Autopsy shows Cupit girl died of drowning

Lincoln County Sheriff James McSwane received a preliminary autopsy report stating the cause of Susan Cupit's death was drowning.

Cupit's body was found in the bathtub in her home in Carrizozo March 30. She was 14.

McSwane said an investigation conducted by his office and the Carrizozo police department showed no evidence of foul play.

'Objectionable wording' to be deleted from brochures

By Ruth Hammond

Brochures for the National Center for the Western Horse were the major topic of discussion at a meeting of the Fort Stanton Restoration and Recreation Advisory Board (FSRRAB) April 5 at Fort Stanton.

Fort Stanton Hospital employees, parents and guardians of Fort Stanton residents met with the board and objected to wording in the brochures that states, "walk through a restored Fort Stanton."

FSRRAB member Pat Randle also objected to the wording, "I don't think it should be in there until it is concrete and people have the ability to walk through the fort," she said.

After discussing the matter, the board agreed to delete the words and to insert a disclaimer in the brochures that have already been printed. The insert will state, "NOTICE—A plan is proposed to restore the fort as a historic community. The Fort is currently a state facility and not open to the public."

Sherry LaMay agreed to print the inserts and staple them into each of the 10,000 brochures that have already been printed. Wording will be changed on new brochures before they are printed.

The wording to be changed refers to the three-phase, 12-year masterplan that is underway to restore the fort and tells of incorporating museums, conference halls, food service, visitor lodging, camping, and RV parking, plus many recreational facilities.

The new wording will be, "Old Fort Stanton, perhaps the most intact frontier fort, left standing in the Southwest, is spectacularly located nearby and remarkably unspoiled from its original structure. Most of the handsome old buildings still stand, and a plan is proposed to restore the fort as a historic community. The fort is currently a state facility and not open to the public."

FSRRAB chairman Sid Goodloe said he took the original wording from the masterplan for preservation and development of Fort Stanton that was prepared for the Lincoln County Commission by Williams Company.

LaMay mentioned that each time the masterplan has been discussed it has been stated that it is just a plan and the project is not underway.

Goodloe said the brochure was futuristic and the word "restored" was included to let people reading the brochure know that it was not possible to walk through the fort until it is restored.

Board member Bobby Rankin said he thought the purpose of the brochure was to get donations for the horse center, and not for visitors.

Bernard Heiss suggested an attorney look at the brochures because there could be a misrepresentation by asking for money saying the fort is proposed to be restored.

Goodloe plans to place ads in several magazines telling about the National Center for the Western Horse. Brochures will be sent to people requesting more information.

Donations for construction of the National Center for the Western Horse will be accepted. People making donations of more than $25 will receive an official Founding Friendship Certificate of Appreciation and an insignia patch.

Goodloe said the Center is proposed to be built on federal land and will not affect the hospital that is located on state land.

Earlier in the FSRRAB meeting, Larry Woodard, state director for the bureau of land management, asked for more information about the proposed center. He wants to know the proposed size of the museum, location, alternate location, features of the center that are being considered such as corrals, parking lots, tack rooms, swimming pools, number of acres needed for the complex, sanitation and drain field plans, number of employees, traffic patterns and expected number of visitors.

Woodard said the BLM needs the information soon in order to be included in this portion of BLM's plans for this area. If the information is not presented soon the proposed center will not be included until the longer term planning begins.

Woodard also said he will correspond with the state highway department and ask about having state road 214 bypass the hospital facility. The bridge on 214 needs repairs and a bypass would be beneficial to the hospital.

Woodard also said public scoping sessions will be held for input before plans for the National Center for the Western Horse are completed.

Woodard will officiate at the formal opening of the parking lot and trails, phase one of the horse center, on May 5. The two trails that will be marked are eight to nine miles in length.

Woodard asked BLM personnel to place a sign at the parking lot to tell riders to not ride through the hospital and said signs will be placed at the perimeter of a buffer zone around the hospital letting riders know the trails do not go through the hospital facility.

Carrizozo High School

Patterson named valedictorian

The Carrizozo School Board of Education approved Leah Patterson as valedictorian of the 1989 graduating class and Fred B. Vega Jr. as salutatorian. Action was taken at the April 18 school board meeting.

Patterson has a 4.14 grade point average and Vega has a 4.0 grade point average, both graded on a scale of 4.0.

Patrick Aguilar of El Paso will be the graduation speaker and Bishop Ricardo Ramirez of Las Cruces will be the baccalaureate speaker. Aguilar is a Carrizozo graduate, class of 1959.

Senior class president Fred Vega Jr. asked the board if graduation exercises May 19 could be held in the old gym instead of the new gym as printed on the announcements. After deciding the PA system is adequate, the board agreed to hold graduation in the old gym.

In other business, after a two-hour executive session for personnel, the board approved employing certified staff for the 1989-90 school year, contingent upon and provided that financial revenues are available.

John Wootton was not hired for the 1989-90 school year.

A special budget hearing to distribute new funds in the current school year budget was held. The school will receive an additional $20,654 because enrollment was greater on the 40th day of school than had been projected in the budget.

A one-time salary increase for all school employees was approved as set down by the state legislature.

The board approved hiring De'Aun Willoughby to conduct the 1988-89 school year audit at a cost of $3,500. Willoughby negotiated with the board for the contract at the same price as she charged last year for the audit. Negotiation is allowed for the second year.

Dr. Max Luft presented the findings of the needs assessment recently completed. Luft said he would like to come back in three years to see how the school addressed the needs listed and to make recommendations as to ways to continue to address the needs.

Vo ag teacher Mike Gaines reported the Carrizozo ag mechanics team won first place at the state FFA judging contest and will represent New Mexico in national competition at Kansas City in November. Carrizozo also took first place in the meats judging contest and will go to the national meet in Kansas City.

Gaines said this is the first time Carrizozo has won in two contest areas and Carrizozo is the only school in the state to win in two contest areas and send two teams to nationals.

Students on the ag mechanics team are Leah Patterson, Loren Patterson, John Maxwell and Ted Offutt. Students on the meats judging team are John Maxwell, Lisa Hightower, Marcia Hecker and Leah Patterson.

The calendar for the 1989-90 school year was approved. School will begin Aug. 21 with an inservice day for teachers and the first day for students will be Aug. 22. HUMOR MONTH

April is National Humor Month. Studies indicate laughter increases the heart rate, circulation and respiration, and causes blood pressure to rise and drop the way aerobic exercises does.

Sometimes it pays to be optimistic. According to Grit magazine, the following joke is considered a personal favorite of comedian Debbie Reynolds:

A man had two sons and wanted to test them. He took both of them into a room filled with manure. One of the boys took one look, and turned on his heel. The other grabbed a shovel and started getting rid of the fertilizer. When his father came by, the boy was singing and shoveling.

"Why are you so happy?" the father asked.

Smiling, the boy replied, "With all of this manure, there's got to be a pony."

NICOTINE HIGH

Smokeless tobacco use is on the rise, especially among teenage boys. Many of these teenagers believe smokeless tobacco is a safe alternative to cigarettes.

Studies have shown that smokeless tobacco is more addictive than cigarettes and may be harder to "quit."

"When the tobacco is chewed or dipped," says surgeon Roy Sessions, "the nicotine and other chemicals are absorbed directly through the stomach and mouth into the bloodstream. It is through this process that the user gets a 'nicotine high,' but also develops mouth cancer."

In addition to a high risk of developing oral cancers, smokeless tobacco users run an increased risk of: increased heart rate, high blood pressure, constricted blood vessels, stained teeth, bad breath, gum recession, tooth decay.

A leaflet on smokeless tobacco, written for teenagers explains why smokeless tobacco is addictive and discusses the adverse side effects. Order a free copy of "Smokeless Tobacco... Just as Dangerous" by sending a self-addressed, stamped business size envelope to Chew, c/o American Academy of Otolaryngology—Head and Neck Surgery, 1101 Vermont Ave., NW, #302, Washington, DC 20005.

LOOKING FOR IDOLS

Pittsburgh Pirates third baseman Bobby Bonilla has this message for kids looking for idols:

"Kids today are looking for idols, but sometimes they look too far. They don't have to look any farther than their home because those are the people that love you. They are the real heroes."

LEAN ON ME

"Rocky" director John G. Avildsen based his movie, "Lean on Me," on the true-life story of Joe Clark. The principal of a New Jersey high school ravaged by gang warfare and drugs, Clark gained national attention with his get-tough policies, going so far as to wield a baseball bat to drive away drug pushers.

The film is just as interesting as last year's "Stand and Deliver," another success story set in an inner-city school.

WOULD YOU BELIEVE?

A squirrel has no color vision, it sees only in black and white. Its field of vision, however, is perfect, not just straight ahead as with man, but every part is in focus.

In ancient Greece, no one was born or died on the island of Delos. Whenever someone became pregnant or ill, she or he was quickly removed from the sacred island and kept away until nature took its course.

The first operators employed by the Bell Telephone Company were young boys who worked standing up. Only after several years did it occur to anybody to provide them with chairs.

MAGIC OF GARLIC

I learned this week that garlic represents one of the greatest untold stories in the world of gastronomy. Widely known in ancient cultures, garlic possesses amazing qualities to delight the taste buds and improve health.

I didn't know that soothing ingredients in garlic cool muscle inflammation, loosen tight joint knots and provides relaxation of stiffened body parts. Garlic is said to speedily correct metabolic errors responsible for this painful condition. I read that several cloves per day can help restore youthful flexibility to joints and muscles almost immediately.

Did you know that garlic lowers high blood pressure? I didn't. Garlic acts as a stimulant by oxygenating the ducts and channels of the heart muscles. Garlic knocks out most of the known viruses and bacterial infection with the astringent and disinfectant power of garlic. Garlic neutralizes harmful bacteria and dangerous microbes that cause colds. Garlic acts as a natural "detergent" to scrub away deposits, sediment, cholesterol overload.

CHUCKLE CORNER

Miracle drugs are wonderful... now the doctor can keep you alive until you pay your bill. Perhaps our prescription ingredients contain the magic of garlic.

He received a 4th place ribbon for the downhill race and a 5th place ribbon for the slalom race.

Fredekind skied against athletes from 20 foreign countries and all 50 states. An athlete from Austria won the heat in both his races. Delaine was accompanied by Mary Lee Daniel, Gary Daniel and his father Dean. Mrs. Daniel is his teacher and the coordinator for Special Olympics in Capitan. Mr. Daniel is his coach.

The week was also filled with numerous other activities including an international dance, a show night at Balley's in Reno, a beach party, a sports night and a rodeo. A two-hour special was shown on national television Sunday evening highlighting all activities including opening and closing ceremonies.

During his stay Fredekind exchanged pins with numerous other athletes. Mrs. Daniel told the News "this was truly a week to be remembered." She would like to thank the business organizations, clubs and people responsible for making the project possible. A special appreciation goes to the Capitan Schools administration and school board for their support.

The first step of ladder safety

Is simple LOOK UP

Before you climb a ladder, look above you to make sure that there aren't power lines nearby. If your ladder could come into contact with a power line, place it in another location. Most ladders conduct electricity, so you could be shocked just by holding a ladder that touches a power line.

Old-fashioned melodrama raises funds for Olympics

Booing the villain, cheering the hero, stomping feet and singing along were orders of the day when the Carrizozo Little Theater Group presented "Marvello the Magnificent Magician" Saturday in an evening of melodrama and old-fashioned entertainment.

Proceeds from the dinner theater event benefited the National Senior Olympians who qualified to compete in St. Louis in June.

Festivities began in the old high school gym with a soup supper.

During dinner Neel Bingham, "The Traveling Troubadour," played guitar and sang a variety of song styles including an audience participation "clap-along."

Pre-show entertainment continued with The Springtime Singers' Gay Nineties harmony. Roy Dow, Betty McGrieght, Cherri Goad, Eva Zumwalt and Phyllis Schlegel ended their program with an old-fashioned sing-along.

The audience was primed when Marvello the Magnificent took the stage for "incredible feats of magic." Marvello, played by Beulah Moore, delighted the audience with an act combining comedy and sleight-of-hand.

Marvello then became the title character in an old-time melodrama, a classic dilemma of beautiful heroine Susan Hightower, impoverished mother Liz McVeigh, and fearless hero Eileen Serna overcoming impossible odds to outwit the villain and his glamorous cohort Evelyn Sidwell.

As pianist Fran Yates played appropriate "mellodrammer" music and circus barker Roy Dow cued the audience, they responded

Cancer support unit organized in county

On Friday, April 14, a group assembled in the multi-purpose room of the Ruidoso Public Library for the second organizational meeting of the Lincoln County Unit of The American Cancer Society.

Tom Hand, executive director of Dist. 5, Las Cruces, was present.

The following officers were elected: president, Dottie Dunn; secretary, Ruth Wimberley; treasurers, Heidi and Frank Galley. The by-laws of the American Cancer Society were read, as adjusted to fit local needs, by the by-laws committee, Lucie Page and Peggy Wash.

Jodie Keyes is chairman of the Memorial/Honor Program Committee. More people are remembering their loved ones on special occasions by making contributions in their names to the American Cancer Society. Jodie is getting requests for honor gifts for birthdays, anniversaries, retirements, Christmas and other holidays.

Recipients cherish the notice of a special gift because they are helping save lives from cancer. When a memorial or honor gift is donated, a simple card is sent to the bereaved or the honoree. It does not mention the amount of the gift. An acknowledgment card and receipt is sent to the donor.

Jodie Keyes may be addressed c/o American Cancer Society, Box 2328, Ruidoso, NM 88345, or by telephone, 257-4862. Boxes containing memorial and honor gift envelopes have been placed in all Ruidoso banks, pharmacies, and some doctor's offices.

Dorothy Bailey is chairman of the Service and Rehabilitation Committee. She also conducts the "Reach to Recovery" program, wherein specially trained volunteers, who have adjusted to breast cancer surgery, visit new breast cancer patients with information and guidance.

Dorothy and her committee hope to organize support groups meetings for new and recovered cancer patients, presenting the "I Can Cope" educational program for patients and families.

For the Public Education Committee, Dub Williams is chairman; with Kathy Crane as co-chairman, stressing education in public schools. On the medical committee are Dr. Paul Whitman and Dr. Stephen Crowley.

Meetings will be at 11 a.m. on the 2nd Friday of each month, in the multi-purpose room of the Ruidoso Public Library.

There are no membership dues—just help cancer patients and their families with information and guidance. (Cont'd on P. 4)

Ernest V. Joiner's OPINION

• The disturbance at the Lincoln County News last week has subsided, but anger and resentment still smolders. My accountant had just prepared my 1988 Form 1040 for the IRS, and I was on the phone demanding to know why this business, which lost $10,000 in 1988, still had to fork over a tax of $1,181 to the IRS. What this means, I explained to him, is that I am being forced to pay $1,181 for the privilege of losing $10,000. That's right, he said. I got Cong. Joe Skeen's office on the phone. His aide said that $1,181 is the price you have to pay for the pleasure of being self-employed. Then I got Social Security on the phone. Yes, the man said, the tax is on your Social Security received in 1988, not on your business loss. This approach means that I have been taxed all my life to fund my Social Security account. Then when I begin drawing what I have been taxed for, I am taxed again, this time for taking back what was (and is) actually mine.

• As a result of a similar outrage committed 15 years ago by my accountant and the one who served Clarence Hall of the Wareham, Mass., Courier, we came up with an annual tribute to the accounting profession. It goes like this: The thing I hate most at this time of year is Certified Public Accountants.

• I dislike taxi drivers, health and accident insurance policy salesmen, telephone solicitors, psychiatrists, men who wear loud pants, radio disc jockeys who talk a lot, people who use such words as "viable" and "structured," men hair stylists, cowboys who wear Levis so tight they are forever in danger of emasculation if they suddenly squat. But I hate Certified Public Accountants.

• I dislike physical education instruction, tweedy college professors, politicians who make speeches about reducing taxes, telephone operator supervisors, head nurses, people who call other people "darling," people who begin every explanatory sentence with "Basically," surly waitresses, people who are surly to surly waitresses, men who leave their top four shirt buttons unbuttoned to expose the hair on their chests, football announcers who describe and analyze every play, American Legion conventions and people who like dogs more than they like people. But especially, I hate Certified Public Accountants.

• I dislike car salesmen who sell you a car and then you find out the gas tank is optional, privileges for minorities that can't be had for the majority, bigots other than myself, fence-sitting editors, people who play canasta, anything the government has anything to do with, hypocrites, almost bald people who swirl their hair around from the back to cover the bald spot, doctors who hum, people who wake up happy, haughty public servants, public relations men, book clubs, book salesmen, perfectionists, people who wear two-tone pointed shoes, people who wear dark glasses to disguise their shifty eyes, and shifty-eyed people without dark glasses. And I hate Certified Public Accountants.

• I dislike people who ask, "How are you?" then rush away without giving you a chance to tell them, wedding stories where every detail of the bride's outer- and under-attire is described but you never learn the name of the groom, environmentalists who write editors 1500-word letters loaded with libel and add a P.S. saying "If you have guts you'll print this exactly as written and without editorial comment," small men with large fannies, large women with small fannies, jingle contests, chiropractors, tour guides and computerization. Mostly, though, I hate Certified Public Accountants.

• I dislike TV weather forecasters, restaurants with knotty-pine walls, bank commercials saying how friendly they are, cucumber sandwiches, bums, liars, loudmouths, bullies, tax collectors, pimps, people who show home movies, and people who pour catsup all over their French fries.

• But Certified Public Accountants I hate. They are pale, skinny, wet-nosed and self-righteous. They write small neat figures. Their Big Deal is balancing columns of figures. They treat you like they would a criminal. They are cold, humorless, colorless, devoid of human compassion, callous and cruel.

• I filed my income tax this week.

Inside The Capitol

By Jay Miller

SANTA FE—Political analysts get asked to give lots of after-dinner speeches following legislative sessions. It's a good opportunity to discover what folks around the state are thinking.

The question most frequently asked is "What ever happened to that $24 million Capitol building renovation project?"

Everyone remembers the flap about big bucks lawmakers wanted to spend on the winter palace they occupy one or two months every year. That was happening just before lawmakers gathered in the Capital City last January. Everyone knew it was bound to be one of the hottest topics of the 1989 session.

"So what happened?" Did the proposal ever get introduced? It must not have passed or we'd have heard a lot about it.

Well, it passed, neighbors. It passed with what one might call "minimal debate." You see, those folks who guys send to Santa Fe didn't get elected by being dummies. They figured the less said, the better. You might call it "a conspiracy of silence." It was the easiest a controversial $24 million project ever got through the legislature.

There were no stormy debates over whether this was the wisest use of state funds that were not very plentiful to start with. Gov. Garrey Carruthers referred to the renovation a few times as "the legislature's Maytag mansion," a reference to his decision last fall not to accept the gift of a white elephant governor's residence that he feared would become a Trojan horse.

Carruthers also referred to the Round House renovation several times as "the Whirlpool mansion." But he never could pick a fight. Lawmakers kept their mouths zipped shut and no good controversies ever developed.

Going into the session, lawmakers, lobbyists and the press corps all expected to know the answers to a lot of important scheduling questions by session's end. But even lawmakers appear to be in the dark about whether the next session will be held in October, December or January. Many people's plans hang in the balance. Apparently decisions about the timetable for Capitol renovation have been left to Legislative Council Service director Paula Tackett and some of the top legislative leaders.

Another frequently asked question: "Did the legislature do anything to give us another chance to figure out whether we should appoint or judge?"

The answer is, no. Senate Joint Resolution 13 would have given voters the opportunity to repeal the "judicial reform" constitutional amendment we okayed last November. It passed the Senate but died on adjournment in the House.

There were a lot of angry voters after the last general election when they realized they had been duped into giving the legal fraternity the right to choose our judges for us under the guise of judicial reform. The problem is the brief wording on the official ballot is often misleading. That wording is not determined by the secretary of state. It is set by the lawmaker who introduces the resolution to change the constitution. The title he or she chooses to put on the legislation is what goes on the ballot if the measure passes both houses.

The art of voter deception has become quite sophisticated in the last few years. Voters are often deceived into doing the opposite of what they intend.

On this issue it will be necessary to give the legal beagles who sold us the bill of goods some additional rope before they hang themselves. But never fear. They'll do it. One more year may be enough time for them to sufficiently anger voters to a point they demand lawmakers give them a chance to vote on an honestly-worded amendment.

The judicial nominating commissions are managing to do a good job of alienating the public. All commissions in the state have adopted rules that close the entire process. Only the commissioners, who are 80 percent lawyers, ever know who applied to be a judge. No one else is allowed to sit in on the interviews.

Last week William Riordan, a former Supreme Court justice, resigned in protest from the two panels to which he had been appointed saying there was never any discussion of candidates' qualifications or experience. It is just a popularity contest according to Riordan. And the winners so far have all been current or former judges.

Letters to the Editor

On union wages

EDITOR—I was prompted to write this letter after reading your column, in which you say that our high and mandatory union wages are keeping business and industry out of New Mexico.

Let me correct you that those wages are only mandatory when federal and state money is used to fund such a project. This is known as the DAVIS-BACON Act, which allows union or non-union contractors to work on the same federal or state funded project. It does not affect the private industry. So instead of criticizing the unions, that criticism should be pointed toward legislators, for having gross receipts tax, which keeps private business and industry out of New Mexico, not our so-called "high" wages.

CARLOS A. SANCHEZ, Carpenter's Local #1319, Albuquerque, NM.

ED. NOTE: Two observations: (1) Most large projects involve state and/or federal funds, which forces contractors to pay union wages; (2) If union wages do not apply to private business, why do unions lobby to kill any right-to-work law in the legislature—and why is Clovis moving to enact its own right-to-work law?

It's only money, folks

EDITOR—Did you know that an estimated 25 million "illegals" are living in Red China. They are unregistered children who are not immigrants or aliens, but native-born Chinese whose parents hide them to keep them unregistered by the government because of its official "one family, one child" policy.

Under current government edicts, an extra child results in a $750 fine, a heavy burden for a family whose income is less than that per year. The unregistered children cannot attend government schools, receive government aid of any kind, or work for the government in any capacity.

In the single month of October 1987, Western Europe banks supplied the Soviet Union with over $7 billion in credits that were not specified for any particular use. This badly needed infusion of hard currency went to the Kremlin at a time when the annual cost to US taxpayers for defending Western Europe from Communism approximates $100 billion—a major portion of the US defense budget.

In 1986, the USSR received $12 billion in undesigned credits from banks in Western Europe and the United States. This amount of money covered the Kremlin's costs that year for propping up the USSR's puppet regimes in China, Nicaragua, Angola, Vietnam and Ethiopia.

The school board conducted standard business. It was noted that the monthly gas bill had dropped from $7,000 to $4,000.

Supt. Scott Childress said the new P.A. systems in both gyms had made a big improvement.

Teachers Ruby Johnson and Mary Melwain reported on the "Odyssey of the Mind" program. This program is open to average and above average students who work in teams of five to seven members. The winning team went to Albuquerque April 7.

The team members were Kimberly Wright, Jessica Cline, Amy Cline, Vincent Lopez, Rodney Sedillo, Nathan Koreny and Tracey Stone.

Childress said certain teachers had been placed on two-year contracts. It is the school's goal to eventually have every teacher on a two-year contract.

Board members Preston Stone, Hollis Fuchs, Kenneth Cox, Tom Trost and Ron Rogbal approved a golf program for the 1989-90 school year. This team is coached by Ted Turnbow.

Capitan teachers will receive a pay check in June which will reflect a $1.25 percent increase on their base salary. The increase for the 1989-90 school year will be five percent.

The board approved the calendar for the 1989-90 school year. Classes begin Aug. 22. Graduation day is May 19, 1990 and school ends on May 25. Holidays are scheduled for Sept. 4, Oct. 20, Nov. 23 and 24, Dec. 21 through Jan. 2, Feb. 19 and April 13. The spring break is March 19 through March 23.

The school board will meet in special session April 24 at 7 p.m. for a special budget hearing. The next regular meeting is May 11 at 7:30 p.m.

CAPITAN NEWS

By Margaret Rench

Last week was variations of weather but no moisture. It is cinder dry.

My comment on the Cleanup Day in our village last Saturday. It was a great success, which it gives me pleasure to report.

The city, chamber of commerce, Lions Club, Bob Marris crew from Camp Sierra Blanca and many good citizens worked together as did women, men and young people. I was prepared as always but the crew of lovely ladies, gentlemen and young ones went beyond my preparedness and that kindness brought years of joy and happiness for their generosity. May God bless you.

If everyone would forget their animosities and work together as they did in the above day, what a village we would become. Think about it.

This comment is from Mrs. Ray, who worked hard too: People really responded to the Cleanup Day. Thanks to them who furnished pickups and trailers. Also a big thanks to all who picked up trash. You did a fine job. But after driving around Saturday afternoon I saw a few homes that really need to clean up. We are not out to embarrass anybody, we just want to make Capitan beautiful. We are also asking you people with old junk cars, please get them moved out. We certainly appreciate help from Camp Sierra Blanca.

The Smokey Bear Museum had 576 registered visitors last week.

The Bike-A-Thon was a good turn out; 18 kids showed up. The longest ride was 25 miles. The shortest was 12 miles.

Sixty people enjoyed the David Townsend program on Eugene Manlove Rhodes Saturday. The meeting was held in San Juan's Church.

Townsend covered Rhodes life from the time he came to New Mexico in 1881 at the age of 12, the time he spent in New York with his family, his return to New Mexico and finally to California, where he died.

Rhodes was a writer, a poet and a writer of letters. Several in the audience had known Rhodes and told their experiences with him. The main theme throughout the program and those in the audience, he loved to read!

Sara Gonzales gave a eulogy at the funeral of Molly Hainer-Canning. Sara was like a second mother to Molly, and she gave some anecdotes about Molly. She was a very special little girl.

Many friends from throughout the county also attended the graveside services for Danny Knight.

Charles Jones' many friends and family met at the Trinity Baptist Church. All had memories and stories they wanted to share with another.

All these friends will be sadly missed, but the memories will always be with all of us.

The weather has been warm and windy, bringing out the tourists. Its nice to see them up and down the street.

Mr. and Mrs. Jon Amastae, Laura and David, El Paso, were weekend visitors. Jon did some more repair work on the Penfield house.

Leota Pfingsten was hostess to the DAR Thursday, at her home west of Lincoln.
