

A return to wilderness?

Humphries, BLM talk with ranchers about malpais

By Ruth Hammond

William R. Humphries, New Mexico Commissioner of Public Lands, and Mike Bunker and Phil Kirk from the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) were in Carrizozo April 25 to talk with ranchers about the proposal to designate the malpais lava flow into two wilderness areas.

One wilderness area, called Little Black Peak, would be north of Highway 380 while the wilderness area south of Highway 380 would be in the Carrizozo Lava Flow. Both areas are presently wildlife areas.

The Wilderness Act of 1964, approved by US Congress, identified criteria for designating and managing wilderness areas. BLM presently has 25 million acres under study in 855 areas in the United States.

Congress has designated 450,260 acres in 25 areas of the United States as wilderness areas and another 14 areas are in the draft or final management plan stage.

The study of the two Carrizozo areas would include proposals for exchange of land between BLM and the state land office. The state land office has 640 surface areas and 640 mineral acres in the Carrizozo Lava Flow and the Little Black Peak area that the BLM has proposed for land exchange.

The state land office compromise-proposal is for 3,215.84 surface acres and 3,215.84 mineral acres for exchange. Humphries said the state would be glad to have BLM take the state land that is locked-in in this proposed wilderness area.

Ranchers were concerned with the proposed boundary lines for the two wilderness areas. Ranchers attending the meeting were Bill Gallacher, Bob Shafer, Steve Spencer, Ron Clouser, Billy Bob Shafer and Mike Shivers.

Gallacher said the area was designated a wildlife area in the 1960s and grazing of animals in the area was stopped. Apparently goats were grazing in the malpais before that time and kept the vegetation lower than it is now.

It is possible that BLM would want a 10,000 acre buffer zone around the malpais which would mean the ranchers would lose this acreage through exchange or other means.

Stasia Spurrier, from the New Mexico Land Use Alliance, spoke about the need to protect multiple-use status of the lands and monitor land management issues in the state. The organization's goals are to limit the application of restrictions that adversely affect any one of the multiple users in the state.

"Your best defense is involvement," Humphries told the ranchers. "I can't emphasize enough that you can't fight this alone locally." He suggested the ranchers communicate with BLM and the New Mexico Congressional delegation.

Spurrier will work with the ranchers to monitor state and federal land management activities and keep the ranchers informed of legislation that will impact this area.

The New Mexico Land Use Alliance, formed in

Cheese and wine social

The last Friday cheese and wine social sponsored by the Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce will be held at Theresa's Beauty Salon April 28 from 6 to 7:30 p.m.

January 1989, will help educate the general public on all of the issues surrounding land restrictions, and promote the responsible use of these lands while endorsing conservation.

A Wilderness Evaluation and Exchange Proposal prepared by the New Mexico State Land Office states, "Wilderness exchange bill proposal—First, we prefer not to compromise any existing contiguous blocks of state trust land where three or more sections may be managed as a unit. Second, any wilderness bill should provide a process whereby no adverse taking will occur."

The Wilderness Evaluation and Exchange Proposal also states, "Legislation should address and mitigate impact on Payments in Lieu of Taxes (PILT). The exchange of state trust land for federal lands would have a dramatic impact on some county budgets due to the direct loss of PILT monies."

The commissioner of public lands is constitutionally mandated to realize the true value of lands managed in trust by the commissioner and maximize the benefits of trust land holdings. The state is allowed to exchange surface and minerals for equal value; however, in any mineral estate exchange the state must keep the trust whole and may not dispose of any mineral estate value except by equal value exchange.

Budget increases/decreases approved by commissioners

Budget increase decrease resolutions were approved by Lincoln County Commissioners during the April 24 meeting.

The action was taken to reflect recent line item transfers in the sheriff's department and road funds.

Resolution 77-58 did not include the amount of money requested for the budget increase decrease. An attached list for a budget increase/decrease of $77,613 in the road fund and $14,998 in the sheriff's budget was included with the resolution.

According to the resolution, corrections made by budget increase decrease will give true expenditure amounts for the departments.

Resolution 77-59 was for another budget increase decrease for the sheriff's department. Sheriff James McSwane asked that the remaining funds of fiscal year 1988 in officer training $4,424 and law enforcement academy $1,500 be transferred to capital outlay.

The $5,924 will be used to purchase Macintosh computers with accessories and will aid in training and will serve as information centers for deputies which will assist them in the field.

At the start of the 6 p.m. meeting, commission chairman Bob Hemphill asked that the two items on the agenda dealing with the off system county bridge replacement program with the state highway department be tabled to the next meeting for further information.

The first item was the project agreement and the second item tabled was an amendment to the agreement. The project for right-of-way certification is not scheduled until December 1989.

In other business, commissioners authorized Barbara Ward, director of the Zia Senior Citizens Center, to prepare and submit the formal application to the Area Agency on Aging for funds and approve assurances of compliance as required.

Contract with Parsons and Bryant for legal services for the county was approved. The contract calls for the county to pay $7,500 for the 10 weeks of the contract from April 17 through June 30.

Robert Beauvais will be the attorney assigned to primarily fulfill the position of county attorney Beauvais attended the meeting.

Change order No. 2 for the Fort Stanton Road reconstruction project for old Fort Stanton road was approved. Work on the project stopped Nov. 21, 1988, the state highway department recommended against emulsion work after Sept. 15. The base course will be upgraded prior to surfacing with completion date to be May 30.

Supplement to the professional services agreement between the county and Pajo Technical Services for engineering for the old Fort Stanton road project was approved.

The week of April 30-May 7 was proclaimed Soil and Water Stewardship Week.

Resolution 77-60 was approved for the finance department to issue warrants associated with vouchers which consists of payroll, payroll taxes and other related deductions, personnel travel expenses, utilities, emergency medical technicians and any other payment of invoices which must be processed prior to regular commissioners meetings. A listing of the warrants is to be presented to commissioners at their next meeting for approval.

Resolution 77-63 to close solid waste landfills in the county in accordance with state regulations was approved. Included were the Lincoln landfill, the Bonito Lake Campground modified landfill, the Carrizozo solid waste disposal site, Hondo modified landfill and the Ruidoso Downs modified landfill located at the Bonnell Ranch in Glencoe.

Commissioners authorized county fire departments to participate in the 1989 fire protection fund distribution. Proposed budget requests for the 1989-90 fiscal year: Bonito Fire District $29,648, Fort Stanton Fire District $28,700, Glencoe-Palo Verde Fire District $15,950, Hondo Fire District $32,972, Lincoln Fire District $17,546, and Nogal Fire District $16,938.

Sheriff investigates death

Lincoln County Sheriff James McSwane's office is investigating the unattended death of William B. Lockridge, 65, of Carrizozo. Lockridge's body was found April 24 at his home. There was no sign of foul play.

McSwane said his office will investigate the death. The body was sent to the office of the medical examiner in Albuquerque for an autopsy.

The sheriff's department is also investigating two burglaries and an alleged shooting incident in the Hondo Valley.

The Hondo Valley Garage reported a burglary April 22, the Hondo Ranch reported a burglary April 24, and a suspect allegedly shot at another vehicle in the Hondo Valley April 24.

McSwane said Deputy Lerry Bond was injured after being thrown from his horse on his ranch April 20. Bond was transported by county ambulance to Lincoln County Medical Center in Ruidoso for treatment. Bond suffered four broken ribs, broken shoulder and possible back injuries.

'More promises' for displaced ranchers

"More promises and another committee," Mary McDonald said of the meeting April 22 between US Senator Pete Domenici and US Representative Joe Skeen and the ranchers who lost land to the federal government when the White Sands Missile Range was created in the 1940s.

McDonald is the niece of Dave McDonald, 88, one of the displaced ranchers.

The ranchers, ages 73 to 94, made one final request for compensation for their property. They were told earlier this year by the US Court of Claims they were not entitled to further compensation.

Many of the ranchers continue to pay property taxes each year for the property and insist they have not been paid by the government. The ranchers say the lease payments for the properties were just that, lease payments and not payment for the property.

Domenici and Skeen suggested the ranchers seek compensation from Congress, not the courts. A committee of ranchers is to make recommendations to Skeen and Domenici for the proposed congressional action. Members of the committee are ranchers G.B. Oliver, Charlie Lee and Bob Jones, NMSU agriculture specialist Sterling White, and Mary McDonald.

Saving the earth—a nationwide drive

"Renewing the Living Earth" is the theme of the 35th annual Soil and Water Stewardship Week which will be observed April 30-May 7.

The Carrizozo Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD) is encouraging churches, organizations and individuals to join in the nationwide observance.

The local district works throughout the year on soil and water conservation meaasures and is providing literature and speakers that highlight man's responsibility to be active stewards of the nation's soil and water resources.

William G. Bryan, chairman of the Carrizozo SWCD, said that although farmers and ranchers know that good conservation practices help increase yields and improve their profit potential, they also know the importance of

Dedication for horse trails May 5

Phase one of the proposed National Center for the Western Horse (NCWH) will be officially opened May 5 with a dedication and ribbon-cutting ceremony.

The ceremony will be held at the site of the newly constructed parking lot one mile south of Highway 380 on state road 214 on the road to Fort Stanton Hospital.

Several miles of horse trails as well as the parking lot will be opened that day. Larry Woodard, state director of the Bureau of Land Management (BLM), will officiate at the ribbon-cutting ceremony.

The ceremony will begin at 10 a.m. followed by a horseback ride on the new trails. In addition to the trails and parking area for horse trailers, it has been proposed that the actual horse center be built on BLM land away from the Fort Stanton Hospital. BLM will begin a feasibility study for using BLM land for the Cen-

Chamber completes plans for Buzzard Days event

Promotion of the Buzzard Days celebration, advertising, activities planned and location of booth spaces for the event were discussed at the April 11 Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce meeting.

Members agreed to spend $160 for newspaper ads and printing and mailing of flyers to chambers of commerce in towns in New Mexico and to all Buzzard horseshoe pitchers.

Buzzard Days will be held May 13 and 14 at the Carrizozo Country Club. Chamber president Dorothy Forsythe asked for volunteers to help with the mailing. Glen Ellison will be in charge of the music at the Buzzard bandstand.

Jann Moudy, Glen Ellison, Dorothy Forsythe and

Jim Payne will be the committee to designate location of the booth spaces. A Buzzard meeting of all committees will be held Friday, April 14 at the County Club at 7 p.m.

In other chamber business, Woody Schlegel reported he has received 155 responses to the ad that was in New Mexico Magazine February and March issues and the vacation guide printed in January. He has completed a survey and returned it to the magazine.

Forsythe asked about the White Sands job classification forms Schlegel receives for the chamber. Schlegel said he distributes the forms to people as needed and the remainder are posted at city hall.

The scholarship committee reported the scholarship application has been updated. Each year the chamber presents a scholarship to a Carrizozo graduate. The applications are due May 1.

Reprinting of the Carrizozo brochures was discussed. Schlegel said he has about 700 brochures left and more will need to be printed by winter.

Members agreed to present each Carrizozo graduate with an honorary membership to the Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce for one year.

The April chamber cheese and wine social will be held April 28 from 6 to 7:30 p.m. at Theresa's Beauty Shop.

Law enforcement officers honored

The Fraternal Order of Police, Sierra Blanca Lodge, recently announced their selection for Officer of the Month of February.

Selected were Robert D. Layher, Ruidoso Downs Police Dept.; Bobby Angermiller, Ruidoso Downs Police Dept.; and Orlando Montes, Lincoln County Sheriff's Department.

The trio was recognized after the Fraternal Order of Police selection committee received letters of recognition and appreciation, one from Sheriff James McSwane and one from a fellow Law Enforcement Officer Will Hoggard of Ruidoso Downs P.D.

The three officers were dispatched to an address in Palo Verde Slopes. When they arrived they discovered that the subject of the call had gone into cardiac arrest. The officers began CPR on the subject until ambulance personnel arrived.

Officer Will Hoggard stated, "To work as a team dedicated to the preservation of life, resulted in their saving the life of an individual. These officers should be commended for their actions and response. They have helped to emphasize and give credence to the motto 'To Protect and To Serve.'"

Officer Bobby Angermiller has been employed with Ruidoso Downs Police Department since May 1, 1986. He moved to the area from Uvalde, TX. He and his wife Sherri have two children. He is an avid horse lover, and claims horses as his outside interest.

Patrolman Robert Layer has been employed with Ruidoso Downs Police Department since Feb. 1, 1983. He started his law enforcement in 1978 in the US Air Force. He loves hunting, fishing and working on his lawn and garden. He and his wife Shalane have one daughter, Tabitha.

Deputy Orlando Montes has been employed with Lincoln County Sheriff's Department since Feb. 28, 1985. He is a life-long resident, graduating from Hondo High School. His special interests include running race horses and hunting. He and his wife Carol have three daughters and two sons.

Officer Hoggard stated, "It is an honor and a privilege to serve with men of this caliber."

The Fraternal Order of Police recognized the officers for dedicated service to Lincoln County and commended them on their efforts in the incident.

passing on well-cared-for natural resources for future food producers.

"We could give our children all the money in the world, but it would do them little good unless we also give them a productive soil on which to live," Bryan said.

Inserts for church bulletins and placemats for restaurants will be distributed this week to be used locally to help remind people that the earth is alive and depends on people to be active stewards of the nation's soil and water resources.

The Lincoln County Commission proclaimed April 30 - May 7 as Soil and Water Stewardship Week during the April 25 county commission meeting.

Smokey Bear Stampede activities updated

By Bartley McDonough

The Lincoln County Fair Board met Tuesday and continued to update preparations for the Smokey Bear Stampede.

This year's stampede will be July 1-4. There will be rodeo performances on Saturday evening and Monday evening. Two rodeo performances are planned for July 4. The Hatch Brothers Band will play for dances on Saturday night and Monday night. There is a possibility that the Lone Star Express will play for the July 4 dance. There will be ladies barrel racing and team roping on Sunday.

Charlie Thompson is the rodeo contractor. $100 will be added to the saddle bronc and steer wrestling, and $75 will be added to other rodeo events. There was some talk about getting an area merchant to sponsor each event.

The board began the process of purchasing a 60' x 90' hangar at the Ruidoso Airport. The cost would be for moving the building and installation.

Leasing agreements were discussed. The fair board reserves the right to control who operates the concession stands. Bill Bernard has team roping scheduled every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evening at the rodeo arena.

Charlie and Eleanor Jones will be honored with the best livestock exhibit award. This trophy recognizes the Jones for their many years of untiring work for the Lincoln County Fair.

Those present at the meeting learned that the Wortley Hotel and Restaurant in Lincoln will open April 29.

An effort will be made to get trick roper Jess Montana for one of the stampede rodeos. Montana is a relative of popular western star Monty Montana.

Several other items were discussed, including the barbecue after the July 4 parade. A dumpster will be placed on the fairgrounds. Roma Eckland will be paid a nominal fee for designing the stampede logo. A demand electric meter will be installed.

A decision was made to award aqua colored windbreakers with the stampede logo for the roping events.

Clean-up workday for the stampede is June 21. Refreshments will be served to workers.

The board meets next on May 17, 7 p.m., at the fair building in Capitan.

Ernest V. Joiner's OPINION

● A letter from a reader in Logan, NM calls attention to the way we coddle criminals in the New Mexico State Penitentiary. She enclosed an Albuquerque newspaper article telling how Jimmy Kinslow, serving time for three murders, prison escape, rape, and kidnapping, is exercising his rights "as a citizen." He has filed two lawsuits against two private companies for what he says was faulty construction of a shower which caused him to fall and injure his leg. He demands compensation and damages. He says the fall has caused him "humiliation, unknown future debility, pain and suffering and emotional distress." Poor kid. He'll probably get $5 million in a jury trial.

● How does one go about causing humiliation, emotional distress, etc., to a murder/rapist? Did not his murder of three people, one rape, and kidnapped family suffer humiliation, pain and injury, and emotional distress? Shouldn't they, not Kinslow file such suits? Of course not. Nobody gives a damn about victims of crime these days. Only the comfort and convenience of convicted criminals draw tears of rehabilitative compassion from bleeding heart liberals.

● District Judge Richard Parsons, discussing saided criminal Kinslow, told how penitentiaries have elaborate law libraries where inmates can retire and learn how to bring lawsuits against anyone they think might have a few bucks. He said the three most complete libraries in New Mexico are at the New Mexico Supreme Court, the University of New Mexico School of Law, and (you guessed it) at the state penitentiary. Do you know how large a collection of law books Judge Parsons has in his chambers? One lousy law book! A district judge has a one-book library and convicted murderers and rapists have the third largest law library in the state.

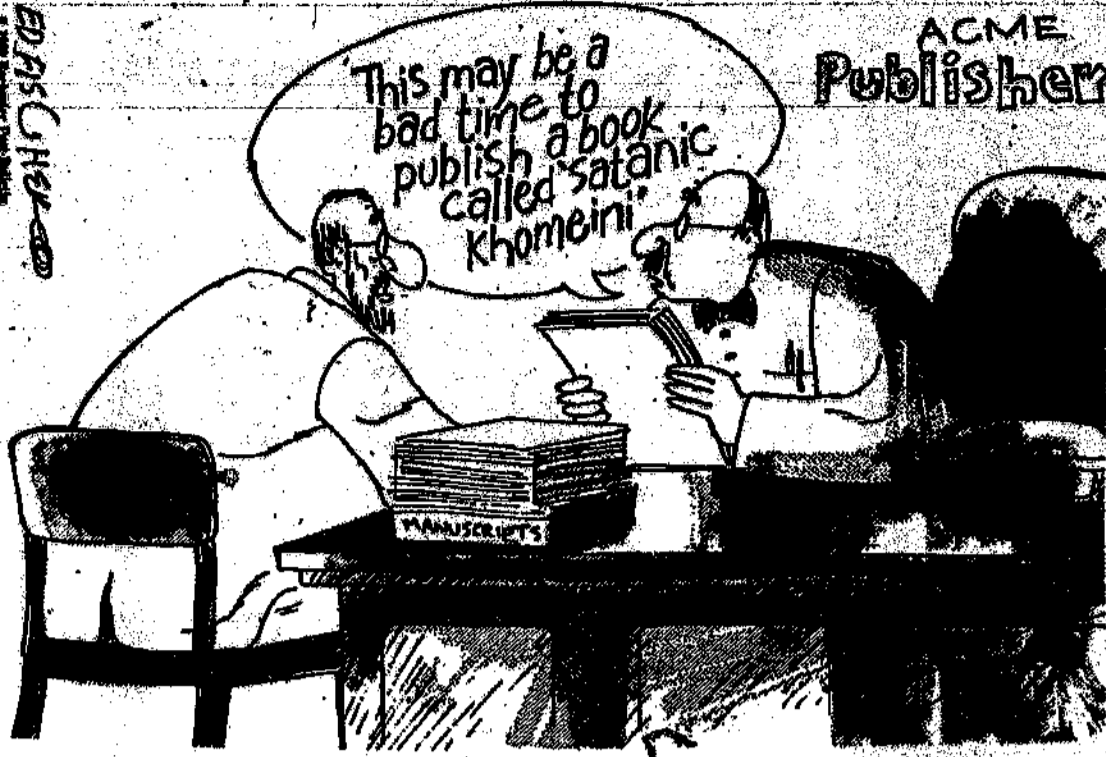

● The judge said most criminal coddling results from federal prison regulations. For example, he said, food served prison inmates must be at a stipulated temperature. There must also be air-conditioning. Yet there is no private, law-abiding person in America who enjoys food temperature regulations or who is required to have air conditioning. There are other regulations I am trying to get hold of. Most of the trouble, the judge believes, stems from what he calls the Duran Consent Decree, which sets out the rights of prisoners.

● If New Mexico had done its duty in 1978 when Kinslow committed three murders, the creep would have been executed. Instead, 11 years later, he is still causing trouble. And people continue to pay for his crime instead of requiring that he pay for them.

● "I'm opposed to capital punishment because it has never been established that the death penalty is a deterrent to crime." This seems to be the strongest argument advanced by sophisticates who seek an end to the death penalty. Assuming those people are correct, doesn't it follow that prison sentences have not proved a deterrent to stealing, considering that stealing is at an all-time high? Punishment hasn't stopped husbands from beating their wives. Jail doesn't deter shoplifters from shoplifting; in fact, shoplifting has reached epidemic proportions. Why not face the fact that law exists not to deter citizens from crime, but to punish those who commit it. A chap named George Savile, the Marquess of Halifax, put it another way: "Men are not hanged for stealing horses, but that horses may not be stolen." Determent is, and always was, a secondary consideration in punishment by death, a fact our liberal sociological penal experts ignore in their zeal to provide country club living for prison inmates and elaborate coddling to help them mend their ways. To urge an end of capital punishment because it isn't a deterrent to crime is like demanding traffic signals be abolished because people still drive through red lights. If the anti-capital punishment people are correct, then no person should be punished for any crime because whatever law he violated failed to deter that particular clabberhead from violating it. Come to think of it, marriage doesn't deter divorce, so

● "Good Christians" are repelled by the death penalty. The Bible, foundation of Christianity, says differently. The Book does not consider the deterrent. "Whosoever sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed; for in the image of God made he man." (Genesis 9:6). "He that smiteth a man, so that he die, shall be surely put to death." (Exodus 21:12). "Whosoever killeth any person, the murderer shall be put to death by the mouth of witnesses; but one witness shall not testify against any person to cause him to die." (Numbers 35:30). There are those who are convinced that the Lord didn't know what He was talking about, among them some former justices of the California Supreme Court who "ruled" the death penalty to be "cruel and unusual punishment." Other states have ruled similarly. There's nothing like improving on the word of the Lord, now is there?

● Another reader, Gaylord Freeman of Chicago, also mailed me a news clipping which brightened my day. The lead paragraph reads: "Another 81 convicted drug traffickers were hanged in Iran on Friday, bringing to nearly 600 the number executed for trafficking since Tehran launched a campaign against narcotics this year." Perhaps Drug Czar William Bennett should confer with the Ayatollah Khomeini on how to deal with drug dealers in the US. If the death penalty for drug dealers works in Iran, why wouldn't it work here? The Ayatollah punished us with a model "determent" to crime. Hanging these 81 drug traffickers every one of them was a deterrent to drug traffickers here.

Inside The Capitol

By Jay Miller

SANTA FE—While the congressional pay raise fiasco continues to haunt Democrats, former Pres. Ronald Reagan and Pres. George Bush have to be quietly laughing up their sleeves.

The two of them pulled off the slickest set-up any politician ever got away with. For it to work, they had to depend on the Democrat leadership in Congress to be gullible, greedy and dumb. The Demos came through like champs on all three counts.

Here's how it happened. Last December, the Quadrennial Commission on Executive, Legislative and Judicial Salaries recommended a 50 percent salary raise for congressmen, judges and other top officials. Demo leaders never expected Reagan to rubber-stamp the proposal and submit the entire package, as is, to Capitol Hill. But, that is exactly what happened.

A few days after submitting the Quad Commission's recommendation, Reagan retired to California. Shortly after moving into 1600 Pennsylvania Ave., Pres. Bush publicly endorsed the 50 percent pay hike and urged Congress not to block its implementation.

The stage was set. The nation's two top Republicans were pushing massive congressional pay increases and were coming off as a couple of nice guys for doing it.

By now it was mid-January. Congress had been caught completely off guard. Here was $45,000 sitting in everyone's lap. Their political instincts told them not to touch it. But, gee, the president's commission and Ronald Reagan and George Bush had all said, "We think you deserve it." I mean, what's a member of Congress to do when faced with such temptation?

What they did was nothing, for almost three weeks, as they alternately salivated and agonized over their decision. During that time public opinion mobilized. Hundreds of thousands of letters poured into Congress, many of them containing ten bugs—a symbol of the outrage that caused our forefathers to revolt against their government.

The volume of letters in House Speaker Jim Wright's office got so heavy that extra employees were brought in to read mail. Often when mail gets heavy, it is merely counted and thrown away, especially the negative letters. Occasionally it is weighed and discarded. This time, a Washington insider tells me, the mail readers were told to make a stack of positive mail and a stack of miscellaneous mail. As soon as it became evident a letter was negative toward the pay raise, it was to be thrown in a trash can immediately. The informant says the hats mail was often evident just from looking at the envelope. The two stacks on the table never got very high all day long.

Despite the overwhelming volume of negative mail, congressional leaders still didn't get the message. If Congress did not take action before Feb. 8 disavowing the salary hike, it would go into effect. On Feb. 6, House Speaker Jim Wright entertained a motion to adjourn. It was voted down by a 238 to 88 margin, thus forcing a vote on the pay raise. That vote the next day was 340 to 48 for rejecting the raise.

But the damage had already been done. Despite tremendous evidence as to the right way to go, Demo leaders refused to take a decisive stand. They hoped that by procrastinating, the deadline would pass and the raise would automatically go into effect.

As Rep. Bill Richardson puts it, Reagan and Bush "guessed Congress would fumble the ball—and we did." Richardson, who donated his last pay raise to charity, says it is too early to assess any long term damage to the Demo party as a result of their leaders' bumbling.

In the meantime, Richardson says, when Congress voted to reject its own salary increase, it also voted down raises for government's top scientists, researchers, judges, lawyers and other top professionals whose salaries have been tied to congressional pay. He says the federal government is experiencing severe senior level recruitment and retention problems due to its inability to compete with private sector pay. This, in turn, leads to a greater opportunity for influence peddling when top officials leave government to pad their pockets in the private sector.

It is time that Congress takes some courageous action of its own. Congressmen and top government officials should have modest pay increases. Congress should get on with enacting the raises and not try to hide behind the skirts of a federal pay commission.

New business will aid Lincoln County

The Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County has announced the opening of Apache-Future, Inc., a new manufacturing business located on the Mescalero Apache Indian Reservation at the old Job Corps site.

George Puckett, executive director of the EDCDC, made the announcement. "This new company, although located on the reservation in Otero County, will bring a significant number of jobs to Lincoln County, and we are very excited that the Economic Development Corporation has been able to play a role in assisting with their decision to locate on the reservation."

Gary Gausquet, president of Apache-Future, Inc., explained that "There are two divisions of the business—field service and manufacturing."

"The field service sends out teams to cities all over the United States to service and repair buses. At present there are seven people employed, four who are Mescalero Apache Indians, and two contracts being fulfilled, one in Los Angeles, CA and the other in Cleveland, OH."

"The machine shop will initially manufacture wire harnesses and sub assemblies and hopes to employ a great many people as the contract bids are awarded."

The principals in the company are Gary Gausquet, president, Terry Ryan, vice-president, and Keith Hasty, vice-president of marketing.

Coyotes are having a field day

Ranchers ask county to fund predator control

By CAROL WILSON

For centuries the fight between man and coyote has taken place on the range, with a half-eaten lamb or calf carcass being the casualty that started the war.

At 10:30 a.m. May 3, however, Lincoln County livestock producers will be at the county commissioners meeting seeking additional funding with which to carry on their battle.

The problem facing ranchers isn't limited to the overabundance of coyotes in the local hills. The problem right now is getting the money needed for the USDA's Animal Damage Control Program, explained that the ADC has to have a commitment of $60,000 from Lincoln County in order to maintain four trappers in the county. Last year and again this year, county funds have fallen $10,000 short of the $60,000 goal.

The bulk of the money needed has already been paid by local ranchers. The county Farm and Range Improvement fund, which is derived from a percentage of the grazing fees paid to the Bureau of Land Management, has committed $39,000. The other funding source is the enabling act, where ranchers pay five cents on every cow and a dime on every sheep and the funds are earmarked for predator control. This year the enabling act raised $11,000, so the account is only short $10,000.

Thus, the Lincoln County Predator Board, consisting of Billy Stephenson, Tony Tread, Walt Jones, Bill Gallagher, A.W. Gnatkowski and John Cooper, will ask county commissioners for the needed $10,000 at the May 3 budget meeting. The outcome of the meeting should be of vital interest to every livestock producer in the county.

"Lincoln County is the most important sheep producing county in the state," noted Killgo. "We have more sheep than any other county. We also have more coyote depredation, according to a survey done by New Mexico State University.

"Another NMSU source pegs cattle numbers in the county at 94,000, with a sheep population in excess of 70,000 head."

Those high livestock populations are of extreme importance to the county in fiscal terms. NMSU figures estimated at the cash receipts for Lincoln County cattle and sheep totaled $17 million in 1987. During the 1988 tax year, producers paid $126,115 in livestock taxes, according to the local assessor's office. Those figures don't include real estate property taxes.

"We are asking for less than one-half of one percent of the revenue we produce for the county," stated Billy Stephenson. "Lincoln County has a good industry here that puts a lot of dollars into the county treasury. We are asking for a small percentage of that money back to help maintain our industry. It doesn't take much of a death loss in sheep or cattle to offset $10,000."

Livestock losses reported to the New Mexico ADC office last year totaled 7,336 head valued at $557,153. One reason it is so important to maintain four ADC officers in the county is that the ADC works best on a preventive control program, instead of waiting until a killer is loose among a bunch of sheep to take action.

The ADC is a cooperative program with state and federal governments matching the county funds dollar per dollar. "It really is to the county's best interest to come up with the money," explained Killgo. "All the money is spent right here in Lincoln County."

Killgo continued, "If we don't get the money we'll just have to spread our other three trappers out a little more. Consequently, everyone will receive less service. We really think this is important to the county. In fact, we considered putting on a fifth trapper just last year. Even with four trappers on the job full time, the guys are tremendously overworked."

For the first time in their history, the ADC office received more reports of predation to calves than sheep last year. With fur prices down, more coyotes left in the country and rabbit numbers on the decline, authorities say it is just a matter of time before the coyotes begin taking more calves and sheep across the county.

The Lincoln County Predator Board urges all interested parties to be on hand May 3 as the county commissioners decide whether or not to help fund the fight against predators.

Opinion . . . (Cont'd from opposite column)

● I will wind up this tirade by quoting from a magazine article sent to me recently. It concerns Peter Grace, a businessman who helped President Reagan with his Reaganomics policy. Grace was giving an anti-abortion speech at a New York dinner attended by Ronald Reagan and 800 members of the Catholic church hierarchy. He meant to refer to the fetus, but what he said was: "Everybody who's for this abortion was at one time themselves a fetus. And that includes all of you out there. You were once a fetus. So we thank you, Mr. President, and now, dinner will be served."

DANGEROUS WEAPON

Chuck Mittlestadt says in the Hobbs Flare: "One state newspaper last week reported that an Oregon court has ruled that cowboy boots can be a dangerous weapon."

Chuck continues, "Heck, folks in New Mexico have known that for a long time. Just ask any of those people that got kicked out of their jobs when Bruce King was governor."

GETTING TOUGH

An undercover operation on April 13 in Hobbs resulted in six citations for liquor violations. The targets of the investigation were liquor establishments that might possibly be serving alcoholic beverages to minors.

One undercover officer from the Hobbs Police Department (Field Services and Criminal Investigation Divisions), who is under the age of 21, was used to approach the liquor establishments and attempt to buy alcohol.

As a result of the investigation, charges of Sale or Giving Liquor to a Minor were filed against the six clerks that sold to the underage officer.

According to the chief of police the investigation was a follow-up to the investigation that was conducted last month and a continuation of the department's "get-tough" policy on these types of violations.

FAMILIES IN ACTION

T-or-C Families in Action held their regular meeting April. The group's guest speaker was Pete Padilla, juvenile probation officer. The agenda included the proposed high school graduation party.

Graduates with the Hot Springs High School Class of 1989 might be treated to a drug- and alcohol-free, all-night graduation party after the commencement ceremonies by members of the community under the direction of Families in Action.

Members of the senior class and their sponsors voted unanimously in favor of the party during a meeting with Families in Action; the group formed locally to fight alcohol, drug and substance abuse.

CARING COMMUNITY

One stipulation was made requiring that the drug- and alcohol-free party be conducted as a communitywide effort to provide Sierra County youths with the message that they can "have fun without alcohol."

The party will last all night, ending with a "dawn breakfast." While those who attend will be permitted to leave the party at any time, they will not be allowed to return, according to the Herald.

Food, entertainment, and fun for the graduates and their guests are to be given away throughout the night—all depending upon community support of the event. Families in Action will seek monetary or "in kind" donations, volunteers to promote the event and the purchase of food items.

Unless a minor is addicted to drugs (alcohol is a drug, mom and dad) why wouldn't a teenager enjoy this type of graduation salute?

CHUCKIE CORNER

The little boy was caught by the teacher saying a most unsuitable word. "Jeffrey," she said, "you shouldn't use that word. Where did you hear it?"

"My daddy said it," the child responded.

"Well, that doesn't matter," the teacher explained. "You don't even know what it means."

"I do too," the boy said, "It means that the car won't start."—from the Charleston Gazette

MEDIA SHIELDING

The Spotlight, which reports events vital to the welfare of readers, which otherwise may be hushed up or distorted by a controlled press, reports that for almost three months, major US news organizations have suppressed a stream of overseas wire service reports on an international crime scandal.

Involved are drugs, spies, and banks filled with hot money. The reason for the media mum protecting the bankers was fear that the beleaguered US financial services industry would be further "discredited" by headlines depicting it as a "vast money laundry for more narco-millionaires."

The news blackout clamped on stories about a growing European investigation of drug cartel operations which came to involve a number of leading banks in Switzerland and Italy as well as

The theme for the evening is "At the Hop." Students will be on stage to perform hits from the 50s. Included in the program are such classics as Johnny Be Good, Earth Angel and Jailhouse Rock. "Elvis" is scheduled to appear and several students will dance. The bands and music classes are under direction of Bill Wise.

RECIPE CORNER

This is how to prepare pickled pig's feet: "Cut off the horny parts of feet and toes, scrape clean and wash thoroughly, singe off the stray hairs, place in a kettle with plenty of water, boil, skim, pour off water and add fresh, and boil until the bones will pull out easily; do not bone, but pack in a stone jar with pepper and salt sprinkled between each layer; cover with cider vinegar."

I won't be trying out this recipe because the head of this household won a whole butchered pig. No horny feet and toes with stray hairs, but thanks to Grit magazine for the recipe anyway.

The Carrizozo graduating class of 1989 raffled the pig. This household wishes the grads a fun trip to Disneyland, the goal of their fundraisers.

The children of Roy and Marjorie Payton invite all friends and relatives to attend open house in honor of their 40th anniversary to be held May 7th, 1989 1-5 p.m. at Capitan Fair Building.

Cloudfcroft wins golf tournament

Carrizozo and Capitan High Schools hosted a golf tournament at Carrizozo Golf Course on April 15.

Teams participating were from Carrizozo, Capitan, and Cloudfcroft.

Cloudfcroft walked away with the medal and team honors. Senior Jeff McMullen was medalist with a score of 77.

The tournament was Carrizozo's and Capitan's first competitive golf experience. Ted Turnbow and Ron Becker were pleased with efforts of their players.

Capitan's Bryan Turnbow shot an 88 and Dallas DeWees shot a 97. Carrizozo was led by Jeremy Beckett with a 112.

Highway project is on schedule

Construction on US 380 west of Carrizozo is progressing on schedule.

The project includes reconstruction of US 380 from the east edge of the Malpais to the junction with US 64.

A new concrete slab bridge is being built over Nogal Draw and is 95 percent complete.

The project also includes reconstruction of the side streets where they join US 380, and installation of drainage structures. J.W. Jones Construction is the prime contractor under a $2,381,896.82 contract with the New Mexico State Highway & Transportation Department. The project completion date is early September.

Dwayne Joy is EMT for April

By DOROTHY GUCK
Dwayne Joy lives on a ranch eight miles east of Corona with his wife JoAnn and sons Travis, 11, and Jared, 6. Dwayne's parents are ranchers and he was raised and went to a two-room school in Penasco, west of the Flying H Ranch.

He took his EMT first responder course in Corona three years ago, then his basic EMT in 1987 in Carrizozo. After completing an advanced EMT course in Roswell with intern duties at Lincoln County Medical Center in Ruidoso, Dwayne was certified as an IV technician this month.

"I just kept wanting to learn more," he said, "after completing each course of training, Corona needs an IV technician and I'm available for calls at all hours."

Most of those calls are transmitted by phone from Corona which has a 911 emergency number. When working away from the ranch house, Dwayne has his beeper to alert him to emergencies. When asked about his most memorable runs, he said, "I remember all of them. My first run and most recent one were the most unusual. The first was during hunting season. A fellow out early one morning, separated from his hunting companions, leaving their car parked on a back road. The guy stumbled and fell from a cliff, about 20 feet down, and was knocked unconscious. When he regained consciousness, the sun was directly overhead. He slowly made his way back to the road to find the car was gone. He could see the metal buildings of the gas plant, and walked toward them. We got the call in Corona from the gas plant at 4 p.m. and took him by ambulance to Carrizozo. All those hours, the patient had sustained serious head injuries and survived."

"My most recent experience took place this month when rancher friends and I were branding cattle. It was hot and dusty. One of the guys complained of stomach pains. He soon was doubled over and retching. We took him into Carrizozo where he was transferred to the ambulance and transported to the hospital. He went into surgery for appendicitis!"

This is the note Dwayne's friend sent him after returning home from the hospital: "I just wanted to thank you once again for being there at the right place at the right time. I think you did a great job and also think Lincoln County is lucky to have you on. Keep up the good work."

Corona has only three EMTs available full time for ambulance runs, Byron Yancey, Crystal Luera, and Dwayne Joy, with Dorothy Lightfoot and Dorothy Bradley available weekends. They need more volunteers. Contact Nancy Guck or any Corona EMT for more information.

In June, 16 EMT volunteers will take the advanced IV training to be given in Capitan, to make the EMS in Lincoln County an ever-improving service for the public.

The yucca plants have been found to be infested with mites which could be transported into cities and towns.

Area manager Harlen Smith, says that "we feel that this is necessary in order to ensure public safety." The areas will remain closed for the remainder of the year.
