A benefit dinner Aug. 10 for Larry Brinkley held at the Silver Dollar at Tinnie netted approximately $3,000 for the injured deputy sheriff. According to the sheriff's office, 295 meals were served during the evening when fellow officers, secretaries and other employees acted as waiters. Sheriff Don Samuels said the "service" must have been excellent. He got $100 tip. Brinkley is recovering well at his home now and is expected to be 100 percent recovered.

Commissioners meeting

Inquiry continues on validity of gravel contract for airport

By RUTH HAMMOND

Lincoln County Commissioner Bill Karn asked county attorney Gary Mitchell at the Aug. 18 meeting of the county commissioners to clarify the situation about the gravel for construction of the Sierra Blanca Airport. It had been reported that Mitchell had been engaged by Robert Beavers of Beavers Sand and Gravel Co. to file suit to prevent Nielsons, Inc. from fulfilling the contract with the US Forest Service to use a pit on Forest Land for the project. Mitchell said that with the new joint powers agreement for the airport commission to go into effect as soon as it is approved by the Department of Finance and Administration in Santa Fe there would be a conflict of interests for him to represent Beavers.

SBAC. Glen Ellison of Carrizozo suggested that the commission look at the original master plan for the airport and see exactly what the situation is. In other business, a lengthy discussion was held, with no action being taken, on the assessment of a one mill levy for the Upper Hondo Soil and Water Conservation District and the Carrizozo Soil and Water Conservation District. County Assessor Marion Schlarb said the levy could only be assessed on real property and that livestock must be excluded. Mitchell explained that according to the statutes the assessment is valid and that the county treasurer can take out the actual costs involved with the assessment or 4 percent. Mitchell also said that people within the assessment district may go before the board of the Soil and Water Conservation Districts and if they can prove they derive no benefit from the district, may have their names removed from the tax rolls.

ASCS, said. Hightower responded. "The airport will bring in a tax base and that will benefit everyone." The ASCS board will obtain necessary information, with the help of the county manager's office, and present it to the commission at a later meeting. County road superintendent Earl Krieg reported that the work on Cedar Creek road was complete with the exception of having to "re-shoot" it with oil after it was rained on. No bids were received for the 1979 mini van offered for sale by the Zia Senior Citizens Center. The mini van will be re-advertised with no set minimum bid. Agreement was signed for the county to pay the Lincoln County Heritage Trust $4,965 for advertising, publicizing and promotion of the McSween House Site Archaeological Dig. The money for this comes from the Lincoln County Lodger's Tax.

amount of $172,608.45 was given. Approval of prior year bills with no budget increase in the amount of $786,066.02 was given. County road C-004 was removed from the road inventory. County road C-034 with the new description of from Highway 54 at Oscuro to the Withers' ranch headquarters, approximately 4 1/2 miles, was added to the inventory. The school bus route across the tracks in Carrizozo and parallel to the tracks in a southerly direction, 1.5 miles, was added to the road inventory. Approval was given for a time extension to file plat for replat of lot 19, block I-K-M in Middle Cedar subdivision. Request was approved for vacation of lot 14 in block 1 of Sweetwater Hills subdivision. This property will be taxed as grazing land. Barbara Ward, director of the senior citizens centers, requested a loan of $15,000 for the Corona center to purchase a mini van. Ward said the loan could be until money is received from the state. Commissioners took no action on the matter but asked that Ward go ahead with advertising for bids for the mini van and would consider the loan if the money was not received from the state by the time the bids were opened. An executive session was held for litigation, contracts and acquisition. No action was taken.

Commission chairman John Hightower said, "I will not approve this until I know how much money it will raise and what the money will be used for. I am not comfortable with taxing people who don't get any benefit." "We can say the same thing about the airport (Sierra Blanca Regional Airport)" Sue Stearns, secretary of the

Joe Skeen: 'That's just not what happened!'

"That's just not what happened!" Congressman Joe Skeen told the NEWS Tuesday night when he was asked why his office approved the use of the gravel pit on Forest land for construction of the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport being built on Fort Stanton mesa. "I can't tell the Forest Service what to do," Skeen said during his visit to Carrizozo

Tuesday. "If anyone issued a permit it was the Forest Service and they take full responsibility, not my office," he added. "I don't get involved with private enterprise." Skeen and Alice Eppers, a district representative in his Roswell office, welcomed the chance to "set the record straight about the matter." Eppers said she had talked to Jim Abbott, regional director of the Forest Service in Alamogordo, and told him to do whatever he was going to do. "I made no recommendation," she said. "I told him to do whatever he was going to do and to exercise his discretion." The questions asked by the NEWS were brought about

William C. McDonald Bicentennial celebration to honor first elected governor

"The William C. McDonald Memorial" will be the name given to the bicentennial diamond jubilee celebration scheduled for Sept. 19 in Carrizozo. The local event to celebrate the 200th anniversary of the United States Constitution and the 75th anniversary of New Mexico statehood is being organized by Glen Ellison. "McDonald was the first elected governor of the state," Ellison said. "And this celebration is to honor him, Carrizozo's Number One citizen. He was instrumental in the forming of the town of Carrizozo and of getting the county seat brought here." The full-day program will begin with an Old Home tour starting at 9:30 a.m. The first stop will be Johnson Stearns' office where Stearns will present a program. The tour will then go to the Serrano home which many remember as the Dr. Turner home north of Carrizozo Municipal Airport. The next stop will be the former home of McDonald, the Bar W Ranch headquarters, where the Spencer family will make a presentation on the William C. McDonald story. The last stop of the tour will be Cedarvale Cemetery in White Oaks. Roy Harman will conduct a tour there with a special program at the William C. McDonald gravesite. After completion of the tour, a luncheon will be held at the Carrizozo Country Club followed by a parade at 2 p.m. An Old Homes booklet, complete with pictures and a history of the old homes in the area, is being printed by the Lincoln County News and will be available for those going on the tour or attending the luncheon. Copies will be placed at the Sands Motel, Crossroads Motel and Four Winds Motel after the celebration. The Carrizozo Lodger's Tax Committee agreed to pay the costs of printing the Old Homes booklet. Holloman Air Force Base at Alamogordo will send its famous Honor Guard and Drill Team to lead the parade down Carrizozo's main street.

Gutsy woman places men under citizens arrest

If you love the Old West, you'll love Carolyn Lietzman. Single-handed, she rounded up two US Forest Service employees trespassing on her land Wednesday morning, placed both under citizen's arrest, loaded them into her Jeep, drove them to Lincoln County Courthouse and filed charges for trespass in magistrate's court. About 11:45 a.m. yesterday she observed a Forestry pickup and a road grader at work on her land without her permission. She placed them under arrest, impounded the grader and vehicle, gave one Forestry employee the opportunity to make "one phone call." He took it by calling Smokey Bear Ranger Station, and was apparently advised to "do what the lady says."

tional Forest for the sole benefit of off-road vehicles. In this instance, the two Forestry men were apparently looking for Road 441, took a wrong turn, and was grading off about six miles of grassland when Mrs. Lietzman roared up in her Jeep and made the arrests. The men offered no resistance. One asked the other if they should resist the arrest, and was told, "No thanks, I've been shot at over these things before." Mrs. Lietzman says the Forest Service has drawn four proposed roads through her property to provide more direct access to the Lincoln County Forest, and without her consent, for the use of motorcycles and off-road vehicles. She says Forestry told her that "private land is for public convenience," and dismissed her complaints about the "high-handed methods" she claims is being used to confiscate private property in order to satisfy the lobbying demands of off-road vehicle organizations. Judge indicted on sex charges; Rairdons gather indictments

A Lincoln County Grand Jury yesterday indicted Magistrate Judge Martin Valenzuela of Ruidoso Downs on two counts of criminal sexual contact of a minor. These constitute third degree felonies the basic sentence of which is three years imprisonment and/or $5,000. Also indicted were Harold Wayne Rairdon and Bobbie

Sue Rairdon on five counts of criminal sexual penetration in the first degree and one count of kidnapping. The first five are first degree felonies and could lead to up to 18 years in prison and/or $15,000 fines. Basic sentence for kidnapping, a second degree felony, is nine years imprisonment and/or $10,000 fine.

The NEWS was concerned that the proposal accepted for the Thangars had been submitted by the same firm that had been invited to the April 16 SBAC meeting and wanted to present a proposal at that time. Mitchell responded that the new airport commission would be bound by any decisions made by the current

The hazardous materials courses included instructions in ladders and salvage techniques, flammable liquids fire control, and breathing apparatus and search procedures. Paving bids to be opened at Corona Corona Village Council again discussed the street paving project at the regular meeting Aug. 13.

Hubert Quintana of Southeast New Mexico Economic Development District explained that bids would be opened on Friday, Aug. 21 on Phase I construction; with work to begin by Sept. 1.

Quintana said Phase II final drawings are still in Santa Fe. "At this point, it is doubtful that both (phases) can be constructed at the same time," he said, adding that time is too short to obtain finalization of all necessary paperwork for Phase II before winter.

According to Quintana, it is now more realistic to have everything ready for a spring construction start-up date.

Mike Allred and Byron Yancey appeared before the council to address problems at the cemetery. The two pointed out that guidelines are not established for the alignment and orderly selection of gravesites. Several areas of the cemetery contain irregularly aligned graves, making some gravesites inaccessible to the backhoe.

Council voted to give the two men authority to mark off rows of graves and align future gravesites. Council further agreed to study guidelines regarding cemetery use in other villages and formulate a written policy.

Agri-Building of Albuquerque submitted plans for the proposed fire station.

Council examined the plans, made minor changes, and approved them.

In other business, the council agreed to formulate specifications for replacement of the blade. Numerous repairs on the equipment have made it impractical to keep, and council will consider replacing it.

Village Clerk Beatrice Chavez informed council members that the final budget has been approved by the state; also the fire CD in the amount of $77,450 matures on Aug. 21. Council agreed to redeposit the full amount for another 60 days.

Congressman Joe Skeen was in Carrizozo Tuesday for a political rally complete with cake and homemade ice cream and music.

Pat Hume, chairman of the Lincoln County Republican Party, introduced officers of the Lincoln County Republican Party and thanked Glen Ellison, Richie Askew and Bobby Wadsworth and his musicians for providing the entertainment.

CARRIZOZO SCHOOL BOARD

Little help for students on long school bus routes

The Carrizozo Board of Education heard from parents of students on the Ancho bus route at the Aug. 18 school board meeting. Gary Hightower, Gordon Barham, Karen DeBerge and Bill and Susan Hightower discussed with the board possible solutions to the problem of their children being on the bus more than an hour twice a day.

The schedule offered by the board will alleviate long morning rides for students but will not change the evening rides from last year's schedule. The bus coming from Bingham will pick up Bingham students earlier this year and bring them to the school by 7:45 a.m. and then travel to White Oaks for students there. This will shorten the time Ancho students must be on the bus in the morning.

The afternoon bus will take the White Oaks students and then go to Ancho, which is the same bus schedule as last year. The board explained that the state will not approve another bus for Carrizozo at this time. "Our hands are tied," Supt. Danny Burnett told parents present.

Mike Gaines, vo-ag teacher, told the parents, "We will continue to study and work on the routes."

"I am not happy," Gary Hightower told the board. "I will accept the compromise but I will be back." He asked that coaches and teachers notify students the day before any changes in scheduling school events.

Burnett thanked parents for attending the meeting and said, "We appreciate your concern."

In other business, Burnett explained the parent-student handbook with regulations for student transportation, the teacher handbook and the student handbook.

Gerald Montes presented the curriculum and schedule for the year. The classes have been scheduled to allow each class to take required subjects and to have a selection of electives in addition to remedial classes.

Burnett announced that 27 students planned to participate in football. The first game will be Aug. 29.

A football scrimmage is scheduled against Socorro at 10 a.m. Saturday in Carrizozo.

22 girls are "out for the volleyball team." The first game will be at 11 a.m. in Cloudcroft, Aug. 29.

Melody Gaines was hired as bus driver for the Oscuro route.

Principal Mel Holland discussed the costs of having football helmets reconditioned. The costs varies from year to year and this year was $1,000. The board discussed with him the possibility of buying a few new helmets each year.

The board is considering buying bulk fuel for activity buses and school vehicles.

because some of the gravel pit owners in the Ruidoso area were concerned about the procedure.

Nielsons, Inc., contractor for the project, stated that they had requested the permit from the Forest Service prior to bid time. Nielsons said, "This was available to all bidders on the project."

Nielsons, following the award of the contract, made an extensive search and paid for testing of all known local commercial and non-commercial sources within the Ruidoso area, according to a statement issued by W.F. Botwinis, president of Nielsons, Inc.

"The information furnished the Airport Commission and the Forest Service never indicated nor implied that all present known sources would not meet the federal specifications. We in fact had test reports that did meet the federal specifications," Botwinis reported.

"In our solicitation for furnishing materials to Nielsons, Inc. for this project, not one source in the Ruidoso area would warrant their material to fully meet all of the federal specifications and guarantee to Nielsons, Inc. that we would be neither penalized nor rejected at the time we placed the material in the airport runway," Botwinis stated.

"Had we received guarantees and warranties from the various suppliers for their materials, matters may have been considerably different," the statement from Nielsons continued.

Nielsons further stated, "We made available to the Forest Service and any who asked Nielsons, Inc. full disclosure of the test reports, sampling and testing information which was done by Testing Laboratories, Inc. in Alamogordo. We felt that Nielsons, Inc. should be asked for the information and not the testing laboratory which was hired by Nielsons, Inc. paid for by Nielsons, Inc. and as a private business was right to refuse information unless Nielsons, Inc. released it."

GARBAGE PAIL KIDS

The Garbage Pail Kids cards will be a CBS Saturday morning cartoon in September.

The mangled, twisted and tortured children on the bubblegum cards have sold by the millions.

Parent groups and watchdog organizations object to the television series that will air next month.

The violent cards take the most intensive, sadistic fantasies from war and horror movies and make entertainment for young children.

"I think it's a real mistake. The cards are extremely sadistic," Thomas Radecki, research director of the National Coalition on Television Violence has said.

The cards show things like a little boy chopping off people's heads, a girl stuck in a blender and a boy dribbling his head down a basketball court.

CBS insists that the series will not feature the mutilations that have caused the children's plight.

STOP AND THINK

The town hall has free literature for customers on their counter and I always come home with some after paying my utility bill.

This month I picked up the New Mexico Peace Officers Digest, official publication of the Lation Peace Officers Association. The July/August issue is dedicated to all peace officers who have lost their lives in the line of duty.

An article that caught my attention, "Don't Lose A Friend to Drugs" was informative and I would like to pass on some pointers:

"Has a friend become moody, short-tempered and hostile?"

"Does he (she) seem spaced out and always short of cash?"

"Is she (he) suddenly failing courses and running around with kids you don't trust."

"Stop and think about it. Your friend may have a drug or alcohol problem."

What should you do?

Many teenagers get deeper and deeper into drugs and alcohol because their friends, teachers and parents either pretended there wasn't a problem or didn't know what to do.

Learn about the effects of drugs and alcohol and share the knowledge with others.

Interest young people in activities they can enjoy without using drugs and alcohol. For example, teenagers in a Chicago suburb took it upon themselves to organize creative, positive ways to spend time, such as trips, movies, discussion groups, aerobics and community service projects. These activities not only discourage drug abuse, but build teens' self-esteem and give them roles to play in the community.

Encourage children to learn to talk to their peers and younger kids about the dangers of drugs and alcohol. Many communities have programs that teach teenagers how to counsel others about the problems that teens face, including substance abuse. In one rural midwestern town, star high school athletes are trained to teach elementary and middle school students about drugs and alcohol abuse.

PEER PRESSURE

Try peer pressure in reverse.

Friends should remind friends that buying or possessing pot, cocaine, LSD, PCP, and most other drugs is against the law. Being arrested and getting a police record may not seem like a big deal now, but could be when applying for a job or college.

Saying "no" when a school friend asks others to try a drug or drink means those students have the strength and brains to choose for themselves.

I had never met William M. Smith until he came into my office Friday to identify himself as the person mentioned in this column last week. He furnished me with documents from local and county police to prove my allegations were inaccurate. I apologize to Mr. Smith, and regret any embarrassment the item may have caused him.

Gary Mitchell of Ruidoso is making a statewide reputation as a "death row" lawyer. The big, trim, handsome and personable Mitchell was the subject of a profile in his hometown newspaper last week. He recently signed a contract with the state to defend capital cases usually handled by public defenders. At $12,500 a pop he expects to handle six death penalty cases a year. It isn't the money that motivates him, he explained, but an abiding revulsion for the death penalty laws.

If there is a "ground" upon which Mitchell does not oppose the death penalty, research fails to uncover it. To him capital punishment is immoral, un-American, unconstitutional, cruel and inhuman, uncivilized, un-Christian, nondeterrant, barbaric, useless, unreal, insensitive and costly. I believe in capital punishment as a tool to rid society of its scum since morality, religion, education, the law and various social persuasions have failed. There are a lot of people out there who deserve to be dead, believe it.

Mitchell observes he can't envision having the death penalty in a civilized country. Neither can I, but this is not a totally civilized country. If it were so, Mitchell would be right because in a civilized society nobody would commit crimes that call for punishment. "Violence by the state begets violence by the public," he told his interviewer. Could it not be the other way around—that violence by the public begets violence by the state?

Blaming society for human frailty is the hallmark of a rockribbed liberal, and Mitchell does just that. Specifically, he traces hardened criminal capability to childhood and to child abuse. Nonsense, I say. Every child in America has, by prevailing social standards, been victims of child abuse. Kids are now suing their parents, and winning, for padding them. As a child, I have been beaten with everything from a 2x4 board to an iron trace chain. It didn't stunt my growth or turned me into a criminal. My "sinlessness" can be credited to the powerful arm on a father who believed such "abuse" was a way to impart obedience, discipline, forbearance and respect. He won. Now I know what Herbert Spencer meant when he wrote, "Every unpunished delinquency has a family of delinquencies."

It had to happen. He applied Affirmative Action to his argument. Affirmative Action is the cherished chapter in the Liberal Bible. "Even if you believe in the death penalty, you can't say that it's evenly given out." On a pro rata basis, he says, more minorities than whites are executed in this country. It was suggested here that if capital punishment is to be administered according to Affirmative Action standards, we must execute at least two white people for each racial minority convicted—whether the two poor bastards had committed crime or not. That may sound silly but it is Affirmative Action.

I had suggested, foolishly perhaps, that the reason more racial minority criminals are executed is because racial minorities commit more crime than do whites, a fact quickly established by referring to Federal Crime Reports. Mitchell raised the gender issue in noting that more men are executed for high crime than are women—never mind that more men commit crime than do women. So, should we not grab a few innocent women and execute them to balance the gender scales and grovel at the feet of Affirmative Action.

Here he says that rich people are never (well, almost never) sentenced to die. If true, it would not happen except for the legal profession. A rich client can make a lawyer happy for life because a good lawyer knows so many ways to thwart justice and confound the courts by endless delays, hearings, appeals, "now evidence" and the whole package of legal paralogic. Poor clients don't get such reprieve, so they are hustled to the scaffold. Perhaps society shouldn't accept the legal profession's code that essentially says no person will be executed until his money runs out.

One point we can agree on. Mitchell says executions do not deter other criminals. Right. But it sure as hell deters the ones we do execute.

Now we come a goodie. "It's un-American to have the death penalty." If mom and apple pie are examples of Americana, remember that the death penalty has been around longer than mom or apple pie. We were burning witches and hanging thieves from the time our ancestral feet hit Plymouth Rock. In every document of the Founding Fathers, and centuries before, capital punishment was legally practiced. The Massachusetts Body of Liberties of December 1641 said then what was essentially written into the US Constitution—that life, liberty and property are not to be taken without due process of law. How long does a practice have to be accepted by the mass of public opinion before it becomes "American"?

Nothing in the New Testament, Mitchell says, gives anybody a right to kill anybody. The Old Testament, of course, is rife with commands that sinners be put to death. The New Testament, less exacting, makes reference to it. In Matthew 23:32: "Then Jesus said unto him, Put up again thy sword into place, for all they who take up the sword, shall perish by the sword." This was confirmed by Paul in Romans 13:1-7: "But if thou do that which is evil, be afraid, for he (the magistrate) is the minister of God, a revenger to execute wrath upon him that doeth evil." It was in Romans 6:12 that the well-known admonishment, "for the wages of sin is death," emerged. I read all this literally. God only knows what kind of interpretation a Supreme Court judge might place upon these passages—considering what they've already done to a perfectly plausible Constitution.

We have all this fawning over the fate of criminals. Will someone say something nice about their victims?

Economic Development Corporation

A countywide professional effort in the making

By J. A. "AI" JUNGE

Ruidoso and Lincoln County, in the same mode as other New Mexico communities, relies on tourists and the money they spend. Remove the fact and we turn the pages of history back some 30 years to a time of the kerosene lamp and outdoor plumbing.

The shot-in-the-arm, arriving with the horserace fans and later on (when it snows) by the groups of skiers, is only a temporary but acceptable case of myopia which arrives and departs on schedule year after year. With these expected departures, alternate lifestyles are put in place. Business payrolls are reduced, stocks are limited and many businesses speculate on how to survive until the snows arrive. All of this is inevitable when Ruidoso's population reaches a 30,000 high only to fall back to about 7,000 overnight when the rate fans depart.

Is there an answer to this problem? Surely, there must be.

Don't misunderstand. Visiting tourists are a vital part of our economy. However, tourists alone are not enough to maintain our economy on a stable and level basis. We need and must seek diversification if we are to grow and build an economic base without the ever constant "ups and downs" in the number of those who visit and spend money in Lincoln County.

Other cities in New Mexico have overcome downturns in their economies brought on by the slump in energy, closed mines, and the resulting unemployment. Binding together in a community effort with their chambers of commerce and by forming an independent Energy Development Corporation to deal with the economy, astonishing improvements have been the result. The EDCs, headed by professionals, concentrate on bringing into the area new businesses, expanding existing businesses and payrolls.

Grants and Deming, New Mexico cities, are good examples of how effective the EDCs can be. Both of these cities, with extremely high unemployment, are gaining ground on their problems. New businesses are on the scene and the general attitude is upbeat. Behind it all is the cooperation shown by local residents, the chambers of commerce and the Economic Development Corporation. An unbeatable combination. (Refer to August 1987 issue New Mexico Business Journal)

Lincoln County is currently establishing an Economic Development Corporation. This is the result of a number of business men forming a new organization known as The Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County. All of Lincoln County will benefit from efforts of the new organization.

The Economic Development Corporation is an independent organization working with the cooperation of the chambers of commerce, governing bodies of cities and counties but independent in scope and purpose. Ruidoso and Lincoln County has not had the services of an organization like the EDC in the past. For this reason we have failed, in some directions, to recognize the need for diversification in our economy. We need the EDC to create a dynamic and diversified year-round economy. The year is 1987 and we can no longer accept financial planning and living standards applicable to a time some 30 years ago.

The Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County has been formed and will be supported by sale of memberships.

A minimum goal of 150 members is necessary to make the EDC operational. This base will assist the EDC to obtain matching funds from the State of New Mexico; which, as a final result, will enable the corporation to bring in a qualified and experienced executive director. The EDC will perform as a professional organization. It is no longer possible to obtain objectives and gain the diversified effect necessary to our economy by the use of "local expertise." We need knowledge of experts with track records to match.

You are urged to get aboard and be a part of the effort to make Lincoln County a better place to live.

Memberships are $200. You may pay this in four installments if preferred. A temporary board of directors has been formed until a permanent board can be formed by votes of all the members.

As a member of EDC you will be advised as to progress in forming the corporation and will be invited to meetings to be held on a regular basis.

Inside the Capitol

By Jay Miller

SANTA FE—Labeling politicians is a tricky business. Just when you think you have one pigeonholed in exactly the right compartment, a politician will do something that defies whatever logic you have used to make your categorization.

REAGAN: Take Pres. Reagan, for instance. He received strong support from many right-wing organizations which were depending on the president being a true-believer in most of their causes. Their disappointment was great when he did not step in to the oval office and buy their total philosophy.

CARRUTHERS: The same slide toward the political center has been true with Gov. Carrey Carruthers. There were those who figured his time in the Reagan administration had pushed his moderate beliefs a bit to the right as he postured himself in the Reagan mold.

One political axiom which will hold more true than most is that liberal or conservative candidates tend to move to the middle once they are elected. It is not bad politics to do that either. The general citizenry likes moderation. In New Mexico, we like it a little to the conservative side of moderate.

But here I go confidently ascribing labels to politicians just as I told you not to do. Do you remember the "conservative coalition" which took control of the House of Representatives as a result of the 1978 elections? They reigned for six of the next eight years. Those years were marked by the largest increases in general fund expenditures in the state's history. And don't say it was because of a liberal senate because Ike Smalley does not run a liberal senate.

Just when you think you have them figured out, they do something weird to surprise you.

STRATTON: Then there's the case of Attorney General Hal Stratton, the darling of the right wingers, a person we could safely label as a true conservative, correct? Certainly the national party leadership seems to think so. Stratton has been invited by US Attorney General Edwin Meese III to be one of seven official United States delegates to a joint American-Chinese conference on legal and economic issues currently being held in Beijing.

Stratton had better hope he didn't blow the cornerstone of conservative philosophy right out of the water back in his own state, however, when he released an opinion last week saying that no action may be taken by a state agency without legislative approval. That's pretty strong stuff for a philosophy which has always said things like, "Get the government off our backs and keep them off," or "The least government is the best government."

This type of legislative approval for every action taken could bring government grinding to a halt from its already slow pace. And Stratton's conservative friends would not appreciate seeing that principle extended one bit farther.

The labeling problem seems to be getting to Stratton, also. In a press release issued just before he left for Red

Covert aid to the Evil Empire

EDITOR—While the Iran/Contra hearings have been going on, Secretary of State George Shultz has been traveling between Moscow and Washington, furthering the cooperation of the two "major powers" on a number of fronts. These meetings with his counterpart in the Soviet Union would be headlines, if the headlines were not directed to this affair.

If what Shultz is doing were receiving due attention, a corner on the silence about the Soviet relationship in Nicaragua might be lifted, and a better perspective given to the events from the White House basement.

To understand that, there is a massive record compiled by Professor Anthony Sutton (formerly of the Hoover Institution) on the matter of Soviet dependence on Western technology. Sutton's research over a period of a dozen years had convinced him that the matters he reported in a series of books on that subject were being deliberately suppressed.

Because Sutton was determined to end the blackout he arranged to present the facts to the country by appearing before a Republican Platform Committee at the Miami Convention in 1972, in an attempt to obtain a Republican position on the issue.

To his dismay, when he made his appearance there, he found that the TV cameras were removed, the press was excluded from the room, and a scheduled press conference was cancelled.

An incredible hoax is being perpetuated through such suppression of fact, and through diversionary techniques such as the Iran/Contra Affair.

This is the principle initiating factor in this affair. If United States policy had not supported "aid and trade" by the United States and corporate interests, with the Soviet Union, that "evil empire" would have been neutered a long time ago.

If aid and trade was cut off to the Communist Empire, there would be no need for aid to the Contras.

ELLEN EDWARDS, Lodi, CA.

Senate debates Forced Shop Bill

EDITOR—I urge my fellow citizens of New Mexico to write Senators Bingaman and Domenici and demand that they vote against the Forced Shop Bill (S. 492) which would give union officials monopoly control of American construction and drive up taxes and housing costs.

If the senate passes this bill it will add to its atrocious record on labor which, includes voting against the Hobbs Bill that would have reined in union violence. If they had passed the Hobbs Bill, the tragic arson of the DuPont Plaza in San Juan by a union thug, that killed nearly a hundred people, probably never would have happened.

Since these senators must share in the responsibility for the killing of 1 1/2 million children each year through abortion, I suppose an extra hundred to them is no big deal. If the good people of New Mexico aren't outraged to action by this letter, I suppose the destruction of our beloved country will continue.

CORNELIUS U. MORGAN, Baltimore, MD.

Deficit problem overblown

EDITOR—According to Daniel J. Mitchell, director of Citizens for a Sound Economy, under current law average Americans now pay $790 yearly in excise taxes. Congress wants to raise that amount to $1,074 yearly.

The big problem is not a shortage of tax revenues, but uncontrolled government spending. Since 1980, federal spending has grown more than twice as fast as the consumer price index (CPI). Spending in 1987 is projected at $1,015 trillion compared to $590 billion in 1980, an increase of 72 percent since Mr. Reagan took office. By comparison, the CPI has increased 34 percent over that same period. If the rate of government spending matched the CPI increase rate, the budget would be $791 billion this year. Instead of having a $173 billion deficit, we would have a surplus of $50 billion.

Moreover, it is not true that taxes have been cut during the Reagan tenure. In 1980 Uncle Sam collected $517 billion in taxes. Current projections estimate that in 1987 the federal government's take will be $842 billion, $325 billion above the 1980 amount. Thus, federal taxes increased 63 percent compared to the 34 percent CPI increase. An increase almost double the CPI rate is not a tax cut by any known definition.

If federal spending for 1988 were frozen at 1987 levels (still a healthy $1,015 trillion) with existing tax laws the deficit would plunge to $105 billion. In just three years, by maintaining a budget freeze the federal government would be reporting a budget surplus.

Congress should phase out all wasteful and unconstitutional programs. But even if Congress opted instead to do no more than hold the line, budget deficits would still be eliminated. The deficit problem is not an insurmountable problem as the major news media and establishment politicians would have us believe.

Capitan's new football field nears completion

By BART McDONOUGH

Architect Jim French informed the Capitan Board of Education at its Aug. 18 meeting that the sprinkler system for the new football field and track had been installed and the small building has been completed. Everything but the 70-foot light poles for the lighting has been delivered.

A problem in the elementary school building will be attended to and a roof leak at the high school was discussed. Board member Preston Stone feels that contractors must live up to their agreements.

Conley Nursery of Ruidoso Downs was represented by Ted Conley. After much discussion the board decided to use turf fescue instead of Kentucky Bluegrass on the new football field. Fescue is less costly, has stronger roots, will take more abuse, and was developed to replace the bluegrass. Conley will guarantee the turf fescue for one year if watered properly. The trees being installed will also be guaranteed for one year.

Two school bus contracts were approved to Nora Silva. One of the contracts is for $10,338.43 and the other for $197,788.05. The school bus drivers were approved.

A new discipline policy was approved as amended. A group of parents and educators had supplied input for the new policy. Board policy revisions were also made. For example, cheating will not be tolerated at any time under any condition. A bus driver has the right to suspend a student's transportation privilege for one day.

Barbara Willard of Ruidoso will replace Miss Ford in the business department. Jim Reese of Dora will teach social studies, physical education and junior high math. Sherry Fredrick will replace Helen Quinones. Principal Jerry Newsom will be the director of special education.

The Tigers travel to Eunice Aug. 28 for a game scheduled for 7:30 p.m. They return home and play their first game before the local fans on Sept. 4. This is set for 4:30 p.m.

Volleyball coach Pam Allen has a jamboree scheduled for Aug. 29 at her home. Loving will visit Capitan on Sept. 4 to play the Tiger junior varsity at 5 p.m.

The Capitan Board of Education meets again Sept. 10 at 7:30 p.m.

Chosen applicants will spend May and June of next year in the Sao Paulo area of southern Brazil.

Deadline for submitting applications is Sept. 1. Interviews will be conducted Sept. 11-12. For information call Michael Rodziewicz in Ruidoso at 258-4232.

Rotary of Ruidoso is in Rotary District 552, which has entered into this Group Study Exchange with Rotary International District 441 of Brazil.

Larry Brinkley fund gets a Corona boost

American Legion Beaver Bond Post 35 of Corona voted to donate $250 to Dorraine Brinkley, wife of Lincoln County Deputy Sheriff Larry Brinkley who was injured last month in a vehicle accident.

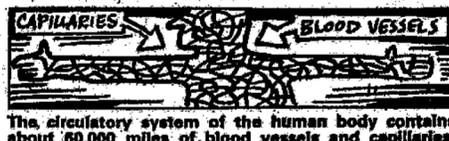

According to Mrs. Brinkley, her husband is now at home and is having "a miraculous recovery." The cast on his left arm is scheduled for removal next week along with two pins in the wrists. The braces and wiring in his mouth are due to be removed on Sept. 2, and skin reducer and stretching procedures on the scalp should begin in a couple of months.

Larry is now mobile without the use of a walker, "although he does have to be careful on uneven ground," she said.

Mrs. Brinkley said that doctors in Ruidoso have indicated her husband will have a 100 percent recovery when treatment is completed. The Brinkleys have two children, 3 1/2 years and three months.

In other business at the regular monthly meeting on Aug. 11, winners of the American Legion raffle were announced. Betty Minton of Ft. Sumner, Elvin Robinson of Corona, and Manuel Benta of Mountainair each won five cords of firewood.

State to auction county properties

Taxation and Revenue Secretary Vickie L. Fisher announces the auction of miscellaneous county properties Wednesday, Aug. 26, 10 a.m. at the Lincoln County Courthouse.

The state hopes to generate enough money through the auction to cover back taxes, penalties and interest and costs. Lincoln County would receive tax, penalty and interest proceeds for county and school district operations. Any amounts over and above the minimum would return to the former owners, says George Del Curto, director, Property Tax Division. Officials urge interested parties to inspect the parcels before bidding. Legal descriptions and requirements for bid appear as legal notices in the Lincoln County News three times prior to sale.

Registration for the auction begins at 8:30 a.m. at the courthouse.

Sheriff's posse breakfast Aug. 23

The Lincoln County Sheriff's Posse is holding a Sunday morning breakfast Aug. 23 at 8 a.m. to be followed by a trail ride, and a get-acquainted social.

It will begin at the park area just past the Camp Sierra Blanca facility. The program will end at noon.

Anyone who has an interest in the Lincoln County

Sheriff's Posse is encouraged to come, bring a little breakfast to add to the menu and meet with the folks who have been working some three months to get this organization started. Bring your horse, borrow a horse, but as Sheriff Don Samuels cautions, "Please don't steal one just to keep from getting left out."

Anyone wishing more information is asked to contact Bob Fry, Dave Strickland, Ken Jones or Glen Ellison. Plans for activities for the fall will be discussed at this time. The regular meeting date is the first Wednesday in the month, 7 p.m. in Capitan, at either the fair building or the Smokey Bear Cafe.

Miss LaDonna C. White, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Kenemore of Malajar, has been selected to compete in the 1987 New Mexico Miss TEEN Pageant to be held at the Albuquerque Convention Center, Albuquerque, Sept. 5-7. In her pageant LaDonna and other 13 to 18-year-olds will be honored and recognized for their achievements in school, community and personally.

Miss White and other young ladies from over the state who participate in the pageant, must maintain a B school grade average. Contestants are also required to participate in the Volunteer Service Program of the pageant. Through this program many teen girls are becoming involved in community activities by contributing at least 12 hours of time to benefit those less fortunate than themselves.

This past year, Miss TEEN contestants, because of the volunteer service requirement, donated more than 700,000 hours of time across the country to volunteer and charitable organizations. As the national charity organization of Miss TEEN Pageant, the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation was the recipient of more than $100,000 this past year through efforts of contestants and pageant officials.

Not only do contestants receive training in speech and talent presentations through these programs, but also leadership training to better equip them to be positive role models for their peers. Contestants will be judged on personality, poise, talent, volunteer service and formal presentation. Prizes will be presented in each category. The 1987 New Mexico Miss TEEN will receive a full 4-year tuition scholarship to the University of New Mexico, $500 in cash, self-improvement scholarship to Plaza III Academy, evening gown by designer Cynthia Cose, and an all-expense paid trip to represent the State of New Mexico at the national finals in Kansas City. The Best Way To Keep Your House Cool May Be With a Blanket

It seems strange to use a blanket in the middle of summer. But to keep cool air inside your house, you need the blanket effect of proper insulation.

Without proper insulation, your home loses cool air in the summer (and warm air in the winter). Your cooling/heating system must work harder to maintain a comfortable temperature. The proper amount of insulation will make your home more energy efficient and comfortable.

MR. and MRS. TRAVIS LIGHTFOOT

Lightfoot/Alford vows exchanged

Roe Anne Alford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rogene Alford, and Travis Clyde Lightfoot, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Lightfoot, were married in a double ring ceremony Sunday, Aug. 9 at Corona Presbyterian Church with the Rev. E. Sloan Humphreys and Mel Gnatkowski officiating.

The bride wore a gown of reembodyered lace over taffeta with simulated pearls accenting the Queen Anne neckline and lace-vested bodice. A chapel-length train attached at the waistline. The fitted lace sleeves tapered to tiny satin buttons and ruffle at the wrist. A fingertip veil was gathered on a pearl beaded lace headpiece. The bride carried a white fan adorned with white, pink, and gray flowers and white ribbon streamers. For "Something old," the bride chose her father's ring engraved with an "R"; "Something new" was her dress; "Something borrowed" was the veil from her sister-in-law Joanne Alford; "Something blue" was her mother's wedding garter. She wore a penny in each shoe denoting years of birth for herself and the groom.

The white, pink, and gray colors scheme was carried out with tall baskets of flowers and twin candelabra centered by a unity candle at the altar. The matrons of honor wore identical pink street length dresses with blouson lace bodices and pleated skirts. They carried fans topped with flowers in shades of pink.

Fatsy Mulkey and Sherrill Bradford provided music at the organ and piano; Linda Widner and Rick Walter, aunt and uncle of the groom, provided contemporary vocal selections.

Special guests included the couple's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Waymon Lightfoot of Corona, Mrs. Jessie Alford of Nara Visa, NM, and Mrs. Edith Widner of Melrose. Numerous other out-of-town friends and relatives attended.

The pink, white and gray colors were carried through to the reception where the bride's sisters served the heart-shaped wedding cake they created. Side cakes of assorted flavors were also served, and a double-heart cake adorned with the couple's names was at the groom's table. Robin Widner and Joanne Alford tended the guestbook.

After a short wedding trip to Ruidoso, the couple will be at home in Las Cruces where both will attend NMSU.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC AUCTION SALE OF REAL PROPERTY FOR DELINQUENT PROPERTY TAX

PROPERTY TAX DIVISION OF THE TAXATION AND REVENUE DEPARTMENT OF THE STATE OF NEW MEXICO SANTA FE, NEW MEXICO

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to the provisions of 73-38-57 NMSA 1978 the Property Tax Division of the Taxation and Revenue Department will offer for sale at public auction beginning on August 26, 1987 at 10:00 a.m. at the Lincoln County courthouse in Carrizozo, New Mexico, the following described real property, the sale to continue until all the described property has been offered for sale.

The terms of the sale are as follows:

1. A sale property made under the provisions of 73-38-57 constitutes full payment of all delinquent taxes, penalties and interest that are a lien against the property at the time of sale, and the sale extinguishes the lien. The property is sold subject to the lien for property taxes for the year of the sale, provided those taxes are not yet delinquent. The buyer at public auction, or his successor in interest, will be liable for those property taxes when they become due.

2. The description of the following real property is required by 73-38-57 to be sufficient to permit the identification and location of the real property by potential purchasers. The State of New Mexico warrants no title to properties purchased at public auction sale.

3. Section 7-38-74, NMSA 1978, prohibits officers or employees of the state or of any of its political subdivisions engaged in the administration of the property tax from directly or indirectly acquiring an interest in, buying or profiting from any property sold by the Property Tax Division for delinquent taxes, except that an officer or employee may purchase property sold for delinquent taxes if he is the owner of the property and was the owner of the property at the time the taxes became delinquent. Any officer or employee violating 73-38-74 is guilty of a fourth degree felony and shall be fined not more than five thousand dollars ($5,000) or imprisoned for not less than one year nor more than five years, or both, and he shall also be automatically removed from office or have his employment terminated upon conviction. A real property sale in violation of 73-38-74 is void.

4. Successful bidders are required to make payment in full of the amount bid before leaving the premises on the day of the sale. Payment is required to be by money order, certified check, cashier's check or personal check which is accompanied by bank letter of credit for the amount of or in excess of the amount of the personal check drawn to the order of the Property Tax Division of the Taxation and Revenue Department.

5. Upon receiving payment for the real property sold for delinquent taxes, the Property Tax Division shall execute and deliver a deed to the purchaser. The deed conveys all the former property owner's interest in the real property as of the date the state's lien for real property taxes arose in accordance with the property tax code, subject only to perfected interests in the real property existing before the date the property tax lien arose. The property tax lien against real property arises on January 1 of the tax year for which the taxes are imposed.

6. After two years from the date of sale, neither the former real property owner shown on the property tax schedule as the delinquent taxpayer nor anyone claiming through him may bring an action challenging the conveyance. Subject to the year time limitation stated above, in all controversies and suits involving title to real property held under a deed from the state issued under this section, any person claiming title adverse to that acquired by the deed from the state must prove, in order to defeat the title, that he or the person through whom he claims had title to the real property at the time of the sale, and that either: (1) the real property was not subject to taxation for the tax years for which the delinquent taxes for which it was sold were imposed; or (2) all taxes, penalties, interest and any cost due for the years involved were paid by him or the person through whom he claims title prior to the sale.

7. The sale price of real property at this public auction sale is not to be taken or considered as being the value of that property for property taxation purposes. 8. All persons intending to bid upon property are required to register and obtain a bidders number from the auctioneer and to provide the auctioneer with their full name and address. Deeds will be issued to registered names only. Conveyances to other parties will be the responsibility of the buyer at auction. Persons acting as "agents" for other persons will register accordingly and must provide documented proof as being a bona fide agent at time of payment for property purchased. Registration will close promptly at 10:00 a.m.

9. The auctioneer reserves the right to withdraw from sale any of the properties listed below to sell any of the properties listed below together, or to sell only a portion of any of the properties listed below. If any dispute arises between or among the bidders, the auctioneer's decision with respect to the dispute is final, and the auctioneer may auction the property again, in his discretion. The auctioneer reserves the right to reject any and all bids. The real property listed below may not be sold for less than the listed minimum price.

Done at Santa Fe, New Mexico, this 6th day of July, 1987.

Ward/Leslie reunion at White Oaks School

More than 100 members of the Ward/Leslie family attended their 11th annual reunion July 25 at the White Oaks school house hosted by Robert and Dorothy Leslie of Carrizozo.

The reception desk was managed by Brynn Ballenger of Charlotte, NC, great-granddaughter of Florence Ward, and the late Thomas Clayton Ward I and Shann Littleton of Tulsa, OK, great-granddaughter of Edna Ward Littleton and the late John Littleton.

Edna Littleton won the award for eldest member and the great-granddaughter of Betty Ward Walker, granddaughter of Velma Walker Ricciardi and daughter of Angeline and Roy Carroll of Roswell and the children's door prize, a pillow made to the same pattern, was won by T. J. Ward of Ruidoso.

Special guests were Cecil and Francis Barr from Las Cruces. Francis is a relative of Angeline Proctor, mother of Namantha Vashti Kennedy Ward. They brought much new information on the Proctor ancestors.

After a potluck lunch, singing was led by Ken Ballenger of Fayetteville, AK, accompanied by his daughter Joan Griggs of Midland, TX. Robert Leslie presided at the meeting which was adjourned to the Historical School Room for pictures of family members who attended the White Oaks school sitting in the original school desks which have been decoupage'd with former students names. These students included first generation members Mary Walker, Betty Walker and Florence Ward. Betty Lou Ray occupied a desk for her father, Roley Ward and Floyd Littleton for his brother Lawrence Hicks.

Other former students from the second generation who call themselves "The Cousins" were Alton Ward, Inez Ballenger, Robert Leslie, Elmo Ward, Clarence Leslie, Dorothy Pratt Leslie, Tom Ward II, Dorothy Leslie Payne, Zane Leslie and Velma Ricciardi. Florence Ward, who taught in the White Oaks school 1919-20 and from 1928 to 1935, occupied her original teacher's desk. Other family members, avid photographers, took many pictures of these "celebrities."

A resolution was passed unanimously commending the Zane Leslie and Robert Leslie families for their restoration work of the Historical room and on the house as a whole during the year on behalf of the White Oaks Historical Association.

Elected as next year's chairmen were Felise and Jack Graham of Alamogordo, the first of the third generation to act in that capacity. Dwayne Turner and Ron Griggs were elected to the board.

Over $500 was raised in an auction of arts and crafts contributed by members and auctioneered by Zane Leslie. A Saturday night dance and Sunday morning breakfast concluded the reunion.

During the week following, under supervision of Elmo Ward of Escondido, CA, the foundation of the school house was reinforced and braced by steel rods. Assisting were Zane Leslie, Robert Leslie, Kelly Leslie and sons Cal and Rob, Bud Payne, Tom Ward, Don Ward and Ken Ballenger.

A quilt which had been won in 1984 by Henry Ward was displayed in its finished condition by his grandmother Dollie Ward.

Dorothy Payne was given special recognition for winning her Gold Medal in Horseshoes in the Senior Olympics in St. Louis in July.

'On My Own' By Pat Kite

Social zero

Why do some men attend single's parties apparently determined not to socialize with women?

I enter the festivity, hopeful despite my "I don't really care" protestations. As I walk through the door, everybody looks up, even the caged canary. Perhaps they are expecting Linda Evans, Joan Collins, Bette Midler? I'm sure I see a brief flicker of disappointment at whomever it is I am.

Undaunted, I stroll toward a vacant chair. Three people sitting nearby stare. Eventually a female person introduces herself, "Hi, I'm Betty. And this is George and John."

"Uh," says George grudgingly, shrinking back further into his chair. He begins to hum "La Marseillaise," blocking out further input.

Betty goes over and sits on his lap. They begin humming together, as George absently kneads her foot. Do they know each other well? Did they come here just to demonstrate foot kneading to a caring public? Or are they complete strangers, seeking to make the world less crowded by occupying the same chair?

I decide to strike up a conversation with John. "Hi, I'm Pat," I say. Silence. More silence. John refuses to look at me. Instead, he stares fixedly over my shoulder at a potted plant. Frankly, I don't think my face is so bad. It's at least as good as his face.

Now I'm confronted with three choices. I can continue trying to start a conversation, sit there staring at the bare fireplace mantel, or get up and leave. One of these days I'm going to learn to get up and leave. Instead, I begin babbling.

After five minutes of sounding like an idiot on 18 different topics, none of which draw as much as an "mmmm" from my companion, he gets up and leaves. He goes over and stands next to a tall skir-ny fellow pretending to be a statue at the chip and dip counter.

I stifle an almost overwhelming urge to walk over to the statue duo and say, "Hey fellows, I'm not after your body. Or your money. Or your terrier. I came to the party to have a nice time, to make pleasant conversation, to learn something. Why did you come here? To ward off the silence of an empty apartment? You've got to be joking."

The women are all sitting around, shoes off, chatting away. With each other.

Some gal suggests starting up a game of croquet, since the hostess has a croquet set in plain sight. That's a good idea," I say. "Who wants to join us?"

The fellows stare at the clouds. "How about you?" I ask one gentleman. "There's not enough people to play," declines, looking attacked.

Five women play croquet. The rest have already begun leaving. But the men are still there. They are sitting around in clumps getting drunk.

I met a few interesting women, so I actually had a nice time. I might even go again. The same men might even be there again. Beats me if I can figure out why.
