Commissioners strike again

'An organized effort to discredit me'—Samuels

"I feel like it is a form of harassment against the sheriff's department," Lincoln County Sheriff Don Samuels said in response to the latest "freeze" made in the sheriff's budget by county commissioners. Samuels' budget for this fiscal year had included $34,000 in capital outlay money for the purchase of several vehicles. On Nov. 10 the county commissioners agreed to hold $20,000 of this money for possible litigation and attorney fees. After an executive session during the Nov. 24 county commission meeting the commissioners agreed to freeze the additional $14,000 in capital outlay funds to see if there is sufficient funds to cover other line items in the sheriff's budget. In addition, the commissioners put a freeze on the sheriff hiring any more personnel until after the mid-year budget review scheduled for Dec. 22. Apparently there is a shortage in the line item for salaries because of the reinstatement of Ron Harrison and the back pay due him. The commissioners did approve the purchase of three vehicles by the sheriff's department. Two vehicles will be purchased with money from the Traffic Safety grant and another vehicle will be purchased with money from law enforcement funds. "What it amounts to is that if I hadn't gone out for federal funding I wouldn't have gotten any new vehicles," Samuels said, and noted that eight of the department's vehicles have over 100,000 miles on them. "I want the public to know that this is an organized effort to discredit me and my abilities as sheriff, especially with this continuing grievance stuff," Samuels said in reference to the four grievance hearings that have been held this year. Samuels feels that his three years experience as general manager of a trucking corporation managing more than 500 employees without one grievance proceeding occurring while he was in that position "should be very evident that this is an organized effort to discredit my management abilities." Samuels said he plans to be at the commission meeting on Dec. 22 for the mid-year budget review and he plans to meet with the commissioners and other department heads at a Risk Management meeting if no other meetings interfere or if "something doesn't come up." Samuels explained that his reason for leaving the commissioner's meeting on Nov. 24 after reading a prepared statement was that he had a meeting in Ruidoso with other law enforcement agencies to organize the forming of a Task Force to combat crime in the county. The sheriff's department will be the lead agency in the Task Force. Also involved will be municipal, county, state and federal law enforcement agencies.

$4 billion air defense contract

Martin Marietta wins the big one!

Lincoln County's economy looked brighter with news from Washington Monday that Martin Marietta Corp. and Oerlikon Buhrie, a Swiss firm, have been awarded at least $4 billion in contracts by the US Army. The contract is for air defense missile systems to protect ground military forces from enemy helicopters and low-flying jets. Four teams have been testing and competing since early summer near Stallion Site on the White Sands Missile Range near Carrizozo. Other rivals in the Army competition for air defense systems, including some already fielded by other countries, include the Liberty system of LTV Corp. and the French firm, Thomson CSF; the Paladin system, by Hughes Aircraft Co. unit of General Motors, a West German firm and SNI Aeropatlale of France; and the Rapier, by United Technologies Corp., British Aerospace Inc., and FMC Corp. Initially, the Army, plan to award Martin Marietta-Oerlikon Buhrie a $97 million contract to produce four systems for operational testing, to be followed by a $1.7 billion contract to produce 166 units. The Army plans to have 562 of the air defense weapons, within a decade. About 70 percent of the production work on the air defense system will be done in the United States. The rest will be done by Oerlikon

Aerospace, a Canadian branch of the Swiss firm. About 70 of the systems will be assembled at a plant near Montreal. Martin-Marietta has maintained a facility in Carrizozo since testing of its system began last summer. Speaking from Orlando, FL, Pat McGinn, spokesman for Martin Marietta, told the News Tuesday that he expects the facility at Carrizozo to be staffed again in the months ahead. "It is too early to say what personnel will be stationed in Carrizozo," he said. "But further testing, this time by the Army, will take place on White Sands Missile Range. Adequate support personnel will be assigned to assist."

Primate Research Institute

Lab loaded with chimps, monkeys and rhesus for research programs

By Ruth Hammond
A tour of the Primate Research Institute was a highlight of the Dec. 1 meeting of the South Central Mountain R&D at Holloman Air Force Base. The primate lab is operated by New Mexico State University and is housed at Holloman. The primate lab was first started in the late 1950s by the Air Force when chimpanzees were trained to go into space. Chimps preceded John Glenn and Alan Shepard in their space ventures. NMSU took over the lab in September 1980 and it is now the largest holder of chimp research and produces half of the national population of chimps. Several doctors and a reproductive biologist are on the staff. Graduate students do thesis work at the lab. The facility contains a clinical lab for blood work and is the only lab licensed to do blood work for both humans and animals. It also has a room for autopsies to find the cause of death in the animals. The mortality rate at PRI is the lowest in the nation. PRI is basically a contract lab and does testing for many companies in addition to doing testing for the Food and Drug Administration. One test was for dissolving clots in heart attack victims. Chimps are valuable for research because their test results produce the same effect as human test results. Because of the value placed on the chimps, none are used for life-threatening tests. Research at PRI has resulted in the Hepatitis B vaccine that is now available. Other important tests that have been conducted were for oil products, saccharine, and pesticides. The tour of the lab included the nursery, the living quarters of the grown chimps and the monkey colony. Rare twin chimpanzees were a favorite of the nursery group. Twins are rare because twins do not usually survive. Many times only one of the twins will live. These twins, born July 29, were dressed in disposable diapers and baby pajamas to help maintain their body temperature. The chimp babies were cared for much as human babies are cared for and were bottle fed infant formula. The chimp babies reacted when a person entered the nursery and each baby wanted to be picked up and held. "Mothering is a learned behavior," said Donna Eisenhower, whose job is quality assurance. She explained that not all babies are in the nursery, just those whose mothers did not know how to care for their babies properly. The mothers learn to be good mothers by watching other mothers. Eisenhower explained that the rules and regulations for the lab are very strict and are mandated by the FDA and Environmental Protection Agency. The sizes of the cages are one thing regulated by the agencies involved. Chimpanzees are not monkeys but are members of the Great Apes. Chimps do not have tails; monkeys do have tails. This is just one of the differences between the two species. Chimps weigh an average of 150 to 185 pounds when full grown and have the strength of six men. They can pull a ton. Female chimps have a monthly menses which is not normal for most of the animal kingdom. Gestation is 7½ months. Chimps become sexually mature at the age of 10 and can reproduce the rest of their lives. Most chimps live to be 50 years old. Chimps are on the endangered species list and this fact makes it even more important to increase the chimp population. When in the wild chimp mothers will nurse their young for two years and this usually will reduce the chances of another pregnancy occurring during this period. Chimps have different faces and different personalities. This was evident when watching the grown chimps. Eisenhower advised not getting too close to the cages because the chimps will split at people or throw droppings from their cages and it seems they have fairly good aim when throwing things at people. As the group left the adult chimp's living quarters one of the chimps clapped, making one person ask, "Now just who is watching whom?" Across the road from the chimp area is Corn Crib City with 1,600 rhesus monkeys housed in tin buildings resembling corn cribs. The monkeys are used in various types of research. A few miles away a few chimps are in quarantine while being used for testing for an AIDS vaccine. Money has been provided for the care of these chimps for the rest of

Carrizozo's Looney Law may upset tourist trade

Carrizozo has one of the "Looney Laws" that were listed in the November issue of New Mexico Magazine. Several other city and state ordinances were listed as being "strange." Carrizozo's anti-flirting ordinance states: "No male person shall make remarks to or concerning, or cough or whistle at, or do any other act to attract the attention of any woman upon or traveling along any of the sidewalks." Carrizozo Mayor Bob Hemphill received a letter from Walter N. Quick of Raytown, MO about the ordinance after the article appeared. Quick said he has long been enchanted with the "Land of Enchantment" and the City of Carrizozo has always been No. 1 on his list of favorite cities. He said he has always enjoyed visits here and for years has longed for the day he could become a permanent resident. He cites the anti-flirting ordinance and then states: Now mayor, is this the sort of ordinance you wish to have on your city statutes? I am a man who has spent over 68 years on this planet. At my age it is not easy to attract the attention of women. I beg you allow me to state my objections to the law. Suppose any of the following circumstances should occur: Circumstance No. 1: I am walking down a street in Carrizozo. Coming toward me is a fine looking young lady. I have the feeling I am about to have a heart attack. I wish to ask the young lady if she knows CPR. If not, will she please call 911. How can I legally get her attention? Circumstance No. 2: I am walking down a street in Carrizozo. Coming toward me is a fine looking young lady. I have no intention of having a heart attack. I merely wish to ask the young lady if she will allow me to buy her a beer. If she refuses, I will dial 911 myself.

It's too late for anything else. How can I legally get her attention? Circumstance No. 3: I am walking down a street in Carrizozo. Coming toward me is a fine looking young lady. I wish to know the Soup de Jour at the Four Winds Cafe. I think she is a waitress who works there. I am not having a heart attack. I do not wish to buy her a beer. I have only soup on my mind. If I cough, whistle, etc. She could call 911. How can I legally get her attention? Quick concludes his letter with "So you see mayor, this law must be stricken from the books. I do not wish to be a resident of Mesa, AZ." Bro. Quick's disenchantment may have been greater had he known of a Carrizozo law that prohibits a person from starting a parked car...

Hunters fined for killing antelope

A Roswell couple who tried to sneak an illegally killed antelope through a roadblock have been fined $800 for illegal killing and possession of the animal.

Vance Reed, 37, and his wife, Cathy Reed, 36, were cited by game officers on Nov. 15 at a roadblock where the officers were checking hunters on the final day of a deer hunt. Game officers Roger Mace and Ernie Sandoval charged Reed with illegal possession of antelope. Cathy Reed was charged with killing and possessing the animal. Chaves County Magistrate Joseph Pozz, Roswell, on Nov. 17 dismissed the illegal possession charge against Mrs. Reed. He fined her $400 for illegally killing the animal. Her husband was fined $400 for illegal possession.

Mrs. Reed was licensed to hunt during the D-2 deer hunt period, which ended the day the Reeds were charged. The Reeds told officers they thought the animal was a buck deer and watched the animal for 15 minutes before shooting it near Ancho, north of Capitan. Officers said the Reeds did not field dress the animal, but placed the whole carcass in their Suburban wagon under a blanket.

The roadblock was on Highway 48 west of Roswell.

Keep Your House Warm with a special blanket

Nothing keeps you warmer in the winter than a cozy blanket. When you're wrapped in its warmth, cold air stays out, and warm air stays inside.

This same principle can also work to keep your house comfortably warm for a reasonable cost. When you install proper insulation, you're using a different kind of blanket on your house.

Without proper insulation, your home loses warm air in the winter (and cool air in the summer). Your heating and cooling system must work harder to maintain a comfortable temperature. The proper amount of insulation will make your home more energy efficient and comfortable.

OPINION

IF the United States had been prepared for war on this Dec. 7 46 years ago come next Monday, there would have been no Pearl Harbor. Had we been prepared for war on Dec. 7, 1941 there probably would never have been war between the US and Japan. But this nation was not prepared for war on Dec. 7, which is why Pearl Harbor was attacked. No thoughtful nation, however brutal and aggressive, attacks nations whose overwhelming military readiness makes such an act suicidal.

THERE would have been no World War II had any of the major Allied powers, like France, possessed comparable military power and a national determination to use it against Hitler Germany. Hitler knew what few people knew then and what few people know now: that his enemies were militarily weak and without the will to resist aggression. He was fearful about invading Poland, and did so only when Polish leaders showed signs of accepting Hitler's "unacceptable" terms or face invasion. His one mistake was Russia, which had no military strength, only an unprecedented national will to survive.

THOSE who died at Pearl Harbor, and all those who died later in the conflict, were not just victims of Japanese bombs and bullets. They were also victims of their country's apathy and negligence. They were victims of Americans who thought that Hitler was basically a nice fellow; that nobody would be foolish enough to attack the US; that all we had to do to prevent the conflict was to disarm unilaterally to demonstrate our good faith in man's peaceful nature; of a childish belief that war is unthinkable and couldn't happen again; that men are reasonable animals who would never war on a peace-loving neighbor; and that love triumphs over aggression in the affairs of men as well as of nations.

SO, one might say that the United States by electing to be weak and undecided in 1941 sent 291,557 of her sons to their deaths on a thousand battlefields. This country, which had the capacity to be the greatest peacekeeper in history through military superiority, and the national will to use it if provoked, failed the test. As a result 24,214,000 persons perished in WWII because so many of us believed that man's "enlightenment" had progressed to the point where war was as obscene as it was impossible.

FORTY-SIX years after the well-taught lesson of Pearl Harbor, the lesson is lost. Public fury is unleashed against an administration that wants the nation's defenses raised to a comparable level with those of its principal enemy. Once again we are a nation of peaceniks, convinced that man is too enlightened an animal to engage in war; that just having an adequate defense will cause "peaceful" nations to attack us rather than deter them. The peace movement is awash with the notion that we must lay down our arms unilaterally to prove we love and trust everybody, confident that if we do the rest of the world will also disarm, beat their swords into chapel chimes, and unleash a flood of sweetness and compassion so compelling as to bring tears to the eyes of a suddenly-converted Moammar Kadhafi. We have studied at the feet of such Peace Prophets as Benjamin Spock, Ted Kennedy, Helen Caldicott, Bella Abzug, George McGovern, Marvin Dymally, Jane Fonda and the World Council of Churches. And our ignorance of reality has increased and our compassion cup runneth over. We are the meek waiting to inherit the earth. Nobody ever told us that the reason the meek haven't inherited the earth already is because they haven't found a way to hang onto it and remain meek.

I don't suppose anybody would question the truth of anything John F. Kennedy ever said, and of war he said: "War will exist until that distant day when the conscientious objector enjoys the same reputation and prestige that the warrior does today." Today the roles are reversed. The conscientious objector enjoys high reputation and prestige. The warrior is a bum. Such being the case, maybe we shouldn't worry about war any more.

WHEN the next war comes, as it surely will, we will be in an even worse position than we were before Pearl Harbor. This time we may have neither the arms nor the will to use them. President Reagan is attempting to rebuild our defenses and the people are resisting increases for military spending. They haven't learned a thing in the 46 years since Pearl Harbor. They still insist the best way to insure world peace is to dismantle the military so the money can be spent on leofards for underprivileged hallet aspirants, abortions to subsidize Saturday night rolls in the hay, cash rewards to those who choose not to engage in production, and other advanced social programs. They are not impressed with the fact that a nation's first duty is to protect its citizens from enemies from without; or that the second duty of a nation is to protect its citizens from enemies from within. Too many want neither protection.

YOUNG people are convinced that only old people want war. Old people, they point out, don't get drafted and sent to fight. What nonsense. Has anybody ever heard of an old man who wanted a war? Everybody participates in a war, and nobody is safe anywhere. In all wars, combatants aren't the only ones to die. Always there are the women and the children and the old and the halt and the lame who also die. Bombing a city kills few soldiers. Everybody is the victim. To an old man, his life is as precious as a teenager's is to him. Anyone who believes that belligerency is confined only to old men has never been to a rock concert, a Saturday night rumble, a mugging, a gang rape, or a Democratic Convention. The kids know all about "defending their turf" but can't translate that into defense of one's country. So much for the Kennedy claptrap, flames of which are kept burning by his younger (and more stupid) brother Ted.

WAR is a horrible waste, yet disease claims far (Cont'd on opposite column)

Inside the Capitol

By Jay Miller

SANTA FE—Gov. Garrey Carruthers gets an A for his skillful handling of the Republican Governors Conference in the Capital City last week.

Putting on a good conference is not easy to do in the City Different, where a convention planner never knows what to expect next. But this one came off without a hitch.

Perhaps our Garrey was even a little too impressive. On the closing day of the conference, in little more than a two-hour period, the governors elected Carruthers their campaign coordinator for the 12 gubernatorial elections they will face in 1988 around the country and then Vice-President George Bush named Carruthers a regional co-chairman for his presidential campaign.

Bush added that, if Carruthers will agree, he would like to expand his regional role to other parts of the nation.

All this attention already has Carruthers denying that he will leave us before his term is over.

If Bush bucks the odds against vice-presidents being elected to the presidency and becomes our president next year, there is a strong likelihood he would be interested in asking Garrey to join his cabinet.

Carruthers is a very similar personality to Bush—clean-cut, articulate and intellectual—a person that Bush would like to have close to him as an advisor.

But Garrey says, "No way," perhaps remembering some very similar circumstances which tantalized our previous governor only four years ago, Toney Anaya succumbed to the temptation. Although he can still draw crowds in other states, his popularity at home couldn't be lower—partly because New Mexicans don't like big shots they feel aren't paying enough attention to them.

Carruthers had better not even think of setting foot outside this state during the upcoming legislature. Not that government would screech to a halt if he left, we're just jealous of our governor's attention. If he wants to see the wrath of an electorate scorned, all Garrey needs to do is to look even a little bit fickle.

It is a good feeling having elected ourselves a governor whom the rest of the country recognizes as top quality. Many will not agree but we have done it twice in a row. Toney didn't know how to handle it. Garrey has the luxury of hindsight to see what mistakes not to make.

Carruthers began his association with the nation's Republican governors with a bang. Fresh off a campaign victory, he went to the Republican Governors Conference a year ago and kept right on campaigning—for

New Mexico to host the 1987 conference. Governors association chairman Tom Kean said that by the time they got around to voting, no one even considered any other state.

Garrey got to share the head table throughout the conference and shared the microphones at two news conferences. The biggest news at the conference was the attendance of troubled Arizona Gov.

Evan Mecham. Since the chairman and vice-chairman were both from the East Coast, they deferred questions on that subject to Carruthers.

Our governor was not overjoyed with that circumstance but got lots of air-time and handled himself well. Even though you're now famous, Garrey, we're glad you still love us.

Message to Gorbachev $3.9 billion authorized for current SDI spending Senator Pete Domenici (R-NM) said he was "very pleased" with the final $3.9 billion level set by Congress for the Strategic Defense Initiative (SDI) spending this year.

SDI is a key aspect of the House-Senate compromise on the Defense Authorization bill, which will be filed with the Congress next week.

"This is better than we had expected," Domenici said. "The Senate Armed Services Committee had recommended $4.5 billion, while the House Armed Services Committee had recommended $3.1 billion. A lot of people expected that we would split the difference and settle on $3.8 billion.

"Fortunately, the Senate was able to obtain an extra $100 million in authorization," Domenici added. The $3.9 billion in SDI funds for the current fiscal year includes programs for both the Department of Defense and the Department of Energy.

"While there is no way to know exactly how much of this money will be spent in New Mexico, any increase in SDI spending is good news, since a considerable share of the total money goes to work in our state."

The Director of the Strategic Defense Initiative Organization, Gen. James Abrahamson, enjoys considerable discretion to spend whatever he is given in accordance with his priorities. Congress does not appropriate SDI projects on a line item basis.

L. C. Extension Homemakers Council quarterly meeting

The Lincoln County Extension Homemakers Council met in Tinnie recently for its quarterly meeting.

Reports on activities of the last three months were given. These included a talk by Al Booky on the Constitution, making of chile ristras, sweat-shirt workshops, membership teas, Christmas ideas, travelogues, native plants, Achievement Day and county fair.

Charlotte Hill, home economist, gave a report on her trip with the top five 4-H'ers who went to Washington, DC for a leadership conference.

It was definitely a working conference with no time for sightseeing. Most of these 4-H'ers from every state in the union, had already been to Washington on such programs as Washington Focus.

The young people and their leaders got an insight on an intrusion of their privacy and rights when the plane they returned was filled with gay righters.

Sara Dockrey will be La Juntas guest speaker Nov. 18. She will report on her trip to Washington, DC. We hope other Lincoln County 4-H'ers who went will also be able to participate.

Dorothy Talley and Phyllis Zumwalt reported on the state mid-year meeting in Santa Fe. Also a report was given on the meeting in Roswell.

Dates to remember—Jan. 27-28, legislature days in Santa Fe. This year the High Mesa Inn will provide a shuttle bus; Feb. 24, county cultural arts at Carrizozo; Rosalie Dunlap chairman.

March 9, district cultural arts and conference at Ft. Sumner; Jan La Rue, chairman.

Lincoln County is responsible for registration and refreshments.

Over two million Americans are 65 and over.

Letters to the Editor

Registration drive pays off

EDITOR—May I take this opportunity to thank you for the publicity concerning the Voter Registration Drive conducted by this office Nov. 18, 1987.

It is my pleasure to announce a most successful turnout of residents that took the opportunity to register to vote.

My staff is now working on processing the forms and the registered voters will be receiving their certified copies as quickly as we can process them.

I would like to remind the public that any resident who is not registered to vote may do so here at the courthouse, or at the city hall. Arrangements can also be made, by calling this office, to have a deputy registration officer dispatched to the home of the handicapped or disabled.

FRAN SIDDENS, Lincoln County Clerk

Well, answer the man

EDITOR—If we know the Soviets bug our embassies and subvert our guards.

If we know that the Soviets engage in aggression as in Afghanistan.

If we know the Soviets keep Eastern European countries as captive nations.

If we know the Soviets have flown Cuban Communist troops to maintain Red control of Angola and Ethiopia and are deeply involved in other African countries.

If we know that the Soviets have established Cuba as a Communist base 90 miles from our shore.

If we know that the Soviets are using Nicaragua as a base for their plan to spread a Communist revolution without borders throughout Latin America to our border with Mexico.

If we know the Soviets have violated most all of their nuclear and other agreements with us.

Why is it so many Americans insist on making deals with Soviets? They don't make or keep agreements to the disadvantage of communism, only to the disadvantage of freedom.

JEFFREY W. BARNES, Loch, CA.

'Helping' South Africa

EDITOR—We are now told that in the Republic of South Africa, communist revolutionaries have burned to death more than 700 victims in those gasoline soaked fires that they call "necklaces."

Instead of denouncing and exposing the murderers and the terrorists, American policy has been to place economic sanctions on the whole country. The results have been what should have been expected, unemployment among the semi-skilled blacks and coloreds.

Since the fall of 1984, these terrorists have destroyed or badly damaged 1417 black owned businesses, 4435 black private homes, 46 black churches, 54 black community centers, hundreds of black schools, and at least 26 black clinics." (See, Conservative Digest, Nov. 1987 p. 26.)

Please note, the terrible crimes being committed are not most likely to be whites against blacks and colored, or even blacks and colored against whites. Usually the crimes are blacks and colored against other blacks and colored.

Unemployed people are easier to agitate into violence than are people who are gainfully employed. Then, too, there are a dozen different tribes in South Africa, and some of those tribes have hated each other since as far back as anyone can remember. Those age old hatreds make it easy for agitators to motivate certain blacks against tribal enemies.

And don't think that the agitators are not busy; they work overtime.

Into that milieu, the American economic sanctions grind on. American businesses close down and withdraw. American credit disappears. The ranks of the unemployed continue to grow. The terrorists continue their bloody violence.

If South Africa falls to the communist terrorists, it will be hard to convince the world that American liberals, enforcing economic sanctions, did not push it.

RAYMOND C. WILSON, San Juan Bautista, CA.

more victims. George Orwell must have been thinking along those lines when he wrote that war is "an evil and it is often the lesser evil. Those who take the sword perish by the sword, and those who don't take the sword perish by smelly disease."

THE lesson we should have learned at Pearl Harbor is that we should carry a big club and be prepared to use it. (A pause here while peaceniks attend their heart attacks.)

SANDRA COPELAND

Corona student wins national recognition

Sandra Copeland, a Corona High School senior, was elected director of the American Junior Hereford Association at the recent national convention held in Kansas City.

As one of nine directors, Sandra will participate in the Youth Beef Industries Conference in Nebraska and the AJHA Spring Board meeting in Mississippi where plans for various shows and activities for next year's national meeting will be made. Sandra will also travel throughout the country to AJHA Field Days during the coming year.

Sandra, a Claunch, NM ranch girl, has been active in various agriculture-related organizations for years. She has been a member of New Mexico Junior Hereford Association since 1977 and has served that group in various capacities. She was the NMJHA Queen in 1986 and is the current NMJHA president.

In campaigning for her directorship election, Sandra wrote a biographical essay and prepared a brochure listing her awards and achievements. She delivered a speech at the national convention and fielded questions from the audience in addition to giving two impromptu speeches. She was also interviewed by a selection committee before being elected.

She has a long list of 4-H awards to her credit and is currently serving as president of County Council. She was the winner of the Chicago trip in October of 1987 and received a $750 scholarship. She is also an active Corona FFA member and recently attended the National Convention in Kansas City. She is currently the Chapter Sweetheart.

The most recent winners this year were Grand Futurity Heifer and Reserve Grand Hereford Heifer at the New Mexico State Fair; Grand Hereford Heifer at Eastern New Mexico State Fair in Roswell; Grand Champion Heifer and Reserve Grand Steer at Lincoln County Fair.

As though raising and showing Herefords weren't enough to keep her busy, Sandra maintains a 4.0 grade point average and is involved in numerous school and community activities. She is a member of Claunch Community Church, Corona Youth Group, National Honor Society and was chosen Who's Who Among American Students, and Society of Distinguished American High School Students. She also finds time to play on the Corona basketball team and participate in track. She is the daughter of Ernest and Brenda Copeland of Claunch.

ROUND HOUSE ACTIVITY

"Our railroad depot wasn't different from the thousands of others scattered across our country. There was a good sized waiting room with a huge stove in the middle. This was kept stoked and supplied with coal by the depot agent and telegraph operators, or call-boys as the case might be. Around the edges of the waiting room underneath the windows were benches where you could either sit or lay down and await your train's arrival."

The excerpt is taken from "Carrizozo Story" by Johnson Stearns and it brings memories of the days my parents, my brothers and I waited in the wee hours of the morning for a train bound for Santa Rosa, NM. There we boarded a bus and headed to Las Vegas, where my grandparents waited in an old Ford. By 6 o'clock we were at their ranch in Trujillo.

We traveled by train to El Paso and even to California.

"When they had come. My father was a Southern Pacific employee.

"There would be train conductors and brakemen present, getting ready to take their trains out, while the engine crews registered out at the roundhouse," continues Stearns in his account of railroad history.

"At Carrizozo there was an oil pump and water spout on the main line. Immediately as the engine of a passenger train drew to a stop the round house crew, Snooks McDaniel, Ira Stephens, Ernie Roberts, Jim Baxter, Andy MacBrayer, Brack Cornett, Paul Ortiz, Refugio Najas, Abe Sanchez (my father), whoever was working—to mention some of them, would immediately descend upon the engine to check it from one end to the other, adding whatever water or oil might be needed and assuring that an inspection had been made to avert any difficulties pleted their duties there the engineer and fireman would be in the cab and promptly at a given time the engineer would blow his whistle and after receiving acknowledgements from everyone on the crew that the train was ready to roll, it slowly moved forward amidst a lot of noise and the firebox belching fire, beginning another step on its journey either east or west."

Thanks, Johnson for a glimpse of yesteryear with its sounds and sights.

THE RIGHT TRACK

Last month two Southern Pacific employees, Special Agents G.T. Frazer and Edward Escarciga, talked to Carrizozo school students about safety with trains, warned them that railroads are dangerous playgrounds and advised them to stay away from railroad property at play.

Escarciga told students about his job protecting the railroad, and that special agents once were "the only law enforcement in the old west," protecting the railroad from the likes of Jesse James, the Dalton Brothers and raiding Apache Indians.

But most important the special agents told the students about safety around trains.

FAMILY CHRISTMAS

"A Family Christmas" is a booklet available free from the Lincoln County Extension office in Carrizozo. The publication has a special meaning for every family, coming from years of holiday traditions. The recipes were developed to involve the whole family.

Baking with children can be fun, as well as good learning experience. With the help of parents, grandparents, older brothers and sisters, children can learn basic baking skills, practice reading and develop coordination.

Create a charming easy gingerbread house, bake candy cane and wreath but-tery cookies and try the paint-brush cookies. The "paint" made of egg yolks, water and food coloring. The cookies are brushed and then baked.

MILITARY MAIL CALL

Last year, cards and letters from every part of the country were sorted into more than 700 bundles and sent all across the US and around the world for our service men and women, primarily those unable to spend Christmas with their families, many of them young people away from home for the first time.

Leading New Mexico Military Mail Call participants: VFW Post No. 6216, Albuquerque, and Doreen Lee, Clovis.

Mail Call is a project that can be undertaken by rural families, church groups, veterans organizations and auxiliaries, 4-H, FHA, and schools from kindergarten through college.

For information on how your family and various groups can have a part in this patriotic program send your name and address with a first-class stamp to: Military Mail Call, Box 9829, Norfolk, VA 23505-0829.

THANKSGIVING BOXES were filled and delivered to families in Corona and Carrizozo on Nov. 25. Among those helping were (from left) Donna Doty, Rene Burton, Vernelle Hightower, Beverly Graham and Carol Northrop.

Food Bank delivers Thanksgiving boxes

"The support of the Carrizozo/Corona community for the Happy Thanksgiving Boxes was tremendous," says Rene Burton, chairman of this branch of the Lincoln County Food Bank.

She said 10 Corona families and 19 Carrizozo families, including 96 persons in all, were delivered food boxes on Tuesday before Thanksgiving Day. This outpouring was the result of efforts by many, including the Corona Schools, Corona Salvation Army and Carrizozo Elementary School. Two local organizations donated money, the Valley of Fires Lionses and the Carrizozo Woman's Club. Other food donations of turkeys, apples, canned goods and baked goods were given by individuals and churches.

Food donations for the month of November amount to $750 and nearly $150 of that amount was collected by Carrizozo Mid-High and High School students.

The local Food Bank is here to serve in emergency situations and those in need on a short term basis until they qualify for other help or resolve their situations.

Regular hours for the Food Bank, housed in the Family Pharmacy building, are Tuesday from 11 a.m. to 12 noon. Help at other times is available by calling 648-2102, Rene Burton, or 648-2342, sheriff's office.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNERS OF LINCOLN COUNTY PROPERTY TAXES DUE

Notice is hereby given that 1987 property taxes became due November 10, 1987 and will become delinquent December 11, 1987. Taxes may be paid in full by December 10, 1987, or in two equal installments, with the second half becoming due April 10, 1988 and delinquent if not paid by May 10, 1988.

Pursuant to Section 7-31-50 of the New Mexico Property Tax Code, a minimum penalty of five dollars ($5.00) or one percent per month must be charged on all delinquent taxes, and pursuant to Section 7-31-49, one percent per month must be collected on all delinquent accounts.

Owners of personal property such as mobile homes or office equipment, who have allowed taxes to become delinquent more than two years will be served with a demand warrant for collection of these delinquent taxes, pursuant to Section 7-38-33 of New Mexico Statutes Annotated 1978, if delinquent taxes are not paid in full.

Pursuant to Section 7-38-53, property taxes are the personal obligation of the owner of the property and the sale or transfer of property within that tax year does not relieve the former owner of personal liability for property taxes in that year. Over 50 pieces of the sterling silver service set used on the battleship USS New Mexico are on exhibit starting Nov. 25 at the Palace of the Governors in Santa Fe.

The exhibition has been prepared by the Museum of New Mexico in response to two 1987 Legislative Memorials, House Memorial 16 and Senate Memorial 68, which specified that the memorabilia from the battleship be placed on public display.

Except for a few pieces currently on view at the State Capitol, most of the 56-piece set designed and produced by Tiffany's of New York will be displayed at the Palace. These include a unique three-tier humidior designed to represent Taos Pueblo, candelabra, a punch bowl, an urn, cigar cutters, approximately 20 desert plates and numerous other pieces used on the ship from 1918 to 1939.

Also exhibited are photographs of the ship and several workshop drawings of the Tiffany designs. Tiffany's produced silver services for other battleships, including a 119-piece set for the USS New Jersey. The Taos Pueblo-inspired humidior, with its three compartments for cigars, cigarettes and matches, recently returned to Santa Fe from the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston where it had been featured in an exhibition commemorating the 150th anniversary of Tiffany and Company.

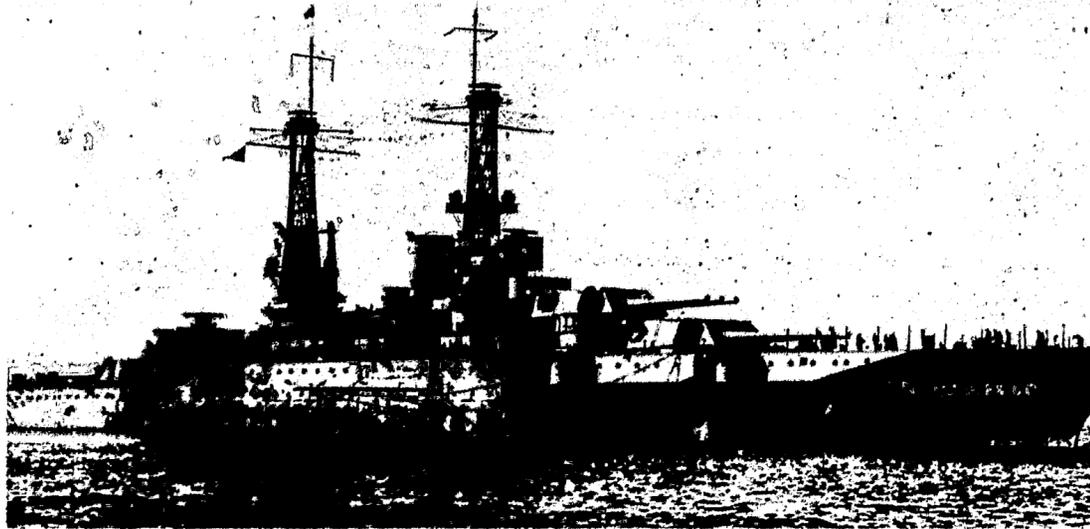

"The tradition of equipping American Naval vessels with silver services began in the late 19th century," says Palace curator Diana DeSantis. "Gifts ranging from tea and coffee sets to larger collections were provided by private individuals, cities or states rather than the Navy itself. The USS New Mexico's is one of the largest services ever commissioned, and is especially unusual because few such services have survived intact."

A design of cactus branches surmounted by the New Mexico State Seal adorns each piece. Each of the 24 dessert plates bears a different etched scene pertaining to New Mexico's history, from Spanish colonial time to statehood. The set cost $8,050 when it was made in 1918.

The first turbo-electric driven battleship, the USS New Mexico was launched April 23, 1917. The ship saw service on world seas from 1918 through World War II. Nicknamed "The Queen," it received six battle stars for its outstanding actions in assaults on Luzon, Okinawa, and the Gilbert, Marshall, Mariana and Aleutian Islands during World War II. It was commissioned too late to serve in World War I.

The 56-piece silver service was used on official occasions when receiving ambassadors and other dignitaries aboard the ship. After the ship was decommissioned in 1946, the silver was used on the aircraft carrier USS Midway and the USS Bonhomme Richard. The set was returned to the State of New Mexico at legislative request in 1963.

The Palace of Governors, a unit of the Museum of New Mexico, is located on the Plaza in downtown Santa Fe and is open from 10-5 daily except Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's.

THE USS NEW MEXICO, the world's first turbo-electric driven battleship, saw service on the Atlantic and the Pacific from 1918 through World War II. Over 50 pieces from the ship's sterling silver service, which was designed and made by Tiffany and Company in 1918, are on display at the Palace of the Governors in Santa Fe.
