

Samuels/Siddens vs. county commissioners

Supreme Court ruling pleases both sides

By Ruth Hammond

Both sides have claimed victory in Wednesday's Supreme Court ruling denying two writs as presented by Lincoln County Clerk Fran Siddens and Sheriff Don Samuels. Siddens and Samuels had asked that the Supreme Court overturn District Judge Robert Doughty's decision that the county did not have to allocate funds for their legal expenses in writ actions brought against them by the Lincoln County Commissioners.

The matter was heard by a three-justice panel yesterday in Santa Fe. Justices were Dan Sosa, Harry Stowers and Mary Walters. After five-minutes of deliberation the decision was returned.

Justice Sosa reported: "The relief sought in the petition in the form that it was sought in the petition is denied. However, in the exercise of inherent authority of superintending control we are hereby ordering the district attorney of the 12th judicial district to represent these two elected officials."

A.J. Ferrara, representing the county commissioners, said, "We won and we won big time."

Dan Bryant, attorney for Siddens, said, "It is a win for our side."

County manager Suzanne Cox said, "We think Judge Doughty was very fair and we think the Supreme Court was very fair." She went on to say that in the "broad picture" the ruling was very important.

When asked by the media in Santa Fe if the issues was political, Cox and county commissioner Ralph Dunlap answered, "No." They explained that the county commissioners are charged with certain duties and responsibilities.

County commission chairman John Hightower had stated in his deposition taken by Samuels' attorney on May 10 that the county commissioners are "bound by law to see that laws are complied with," he was also quoted as saying, "I have to do my job (complying with the laws) and I don't care how much we have to spend to see that it is done."

Cox stated that county commissioners are duty-bound to see that the laws are followed and if they do not then they are personally liable by state law.

The issues began in January when county commissioners filed writs of mandamus against the sheriff and clerk.

The sheriff was asked to comply with county ordinances and the clerk was asked to follow their instructions on recording the minutes of the county commission meetings.

Both writs were signed by district judges and hearings were scheduled for Feb. 8 for Siddens and Feb. 10 for Samuels. Attorneys for Siddens and Samuels asked for and received an extension of time before the hearings. The cases were then scheduled to be heard March 14.

Before the March 14 hearing date, attorneys for Siddens and Samuels filed motions for allocation of funds for legal representation and disqualification of county attorney Gary Mitchell from representing the county in the writ actions.

District Judge Robert Doughty heard those motions on March 14 and handed down his opinion on both cases May 10, denying the motion to allocate funds and at the same time disqualifying Mitchell from representing the county in the matter.

Legal fees for Siddens and Samuels total more than $20,000 at this point in the legal actions. Bryant said that in negotiations with the county commissioners he had agreed to reduce his hourly rate from $90 an hour to $75 an hour for his representation of Siddens. A motion to enforce the settlement agreement was filed by Bryant on behalf of Siddens in district court on May 2.

Accusations have been made on both sides with each side accusing the other of delaying proceedings until after the primary election next Tuesday.

"We would like to get it in open court where the true facts could be out, not rumors and half-truths as have been reported in the newspapers," Dunlap said. "This will also reduce attorney fees and stop the cost to everyone concerned."

Dunlap had said earlier that the reason the commissioners did not appeal Doughty's decision to disqualify Mitchell was because, "We don't want to prolong the proceedings."

According to the court ruling, the responsibility for payment of defense legal fees lies with the district attorney. The court ruled that such defense costs should not come from the pockets of Samuels and Siddens, and if the DA office does not have funds available, payment can be negotiated with Lincoln County. Another source of funds, the court said, is for the DA to add such costs to his budget of funds supplied by the state.

Dan Bryant, attorney for Samuels, called the decision "very extraordinary," adding that "it is not correct to deprive elected county officials of representation."

At this point it is not known whether such funds will be paid by the county, the state or a combination of both.

On May 27 Cox stated, "none of us object to paying attorney fees for litigation in connection with their official duties (referring to Siddens and Samuels.) However, if they are not carrying out the duties of their office the county should not be liable."

Doctors now on duty at Health Center

"Physicians will be at the Carrizozo Health Center five days a week, eight hours a day," announced Lincoln County Medical Center Administrator Steve Keller.

Keller said the primary doctors would be Dr. Spencer Hall and Dr. Mildred Horner. At times there will be other doctors in the health center.

Keller made the announcement after residents had voiced their concern that the Carrizozo office would not be staffed by medical personnel.

"We are also actively recruiting Certified Family Nurse Practitioners for Carrizozo," Keller added.

CFNP Rosemary Zink had been in the local office and has taken a leave of absence.

Notice of low water pressure, discoloration

Carrizozo Mayor Bob Hemphill announced that the town will experience low water pressure and discoloration during the next few days.

"The water storage tank is being drained in order to check two valves that might be broken," Hemphill said.

This is another step in the town's work to increase the water pressure and update the water system. "There is no danger in the discoloration of the water," he added.

Another grand jury to be called in July

District Judge Richard Parsons said he plans to call a grand jury in mid-July. The former grand jury's term expired May 22.

"The assistant district attorney will be out of his office from June 10 through July 5," Parsons said.

When asked about the investigation that the grand jury was to conduct of county officials as requested in the petition presented to the court Jan. 26, Parsons said, "I have no control over the grand jury."

Once the grand jury is impaneled and the judge gives the grand jury the general charge of the grand jury the judge is no longer involved in any of the grand jury proceedings.

"I have been informed the attorney general did not present any information to the grand jury," Parsons said.

UNVEILING OF THE Gov. William C. McDonald Memorial plaque was held May 30 with former Gov. Bruce King (right), Marlon Spencer and Steven Spencer officiating.

Commemorative plaque unveiled

First governor honored at Memorial Day program

The William C. McDonald Memorial Park was dedicated during ceremonies held in Carrizozo Memorial Day. The commemorative plaque was unveiled by former governor Bruce King, Marion Spencer and Steven Spencer.

The monument housing the plaque is four-foot square and five feet tall. It was built of cinder block and faced with a malpais veneer donated by the Valley of Fires Ranch. The exterior of the marker matches the other structure in the park, commonly called a "spider."

Morning activities and winners of events:

Kirk Novotny won the horse dung throw with a record-setting fling of 115 ft. 8 in., just barely ahead of Gilbert Archuleta with a toss of 115 ft. 4 in.

Virginia Silva won the frying pan massage. She broke the skillet with her grand slam effort on a can named Alfred. Music was provided by a dozen musicians.

A horseshoe demonstration by Dorothy Payne, Eileen

Serna, Vickie Vermilion and Verna Rodman was a preview for the 1988 state championship horseshoe contest that will be held in Carrizozo.

Three-year-old Celia Chavez, daughter of Luciano and Stella Chavez of Carrizozo, was crowned Miss America 2000.

A total of 22 candidates participated in the "meet the candidate forum" at noon.

The parade included fire trucks, police cars, horses, ATVs, old cars, motorcycles, specialty cars, political entries, commercial entries and one bicycle.

Maggi Carter of Capitan won the horned toad race with an entry named Lightning Bolt. The horned toad set a record of 8.7 seconds.

During the keynote address, King spoke of McDonald's life in Lincoln County and the Carrizozo area and how McDonald tried to improve the state.

All veterans were honored when they were invited to come stand in front of the podium. Roses were presented to prisoner of war Ernie Prehm and were sent to other prisoners of war Lellon Barnes and Margarito Trujillo.

The barbecue followed the program.

Organizing chairman for the event Glen Ellison expressed special thanks to Carrizozo Mayor Bob Hemphill and members of the town council and town crews for their help with the project; John Booher and his crew who helped at every opportunity; Gary Lovelace who built the foundation and inside core of the

HISTORY BUFFS

Polly Spearman, Tucson, AZ and her sister Gwen Goddell from Texas stopped at Lincoln County News last week to show me photographs of early day Oscuro. They were visiting the areas, especially Oscuro where their parents Arthur and Helen Hunter homesteaded. (Gwen was born at Oscuro.)

Helen taught school in the once thriving community. Polly and Gwen mentioned that in their search of history about Oscuro they discovered that Mrs. R.E. Blaney also taught school there where she and her dentist husband lived before moving to Carrizozo. (Mrs. Blaney was among the Lincoln County teachers in a 1914 photographs which appeared in this column.)

IN BYGONE YEARS

From the files of the Lincoln County News, Jan. 1, 1937: Gov. Clyde Tingley expressed regret at the death of Arthur Brisbane, newspaper columnist. He was credited with writing much to bring New Mexico's climate and natural resources to national attention.

From the files of the Carrizozo News, Jan. 5, 1917: E.C. DeBaca took the oath of office as New Mexico's newly elected governor. The oath was administered at St. Vincent's Sanitarium, where he was recovering from an illness.

MEMORIAL DAY 1988

On Memorial Day former New Mexico Governor Bruce King officiated at the unveiling of a plaque at McDonald Park once known as Spider Park. Marlon Spencer and her son Steven, ancestors of William C. McDonald (New Mexico's first governor) assisted King in the unveiling festivities. (McDonald died in El Paso, April 1918.)

COWBOY GOVERNOR

McDonald was born July 25, 1858, at Jacksonville, NY, son of John and Lydia Marshall (Briggs) McDonald. (Another publication of his birth town listed Jordanville, NY.) He was educated in the public schools of Herkimer County and in the Cazenovia Seminary, Cazenovia, NY. He studied law while teaching school and was admitted to the bar at Fort Scott, KS.

He arrived in White Oaks in 1880 and served as a US deputy mineral surveyor for New Mexico until 1890. He became manager of the Carrizozo Cattle Company in 1890 and later was the owner.

He was married in 1891 to Frances J. McCourt. At the time of his death survivors in addition to his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Truman A. Spencer and McDonald's step-children, John J. McCourt, Douglas, AZ; Mrs. Morris B. Parker, Hollywood, CA; and Paul R. McCourt, Butte, MT.

PROMINENT POLITICIAN

According to an issue of the Carrizozo News dated April 12, 1918, Governor McDonald had one of the most prominent political careers in the state of New Mexico:

He was assessor of Lincoln County, 1885-1887; a member of the territorial house of representatives, 1891; chairman of the board of county commissioners of Lincoln County, 1895-1897; member and chairman of the cattle sanitary board, 1905-1911; chairman of the territorial democratic committee, 1910-1911; elected first governor of New Mexico, 1911, serving until Jan. 1, 1917.

PATRIOTIC SERVICE

John A. Haley, editor and publisher of the Carrizozo News, had this to say when announcing the death of McDonald:

"Since returning to his home near Carrizozo and our entrance into the World War he has served as state fuel administrator and notwithstanding his declining health gave liberally of his time and means to the administration of that important office and died, like a soldier, in service, almost to the last rendering to the government a loyal, patriotic service, and in its rendition freely gave it without remuneration.

"The dead executive was a man of strong convictions and never hesitated to express them; and, naturally, a man of that character made warm friends and bitter enemies. But his enemies, political and otherwise, conceded his worth and confessed the honesty of his intentions.

"He was a man of broad intellectual accomplishments, a striking personality and possessed a keen insight of human nature. He came to New Mexico, as has been stated, in an early day, and by his industry, foresight and ability acquired, during a period of more than a quarter of a century, holdings that made him the wealthiest man in Lincoln County.

"A long life of usefulness and honor he lived and yet it ended in the midst of his activities when his legions of friends had hoped for his recovery."

DID YOU KNOW?

White Oaks had an estimated population of 2,500 with churches, newspaper, a bank, opera house, lodges, saloons and retail stores.

There is evidence that descendants of the early Spaniards and perhaps, even the Indians worked placer gold deposits long before the discovery, which led to the existence of White Oaks.

In addition to McDonald, other prominent people in New Mexico's history who were part of White Oaks history; A.H. Hudspeth, Chief Justice of the New Mexico Supreme Court; John Y. Hewitt, member of the State Constitutional Convention; H.B. Ferguson, US Senator; and Emerson Hough, who wrote of White Oaks in his novel, "Heart's Desire."

Larue Wetzel's 1918 "Friendship Crazy Quilt" with home processed wool by Mable Parmiter, Harryville, KS, and a 1938 "Star" of dyed flour sacks by Mary Jackson, a black woman of White Oaks history fame.

Yes, it had an outhouse. The quilt show viewers came from Alamogordo, La Luz, Las Cruces, Roswell, Hobbs, Dexter, Lovington, Nogal, Corona, Claunch, Cedarvale, Mountainair, Carrizozo and Capitan. Two quilt fans were there from Willamina, OK and Southberry, CT.

Benefit at Lincoln for Rio Hondo Boy Scouts

Mr. and Mrs. Phelps Anderson, Roswell, and the Lincoln Heritage Trust, Lincoln, hosted a wild game progressive dinner for the Rio Hondo Boy Scouts of the Conquistador Council, May 21.

The affair was held at Lincoln. Hosts were assisted by members of Lincoln County Historical Society NM Parks and Monuments and the citizens of Lincolntown. These people manned the various museums, answered questions, and many other activities.

Anderson welcomed the guests and thanked them for their support of scouting. He hoped this event would become an annual affair in Lincoln.

"Scouting is one of America's great volunteer programs," "Our special evening in Lincoln was a great success because of the volunteers' efforts which provided a special evening for our guests."

Eddie Davis, president of the Rio Hondo District, said scouting provides activities in which young boys and young men develop confidence in themselves, learn to set goals for their lifetime and to be proud to be an American. In all, scouting gives a high quality program, led by volunteers who care. None of this is possible without funding to help promote all the scouting programs and activities, he said.

Following the short program, Davis presented Anderson with a Swiss Army style Boy Scout knife.

Guests and friends of scouting enjoyed the wild game progressive dinner of buffalo, kababs, wild fowl, venison chile, and apple pie. During the dinner activities retired Capt. Jim Kirk and Smiley and Verda Mae Mauldin of the Pea Picking Band, Roswell, entertained guests. Also the Mountain Men showed their skills. Mike and Alepon Walstad of Ruidoso Downs and Fred and Kathy Bency of Tularosa furnished horse and carriage transportation to the various dining spots.

During the Supreme Court hearing Bryant said that Siddens had approached the district attorney and was told he would not represent her. Ferrara then quoted the New Mexico State Statutes that state, "that each district attorney shall: (B) represent the county before the board of county commissioners...; (C) advise all county and state officers whenever requested; and (D) represent any county in his district in all civil cases in which the county may be concerned."

The Supreme Court decision to uphold Doughty's decision is a milestone in the case.

While both sides are claiming victory today, the matter is still to be settled in court if negotiations are not productive. Doughty has set Aug. 15 at 9 a.m. in Carrizozo for a hearing in Siddens case.

Many of the quilters (true fabric artists whose medium just happens to be quilts) were on hand to "talk quilts" with visitors at the quilt show.

Among show goers was Rose Casteel of La Luz, member of the Stitch In Time Quilters of Alamogordo. Casteel, who has quilts for sale, can complete a quilt in three weeks.

Casteel is 93 years old, the number of quilts displayed at the Carrizozo Woman's Club quilt show on May 4.

After leaving Carrizozo Bode went to Alamogordo and repeated his winning ways there. He then moved to Clovis, Lubbock, TX and back to Alamogordo. He was president of the New Mexico High School Coaches Association for three years.

Bode said that coming to Carrizozo would be just like a homecoming.

The event will also feature Cindy Hobbs of the Flying "J" Wranglers singing the National Anthem.

Sandra Silva will be "Miss Grizzly Jr. track and field invitational" and will present medals at the meet. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Silva of Carrizozo.

County in compliance with hazardous material training

The federal law requiring employers to provide information and training on hazardous materials used or manufactured in the workplace became effective May 23. The law had previously only applied to manufacturers and importers.

New Mexico state law mandates similar requirements in four areas: (1) proper labeling of all chemicals; (2) written hazardous communication program specific for that facility; (3) material safety data sheets on file for convenience of all employees; and (4) employee training and hazardous training in using materials safely.

The governor placed the responsibility for implementing the act with the state Department of Public Safety (DPS). Many local emergency planning commissions have been established in accordance with DPS procedures for receiving and processing public requests for information.

The Lincoln County Emergency Planning and Right to Know Act committee is chaired by Nancy Guck with members Maggie Bohks, Larry Brinkley, Brenda Copeland, Suzanne Cox, Hoot Gibson, Thom Heller, Gwen Jones, Phil Keller, Steve Keller, Earl Krieg, Ernest D. Lueras, John Torrison and Kathy Williams.

The local committee has analyzed reports and is in the process of preparing facility specific contingency plans to provide for a timely and effective response to the accidental release of any extremely hazardous substances which are the subject of the planning provisions of the act.

Sam Larcombe with DPS attended the May 23 meeting of the Lincoln County committee. He explained the importance of the law in terms of safety to employees, employers, the general public, fire personnel, law enforcement personnel and rescue personnel.

"Since we are a chemically dependent society," Larcombe said, "One or more of the 366 extremely hazardous chemicals that can kill or severely injure on a single exposure are likely to be found in any community in the county."

One of the chemicals listed is gas chlorine which is used by municipalities and swimming pool owners to treat drinking water, swimming water and sewage. The presence of 100 pounds gas chlorine subjects the owner/operator of a facility to the act, whether it be municipality, apartment owner, swimming pool owner or individual.

"In Lincoln County, the villages of Carrizozo, Capitan and Corona have reported," Larcombe said. "We haven't heard from Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs if they use gas chlorine."

"Congress has mandated that these chemicals be reported to state, local emergency planning committees and fire departments," Larcombe said. "There are NO exceptions."

He said the public will benefit from this increased knowledge of chemicals in the community in improved health and safety, better prepared first responders and better decisions by planning and zoning commissions.

"Nancy Guck has done an unusually thorough job in Lincoln County of letting public and private facilities know that they might be suspect," Larcombe said. "The first draft of the plans are due Oct. 17 and under the capable leadership of Nancy the Lincoln County committee has finished a version of its plan." Lincoln County is one of three committees in the state to have completed this version of the plan. The committee is asked to revise the plan and update as necessary. In addition, each committee is to exercise the plan annually, either by testing in field circumstances or a table top drill. The committee is a permanent body with members serving two-year terms.

In accordance with requirements a mock disaster is scheduled for June 20 somewhere in Lincoln County to try out the written disaster plan for the county. The mock disaster will include all responders in the county: EMS, fire, county road department, civil defense and local law enforcement.

A training program was held for Lincoln County employees on May 12. Instructor for the training was Feltz Carrazo from Safety Counseling in Albuquerque. Carrazo is a former OSHA employee.

All county employees attending the training were to sign a statement of attendance and will receive a card of compliance stating they had the training.

Larcombe asked that anyone having questions contact him at 827-9223 in Santa Fe or Guck in Carrizozo at 648-2385.

What some Hispanics want is for the nation to designate Spanish as its official language. If you don't believe that, consider that there is a Hispanic State of California...

For 200 years we have been able to assimilate immigrants into American society by offering them intensive instruction in the English language...

We should have considered the problem the Soviet Union has - 130 nationalities speaking 50 languages. One reason why the Red Army is not as effective as it might be is because it cannot absorb and train draftees who don't even know the Russian words for such terms as "shoulder arms"...

We might also have considered India, a nation of 600 million people who speak 1,652 languages and dialects. The official language, Hindi, is spoken by only 33 percent of the population...

Inside the Capitol

By Jay Miller

SANTA FE—As I near my first anniversary of columnizing, let's take a look at Year One.

There were some right-on predictions that went against conventional wisdom.

There were some cliff-hanger election predictions that still are awaiting the voters' decision.

There were dozens of columns about every writer's dream—Hal Stratton.

There was a column that made it into the Congressional Record.

And there was the continuing chronicle of Fred McCaffrey's island-hopping adventures.

First, the good guesses. Throughout the entire 1988 legislative session, it was popular to predict that the volatility of the Senate and the proliferation of controversial issues would produce a late-session train wreck.

I predicted that old pros Les Houston and Ray Sanchez would cut the necessary deals to show the public that lawmakers are capable of finishing their work on time despite the animosities many were wearing on their sleeves.

Except for a minor computer crash, which caused a one-day special session to finish dividing up the goodies legislators feel compelled to take home in election years, Senate leader Houston and House Speaker Sanchez showed us statesmanship is possible despite hostilities.

When everyone was still talking about brokered presidential nominating conventions, I predicted the contests would be all over by the time they reached New Mexico and that Bush would be the GOP choice.

I had no such clairvoyance about Michael Dukakis. In fact, I called him George the first time I wrote about him.

My favorite prognosticating success involved US Rep. Bill Richardson. Last weekend the congressman called together a group of newsmen and advisors to provide them background on his future plans.

He said he had a statewide race in him that was itching to get out in 1990. If Pete Domenici happens not to run for reelection, the US Senate would be his race. Otherwise, he'd take a crack at the governor's contest.

Bill said the only thing that might keep him in the House would be a Dukakis victory in November. As a 4th and 5th term congressman, he would be in much better position to help the president push his programs than if he were a rookie senator.

Many in attendance were confused and required lengthy clarification. I had spelled out that exact scenario in my May 3 column.

Now, for the cliff-hangers that are still pending. I have predicted that Bush will win the presidential election in New Mexico but might get licked nationally. I also prognosticated that Jim Baca will take the Demo nomination in the 1st Congressional District.

The most recent polls indicating that I might want to do some quick back-tracking. But I won't.

Finally, in the face of many predictions about a big turnover in the state Senate, I'm saying the 21-21 deadlock will change by only one seat in the favor of the Democrats, but that won't be enough to keep Les Houston from controlling the body another four years through a coalition.

If it weren't for Attorney General Hal Stratton this job would be hard. As it is, humorous Hal keeps the pot stirred up with his "non-political" opinions.

That's right, "humorous Hal." I enjoyed breaking the story that the AG's sense of humor had been located in an April 1st opinion about conditions under which state officials could ignore the law that Hal likes to interpret so strictly. The rest of the media either couldn't believe it or thought no one else would.

The other newsmaker who makes reporting fun is Sen. Les Houston. His revelation last fall that he cries at doggie movies adds new-dimension to the character of Gentle Les.

It was a heady experience to have my first column on the late US Sen. Dennis Chavez printed in the Congressional Record. Rep. Bill Richardson thought enough of it to read it on the floor of Congress.

And then there was the saga of Fred McCaffrey, the former write of this column.

Fred sold his column and retired to the tropical island paradise of Montserrat to spend his retirement years with Jan. The Jesuit boys school where Fred was going to volunteer his services seemed distrustful of this foreigner, so he associated himself with a newspaper that was eager for his services.

Lo and behold, in a few weeks, Fred found himself writing an opinion column for the paper. Now, in a country where the Jesuits are uneasy about Fred, imagine the fear he would strike in the hearts of politicians. They had Fred banished from the island before his 90-day visa expired.

They're now on the island of St. Kitts and, I understand, looking longingly toward home.

1/2-mil levy sought to finance Economic Development Corp.

A little over a year ago, the Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County was formed as a private non-profit New Mexico corporation.

Purpose of the organization is to create a dynamic and diversified year-round economy for all of Lincoln County while maintaining the quality of living that the residents and visitors presently enjoy.

This goal will be accomplished by attracting new businesses that do not solely rely on the local economy to exist and by retaining and or expanding existing businesses.

In order to accomplish beneficial economic development in Lincoln County, funding is necessary. Salaries for a professional director and staff, prospect development expense, printing of statistical data, and general office expense are some of the necessary items in a proposed budget.

Since most communities, as well as the Lincoln County government, have difficulties in meeting their present budgetary demands, asking for funds from those budgets will not yield the funding needed. In presenting its request to the Lincoln County Commission, Chairman Hightower suggested a 1/2-mil levy as a method of obtaining needed funds. However, he stipulated that he felt the commission would approve the measure only if each community in the county passed a resolution supporting the measure.

The Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County wholeheartedly agrees that it must have the broad support of the citizens of Lincoln County before asking for implementation of the 1/2 mil levy. Therefore, citizens should be aware of the purpose of the organization and let it know if they are willing to support EDC with their tax money. The 1/2 mil would amount to 50 cents for each $100 evaluation. For a typical home valued at $60,000, which translates to a $20,000 tax evaluation, the tax would be $10.

The Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County already has a great deal of support from throughout the county. All five communities have joined our organization as well as the Lincoln County Commission, Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, Capitán Chamber of Commerce and Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce. They are 154 members in all. In addition, the Lincoln County Commission has designated the Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County as the official economic development entity in Lincoln County.

This is the first time all of Lincoln County has unified to achieve a common goal. To keep this unity and achieve the purpose, all property owners and business people of Lincoln County are asked to support the 1/2 mil levy for economic development when it appears before each community governing body.

In order for the board of directors to make formal requests to the different municipalities and to further answer questions, the following meetings have been scheduled:

THE QUILTS OF Gladys Keelin, left, and Martha Hobbs of Cedarvale in neighboring Torrance County, were among 93 quilts displayed at Carrizozo Woman's Club first annual quilt show. Proceeds of the event were used for a scholarship to a graduating high school senior. This year's recipient was Benjamin Herrera.

The craft of cloth

Quilting becoming an art form

By POLLY CHAVEZ

Quilts should be seen and displayed to be enjoyed and appreciated.

That is exactly what Carrizozo Woman's Club members had in mind when they sponsored their first annual quilt show last month.

They provided the opportunity for fellow club members and others to display everyday, prize-winning and antique quilts. Organizations and individuals from Lincoln County and Torrance County helped the Woman's Club fill a huge gym with color and design.

A glimpse of the past was made possible by the quilts loaned by Johnny Meigs, San Patricio; Shirley Goodloe, Capitan; Judy Blucher and Larue Weitzel, White Oaks; Peggy Holden, Oscuro; Gladys Keelin, Cedarvale; Dorothy Forsythe and Helen Lock, Carrizozo, and others too numerous to mention. Their museum-quality quilts proved that our nation's heritage has been recorded by women through the medium of fabric made into quilts.

"New York Beauty," a quilt made circa 1900 and loaned by artist and quilt collector Meigs, was appreciated by show goers for its beauty, craftsmanship and condition. The quilt, in pale yellow colors, was made by the mother of Fred Harvey, known for the chain of railroad restaurants. The quilt, valued at $1,800, comes from the Harvey family estate in Santa Fe.

"Drunkard's Path," a 1910

quilt by Belle Richardson, Buna, TX was a version of the famous pattern also known as "Rocky Road to Dublin" before 1849. Richardson is the maternal grandmother of Shirley Goodloe, Lincoln County Treasurer.

The "Drunkard's Path" design is "easy to arrange once a start is made — and this is not a temperance lecture either!" — Hall and Kreisinger in "The Romance of the Patchwork Quilt in America." The pattern in Salem, OH was called "Robbing Peter to Pay Paul."

The oldest quilt at the show was made in 1885, "Rose" by Hattie Amanda Goodloe, Ryan, OK. The quilt was inherited by great-granddaughter Cindy Ann Goodloe of the Flying W Diamond Ranch.

The newest quilt was "Dutch Rose" by Ruth Wilson, Ancho, who finished the quilt a week before the quilt show.

The show quilting designs, mostly traditional, included patchwork or pieced, applique, crazy, embroidered (thread or paint), marked off (design achieved entirely by intricate patterns of quilting stitches. Among the styles were Hawaiian; representational (people, animal, flower, basket); album or sampler (incorporating separate designed blocks by individuals or groups members.)

An outstanding example of a recent quilt (1981) which had the excellent craftsmanship of those made in the 1800s was a "Wedding Ring Bouquet" also known as "Double Wedding Ring." With thin batting and closely quilted, it featured tiny stitches (a goal of all quilters). This quilt was created by Mattie Lemity, Rosefarm, OH, aunt of Pete King of Carrizozo.

Gladys Keelin, Cedarvale, displayed a unique "Double Wedding Ring" quilt with 120 pieces in each ring. Keelin did the quilting but gives credit to a unknown top maker for the skill in piecing the unusual number of pieces in the traditional pattern. Another unique touch is the pearl beads sewn in each ring. Keelin belongs to the Cedarvale Quilting Club in Torrance County.

Fair — ribbon-winner Carolyn Wells, Claunch, provided a colorful example of her skills from a first attempt, "Colonial Lady" to "Orchid," grand champion at the 1987 Lincoln County Fair, and "Flower Garden," first place.

And then there was... Dorothy Forsythe's all-wool, feathered stitched "Keep Warm Quilt" made by her husband's practical and art-minded mother.

Cherri Goad's numerous cute baby quilts, gifts of quilters in the community.

Ballots made of broken pottery were used by the citizens of Ancient Athens to get rid of unpopular politicians. Whenever 6000 or more were cast, the official was sent into exile for 10 years.

Carrizozo trustees

Town hires police officer; assesses clean-up day

The Carrizozo Board of Trustees approved John Northrop as a full-time police officer during the May 24 meeting of the town council.

Northrop will begin work this week. He is a New Mexico certified officer and has worked part-time for the town in the past.

In other business, trustees approved a variance request by Don and Joan Means to place a mobile home or modular home on their property. The Means said the home would be less than 10 years old and will be skirting.

Two letters of objection were received concerning the variance request. John and June Castor live near the Means and suggested the town approve a temporary permit. Woody Schlegel, owner of Plains Realty, does not own property in the vicinity of the Means but was against the request.

A letter of approval for the request was received from Mr. and Mrs. Jete Voss. Agnes Hein attended the meeting and said she had no objections and her son does not object to the variance.

The motion to approve the variance was approved unanimously with all trustees voting.

Co-chairmen for Carrizozo's clean-up day, Linda Haller and Albert Baca, reported that 23 people helped with the annual event. They expressed thanks to all who helped and to the town crews for hauling large items.

Roy Dow of Roy's Gift Gallery donated ice cream cones to all workers, adults and children. Ice cream coupons were also donated by Taste Freez. The youngsters will receive passes to the swimming pool. Johnson and Margaret Stearns donated $25. The money will be used to defray the costs of the barbecue that was held for workers in the afternoon.

Mayor Bob Hemphill thanked Waste Control for placing a dumpster at the Rec Center for the use of Carrizozo residents during the clean-up day.

Baca asked if Chief of Police G.A. Morales had checked to see if the mobile home on B Street had proper waste and sewer connections. The mobile home has run a water hose from a mobile that is located in Plains Mobile Home Park.

Morales stated that the people were not living in the mobile home but were sleeping there. Trustees were concerned that raw sewage may be being released on the ground.

Hemphill said the Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County had requested the town to sign a resolution asking the county commissioners to levy one-half mill with the money to be used for economic development for the entire county.

ECD/LC will ask each class A member to draft a resolution to be presented to the county commissioners. A representative will attend the June 14 Carrizozo town council meeting.

Hemphill asked Morales to check on two junk yards that are in town. One area has two vehicles up on blocks that are not safe.

Trustees discussed the ordinance concerning junked and dis-assembled cars. The ordinance will be reviewed by the council.

Trustees requested that the town attorney review the condemnation ordinance.

The town received a letter from the state approving the audit contract with DeAun Willoughby.

A discussion was held concerning the Corner Pocket Deli and Donut Shop that is operating in the Rec Center. Trustee Harold Garcia asked that the contract with Val Reyes be reviewed by the county attorney to find out if all businesses conducted in the Rec Center are to be in Reyes name. Action on a business registration application by the Deli was tabled.

The town received the specifications for rehabilitation of the water storage reservoir tank from Wilson and Company, engineers for the project.

The town received a letter from the Carrizozo Woman's Club about the water bill received from April 1 in the amount of $122.72. The bill lists 83,350 gallons of water being used in April. Trustees agreed to wait until the next bill to compute usage for that period of time. The town received a letter from Lloyd J. Frost, director of the local government division of the state department of finance and administration prescribing the form for keeping all budgets, books, records and accounts for the local public body.

Three written bids were received for the study of the roof on the Rec Center. Hemphill was instructed to proceed with Wilson and Company which submitted the low bid of $1,500.

Hemphill read sub totals of the tentative town budget. Trustees have agreed to fund two full-time policemen in addition to the chief and a police secretary. The funding cycle will begin July 1.

A 44-minute executive session was held for personnel.

Re-elect WILLIAM L. (Bill) KARN COMMISSIONER District III Republican

HONESTY INTEGRITY EXPERIENCED

Which do you prefer,
PROMISES MADE? or PROMISES KEPT?
On June 7, republicans will select the Commissioner for District III. You will re-elect a commissioner who has delivered his promises, or you will choose a person who promises to deliver.

Those same cunning politicians who were behind the grandjury petition that made no accusations of wrongdoing but smeared by innuendo, have joined the current campaign to get rid of everyone and start over... (with their candidates).

This "hang the innocent with the guilty" philosophy asks you to ignore my record on a commission that has obtained more grants and matching funds, and brought more capital outlay into Lincoln County than any in history. — To date $14,445,000.

Nor do they tell you that (1) the grandjury petition did not accuse us of wrongdoing, (2) no personnel lawsuit has ever been filed against us, (3) the $44,000 overtime penalty by the U.S. Department of Labor was not assessed against the commission, (4) That Judge Doughty acknowledged the County's position by issuing the writs of mandamus and (5) the commissioners are not named in the U.S. District Court action of the four deputies vs. the Sheriff's Department.

Mrs. Siddens presented her position to the Board of Directors of the N.M. Association of Counties. They voted to assume an 'amicus' position to support her. But Commissioners from other counties, with knowledge of the local situation, asked for documentation from County and County records. When these were presented, the Association's attorney recommended that they withdraw their amicus support of Mrs. Siddens' position and await the decision of the supreme court.

I haven't been able to contact you as I did two years ago but I have not neglected your interests, and the County records show that I supported and helped with projects for:

RUIDOSO

•$150,000 for Sierra Blanca Airport improvements, funding for The Ruidoso Public Library, the White Mountain Search and Rescue, the improvement of the Emergency Ambulance Services, Meals On Wheels and many others, The Human Services Office was reopened for the convenience of our local people, Etc... Etc... Etc.

LINCOLN COUNTY

•Formed a new Airport Commission that did away with double taxation for residents of Capitan, Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs, funded the Lincoln County Medical Center expansion without raising taxes and obtained the following State and Federal grants without cost to the taxpayers: $400,000 to protect county water rights, $25,000 for the Ft. Stanton Historical Study, $243,000 for county road improvements and $35,000 to upgrade the Emergency Medical and Ambulance services.

•I voted (1) for the largest Sheriff Department budget in history and helped find the $25,000 for "in-kind" services that enabled his department to qualify for their traffic grant, (2) To drop the mill levy assessed in 1987 to pay for airport obligations inherited from the previous commission and (3) to make all county purchases from county merchants when possible.

CORONA

•Improved the Transwestern Road and Highway 42.
•Budgeted funds for (1) the improvement of rodeo and fairgrounds, (2) the Lincoln County Fair, (3) the Ft. Stanton Restoration, (4) $25,000 for the Ft. Stanton Historical Study and (5) joined in the continuing efforts to keep the Ft. Stanton Hospital open.

CARRIZOZO

•Re-opened one of the two Human Services offices, Improved the Oscuro road in conjunction with the Military to encourage Economic Development in the area and budgeted for the repair of the Courthouse boilers.

AIRPORT

•This fiscal year, we have received $8,000,384 from State and Federal governments to complete the Airport, and $6,445,000 to build the new Airport road and pay for the right-of-way.

THE HONDO

•Helped obtain the thousands of dollars that will be used to replace the obsolete bridges at Picacho and Glencoe, (2) joined in their water suits.

CEDAR CREEK

•This unfinished project was inherited from the former Commission. We were able to fund it and complete the paving.

ALTO

•The Alto Paving District was also inherited from the former Commission. It required a capital outlay of $3,421,000. We were able to sell the bonds and complete the project without cost overruns and on schedule. Two Co-op agreements have been allocated for future paving of the Ft. Stanton road.

RUIDOSO DOWNS

•When the Governor announced that he might stop horse racing, I phoned Gary Mitchell and told him to be prepared to file an injunction on behalf of the County against the Governor.

This is only part of the record the Power Bloc asks you to ignore in their campaign to "throw everyone out and start over" (with their candidates).

This cunning maneuvering can hoodwink enough voters, we may find on June 7th that the control of County affairs has passed from the people to this special-interest Power-Bloc.

Which do YOU prefer?
PROMISES MADE? or PROMISES KEPT?

This a portion of my record as one of your commissioners and I ask for your continued support and your vote.

BILL KARN

TO "SCOTCH" A RUMOR

From the County Records:

•To date, the County Attorney has billed $55,187 for services, NOT THE $100,000 that MANY ARE CLAIMING. This is far less than the Village has paid it's attorney. Of this $55,000, attorneys assisting in the water suits, have been paid $11,000, leaving the County Attorney a fiscal net of $44,000.— bk.

On May 15, the Carrizozo chapter of Future Farmers of America held its annual Parent-Member Awards Banquet.

Alumni and chapter members were on hand to celebrate another successful year for the Carrizozo FFA.

The evening began with the meal, followed by the guest speaker, Dr. Leon Wagley, department head of Agriculture and Extension Education at New Mexico State University. Following the motivational and often humorous address, awards were presented in many areas.

Certificates of Appreciation are given each year to people in the community who have helped the FFA through the year. This year's recipients were Barbie Roper, Nenna Vega, Peggy Frazer, Margie Serna, Rosemary Zink, Larry Bond, Lincoln County News and Nickel's Hardware.

Proficiency Awards were presented to: John Maxwell, sheep production, ag. mechanics, and ag. processing; Lisa Hightower, beef production; Loren Patterson, ag. mechanics; Justin Hefker, wildlife proficiency; and Patrick Vigil, swine production.

This year's Leadership Awards went to Mark Guevara, ag. I, Lisa Hightower, ag. II, and Leah Patterson, ag. III and IV.

Scholarship awards are presented each year to member in each class who maintains the highest grade point average. Kevin Sheehan, ag. I, Fred Vega, ag. II, and Leah Patterson, ag. III and IV, received these awards.

The student who is consistently outstanding in their judging field receives recognition and a plaque. In wildlife, it went to Justin Hefker. The land award went to Jeanna Sims; she was the 4th high individual on the district level. Marcia Hefker who was the first high individual at the Regional Judging Contest in Portales, received the meats plaque. In ag. mechanics, Leah Patterson, who was the 2nd high individual at the State FFA Judging Contest, was recognized.

Honorary Chapter Farmers were inducted into membership at the 1988 Banquet. Those who received this recognition were Danny Burnett, Melody Gaines, Gary Hightower, Pete Gnatkowski, Wayne Mason, Jodie Hecken-dorn and Morgan Maxwell. Only the most outstanding supporters of the FFA are eligible for honorary membership.

Two special awards were presented to Steve Gore and Steve Harkey. Steve Gore was presented with the Distinguished Service Award for his help throughout the school year and summer. The Blue and Gold Award, the highest award given to an FFA supporter, went to Steve Harkey.

The Carrizozo FFA Star Chapter Farmers for 1988 were John Maxwell and Marcia Hefker. Their devotion has been proven over and over again through their participation in judging, leadership activities, and supervised occupational experience programs. The Star Greenhand this year was Loren Patterson. Loren participated in all aspects of FFA.

Several alumni awards were presented, both to friends of FFA, and to the outgoing alumni officers—Gordon Barham, Hoot Gibson and Scott Shafer. Glen Trammell, the student teacher for the year, was presented with an award also.

Following the awards presentation, ag. III and IV members paid special tribute to Jamie Patterson, the 1987-88 State FFA Reporter. A slide show was shown while chapter officers gave short personal tributes. Flowers were presented to Jamie and Mariann Patterson after the slide show.

Michael Gaines, chapter advisor, ended the evening with announcements. He thanked Jamie for her outstanding example to younger members representation of Carrizozo District 6, and New Mexico State FFA organization. Gaines announced that three Carrizozo members will be receiving the highest award given by the state organization, the State Farmer Degree.

Those who will get their State Farmer Degree at the state convention in June are Leah Patterson, chapter president, John Maxwell, chapter vice-president, and Marcia Hefker, chapter secretary.

Voters of Lincoln County!

Regardless of allegations against me, I am not overdrawn on my budget and I am doing a good job as your Sheriff. None of the litigation in progress has been brought about by me, but directed at me. A very well planned effort to discredit me has placed doubt in some citizens minds, but my honesty, integrity and professionalism will continue, as I promised, as long as I am your Sheriff.

I do not believe that the citizens of Lincoln County elected me to office in order to allow others to run your Sheriff's Department. Under the conditions that I have worked, I feel that nobody could have done a better job.

Many major crimes have occurred and been solved during my tenure. We have made numerous drug arrests, and will continue to make Lincoln County a safer place to live.

The following is the 1988-89 Budget Message:

1988-89 BUDGET MESSAGE

I. FISCAL YEAR 1987-88
 The 1987-88 budget for Lincoln County was the largest budget managed in the history of the county. We met our financial goals and, even in a time of low interest rates, earned the amount of interest we had projected on county monies.
 The overall budget for 1987-88 was $14,524,631. The General Fund expenses totalled $2,277,136. Road Fund Monies in 1987-88 totalled $779,085.
 There were two large projects implemented and completed by the county in the 1987-88 budget period. $3,421,300 was funded and disbursed for completion of the Alto Paving Assessment District. This was the result of a cooperative effort between the Alto District and the County Commission. The Commission directed that as many jobs as possible be awarded to county residents, and that materials be purchased within the county whenever possible.
 The Sierra Blanca Access Road construction was started in this fiscal year. $6,455,000 was funded for the project. The Commission was instrumental in securing a $6,000,000 construction grant to fund the airport. Once again, local labor and materials were used and proceeds therefrom were cycled in to the local economy.
 We received State and Federal funding to complete the following road work: Cedar Creek; County Roads B018, B019 and B020 (in the Hondo area); County Road E031 near Corona; Oscura Road leading to White Sands Missile Range; Transwestern Road; and Eldridge Road. These were cooperative agreements with the State of New Mexico, and Lincoln County has been reimbursed $193,690.92. In addition, there is another $50,000 the county stands to receive through these co-op agreements.
 The county worked during this budgetary period to see the completion of the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport project, which totalled to $8,384,000 in funding. The county had to pass a 1 mill levy to secure matching funds for a Federal grant, and Commissioners specified that any monies collected through this levy but not needed for the Airport would then be used for courthouse improvements. This excess totalled approximately $70,000, which has been reflected in the 1988-89 budget.
 It is worth mentioning that the Commission has the option to continue this 1 mill levy into the 1988-89 tax period, but declined to do so.

During fiscal year 1987-88, Lincoln County received a Historical Grant Study (a Community Block Grant) for $25,000 to consider restoration possibilities for Ft. Stanton. Commissioners specified that any planning must take into account the function of the Ft. Stanton Hospital and Training Center already utilizing the grounds and facilities.
 A Land Use Plan was started this year to provide for orderly growth in the county. This plan is still being designed and will be instrumental in the economic development of Lincoln County.
 During 1987-88, Commissioners helped to restore the Human Services and Food Stamps office to the county, also providing office space for the New Mexico Health and Environment Department here. This service saves needy people a 100-mile round trip to Roswell or Alamogordo to implement their human service needs.
 The county received $33,552 in the form of an Emergency Medical Service Grant to help facilitate our ambulance system. The county now supports seven ambulances and is a model system throughout the State of New Mexico. We have purchased a new advanced life support system for the vehicle serving the west side of Lincoln County.
 Commissioners have allowed county EMS personnel to travel to other counties and provide assistance for them to upgrade their own systems to our standards.
 The Commission is working on and supporting the possibility of the Farm and Ranch Heritage Center being established at Ft. Stanton. $2500 has been allocated in the 88-89 budget for this purpose. Commissioners feel that the Heritage Center could promote tourism and also preserve the county's historical legacy, thus serving the dual purpose of providing recreational activity and also providing education to Lincoln County visitors and residents alike.
 The county was awarded a State and Federal grant to upgrade the Fairground Road Area during the 87-88 fiscal year. The amount was $10,000.
 Applied for Federal EDA Grant for the Sierra Blanca Airport water system in the amount of $1,405,585. Matching funds for this will come from an appropriation from the Legislature. The county also purchased a larger computer system than it had previously, to better accommodate report keeping. The new computer cost the same as the previous one, but will be less costly to maintain and has a much larger storage capacity. Commissioners worked with Steve Keller of the Lincoln County Medical Center in order to disburse funds for the hospital that were raised through a previous mill levy. This mill levy is for capital improvements for the hospital.

 The Board of Finance and the Lincoln County Treasurer worked together towards investing all county monies in accounts and reaping maximum interest on these funds. All monies were secured according to State statutes.
 Lincoln County has been involved in several lawsuits with respect to water rights. Commissioners provided funding to protect the county's interest in the El Paso and Mesquero water suits, being cognizant of the fact that water is an essential resource to the county's economic development and the quality of life and livelihood of its residents.
 As a point of information, because these figures are not clear in the budget print-outs, I would like to report on fees paid to Gary G. Mitchell, acting as Lincoln County Attorney during the 1987-88 fiscal year.

Mr. Mitchell was paid:
$21,395.00 for county business
22,429.64 for litigation
11,158.70 for the Mesquero Water Lawsuit, with a portion of this figure being paid to expert witnesses
$55,183.34 Total paid to Mitchell in 1987-88
However, we expect recovery for the cases Mr. Mitchell has represented us in: The 1987-88 total for this is:
$ 2,257.65 Miscellaneous litigation settlements
80,000.00 Forthcoming tax settlement
50,000.00 Forthcoming settlements
$132,257.65 Total Settlements

These figures show that, after Mr. Mitchell has been paid for his services, the county is approximately $77,074.36 ahead.

Also provided in the 1987-88 budget under State and Federal regulations was courses offered to county employees for their benefits, such as use of hazardous materials, etc. A safety program was implemented and courses have been, and are being, offered to employees. Recent courses include Defensive Driving and CPR.

II. FISCAL YEAR 1988-89

The 1988-89 Budget requests are made by the Elected Officials, Department Heads and other Agencies and relay a message of the needs of the office they represent.

In this proposed budget, a 3% salary increase was included for all employees.
 The 1 mill levy was passed last year to help secure a Federal grant for the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport, and will not be continued in 1988-89, by mandate of the Lincoln County Commissioners. Part of the mill levy will be used to repair one of the courthouse boilers, and replace another.
 The largest increases in expenditures for the 1988-89 budget is in the lines of insurance costs and telephone bills. Lincoln County will receive Federal and State funds for a new position and expenses for a Civil Defense Hazmat Emergency Medical Services Director. This position was created to comply with State and Federal mandates.
 Another new position was recommended by the county Planning and Zoning Commission to hire an Enforcement Officer-Building Inspector to ensure compliance of proposed county building ordinances. As of July 1, 1988, the State of New Mexico will no longer provide building inspection and enforcement, and this responsibility will be incurred by the county.
 The county Planning and Zoning Commission is currently working on a County Land Use Plan that will be implemented during the 1988-89 budgetary period. The Enforcement Officer-Building Inspector position will be partially funded from fees collected for building inspection.
 Road projects funded for the 1988-89 fiscal year include: Ft. Stanton Road; The upper end of Transwestern Road; and replacement of the Picacho Bridge and the Glencoe Bridge.
 Not all requests from individuals and organizations were included in the 1988-89 budget. These requests were listed in a memorandum dated 12 May, 1988. If Commissioners wish to fund any or all of these requests, cuts will have to be made from various departments to do so.
 This budget as presented gives Commissioners, Elected Officials and Department Heads the maximum amount that can be expended in 1988-89. I'm pleased to report that we have not had to cut back any employees, and that the budget does show a slight growth.
 There is a 5.4% growth in funds budgeted for the General Fund. The 1987-88 budget required $2,277,136; the 1988-89 budget calls for $2,347,276.
 The Road Fund has also been increased, by 75%. The 1987-88 budget showed $779,085 for roads. The 1988-89 budget lists $838,140.

Respectfully submitted,
 Suzanne Cox,
 County Manager.
