County Fair dates set, plans made

The Lincoln County Fair Board met Oct. 10 in the Fair Building in Capitan to set dates and have a lengthy discussion of the bleacher situation.

The 1989 Smokey Bear Stampede will be on the following dates: July 1, evening rodeo and dance; July 2, team roping, not sponsored by fair board; July 3, evening rodeo and dance; July 4, afternoon rodeo, no evening rodeo. The parade and barbecue are also scheduled for this date and a dance using "local" talent.

The fair board can not get insurance for the bleachers and they will be replaced. This fair board will go out for bids sometime in the future for new pre-fabricated bleachers. These bleachers will be like the ones at the new Tiger Stadium in Capitan.

The Lincoln County Fair Board continues to seek new ways to draw bigger crowds to its scheduled events. Many ideas have been discussed including bringing in a carnival.

The junior livestock sale in August grossed $37,127, the best in several years.

The Lincoln County Fair Board has plans to develop a master plan for the fairgrounds. This is to include insulating the fair building, enlarging and covering the show ring, and building new concession stands and restrooms.

The board has scheduled its next meeting for Dec. 5 at the fair building in Capitan, 7 p.m.

SKEEN TO ADDRESS REPUBLICAN WOMEN

The Federated Republican Women of Lincoln County will meet at 11 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 25, at the InnCredible.

Congressman Joe Skeen will be guest speaker. The board will meet at 10 a.m.

900-acre dump

Lincoln County threatened by a Solid waste landfill application

By Ruth Hammond

Lincoln County is known for its wide open spaces. One such space of 900 acres just east of Carrizozo may become the site of a landfill if a registration certificate is issued by the Environmental Improvement Division (EID).

Lincoln County has no ordinance prohibiting any person from any state placing a solid waste landfill in any portion of the county. EID regulations governing any such proposed landfill are contained in a small five-page booklet. Current EID regulations do not provide for denial of an application for a solid waste landfill.

According to Phill Westen, environmental scientist with EID in Santa Fe, an application has been received from Charles Helm of Glendale, Arizona to place a solid waste landfill on 900 acres six miles east of Carrizozo and one mile north of Highway 380. The proposed location is near the Tortalita Arroya and Nogal Arroya.

One water well is located near a corner of the property and another well is within a section of land. Both are privately owned wells, one is used for irrigation plus being a one-acre fish pond. Westen said more information will be needed about the other well before it is known if there is a chance of the proposed landfill contaminating the well. Current regulations require that landfills be 20 feet away from the nearest groundwater.

Helm's application is for a sanitary landfill that will incorporate incineration and recycling of garbage. If incineration is used, Helm will have to apply for and receive an air quality permit from EID before using the incineration method.

Bud Crenshaw is said to own the land involved except a small portion of the 900 acres may be state lease land and will require further information before the registration certificate can be issued.

Helm's application stated the landfill would be for Ruidoso, Fort Sumner, Fort Stanton, Capitan, Carrizozo, Bonito and surrounding areas. There was no information as to how the garbage would be recycled.

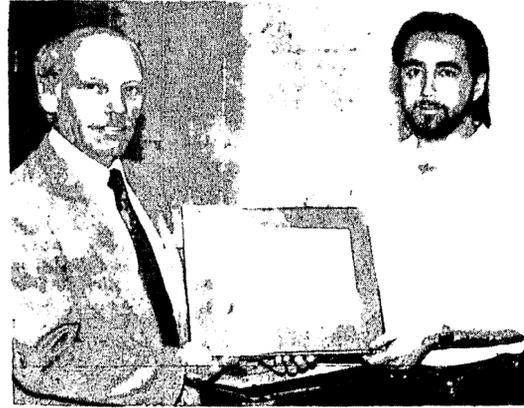

Westen said that counties and states cannot prohibit garbage coming in from out of state because it is considered a commodity but, "a better means of controlling landfills in counties is essentially through county zoning ordinances."

Public objection to the proposed Lincoln County zoning ordinance caused that document to "go back to the drawing board" before being presented again for public hearings.

Westen said that even though the county could not prohibit landfills it could zone the county in such a way that it would be advantageous for the landfill owners to look somewhere else.

ALBERT BACA is a New Mexico certified appraiser. He successfully passed four courses of study of increasing difficulty in the appraisal field to achieve the certification. The course is sponsored by the property tax division of the state taxation and revenue department and the University of New Mexico. Baca (right) received the framed certificate from George A. Memorandum of understanding signed

Fort Stanton to be turned into recreational project

On Oct. 13 officials of the Bureau of Land Management (BLM), the Lincoln County Heritage Trust, and the Fort Stanton Restoration and Recreation Advisory Board met in Santa Fe to sign a memorandum of understanding (MOU) agreeing to assist one another in support of the Fort Stanton Heritage Recreation Project.

Signing the MOU were Robert O. Anderson for Heritage Trust, Larry Woodard for the BLM, and Sid Goodloe for the Advisory Board.

The Fort Stanton Heritage Recreation Project encompasses three different actions: the restoration of Historic Fort Stanton, creation of a Fort Stanton Living/Working Heritage Ranch, and establishment of the National Center for the Western Horse. BLM and the private organizations will cooperate to explore potential recreation which benefit New Mexicans and other land users of public lands.

Specifically, the MOU calls for a representative from BLM's Roswell district to serve as an active member of the board as they prepare a land use proposal for the public lands around Fort Stanton. Plans may call for horse trails, campgrounds, providing other recreational opportunities (caving, hiking, etc.), and improvements such as corrals and watering facilities for horses and wildlife.

The board's role will be to participate in the preparation and implementation of BLM's land use planning document on public lands within Fort Stanton. The board also will be responsible for placing signs showing the proposed locations for the facilities.

As the Western Horse Center develops and restoration of the old Fort begins, a site for the NM Ranching Heritage Ranch will be chosen. This will provide a complete western heritage opportunity for visitors to the center.

Answers complaints

Hall takes over as road superintendent

Tommy Hall has taken the reins as Lincoln County road superintendent. He has 28 years experience in the heavy equipment and construction field and is familiar with all phases of the work he will be required to do.

Two of Hall's actions this week were the cause of complaints and have been investigated by the News. One complaint was that Hall selected a foreman even though there was no pay increase. The other complaint was that Hall transferred an employee from the Carrizozo area to the Capitan area without the employee's knowledge.

Buddy Hill had been road crew foreman and Hall asked Hill to continue in that position. Hill declined because there was no pay increase. All salary increases must be approved at budget time by the county commissioners.

Hall then asked Steve Chapman to be road crew foreman. Chapman accepted and will have those duties in addition to his being a blade operator.

Hall will have Joe Vega and Fred Serna as his two blade foremen. Both men have been blade foremen in the past and will continue with these duties. Hall did say that both men are working foremen.

The complaint concerning the transfer of an employee was that the employee was on vacation at the time of the transfer and did not know of the proposed transfer. Hall said he had talked to Steve Ortiz of Carrizozo before Ortiz took time off to go elk hunting and that Ortiz was in agreement with the transfer.

The announcement of the transfer was made while Ortiz was on vacation. Ortiz is a blade operator and will work in the Capitan area instead of the Carrizozo area. The transfer does not require a change of residence as many county employees travel to different parts of the county to work, Hall said.

Hall said plans for regular county road maintenance in addition to emergency maintenance will be an ongoing thing.

'Lack of communication'

Booster club tangles with school board

A lack of communication between the school and the Carrizozo Grizzly Athletic Booster Club was the subject of a 45-minute discussion during the Oct. 18 Carrizozo school board meeting.

The booster club was formed three years ago with the main goal being to provide money to feed Grizzly athletes on out-of-town trips, both boys and girls. The money is obtained from the community through fundraising activities.

"If we don't feed all the athletes it is not fair to ask parents for their help," said booster club member Anne Collins. She said that the booster club has fed the football players on out-of-town trips this year but has not fed the volleyball team, "and we don't know why."

Carol Schlarb asked the board to help with communication between the coaches and booster club to find out why the booster club was not allowed to buy meals for the athletes.

School Supt. Danny Burnett said it was unfortunate that the booster club had not talked about the situation with volleyball coach Ron Becker or principal Mel Holland or Burnett. He let Becker tell the board his reasons for not letting the booster club buy the meals.

Becker said that the booster club had provided money to feed the teams for the past couple of years, "I decided for games I coach to do different. It takes time to go to restaurants to feed the students."

Becker said he got the idea from Fort Sumner to have the athletes bring lunches and eat in the gym and this helps the team get home earlier. He said it was in the best interest of the students to get home as soon as possible.

Becker also said much money was being wasted because players did not eat all the meals bought at restaurants and there was a better way to spend the money. He did say one exception to the time factor was the Owl Cafe in San Antonio where a group of 30 to 35 could be fed and be out in 20 minutes.

Becker said after discussing the situation with the Fort Sumner coaches, "I decided to do this."

School board president Wally Ferguson said he liked the idea of the students getting home early and asked Becker if any of the students could not afford to bring a lunch. Becker said no.

Becker suggested an alternative would be for the booster club to make arrangements with local restaurants to have meals prepared and sent with the teams. This way the money would be spent in Carrizozo and the local restaurants owners would then be more willing to donate to the booster club.

Booster club members were concerned that the players would not have a hot meal.

Becker said he appreciates the help from the booster club. Recently the booster club paid for transportation costs for the team to attend an event.

Burnett again made the suggestion, "Anytime a booster club member has a problem, please come talk to me. My office door is open anytime." He asked them to talk to him and try to work things out, "before going to the board (school board). There might have been a simpler method if you had come to my office."

The booster club asked for a coach or member of the school board to attend the booster club meetings for their input and information. Rick Emmons is president of the booster club but was not at the school board meeting.

Ferguson said, "The negative thing about booster clubs is that somewhere down the line they (booster club members) start coaching. They buy helmets and then they say, 'why don't you play my boy?'"

When Burnett told the booster club, "You haven't been patted on the back enough, sorry we haven't patted you on the back more." Booster club members in unison said, "we don't want a pat on the back. We are doing this for the athletes."

Judge denies he received request for search warrant

"At no time did John Northrup Sr. or John Northrup Jr. ask for a search warrant, either verbally or by written affidavit," said Carrizozo Municipal Judge S.M. Ortiz.

He was responding to a statement made by Northrup Jr. at the Oct. 11 Carrizozo town council meeting that a search warrant had been denied by Judge Ortiz.

The matter concerned a car owned by Johnny Montoya that was involved in a high speed chase through town before stopping in Montoya's aunt's yard. The car was impounded, supposedly for a search of the vehicle.

Lucinda Silva, Montoya's

aunt, paid $39 to have the car released and attended the Oct. 11 town council meeting to ask to have her money refunded. She said the car should not have been impounded.

Judge Ortiz said that even after being impounded

the car could not legally be searched without a search warrant. He said the garage owner could inventory the car and contests but that police and law officers could not legally search the vehicle without a search warrant.

"Before I issue a search warrant," Ortiz said, "The officer must come in and fill out an affidavit for the search warrant. The officer must sign the affidavit under oath showing probable cause to the court before the search warrant will be issued."

The affidavit form asks for a description of the premises or person, location, and facts tending to establish grounds for the search warrant. Facts in support of the credibility of any hearsay relied upon must be included. If there is not enough room for the information in the space provided, additional information may be placed on the reverse side of the form or on a separate page or pages.

"It would have solved the problem if the search warrant had been requested instead of impounding the vehicle," Ortiz said.

Ortiz also objected to Northrup making the statements he did before the town council because the council and the mayor have no superintending authority over the municipal court or any of the municipal court actions, Ortiz said.

"If anyone has a complaint of misconduct or malfeasance of office or any other alleged criminal violation against any judge, the person can file a complaint with the New Mexico Judicial Standards Commission in Santa Fe. The Judicial Standards Commission will notify the judge and advise the judge of the allegations and tell the judge to be prepared to file an answer."

The Judicial Standards Commission has been in existence since June 1968. Members are two judges, two lawyers and five lay members. The commission investigates all allegations concerning judges and issues reports on findings.

Ortiz said Northrup had talked to town trustees three weeks ago about traffic citations being dismissed in court by Judge Ortiz. Ortiz says the forms used were outdated and illegal.

He referred to the state statute that says "uniform traffic citations shall be used." "Shall" means mandatory and "may" means permissive," Ortiz said and showed a copy of definitions contained in the state statutes.

Ortiz said he has discussed the situation with Northrup Jr.

The trial for Johnny Montoya will be held in municipal court next month.

Blood donor drive October 27

The Carrizozo Woman's Club will sponsor a blood drive at the Woman's Club building Oct. 27 from 1 to 6 p.m.

Plans for the annual fall blood drive were made during the Oct. 13 Woman's Club meeting. United Blood Services of El Paso will send a mobile blood unit with donor technicians to draw the blood. Each prospective donor will be asked a few questions and have a mini-physical before the blood is taken.

In other business, the Woman's Club accepted the resignation as treasurer from Peggy Frazer. Mignon Sims was elected treasurer to fill the vacancy. Club members presented Frazer with an album with a quilted cover as a going away gift.

It was announced the community calendars have been delivered and will be ready for distribution in early December. Plans were made to work on the triangle for the Community Improvement Project.

Sue Stearns is state conservation chairman and told of the workshop she attended in Phoenix, AZ. Shell Oil paid for Stearns to attend the workshop. Stearns will also represent the Carrizozo Woman's Club during the District IV convention in Reserve.

A GCWF Centennial Cookbook, with recipes from members around the nation, was displayed. The club will order 30 cookbooks to sell to members and anyone interested.

Mignon Sims presented the program on crepes with demonstration on how to make them. The finished cre-

Ferguson added that many people do not want to attend meetings but are willing to help with the program or any program.

In other business, the board accepted Burnett's recommendation to hire Beverly Graham as custodian to complete the 1988-89 school year. Members of the committee making the recommendation were Burnett, Holland and Becker.

Revision of the board policy was not presented. Appointed to the policy revision committee were school personnel members Mercie Epperson from elementary, Bob Hemphill from middle school, Evelyn Schwartz from high school, Pat Coulter from special education, Mike Gaines-vocational, Nenna Vega-classified staff, Ron Becker-athletics and activities, Gerald Montes-guidance and counseling and Holland from administration.

Burnett reported that librarian Julia Hollis was concerned that the only substitute qualified to operate the library in Hollis' absence was Polly Chavez. Burnett said that there was no money budgeted for a substitute for the library until after the budget is adjusted on the 40th day.

Ferguson and the board asked that teachers go with classes to the library and that everyone be familiar enough with the library to not have to close it. It was suggested that an inservice day for teachers on library procedure might help.

Oct. 19 was the 40th day for Carrizozo and enrollment was at 279 plus eight special education students for a total of 285. The projected enrollment at the time of the budget was prepared was 271. The additional students will mean more money for the district. Notification has been received that the state has officially closed the books on the 1986-87 school district audit.

Board members agreed to have the school establish an art program for students. It will be an activity instead of a class and no credit may be earned. Polly Chavez will coordinate the program with an afternoon program for grades K-5 and after-school for upper grades.

Chavez presented photos of projects students completed when she was substitute art teacher during the 1986-87 school year. "I feel qualified in many areas in art," she told the board as she showed them the pictures.

Holland explained the new report card being issued by the school. The entries are made by computer with spaces for each grading period, semester exams and semester grades. The report cards do not have to be signed by parents and returned to the school.

The board approved rearranging the secretarial staff from the organization that was approved at the September board meeting. Marge Serna will be reinstated as high school secretary and Barbara Roper will become administrative secretary.

A letter of commendation for Bill Wise will be put in his personnel file. Wise is band teacher for Carrizozo and Corona this year. He will combine the two school bands for a halftime program for one of Corona's home games and for the Carrizozo Halloween carnival parade through town Oct. 28.

The Carrizozo school band has performed with two halftime programs at home football games this year and marched in the Homecoming parade. A letter of commendation for Marge Serna was approved to recognize her work in the high school office.

The school received 29 applications for the position of administrative clerk. A committee of Burnett, Holland, Gerald Montes, Nenna Vega and Barbie Roper will make the decision after three interviews on Oct. 19.

The list of substitute and regular bus drivers for 1988-89 was approved. The board approved adjusting the deadhead mileage on Lois Roper's bus from 60 to 36 miles per day.

Joint powers agreement with Corona for band teacher Bill Wise was approved. Wise on the Carrizozo school payroll and Corona pays for his services as purchased services.

De'Aun Willoughby presented the 1987-88 school audit and explained each entry in the audit. She said the school board minutes are "positive," which is unusual. The board thanked her for a thorough audit and presentation.

Sanchez appointed to Selective Service board

Patsy Sanchez of Carrizozo has just completed the initial training program for newly appointed Selective Service System local board members. Sanchez was recommended for this position by Gov. Garrey Carruthers and appointed in the name of the president. Although Selective Service System boards are in an inactive status, they would be responsible for deciding claims for certain classifications such as conscientious objection, hardship, and religious ministry should a draft be reinstated in time of national emergency by the Congress and the President. Sanchez's initial training consisted of 12 hours of instruction over a two-day period focusing on an intensive orientation to the Selective Service System, the major duties and responsibilities of local board members, and procedures to be followed by the local board. This training ensures that the young men of Lincoln County who are registered with Selective Service and accept this responsibility of citizenship receive a fair and effective classification process by trained and objective individuals should the need for such a system arise.

OPINION

● Constitutional Amendment No. 2 on your Nov. 8 general election ballot would, if approved by voters, enable a New Mexico governor to remove gubernatorial appointees from office without any reason for doing so. At present, the constitution mandates that any governor's appointee can be removed by the governor only for "incompetency, neglect of duty or malfeasance in office." No. 2 would allow the governor to remove any appointee without any reason. Remember when the governor could remove any appointee without cause? It was a disaster. If an appointed official is doing a good job, why should an incoming governor be able to replace him with a political crony or a relative? What kind of person would accept an appointive job knowing that, no matter how well he performed, he would be removed in from one to four years by another governor?

● I remember how this state was being run in the 1930s, when just about every person in state government, from the lowly clerk up, was replaced when a new governor came in and took control. Patronage was heady stuff then. I remember that after each election there was a steady stream of cars heading out of Santa Fe and another stream of new appointees coming in. For two weeks before an election one could hardly drive the highways because they were packed with highway department workers, repairing roads and building new ones. Two weeks after an election one could drive across the state and never spot a highway worker! I personally was paid $100 a month to work on a highway project west of Hobbs. I never worked that job and have never been on the highway I was paid to work on. It was a corrupt way to buy my vote and those of my relatives.

● Frank Vesely was State Land Commissioner during those years. He was a friend of mine. He once told me, in answer to my question of why so many state employees lost their jobs when a new administration came in, that an employee used his term in Santa Fe to find employment in the private sector by the time he was turned out. He said the workers had from two to four years to "butcher up" a business to the point where that company would hire him when he was fired. Doesn't that lead to the worker doing special favors for businesses, even at state expense, to wangle a job? Frank replied that such had been known to happen.

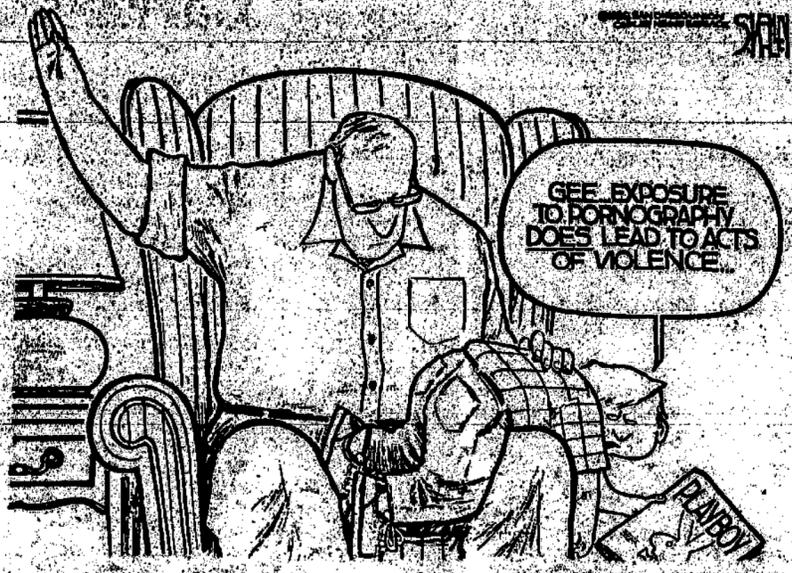

● This amendment would return New Mexico to such shennigans and to political manipulation of appointed employees. It is proper that, under the present constitution, an appointee can be removed only for "incompetency, neglect of duty or malfeasance in office." If a person is competent, performs his duties well and abides by the rules he is a good employee who deserves something better than being trashed by an incoming governor—without being charged with any wrongdoing. And the state needs those kind of employees.

● Voters would do well to reject Amendment No. 2 and stop this way of politicizing state employees.

● Constitutional Amendment No. 3 is one in which everybody can rejoice. It would lower property taxes. It does so by increasing the head of family property tax exemption over a six-year period in three phases up to $2,000 in 1993 and thereafter. The current exemption is only $200. This proposal would amend the constitution to read: "The legislature shall exempt from taxation the property of each head of the family to the amount of $2,000 as follows: In 1989, the legislature shall exempt from taxation $800; in 1991, $1,400; and beginning in 1993, $2,000." This would benefit primarily low-income families. Opponents argue that the state needs the money. Doesn't it always? But low-income families need the money a damned sight more. Just as important, passage of No. 3 just might force state government to cut some of its expenses to offset the loss in property taxes. Anything wrong in that? Coming at a time when affordable housing is a national issue, enacting this amendment would provide help and incentive for people to buy or build homes, and make it easier on the elderly who own homes now and who are finding it difficult to meet rising taxes on homes they have bought through taxes over the years. I'm surprised the bureaucrats allowed No. 3 on the ballot. They're always for higher taxes, never for lowering them. A Yes vote here will please your pocketbook.

● Constitutional No. 4 would permit counties to go into debt to purchase books and other library resources. At present, counties are limited as to borrowing, and only for certain purposes—building or remodeling public buildings, roads, bridges, water supply and water rights, required real estate, sewer systems, airports or sanitary landfills. No. 4 would add going into debt for books and other "library resources," whatever that means. Vote general 50-year obligation bonds for library books, when those books will be worn out or lost within a few years? State and federal agencies exist now to insure citizens access to books and libraries. At this moment, any New Mexico county has the right to purchase library books. All the people need is to elect county commissioners with enough backbone to annually allocate adequate money from the county general fund to buy library books. So, this being an administrative problem there is no excuse for a constitutional solution. Passage of No. 4 could be the "foot in the door" to allowing counties to go into debt for less worthy purposes. Let us force the counties to live within the present constitutional limits on spending money they don't have. Citizens certainly need access to books and libraries. However, isn't it more appropriate for such to be provided by school districts and municipalities, pay for those books "up front," and stop this mania for borrowing now for future generation to pay? A fiscally responsive vote on Amendment No. 4 is No.

SANTA FE—What is even less important during this campaign season than political parties?

Party platforms. My son's Contemporary US History teacher at Santa Fe High School announced to her class last August that one of the activities for the year would be a debate on the issues facing the presidential candidates.

So that students could prepare for the debates she had contacted the state offices of both major political parties and requested a copy of their national platform. She told the students she would duplicate the documents and distribute them as soon as they arrived.

She is still waiting. From the state Democrat headquarters she received Jeff Bingham campaign material. The Republican headquarters informed her the national platforms had not yet been printed but they would send her a copy as soon as the shipment arrived. Numerous follow-up calls have yielded no more than assurances that the national party platforms will be in any day.

She finally obtained a Democrat platform through other sources but is still waiting for something from the GOP.

Time is running out. And so is the teacher's patience. Are party platforms needed any longer?

Political science professors can always use them for class assignments and scholarly research. But it doesn't appear they are used for much else anymore.

When was the last time you heard any candidate at the local, state or national level refer to his or her party platform?

Candidates used to hassle their opponents by citing obscure points from the other party's platform but that practice has faded.

And now we know why. Party platforms are not distributed widely and in some cases they may not even be printed.

If you will recall, Democrats made a big point last summer of adopting a national platform that wouldn't get anybody in trouble. They adopted a platform that was so brief and general it cast no light on Democrat positions. It left Demo candidates free to mold their positions around their own beliefs and their communities' attitudes.

Letter to the Editor

A kudo for the clerk

EDITOR—I would like to take time to praise Fran Siddens and her staff at the Lincoln County Clerk's office for their time and help with conducting our student elections here at Capitan High School.

Through the efforts of Fran and Paul Baca our students were able to run our student body elections on the county voting machines. Our students ran their campaigns for two weeks with speeches, campaign posters, and finished with the vote. Paul Baca of Carrizozo set up the machines just as they would be in a regular election. All our students were instructed in the use of the machines before voting.

We appreciate the efforts of Fran, Paul and Lincoln County Clerk's Office for their education of our students. Through this program our students will become more aware of their responsibilities as citizens of this country.

BILL MacVEIGH,
Government Teacher,
Capitan High School.

We shall survive

EDITOR—To many of us, it seems that the presidential election centers around one issue: should Senator Dan Quayle of Indiana be elected vice-president? There are other issues but that one seems to dwarf them all. Should American voters risk the Bush-Quayle ticket because Bush might die, thereby elevating his vice-presidential running mate to the office of president?

History indicates that the nation would survive. If the nation could survive Vice-President Andrew Johnson, president from 1865-1869 as the result of the Abraham Lincoln assassination, it most likely could survive anything.

The nation survived Vice-President Gerald Ford taking over after the resignation of Richard Nixon. The nation survived Lyndon Johnson replacing the assassinated John F. Kennedy.

Harry Truman seemed like a very small vice-president to replace the four times elected Franklin D. Roosevelt, but the nation survived.

There was Calvin Coolidge replacing Warren G. Harding. There was Theodore Roosevelt replacing the assassinated William McKinley. There were others. And, somehow or other, the nation always survived.

The nation could survive Dan Quayle, too. Does that mean that I'm voting for the Bush-Quayle ticket? Heaven forbid! Nor would I vote for the Dukakis-Bentsen ticket.

Frankly, I'm tired of what those two old parties have been doing to us. I'm voting for the Libertarian candidate, Ron Paul. Just think, Ron Paul supports the pledge of allegiance to the flag; he has never allowed convicted felons to be freed from prison in order to go home for the weekends; and, to the best of my knowledge, he never joined the Indiana national guard.

RAYMOND C. WILSON,
San Juan Bautista, CA.

● I was not invited to attend a candidates' night at Capitan Monday night, even though I am an independent write-in candidate for Lincoln County Commissioner, Dist. 3. Consequently, I did not attend. Perhaps I should have. My spies report that one Jimmy Luna seized the opportunity to denounce me as a sleazy scum-bum who is engaged in "character assassination" through this newspaper. For good reason, he gave no specific instances where the "assassination" took place. It all makes me wonder whether he would have launched his tirade had I been present to defend myself. However, he got the audience's attention, and I am considering hiring him to repeat his remarks before other audiences before election day. By the way, who the hell is Jimmy Luna?

CHANGING IMAGES

Lincoln County Historical Society met for its final meeting of 1988 in Carrizozo Saturday, Oct. 15. Guest speaker was Bob Hart, director of Lincoln Properties for the Lincoln County Heritage Trust. Hart's subject was "The Changing Images of General George Armstrong Custer."

Custer (1839-1876), an American army officer, won fame as an Indian fighter. On June 25, 1876, Custer and about 225 men under his immediate command were killed by Indians in the Battle of the Little Bighorn. Not a man survived. This massacre, known as "Custer's Last Stand," became famous because of a controversy that began after the battle. The truth of all that happened in the battle will never be known.

Hart's presentation included slides showing Custer Battlefield National Monument in southeastern Montana. It includes part of the site of the Battle of the Little Bighorn.

GLORY HUNTER

At the age of 23 Custer became the youngest general in the Union Army. Many men who served with the "boy general" admired him. Many others hated him. Some of Custer's enemies called him a "glory hunter." A number of interesting facts about Custer and the battle fascinated Hart's audience, all history buffs including myself.

The subject of the program was based on an internship study by Hart, "Changing Interpretive Emphasis, Custer Battlefield National Monument, 1940-1986." In 1985 Hart was granted a leave of absence from National Park Service to obtain his master's degree in American History. He spent that summer in Montana at Custer Battlefield National Monument as research historian, conducting documents search, interviews, a survey of questionnaires, and administering a modest grant.

FACTS WORTH KNOWING

On hand at the Historical Society meeting was a 1904 White House Cook Book donated to the organization by Frank and Naomi Miller of Capitan. The book is a comprehensive "cyclopedia" of information for the home. Cooking, toilet and household recipes, menus, dinner giving, table etiquette, care of sick, health suggestions and "facts worth knowing" fill the book.

The author dedicated the publication to wives of "our presidents, those noble women who have graced the White House."

A tip from the book: "To clean stove pipe—a piece of zinc put on the live coals in the stove will clean out the stove pipe."

Election of officers was part of the organizations business. Bill Allen, Ruidoso, turned over the gavel to Ann Buffington of Lincoln.

(Carrizozo Lions Club members will remember Allen as one of several Lions Club members from Ruidoso who presented a drug abuse project to them. They in turn were to introduce the project into the Carrizozo Schools. A story appeared in Lincoln County News several years ago telling about the international Lions Club drug program.)

A THOUGHT

"I sometimes doubt the goodness of that everlasting bore, whose love embrace mankind, but skips the man next door."—Anonymous

POSTER ARTISTS

On almost any night of the week in schools, clubs and church groups when future events are being planned, you can hear the cry, "but who will do the posters?"

The prospect of producing a poster seems to strike fear into the hearts of many. People for Kids (PFK) has found a solution for that task.

The annual Halloween Carnival sponsored by PFK is an event that brings fun and games to people of all ages. That's one night each year when everyone has the chance to pretend to be something they're not.

Carrizozo school students this week participated in a poster contest. All entries will be displayed around the community. The best poster artist in each class will receive a treat at two local stores.

BOOTLEGGING

According to the Rio Grande Sun bootlegging (or smuggling liquor without a license) has been the target of a statewide Crimestoppers campaign recently, with Rio Arriba County leading the state in the number of complaints filed with the state agency charged with enforcing the liquor laws.

Both private individuals and liquor license holders are involved in illegal Sunday sales. The complaints involved a variety of matters including sales of liquor to intoxicated persons and to minors.

Sales by individuals have tried to be controlled by requiring package store owners to notify investigating divisions when people buy more than five cases of beer at a time.

Bootleg beer, usually the cheapest brand, sells for about $5 a six-pack on Sundays in Rio Arriba County.

CHUCK SAYS

"Santa Fe County Sheriff's officers were a little embarrassed last week, when a newspaper reporter noted that a plant growing just outside the office turned out to be marijuana. Some folks would say another nosy newsman sticking his nose where it doesn't belong."—Chuck Mittlestaidt, in the Hobbs Flare.

In the 1st game Karie Cox scored 7 service points. Marnie McDaniel helped out the Tiger cause with 4 points. Leslie LaRue contributed 5 and Sherry Gowen 3 in the 2nd game. Cindy Castillo led the Lady Tigers in the 3rd game with 6 service points. Leslie LaRue had 4. Tonya Carmichael led the Eagles in the 3rd game with 6 points.

Tigers eke out 22-21 win over Cloudcroft

By Bartley McDonough

The Tiger line, led by Fernando Miranda, stopped the Cloudcroft two point conversion attempt on the one yard line to preserve a 22-21 Capitan victory at Cloudcroft Oct. 14. A two point conversion by the Bears would have given them a 22-21 victory as time in the game had run out.

With little time left in the game and trailing Capitan 21-14, the Cloudcroft Bears blocked a Capitan field goal attempt. The Bears began their desperation drive from their own 16 yard line.

Cloudcroft got a 1st down. After a 4 yard gain, Miranda, Guck and Castillo hit the Bear runner for a 6 yard loss. Cloudcroft then completed a pass to mid-field and then another to the Capitan 39 yard line. With 3rd down and 8, the Bears connected on another pass to the Capitan 6 yard line. Capitan was called for pass interference with three seconds left on the clock. Cloudcroft then passed for the touchdown and time ran out. Capitan 21, Cloudcroft 20. The Bears then tried unsuccessfully for the two point conversion. Capitan scored on the 1st play of the game with Jerrod Martin going 44 yards for the tally. Petersson made it 7 zip.

Cloudcroft took over on its own 2 yard line. The Bears were stopped inches short of a 1st down and were forced to punt on 4th down. Capitan then began a touchdown drive from the Bear 38 yard line.

The Tigers scored two plays into the 2nd quarter but were called for illegal procedure. Anthony Sanchez finally took the ball in from 7 yards out. Petersson added the extra point. It was Capitan 14, Cloudcroft 0.

It took Derrick and the Bears 6 plays to score on its next drive, going 56 yards. With 8:30 left in the half it was Capitan 14, Cloudcroft 6.

The next Capitan possession resulted in a pass interception by Derrick. Lance LaMay recovered a fumble three plays later for Capitan. The half ended with Capitan out front 14-6.

Cloudcroft got a 1st down to begin the second half. They were forced to punt after a big hit by Warren Russell.

With Castillo and Martin mixing up the ball carry duties, the Tigers scored on its next possession. The key play was a long gainer by Johnny Castillo to the Bear 5 yard line. Martin scored the TD. Petersson kicked the extra point. Capitan 21, Cloudcroft 6.

It took Cloudcroft one minute, sixteen seconds to score on its next possession. The key play here was a long pass to the Tiger 34 yard line. Derrick then ran 34 yards for the score. Cloudcroft passed for the 2 point conversion and it was Capitan 21, Cloudcroft 14.

The Tigers got a break in the 4th quarter when a Bear touched a Capitan punt and the Tigers covered the ball to STEVE ORTIZ of Carrizozo killed this elk at 8:30 Saturday morning in the Cloudcroft area during the first day of elk season. He spotted the animal with a herd of 15 to 20 cows and a spike bull at about 250 yards and brought down the five by four point elk with a 270 rifle. Members of his hunting party were Edward Vega and J.P. Aguilar of Carrizozo. Ortiz said the elk was a birthday present for his son Steve Jr. who was 12 on Saturday. The game warden checked the animal on Ortiz' way out of Cloudcroft and said the animal should dress out at 650 to 700 pounds. It was the first elk kill reported at that time. The flowers in front of the Senior Center were still pretty the first of the week in spite of heavy frosts last week. The flowers in the three planters are the gift of Ken Payton who tended to the weeding, fertilizing and watering. Mrs. Bradley wishes to express the appreciation of the community for this display of beauty. Mr. Payton had flowers and vegetables at his home and shared them with friends.
