Implementing new federal law

Mock disaster drill gets excellent rating

By Ruth Hammond

Lincoln County emergency responders received an excellent rating in the mock disaster drill Monday. Jim Fynquist, EMS Region III director, said that Lincoln County is the first county in the state to pass in all areas.

Including all departments in the county, law enforcement, ambulances, fire departments, Forest Service, county road department, utilities, Red Cross, civil defense and county government, the exercise was smooth.

Responders were hampered in their attempts to do their duties in the mock disaster by three separate individuals who interferred: a drunk policeman, a drunk fireman and a pesky reporter.

The drunk fireman became so obnoxious that he was handcuffed to the front of a fire truck. The drunk policeman entered a restricted area and was arrested. The pesky reporter, acting entirely out of character, got in the way of fireman, law enforcement personnel and EMTs and at one point donned a surgical mask and rubber gloves to slip by unnoticed.

Guarding the interior perimeter of a two-perimeter designation, Charlie Englekling of the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department, warned the reporter twice before putting her in the custody of the state police to be watched. Needless to say, the reporter was one of the three people arrested.

Observing the responders in action was an education. The first fire department on the scene surveyed the simulated accident; a school bus collision with a tanker carrying chlorine. Before entering the danger zone the firemen put on protective clothing, air packs on their backs and masks over their faces, and gloves, hats and coats and pants.

The firemen established the two perimeters and carried the injured from the scene to a battery of waiting ambulances. EMTs wearing surgical masks and rubber gloves, cared for the injured and transported them to the Lincoln County Medical Center and the Mescalero hospital.

Two kiddie swimming pools were brought to use for decontamination. Victims and workers stood in the pools to have the hazardous chemicals washed off. Standing in the pools helped contain the chemicals and keep them from contaminating the environment.

In addition to the simulated accident, the mock disaster included a forest fire, lightning, a heart attack victim and a hysterical person who ran into the scene and became contaminated with the chemical.

The county road crews arrived with a bulldozer, road grader and front-end loader and cut a ditch around the accident to contain the chemical.

Post commanders organized the evacuation of the immediate area, notification of the emergency to all state and federal agencies and gave press releases to the appropriate people.

A telephone was installed at the scene for help with communications and the power company simulated emergency wiring for the scene.

The work in the field was observed by Drs. Paul Whitwam, Roger Beechie, Paul Echols and Spence Hall. They were impressed with the efficient and quick response to each and every detail of the exercise.

Sandy Baca was dispatcher for the drill, assisted by Donn Dose on the phone.

The Carrizozo Volunteer Fire Department was unable to attend the mock disaster due to fighting a fire along eight miles of railroad track north of town.

EMS director for Lincoln County, Nancy Guck, was pleased that all responders in the county followed the written disaster plan. "None of the emergency professionals were contaminated by the chemicals," Guck said.

The training exercise is a requirement mandated by the federal government and the state. The drill is to be conducted annually by testing in field circumstances or a table top drill.

The federal law requiring employers to provide information and training on hazardous materials used or manufactured in the workplace became effective May 23.

All area responders have needed the training in the event an accident should occur while any hazardous material is being transported across the county.

The mock disaster was located two miles south of Capitan on Cora Dutton road. Coffee and cold drinks were furnished during the drill by the county. Pizza was provided at the end of the exercise, at cost by Dominos Pizza in Ruidoso, half paid for by the Ruidoso Rotary Club with special thanks to Jim Stover, and half paid for by the EMT Association.

Guck reported, "We learned a few things from the exercise. We need more firemen trained as EMTs and we need protective clothing for the EMTs." The county is sponsoring a first-responder course in Carrizozo for the Carrizozo Volunteer Fire Department. More classes will be scheduled as needed.

A group critique was held at the scene when the ambulance returned. It was noted that the drill was very safe and even though there was a shortage of law enforcement personnel, the exercise went well.

Englekling said that in an actual emergency it might be necessary to deputize private citizens to help contain the area.

Guck will schedule a meeting for the "Right to Know" committee to review the mock disaster.

VICTIMS OF THE mock disaster are treated in the ambulance area.

Camper Ranch Club cancels $3 million resort complex south of Carrizozo

Citing almost 14 months of delays, frustrations and cost overruns, Camper Ranch Club has cancelled plans to construct a $3 million resort complex, including an 18-hole golf course, on a large tract of land purchased in early 1987 on US Highway 54 south of Carrizozo.

The announcement came from John H. Latham, chairman of the board of the club, which has headquarters in Conroe, TX. The club operates eight recreational properties in four Southwestern states for its 7,000 members, who hail from all 50 states as well as Canada.

Most club members are elderly and retired, according to Latham. All own RVs—motorhomes, travel trailers or campers—and many live in their RVs the year around at the various club properties.

Camper Ranch Club originally planned 1,000 campsites at its development south of Carrizozo, with half of the sites for year-round residents and the other half for short-term visitors.

The development, a part of Mountain Springs Ranch, was to be called Valley of Fires RV Country Club.

"We have been in the campground business 15 years," says Latham, "and in campground construction almost as long. Based on prior experience, we were confident we could build a resort complex in Lincoln County for $3 million or less.

But it took us three months to obtain a permit to install our first septic tank, to be used as a dump station. And it was not issued until the Mayor of Carrizozo interceded on our behalf. In nearly 14 months, we have managed to complete one small building, a welcome center on US Highway 54.

"But while the building is complete, it is not yet open. We still have a bit more red tape to negotiate.

"Meanwhile, costs on everything we have accomplished has run approximately three times the original estimate.

"It is one thing to undertake building a $3 million resort. That is a huge investment, in my opinion. But to look down the road and see costs soaring to $7 1/2 to $9 million for the same end result—well, that takes the fun of it. I don't want to spend a lot of sleepless nights worrying about where the money might come from.

"At the lower figure we were confident of financing. Several hundred RV owners had already joined Valley of Fires RV Country Club—separate from Camper Ranch Club—and many had paid in advance to rent lots for their RVs on a year-round basis.

"We anticipated that about 500 RV owners (about 1,000 people since most RVs are owned by couples) would become permanent residents of Lincoln County. But none would compete on the local job market since all would be elderly and retired.

"However, the possibility of having to raise $7 1/2 to $9 million to finance a $3 million resort is nightmarish. After 14 months with virtually nothing accomplished, the decision to cancel was made easy. All monies collected were immediately refunded—with interest. Valley of Fires RV Country Club is no more.

"We plan to stay in Lincoln County, but on a drastically reduced basis. Only a small clubhouse and 55 campsites are now planned for Mountain Springs Ranch. As to when they will be built, we are

Carrizozo school board

Two teachers hired; two more sought

The Carrizozo school board hired two teachers during its June 16 meeting. Linda Caldwell was hired to teach mid-school language arts and publications and Gretchen Becker as special education teacher.

School Supt. Danny Burnett announced that only two more teachers are needed by the school; a high school math teacher and a band teacher.

School board president Wally Ferguson presented a plaque to Wayne Mason, who retired after having taught for 33 years, the last three years at Carrizozo.

The board adjourned for a 30-minute walk around the campus to inspect the school beautification being conducted this summer. Dead trees have been removed, 70 trees have been planted, new canopies are being placed over doors and many areas are being thoroughly cleaned.

The school board was impressed with improvements made on the campus. Burnett encouraged everyone to go to the ag farm and look at the new building.

Back in session, Gerald Montes, school counselor, presented a proposed curriculum for the 1988-89 school year. He said if the school continues with the seven-hour day the students will have the opportunity to earn 28 credits prior to graduation. This will give students the chance to take five electives after earning their 23 credits needed for graduation.

The board accepted the resignation by bus driver Melody Gaines and approved school bus contracts for private contractors, Everett Greer, Sharon Hefker and Lois Roper.

Burnett discussed with the board the possibility of contracting with someone to drive the Oscuro route and do all maintenance and scheduling for the school-owned buses. The Oscuro route includes different sections of Carrizozo.

The board approved deleting two video tape recorders from the school inventory. The two items were stolen from the school.

In response to a question, Burnett stated that school employees received an average 3 percent salary increase for the coming school year. He noted that the teacher salary schedule includes years of experience and training and some of the Carrizozo teachers have "topped out" on the schedule. This means they have reached the highest level of salaries available at this time; with the schedule including 21 years of experience.

Couple plans July wedding in Texas

Mr. and Mrs. Gary D. Cummings of Dallas, TX have announced the engagement of their daughter Diana Jeanette, to Ricky Lane Huey, the son of Mr. and Thomas A. Huey of Corona, NM.

The couple plans a 7:30 p.m. July 23 double-ring ceremony at Liberty Baptist Church in Plano, TX.

A reception will honor Jeanette and Ricky at 2:30 p.m., Aug. 6 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Huey. Friends are invited to attend the ceremony and reception.

The couple plans to make their home in Corona on the family ranch where the groom is a partner in Thomas A. Huey Mfg. Co.

County provides $10,692 of Zia's $147,000 budget

Zia Senior Citizens have been officially sponsored by the County of Lincoln since July 1, 1984. However, due to a change in the law concerning state capital outlay funding, it was necessary to ask the County of Lincoln to be official sponsors in order to receive state and federal funding for the three programs located in Carrizozo, Capitan and Corona.

Since that time, the County of Lincoln has acted as fiscal agent and in that capacity has offered various services to Zia Senior Citizens.

The following is a breakdown of the funding for Zia Senior Centers for fiscal year 1988-89 beginning July 1, 1988:

Federal and state funds, $96,982; county funds, $10,692; program income (meals, donations and fundraisers, 28,733; Special project-literacy program (intergenerational), 890; 1988-89 state legislature (Capital Outlay), 6,000; Cash in lieu of commodities 6,000. Total 1988-89 budget is $147,297.

*These are two meals programs, one in Capitan and one in Carrizozo. The figure of $26,733 represents meals, donations and fundraisers that must be met by June 30, 1989.

As anyone can see, this is not a charitable program; the senior participants in the programs volunteer their time and effort to insure success of their individual programs, and they need support from within their communities.

The Corona Center does not have a meals program but they too, contribute to the matching funds by having craft sales, bake sales and other fundraisers.

Zia is mandated by the federal government under the Older American Act to provide various services to those seniors 60 and above with emphasis on low income minority as well as those seniors who are socially or economically deprived. Should the spouse be younger, they are still entitled to the same services.

All three centers are appreciative of the support they have received in the past and would hope that they can continue to draw on their communities for support in the future.

Tournament winners announced

Winners of the Grizzly benefit golf tournament held June 18 in Carrizozo were John Pessen, Ted Brazie, Harold Garcia, Willie Silva and Raymond Lueras.

Second place went to the team of Duff May, Joyce May, Johnson Stearns and Isidro Mendez. Third place winners were Paul Ortiz, Robert Ortiz, Chevo Baca and Paul Guevara.

The event was a fundraiser benefitting the Carrizozo schools athletic program. Athletic director Ron Becker reported that $438 profit was made on the tournament after purchasing trophies.

Trophies were presented to each team member for 1st, 2nd and 3rd place. Raymond Lueras won a golf bag with his drive of approximately 290 yards in the longest drive contest. The ball had to be in the fairway.

The three winning teams tied at 67 and played a sudden-death playoff to break the tie.

"The tournament was exciting," Becker said. He extended a special thanks to participants and to those who donated to the athletic program without participating.

The money will be used to send the girls varsity volleyball team to volleyball camp at UNM Aug. 8-12 and to send the team to basketball camp July 11-15.

May has been a resident of Carrizozo since 1939. He served in the Army from 1941 to 1945. He was a mechanic at the Ford garage in Carrizozo for 15 years and later became manager of Ritter Distributing Company and retired from that position in 1986.

His wife Joyce has been a CowBelle for many years. They have one daughter, Donna Jo, son-in-law Clay Sawyer and two grandchildren. Marsha will be a senior at NMSU and William is a junior at Kirtland Central high school in Kirtland, NM, just six miles from the Sawyer home in Fruitland, NM.

The Canyon CowBelles will meet July 6 at the Wilson Ranch in Ancho with hostesses Ruth and Carol Wilson.

Fire hazard at its peak

Carrizozo Fire Chief Albert Najar has asked that everyone be careful with smoking and fire at this time. Extremely dry conditions have made the threat of fire even more dangerous.

Najar also asked that all youngsters using fireworks to do so with an adult's supervision and only in specified places. Fireworks are not allowed in the city or in the national forest.

"To a lot of people—but especially to our ex-country club members—we offer sincere apologies. We honestly thought that 12 miles out in the country, on our own 4,000-acre property, we could use a lot of our own expertise and labor to build what we wanted. But we haven't been able to utilize either—not even for the most mundane of chores.

"We are disappointed, to be sure. But we are not really out to change the system and life will go on, with or without Valley of Fires RV Country Club," Latham concluded.

A record breaking crowd of 110 people attended the bingo Thursday. We were so happy to have them and all enjoyed bingo.

Remember and prepare for July 4.

The June meeting of the Roundtable Club was held at the home of Mary Dean. All members were present. Guests were Angie Provine, Kathy Dean and Bonnie Thetford. Amolene McIntosh told of her visit to Harriet McGinnis, a former member. Mary Dean's great-granddaughter Chasata Dean and her parents made a quick visit to the club. Gladys Pew's wedding anniversary was observed with cards. Leota Pfingsten, president, had charge of the business meeting. A picnic was planned for the July meeting with Alice Traylor as hostess. Members will meet at the Traylor home at 10:30 a.m. to go to the picnic grounds. Angie Provine won the raffle.

Four young ladies from Capitan, Karey Reynolds, Danica Sime, Heather Woodell and Tinnie Coons, participated in the State Cinderella Pageant in Carlsbad, NM from Thursday through Sunday. All received an award of some kind and they had a good time. More information on this later. Those girls raffled a cord of wood and they will hold a bake sale in Capitan to help buy cheerleader uniforms.

The Corrientes CowBelles held a picnic June 11 at Bonita Club grounds at Ft. Stanton.

Jessica Livingston, the 1987 Queen, and Tawnya Payton, Lincoln County Fair Queen, set the pattern for contestants.

In the afternoon 34 cowboys and cowgirls participated in the third riding club of this season. Mom's, relatives and friends took part in the riding club, leading the 5 and under members through the barrels, flag races and the goat hair pull. The lucky high point girl were Lacey Jo Brazel and Stewart Barry. In the 5 and under riding group, Allen Brunlow was high point boy with no girls riding. April Rauch and Shawn Wilson were high point girl and boy in the 6 through 8 group. Shelby Gowen and Michael Fish were tops in the 9 through 12 group. Thirteen and up winner was Tawnya Payton. Stewart Barry, Court and Dusti Franklin were new faces at the riding club. They welcome all of these new members and would like to have any others join them.

Thanks goes to all parents and friends for the help they give each Sunday to make this very worthwhile cause. A special thanks to Roy Payton for being the flagman all throughout the Play Day.

Jerrie Wilson would like to invite all to come to a 4-H Rodeo Saturday, June 25, at the fairgrounds.

Bo and Bell Worsham and Bell's sister and grand-daughter from Pecos, TX visited friends Bessie Jones and Betty Jolner last weekend. They enjoyed supper at the 'Cafe Ole'. Everyone should try this new restaurant. The food is really good.

Sandra and Jamie, hear this. Keep up the good work. You have a winner.

I wonder if you realize that we do have a successful produce market in Capitan. Efrin Montes has a fully equipped place with proper freezers and coolers across from the Senior Citizen Center. His daughter Pauline is the manager. Efrin goes twice a week and brings all kinds of fresh vegetables, fruit and melons. Just everything you can think of!

OPINION

Had there been a fully functioning Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County, we probably would not have lost the $3 million Camper Ranch Club resort complex a few miles south of Carrizozo. But the infant EDC is new and hasn't had time to get organized and go to work. Had it been operational, it could have intervened and helped the organization get all the necessary permits, in a timely manner. Because such permits were not issued after 14 months of entreaty, the project was cancelled, according to John H. Latham, chairman of the board of Camper Ranch Club. If Latham is correct, the bureaucratic bungling has cost Lincoln County 1,000 permanent residents—all elderly and retired—who could have strengthened the area's economy. I suggest that the EDC/LC contact Latham in Comroe, TX, headquarters of Camper Ranch Club, and find out who is responsible for failure to issue licenses and permits that has cost the county this enterprise. Then the culprits should be taken to the political woodshed.

Would you like to read a gripping book, one that will have you fuming in anger one moment and joyfully dancing in the street the next? One easily read in spite of heavy documentation, highly informative in that it contains material never published before, and that you regret having to put down before you finish its 613 pages? One that chain bookstores refuse to allow in their shops, which "respectable" newspapers refuse to review, and most even refuse to accept advertisements offering it for sale? In spite of which it has sold 85,000 copies and gone through four editions since it appeared in 1972—and which word-of-mouth advertising results in sales of more than 100 copies a week at this time?

I have said here, and presented statistics to support the statement that poverty is unrelated to crime. Social engineers would have us all believe that if we can only abolish poverty there will be no crime. Yet the Uniform Crime Reports (and this book we'll be discussing) prove that the rise in crime is in proportion to the rise in affluence or per capita income.

Maybe you aren't aware of the well-heeled people who make the bucket in spite of their wealth, connections and expensive lawyers. This book names a few, some of which may surprise you. There is Walter Annenberg, Philadelphia publisher, (Racing Form) indicted for income tax evasion, which qualified him to be appointed Ambassador to England; Jack Benny, highly-paid comedian was convicted of diamond smuggling; Winston Burdett, CBS newsman, was a spy for the Red Army in Finland when Russia was trying to over-run it in 1939-40. He confessed.

Ralph Ginsburg, publisher of Eros, served five years for pornography. Harry Golden, publisher of the Carolina Israelite and author of several books, served five years in Sing Sing under his real name, Herschel Goldhurst; Norman Mailer, popular novelist who made $40,000 making snide remarks about the moon landings, was nabbed in 1961 for stabbing his wife. Timothy Leary, former professor, writer, guru, and dopehead got 30 years (later reversed) for smuggling drugs. Pearl Buck, Nobel Prize winner, was denied permission in Pennsylvania to solicit funds for her foundation because she stole some of the funds. LeRoy Jones, Negro playwright, assault and robbery. Arthur Miller, nation's most honored playwright, cited for contempt of Congress.

The names, revealed in this book, are legion. Lyndon Johnson stole his seat in the US Senate; Earl Butz, former Secretary of Agriculture, jailed for income tax evasion; Congressman arrested in Abscam? Hank Greenspan, Las Vegas newspaper publisher convicted of arms smuggling; Malcolm X, Negro spiritual leader, convicted of pimping, dope peddling and robbery; Eldridge Cleaver, convicted rapist.

The book is "The Dispossessed Majority" by Willmot Robertson. This mind-rousing book describes the once dominant population group, Americans of Northern European descent, and shows step-by-step how it has been reduced to second-class status by emerging racial minorities. The sickness of America is the sickness of the American Majority—caused by moral debility of liberalism and failure to control a minority racism that has sapped the Majority's power to resist. The Majority has lost on every battlefield—cultural, religious, political, economic, and diplomatic. The losers are the Dispossessed Majority. Robertson calls this defeat "a great misfire of history, a harbinger of decadence and downfall. For the Majority is America."

To illustrate why this book cannot be bought in chain bookstores, it is only necessary to see how Robertson deals with one of a dozen racial minority groups seeking power and domination in the United States. "Almost totally dedicated to Israel in spirit, American Jews have nevertheless preferred to support the Jewish homeland by opening their purses rather than by dodging Arab bullets. Only one hundred American Jews (as of 1969) were serving in the Israeli armed forces." Thirty-five percent of the Israeli budget is covered by foreign contributions, and the biggest per capita giver of the cause is the American. "In 1939," he writes, "the American taxpayer contributed more to the social security of each Israeli citizen than to the social security of each American citizen." And it is not heartening to learn that in 1965 American scientists in Florida were driving taxis as a result of space cutbacks, but the US was giving $23 million a year in grants to Israeli scientists.

Now you are beginning to see why this book is difficult to come by through ordinary channels!

Blacks, he says, "become more militant when they are better off, not when they are badly off." The black militant aim is not to obtain equality, but superiority. "Racism simply cannot be bought off. In its dynamic stages, it can only be controlled or suppressed by superior force, a force most effectively provided

Inside the Capitol

By Jay Miller

SANTA FE—Ever since the end of the 1988 Legislature, Democrat leaders have been fuming about some dirty pool they believe Gov. Garrey Carruthers played with them.

Since early in the short, 30-day session many deals were being struck to give both parties and the governor their most important legislative goodies and, more importantly, end the session on time.

Carruthers had some major initiatives, such as welfare reform for which he was eager to secure legislative approval. He was not excited about spending levels being proposed by the Democrats.

Meetings were held and agreements were made. Democrat leaders gave up many programs they felt were vital and agreed to give quick passage to the governor's package of bills, albeit in a modified form.

Democrat leaders now feel they were too trusting in playing their cards first. They delivered Carruthers' package—and then the price went up.

The governor had 'em where he wanted 'em and he took full advantage. The Democrats felt they'd been "had."

The made plans for a press conference to inform the public that Carruthers had gone back on his word. They even prepared silver lapel stickers saying "Trust Me," which they would all be wearing for the cameras.

But then the realization slowly came that the public doesn't tend to take sides in squabbles among politicians.

We just saw a typical voter attitude in county elections earlier this month. When two politicians are feuding, throw 'em both out.

Since Carruthers didn't have to run this year, and all legislators did, he was not the one with whom to pick a fight.

Demoparty leaders decided they would just have to chalk that one up to experience.

In next year's session, Carruthers will have to fight for everything he gets.

In the meantime, Democrats have made a fancy maneuver of their own on another front.

Twice this column has covered the controversy over automatic mailing of absentee ballots applications to the elderly and handicapped.

The Secretary of State's office proposed the legislation in order to provide greater access to the polls for a couple of groups that appear to need some help. Rebecca Vigil-Giron is proud about its successful passage. The humanitarian concept is being copied by other states.

But county clerks think it is a burden in terms of time and taxpayer dollars. Many aren't sure the extra votes are worth the cost. Some report angry or distressed phone calls from people who did not appreciate the suggestions the mailing implies.

Now, there appears another angle to this scenario.

In the 1984 and 1986 general elections, the state Republican party did a bang up job of getting absentee ballots to party members who were not going to be able to make it to the polls on election day.

Some Demo leaders saw the opportunity to neutralize GOP organizing superiority by automatically mailing absentee ballots applications to everyone who is handicapped or over 65.

Whether the GOP saw it coming or not, it is now part of the law.

There are still many things a well organized political party can do to follow up on the mailings. It can remind party members to return the applications. It can assure ballots are completed and notarized and mailed to the county clerk by the deadline.

But even if the GOP does out-organize the Demos on the follow-up, certain Democrat leaders are pleased with themselves for now.

It will be interesting to see how it plays out in November.

Mike Dukakis may not have any of the fire and brimstone passion voters would like to hear from their candidate but Kitty Dukakis does.

She made a Santa Fe appearance in late May and impressed a group of Democrats with her knowledge of the campaign issues and her spirited style of speechmaking.

It was even more impressive after realizing she was only two days away from leaving the campaign trail for a neck operation.

She also endeared herself to some Santa Feans by announcing she had found a reason for returning often without spouse. Between her two Capital City engagements she had found time to drop a quick $250 on jewelry.

by an opposing or counter-vailing racism. What is indisputable is that the one way not to stop Negro militancy is to reward it. There goes the black vote.

On the arts: "Outside the South, American art is overwhelmingly dominated by members of minorities. The minority domination of the contemporary art scene is complicated by the presence of another, as yet unmentioned minority, unique in that it is composed of both Majority and minority members. This is the homosexual sect. Homosexuals, as is well known, are one of the two principal props of the American theater, the second being the Jews." There goes the Jewish vote, closely followed by the perversion persons.

Robertson doesn't just make a statement. He provides reasonable proof. Readers who enjoy this column will love "The Dispossessed Majority." Those who don't might want to read this book in secret, if only to provide them with a sense of open-mindedness, for the author thinks the unthinkable and says the unsayable. Kendra Bartlett to join Up With People program Kendra L. Bartlett, 25, of Roswell, New Mexico, has been accepted to participate in the Up With People program.

Kendra is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emiliano Lueras of Dexter, and formerly Corona.

Kendra is a graduate of Corona High School where she was a varsity cheerleader, active in student affairs, student council, annual staff, volleyball, and basketball. She has attended Western New Mexico University at Silver City, ENMU-Roswell, and Southwestern Business College.

Kendra now resides in Roswell, New Mexico, where she is a member of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church. She is employed by Hondo Oil & Gas Co., and a member of the company's women's softball team. Known for its widely acclaimed musical show, Up With People is the international, educational and cultural program which aims to build peace through understanding among people everywhere.

More than 10,500 young men and women from 60 countries have participated in the program since it began in the mid-sixties. They have performed in 48 countries, including the People's Republic of China, U.S.S.R., Jordan, Venezuela, Zaire, Poland, Yugoslavia and 16 European countries.

Following five weeks of staging and orientation in Tucson, AZ beginning July 27, Kendra will then travel for 10 months with a cast of over 100 from as many as 18 different countries.

The Up With People show is a dynamic, contemporary two-hour production featuring a talented international cast and band. It has been performed in 48 countries around the world. An estimated 33 million people have seen Up With People during the last 22 years. Millions more have seen the show on television.

Many students raise their program fee through local sponsorships and fundraising activities. People interested in supporting Kendra's effort to participate in Up With People are asked to contact Corine Bonds, executive assistant to Robert B. Anderson, Hondo Oil & Gas Co., at 625-8700, or evenings at 623-5740.

DINNER DILEMMA

The month of June is known for weddings and a book by Bruce Lansky, "Mother Murphy's 2nd Law" has a for-better-and-for-worse humor section.

The Excitement Effect—Some women get excited over nothing, then marry him.

The Snoring Syndrome—The spouse who snores the loudest falls asleep first.

The Dinner Dilemma—Married men want to come home to find dinner on the table. So do married women.

DOWN MEMORY LANE

School reunion time is here again. Activities in Carrizozo are this weekend.

The Carrizozo High School graduating class of 1956 dedicated its last class will and testament to my former classmates. This is what some 1956 seniors had to say 32 years ago. Seems like only yesterday:

I, John Sandoval, will my French line, Russian hands, and Roman fingers to Pat Vigil.

I, Jeff Morris, will my ability to keep out of trouble to Buddy Duncan.

I, Ernest Sanchez, will my bebops, peg pants, moustache, wavy hair and cat-like ways to Joe Aguilar.

I, Grace Zamora, will my little "Black Book" to Andy Ventura.

I, Delores Martinez, will my bashfulness with boys to Irene Narvaez.

I, Frances Warner, will my ability to have truck trouble and flats also wrecks, and get help at a wave of the hand to Viola Lopez.

I, Josie Otero, will my curly red hair to Aurelia Gutierrez.

I, Skipper Harkey, will my ability to flirt and have girls on a string to Lloyd Zumwalt.

IT'S A LIVING

First-rate graphics and art layout people have changed the "homey" look of "Grit." The cost for an issue has changed also but some things never change, like ads.

One reader asks, "Why don't you leave out the ads?" She only wants to read about interesting people and places.

Grit answers that they believe ads are information about interesting people, places and things. Statistics show most readers view advertisements as being as much news as editorial copy. After a metropolitan newspaper strike a couple of years ago a major newspaper polled its readers to find out what they missed most while the paper wasn't being published and the answer was: "the ads."

Besides, Grit says in its response, "advertising helps pay our bills."

Point system aimed at getting bad drivers off the highways

SANTA FE—Gov. Garrey Carruthers and Secretary Vickie Fisher of the Taxation and Revenue Department announce a proposed new motor vehicle regulation point system, designed to remove chronic traffic lawbreakers from New Mexico roadways.

The point system, which Motor Vehicle Division officials say will be aggressively enforced, focuses on drivers who have been convicted with such frequency of offenses against traffic laws or regulations governing motor vehicles as to indicate a disrespect for traffic laws and a disregard for the safety of other persons on the highways, according to the proposal.

The proposed regulation streamlines the point system by creating two types of assessments: 6-point violations and 3-point violations to drivers who violate New Mexico's traffic laws. The points will expire automatically from the driver's record after one year.

Six-point violations include violations for speeding at 26 miles per hour above the speed limit or higher; failure to yield to a school bus, reckless driving and racing on highways.

All other motor vehicle violations include 3-point assessments. These violations include categories involving carelessness, failure to yield or obey traffic control devices, speeding one to 26 miles per hour over the speed limit, turning movements and lane positions, passing and equipment violations.

The proposed system excluded driving while intoxicated (DWI) offenses. DWI convictions automatically result in license suspensions and/or revocations.

Under the proposed regulations, drivers accumulating between 7 and 10 points within a period of one year are subject to three-month driver's license suspension upon the recommendation of a municipal or magistrate judge. If the judge does not specify a recommended length of suspension, the Motor Vehicle Division will presume the recommendation is for a three-month license suspension. Drivers accumulating 12 points within a period of one year shall receive a 12-month driver's license suspension, according to the regulations.

Department officials will hold a public hearing on the proposed regulations, Wednesday, Aug. 3, in the second floor conference room, Manuel Lujan Sr. Building, 1200 South St. Francis Drive, Santa Fe, at 10 a.m.

The department also welcomes written comment on or before Aug. 23, 1988. Comments should be directed to: Taxation and Revenue Department, Legal Services, P.O. Box 630, Santa Fe, NM 87500-0630.

In every control room at ABC News there is a red "Roonee phone" that links Rooms Arledge, president of the news division, with what's on the air. Arledge calls to suggest that "Nightline" host Ted Koppel ask Gary Hart a question about his news ideas. He phones "World News Tonight" to tell anchor Peter Jennings that his tie is crooked.

William Safire, the New York Times political columnist, according to US News and World Report, is a language maven and writes about what he wants and yields enormous influence by kicking them while they're up.

As a language policeman, he has won fans even among those who disagree with his politics.

Safire was the first to focus on the dubious financial dealings of Bert Lance, Jimmy Carter's budget director, a scoop that won him a Pulitzer Prize and helped drive Lance out of office.

Senior citizens begin fundraising activity

Senior citizens in Lincoln County will begin raising funds to help with expenses for participants of the Senior Olympics to attend the national meet in St. Louis next year.

Nine Lincoln County senior citizens qualified to attend nationals during their appearance in the New Mexico Senior Olympics held June 8, 9 and 10 in Albuquerque.

Barbara Ward, director of the Zia Senior Citizens Center in Lincoln County, has asked people to make monthly pledges and send them to the center, Box 519, Carrizozo, NM 88301. "The money will be placed in a special senior olympic fund at the United New Mexico Bank," Ward said.

Individual centers will conduct various fundraising activities during this year. The national meet in St. Louis will be held June 1989.

"The accomplishments of these senior athletes belie the myth that senior citizens are falling down and decrepit," Ward said. "They competed on the state level against more than 1,000 other people in physically demanding events. No one 'gave' them an award just for showing up; winners really earned their medals."

The purpose of the Senior Olympics is to promote the mental and physical health and well-being of those aged 55 and above. For information on the Senior Olympics, contact Ward at the Carrizozo Zia center at 648-2121. "We encourage everyone, especially younger seniors, to get involved," Ward said.

Psychology
If you're not in the swing of things, that first tennis game of the season may bring you some aching muscles. One way to ease those well deserved aches is to reward yourself with a long hot bath. It can do wonders for those tired limbs and muscles. An additional reward for the inner you would be to settle down afterwards with a refreshing glass of hot tea. It's not only low in calories, it's something deliciously soothing to recover with after a hard day's play.
