Resident of Corona is TCU ranch graduate

FORT WORTH, TX—Joseph Allen Erramouspe of Corona graduated May 13 from Texas Christian University's ranch management program, a concentrated professional study preparing men and women to profitably manage ranch and other resources.

The program combines intensive classroom studies with 9,000 miles of field trips through three states to look into operations of some 60 ranches, feedyards, markets, processors and research facilities.

Ranch Management director John L. Merrill explains that one of the program's most valuable aspects is learning from the lifelong experiences of successful ranchers and industry leaders.

The TCU program was set up in 1956 with input from leading ranchers. Other operations throughout the world have modeled parts of their program on TCU Ranch Management.

Some 800 men and women from 35 states and 22 nations have earned the ranch management certificate. Many are now successful ranchers and leaders in the livestock industry.

Each year up to 35 students are chosen from a pool of 50 to 60 applicants. All must meet certain academic criteria, have had previous ranch experience and are chosen only after in-depth interviews assessing their motivation and potential in ranching.

Plans updated for July 4 celebration

By Bartley McDonough

The Capitan Chamber of Commerce was firing on all cylinders Monday as the chamber updated plans for the July 1-4 celebration.

Dorothy Smith reported that more than 600 inquiries had been received in response to ads run in the

New Mexico Magazine by the Capitan Chamber of Commerce. Beck said he had received many inquiries at the chamber office.

Chamber members noted a long article by June Naylor covering the Lincoln County area which appeared recently in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Beck said the chamber

Youth pockets $10,000 won at Ruidoso Downs

"Horsing around" can be rewarding.

It paid off for Johnny Ortiz of Carrizozo a couple of Sundays ago when he came home with $10,000 in cash for holding the winning ticket on a racehorse at Ruidoso Downs. He also won other races, which paid the taxes on his $10,000.

Johnny, 18, is the son of Georgia Ortiz and Philip Ortiz, both of Carrizozo. He graduated from Carrizozo High School May 19, and will leave June 13 for Phoenix, AZ to attend the Phoenix Institute of Technology. He will take a two-year course in auto mechanics. He was also chosen Student of the Month for May, was an honor roll student, and was awarded two scholarships upon graduation.

"I'm very proud of Johnny," said his mother Georgia, "as he will use that money to further his education."

County budget

Hefty pay raises for 10 employees

By Ruth Hammond

The Lincoln County preliminary budget of $4,736,697 for the 1989-90 fiscal year approved by county commissioners May 30 included salary increases of $500 per year for 87 fulltime employees.

Another 10 fulltime employees will receive substantial salary increases because of new pay scales, new job classifications and/or new job titles.

The salary increases in excess of $500 per year went to the three chief deputies under elected officials, the three county road foremen, three employees in the county manager's office, and one new-created position in the treasurer's office.

County manager Nick Pappas said, "First of all, when I came to Lincoln County I was appalled at the low salaries being paid to those people with responsible positions and years of dedicated service." Pappas assumed the duties of county manager March 27, and had been a Chaves County Commissioner for four years.

Pappas said he recommended the salary increases for three employees in his office because of increased duties, and added, "These recommendations were not based on partiality or prejudice but were based on good work and a well-deserved salary."

Commissioners did not approve the salary increases recommended at first by Pappas but did approve a $5,500 per year salary increase for Mignon Sims effective July 1. Sims had been a bookkeeper and her new title will be finance director. Martha Guevara, formerly administrative secretary, will assume the duties of administrative assistant and receive a salary increase of $2,080. EMS director Nancy Guck will receive a salary increase of $2,500 per year.

Pappas said Lincoln County is doing the same functions as larger counties and, "the manager's office is being run with five people. Larger counties have 16 people in the manager's office." Pappas added, "I need the best people I can have and need to reward them accordingly."

Salaries for chief deputies will be based on a scale approved by commissioners. The three foremen positions in the road department for the different districts will receive a salary increase of $1,500 per year. Road superintendent Tommy Hall will receive only the $500 salary increase.

Treasurer Shirley Goodloe hired present chief deputy Mike Hainer to fill the newly-created position of financial accounting officer in her office. The position was created by the previous commission in 1988.

Hainer will assume the duties of the new position July 1. The salary for the new position will be $2,600 more than his previous salary.

Pappas will also receive an increase of $3,000 per year but not because of a salary increase. Pappas was hired at $36,000 per year but there was only $33,000 budgeted for the county manager position. His salary of $36,000 per year will begin July 1.

The salary increases for the 97 fulltime employees and the insurance benefit package offered to employees toward insurance coverage will result in an increase in take-home pay for employees who have insurance without increasing their tax burden.

At this time employees pay 50 percent of insurance costs. After July 1 the county will pay 75 percent of the insurance costs and employees will pay 25 percent. Employees who do not have insurance coverage will not receive an increase in take-home pay from the benefit package increase.

FORMER LINCOLN County home economist for the state extension service, Mary Ellen Payne, has been named extension leadership specialist at the NMSU campus. She came to that post from the job of Union County home economist, a position she took following her tour in Carrizozo.

Man attempts to hang himself in county jail

Lincoln County Sheriff James McSwane has commended jail administrator Wayland Hill for quick actions Monday in averting a tragedy in the county jail when a prisoner tried to hang himself.

Danny Hicks, 30, Carrizozo, was arrested by Carrizozo police for probation violation and disorderly conduct and booked in the county jail at about 11 a.m. Hicks was put in a jail cell block with eight prisoners. Hill said at 2 p.m. the other prisoners screamed that Hicks had hung himself.

Hill said he could see Hicks was still alive and while he was opening the cell door he asked the prisoners to help. Two prisoners held Hicks up while another prisoner untied the knot.

Hill said Hicks was observed for five hours before being returned to the cell. Hicks was transported to Las Vegas for emergency commitment on June 7.

McSwane reported there are 27 prisoners in the jail at this time. Other activities in the sheriff's department:

June 1: Carrizo Lodge reported an embezzlement of $1,500. Phillip Ray Smalley of Ruidoso was arrested and charged.

June 2: A seven or eight day-old calf was found west of Capitan shot in the head with a 22 or pellet gun. The matter is under investigation.

June 2: A rabid fox was reported in the Grindstone area. Officers were unable to locate the animal.

June 3: Barbara A. Elledge, 42, was killed when the vehicle she was in failed to negotiate a curve on state road 48 five miles south of Capitan. The vehicle went off the roadway and back on the road before rolling five times. The victim was thrown from the vehicle.

June 4: An embezzlement complaint was received from Mountain View Farms. The incident is under investigation.

June 5: Tommy Guevara of Carrizozo was injured in a one-vehicle accident at 12:28 a.m. when his pickup rolled on Indian Divide. Guevara was transported to Lincoln County Medical Center for treatment. State police cited Guevara for careless driving.

June 5: Deputies are investigating possible stolen phone cable from the Oscura area.

June 6: Mark Hughes reported a gun stolen from the Capitan area. Officers are investigating.

Ernest V. Joiner's OPINION

It was a busy week. For the first time the Ayatollah Khomeini of Iran did something of which Americans approved—he died. The Chinese student demonstrations in Beijing culminated in the killing of a thousand unarmed, defenseless students in what must be the worst case of government brutality in modern history. Jim Wright, charged with corrupt ethics, resigned as Speaker of the US House of Representative and announced he would also give up his seat in congress. Cong. Tony Coelho resigned from congress rather than confront ethics violation charges brought against him by the House ethics committee. The US Postal Service plans to issue a postage stamp bearing the picture of Elvis Presley, one of our revered drug users. Another congressman from Ohio is girding his loins to fight charges he had sex with a 16-year-old black girl, his contribution to the vision of a color-free society. Mrs. Candance Thorp was an alcoholic who regularly drank as much as half a fifth of Jim Beam whiskey a day. Her son Michael was born retarded and with physical deformities. Physicians told her it was because of fetal alcohol syndrome. She sued Jim Beam for negligence in not stating on its whiskey labels that alcohol consumption by pregnant women could cause birth defects. A federal jury in Seattle turned down her $4 million suit. Poor dear. Perhaps we should require a warning label on lard stating that inhalation of hawg grease may cause pulmonary problems.

Oozing unction and deceit Speaker Jim Wright tried to vindicate his "honor and integrity" in his resignation speech before the House last week. He concentrated on justifying his now-famous book deal, his wife's employment, and a few minor items in the ethics committee's list of 69 violations. Neither in his speech, and never in any interview with reporters and commentators was he asked to explain such things as: the building of a $25 million airport in Texas that nobody seemed to want, his role in the Texas savings and loan debacle in which his intervention with government agencies eventually cost the American taxpayers an estimated $50 billion in S&L losses, his ventures in oil and gas wells, the millions spent to renovate the Fort Worth stockyards, his intervention in US foreign policy by open support of General Noriega's communist and oppressed Nicaragua, personal tax evasion, his hiring John Mack as his $89,500 a year aide whom he rescued from prison after trying to murder a young woman, his hiring as staff at least five other felons—one a rapist and another a pornographer. Not a single interviewer asked him to explain away these issues.

The arrogant and hypocritical Speaker in his prolonged speech of vindication remarked at one point that this "mindless cannibalism" against him must stop. Was it "mindless cannibalism" when the Democrat majority, led by the Speaker, crucified Sen. John Tower? Was it "mindless cannibalism" when the Democrats hung Oliver North out to dry? Was it "mindless cannibalism" when the same Democrats stabbed Judge Bork in the back? Or when they harassed and persecuted Ed Meese and Lyn Nofziger?

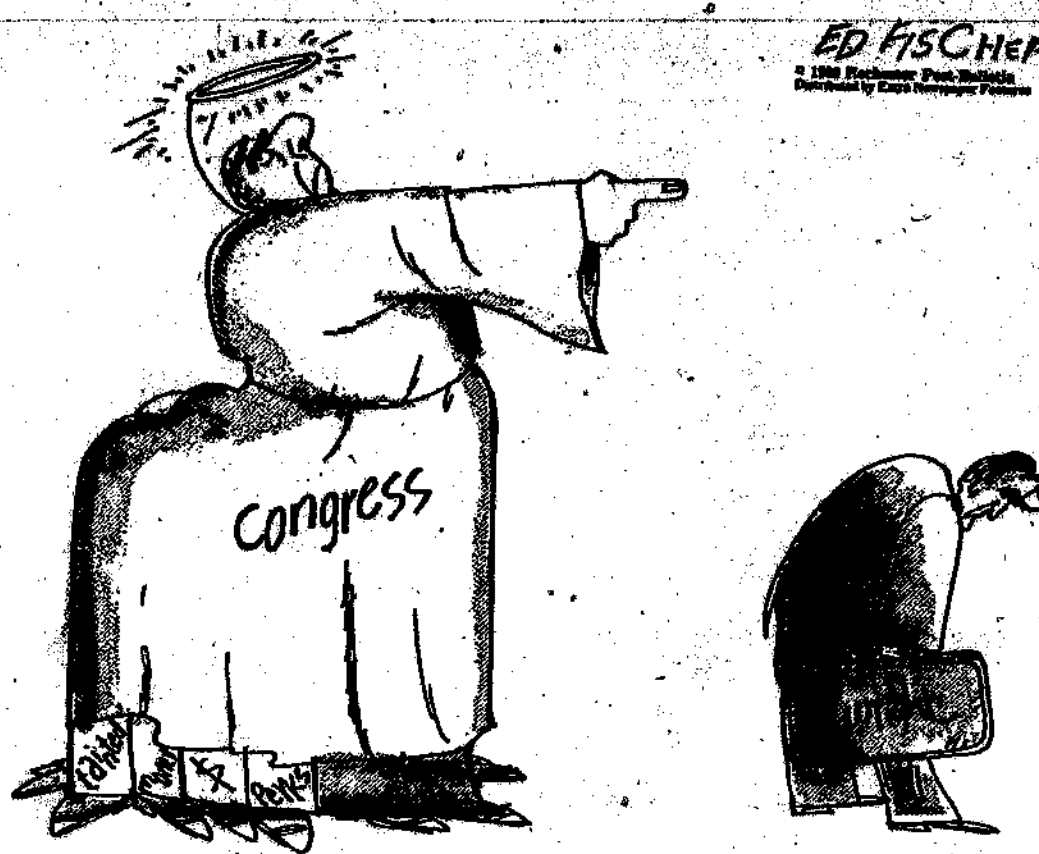

Last week I discussed the tragedy of permitting official languages other than English in the United States. A big fight on this issue began in California in 1985 when Alva Gutierrez refused to speak English while performing her duties as a deputy clerk in a municipal court. She was ordered to speak English on the job. She refused, gave up her job, then sued, claiming a Constitutional right to speak Spanish on the job. She was upheld by a Los Angeles federal judge and his decision was upheld by a US Circuit Court of Appeals. Recently the US Supreme Court threw out the lower court decision, sustaining a California law that state employees speak English while on the job.

California is now one of 17 states that have passed laws proclaiming English the official language, and 25 other states have such legislation pending. Measures to declare English the official national language are also pending in the US House and Senate.

English is becoming the world's official language. Those who watched Chinese students demonstrating for freedom and democracy in Beijing last week carried banners printed in English. Demonstrators in Nicaragua also carried signs in English. There are 27,000 Chinese students in the US studying English. Three out of four secondary students in the world study English, according to United Nations statistics. Before World War II, 200 million people spoke English. Today, at least 700 millions speak English.

French is among the loudest of languages, and for centuries has been known as the "language of diplomacy." No more. Even the prestigious French Institute in France has announced its scientific papers will henceforth be published in English. The vocabulary of science and technology is in English. Columbia University's Richard Reeves points out that "the vocabulary of modernity is in English. You can't fix a car or a typewriter in Urdu or Hebrew. These languages have no words to describe the machines. Americans named the parts for the world."

All this doesn't mean that Americans shouldn't learn other languages. But there is no competition in doing about 95 percent of the world's scientific research and technical work in English. Countries that invest in learning other languages are wasting their money.

Inside The Capitol

By Jay Miller

SANTA FE—Anyone who thinks Rio Arriba County politics are wild need only look across the border at our neighboring state of Texas for a taste of the big leagues.

For the life of me I haven't been able to figure how House Speaker Jim Wright can keep a straight face while saying he didn't do anything wrong. National columnist David Broder summed it up when he said Wright is just a product of his environment, and everybody knows about Texas politics.

Non-Texans have long enjoyed saying an honest politician in Texas is one who "gits bought and stays bought."

Molly Ivins, a columnist for the Dallas Times Herald, says Texans have a different definition that goes "If you can't take their money, drink their whiskey, screw their women, and vote against 'em anyway, you don't belong in Texas politics."

Texas appears to have had a very low standard of political ethics for a long time. It may have the worst reputation in the country although Cook County, Illinois and certain counties in Kentucky may run it a close race.

"Landslide" Lyndon Johnson, who won his first election to the US Senate by only a few votes, was always accused of having stolen the contest. Johnson never seemed to get upset about the charge. His favorite rejoinder was "you boys know how strongly I feel about human rights. Why, it'd be a crime not to let all those dead folks in the cemetery vote just like anyone else."

And how's this for ethics? Texas Governor Bill Clements, when asked why he had repeatedly lied about the Southern Methodist University football scandal, replied reasonably enough, "Well, there was never a Bible in the room."

And then there's Texas House Speaker Gib Lewis. He's been in at least as much trouble as his Texas counterpart in Washington, Jim Wright. He recently found himself under attack because the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department had been stocking his ranches with deer, elk, turkey, and bass without charging him for it. Lewis felt the complaints were unfair. "I have been helping Parks and Wildlife for 17 years," he explained. "If they owe anyone a favor, they owe me a favor."

When Lewis was first elected, he forgot to put some important items on his financial disclosure statement—like an oil well, an airplane and a little business he happens to be in with some lobbyist friends. He explained he ran out of room on the paper.

One of Lewis' improprieties involved Ruidoso, NM. He came over to watch the horse racing and let some lobbyists pay for the trip. He got in real trouble when he returned. So the next time he took a trip to play golf at Pebble Beach, CA, he let the taxpayers pay for it. Since this is Texas we're talking about, he got away with it. They're used to excesses on taxpayer money.

Former Texas governor John Connally, who got rich off Texas oil deals to move to Santa Fe until oil prices hit bottom and he went bankrupt, was once publicly reported to have been told by a Fort Worth oilman, "I'm gonna put you in the way to make a little money, John." And that's the way it has always been in Texas.

The rising politician is cut in on deals. The deals are legitimate, the profits are legitimate. It's just that the politicians are never asked to put up money. Their collateral is the value of their cut. When and whether there is a "quid pro quo" for this business opportunity is between the donor, the donee and God.

Texans say it's no different than a generous, legal political donation or a healthy retainer for a lawyer. But it looks like the people in Washington think differently. When I was there a few weeks ago, many Democrats were already trying to get used to saying "Speaker Tom Foley" and proclaiming the title has a nice ring to it.

By the time you read this, Speaker Wright may already have stepped down. Things are getting slow enough around here that I get a few columns ahead and am talking a week's column to messy old members to watch members of Parliament yell at each other. I understand the New Mexico Senate isn't too far from the voting booth that goes on in the House of Commons.

Loans now available for water projects

The Farmers Home Administration (FHA) has loan funds available to help drought-stricken farmers get in wells, ponds, and other water projects. Dale Woods, county supervisor, has accepted.

Funds are available through the Soil and Water Loan Program designed to assist farmers and ranchers in developing, improving, and making better use of their land and water resources.

For more information contact the county supervisor's office.

made by a commercial or cooperative lender. The loan ceiling for a direct loan is $200,000. It is $300,000 for a guaranteed loan.

Loan funds may be used to put in wells and water supply systems for home use, irrigation, and livestock; to purchase pumps, siphoners, and other equipment to put in ponds, tanks, ditches and canals for irrigation; and other purposes.

Application should be made to the local office of the county supervisor.

Letters to the Editor

EDC is a pain for Payne

EDITOR—EDC/LC is at it again. I don't see how in the hell they can ask the people of Lincoln County to pay their salaries for another year.

They haven't done anything for the county in the last year, except take our tax money and promote business in Otero County.

Besides, with Mr. Puckett's ability to take a $2 million cash flow and turn it into four times the amount with the flick of a pen, they shouldn't need any more funding.

I hope the new commissioners have more sense than the last bunch, who allowed our tax dollars to be spent on private enterprise.

EDC/LC has no future unless it is funded by the tax-paying people of Lincoln County. They have no responsibilities and nobody to answer to. That's why they are allowed to use our tax money for promotions in another county.

So, I think the commissioners should take this into consideration before they pass another mill levy.

JAMES R. PAYNE, Carrizozo.

A school embarrassment

EDITOR—In your editorial of the week of April 20, you wrote about having certified public accountants and also listed many other things that you disliked.

I would like to add one to your list of things to dislike and that is the spelling of a person's name wrong, especially if that person is being honored by having a school building named in his honor.

I am a '49 graduate of Carrizozo High School and would like to know what can be done to correct the spelling of Mr. L.Z. Manire's name on the middle school that was named in his honor.

He was so interested in the welfare and progress of the students in the high school and was also a good friend. It is really a shame that his name is spelled incorrectly on the school building that is supposed to honor him, and eventually has been that way for a long time. Only older graduates would even know that the name is spelled incorrectly and younger graduates might think it was named for a man named "Maniere."

I have been away from Carrizozo most of the years since my graduation and am only here now visiting my mother, (Mary E. Shrum), while she is recovering from a broken hip. Therefore, I do not know where to even begin to get the problem corrected. If it is because of cost, probably other former graduates would be willing to contribute if they were aware that funds were needed.

I know that The Lincoln County News reaches many readers locally as well as those who receive it by mail in other states. Would it be possible for you to use my letter or parts of it in your "Letters to Editor" column so that other graduates would be aware of the problem and the need for it to be corrected? Or would you suggest an ad as a better way to reach former graduates?

I would appreciate any help or suggestions as to how the spelling of Mr. Manire's names on the building could be corrected.

MARY ALICE SHRUM MORGAN, c/o Shrum P.O. Box 723, Carrizozo, NM 88301. Tel: 505-648-2475.

We wish to express our gratitude to the donors for their prayers, calls, letters, cards, visits, and concern during my hospitalization for a broken hip.

ALIVE AND WELL?

What constitutes a business?

Magdalena town fathers at a village meeting tackled that question in deciding whether or not to close down what appears to be an auto repair and sales business.

The police chief told trustees that he considers resident Gary Payne to be running a business. Two trustees said they have no evidence that the man has a business.

Said one trustee: "(Payne) has no phone, no sign, no advertising, no soliciting and he denies he's in business."

The other trustee agreed and added: "The village needs concrete tangible evidence of a business before requiring payment of a business license fee."

The chief stuck to his guns: "When you repair, sell and trade cars, you're in business," and according to state law the man is operating a business and should have a state tax number and pay the village license fee.

MAD SCIENTISTS

Lee Pitts in his column "Riding Herd" which appears in the Livestock Market Digest, writes that scientists at the USDA Laboratories have come up with a couple of discoveries that he finds frightening.

One is a vaccine that makes swine think they need additional food so that they may eat as much as 20 percent more. It is actually a hormone that blocks the pig's ability to know when its full. The hormone fakes the pigs out by tampering with the chemical agents inside their bodies that usually tell them when they should push themselves away from the trough.

The USDA claims the new hormone could mean more pork produced in less

THE SEXPERTS

"Those guys in the white coats have now figured out a way to switch the sex of fish, after they are born," says Pitts of the second discovery.

His quote from a USDA press release: "Scientists at the USDA are testing a masculinizing hormone called DHT that has the ability to switch the sex of catfish in order to produce more males. The scientists want to produce more males because they grow faster."

Pitts says this is no joke, especially if you are well adjusted catfish.

He adds that the USDA foresees no problems in getting FDA approval for the sex-switched fish because the hormone that is used is a naturally occurring hormone in humans, "Which may explain why more men these days are carrying handbags, wearing earrings and speaking with a lisp," Pitts says.

"One day you are Charley the Tuna and the next day you are Charlene!"

Pitts would like to ask the scientists what would happen when we eat pork chop with traces of the overeating hormone and fish with traces of the sex switching hormone.

He thinks that we won't know if we are full or hungry or male or female when we finish our meal.

SAY WATT?

If you can't kill a government program, why not milk it? James Watt, former Interior Secretary, got $300,000 to help a developer get 312 units of housing started in Essex, MD in 1986. His small role was to convince the right people that the projects were good and were needed.

"It's who you knew at HUD," was the sub-title of the Time magazine article about officials who had failed to persuade congress to stop spending some $200 million a year on fixing up rundown apartments and making them available to the poor with the help of federal rent subsidies.

Others who got high consulting fees included the late Attorney General John Mitchell, former Massachusetts Senator Edward Brooke, former Kentucky Governor Louis Nunn, Philip Winn, current US Ambassador to Switzerland, and Fredrick Bush, a close associate, but no relative, of President Bush.

CAPITAN NEWS

By Margaret Rench

Variations of weather very hot, dry, windy. Everything is tinder dry and dangerous.

There were 3200 registered visitors at Smokey Bear Museum in the month of May. The first four days of June there were 108. All 50 states and 22 foreign countries have visited there since October. Among them a Tauck Tour of 44 people aboard on May 30. Then on Friday a Tauck Tour of another 44 people enjoyed it there with the state park and all. We are so proud of all of those visitors and want them to know it.

Five Forest Service fire engine crews from San Bernardo National Forest will help us during this very dry time. Five more fighters came on Friday from the same place.

The second Capitan Rodeo playday was held June 4. The steer riding and roping is lots of fun. Michael Fish was winner in steer riding. Quinten Cazarea won high point in lead class. In 5 and under riding, Tauna Higgins and Court Franklin were high point winners. 6 through 8 were Krystal Royal and Allen Brumlow; 9-12 winners were Sonya Wood and Michael Fish; 13 and up winners were Tammie Higgins and Jason Varley.

Jess Montana, trick roper, will perform on July 4 at the afternoon performance.

Lincoln Ramblings

By Rosalie Dunlap

May was the month for mothers to visit their families. Helen Bingmen of Lewistown, PA spent a couple of weeks with her daughter Carol and husband John West. John and Carol took Helen to Taos, Santa Fe, White Sands and other points of interest. This was Helen's first trip to New Mexico and also her first plane trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hart and Beth had as a visitor Bob's mother, Westi Hart of San Diego, CA. Westi helped Bob and Linda settle into their new home.

Visiting Ralph and Rosalie Dunlap was Christina McKinley, mother of Rosalie, Portales. Also Lois and David Coleman and family of Wilcox, AZ.

Lincoln seems to be busier earlier this year. The trust personnel are busy being "Living History characters. You never know who you are going to meet or what is "happening" in Old Lincolntown. The characters you meet are Susan McSween, (Betsy Nash) Sam Corbett (Bob Hart) Jack Long and Godfrey Gauss (Boyd Barret).

Lincoln Pageant and Festivals is busy with plans for the summer. A new fence is going up on the west side of the pageant grounds and new privies will replace those that blew down this spring.

The walls of the new state restrooms behind the courthouse are going up.

The courthouse is almost ready to be opened with its new exhibits. Tentative plans are for the grand opening to be June 15.

After June 15 visitors will be able to buy one ticket to visit five museums in Lincoln. They are the visitors center which includes a slide show; the Montano store, which is the Spanish heritage museum; Tunstall store with turn of the century store merchandise; Dr. Wood's house, with his office and living quarters; and the courthouse. Until June 15, the tickets let you in all of above except the courthouse. On Sunday's only, New Mexico residents get tickets at one-half the price.

Lincoln Works plan on having their opening June 9.

Becky Angel says the shop will feature quilts, wall hangings, jewelry and alabaster sculptures by Tom Trost of Capitan. Some of the quilts are made by Juanita Sultemeier of Roswell.

Becky will have quilting lessons later.

Dee Kessler was at Ft. Seldon over the weekend assisting with their Frontier Days. Kessler is an employee with the Lincoln Parks and Monuments division.

Lincoln will host Jay O'Callahan Saturday. O'Callahan is a well-known storyteller and writer. He will be having a workshop Saturday, June 10, at 9:30 a.m. at the Old Lincoln Courthouse Museum.

There will be various activities in the afternoon including living history presentations at mid-afternoon; stories by Boyd Barrett and Roswell Story League; visit museums and shops or just stroll the streets of Lincoln. In the evening there will be a concert, 7 p.m., at the Historical Center Museum courtyard. For further information call 653-4025.

The La Reunada will be held in Lincoln June 17-18.

Our sympathies and prayers to the family of Grady Lee Eldridge.

My apologies to Rosina Locke for misspelling her name and putting Rosina Boyd instead of Rosina Locke who attended the activities at Dog Canyon. (Never do things in a hurry.)

Congratulations to Stanley and Gladys Few on their 60th wedding anniversary. Ray and Nina Taylor celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary May 25. A celebration is planned for July so all the family can attend.

Don Avila, photographer from Los Angeles, was busy taking photographs of Lincoln Sunday. He does work for the U of C in Los Angeles, some free lance and as a hobby.

It is good to hear the State Highway Dept. is doing readjustment on the road improvements near Riverside so as to protect the historic ruins.

Couple observes 50th anniversary

Fifty years of marriage was celebrated on May 13, by Henry and Lattie Kilpatrick in the Disabled American Veterans Hall, Socorro, NM where friends and relatives gathered for a reception in their honor.

They were married May 13, 1939 in the First Baptist Church of Carrizozo.

The reception was given by their five children: Mr. and Mrs. Willis Kilpatrick and family of Chicago, IL, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Zumwalt and family of Nogal, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hughes and family of Arkansas City, KS, Mrs. Jacquelyn Kilpatrick and daughter and Mr. Al Smith of Santa Cruz, CA, Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Buller and family of Newkirk, OK; and 13 grandchildren. The Kilpatricks have lived in New Mexico and Lincoln County most of their lives. Henry retired from the Southern Pacific Railroad in 1979. They now reside in Socorro.

ENERGY WASTE can be dirty business

A dirty air conditioner filter can cause your unit to use more energy than necessary. To prevent this waste, check your filters every month. If your filter is clogged with dust and lint, your unit won't operate as efficiently.
