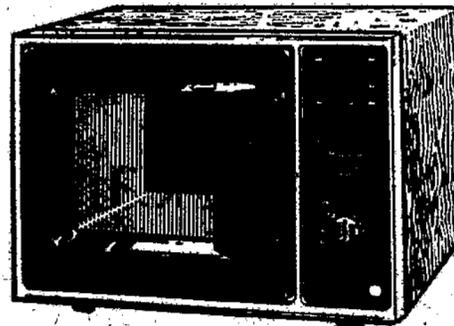

The Bonita Camp Meeting had a week on Nogal Mesa. It was successful as always with large happy crowds attending.

Cathleen Massey took ill over a week ago. She is better but is unable to work at this time. I wish you a very good recovery, Cathleen.

A serious accident occurred July 15 to Buddy Morris and Larry Brinkley when their grader brakes went out and a blowout came on a front tire. Both are seriously ill. Buddy in Albuquerque and Larry in the Ruidoso hospital, though he too will be moved soon to Albuquerque. My prayers are for your good recoveries.

A Checklist For MICROWAVE OVEN Safety

The benefits of microwave ovens are almost endless. Microwave ovens are the most energy efficient ovens ever invented. They cook food quickly, they enhance the nutritional value of food, and they're safe when used properly. To make sure you're using your microwave oven safely, follow these simple rules.

1. Use only microwave-safe utensils. Don't use metal in the microwave. TNP has a free brochure that contains a test for determining if a utensil is microwave safe.
2. Use adequate electrical current. Your microwave does not require additional wiring. However, your unit should be on a separate circuit and have nothing else operating on that line. Avoid using an extension cord with a microwave.
3. Don't use a microwave to can fresh foods. However, it is great for blanching fresh vegetables for freezing and for making jellies and jams. It also is good for drying herbs.

The safe use of a microwave oven is one more way that electricity makes your life a little easier. For more information about microwave ovens contact our office today.

Corona hires teachers; plans US Constitution celebration

Corona School Board met in the new boardroom adjacent to the library for last week's meeting and hired three new teachers: Glenna Bell, special education; Kirtley Bell, math and science; and Stephanie Sours, elementary.

The resignation of Joan Trotter, former math teacher, was accepted. Betty Ann Bell and Pat Perkins were again named head teachers.

The board changed the school calendar in order to accommodate State Fair week as Sept. 14-18. The week had previously been designated Sept. 7-11; students will attend that week, including Labor Day, Sept. 7.

Emergency loans to farmers available

Lincoln County was declared eligible for Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) disaster emergency loans on June 18.

This approval is limited to applicants who suffered Severe Physical Losses only due to excessive snowfall and blizzard conditions, which occurred on Jan. 14, 1987 through Jan. 27, 1987.

FmHA County Supervisor Dale Woods is urging farmers who are interested in receiving an emergency loan to get their applications to FmHA as soon as possible. "We hope farmers will get their applications in early rather than waiting until near the deadline, which is Feb. 18, 1988. The longer they wait, the more chance there is for long delays in getting their checks. If the applications come in early, we can avoid backlogs and speed up the process," Wood said.

The FmHA office is located at 1095 Mechem Drive, Hwy 37, Ruidoso, NM 88345, telephone 258-5294.
