Commissioners agree to pay, so Ernie will stay

By Ruth Hammond

County Commissioners faced an emotional crowd Monday for the regular commission meeting.

The majority of the 55 to 60 people present for the meeting wanted commissioners to honor the promises made to physician's assistant Ernie Gonzales when he was hired Oct. 24, 1988 at Carrizozo Health Center.

Gonzales had been promised a net salary of $38,000 per year with four-weeks paid vacation, two weeks annual sick leave, 100 percent insurance coverage and a housing allowance of $375 per month for eight to 12 months. Gonzales' moving expenses were paid at the time he moved to Carrizozo from Georgia.

Joan Means, a member of the Carrizozo Health Center advisory board, said, "We as an advisory board would like very much to keep Ernie, and we want the commissioners to honor the promises made to Ernie when he was hired."

Gonzales spoke to the commission and said all he wanted was for the commission to honor what was agreed and to make it retroactive to his starting date. Apparently he has been paid much less than the agreed amount.

Commission chairman Bob Hemphill said he had received many phone calls and letter concerning the matter since the commission decided during the budget process to not give the $500 salary increase to employees at the health center.

County manager Nick Pappas said the health center employees did receive the insurance benefit increase granted to all full-time employees with insurance coverage.

EMS Director Nancy Guck said PAs starting salary nationwide is $50,000 per year and added, "I maintain Ernie is not replaceable."

Pappas said the county could not legally pay 100 percent insurance coverage for Gonzales and wanted to know why there was nothing on paper confirming the agreement made between Gonzales and the previous commission.

Sheriff James McSwane said, "My office would have to pay an additional $18,000 a year if Ernie was not here." He said the costs would be for transportation of prisoners for medical attention.

Barbara Ward, director of Zia Senior Citizens Centers, said senior citizens in the Corona area were making an average of 17 trips a month for medical appointments before Gonzales was hired. Now Gonzales goes to Corona once a week and the trips out of town for the senior citizens has reduced to an average of six per month.

Commissioners agreed to pay Gonzales the $38,000 annual net salary and agreed to honor the other promises made. An adjustment will be made and Gonzales will receive a lump sum for the amount he has not received since October, and back taxes will be paid as agreed by the commission.

In other business, commissioners approved a joint powers agreement with Chaves County and the department of finance and administration for the use of the $142,000 appropriated by the 1989 legislature for the Mescalero water suit. The money will be used for expenses in prior years.

Sams Sasser of Waste Management in Alamogordo presented a video on landfills.

Donna Smith of the New Mexico Association of Counties explained services offered by NMAC and answered questions.

The public hearing for the proposed ordinance amending the Lincoln County personnel ordinance to adopt the federal fair labor standards act as applied to employees engaged as law enforcement officers was held.

The amendment was approved and will allow law enforcement officers work period to be at least seven days but less than 28 days. This will enable officers to make adjustments in a longer work period.

Cooperative school bus route agreement for the state to pay no more than $8,819 of the cost of striping Gavilan was approved.

A request to vacate a road north of Capitan was referred to the road review committee.

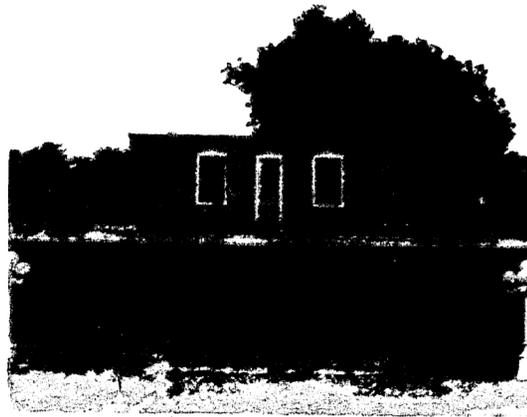

The road review committee presented recommendations for changes in road request forms. The recommendations were accepted and referred to the county manager.

Budget increase of $5,998 for purchase of grandstand bleachers at the fairgrounds was approved.

Action was tabled concerning personnel policy changes for the organizational structure and the wage and classification schedules for the county manager's office and the treasurer's office.

Commissioner Karon Petty asked that two separate resolutions be prepared and each to include job classifications and job descriptions for the positions of finance director and administrative assistant in the county manager's office and for the position of financial accounting officer in the treasurer's office.

Salaries for all three positions were set at $20,500 per year in the resolution. The resolution stated that both offices would be reorganized to include the new positions.

THE NEW VILLAGE hall located one half block south of the old village hall.

Capitan moves to end water problem

By Bartley McDonough

Mayor Benny Coker told the Capitan Village Council Monday evening that the new well is pumping 12 to 14 hours a day.

He urged Capitan citizens to conserve their use of water. Coker pointed out that this is not rationing, but a need to watch what is used.

Proposals were opened on a new exploratory well. The casing size is the same as the present well. A proposal of $37,549.20 by Rhymes Drilling Company of Roswell was approved by the council. A proposal from R.W.S. Drilling of Roswell for $42,758.00 was also received. The council will negotiate with Rhymes for the pump testing.

The proposed well is 8 of a mile west of the existing well, and eight feet from the existing pipe line.

The village council approved budget resolution 89-11.

Dry weather causes bear and game problems

Lincoln County has had bear problems recently.

The sheriff's office received a call that a bear was tearing up campsites at Bonito Lake on June 8 and a bear was reported on the porch of a residence in Alto June 10.

Sheriff James McSwane said bears, elk and deer are being forced to lower elevations because of the dry conditions and lack of food. Motorists are urged to watch for all wild animals near roadways.

Fires were also a major problem in the county last week. Six fires were reported caused by lightning June 8 and 250 acres were burned about 30 miles north of Carrizozo June 11 after being caused by the train.

June 11 the sheriff's department received a call of ransacking of a residence in Ruidoso. Officers are investigating possible criminal damage.

County is named as defendant in lawsuit

Lincoln County elected officials and the county attorney are in the courts again. A foreclosure suit filed in district court June 1 has the unique distinction of having one law firm represent both the plaintiff and the defendant.

Two defendants in the case are Lincoln County Treasurer Shirley Goodloe and Lincoln County Assessor Julia Samora. Summona were served to Goodloe and Samora on June 7.

Parsons & Bryant is the law firm providing county attorney services for Lincoln County. Parsons & Bryant is also the law firm representing the bank in the foreclosure case.

The News questioned this matter during the county commission meeting June 12.

Robert Beauvais, the attorney with Parsons & Bryant primarily assigned to fulfill the county attorney obligation, said he was aware the suit had been filed by an associate at the firm.

The News question was, "Who will represent the county in this action?"

Beauvais said an amended complaint would be filed later this week that will clarify the matter.

The complaint filed June 1 asked for the court to determine priority of liens and wanted the court to establish the bank lien on the property as having priority.

New Mexico statutes state that property liens are first liens and paramount to any other interest in the property.

All liens on property for taxes and paving assessments are held by the county treasurer. No liens are held by the assessor, even though the assessor was named as a defendant in the case.

Attorney Dan Bryant

with Parsons & Bryant told the News the county had to be listed in the foreclosure suit because the county holds a lien on the property and is listed in the chain of title as a creditor.

Bryant said the property tax lien and county paving assessment lien will have priority over all other liens and a stipulation was received from the plaintiff recognizing the county's priority prior to filing the lawsuit.

Bryant said the amendment to the complaint was filed in district court by June 14. The county's liens will have priority.

State police officer under investigation

New Mexico State Police are investigating an allegation that one of their troopers, Mike Sainz, assigned to Carrizozo, beat his wife and put off her hair in a domestic quarrel a few days ago.

The matter was investigated by a state police special agent and referred to District Attorney Bert Atkin's office late Wednesday.

Atkins said the matter is under investigation by his office.

Sainz is on authorized leave at this time.

Traffic signing and flagmen will warn motorists of the upcoming work area. In addition, a pilot car will lead traffic through the construction area. "Motorists should use caution while driving through the work area and be wary of loose gravel," Gomez said.

The project should be completed by the end of June.

Shafer said the Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County (EDCAC) will continue to operate as long as funding is

The chamber received $790 from the state as reimbursement for advertising expenses for the ad in New Mexico magazine in January, February and March 1989.

TEMPTING TOPPERS FOR FAMOUS PUMPKIN PIE

Pumpkin Pie may be one of the most traditional of all holiday pies. This All-American dessert made its first appearance on the Thanksgiving tables of New England colonists. For many, holidays just don't seem complete without a delectable pumpkin pie (or two) to celebrate the season.

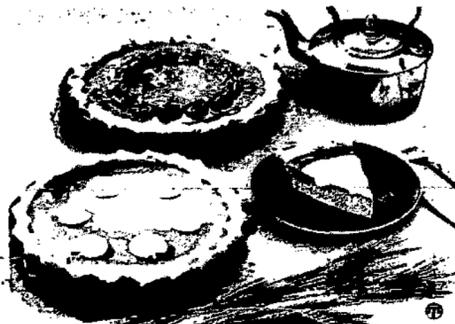

Some pumpkin pie purists prefer theirs plain, or with only a dollop of whipped, fluffy cream. There are, however, a wide variety of ways to glamorize this favorite traditional pie with flair and fun.

One easy way to garnish Famous Pumpkin Pie is with miniature cheese pumpkins. Cut pumpkin shapes from slices of processed cheese and arrange them on the cooled pie. These golden-orange "pumpkins" make particularly fun pie toppings for Halloween or Thanksgiving.

Another appetizing topping variation likely to please cheesecake fans—is a cheesecake-style topping. Sour cream, sugar, and a touch of rum flavoring make this creamy sauce a truly rich and flavorful contrast to the spicy flavor of pumpkin pie.

A third opportunity for dressing up pumpkin pie lets you go "nicely nutty." By adding crunchy walnuts to your favorite pie crust, and then toasting some extras to use as a garnish, you have an especially tasty and innovative pumpkin pie. Serve it at holiday meals as a traditional, yet distinctive, dessert.

FAMOUS PUMPKIN PIE

(Makes 1 9-inch pie)

- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
  - 1 can (16 ounces) Libby's Solid Pack Pumpkin
  - 3/4 cup sugar
  - 1/2 teaspoon salt
  - 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
  - 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
  - 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
  - 1 1/2 cups (12-ounce can) undiluted Carnation Evaporated Milk
  - 1 9-inch unbaked homemade pie shell with high fluted edge
- Preheat oven to 425°F. Combine filling ingredients in order given; pour into pie shell. Bake 15 minutes. Reduce temperature to 350°F. Bake an additional 45 minutes or until knife inserted near center comes out clean.

VARIATIONS:

Cheese Pumpkins: Cut pumpkin shapes from slices of processed cheese; arrange on cooled pie.

Cheesecake-Style Topping: Combine 1 cup sour cream with 2 tablespoons sugar and 1 1/2 teaspoons rum. Spread evenly over cooled pumpkin pie or over cut pie wedges.

Nut Crunch Pie Shell and Toasted Walnut Garnish: Prepare and roll pastry from your favorite recipe or packaged mix. Sprinkle 1/3 cup finely chopped walnuts evenly over pastry; roll lightly. Place pastry in pie pan; flute edge.

Garnish: Spread walnut halves evenly in a shallow pan. Bake at 350°F, stirring often, for 12 to 15 minutes or until golden brown. Cook; arrange on cooled pie.

Town to increase garbage sewer and water rates

Residents of Carrizozo will be faced with an increase in water, sewer and garbage rates if a proposed ordinance is approved in July.

Town trustees met June 13 and instructed city clerk Carol Schlarb to publish the notice of hearing for the proposed ordinances which will be available at city hall. The proposed ordinances will be considered at the July 11 meeting.

Proposed rate increases: garbage will be increased from $8 a month for residential to $12 a month. Commercial rates will be set at $3.25 per cubic yard per container. Garbage will be picked up once a week.

Water rates will be increased from $7.50 to $9 for the minimum of up to 3,000 gallons per month and the minimum per 1,000 gallons after the first 3,000 gallons to be increased in price from $1.25 to $1.75. A new section will be added to the ordinance for construction water service at a charge of $5 per 1,000 gallons and construction companies are to provide their own meter and also provide for their own security for the meter.

Sewer rates for single family residences will be increased from $4.60 to $5.60 and hotels, motels, tourists courts and trailer courts will be increased from $2.10 to $2.53 per month per connection. Dry goods stores, grocery stores, hardware stores, mortuary and including business offices will be increased from $6.74 per month to $8.09 per month. Public institutions, courthouses and schools with cafeteria will be increased from $11.34 to $14.81 per month.

In other business, the 1989-90 proposed budget was approved and will be sent to Santa Fe. The budget is subject to adjustment by the state department of finance and administration.

Eddie O'Brien spoke to trustees about paving of Lava Loop. He was told that all expenses more than $5,000 are required by the state to be put out for bid. The town has contacted the highway department and asked for a small co-op to help pay for the paving.

A zoning change for Harold V. Desjardin from R-1 residential to C-2 commercial was approved. Desjardin plans to use the building a block from Roy's Gift Gallery as a bed and breakfast business.

Beulah Moore spoke to trustees about the fire danger at the old Girard Hotel building.

Two proposals were received to provide software for the town computer system. L and R Ltd. of Cuba proposed $6,500 and Triadic of Deming proposed $19,000. The proposals were referred for review and will be considered at the next meeting.

Trustee Albert Baca was appointed to the Lincoln County Landfill Committee.

The town received notification the town fire budget was approved by the state fire marshal.

The town has ordered an IBM System 36 computer on a GSA (state purchasing) contract.

A closed session was held for 46 minutes for personnel. Applications for the assistant clerk were considered. There were no announcements following the closed session.

● Don't write off the Chinese people. Back in 1985 China enacted an income tax. Since then, 6800 tax collectors have been assaulted, 13 have been killed, 27 maimed, and 786 seriously injured. According to the communist People's Daily, another four tax collectors were captured by angry peasants. They were forced into pens with pigs, then driven from village to village to further humiliate them. One angry taxpayer was subsequently jailed in connection with the incident because he stood on a crate and urinated on the helpless collectors wallowing around with the pigs. Had we the people taken a similar stance when our income tax was imposed, we would not be working five months out of every year for Uncle Sam instead of for ourselves.

● That was an impressive funeral for former US Sen. Claude Pepper of Florida. Not everybody so closely associated with the Communist Party gets to lie in state in the rotunda in the Capitol as the nation mourns its loss. According to William F. Buckley Jr., who has a long memory and a library of reference books, the Florida legislator was an ardent supporter of Henry Wallace, a presidential candidate in 1948 whose campaign was directed and financed by the Community Party. Time magazine referred to him then as "Red" Pepper. While it has not been disclosed that he was one of those card-carrying communists of the McCarthy era, Pepper was recipient of the Order of Stalin—an honor reserved for Communist Party members and effective sympathizers. It is not bestowed upon those who believe in capitalism and democracy. Pepper was able, in his later years, to put aside the communist tinge because, mostly, of his support for legislation affecting older Americans. Proving that it is never too late to clean up one's act.

● Friday I was listening to live television coverage of an Hispanic meeting in Albuquerque over C-Span II. Chaired by Raymond G. Sanchez, Speaker of the New Mexico House of Representatives, speakers denounced the English Only movement as racist, discriminatory, and unconstitutional. They are pushing for bilingualism. Sanchez was candid about how he "persuaded" two Hispanic House members to withdraw their names from a bill to establish English Only in New Mexico. He did it by raw power. Raw power, I believe, is actually what Hispanic activists are after. Not just for bilingualism but in all other fields that may place power and influence in the hands of Hispanic population. After all, there are more than 15 million Hispanics in this country, all potential voters.

● Speakers made some errors. One woman maintained that English Only is unconstitutional. I have been a student of the US Constitution for 50 years. I can assure you that the document does not address the language question. It doesn't even mention the English language, much less Spanish. Another speaker compared the "abuse" of Hispanics, by denying them bilingualism, to Japanese-Americans being sent to "concentration camps" at the outset of World War II. These were "relocation centers" from which Japanese-Americans could leave at any time to work or live, except in the West Coast War Zone. Many chose to attend college or work on midwestern farms. When people can go and come as they please, it isn't a concentration camp. Inevitably, one speaker had to raise the question of racial discrimination by not taxing everybody to teach Spanish to Anglos so they can communicate with Hispanics. Our Chinese, Japanese, Asian and people of other foreign cultures might rightfully feel discriminated against by having to live, not only with English, but with Spanish.

● I pointed out last week that English is now the language of the world. All scientific and technical works are printed in English. Unless Hispanic young people who try to enter the American workforce are subjected to intensive English language studies, the majority of them will not be qualified for more than low level work—all due to their weak English language skills.

● Sally D. Reed, executive director of National Council for Better Education, has this to say on the subject: "Hispanics are well known for being industrious and hard-working employees. So why, then, does higher-level employments so frequently elude them? Because they have been too severely handicapped to deal with technical language requirements, which are needed in positions of responsibility." They are not going to learn about space age technology, supercomputers, and modern science without a command of the English language.

● She continues: "We know, of course, as the melting pot of the world, we must maintain a healthy respect for the cultures and languages of all our citizens. But we also know that if our Hispanics element is ever to complete the acculturation process and blend

Inside The Capitol

By Jay Miller

LONDON—George Bush's triumph at the NATO conference have brought even bigger headlines here than in the United States.

It makes sense since the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is tied much more directly to Western Europe's safety and stability than to our own.

Europe had the same doubts about Bush's effectiveness before the NATO meeting as we did. Namely, can this nice guy, with an undistinguished first 100 days in office and no apparent plans to challenge Russian leader Mikhail Gorbachev for the international spotlight, provide any leadership to the European community?

The crucial factor that has not been obvious in the United States is that our NATO allies see the US president as their leader and chief spokesperson despite their much greater stake in the security of Western Europe. Prior to the meeting, European newspapers were reporting the frantic hopes of their government that Bush would come to Brussels with a plan, and ready to talk tough.

And Bush did just that, albeit at the last minute. The president is going to have to stop these cliffhangers. It appears his nature is not to be strong and decisive but he has the ability to recognize when those qualities are absolutely necessary and manages to rise to the occasion.

Bush was the man of the hour this time. He was faced with a European community heavily divided on the issue of how much to trust Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev and his bold initiatives for peace in Europe. For the last eight years former president Ronald Reagan had preached extreme caution and a build up of Western European forces. British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher had been his chief lieutenant among the European leaders giving her top power and prestige in that community.

But that began to change when Reagan opened communications with Gorbachev. Thatcher was not a part of those discussions. Her continued intransigence toward dealing with the Soviet leader has gotten her bypassed by the rest of the European community.

The question then became what would Bush do? Would he continue the close Anglo-American ties developed by Reagan and Thatcher or might he just decide to pussyfoot around the issue and try to remain everybody's friend?

Fortunately he did neither. Bush stepped a compromise that heavily favored the West German position of negotiating with the Soviets on arms production. The divided NATO powers quickly jumped for Bush's initiative, clearly relieved that they once again had a leader.

In post-NATO meetings with West German officials, Bush clearly signaled it is that country to which the United States will be looking for leadership of the European community. A new German-American alliance had been forged.

Then it was time to go to England and soothe the feelings there. Surprisingly, the British press has not faulted Bush for his change of allegiance. They have gone after Thatcher instead. One paper contended, "Thatcher's negativism about Europe makes West Germany a more logical leading partner." A conservative paper said, "Bush's power and prestige has easily turned Thatcher's head. A few sweet words, a little soft talk and a good deal of personal flattery is all that's required."

And Bush had a lot of sweet words. He assured Britons that America's "special relationship" with the United Kingdom remains undiminished and everyone believed him.

That "special relationship" between our two countries has been quite evident. After lunching with the queen, Bush made his way to Number 10 Downing Street to meet with Thatcher. Huge crowds lined Parliament St. on the main thoroughfare from Buckingham Palace. Those with international press credentials were able to position themselves at the entrance to the short dead-end Downing St. My location at a table outside the Red Lion pub just across Parliament St. was nearly as good and offered the added opportunity to question locals regarding their feelings about our president.

The reactions were astonishingly positive. "He restored unity within NATO," said one. "He knows just when and how to act," said another. It brought a warm feeling to know there are still places in this world where people think we are doing something right.

Somewhere a child lies crying
Somewhere an old man shivers in the dark
Somewhere a family's dreams burn to the ground
Somewhere somebody needs help.

Letters to the Editor

Cuddling illegal aliens

EDITOR—In your Opinion column of June 1, you stated the United States requires a proficiency in the English language before granting citizenship.

That was in the past, per the June 1988 newsletter of The American Immigration Control Foundation, Monterey, VA.

The first amnestied alien to gain citizenship under the 1986 Immigration Reform and Control Act, 99-year-old Clara Escobedo de Martinez, was naturalized in Brownsville, TX in April 1988 and took her oath of citizenship in Spanish.

US Circuit Judge Reynolds Garza, who presided over the ceremony, commented, "What other country in the world would allow people who have been here illegally—breaking the law—to come in here and correct their actions" by applying for amnesty.

The same newsletter revealed that Rose Pak, an influential advisor to San Francisco California Mayor Art Agnos, has been living in the United States for 17 years as an illegal alien.

According to the Immigration and Naturalization Service, Miss Pak entered the US in 1966 on a student visa. Her visa expired on her graduation five years later, but she did not leave the country.

She is widely acknowledged as the single most influential Chinese person in City Politics. After a brief career in journalism, she has concentrated on what she says is the driving force of her life—building the Chinese community's political influence in San Francisco politics.

Miss Pak showed contempt for the thought of citizenship by stating that "if this (citizenship issue) goes in the paper, I think I'll just buy a one-way ticket to Hong Kong and leave for good."

She relented and applied for amnesty a few weeks after the revelation of her status, an occasion which prompted Mayor Art Agnos to declare "Rose Pak Day" to mark "the significance of her contributions," and to encourage other illegals to apply for amnesty.

Also in same newsletter, The government of District of Columbia decided to pardon some illegal aliens who committed fraud to obtain driver's licenses. But what about amnestied aliens who have obtained phony Social Security numbers and student loans and avoided taxes? "I can't imagine a single public purpose served by prosecuting these people," commented Charles Kamasaki of the National Council of La Raza, a Hispanic lobbying group.

Although fraudulent use of a Social Security number is a federal crime that carries a potential penalty of a $5,000 fine and five years in prison, the Immigration Service is forbidden by law from sharing information about aliens' past use of phony names and numbers.

Name error corrected

EDITOR—In regards to the L.Z. Manire name. Before a story gets way out of proportion may I put in a word. The June 8 letter from Mary Alice Shrum Morgan needs an answer.

In paragraph 3 she tells of the middle school being named in his honor. In 1968 Manire Elementary was dedicated, March 16, 1978, the Lincoln County News ran a feature story about L.Z. Manire, and there he stands, all in order, in front of his namesake.

In paragraph 4 she says "evidently been that way a long time." Seems it happened in 1984 when the board wanted his name kept out front and put it on the middle school building, facing onto the street.

On being advised of the problem, the school took out the extra "s," moved the "r" and "e" up and had the problem solved.

Mary Alice needs to be thanked for calling this to our attention. In a word, she was right. She is to be commended for her loyalty to the school and to Mr. Manire. I cannot explain how it went uncontested for some five years.

But of more importance, L.Z. Manire still looms as probably the all-time great school superintendent of this community. Someone made a mistake, but I am glad we have looked back at this grand old gentleman one more time.

GLEN ELLISON, Carrizozo.

Raise that teacher's pay!

EDITOR—In a quarter of a century of teaching, one of the most alarming lessons that I learned came out of a conversation with another teacher. The teacher teaches sex education.

I asked the teacher, "What do you do when a student asks you, is homosexuality right or is it wrong?"

The reply was, "I would explain that there is nothing wrong if it is between two consenting individuals."

Diving deeper, "and what are your sources, your documentation for offering such advice?"

The sputtering reply was, "Why everyone knows that."

"No," I earnestly replied, "I do not know that, and I have many friends who do not know it. We believe that homosexuality is wrong, that it is dead wrong. We cite as our authority the Holy Bible, which is, incidentally, the largest selling book of all times. For centuries, the Holy Bible has taught that homosexuality is an abomination to God. According to the Old Testament, the punishment for such an act was death by stoning."

"Well," was the reply, "if you are going to believe a bunch of old myths and legends..."

"To me and my friends, the Bible is not a bunch of myths and legends," I responded. "To us the Holy Bible is the infallible word of an infinite God."

I pressed on, "I have cited my authority, you have not cited yours. The idea originated somewhere. You did not originate the thought."

This teacher could not cite any sources. Maybe some into American society with a reasonable opportunity for a successful future, they must learn the language and skills of America."

● Theodore Roosevelt once said, "We have room for but one language here, and that is the English language, for we intend to see that the crucible turns our people out as Americans and not as dwellers in a polyglot boarding house."

● Monday, President Bush outlined his plans to clean up the environment by clearing up smog and cutting acid rain. US Sen. Robert Byrd of West Virginia immediately went on television to denounce the plan. West Virginia is a coal producing state, and the senator said 8,000 jobs could be lost in his state by cutting coal consumption. Consider. Pollution is endangering all living things on this earth, but here comes a US senator wanting to kill the cleanup program to save jobs in his state. Which is more important, human existence or 8,000 jobs in West Virginia?

● And now a question for environmentalists. Now that you have killed nuclear power in the United States, perhaps permanently, and coal is being restricted and perhaps phased out as a source of generating power, along with fossil fuels and wood, how do we generate power to run the country? In killing nuclear power, we lost the only clean, non-polluting source of energy. We are now almost to the point where the only safe legal energy source is rubbing two sticks together.

reader will provide documented authority condoning homosexuality.

I cited the sources from which I believe that terrible abomination to God originates. I doubt that it did much good. It seems doubtful that a teacher who does not respect God and God's word will not believe in Satan either.

In the meantime, "suffer the little children."

The tragedy is that the whole Chinese bloodbath has been financed either directly or indirectly through American and international bankers.

FRONTIER JOURNALISM

Historian Marc Simmons in his "New Mexican Scrapbook" column which appears in Socorro's Defensor Chief-tain writes about early newspapers issued during the days of the New Mexico Territory.

The Mesilla Times, founded in 1860, had distribution problems. Circulation soon reached 750 with subscribers in Arizona, New Mexico, Texas and northern Mexico. Bundles of papers, from the printing office on the Mesilla Plaza, were loaded on stagecoaches for delivery. But sometimes the stages were late or didn't get through at all.

Simmon's collection of newspapers are an important source of territorial history. One bulletin has the headings: ANOTHER APACHE MASSACRE, THE CALIFORNIA MAIL DESTROYED! SEVEN MEN MURDERED.

Another story reported the killing of a Mexican desperado by a man named Henry Homes. The bandit had boasted of many murders. The slaying was "perfectly justifiable," reasoned the Mesilla Times editor.

JOURNALISM'S BEST TODAY

Mike Moore, editor of The Quill, writes that for several months in early 1909, a handful of male undergraduates at the campus of DePaw University in Greencastle, IN, discussed the need for a Greek-letter organization that would serve college journalists.

It would be an organization with secret words and phrases and a secret handshake. It would be an organization for men that would be honorary rather than professional in character.

The Society of Professional Journalists, as the organization is called today, has lost most traces of its Greek-letter origins. It is now open to women as well as to men. It is a professional society, not an honorary campus organization, and includes broadcast journalism as well as print. There is nothing secret about any of its activities.

In 1926, Mitchell V. Charnley, for many years the society's historian, wrote this of the founder:

"They longed dimly for 'better journalism,' both amateur and professional, they talked of a truthful, honorable press, one not dominated by commercialism, and they believed that by planting journalistic ideals in student newspapermen, they would make great strides toward their goals."

OH I SEE

Reading about early New Mexican politics and politicians learned who did what to whom and for how much. Jack Flynn, in his column in Enchantment (July 1987) set the record straight on A.B. Fall, territorial official, US Senator, and Secretary of the Interior. When Fall served as territorial judge and attorney general, it was through appointment. Such officials were not elected in a territorial government.

Due to ill health, Fall did his time in the old Santa Fe state prison infirmary. Fall's Three Rivers ranch may have been the source of his downfall, according to Flynn. He had acquired the property and spent all the money he could lay his hands on expanding and developing it.

POLITICAL PILL

President Roosevelt rewarded many of his sometime army comrades with high political appointments, wrote Flynn in his Fall article.

"One such was Territorial Governor George Curry, after whom Curry County was named. Curry was a man with little formal education, practically no money, but something of a genius for politics."

Curry had been sheriff of Lincoln County, was the first sheriff of Otero County, was chief of police in Manila in the Philippine Islands and a provincial governor there. He was the first member of the US House Representatives from New Mexico (elected in 1911 and starting service when the territory became a state in 1912). When he grew old, he had no money.

Flynn writes that when Lincoln County Memorial Commission was established, one of the reasons was "to create a job for the old man." He was paid $1,800 a year as custodian, "For a time he served as a guide and spinner of yarns."

LETS BACK UP

In younger, more prosperous times Fall and Curry were allies. Lets see if I have this straight:

According to Flynn's account, Otero County was reputedly created so that Oliver Lee, a good friend of Fall and Curry, wouldn't have to go to jail at Las Cruces when he was indicted for the murder of Colonel Albert Fountain and his 12-year-old son. They got a bill through the territorial legislature to create the county with its seat at Alamogordo. Curry was appointed the first sheriff. Lee later was tried for the murder in the Sierra County seat of Hillsboro and acquitted.

Who was the defense attorney? Fall was, while the special prosecutor was Thomas B. Catron of Santa Fe. Fall and Catron were to become the first two senators from New Mexico and then-Sheriff Curry was to be the first congressman.

Obituary

MARY B. SMITH

Mary B. Smith, 81, of Ruidoso Downs died June 10 at the Lincoln County Medical Center.

Funeral services were held June 13 at LaGrone Funeral Chapel with Rev. Bob Bellows of the Community United Methodist Church officiating. Graveside services were held at 2:30 p.m. at Portales Cemetery in Portales.

Mrs. Smith was born Feb. 7, 1908 in Benton County, TN. She and her family moved to Lincoln County from Morton, TX, 41 years ago. She was a homemaker.

She is survived by the husband, Louis M. Smith of Ruidoso Downs; a son, Mae H. Smith of Richardson; a daughter, Colleen Holmes of Ruidoso; four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

UNSOLVED MYSTERIES

Lee was later a state senator from Otero County. The mystery of who killed Fountain and his son remains unsolved. Fountain disappeared somewhere in the White Sands while returning to his Mesilla home after a court session in Lincoln. He had been trying to obtain indictments against some prominent Otero County residents for cattle rustling. Historical opinion holds that Fountain was murdered for this action. His body and that of his son were never found.
