At the end of the sessions, commission chairman John Hightower announced there were no results to report.

Commissioners also met with federal representatives concerning the overtime situation in the sheriff's department.

Two held in drug bust

Two people were arrested March 22 following a search of a residence in Ruidoso.

Found and confiscated were 6.6 ounces of psilocybin (mushrooms), an undisclosed quantity of marijuana and methamphetamine (speed).

No value has been attached to the drugs. Arrested and booked for possession of marijuana and meth with intent to distribute controlled substances were Jerry Rogers, 35, and Craig Henser, 36. Bond was set at $5,200 each.

The New Mexico State Police and personnel from the Lincoln County Sheriff's department made the arrests.

The Lincoln County Rural Water Users met at the Ruidoso Village Hall last week to hear Paul McClendon, Cedar Creek Assn.; Jim Edwards, EID; and Gavin Strrafdee, State Rural Waters Users, report on recent state meeting in Las Cruces.

Some items of importance discussed were the iodine and lead alert notification to water users no later than June 19, 1988; update on testing requirements for various population sizes (Lincoln County had until January 1991 to comply); liability insurance and cross connections.

One of the main new requirements is that only the state scientific laboratories or those approved by the state, can do the tests. As of today there are only two approved labs.

The initial cost will be $235, but if the tests are negative, other tests will not be needed for three years.

The next meeting is April 20. All 25 water users groups of

Lietzman strikes again

Ruidoso State Bank, Heckman sued to recover $110,000

By Ruth Hammond

Ruidoso State Bank and Fred R. Heckman Jr. of Ruidoso have been named as defendants in a suit filed in district court to recover money paid after order of stop payment.

Carolyn Lietzman is plaintiff in the action concerning events that happened in 1985.

Lietzman is seeking to recover money and is asking for an accounting of the partnership between Heckman and Robert Lietzman and wants to dissolve the partnership. Robert Lietzman died as the result of injuries from a helicopter crash in May 1985.

Allegations in the complaint concerning the $110,000 that was withdrawn by Heckman from the bank after order of stop payment:

Heckman had entered into a verbal agreement with Robert Lietzman in January 1985 for them to work together to pursue a development project known as the O-Bar-O property development. The objective of the partnership was to develop certain real property for profit within the O-Bar-O Ranch located east of Carrizozo.

Included in the development would be Vera Cruz subdivision, the headquarters subdivision and the O-Bar-O resort complete with management and operations.

Heckman was placed in the partnership in consideration for his labor, expertise, training, skill and professional knowledge as a consultant for the agreed sum of $189,000 as a fee plus one-third interest in the net proceeds of the profit earned by the O-Bar-O development.

Robert Lietzman loaned to the O-Bar-O development a total of $289,989.54 during the months of March, April and May 1985. The money loaned was transferred from Lietzman's account in the Bank of America in Singapore and deposited in the Ruidoso State Bank, O-Bar-O property development account No. 95389. The money was to be repaid upon completion of the Vera Cruz subdivision.

The last loan of $70,000 was made May 9, 1985. Robert Lietzman died May 17, 1985 when the helicopter he was in crashed on Carrizo Mountain.

Carolyn Lietzman, as surviving spouse, telephoned Ruidoso State Bank on May 31, 1985 and spoke with Preston Isaacs, assistant manager, and informed him that Robert Lietzman had died and that she was claiming an interest in the account; further advising the bank to stop payment on said account and to freeze all activity thereon.

She further alleges that after she informed the bank to stop payment on the account and freeze all activity concerning the account, that the bank contacted Heckman and advised him to withdraw the balance of the account.

Heckman did withdraw the balance of the account, which at that time was approximately $110,000, and converted it to his personal use.

Lietzman claims the bank had a duty to stop payment as requested and that the bank's failure to stop payment is a breach of fiduciary duty. She also alleges that the bank and Heckman assumed a fiduciary position with regard to activity on the account which transpired after Robert Lietzman died.

Lietzman filed that suit individually as personal representative for the estate of Robert Lietzman and as surviving spouse. Filed with the complaint was a request for a six-person jury trial and a disqualification of District Judge Richard A. Parsons from presiding over the trial.

Carrizozo Board of Trustees

Water improvement contract approved

During the March 22 meeting of the Carrizozo Board of Trustees approval was given to engineers Wilson & Company of Albuquerque to proceed with water system improvements for the town.

Bill Zimmerman and Alan O'Brien, engineers with Wilson & Co., presented a proposal for preparation of preliminary design, final design and post-design for rehabilitation of the water storage tank and cleaning the water lines from the tank to 17th and J Street.

The first portion of the work will be "pigging" the lines to remove the buildup in the lines. The buildup was given as the possible reason for the low water pressure in parts of the town.

Wilson & Co. will supervise all work in addition to preparing the designs. The cost will be $14,000 for preparation of the designs. Another $8,000 in estimated fees is included in the contract and will depend upon the amount of time spent supervising the work.

The contract for cleaning and recoating the interior of the water storage tank and for pigging the lines will be put out for bid according to design specifications.

In other business Mayor Bob Hemphill appointed a police support committee from names submitted by the trustees. Appointed were Danny Burnett, Nick Serna, Paul Guevara, Rene Burton, Jerry Tucker, Linda Gibson and Dale Goad. The appointments are tentative until the positions are accepted.

The police support committee will meet as soon as possible to list problems and establish the three priorities and then to list possible solutions to the problems. The committee will then recommend the solutions to the town council for their consideration.

The recent breakins and burglaries in the area caused many citizens to voice their concern at the March 8 town council meeting. At that time newly elected trustee Harold Garcia recommended the police support committee to help provide solutions to the problems of safety in the town.

Four bids were received for a tractor and mower. The bids will be taken under consideration and the bid award will be made at the April 12 meeting.

Trustee Albert Baca reported that the roof on the Rec Center needed to be repaired or replaced. Hemphill said he was applying for a grant or Exxon rebate to be used on energy efficiency work for the building.

Baca asked about the pile of dirt at the corner of 14th Street and Birch. The dirt was placed there by the contractor doing the street paving and was not removed at the completion of the street paving.

Local residents wanting any of the dirt should contact city hall. There is no charge for the dirt and the town crews will deliver it.

Trustees approved having a street light installed at the corner of Birch and Highway 380. The installation fee is $118 and the monthly fee for the light would be $13.19.

Trustees discussed paying a portion of the gas bill at the Rec Center because of the amount used during the Municipal League meeting March 11.

Consideration of monthly compensation for town trustees was discussed and will be considered during the budget workshops.

RC&D members hear about clean water

Jim Edwards, county environmentalist with the Environmental Improvement Division (EID) in Ruidoso, was guest speaker at the March 22 meeting of the South Central Mountain RC&D.

Edwards explained amendments made to the safe drinking water act and the required testing of water supply systems. He did say he does not expect a problem in this area, and told how Nogal had safe drinking water even during the time there was no treatment of the water.

Ralph Romero reported that the New Mexico Christmas Tree Growers held their first conference. RC&D will help with local meetings to encourage more growers in this area. There are 50 growers in the three-year-old organization.

RC&D coordinator Howard Shanks said he had attended a meeting in Nashville, and explained some of the things he learned while there.

He will take more training in Denver on area plans and learn more about incorporating.

If incorporated, the RC&D could write and accept grants, but there are drawbacks as well as advantages to incorporating.

Shanks said the SCS is promoting RC&D rural development. He attended a meeting in Santa Fe and discussed hydro-electric work in the Alamogordo area.

Mildred Crocker, representing the Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County, invited everyone to join the organization to help Lincoln County. Membership is $200. She said the group is cataloging every empty building in the county for information for prospective industries.

Carrizozo School Superintendent Danny Burnett asked the RC&D to help with One bid in the amount of $35,000 was received from Vibra-World & Co. of Panhandle, TX, who was awarded the bid.

Money to pay for the track will come from the 2 mil levy approved by voters to be used for capital outlay or for certain non-recurring expenses. It will take five days to install the latex track surface and when finished it will be black with white stripes. The surface comes with a five-year guarantee.

School Superintendent Danny Burnett announced that an elementary track meet would be held on the new surface and, "with the new surface we hope to revive the Grizzly relays."

WORKING MOMS

As a mother of six, a report by Working Mother magazine caught my attention.

The publication's survey drew responses from 2,811 working mothers around the country. The magazine found that housework is still the working mothers' job.

Nine out of 10 working moms said they do the laundry regularly. Husbands and children do the laundry regularly 25 percent of the time. On the other end of the scale, 27 percent of husbands never even throw a dirty sock into the washer.

Sixty-seven percent of the respondents do the vacuuming, 77 percent prepared dinner by themselves, 59 percent set the table and 64 percent do the after-dinner cleanup without help.

In my household the dishes are always done, thanks to the dishwasher.

I've gone through three dishwashers. (I'm the kind of cook who uses lots of pots and pans to whip up a meal.) Currently I have two dishwashers in good working order... one is in the 10th grade and the other is in the 8th grade.

NO BACK-TALK

Helping Mattei Toys give birth to a new doll two years ago called My Child, Bill Cosby gave a New York audience an unusual sales pitch.

"These dolls are great because they have none of the qualities that real children have," he said before offering a few examples.

"When my son turned 16, his first words were: 'Wanna Porsche.'"

GIFT QUILT

Students at a Tennessee elementary school presented first lady Nancy Reagan with a specially made "Just Say No" quilt.

Reagan visited Nashville to observe its Foster Grandparents Program, which works along with the school's alcohol and drug prevention programs.

Fourth-grade students spent part of their Christmas vacation making squares for a quilt to give the first lady. Her first visit planned in January was cancelled because of snow.

Reagan was interested in visiting Warner School because it "links the professional curriculum of the Wally program with the wisdom and counseling provided by grandparents. Wally, a super-hero from outer space, teaches children to Just Say No."

Grandparents in the Nashville program spend an hour each day with students for a one-on-one session talking about drugs, alcohol or any problems or ideas the students may have.

PUBLIC POLICY FORUM

Charolette Hill, Lincoln County home economist, was a New Mexico representative in Washington, DC at a public policy forum sponsored by the National Association of Extension Home Economists. There were 65 home economists with one or two from each state and two from Puerto Rico.

The theme of the forum was "The Global Economy, Our Application at Home." According to Hill, the essence of the conference seemed to be that we are a part of the global economy, like it or not, and this needs to be addressed. Stressed to the legislators was the impact on the average American family. Family attitudes and values will determine the local interpretations of these impacts and the adjustment needed when jobs are either added or eliminated.

HOUSEHOLD MANAGEMENT

Home extension has assisted women in this nation for a better way of life through its adult education on new and improved ways of managing a household. Women learn facts on good nutrition, better ways in buying and preparing meals. They learn skills in constructing and selecting clothes for themselves and their families. They learn about better housing and energy saving, furniture selection and its care.

Home extension teaches better family relations, creates a better home and builds a better community. A benefit of an extension club is the getting together with friends and neighbors, enjoying each other's company, while working and learning as a unit.

YOUTH GROUP

A 4-H youth program is aimed at developing youth through the involvement of parents and other adults who organize and conduct learning experiences in a community setting. Extension clubs and 4-H go hand in hand.

To learn more about 4-H and extension clubs contact the Extension office. Address your mail to Box 217, Carrizozo, NM 88301, or call 648-2311. Both programs are open to everyone regardless of socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Food Bank asks for food coupon donations

The Carrizozo/Corona Branch of the Lincoln County Food Bank is asking that food coupons be donated for their use.

King's Food Mart and Family Pharmacy allow volunteers to tape these coupons on products in their stores. When someone purchases this product, the cents-off coupon is then redeemed for the benefit of the Food Bank, not the purchaser.

The Branch Food Bank meets the second Tuesday of each month at the Carrizozo home of Rene Burton, president, at 10 a.m. Other officers now serving are: Sarah Jackson, vice president; Beverly Graham, secretary; and Donna Doty, treasurer.

Interested persons may attend these meetings, and volunteers are needed to sign up to staff the Food Bank. It is open each Tuesday morning from 11 to 12 noon to help needy people on a short-term basis or in emergency situations. Emergencies can be helped by calling 648-2102 or the sheriff's office, 648-2342.

Club previews new street signs

Carrizozo Woman's Club members discussed the community improvement project during the March meeting. Carrizozo FFA chapter secretary Marcia Hefker displayed the street signs that are being made for the main street in Carrizozo as part of the CIP project.

The names of the streets are cut from plate steel with oxygen/acetylene torches and are welded inside square tubing and placed on posts that will be embedded in concrete. Two signs will be placed at each intersection. The street signs will be finished later this school year.

In other business, club members voted to begin accepting applications for the Woman's Club scholarship. The winner will be decided by secret ballot among the members and the winner will be announced at graduation, May 20.

Three applications were received for the Harriett Donohoo scholarship. The application submitted by Kelly Sheehan was forwarded to the state to be considered for the scholarship.

Peggy Najar reported the Valentine bake sale was a success, and the club earned $38 on the pillow raffle. The pillow was made by Ramona Ortiz.

Lisa Hightower is the Carrizozo representative for the Hugh O'Brien Youth Foundation (HOBY) leadership seminar and will attend June 10-12.

April 9 at 9 a.m. will be club building clean-up day. All club members are asked to bring cleaning supplies and wear cleaning clothes for the day to polish windows and do once-a-year jobs at the clubhouse.

The nominating committee will have suggested nominations for officers for the next year at the April 8 meeting.

Proceeds from the Valentine's bake sale were sent to Girl's Ranch.

The state Woman's Club convention will be held in Las Cruces at the Hilton Inn April 15 and 16.

Polly Chavez displayed quilts and told of quilt making.

The community is invited and welcome to either portion or all of this Maundy Thursday service.

Lincoln Ramblings

By Rosalie Dunlap

The Bonito Valley Water Right Users met recently to elect their directors on the Water Defense Association. They elected Peg Pfingsten, David Lee and Joe Salazaar.

Warm weather and wind has certainly dried the country out and there have been several grass fires. Lincoln is looking forward to getting a new fire truck soon. It is going to be nice to have a new truck and one that will work. Several from Lincoln helped fight the fire at San Patricio.

Barbara Barrows, Odessa, TX visited with Rosina Locke last week.

OPINION

●Gloating my way through comment that appeared in this column in 1978. I find this item. It is dedicated to our puissant and pulchritudinous county clerk, Fran Siddens, who cheers my pugnacious pummeling of people who can't mind their own business.

●"I never seem to tire of pointing out that the holiest of terrors come from the ranks of reformed drunks, reformed whores and reformed cigarette smokers. They are tireless, arrogant, ruthless, dedicated and blind to all things except the crusade they espouse. Which is why Health, Education & Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano is mounting a national campaign to stop Americans from smoking. He is a reformed three-pack-a-day smoker, which explains his zeal in destroying each American's right to smoke or not—and with his own money! This is Big Brotherism at its most ridiculous. Califano says 78,000 people die of lung cancer each year, with cigarette smoking the major factor. If this is true (and it hasn't been proved to be true), a person still has the right to acquire cancer by whatever means he chooses. It is one of the few choices the government has left him. I might point out to Mr. Califano that overeating is a greater killer than cigarettes; that the HEW Secretary has a gut all out of proportion to his stature, which indicates over-eating (or gluttony); therefore, we should either stamp out food or severely restrict its intake. Fortunately for posterity, Mr. Califano isn't a reformed whore."

●Rachel Kawasaki of Las Vegas, NV recently got into a verbal brawl with Richard Thompson, publisher of US News and World Report magazine. Mrs. Kawasaki got a notice to renew her subscription which said she could have a special deal—52 issues for $34, just 65 cents per copy." She whipped out her computer, multiplied 65 cents times 52 issues and came up with $33.80, which is 20 cents less than the $34 advertised price. She grabbed the phone and got Publisher Thompson on the line to explain her arithmetic. Thompson explained that the figures were just rounded off, and Kawasaki asked why the price wasn't correct in the first place and if there was any rounding of figures, why wasn't the figures rounded in her favor. "Take it or leave it," snapped Thompson. Kawasaki then pointed out that if they have a million circulation that 20 cents translates into $200,000—enough to pay a publisher's salary, for a chauffeur, town house, and a trip to the Riviera. Thompson slammed up the phone. Kawasaki reports that Newsweek snockers its subscribers for 10 cents in the same manner US News does. She says other publications pull the same trick, and she's making a study that may force the media to use the old math, not the new. So, Rachel Kawasaki joins the Gutsy Women's Association, Lincoln County chapter, which includes Carolyn Lietzman, Fern Sawyer, Fran Siddens, Opal Mills and Audear Franklin.

●It appears that the presidential nominees in the coming general election will be George Bush for the Republican Party and Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis for the Democratic Party. Bush is well known as a supporter of Ronald Reagan policies. But what of Dukakis? Few voters outside the New England states have knowledge of his record or his policies. A little background on him follows.

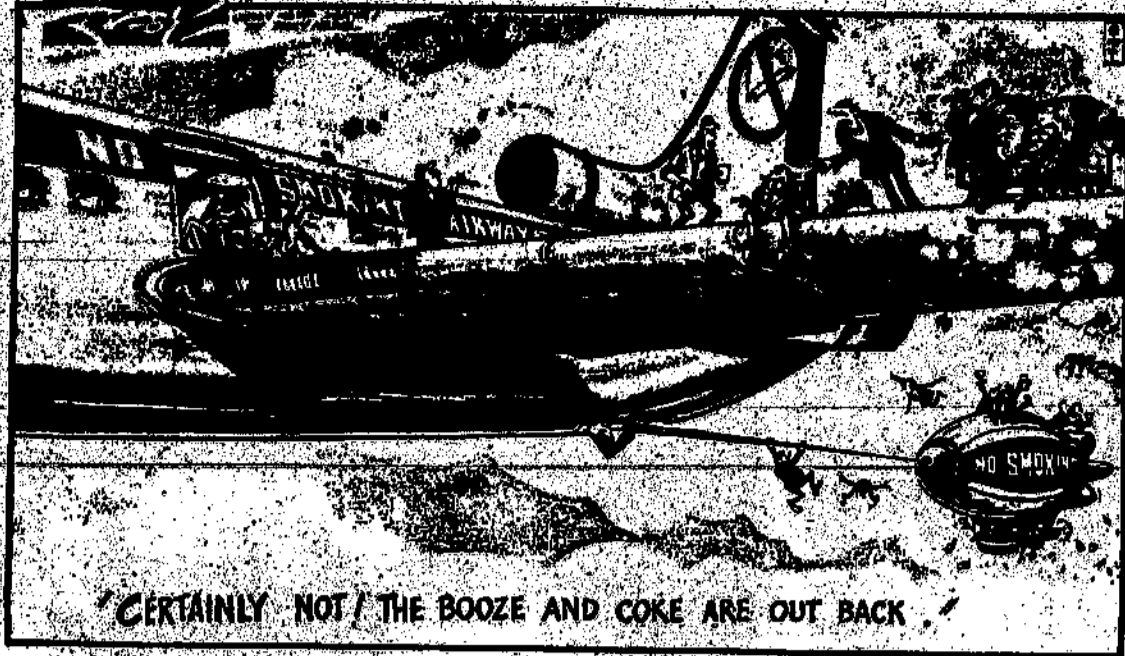

●Dukakis was chairman of the Students for Democratic Action when in college at Swarthmore. That is the outfit made famous for rioting and terrorism in the '60s, of which Tom Hayden was a leader, and out of which grew the Weathermen, a terrorist group. Even at that time he was a card-carrying member of the American Civil Liberties Union. Still is.

●Dukakis, as Governor of Massachusetts, is a leading supporter of the homosexual community. Last year he pushed through the state House of Representatives a "gay rights" bill and has promised to push hard to get it through the Senate this year. He favors legalized abortion, on demand, and at taxpayer expense. He is strongly supported by the National Gay and Lesbian Task Force. He favors passage of the Equal Rights Amendment. He is a deadly foe of nuclear power and a strong opponent of gun ownership and cigarette smoking. He is opposed to a strong national defense, opposed the MX and Midgetman missiles; the Trident D-5 submarine based missile. He opposed the B-1 Bomber, chemical weapons and the Strategic Defense Initiative (SDI). He has opposed every measure to strengthen America's defenses. He opposes the Contras in Nicaragua and refused to let his state's National Guard troops train in Honduras, and supports the Sandinistas in Nicaragua.

●In 1977 when he was governor of Massachusetts, he vetoed a bill that required public school teachers to start the first class of each school day by leading students in the Pledge of Allegiance. The students were so aroused they picketed the Dukakis-dominated legislature and sang "God Bless America" as the legislators over-rode the veto. On the law and order front, Dukakis commuted the sentences of 37 murderers during his first term as governor of Massachusetts. This set a record for the state, and probably the nation.

●This left-wing Democrat never tires of talking about how he has submitted nine balanced budgets in Massachusetts—never explaining that a balanced budget is mandated by law in Massachusetts. He brags of improving the economy of his state, taking personal credit for a seeming "miracle." What he doesn't mention is that the improved economy was brought about when tax-burdened citizens of his state forced a tax cut initiative in 1980, known as Proposition 2½, patterned after California's Proposition 13. His state was helped by the Reagan Administration's Reagan-Kemp-Roth federal tax cuts of 1981—a program he denounced at every opportunity.

●So much for the ideological blood-brother of radical Tom Hayden. It will be a pleasure to welcome him to the November elections because I always delight in voting against enemies of our country and of our society.

Inside the Capitol

By Jay Miller

SANTA FE—Despite all good intentions to the contrary, Gov. Garrey Carruthers may have done exactly what he had hoped not to—lead New Mexico into open gambling.

Oh, it was completely unintentional. In fact, it seemed downright harmless at the time. Actually, it provided everyone with a real good chuckle.

You see, there's this senator from Albuquerque. He wears an eye patch but he really doesn't look like a pirate. He's usually got a big friendly grin on his face—not at all like the scowl of a Long John Silver or a Capitan Hook.

But he may be just about as dangerous because he's always sneaking up behind you and doing the most predictable things. And everyone just goes along because of that disarming smile and engaging manner.

Like the time he kidded the legislature along until he got them to pass his pari-mutuel mule wagering bill. Garrey didn't want to be a spoil-sport so he went along with the joke.

But, wait a minute, what did our governor just do? He legalized another form of wagering—exactly what he was trying not to do.

It may all sound very innocent, but legalized gambling on mule racing is a hoof-in-the-door for open gambling on all types of exotic game racing.

Well, the good people down in Deming have heard about it. Matter of fact, they invented it!

The Deming Duck Races are world famous. They have now been rechristened "The Great American Duck Race."

Franchises are starting to spring up around the country. There is a duck race track in Texas, which holds preliminary heats in mid-summer leading up to "The Granddaddy of Them All" in Deming in late August.

You will recall that Texas legalized pari-mutuel horse racing just last summer. They are not going to stop there, folks.

Oil prices are still down. Texas state revenues are being hit even worse than New Mexico's. They are going to have to look for more sources of revenue for their ailing coffers.

Besides, their economy can no longer stand the drain of all those Texans streaming across the border, headed for Deming, New Mexico to spend all their money.

It would be tragic if Texas legalized pari-mutuel duck racing before New Mexico.

I want you to picture something, now. I have already described Albuquerque's Sen. Tom Benavidez, for whom Carruthers has already legalized a new form of gambling. Benavidez does not have a peg leg, that anyone has ever seen, but he still presents a very different image from the trio of lawmakers who represent the Deming area.

First, there is octagonal-arian Ike Smalley, who has served in the New Mexico Senate since the Lord created senators. Everyone looks up to Ike and few ever tell him, no.

nor declared the closing day of this past legislature as "Ike Smalley Day in New Mexico." He hosted a reception for Ike at the mansion, at which all living past governors were in attendance.

They all said nice things about Ike, after which he announced, "I appreciate the remarks from all the governors who served under me. At times, they all needed a little guidance."

Now, picture, if you will, the two members of the House who serve the Deming area. Reps. G.X. McSherry and Murray Ryan are somewhat like two peas in a pod. Both are in their mid-60s and as squeaky-clean as if they had been invented for the purpose.

To say they are clean-cut would be a cheap shot. McSherry is bald; Ryan is bald. McSherry is a rancher, farmer and banker. Ryan is a West Point graduate, who still has the military bearing.

Both bring their wives to town for the entire legislative session. They are outstanding family men and are above reproach.

Got the picture? All right. Now, picture the three walking into the office of Gov. Carruthers and telling him they want to legalize pari-mutuel duck racing.

I mean, what's the guy going to say? His only hope to keep the door from flying wide open is that the folks down in Deming aren't that much into gambling so, maybe, they'll never ask.

But, if they do, it's all over. The cock fighters come to the legislature every few years seeking legislation. Once they get it, what's to keep bull fighting from creeping up across the border? It'll never end.

Make bacon out of the hog?

EDITOR—The recent political announcement by Mr. Nosker in your paper brings to mind this question: When there is only one feeding trough (Lincoln County government), how do you keep one particular hog (the "Old Boy" clique) from wallowing in it (messing it up for all) short of making bacon out of the hog? I will have other questions later.

DOCTORS SEARCH FOR WAYS TO IMPROVE OUR HEALTH

Thirty years ago the word laser didn't even exist. Today great importance is attached to the use of lasers in medicine. They have been successfully used in eye treatment, to stop internal bleeding, remove polyps and perform other procedures. Researchers are currently examining a new method of treating a heart disease that affects millions of people the world over.

A team of surgeons at the Center for Laser Surgery have pioneered an operation to restore the blood supply to the heart with the help of a laser.

A dangerous disease called ischemia, or angina pectoris, begins with atherosclerosis, a narrowing of the arteries in the heart. When not enough oxygen gets to the heart, it begins to ache. Up until now, only in unusual cases was it possible to completely restore the functioning of the arteries. Otherwise, the disease is incurable.

After years of experiments with animals, a team of surgeons from the Center for Laser Surgery in the Soviet Union decided to create new blood supply channels in the human heart. A laser beam cauterizes the opening of the channel in such a way that inflammation cannot occur. The walls of the channels are lined with endothelium, which grows naturally, thus turning them into normal blood vessels.

The Scalpel-1 installation is used for laser surgery.

Lasers are used to weld resonators in quartz watches at a factory in Uglich.

A network of tiny capillaries starts growing between the channels, and they carry the oxygen to the cells of the cardiac muscle. The channels made by the laser beam never close up. One recent patient of the clinic had 27 channels created this way, and another patient had 40. On the second day after the operation the patients were allowed to sit up. Shortly thereafter they were released from the clinic.

The powerful impulses laser that the surgeons used to perform the operations was designed by scientists at the Lebedev Physics Institute of the Soviet Union Academy of Sciences.

Lasers held great hope for the future in many areas of medicine that may no longer require extensive surgery but can be healed with the powerful laser beam.
