A New Mexico Disneyland?

Fort Stanton future as a hospital in question

By Ruth Hammond

Once again the future of Fort Stanton as a Hospital and Training School for the developmentally disabled is being questioned.

Rumors are that the hospital will be closed and the facility will become the center of a vast recreation project that will cater to horse lovers.

Since Fort Stanton first became a DD facility in 1964, it has afforded jobs for local people and boosted the economy of Lincoln County. Presently, Fort Stanton operates on an annual budget of more than $6 million with none of this money coming from the New Mexico general fund. Most of the money is from federal sources.

In addition to providing jobs for 200 people and being the home for 150 clients, Fort Stanton has a colorful history. Billy the Kid was housed in the guardhouse at Fort Stanton during the Lincoln County War, tuberculosis patients made Fort Stanton their home until 1952 when drugs used to treat patients became available, and during World War II a portion of the fort was used for an internee camp.

With the exception of a two-year period from 1896 to 1898 when the fort was not used, Fort Stanton has remained in constant operation despite various changes. From the time it was established as a fort in 1855 until the present time, Fort Stanton has served in many capacities.

The current uproar by local residents is the fear that the plans to preserve and restore the fort will be the end of its usage as a hospital and training school.

According to the master plan for preservation and development for Fort Stanton, prepared by the Williams Company, AIA and funded by the state, sponsored by Lincoln County and administered by the South-eastern New Mexico Economic Development District (SENMEDD), the three-phase could take 12 years.

While the master plan examines the three major issues: (1) How can the historic site and resources be properly preserved? (2) How can the existing hospital operation and clients be best served? and (3) How can this institution and historic resource serve the critical economic aspects of New Mexico and Lincoln County? the answers suggested are also open to question.

The development philosophy for the hospital is that it should receive a new residential campus to relieve federal regulation pressures and provide a first-rate therapeutic community.

The suggestion is that the staff trailer park be removed from the southern end of the fort and more than $3 million in buildings for residences for clients and therapy classrooms be built on this space. This would be the major portion of phase II of the project, during years 4-8.

Phase I, during years 1-4, calls for emergency repairs and stabilization of some buildings, converting other buildings to be used as hotel accommodations to produce income, build tent cottages for visitor camping and to put in RV sites.

The proposed cost for Phase I is near $3 million for the engineering fees, contingencies, overhead, architect fees, etc. Proposed cost of Phase II would be more than $5 million with Phase III prices not determined at this time.

The master plan estimates that an assumed average general visitor attendance could run 70,000 per year starting with Phase II, or at the end of four to eight years. Estimated total potential gross income at the end of Phase II (eight-years) is $1.5 million annually.

The estimated income would come from general admission $2, concessions and gifts $4, fort tour tickets $4, hotel accommodations from $20 to $70 per day, RV sites and tent cottages $15 per day, dining hall $3 per person, rental of family hall $50, gym/pool $2, and conference center $300 a day.

Fort Stanton is state-owned and is on state land surrounded by 23,000 acres of BLM land. This land is to be used for construction of an equestrian center and a museum to honor the western horse.

Person who want Fort Stanton to remain as a hospital without the addition of hotel rooms in some of the old barracks buildings have said the main reason for the success of Fort Stanton as a hospital has been the open campus. These people say that if the campus is moved, if the clients become objects on display, or if the state allows this to be done it will be an injustice to the clients.

Those people working on the National Center for the Western Horse and the Ranching Heritage Ranch have said there will be no conflict, that the hospital can continue at the fort in a different location.

Others are concerned that the state is not considering the cost of building the new campus and the trauma of the clients while this work is being done.

It is suggested that anyone concerned about this situation write a letter to New Mexico Governor Garrey Carruthers and tell him. Development in Lincoln County is important but it should be new development, not substitution.

Now for the bad news

County property tax bills in the mail

Lincoln County property owners will receive 1988 tax bills during the next few days. The Lincoln County Treasurer's office will place the bills in the mail today and tomorrow.

Taxes are due Nov. 10 and will become delinquent after Dec. 10. After that date, penalties and interest will accrue on accounts with no payment made. Bills totaling more than $10 may be made in two installments, the first installment due Nov. 10, delinquent after Dec. 10 and the second installment due April 10, delinquent after May 10, 1989.

Treasurer Shirley Goodloe has asked that everyone please read their tax bills carefully, including the information on the reverse side of the form. If anyone has questions or does not receive a tax bill, call the treasurer's office at 648-2525, 648-2397 or 648-2398.

Payment of taxes can be made by mail or in person in the treasurer's office in the courthouse from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Trustees reject low bid

Carrizozo accepts bid for Rec Center roof

Carrizozo town trustees voted unanimously to take the bid from Foam America of Las Cruces for the roof for the Rec Center even though the bid was not the low bid. The vote to accept the bid was made during the Oct. 25 town council meeting.

The low bid of $37,900.80 submitted by Future-Tech Insulation and Roofing of Las Cruces was not accepted because the company did not meet bid specifications of having been in business three or more years.

Foam America's bid was for $39,900, more than $2,000 more than the low bid, but Foam America has been in business several years. Bill Hoffman of Foam America, told the board that the work needed to be done as soon as possible because the weather conditions were favorable.

The town cannot issue a notice to proceed with the work until the old coolers are removed from the roof. The town would also like to have the openings for the coolers capped prior to roof work being started.

In other business, the board accepted the resignation of Roy Harmon as chairman of the cemetery committee. Wes Lindsay was appointed as chairman of that committee. Cemetery treasurer AnnaBelle Burrow reported that the committee appreciated all the work Harmon has done through the years.

—A discussion was held concerning the proposed landfill east of Carrizozo. It was announced that no one had approached the town officials to make arrangements for town refuse to be taken to the proposed landfill.

—A discussion was held concerning the rumor that Fort Stanton Hospital and Training School would close soon and become an outdoor recreation area and playground and the clients at the hospital would be removed.

It was announced that there would be changes made according to a master plan for preservation and development, but that there had been no announcement for removing patients at this time.

—Trustees agreed to proceed with a property trade with the Rodman's for the curve on Lava Loop.

—Pajo Technical Services was hired as engineer for the street work at the recommendation of members of the street committee. Pajo's proposal would include less than $3,500 for engineering and less than $3,500 for a full time inspector while Wilson and Company's proposal was for $19,800 for engineering and inspection.

The street project to pave 5th Street from E Street to B Street and for the intersections at 5th and E, 8th and E and 8th and B will cost less than $75,000, with a portion of the money to come from the state highway department.

—No decisions were made concerning the request for water for Brooks Construction.

—Town foreman Faustino Gallegos reported that

Capitan Board of Education

Teachers hired; classroom space becoming a problem

By Bartley McDonough

The Capitan Board of Education employed Sandra Bean, LeAnne Longbotham and Debbie Bird at its meeting Oct. 20.

Bean has a BS degree from Texas Tech and will be a part-time speech teacher. Longbotham and Bird will be teacher aides for the 1st grade. Mecca Aldridge was granted a leave of absence from Oct. 24 to Jan. 24 because of her husband's illness. Mrs. L.C. Cozzens will replace her. Mrs. Firth will replace Mrs. Ball who is taking maternity leave. The board accepted the resignation of Diane Efrhimio effective Nov. 16. She was praised for being an excellent teacher.

Capitan Schools have experienced an increase in enrollment from 361 in 1980 to 504 in 1988. This has created a problem with classroom space. SB-106 which requires that certain classrooms be limited to a certain amount of students has also contributed to the problem. The classroom problem could become critical at any time.

Dr. Childress, school superintendent, suggested construction of a middle school. This would house 200 to 225 students and would contain a minimum of 10 rooms.

The Capitan School bond obligation stands at $1,400,000 at this time. Half of this will be paid off in 1991. Another portion will be paid in 1992 with everything being paid off by 1996. Childress will bring a bond resolution to the November school board meeting for discussion.

Ag teacher Joel Edwards introduced some of his students to the board of education. Aaron Russell did well at the state fair in Albuquerque and the Eastern New Mexico State Fair in Roswell. Kyle Traylor displayed the grand champion pen of rabbits at the fair in Roswell. Tonya Payton was the New Mexico State Fair Queen runner-up. FFA president Lisa Edwards announced her officers and said Aaron Russell will compete in the greenhand creed competition soon in Lovington. He was praised by board member Preston Stone. The FFA organization received good marks from high school principal Larry DeWees.

The board approved a trip to San Antonio, TX by the band and choir. These two groups will attend a contest between May 11 and May 14. Sixty students will be involved with a minimum of eight chaperones.

Also approved was formation of a committee to monitor textbooks and library books. This committee will consist of the school superintendent, principal, a faculty member in the area being questioned, a school board member, a library/media specialist and a member of the community appointed by the superintendent.

The 38 students in the senior class were given permission to go ahead with their plans for a senior trip.

Bus contractor Nora Silva was given permission to replace a 1979 school bus, and the board also approved sections 5 and 6 of its board policy without discussion.

Second grade teacher Mary Shanks, assisted by her husband Howard, has set up an instructional segment dealing with the soil. The segment takes 20 minutes a day for a week. Some clever training aids, made by the Shanks were displayed. This special segment of instruction was designed for the 4th grade. The Shanks will display their program on the state level in December.

Principal Larry DeWees said he had received letters

Let's get it right this time around!

Another year of Daylight Saving Time will come to an end at 2 a.m. Sunday morning.

Most people will change their clocks before going to bed Saturday night instead of getting up at 2 a.m. to reset their clocks.

If in doubt as to which way to set the time, remember "Spring forward, Fall back." This means the clocks were set forward one hour in April and are to be set back one hour this weekend. If you set your clock at 10 p.m. Saturday, you should change the time to 9 p.m. Saturday.

water improvement project is "running smoothly," and should be completed within two weeks. Residents are asked to conserve water during this time.

Mrs. Lucinda Silva spoke to the board again about having her $39.75 returned that she paid to have her nephew's car released after being impounded by the town.

Carrizozo Municipal Judge S.M. Ortiz gave each trustee and the mayor information about impounding of vehicles.

Apparently no one is certain who authorized the impoundment of the vehicle, the mayor said, "All I could find out was 'they.'" Mayor Bob Hemphill said that under the circumstances, "We (the town) had the right to remove the car," and continued that evidently the officer did not follow through with the proper procedure.

The trustees agreed to return Mrs. Silva's money.

An executive session was held for personnel and pending litigation. After the 50-minute session there was no action taken.

Holloman AFB show for public

Aviation Day features Wings of Blue, the Thunderbirds

Featured attractions at Holloman Air Force Base's "Aviation Day" include performances by the Air Force's precision flying team, the Thunderbirds, and Wings of Blue, a parachute team from the Air Force Academy.

Aviation Day will take place Nov. 13, the final day of the three-day Veterans Day weekend. The main gate to the base will open to the public at 9:30 a.m. and remain open until 4:30 p.m.

Handicapped persons will be able to gain access at 8:30.

Local attractions include an F-15 aerial demonstration, a high-speed sled run and a repelling demonstration.

The Thunderbirds take center stage at 2 p.m. with the team's ground show and aerial demonstration.

Numerous aircraft will be on static display throughout the day, including those assigned to Holloman Air Force Base—the F-15 Eagle and the AT-38B Talon. The Eagle is flown by the 49th Tactical Fighter Wing while the Talon is used by the Lean-In Fighter Training program of the 479th Tactical Training Wing.

In 1986—the last Aviation Day at the Tactical Air Command base—some 40 aircraft were on static display. This year, the list of visiting military aircraft is topped by a B-1B bomber. Several planes from the Confederate Air Force are also expected.

"We are planning the largest Aviation Day in the history of Holloman Air Force Base," says Brig. Gen. James S. Allen, commander of the 833rd Air Division. "There will be at least four aerial demonstrations in addition to the high-speed sled run. Mix in a large assortment of static display aircraft, ground demonstrations and food and crafts booths and there's literally something for everyone."

"Circle Nov. 13 on your calendar now," Allen added. "Come to Holloman Air Force Base and see what your Air Force is all about."

Visitors to the base will be directed to authorized parking areas by the security police. Bus transportation will be provided to those wishing to witness the sled run. Privately owned vehicles will not be permitted in the test track area.

Photography will be permitted of all events and aerial demonstrations.

The day kicks off with the Thunderbirds' arrival show at 9:30. A reenlistment ceremony and meteorological balloon follow at 9:50.

Opening ceremonies will be conducted at 10 a.m.

Buses will depart for the test track beginning at 10 a.m. At 10:30, there will be a demonstration by the 449th Mobility Support Squadron.

The first aerial demonstration of the day is scheduled for 10:50, when an A-10 Thunderbolt takes to

You can have a ladder accident and never leave the ground

Ladder safety is more than avoiding falls. Ladders conduct electricity, so they can also cause accidents around the power lines — before you ever leave the ground.

To prevent such accidents, make sure you don't snag a power line when you're carrying a ladder around the yard. Before you climb the ladder, place it away from power lines.

Aluminum and other metal ladders are especially good conductors of electricity, but you can be injured by power lines with a wooden one too.

For more information on power line safety, call or visit your local TNP office.

Ernest V. Joiner's

● I don't want to steal anything from Martin Luther King, but last night "I had a dream." I dreamed I was Sen. Dan Quayle, Bush's choice for vice-president, and I was debating Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, the Democrat vice-presidential candidate. It was a re-enactment of the recent televised debate between the two candidates. At one point I (Dan Quayle) quoted some wisdom from the late President John F. Kennedy. Then Bentsen, exactly as he did on the live debate, reminded me, "Senator, you're no Jack Kennedy." Instead of accepting this chide as Quayle did, I responded: "Senator, you're right. I'm not a Jack Kennedy because I never cowered before Fidel Castro, never delivered Cuban freedom fighters up to be slaughtered at the Bay of Pigs, am not a sustained womanizer—and I never had a brother who couldn't drive a car on Chappaquiddick Island without falling off a bridge." The crowd burst into laughter and applause, and I woke up with a smile on my face.

● I am nauseated at the attention and international hand-wringing over those two California gray whales trapped in ice at Barrow, Alaska. The US alone has spent an estimated $25 million in the attempt to guide the whales into open seas. The small town of Barrow has become a throbbing metropolis as hundreds of journalists, newsmen, TV cameramen, scientists, marine life agencies and curiosity seekers jostle for positions. This influx of people from all over the world has paralyzed the town of Barrow. According to one person interviewed on television, the going price of a cup of coffee (with cream) is $20. Even the Soviet has dispatched heavy ice-breaking machines to the site. Giant helicopters carrying ice-breaking devices are trying to pound a path for the whales to follow to open seas. Nations have cast aside their political differences to cooperate in freeing the whales, an event seldom witnessed in this lifetime.

● While the world is crying over two whales, Americans are being held hostage in Beirut, Lebanon, by Islamic terrorists. Nobody seems to be doing anything about rescuing them from torture and possible death. Too bad they're not whales. It would be interesting to learn by what standards the lives of two whales are of more value than nine innocent hostages in terrorist hands. If the cooperating governments in the whale rescue effort would work together and spend the same time, money and equipment, with the same enthusiasm, those hostages would have been freed already. For $25 million (estimated cost of the whale watch) the terrorist movement could be infiltrated by professional hit squads, the guilty ones identified and located, their throats appropriately cut, and our hostages led to freedom. I think it mendacious to let American hostages rot in terrorist hands while the resources of a dozen nations are mustered and focused on a pair of whales trapped in ice above the Arctic Circle.

● Proposed Constitutional Amendment No. 5 on the Nov. 8 ballot would amend the state constitution to restrict bail for convicted persons. We all know of cases where a convicted felon, out on bail, has committed another violent crime. Under this amendment bail for a convicted felon who has a previous crime conviction can be denied bail by a district judge. Or, a defendant accused of a felony who was previously convicted of two or more felonies within the state, can be denied bail up to 60 days after being jailed. There is no federal constitutional right to bail for a convicted defendant. However, New Mexico now has the chance to join with other states in making it clear that the right to bail is not a constitutional right for convicted felons. It is time to stop letting murderers loose on bail to murder again, or rapists freed to rape again. I recommend a Yes vote on No. 5.

● Amendment No. 6 would change the Constitution of New Mexico "to provide judicial reform." There's that fancy wording again that tells voters nothing. What it would do is double the experience required for New Mexico District Court judges, and triple the experience required for Supreme Court and Court of Appeals judges. It would require judges to be approved by a 15-man bipartisan commission of citizens, educators and professionals. When there is a judgeship vacancy through death or resignation, the governor is limited to appoint only a person approved by the 15-man commission. It does not take away the public's right to vote a judge off the bench. In fact, it requires judges to be elected by the people at the end of every term, based on the judge's own record of fairness and knowledge. It would require that judges get more than 50 percent of the vote in each of their elections, even when they have no opponent. The amendment would require judges to be judges, not politicians; and it increases judges' ability to deny bail to dangerous criminal offenders. A Yes vote is recommended.

Inside The Capitol

By Jay Miller

SANTA FE—The Roman Catholic archdiocese of New York sponsors an enjoyable alternative to the dourness of the presidential debates.

Every year it puts on a nonpartisan charity dinner honoring Al Smith, the first Roman Catholic presidential candidate. Smith was the Democratic nominee against Herbert Hoover in 1928. He lost—badly, carrying only eight states, due to Republican emphasis on eight years of prosperity under the GOP administrations of Warren Harding and Calvin Coolidge and due to his religion.

Although Smith had swept to four victories as governor of New York despite the religious issue and despite the election of an overwhelmingly Republican legislature during those great years for the GOP, the nation as a whole was not quite ready for a non-protestant president. That was to take another 32 years until John F. Kennedy broke the barrier.

But Smith was a colorful man who deserves to be remembered. During a presidential nominating speech for Smith in 1924, Franklin Roosevelt dubbed him "the Happy Warrior," a nickname that stuck and a trait which is remembered to this day by the fundraising dinner in his name which demands levity from its speakers even if they happen to be presidential candidates locked in the meanest campaign in history.

The long-standing tradition and reputation of the event forced George Bush and Michael Dukakis to show up and to be in good spirits. It is one of the few times presidential candidates are present at the same event outside of the "debates."

The candidates are not prevented from taking jibes at each other but the order of the night is good-natured and often self-deprecating humor. The light-hearted exchanges between the candidates can still tell a lot about the two men and in so much more enjoyable manner than the contrived and highly-regulated debates.

Dukakis began the evening by saying how pleased he was to be at an event where "all thought of politics is banished and I can concentrate on what I do best—comedy." He apologized for his wife's absence. "Kitty's in a hotel room in Dallas tonight," Dukakis said. "Maybe she qualifies as a Texan now," an obvious dig at the fact Bush's Texas residence is a hotel room in Houston.

Dukakis contended, "Some say I lack passion," but he maintained, "That doesn't affect me one way or the other."

He continued, "Some say I arrogant, but I know better than that."

And finally, "Some say

I'm nothing more than a technocrat, but that's only 15.2 percent correct."

Dukakis concluded his remarks by contending, "Some say the presidential race may be decided by a nose. If that be the case, I am your next president."

Then it was Bush's turn. He joked about his background. He noted Dukakis' pride in his immigrant roots, and said: "My people landed at Ellis Island too. They were on the Mayflower when it made a pit stop on the way to Plymouth."

"You've seen portraits of the Mayflower. My people are the ones waving the Bloomingdale's shopping bags."

The vice-president concluded his remarks by alluding to the opulence of the entire affair, held in the lavish Waldorf Astoria hotel in Manhattan. He remarked, "I haven't seen this many people so dressed up since 'I attended a come-as-you-are party in Kinnebunkport," his vacation home in Maine.

It was a great respite from the acrimonious candidate charges to which we agree subjected every day in the media. Wouldn't Americans, and the world, feel a lot better about our next president if they could see the candidates as natural human beings?

The relaxed voices of Bush and Dukakis were pleasing to the ears in the few sound clips we got to hear the following morning. It would have been nice to see the entire evening on our television screens.

Maybe in four years the media and the Cardinal of New York can strike a deal to bring us the enjoyment of that evening.

And while they're at it, they can just drop the "debates," which have become nothing more than a Roman circus from which voters learn precious little.

Letter to the Editor

The one big evil

EDITOR—Dukakis is for every evil that comes down the pike but there is one evil that he represents that should make him anathema to all Christians. He is a member of the American Civil Liberties Union. These people want to banish God from America.

YOUR COMPUTER

Glare-Free Lighting Needed

In today's high-tech society, the computer is becoming as commonplace in the home as the television set. Regardless of how or why the computer is used, it is necessary to have a safe, comfortable and properly lit work-space.

Choosing the appropriate lighting is important for visual comfort, according to lighting experts at North American Philips Lighting Corporation, a major manufacturer of light bulbs and fixtures. The company cites two challenges to lighting the computer area for reading written copy while viewing the monitor screen:

1. The lighting fixture must illuminate the area around the screen—also a source of light and reflection—while also lighting the keyboard and paper source materials on the desk.

2. The general level of room lighting should be bright enough to minimize the contrast between the brightness of the screen and work areas, yet subdued enough to prevent glare and fixture reflection onto the screen.

This balance may be achieved by combining ambient lighting in the room to illuminate the work space indirectly. Incandescent lighting is suggested because it is the popular home lighting source and is easy to install. Fluorescent is another option.

Design the work station so that overhead light falls on the desktop work area—either to the left or right of the computer depending on individual preference. This way, the operator's head or body shadows won't be cast onto the keyboard.

Place the computer monitor on a neutral matte finish desktop at about a 45-degree angle to the overhead lighting. Light falling at this angle eliminates reflection and glare that hampers the operator's vision. So do neutral colors in matte finishes on the surrounding walls.

A suitable ceiling fixture would house a minimum of two Philips Soft White 100 watt bulbs shielded by a good quality glass or plastic diffuser. Another option is a fluorescent fixture with two 40 watt soft white or "ULTRALUMES" tubes shielded by a diffuser or lens.

Additional light can be provided by a soft white 100 watt bulb in a shaded architect's lamp mounted to the side of the work area, and aimed at the ceiling. A Philips silvered-bowl bulb mounted in a shaded task lamp also will create indirect lighting. The silver coating aims the light back into the lamp's reflector rather than directly onto the work surface, thereby dispersing light over a wider area.

If the work area is near a window, position the monitor at a right angle to it. This prevents incoming sunlight from shining directly into the operator's eyes or onto the screen. Blinds, curtains or other window coverings also will control daylight.

Grizzlies topple Reserve, 34-8

The Carrizozo Grizzly football team won its third game of the year Friday night over the Reserve Mountaineers, 34-8.

After a scoreless 1st period Dennis Vega got the Grizzlies on the scoreboard with a 5-yard run early in the 2nd period. Carrizozo added a 2-point conversion on a pass from Vega to Sean Wootton making it 8-0 Grizzlies. Michael Chavez added another TD for Carrizozo on a 3-yard run making it 14-0 Grizzlies at halftime.

Dennis Vega broke loose on a long 73-yard run on the first play of the 2nd half and the Grizzlies were up 20-0.

Freshmen Chris Bargla tacked on another 6-pointer for the Grizzlies later on in same period for a 26-0 lead for the host Grizzlies.

Reserve finally got on the scoreboard in last period when Tye Griffin scored on a 6-yard run and also tacked on the 2-point conversion. Carrizozo closed out the scoring when Dennis Vega found Kevin Sheehan with a 25-yard TD pass, and then connected with Abe Padilla on the 2-point PAT.

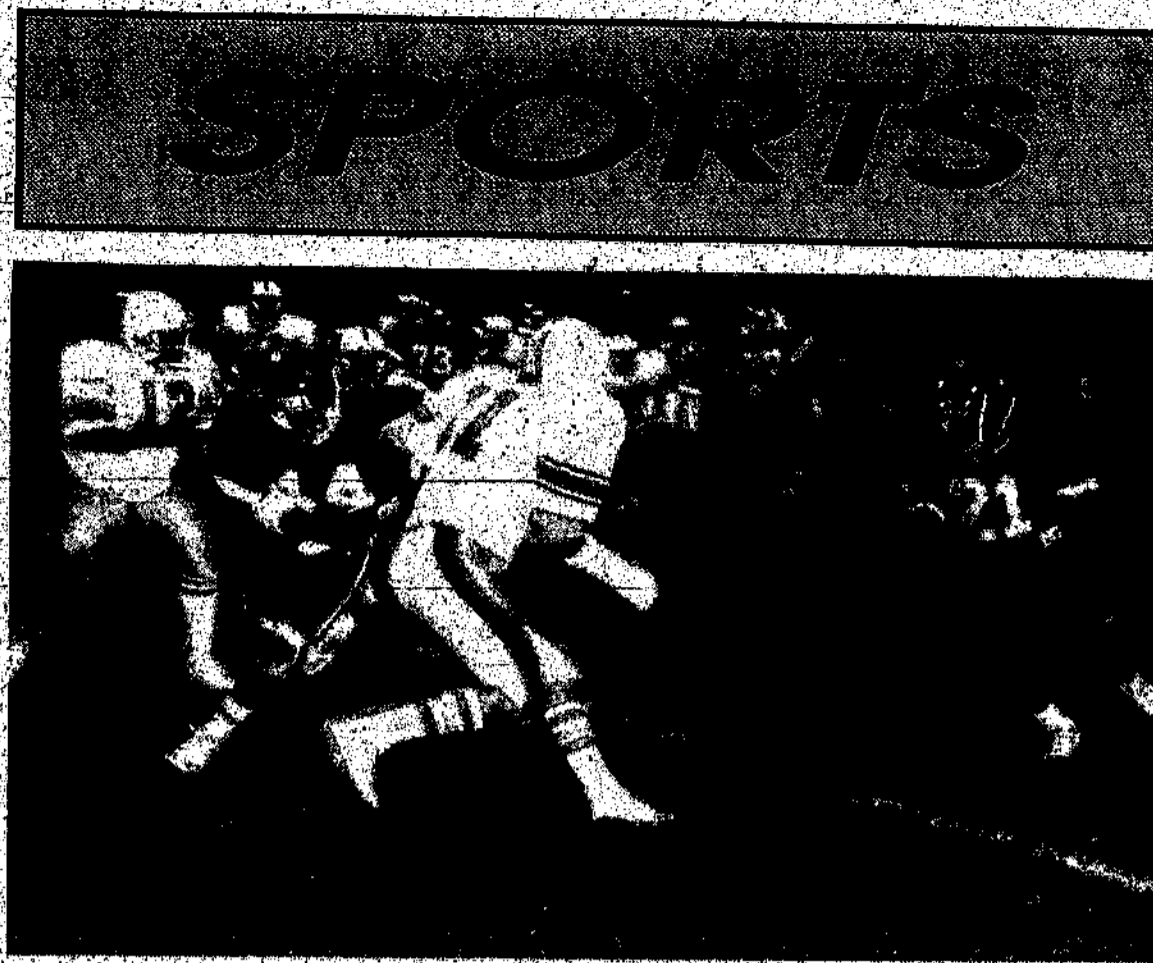

"It was a super win for us," stated Grizzly coach John Wootton. "It was our first victory over Reserves since 1978. Everyone got to play and shared in the victory. We close our season Friday night at Capitan. The Tigers are District champions and are ranked No. 1 in the state. We are looking for a super effort from our young men."

Grizzly girls volleyball beats Vaughn

The Grizzly varsity girls volleyball team went to Vaughn Tuesday night and came back with a first round district play-off victory.

The Grizzlies dropped the first two games of the match and rallied to win the last three games to clinch the match. The win advances the Grizzly girls to the next round on Thursday when they go to Mountainair.

The winner will advance to the district championship game with Ft. Sumner (at Ft. Sumner) on Saturday.

ANTHONY SANCHEZ (21) looks to get some big yardage during the Capitan 34-20 victory over Loving. Number 44 is Johnny Castillo. Kent McInnes is #73 and Jerrad Martin is #37.

Tigers capture district by beating Loving, 34-20

The Capitan Tigers captured the District 5A championship Oct. 21 by defeating the Loving Falcons, 34-20.

The Tigers were preparing for the much-improved Carrizozo Grizzlies this week. Carrizozo visits Capitan Friday night for a 7:30 p.m. battle with the Tigers.

The Tigers took the opening kickoff and drove 53 yards for their 1st TD. Key plays along the way included a 9-yard pass, Tino Gallegos ran for 12 yards before hitting Heath Huey in the end zone for the touchdown. Petursson added the extra point and the Tigers went out front 7-0.

Warren Russell, Johnny Castillo, Clay Guck and Lance LaMay looked good on defense during Loving's first possession, and the Falcons had to punt.

Tino Gallegos had a 17 yard scamper on the Tiger's next possession but a 15 yard penalty for clipping forced the Tigers to punt. The Falcon receiver dropped the ball in the end zone and it was covered by Capitan. This was ruled a touchback instead of a Tiger TD. Loving got a 1st down but was forced to punt as the 2nd quarter got under way.

It took the Tigers five plays to score their next TD. The key play was a 40 yard gallop by Tino Gallegos to the Falcon 12 yard line. Anthony Sanchez then got the final 12 yards for the Tigers 2nd touchdown. Petursson's extra point try was good. Capitan 14, Loving 0.

Loving had to punt on its next possession and the Tigers began a TD drive from the Loving 46 yard line. Sanchez got loose on a 32 yard run and Johnny Castillo fought for the final one yard and the TD. With 3:40 left in the 1st half, Capitan took a 20-0 advantage over the Falcons.

The Falcon's kickoff return was good to their own 40 yard line. Loving once again had trouble moving the football and, a bad punt set the Tigers up on the Falcon 41 yard line. Capitan was quick to score here with Tino Gallegos romping 46 yards for the score. Petursson's kick was good and the Tigers took a 27-0 lead into the locker room a minute and 45 seconds later.

The Tiger band put on a fine halftime show.

Loving opened the 2nd half with two 1st downs. A fine pass play and two penalties combined to place the ball on the Capitan 3-yard line. Loving scored and worked the 2-point conversion. With 5:46 left in the 3rd quarter the score stood Capitan 27, Loving 8.

Capitan scored on its next possession, going 60 yards. Sanchez and Martin carried the ball. The big play was a pass play to Huey and a 25 yard run by Jerrod Martin. Gallegos got the final yard for the TD. Peterson's extra point attempt was good. Capitan 34, Loving 8.

Loving set up play on its own 33 yard line. It was here that Rick Fuentes raced 68 yards down the sideline for a Falcon tally. The conversion was no good. It was Capitan 34, Loving 14 with just seconds left in the 3rd quarter.

Loving went 60 yards on its next possession for the final TD of the game. A 30 yard pass play to the Capitan 9 yard line was the big gainer. Sanchez prevented the touchdown. The tally came on a Falcon 4 yard plunge up the middle. Final score Capitan 34, Loving 20.

Loving worked an onside kick but couldn't capitalize. Capitan worked the ball all the way to the Falcon 2 yard line but was hurt by a dipping penalty. Peterson's field goal attempt was no good and the game ended moments later.

Coach Blane Miller said this was the team's "best offensive showing yet." Capitan rushed for 319 yards and passed for 110. The Tigers had 47 running plays and 7 for 17 passing. Martin carried the ball 14 times for 81 yards. Sanchez got 85 yards on 9 carries. Castillo got 14 yards on five carries. This was a big game for Tino Gallegos. He ran for 139 yards on 10 carries and completed passes for 110 yards.

Miller told the News "The Carrizozo Grizzlies come to town Friday night. They are an aggressive, improving team with a scrappy defense. I expect a hard hitting ballgame between two Lincoln County teams."

Capitan will start the following players on offense: starting on the left side, DeWees, McInnes, Seay, Guck, Hall, Miranda and Huey, Backfield Gallegos at QB, Castillo at FB. The halfbacks will be Jerrod Martin and Anthony Sanchez.

The Tiger defensive line: Warren Russell at the corner, Martin, Cox and Miranda. Lance LaMay at nose guard. Then Guck, Shane LaMay and Sanchez. The linebackers are Castillo and Huey. The halfbacks are Gallegos and Dallas DeWees.

BOOK LOVERS CREDO

"Numbering 829 pages and weighing in at more than three pounds, it was a massive book both in size and scope." (Marc Simmons in the Defensor Chiefly describing "History of Arizona and New Mexico" by California historian Hubert Howe Bancroft.) The volume was published 100 years ago and is still consulted by those with interest in the Southwest.

Howe, a native of Ohio, went to California as a youth in 1852, just three years after the Gold Rush. The new state was booming and following a brief stint in the mines, the enterprising easterner opened H.H. Bancroft & Co., a merchantile firm.

His business succeeded and he grew rich. He had a passion for books and he soon had a collection on the history of Western America. Henry L. Oak was hired as his own private librarian.

"Books, books! I reveled in books. And to this day I cry: Let me have books!"

Simmons says that is the credo of all true book lovers. Bancroft had a keen nose for the dollar and soon figured out how to make his library pay for itself by preparing a series of histories on the Western states, plus Mexico and Alaska.

HIGH-PRESSURE SALESMEN

Bancroft sent out a team of high-pressure salesmen who sold thousands of the leather-bound books, many to people who could barely read.

In publishing his works, Bancroft listed himself as the sole author with no mention on the title pages of Oak or the other contributors.

Bancroft claimed that the design and inspiration for the works were entirely his and since he alone was footing the bill for the writing and publication, he was entitled to have his name up front as author.

Simmons wrote that

Bancroft seems to have actually written only four of the volumes, adding just prefaces and occasional literary flourishes to the remainder of the set. Oak, the real author of the "History of Arizona and New Mexico" was so angry that he wrote his own book in 1893 denouncing the injustices of his former employer.

ANTI-DRUG EFFORT

"The Choice For Me, Drug Free!" That's the theme for Red Ribbon Week which officially began Sunday with a week of activities for the statewide Red Ribbon Campaign.

What is the Red Ribbon Campaign?

The Red Ribbon Campaign is a program organized by Gov. Garrey Carruthers to help reduce substance abuse in New Mexico.

How is the campaign structured?

Community campaign managers (CCMs) have been selected statewide by the governor. The CCMs organized committees made up of a cross-section of concerned citizens. Their objective: to mobilize other citizens to encourage reduction or elimination of substance abuse through education and awareness programs.

When did the campaign start?

The statewide campaign was announced in February by Carruthers during the 1988 legislative session.

What is Red Ribbon Week?

Red Ribbon Week (Oct. 23-29) is a week of activities to enlist citizens of every community to help stamp out drug abuse.

Red Ribbons symbolize the deaths of law enforcement officers in combating drugs and the lost lives of drug addicts.

HALLOWEEN PARTY TREAT

Molly Mason of Capitan has a first place recipe for Magic Cookie Bars in this month's Extension newsletter. A very quick recipe to try on a busy day:

- 1/2 cup margarine
- 1/2 cup graham cracker crumbs
- 1 can Eagle Brand milk
- 1 package chocolate chips
- 1 can flaked coconut
- 1 cup chopped nuts

Preheat oven to 350 degree. In 13 x 9 inch baking pan melt margarine in oven. Sprinkle crumbs evenly over margarine. Top evenly with remaining ingredients. Press down firmly. Bake 25-30 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool, cut into bars.

BUCKEYE STATE

Just when you thought you knew absolutely everything, the Old Farmers 1988 Almanac offers us these matters of fact about Ohio:

Home of the phrase "Rock 'n Roll." In 1951 Cleveland disc jockey Alan Freed of WJW was the first to broadcast this black idiom.

Home of the disposable diaper, Pampers, from Proctor & Gamble of Cincinnati, 1962.

Home of seven presidents in seven decades between the Civil War and Roaring Twenties—Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Harrison, McKinley, Taft, and Harding.

Home of Crisco, the first hydrogenated oil, invented by Proctor and Gamble in 1911.

Home of the towns of Fizzleville, Knockemstiff and Dull. Not to mention 40 places named Washington and 36 named Madison. (Dull, in Van Wert County, was named for James Monroe Dull, who owned the land.)

People believe if you carry a potato with you, you will be healthy.

AROUND CORONA

The Cedarvale Quilters sponsored a quilt show at the Senior Center in Cedarvale Oct. 15. There were about 60 quilts on display from El Paso, Alamogordo, Carrizozo, Estancia and Albuquerque besides the local entries.

Prizes were awarded for the best baby quilt. It was won by Edna Gones of Willard. The oldest quilt in the Wheel of Fortune pattern, made in 1872, belongs to Al Segay of Carrizozo. It was made by his great-grandmother.

The prettiest quilt entered by Kay Lindsey, the giant dahlia pattern, was pieced by her great-grandmother, Sarah Elizabeth Dabman in 1934. It was quilted by the Cedarvale Quilters and bound by hand by Kay's grandmother, Pallie Dishman of Corona.

The most unique quilt was a pieced polyester called "Annie's Flower Garden." This quilt was pieced and quilted by its owner, Evelyn Campbell of Alamogordo.

The club is grateful to those who shared their works of art. There were about 116 who viewed the quilts, some from as far away as Pennsylvania, Louisiana, and California. A meal was prepared and served by the quilters.

The club plans to make this an annual affair.

JoAnn Joy says enthusiasm is running high for the school carnival to be held from 5 to 9 p.m. Friday, Oct. 28. Mrs. Joy is president of the PTO, sponsors of the event.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Livingston left Sunday for their home in Baton Rouge, LA.

Here for a working weekend to help their father and grandfather deliver cattle were Mr. and Mrs. David Levi, Josey and Willie Sacramento, CA, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ranney, Lucy and Elie, Santa Fe and David Ranney, Des Moines, Iowa.

Mrs. Effie Mulkey had as guests one day last week her sister, Pearl Lundy, Estancia, and sister-in-law Arneita Harris, Albuquerque. They drove out to Red Cloud to check the progress of the Lee Mulkey cabin.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Allen, Heather and Heath, Roswell, spent Sunday with the Jack Davidsons.

Mrs. Walter Steele has returned from Los Angeles where she visited daughter, Kim, and attended the World Series.

Hints for Homemakers

It's not a bright idea to run lamp cords underneath rugs or carpets—be aware. It will create wear ridges and even more important, this is a potential fire hazard.

What's the difference between a chemical and a physical bleach? Chemical bleaches contain oxidizing agents such as chlorine which can damage the color or finish of some washable fabrics. A physical bleach works with fluorescent whiteners. New Borax is the only physical bleach for laundry that contains borax, a mineral which enhances bleach by conditioning the water and controlling alkalinity and odor.

Does your dog shed over your furniture and carpeting? An easy solution to this problem is to frequently brush the animal's coat. Your fine furry friend will look better, and so will your living room.

Lincoln County Business and Service Guide

Edmund Jones is EMT of the Month

Education and experience are the chief components for the successful training of a volunteer who wishes to serve his community as an emergency medical technician.

The years of formal schooling are not a criteria. Regardless of the number of school years, it is the continuing learning process that starts with the basic training course given regularly to new applicants, that is important. That learning continues throughout the length of the EMT's service.

The Lincoln County EMT Association chooses a member each month who represents the goals of their volunteers. This month of October, that EMT is Edmund (Ed) Jones of Fort Stanton.

He was born and raised in Lincoln County. His parents are Arlene and Paul Jones, formerly of the Forest Service. A brother, Ken, works for an oil company in Artesia. A sister, Becky, is secretary in the Lincoln County Human Services office. Ed is married to Gwen Jones, also an EMT, and has two sons, Lance, 8, and Justin, 7.

After graduating from Capitan in 1973, Ed was a year in college at Portales, working summers for the Forest Service on the Lincoln Forest and in Burns, OR. In 1975 and '76, he worked on road construction out of Socorro, and learned the jewelry-making art which he still continues with wood carving and leather tooling as hobbies.

During 1977, and for two years, he worked at Fort Stanton as attendant and teachers' aide, joining the fire department as a volunteer. While Gwen continued to work at Fort Stanton, Ed had a job for eight years with a telephone line construction company out of Ruidoso, returning to Fort Stanton on the maintenance crew in 1987. "Gwen became an EMT in 1981," Ed explained, "and I was always interested in their activities, but was away from home so much on my job that I couldn't take the training. I was an ambulance driver for EMS after taking the defensive driving course and am now a qualified emergency vehicle operator instructor. But as soon as I started work again at Fort Stanton last year, I enrolled in the EMT basic training."

Ed and Gwen are both on call for emergencies several hours each week and are still firemen along with Richard Vigil, Frank Romero, and Phil Keller. They all share the responsibilities of keeping the ambulance clean and serviced.

"Our ambulances," Ed said, "are fully equipped with the latest innovations for the best service. Each EMT is also equipped with radios, jackets, gloves, masks, and most recently with coveralls. These items are for the protection of the EMTs and the patients. The exterior finish on the coveralls makes for easy clean-up of stains and contaminants. Lincoln County EMS has made great strides this year to further its reputation as about the best in the state."

Ed and Richard Vigil enhanced this reputation when they won first in skills competition at the basic level, at the EMS conference in Albuquerque last July, over nine other teams in the state.

"We never get to the stage," Ed said, "of thinking we know it all. We learn something on every run. At each of our EMT Association meetings, part of each session is devoted to actively reviewing emergency techniques. This year, we had a conference with state personnel on dealing with trauma, plane crashes, and psychotic patients, and our own stress; a full day of mock hazardous waste problems; the proper procedure of caring for patients safely for helicopter evacuation, and the veteran EMT's input of their experiences to advise us in handling various cases that might affect our proficiency. I know through learning and experience that good old 'common sense and tact' are always necessary.

"I have my boots and clothes ready to get into every night. Whenever that beepers goes off, the adrenalin starts flowing. Finding my can used to be a problem, but now I have about 20 of them and can always find one to flip on my head. It's a great feeling to know I'm capable of helping save a hurting one, and even save a life."

The Golden Eagle

Sometimes called the "king of birds," the golden eagle is a graceful flier and a courageous hunter. It's dark brown with a patch of golden-brown feathers on the back of its neck. A young golden eagle can be recognized by the white patches on its wings and tail.

There are 48 kinds of eagles in the world, but only the golden eagle and the bald eagle breed in the United States and Canada. Executives at Jeep/Eagle, who just launched the Eagle Premier, feel there is nothing more American than the name Eagle. The golden eagle, by the way, is a feared hunter and can carry off prey its own weight back to its nest.

Some golden eagles migrate south to spend the winter in the Southwestern United States and Mexico. Eagles keep the same mates for life, and during breeding season each pair will claim a territory around its nest to keep other eagles away. The golden eagle will often defend a territory of about 20 to 80 square miles.
