County hires law firm for legal services

By Ruth Hammond

The firm of Parsons & Bryant of Ruidoso, with lead attorney Robert Beauvais, will provide legal services for Lincoln County from now until June 30.

Action to hire the firm was taken by county commissioners at the April 10 meeting.

The county had advertised for proposals for legal services with the proposals due Feb. 27. Eight firms responded. No action was taken at that time because commissioners wanted a county manager in place prior to making a decision. Nick Pappas was hired

March 27 and a counterproposal was made April 5 to the attorneys responding: the county offered to pay $3,000 ($60 an hour times 50 hours per month) for legal services through June 30, 1989.

According to a letter sent by county manager Pappas to each firm submitting a proposal, "Rather than require attendance at all commission meetings, and the meetings of related boards and commissions of the county, the selected firm would work on matters determined by the commission or county manager. No travel or overhead cost would be allowed."

Seven of the eight firms were interested in the counterproposal. They were: Harry G. Wilcox Jr., Sanders and Fandey, Parsons & Bryant, Michael Wile, Hawthorne & Hawthorne, District Attorney Bert Atkins, and previous county attorney Gary C. Mitchell. The firm of O'Reilly & Wardlaw was not interested in the counterproposal.

Commissioners held a 32-minute executive session for litigation and legal proposals before making the decision to hire Parsons & Bryant for the 10-week period until June 30, 1989.

The litigation portion of the executive session was about property acquired from John Denny for access to the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport access road. Denny told the commission the matter was to be heard in district court in Carrizozo Saturday.

Denny said he and his wife signed the papers to sell the property to the county but that condemnation proceedings were started by the county anyway. He said he would like to get it resolved and said his attorney bill had been $750 to date plus $408.42 to Tim Collins. Apparently the boundary line of the property was in litigation at the time the property was sold to the county.

Commission chairman Bob Hemphill told Denny the matter would have to be referred to the county attorney. Commissioner Karon Petty asked that the matter be referred to executive session because, "I have information the commission should be aware of."

After the executive session, Hemphill told Denny the docket date on Saturday should be kept. The attorneys and the engineers will be in court at that time.

In other business, the Fair Housing ordinance was approved.

Budget increase for Zia Senior Citizens Center was approved for $608.19 for unbudgeted revenues received from proceeds of a $402.25 certificate of deposit which matured.

Agreement with the Forest Service for improvement of county roads B-007, B-031 and B-023-A-039 was approved. Cattleguards are to be installed. The Forest Service will provide the materials and the county will install the cattleguards.

Agreement with the Forest Service to install culvert in the ditchline of county road B-044 and crushed aggregate on Forest Road No. 88A was approved.

Tommy Guevara resigned from the Lincoln County Planning and Zoning Commission. Ernest Lueras of Corona was appointed to fill the vacancy.

Bill Rawlins, representing the road review committee, presented proposals for more information to be included in road opening or closing requests. The matter was referred to county manager Pappas.

Bill Smith, general manager for AAP Investments, asked for an exten-

No indictment in Katina Chavez death

No indictments were handed down by the Lincoln County Grand Jury following an inquiry into the death of Katina Chavez.

Empaneled on Jan. 6, 1989, the grand jury met eight times to inquire into Chavez' death, subpoenaed 55 witnesses, and reviewed 89 exhibits.

After reviewing the evidence and exhibits, the grand jury found possible cause to believe that a crime was committed but there was no probable cause to indict or charge any person or persons at this time for that crime.

The grand jury term expired April 7.

Katina's death shocked the Hondo Valley. Her body was found in the Rio Ruidoso near her home Feb. 21. The medical examiner ruled her death a homicide.

After an investigation, 16-year-old Matt Surratt from San Patricio was charged in the death and was later tried in juvenile court. District Judge Richard Parsons dismissed the case against Surratt for lack of evidence.

Katina's family hired a private investigator and later circulated a petition for signatures asking for a grand jury investigation into the death.

The Hondo Fiesta Dancers are now spending many hours practicing for the 37th annual Hondo Fiesta scheduled for May 5-6 in Hondo.

These students will put on two performances April 13-14 in Portales. While in Portales they will visit the campus of Eastern New Mexico University.

Instructors for the Fiesta Dancers are: high school, Franklin Herrera, Cecilia Gomez Sanchez and Deborah Romero Gomez; elementary dancers are coached by Porfiria Zinn.

The Hondo FFA chapter land team placed 16th in state competition. Team members are Celena Cope-land, Danny Salcido, Tonya

Suspects arrested in burglaries

Lincoln County Sheriff James McSwane reported that Pete Maldonado of Carrizozo was arrested April 8 and charged with commercial burglary, contributing to the delinquency of a minor, larceny over $250, and allowing self to be served alcohol.

Maldonado was taken into custody after Carrizozo police officers interrupted a burglary in progress at the Bargain Store in Carrizozo. Bond has been set at $7,500, no 10 percent allowed. Maldonado remains in the Lincoln County jail.

Three juveniles were also referred to the juvenile probation officer. One juvenile was involved with the alleged Bargain House burglary. Two juveniles were questioned about the burglary of the Carrizozo Country Club Jan. 20, 1989.

Robert Barrozo of Alamo-gordo was arrested April 8 and charged with felony home entry. The sheriff's office received a complaint that a man had entered Club Carrizo with a 30-caliber carbine. The man left the bar and went to a residence.

Sheriff McSwane said the New Mexico State Police,

Displaced ranchers to meet with congressmen

US Representative Joe Skeen and US Senator Pete Domenici have scheduled a meeting with the ranchers who lost land to the federal government when the White Sands Missile Range was created in the 1940s.

The meeting will be held on the New Mexico State University campus April 22 to discuss compensation ranchers want for grazing rights and land they surrendered.

The rancher's land was taken during World War II by the government. After the war the ranchers returned to their property but were later asked to leave again when the Army created the military range.

The 110 ranchers received $27 million in lease payments through 1975, which the government says is a sufficient amount.

Capitan budgets for a new test well

The Capitan Village Council approved an amendment of the budget Monday evening in order to drill a test well. The village hall will go out for proposals soon.

The 1957 agreement has been set aside and a new water agreement will be negotiated with the city of Alamogordo.

Engineer Jack Atkins said he had finished the backwash designs and is almost ready to proceed with the sandblasting. Atkins has received quotes on the filter media and is in the process of getting other quotes. The new motor for the well has arrived. The village now has a backup unit.

Chamber of Commerce President Dick Beck reported that Saturday, April 15, will be Clean-up Day in Capitan. Capitan citizens are asked to leave their tree limbs and other trash by the street and not in the alley.

Beck said water and propane are needed at the fairgrounds for the Good Sams and others. Terry Cox is to look into this matter and report to the council.

Mayor Benny Coker proclaimed the month of April Child Abuse Prevention Month. Coker also proclaimed the week of May 7 Municipal Clerk's Week.

Duffy Morton asked about the junk cars around town. Clerk Janet Keel said letters had been sent out. Trustee Renfro said the only way to get it done is to issue citations. Mayor Coker asked Morton to work with the police department and let him know where action should be taken. Trustee Myrl Ray said she had visited 14 places and asked them to cooperate and clean up their area.

A personal letter was read from Speaker of the House Raymond Sanchez praising Police Chief Randy Spears for his input in the legislative process.

Village trustees approved a resolution supporting an attempt to keep part of Hidalgo County from being a waste disposal area.

Police Chief Spears talked about SB 77 dealing with the 911 emergency telephone number. Capitan still must number homes and name some streets. An additional 50¢ would be added to telephone bills. Mayor Coker tabled this, and is looking for more input.

Agreement reached on zoning policy

Carrizozo trustees approved a request from Connie G. Morales for a temporary zoning change to have an auto repair shop on D Street in the location of the former Simmons Garage.

Action was taken during the April 11 town council meeting. Morales had asked for a permanent zoning change, but trustees granted only a temporary zoning change which means the zoning will be in effect only as long as the property is owned by Connie G. Morales.

Trustees were concerned with protecting rights of other property owners in the neighborhood. If and when ownership of the property changes, the new owners will be required to go through the same zoning change request process.

Property owners within 100 feet were notified by certified mail. There were two objections to having vehicles dismantled on the property and turning it into a junk yard.

Morales said she wanted to also put in a small ice cream parlor. The zoning change from R-1 residential to C-2 commercial would allow the ice cream parlor. A six-foot fence is to be built around the property.

In other business, the bid for construction of the street project was awarded to the low bidder, Turner Roach Corp. of Albuquerque. Engineer Joe Shain told trustees the bid submitted by Turner in the amount of $64,237.50 would not allow for any cost overruns.

The only anticipated cost overrun would be water lines and the town planned to replace those lines using money from the water budget.

Local woman charged with embezzlement

A criminal complaint has been filed in magistrate court charging Rosa Lueras of Carrizozo with embezzlement while an employee of the Senior Citizens Center in Carrizozo.

According to the complaint, "On or about Aug. 8, 1988 in Lincoln County, the defendant did embezzle or convert to the defendants use money which had a market value of more than $250 and less than $2,500 and with which the defendant had been entrusted, with the intent at the time of conversion to deprive the owner of his property contrary to Section 30-16-8, NMSA 1978. 1. Said property was personal checks belonging to Aurelio Lujan which were taken and converted into money by the above named defendant."

A preliminary hearing has tentatively been set for May 12 by Magistrate Judge Gerald Dean Jr.

Hemphill proclaimed April as Child Abuse Prevention Awareness Month.

Motor vehicle accidents claimed the lives of two Lincoln County residents; Lee Ann Burch, Fort Stanton, was killed April 6 in a one-vehicle accident, and Molly Canning-Hainer died April 9 after an accident Saturday.

The film is about an 18-year-old American who goes to Amsterdam in search of the father he has never known. His mother reluctantly admits he was born illegitimately out of a college romance between her and a Dutch exchange student. The young man slips into a self-destructive drug culture but is encountered by a single, caring person, a person of deep faith. Vast audiences who have seen the film have been gripped by its central focus on their friendship which was forged out of danger and desperation.

Students win at state science fair

Carrizozo students Lori Gibson and Brett Barham were winners at the 37th annual New Mexico Science and Engineering Fair held in Socorro, April 7 and 8.

Gibson, a 7th grader, received honorable mention and a certificate from the New Mexico Dental Association for her project in the junior microbiology division, "Do Antiseptics Kill Germs?" Barham, a 9th grader, received a $100 savings bond from the Soil Conservation Service for his project in the environmental division, "Does Raindrop Intensity Affect Water Erosion?"

Other Carrizozo students participating were Renee Roper, Anthony Archuleta, Kristy Gore, and Rouben Gallegos.

The state science fair was held on the New Mexico Tech campus with 349 students from around the state competing for scholarships, savings bonds, certificates, pins, ribbons, and other awards.

Otero farmers eligible for FmHA loans

Otero County was declared eligible for Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) disaster emergency loans on March 13.

Generally, this means that farmers who have lost at least 30 percent of their production due to drought conditions, which occurred on Jan. 1, 1988, through Aug. 31, 1988, are eligible for FmHA loans. Proceeds from crop insurance are taken into account when determining eligibility.

FmHA County Supervisor Dale A. Woods is urging farmers who are interested in receiving an emergency loan to get their applications to FmHA as soon as possible. The FmHA office is located at 1096 Mechem Dr. Hwy 37, P.O. Box 2450, Ruidoso, NM 88345. The telephone number is 258-5294.

Ernest V. Joiner's OPINION

● On March 27 the body of Susan Cupit, 14, was found in the bathtub at her home in Carrizozo. The body was transported to the medical examiner's office in Albuquerque for autopsy. As of April 5, nine days later, the Lincoln County Sheriff's office has received no results of the autopsy, if indeed any autopsy was performed. Although the sheriff is regarding the death as a homicide, he can't be sure until he has the autopsy results. How long does it take to perform an autopsy? Normally, a matter of hours. There is something wrong here. This isn't the first time that an autopsy has been put on hold while family and friends wonder what happened to the victim. If the girl's death proves to be a homicide, then the killer has had uninterrupted opportunity to take up residence in Brazil, have a face-lift, grow a mustache, and establish an alibi. Perhaps Commentator Paul Harvey was right when he said on one of his radio broadcasts that anyone contemplating a crime should arrange to commit it in Lincoln County.

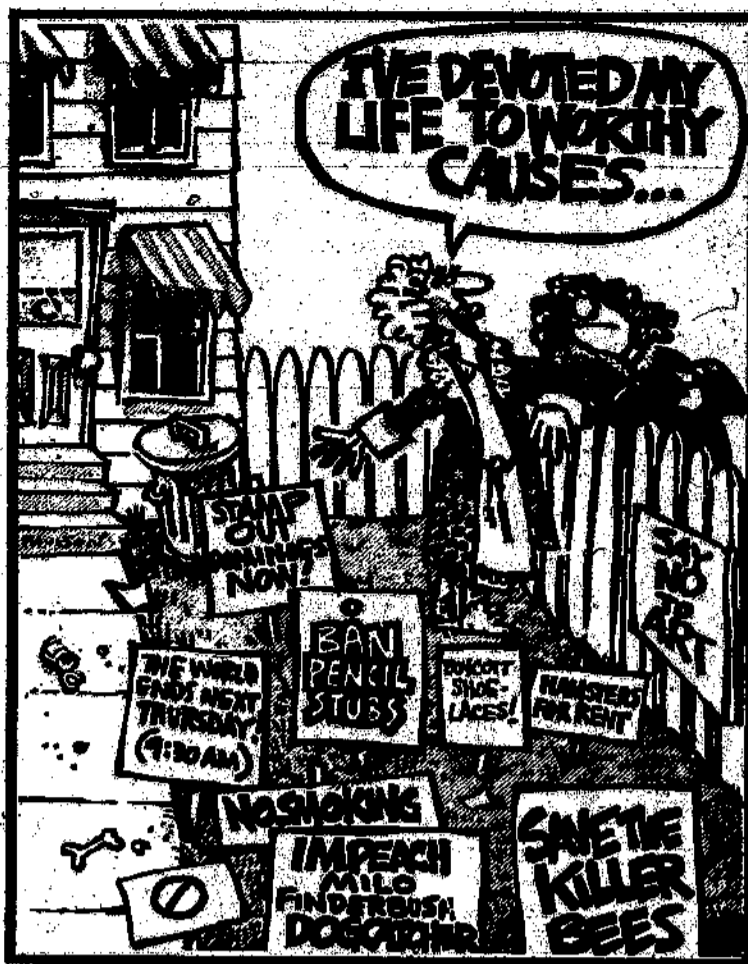

● Cathleen Gentry of the Planned Parenthood Association of San Mateo, CA asks an interesting question: "We pay farmers not to grow crops so why shouldn't we pay girls not to get pregnant?" So a one-year pilot program has been instituted. School-age mothers, who all must have had one documented pregnancy, will receive $10 per week for not getting pregnant. Well, how much should we pay thieves for not stealing, or rapists for not raping, or congressmen for not remaining in congress? If money is the solution to teenage pregnancies, consider that the $10 per week to maintain chastity can hardly compete with the $100 a teenage girl can pick up for an hour's sexual performance. There is a matter of morality involved, too. What Planned Parenthood seems to be saying to girls is that "it is okay to have sexual intercourse, just don't trip up and get pregnant. But if you do, we'll pay you not to get pregnant again." Strange reasoning.

● Dick Delsi, a California friend, writes that "AIDS" is the current cause here. The bleeding hearts are pouring out their love and money for them (persons suffering from AIDS). It is consolation that the bleeding hearts' money is being diverted in such a manner. Of course, love and money will not cure AIDS, but money and love will make spread of the disease greater. But at least that money won't be available for more damaging causes espoused by those bleeding hearts. In contrast to our lavishing money and love on AIDS victims, which does nothing to stop the epidemic, take a look at what my old enemy Fidel Castro is doing in Cuba to stop the spread of AIDS. Castro claims to have stopped the plague. He did it by mandatory testing, then by quarantining all persons found infected. These AIDS victims are segregated from society in comfortable quarters, at state expense, and they will stay there until they die. The US solution to the problem is to permit the infected to go where they please, do what they please, submit to no mandatory testing—all in the name of individual rights. In addition, we are spending hundreds of millions of dollars on AIDS research while permitting the disease to spread all over the world—except in Cuba. AIDS victims have been endowed with great political clout, which guarantees that the media will provide favorable publicity that will in turn bring in more money and love from the bleeding heart community. Which brings us to the fundamental question: which is more important, the privacy right of an individual to carry a deadly disease, or stamping out the spread by stamping on individual rights in order to guarantee survival of the human race? Is individual rights paramount, or is the survival of civilization a priority? Castro believes in sacrificing the few for the benefit of the many. Would that we take a closer look at Castro's solution.

● The entire state is bawling and moaning about how to attract business and industry. Yet at every session of the New Mexico Legislature the first order of business is to table a right-to-work law, usually without any discussion. Strange, isn't it, that in this state where only 6 to 8 percent of the work force is unionized, labor bosses are consistently successful in maintaining control of the legislature on this issue. No industry is going to move into this or any other state where unions set the high wage scale when they can locate in states where workers don't have to pay labor gods for the privilege of supporting themselves and their families. One city in this state, Clovis, is showing signs of revolting against high and mandatory union wages. Clovis is proposing its own right-to-work legislation that will guarantee that no worker in Clovis will be required to join a union. If the provision passes, perhaps the rest of the state will start paying attention.

Inside The Capitol

By Jay Miller

SANTA FE—Gov. Garrey Carruthers is fond of saying the 1989 Legislature was the most anti-business of any in history.

His justification for that statement is usually not much more than mention of the bill he vetoed which would have required insurance companies to give a good driver discount.

Carruthers is right. The bill was anti-business. It is pro-consumer and the voters in California liked it well enough to pass it in a referendum last November. But that doesn't mean it's right to have such a requirement. Government has no business ever telling private enterprise to do things such as that—even if it is publicly popular. It's a dangerous precedent to set.

The governor's reason for vetoing the bill was faulty. Instead of saying government should keep its nose out of such matters, he took it upon himself to defend bad drivers by arguing that they would have had to pay more in order to make up for the good drivers discount.

After citing this one anti-business example, Carruthers usually moves on to other topics.

Meanwhile the National Federation of Independent Business, in its New Mexico newsletter, calls the session "surprisingly good" for small firms. The state's largest small-business advocacy group said it was "gratified that the Legislature approved a budget within its means."

Jerry Walker, legislative director for the 3,000-member state chapter, was especially pleased that no tax hikes were approved. "Small-business owners were especially anxious about efforts to raise property taxes to increase education funding," Walker said.

The small-business advocate praised passage of two bills aimed at reducing worker's compensation insurance rates. House Bill 827, sponsored by House Speaker Raymond Sanchez, requires all commercial insurers to contribute to the worker's comp assigned-risk pool and gives them incentives to write worker's comp policies for small firms. Walker predicts the bill will give many small, claim-free employers "a first-ever shot at finding affordable worker's comp insurance rates."

The other bill on the subject the small business guys like is House Bill 715, sponsored by Rep. Mary Thompson, a Las Cruces Republican. It allows insurers to profit worker's comp policies with a $500 to $1,500 deductible. An insurance department official estimates the reform could shave as much as five percent off the price of insurance for small businesses.

Walker's group is also happy the Legislature did not pass three other bills that were introduced. One would have raised the minimum wage. Another would have required merchants to redeem manufacturer's rebate coupons. A third would have given employees immunity to accuse business owners publicly of unethical or criminal behavior, regardless of the merit of the allegations. That bill was the so-called "whistle-blowers' act."

The small business folks might have been even happier had Carruthers not vetoed a measure that eliminated the antitrust exemption enjoyed by insurance companies for many years. Any businessman knows it's useless to shop around for the lowest workers' comp insurance rates. It all costs the same and it's astronomical—prohibitive to some. The vetoed bill would have brought competition to the worker's comp arena and probably some relief to small businesses.

The bill sponsors think

Carruthers was gotten to by the giant Eastern insurance companies who don't like having to compete. Yes, they are businesses, too; but let's hope these were not the businesses to which Carruthers was referring when he called this Legislature anti-business.

There is also worry that our governor may have been listening to the big boys when he acted on other legislation. His veto of the retiree health care act may have been prompted by the last-minute, high-powered lobbying of a big out-of-state insurance company that didn't want to lose the business it is writing on retirees.

When Carruthers vetoed the garbage dump restrictions, there were whispers that representatives of big, Eastern garbage firms had convinced him this is an economic development opportunity we don't want to throw away.

And when the Gov. changed his mind and signed the bill raising state elected officials' salaries by 50 percent, he sure as heck wasn't listening to us little folks.

Letters to the Editor

'Demand metering' isn't so bad

EDITOR—I was prompted to write this letter after reading a letter to your column from Jeanie Clancy in the March 23 issue of your paper. As a lifelong resident of this area and a concerned consumer of Otero County Electric Cooperative, I would like to submit some facts from the "other side" of the demand metering story.

I believe I am correct in stating that the demand metering was instituted by Otero County Electric only after a hearing with and a favorable vote from the Public Service Commission. This action was taken quite a few years ago, back in 1968. The main objective of this type of rate schedule was to attempt to (bill) each residential customer fairly. If you will recall, the oil business in Texas and Oklahoma was prospering at that time and there was a great influx of people wishing to reside in our naturally beautiful area. Most of the houses built for these part-time and full-time residents were of a moderate to high cost, and many were fully electric homes.

This brings up point #1 mentioned by Mrs. Clancy, that Otero County Electric is the only electric utility company in the state of New Mexico which imposes a demand charge on its residential customers. The other side which must be considered is that the Rio Grande area was at that time, and still is, the leading (#1) resort area in New Mexico. The makeup of the Rio Grande area is totally different from any other area in the state, and should be treated accordingly. Due to a large number of homes causing an unroutine energy demand on the cooperative, and the cooperative in turn having to purchase more power at a higher demand rate, the cooperative sought and gained permission to impose the demand metering charge, which accurately measured those residences that were causing the extra demand so they could be billed accordingly. The cooperative was simply passing on the added cost of the unscheduled demand to the customers who were using this power.

Point #2 to be considered, that not all of Otero County Electric's customers are subjected to the demand charge. The other side which must be considered is that most residences served by Otero County Electric are not capable of generating a demand on the system, a demand charge. By the very design and structure of the home's electrical wiring capacity, the home cannot peak out at above 10 kilowatt usage, and therefore can't create a demand charge. The 10 kilowatt usage is the figure used by the cooperative to base the demand meter on, and was chosen after in-depth study. My personal feeling is why burden the entire system with the expense of demand meters when most of the residences can't create a measurable demand? Presently, demand meters, being much more costly, are installed only on those residences which are capable of causing an extra demand of power.

Point #3 to be considered, that the demand meter has resulted in exorbitant electric bills for some of Otero County Electric's customers, ranging from $500 to $1000 per month during cold winter months. I have no knowledge about this claim (statement) because I do not live in a electric home. I live in a home heated by wood, with gas water heaters, an electric dryer, and the normal household appliances plus having a barn on the same meter with floodlights, welder, and other power equipment, and our monthly electric bill runs from $70 to $95 monthly. I would like to live in an electric home, with many more electric conveniences, but the facts are simple, we can't afford the luxury. I think the choice lies with the consumer; those that want all of the electric conveniences and electric heating systems should be prepared to pay for the power they consume and the convenience they enjoy.

In addition to the points mentioned above, several other facts from the other side of the coin that need to be considered are:

(1) Demand metering was instituted by Otero County Electric in 1968 after being approved by the Public Service Commission as a valid and fair means of billing our unique resort area population. The demand metering system was a progressive move on the cooperative's part to bill residential customers for the electricity they used, while still protecting and avoiding overcharges to the customer whose home could not create a demand.

(2) Otero County Electric serves about 11,000 customers, 2600 of whom have demand meters. Of the residential customers that have demand meters only 20% average paying a demand charge. Just because a home has a demand meter does not mean that the customer is automatically charged a demand charge. Only when the meter peaks out above 10 kwh does the cooperative charge a demand.

(3) There are devices on the market which help the consumer monitor and control the demand created by homes which are capable of creating such a demand.

(4) Under the present demand metering system, the residences that are creating the demand for extra power are being charged for that extra power demand, and no more. If the cooperative is forced to remove the demand meters, two of the options are (a) to spread the demand charge over all of the residences, regardless of whether the home has the capability to cause demand or not, and (b) to charge part-time, recreational homeowners a higher rate per kilowatt-hour of usage, based on their part-time resident status. Why saddle consumers who don't use the power with the demand charges of those who create the demand? Why penalize part-time, recreational homeowners just because they chose our beautiful area as a second home?

(5) Otero County Electric Cooperative is unique in that it is a cooperative; it is owned by its consumers, and ALL of the consumers should have a voice in what policies and rates by which they are governed.

As a concerned consumer of Otero County Electric, I urge each of you to respond to the cooperative with your comments on this matter on which the cooperative sent out letter to all residential customers. If you didn't receive a letter, or misplaced it, call or write to let your feelings be known. If there are additional questions, ask the cooperative, and learn the answer; it's our cooperative, and it cannot adequately serve its consumers without input from ALL of us, the members. This is a crucial point in time, and unless the Public Service Commission hears from the "other side of the coin," I doubt that they can make a fair and valid decision. When responding either by phone or written comment to the cooperative or to the Public Service Commission, please keep in mind that the hearing date in Santa Fe is scheduled for Monday, April 3.

Just as the other letter to the editor, my intention in writing this is not to stir up a hornet's nest, nor hurt or offend any sector of consumers, but instead to show the view from the other side of the coin, from a concerned electric consumer who resents the idea of subsidizing the electric bills of those residents that create the demand.

Water supply may be low

Department of Agriculture officials say light snowfall this winter might spell trouble for water supplies in some parts of the state this summer.

Ken Martin, water supply specialist with the US Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service, says, "While much of New Mexico will not be affected, the exception is in the Zuni Mountains in the west-central part of the Rio Grande Basin where runoff volumes are expected to be near 25 percent of average. The west-central and south-west parts of New Mexico are expected to produce less than one-half of the average snow-melt runoff."

"February storms in the southern and central Rocky Mountains of Colorado and New Mexico carried moisture in from the Gulf and made a significant improvement in snowpack and water content," says Martin.

Martin further stated that in some areas in the region, snowpack and water content are up 20 percent over the season's average.

Greg Hauser, local district conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service, reports that streamflow prospects for the Rio Grande at Hollywood are projected to be near the average for the past 25 years. The snow course measurement near Sierra Blanca Peak shows a 39-inch depth as of March 1 and 10.3-inch moisture content compared with 16.5-inch moisture content for the same period in 1988.

The water supply outlook for northern New Mexico is for near average to much above average. Irrigation water supplies produced by snowmelt runoff should be adequate in the San Juan, Canadian, Pecos, and Rio Grande River basins.

CITY COURT

Every week I read newspapers, mostly weeklies, from various parts of New Mexico. The Rio Grande Sun has a large section devoted to city court proceedings.

In this week's report, Judge Dolores Vigil, a no-nonsense judge, ordered a nun to "pay up."

For openers, 27 seatbelt offenders get a chance to mend their ways. Persons cited for any charge are listed, complete with addresses. In a large number of city court cases recently, Vigil has dismissed charges of failing to use seatbelts or child restraints only after the defendant has attended a class on safety belt use. (Four individuals were ticketed with no child restraint charges.)

It's a one-time-only disposition, Vigil told the SUN. If the same defendant gets cited a second time for a seatbelt offense, the penalty is likely to be a $30 fine.

BUSY, BUSY

But what did the busy judge have against Sister Mary Concetta Medina? She parked in a handicap zone and was ordered to pay $30.

Other types of cases recently handled in Vigil's city court included: impersonating a public officer, molesting an unattended vehicle, reckless driving, no insurance, unlawful use of license, unlawful license, criminal damage to property, refusing to obey officer, resisting officer, assault, battery, concealing identity, open container, minimum speed violation, careless driving, speeding, illegal U-turn, criminal trespass, no registration, destructive material on roadway, no lights, emerging from driveway, following too closely, shoplifting, accessory to DWI, minor procuring alcohol, parked on sidewalk, parking near a fire plug, expired tags and no lights.

And then there was parking in the wrong direction, parking near a crosswalk, no license, turn violation, parking in prohibited area, moving an unattended vehicle, DWI, failure to yield, following too closely, unlicensed and unaccustomed dog, improper lane change, and illegal turn.

Many paid fines, some served time in lieu of fine and several put in hours of community service.

FAT-CAT JOURNALISTS

As Congress argued over a limit on speech fees in January, Washington Post's investigative reporter Richard Harwood said that journalists ought to be questioning their own speech fees.

The Quill magazine quotes Harwood in his Post column: "Journalists, and most especially Washington journalists, are in great demand among the thousands of corporation and trade associations with vital interest in public affairs and public policies. They routinely offer large honoraria $2,000 to $20,000 for a single speech."

Harwood said Hugh Sides of Time magazine and Jack Anderson, the syndicated columnist, earn some $500,000 a year for their speeches. Because journalists are considered public figures. Harwood asked: "If the honoraria offered by special interest groups represent 'unclean' money as far as legislators, agency officials and the judiciary are concerned, is it also 'unclean' when we in journalism are the recipients?"

"Should the columnists, commentators, and other journalists financially involved with corporations, trade associations and lobbies recuse themselves from commenting on the affairs of their sponsors? Ought they make disclosures of their moonlighting activities?"

CHUCKLE CORNER

"Okay, said the traffic cop, pulling out his notebook, 'What's your name?'"

"Sylvester Fauntleroy Thistlewaiter," the young man said.

"Well, said the officer, putting his notebook away, 'Don't ever let me catch you again.'" — From the National Future Farmer

RUDENESS SUIT

Insight magazine in its law briefing section reports that rude behavior does not warrant a lawsuit. A Georgia appellate court has ruled, overturning a lower court decision that would have allowed a woman to sue her former employer and a co-worker for emotional distress.

Nita Mundy, former branch manager of the Anchor Savings Bank in Hapeville, sued the bank and fellow employee, H. Street Kornegay, contending that his rude behavior and humiliating pranks created an intolerable level of stress that forced her to leave her job and seek therapy.

The suit contended that Kornegay undermined Mundy's efforts to enforce bank policies and procedures, interrupted her when she was talking with customers, swept objects off her desk and made rude comments about her age and appearance.

AROUND CORONA

Louie Chambliss called last week from Battle Mountain, NV to inquire about the Corona Summer Festival which is Aug. 12, the second Saturday of the month. He hopes to attend and to see old friends from his school days here when his father, the Rev. Paul Chambliss, was pastor of the Baptist Church. His mother died five years ago and his father now lives in Vernon, TX. Louie is a safety engineer with a gold mining company. He had heard of the festival through David Porter in Hawaii.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Petersen spent the weekend with the Jackie Davidsons. They make their home in Florence, AZ.

Mrs. W.T. Keelin returned Monday from Colton, CA where she visited a son, Tommy Keelin, who is very ill.

Mrs. Robin Pfeiffer came home Sunday from Albuquerque where she had been for several days with Mr. and Mrs. Stan Kimball. Mr. Kimball underwent stomach surgery Thursday and is making an excellent recovery.

Mrs. Jack Davidson Sr. came home Sunday from Roswell with a wheelchair and a walker. She broke a hip in late December and the bone now shows signs of mending. She is still shaky, much to shaky to hold a pen to acknowledge all the cards, flowers and calls she received during her hospital stay, but she is most appreciative.

Crown CowBelles met April 6 in the school recreation room after eating from the salad bar in the school lunchroom. Vice-president Karen Sickler presided and introduced guests Patsy Fitzgerald, Frances Addison, Jackie Brown and Ruby Shaw, Mountainair. Faye Berkshire and Cleo Maddon came from Willard, Myra Richards and Andora Maness from Roswell. Mrs. Maddon was hostess for coffee and cookies.

Mrs. Sickler presided in the absence of the president, Sue Maness, who was busy with shearing duties.

The June meeting will be combined with a picnic at the Latham ranch to honor Crown's Man of the Year, date and time to be announced.

Sue Callahan, scholarship chairman, has mailed information and application blanks to the high school.

Lee Sultemeier reported on Ag Day, March 20. She gave impromptu talks on agriculture to four classrooms and distributed jerky treats. Because of the blizzard the tour of the ag farm was cancelled.

The meeting then adjourned to the library where Mrs. Sickler, program chairman, had arranged to show two videos. The first was "A New Taste of the Old West" and along with beautiful New Mexico scenery gave comments on the life of a beef animal from conception to consumption. It was prepared by NMSU.

The second video was "The Beef Check-Off—A New Era" and had to do with the four areas of purpose—promotion, consumer information, research and industry information. A committee of 20 from all levels of the industry coordinate everything from national to state.

The next meeting will be at 11 a.m. for lunch, Thursday, May 4, and then to the board room for business and program. Mrs. Sickler expects a speaker from WIPP. Note the new meeting place.

Gene Roper was called to Albuquerque Wednesday by the illness of his son, Charles. He came home Sunday. Crystal Lueras and Bernice McCord spent Sunday with Charles in the UNM hospital where he underwent tests for a heart condition. He expected to be released from the hospital Monday but will remain in the city until a decision is made on possible by-pass surgery.

Charles Molmberg, San Antonio, and Jack Carlson, Austin, spent several days recently on the Walter Steele ranch. The three were friends and business associates in Gulf Oil before their retirements. They gave up a day of golfing at Cree Meadows to drive to Albuquerque for lunch with the Steele family.

Helping the Clint Sultemeiers with shearing were Jaunita Sultemeier, Roswell, and from Farmington, Joetta, Marcie, Patrick, Justin and Cody Turner and Zana Crawford.

Mrs. Gibbs, Lindsey Bonds, Mrs. John Bonds and Amy attended the state spelling bee at the Pyramid in Albuquerque April 1. Lindsey was district runner-up to Blake Thomas who was runner-up to Stefanie Meza who clinched the state title by spelling verruca and ovi-parous. After 12 rounds, Blake and Meza went 20 rounds.

Corona High School seniors and juniors were invited to Alamogordo recently for an NMSU Honor Awards presentation. Attending were seniors Tracy Kelly, Clay Post and Ty Lightfoot and juniors Tina Aaron, Shane Owen and Emmet Sultemeier. Several parents accompanied the students.

The Corona Trading Co. was closed over the weekend so that the staff could attend a stockholders' meeting and food show in Amarillo. Making the trip were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lueras, Mr. and Mrs. Danny Lueras and Mr. and Mrs. Rick Gage.

Mrs. W.T. Keelin was called to Colton, CA by the death of a son, Tommy Keelin. Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Owen drove out with her.

Ty Hobbs is being transferred by Fish and Wildlife to Animas. Mr. and Mrs. Hobbs will leave this week. They were honored with a supper party Sunday at Lincoln Station. An elderberry branch made an interesting money tree.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Roy Owen were in Las Cruces Saturday to attend the wedding of a granddaughter, Julianne Straley, and Calvin Kendall at the Northminster Presbyterian Church. After late May the newlyweds will make their home in Denver where both have employment. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Owen, Shane and Les, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bennett and daughters and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Owen also attended. Jessica Bennett was a flower girl.

Sherry Porter, bride-elect of Walter Gensler, was honored with a bridal shower Sunday afternoon. Hostesses were Lucille King, Marie Owen, Mila Pounds and Cathy Yancey. The bride's colors of lavender and white were used in the tablecloth, napkins, mints and punch. The refreshment table held white wedding bells, a bear cake, nuts and mints. There was a vase of tulips and a large flower arrangement was placed in the serving window.

W.T. KEELIN JR.
Graveside services for W.T. Keelin Jr. were scheduled for Monday, April 10, in the Loma Linda, CA National Cemetery. He died Thursday night in his Colton, CA home after an illness of several weeks.

William Thomas "Tommy" Keelin Jr. was born June 1, 1918 at Savoy, TX, the son of Gladys Carver Keelin and the late W.T. Keelin. He moved with his family to Corona in the early thirties. He served with the US Army for seven years which took him through WWII. Since then he has been employed by the Southern Pacific Railroad and worked from Tucumcari to Oregon as a heavy equipment operator.

Survivors include his wife of 43 years, Billie, of the family home; his mother, Gladys Keelin of Corona; five sons, Gary, Keith, Craig and Wesley of California and Jerry, Houston, TX; one daughter, Lori Moore, Colton, CA;
