Hemphill offers land to county for landfill

By Ruth Hammond

Lincoln County Commission chairman Bob Hemphill offered to sell land to the county for a county landfill and says it is not a conflict of interest.

"I don't think it is a conflict of interest, but if there appears to be I will withdraw the offer," Hemphill told the News.

He said the land he offered to the county has been for sale at $350 to $500 per acre. "I did not raise my prices for the property to be used for a landfill," he added.

In addition, Hemphill said the offer was made as an expression of interest as no bids or request for proposals were advertised.

"I only offered the land to let people know the county does not have to pay $1,000 or more per acre for a landfill," Hemphill said.

Apparently other offers received had inflated prices.

The county had planned a telephone conference for Wednesday morning to give the county manager the authority to begin negotiations for the transfer of solid waste. The telephone conference was not held because a phone cable had been cut and it was not possible to make long distance phone calls Wednesday morning from Carrizozo.

The county will consider transporting solid waste out of the county until another solution to the landfill situation is reached. The county landfill on Fort Stanton mesa will be open until Labor Day. A decision for long-term solid waste disposal must be made by then.

KOAT CHANNEL 7 anchorman and producer Bill Sandefur gives direction to Carrizozo crowd gathered for a greeting to be televised July 30. Cameraman Mark Buslee adjusts dials on his equipment.

Carrizozo puts on show for Channel 7

Carrizozo will be featured on KOAT-TV Channel 7 on July 30.

Channel 7 anchorman and producer Bill Sandefur with cameraman Mark Buslee and helicopter pilot George Gay were in Carrizozo Wednesday afternoon to film Carrizozo's greeting.

The KOAT-TV helicopter landed in the middle of the school football field at 2:45 p.m. After the rotors on the helicopter stopped turning, Sandefur asked the crowd of more than 400 people to stand in front of the helicopter for a taping of the event.

Carrizozo School Supt. Danny Burnett was spokesman for the group. He had a microphone and gave a short speech, saying Carrizozo is the county seat of Lincoln County and the home of the friendliest people in New Mexico. At the end of the Burnett's speech, the crowd waved and yelled, "We love you New Mexico."

Sandefur said KOAT anchor men have been traveling all over New Mexico for the past three weeks visiting different communities for tapings for later viewing. The stop in Carrizozo was Sandefur's third trip in the past three weeks.

Before landing in Carrizozo, the KOAT helicopter visited Las Cruces and Alamogordo. Sandefur said Carrizozo had the largest crowd of the day. After leaving Carrizozo, the KOAT crew will fly to Ruidoso for taping.

The Carrizozo segment will be shown on Channel 7 on July 30. Sandefur said he did not know if it would be on the 5:30 p.m. or the 10 p.m. newscast.

Carrizozo trustees

Northrop resigns, utility rates upped

Carrizozo trustees took action July 12 to accept the resignation of relief police officer John G. Northrop Sr. and to hire Rick Emmons of Carrizozo as police officer.

Action was also taken to hire Kathy Palomarez as assistant clerk.

Northrop's resignation was effective July 14. Emmons started as part-time relief officer last week and began duties as full time officer starting July 15. Emmons is not certified at this time but will attend the academy for certification.

A 45-minute closed meeting was held for personnel and threatened litigation. Action to accept the resignation and hire Emmons and Palomarez was taken following the closed session. It was announced threatened litigation was discussed and would be referred to an attorney.

In other business, renewal of the American Mineral Recovery Inc. lease was discussed. The matter was tabled to the next meeting. The lease is being reviewed by attorney Don Dutton.

Placement of stop signs at the intersection of 5th Street and C Avenue was discussed. Signs are to be placed consistent with other signs in that area.

The ordinance to increase water rates was adopted. The new rates will be a minimum charge of $9 for and up to 3,000 gallons and the minimum per 1,000 gallons after the first 3,000 gallons will be charged at $1.75 per 1,000 gallons. The previous cost had been $7.50 minimum $1.25 per gallon after the minimum.

The ordinance to increase sewer rates was

School board

Teacher objects to change of positions

Sharon Baker has been teaching at Carrizozo School for 13 years. The past eight years she has taught 4th grade and wants to continue in that position.

Tuesday night at the school board meeting Supt. Danny Burnett informed the board he planned to change Baker's teaching duties from 4th grade to Chapter I. "This is an administrative decision," Burnett said. "I view it as enhancing and improving the school system."

Baker objected and said she did not want to teach Chapter I. "I think personally I belong in the classroom," Baker said, and added, "If a person is unhappy they cannot do as good." Baker said she feels the school should hire someone to make Chapter I a super program.

The 45-minute discussion about the proposed changes came after the board accepted the resignation of Chapter I teacher Mary Nickless. Nickless had taught Chapter I for a few years and asked for the 1st grade teaching position in the 1987-88 school year. She was transferred back to Chapter I for the 1988-89 school year.

Board members apparently disagreed as to how the situation should be handled. Wally Ferguson said, "It is an administrative decision and we will have to live with what is best for our students." He also said he would like to see the school work out a solution to make the teachers happy.

Board member Hoot Gibson said the board hired the administration to make these decisions and at another time said it was not the board or administration's place to keep teachers happy.

Ferguson said he would like to see both.

Burnett said he would take full responsibility for the outcome as to what happens concerning the matter.

Baker said, "When it comes down to it, it will reflect on me. I will do a good job but I won't be happy. I would like a guarantee I will be put back in the classroom after one year if I am put in Chapter I."

Ferguson said he could assure Baker she would not be fired.

Board member Eugenia Vega was concerned that the board was told all teachers were doing a good job when they were evaluated, and now Burnett wants to move a teacher from a regular classroom to improve the system.

Burnett said Chapter I has a lower teacher-student ratio and supposedly has better material and more help is available. "In the best interest of the district and stu-

New principal, teachers named at Capitan schools

By Bartley McDonough

The Capitan Board of Education met July 13 and selected Capitan math and computer teacher Bill Stowe to be the new high school principal.

Former principal Larry DeWees has accepted a principal's position in the Tularosa School System. The board also accepted the resignation of high school English teacher Sarah Ball.

Teacher transfers included Laura Jones from home economics to the 2nd grade. Second grade teacher Dottie MacVeigh will move to kindergarten.

Capitan High School graduate Becky Phillips will teach the 1st grade replacing Mrs. Tom Sullivan who will be going to the Ruidoso School System. Linda Marr and Molly Weber were employed to teach high school English. Lila Heitman will be a new math teacher.

Marr has two years teaching experience in the Washington, DC area and did substitution work in the Ruidoso Schools. Weber comes to Capitan from Highlands High School in Albuquerque. Heitman brings eight years of experience from the Roswell branch of Eastern New Mexico University. She also taught a year in Logan. Her two other teaching fields are English and social studies.

The board approved the fall coaching assignments. Blane Miller returns as head football coach, assisted by James Fowler. Pam Allen returns as head volleyball coach with Norman Gline on the junior high level.

Approved was the final draft of the budget. There is approximately $36,000 more in cash balance than earlier anticipated. This will be used to buy a new station wagon, and pay off leases to Contel and the computer system. A small portion will be used to buy food for the new cafeteria school year.

School board members Hollis Fuchs, Ron Roybal, Kenneth Cox, Tom Trost and Preston Stone approved the inventory deletion list and a $250 grant to Owen Washburn and Rachel Lacy, who will be competing in the high school rodeo finals in Colorado. The school bus fleet operator's contract for $225,000 was also approved.

It was reported that 35 students have enrolled in the

TWO VEHICLES collided at the intersection of Highways 54 and 380 in Carrizozo Wednesday morning. Randell Wayne Ross, driving a vehicle owned by El Paso Natural Gas, admitted he ran the stop sign on Highway 54 and hit the 1977 Buick driven by Wini Wilmore of Carrizozo. Wilmore received cuts from broken glass and a possible leg injury. While officers were getting information about the accident another vehicle ran the stop sign and was pursued north on Highway 54 by Carrizozo Police and Lincoln County sheriff deputies.

Lincoln County Heritage Trust director Bob Hart (in hat) served as tour guide for history buffs in Lincoln last month.

Swift not swift enough to avoid rattlesnake

David Swift, 34, Carrizozo, was hospitalized in critical condition Tuesday evening after having been bitten by a rattlesnake in the bar at White Oaks.

Apparently the 10- to 12-inch snake was on display in an aquarium at the bar. Swift was holding the snake and when he attempted to return it to the aquarium the snake bit him on the forefinger of his left hand.

Swift went to the Carrizozo Health Center for treatment and was transported by ambulance to the Lincoln County Medical Center in Ruidoso. Emergency surgery was performed late Tuesday night.

Swift's condition was good Wednesday morning when he came out of intensive care and returned to a regular hospital room.

JAMES R. (RICHIE) ASKEW

James R. (Richie) Askew died at his home in Ruidoso July 17 at the age of 49.

Lois Lane stories are published

Former Lincoln County Home Economist Lois Jasper Lane has written four stories that are included in a new book published by Nightjar Press at New Mexico State University in Las Cruces.

Lane's family homesteaded in eastern New Mexico in 1908. Lane was reared on a small cattle ranch/dry land farm in DeBaca County and went to a one-room school through 5th grade. She finished high school in Fort Sumner and earned her BS and MA degree from New Mexico A&M. She was extension agent in Lincoln County in the 1950s.

One of Lane's stories is based on a happening in Lincoln County titled "Because They Love One Another" from the Corona area. Another story in the book is "The Circuit Rider" written by Guy Crandall and based on the Arabela area. Crandall lived in Lincoln County most of his life and worked as a cowboy/rancher.

"Serape V" is the name of the book which contains short stories, non-fiction, and poetry written by 25 different authors. Some of the topics deal with homesteading, railroad, school teaching, ranch happenings, and childhood experiences.

School Supt. Scott Childress said there is a possibility of the scoreboard on the football field being replaced by the Pepsi Cola people. Childress also said the possibility of a parent handbook is being considered.

● This is a nasty column and you shouldn't be reading it. I have no choice, considering that just about every moral value has been trampled into the dust in recent years. The time comes when one must address current mores and morality because there isn't much left to talk about. So lock up the children, cross yourself, and begin slowly.

● There is a red pickup running around Carrizozo. On its front license plate holder is a metal plate which reads, "Up Your Mother's Ass." The US Supreme Court could rule that the pickup's owner is making a statement that is protected by the First Amendment. The culprit hasn't vocalized such a statement, so what does he mean? What's his beef? If he hates his mother, or all mothers, why not come out and say so instead of resorting to obscene, vulgar, filthy and offensive language. In a happier time this person would be arrested for public obscenity. Today he/she is a First Amendment hero allowed to run amok broadcasting obscenity.

● The controversy sparked by the US Supreme Court ruling July 4 that burning the flag is permissible as a statement protected by the First Amendment brings up the issue of other national symbols. Motherhood, until recent times, has been equated and revered as has the flag. The flag is an inanimate symbol of this nation; motherhood is its living symbol. Just about everything good, decent, spiritual and honest has been attributed to motherhood. As it should, since without motherhood we wouldn't be here, and there would be nobody to sew up a flag. Desecration of motherhood, it seems, is far more outrageous than desecration of the flag. But motherhood, like the flag, is under attack, as witness the abortion issue.

● It is strange reasoning that pro-abortion advocates' central issue is that a woman has the right to control her own body. I would remind advocates of this principle that any woman seeking abortion actually had control of her body when she voluntarily engaged in sex which she knew could result in pregnancy. She chose to take the risk, got pregnant, and now demands relief on grounds she is entitled to control of her own body. At the critical time, she exercised control of her own body, and screwed up. She might have just refrained from sexual contact. She might have used a contraceptive. She did neither. She elected to become a mother. Now she wants an abortion, at taxpayer's expense, to rectify a body problem over which she exercised absolute control and failed. What she wants is a constitutional right to get pregnant again, followed by an abortion which makes taxpayers responsible for paying for her Saturday night rolls in the hay.

● Should abortion advocates win this one, consider a few of the consequences that abortion rights on high court ruling would certainly trigger. If a woman has complete control of her body, she has a constitutional right to become a whore. Down go laws prohibiting prostitution. She could march down Main Street completely nude, and in control of her body. Down go laws against indecent exposure. She can have children out of wedlock sired by casual acquaintance. Down goes the family, the sanctity of marriage, the home, and responsibility for child care, and the cherished institution of motherhood as we knew it until recent times.

● If you don't know that the term "motherfucker" is now an acceptable part of the English vocabulary, try visiting any of the three bars in Carrizozo. You will find the bars' patrons can hardly concoct a sentence without that blasphemous term that amply reflects contempt for the institution of motherhood.

● Today we are venerating and sanctifying the most despicable and universally condemned practice of sodomy. Homosexuals, next to the National Organization of Women, is probably the most politically powerful group in America. Homosexuals get what they want—special privileges, wide attention, political power—and respect. It takes a sick society to recognize and approve the ultimate in sex perversion, and to equate sodomists to equality with normal people—and with special privileges the rest of us don't enjoy. What is so fascinating about anal intercourse that we should elasp its practitioners to our collective hearts, encourage their lifestyle, and grant them special social status and special laws to help them perpetuate their sinful, filthy and degenerate sex life? If I refuse to associate with or to employ a homosexual, I may be prosecuted for discrimination and refusal to recognize their right to privacy. But what about my individual right to associate with whom I please, to employ people of my own choosing, to discharge an employee condemned by a moral society, to shed myself of an obnoxious moral degenerate the sight of whom is spiritually and physically sickening? Are sex

Inside The Capitol

By Jay Miller

SANTA FE—When the federal government "temporarily" confiscated land for the White Sands Missile Range 47 years ago, it changed a lot of lives.

Ranchers had been working the area for generations. When they were told to move, the expectations was that they would be back as soon as World War II ended and the land was no longer necessary for bombing practice. But by the end of the war, U.S. forces had captured many German scientists and the V-2 rockets they were developing. The White Sands Missile Range seemed the perfect place to transform into a missile range.

A missile range required not only an extension of the land "withdrawal," but a great expansion of that withdrawal. More ranchers had to be kicked out of house, home and business. The government wizards should have known at the time that America's missile program was not going to be short-lived. But the same mentality that caused them to label as "temporary" the military barracks that housed personnel and offices for many more years, made them think that the need for the ranchers' property would end "next year."

At least the government put a limit on how long "next year" could last. Ranchers were told they would have their land back by 1970 at the latest. Twenty years later, when 1970 rolled around, WSMR was a going enterprise with no sign of ever begin closed down but the government bureaucracy continued to string the ranchers along. This time it was on a year-to-year basis not to exceed 10 years. At the same time, notification was served that the payments that had been made to "lease" the ranch units would be considerably reduced.

That was the last straw. The ranchers united and filed a lawsuit. But the court accepted the federal government's argument that the land in question had been public all along and was merely being leased to the ranchers. To no avail, the ranchers countered that the government had broken the leases, taken away their businesses and their way of life and strung them along in a manner that did not allow them to buy other ranches.

Eda Baird of Los Ojos is the widow of one of those ranchers. She says she and her husband "were told to leave our headquarters of the DTZ Livestock Co. in 48 hours by an M.R. with pistols on his hips in March of 1950. Because we had no place to put our cattle and horses and because we could not buy another ranch with the paltry Army lease payments, we lost money."

The Bairds moved to Las Cruces where Jim had to start a new business and Eda went back to teaching. One day she told her story to the editor of the local paper and asked him to publish her views. She quotes him as saying, "I would not dare to take a stand against the Army take-over because you are only a few ranchers and the government money generated for Las Cruces at White Sands is good, so why should I bite the hand that feeds me?"

For nearly 40 years the ranchers felt the government had successfully robbed them of any supporters until Rep. Joe Skeen, R-NM and Sen. Pete Domenici, R-NM said, "If this isn't illegal, it should be." The two met with the ranchers months ago and promised to introduce legislation to partially compensate the ranchers for the disruption of their lives with absolutely no due process.

As with most government action, the wheels are moving slowly. There have been disagreements among government agencies about how to structure the compensation program. The bill introduction planned for June is now hoped for in September.

But after waiting 40 years, what's a few more months? *

The WSMR takeover also stopped the fabled hunt for gold at Victorio Peak. Rep. Skeen has now put the adventure back on track. He has successfully amended the Defense Authorization Act to permit WSMR to allow the treasure seekers onto the range and to collect direct payments from them for the costs involved. The act should pass by the Oct. 1 end of the federal fiscal year and provide New Mexicans with exciting treasure hunt stories for the next year.

Traditional cowboy songs are on historical society agenda

The Lincoln County Historical Society will present a performance of traditional cowboy songs by the Lincoln Balladeers on Sunday, July 20, 3 p.m., on the lawn at Dr. Wood's House Museum in Lincoln.

This event is part of the historical society's summer series of Sunday afternoon musicales at Dr. Wood's house, headquarters of the historical society, presenting music from the days of the century. The Lincoln Balladeers, composed of David and Charlotte Lee, Agatha Long and Ann Bullington, perform programs of traditional music along with historical slide- lights on the background of the songs. The music at Sunday's program will focus on early cowboy songs that would have been heard in Lincoln County in territorial days.

Tickets are required for admission to the Wood's House, but admission is free to the outdoor musical.

perverts the only people, aside from flag burners and abortionists, entitled to constitutionally protected right to privacy? Why must I, by law, support such a lifestyle while homosexuals lobby legislatures to try to destroy or negate a Christian lifestyle? Why has all the political pressure silenced the church on the evils of homosexuality; or, equally immoral, remain silent on a question that is condemned by God Himself?

● No animal I know of engages in such degeneracy, only human beings. Animals do not abandon offspring to die in the streets. They protect and nurture their young. They observe inherent codes of conduct toward one another. They do not practice sodomy. Motherhood and offspring are protected. They do not kill within their family or tribe. They do not practice abortion. They teach their offspring how to cope with existence. Some species mate for life. They provide food, shelter and protection for their families. They groom themselves regularly. So, should someone call you an animal, be proud. Should you call an animal a human being, be careful!

dents, I feel uncomfortable not being able to make those decisions as a superintendent." Burnett said.

Brenda Monreal told the board, "We are here for our kids. Teachers have to be happy or the students won't benefit."

Teacher Wini Wilmore told the board, "It would upset me to change my teaching field."

No immediate decision was made when the board moved on to other business.

John Paul Ventura was hired as assistant football coach for the 1989-90 school year. Gerald Montes and Mike Schwartz will also help with the football program.

Patricia Holland was hired as kindergarten teacher for the 1989-90 school year.

In addition to accepting Nickless' resignation from Chapter I, the board accepted the resignation of Patricia Coulter as special ed teacher, special ed coordinator, and diagnostician.

Burnett said special ed teacher Gretchen Becker could fill the special ed coordinator position and the diagnostician duties would probably have to be a purchased item similar to speech therapy.

The school will actively pursue filling the positions vacated. Ads will be placed in local newspapers and in Albuquerque for the special ed position.

Burnett presented section 500 of the Carrizozo School Board policy for board members to review. Further discussion and acceptance of the section will continue at the next meeting.

Burnett explained the corporal punishment policy for the school to the board. He said each student would take a form home for parents to sign to agree to corporal punishment or not.

If a parent elects to veto corporal punishment the parent will be asked to confer with the school about using a discipline that will change the behavior of the child, if necessary.

Board members discussed purchasing a new activity bus. Burnett said the budget does not have enough money at this time but may later in the year. Before a decision is made about buying a new activity bus, Burnett will ask bus vendors to bring a bus to Carrizozo for viewing. At that time board members will have the opportunity to ride in each of the buses considered.

The 1989-90 budget will have $21,062.57 more than planned because of a cash carryover. The money will be placed in the equipment line item and may not be used for recurring expenses such as salaries and utility costs.

Burnett announced the school is negotiating for an overlay on D Street in front of the school and the parking lots adjacent to the street. Projects costing less than $5,000 are not required to be placed out for bid.

ACCUSED KILLER

A crooked cop of Albuquerque in the early 1800s was mentioned in this column last week. Then I packed the family's bags and we headed for the Duke City for a few days of fun and relaxation.

The newspaper headlines there put a damper of sorts on the relaxation when I learned that an Albuquerque police officer had been charged with murder and five bank robberies.

Matthew James Griffin, with the Albuquerque Police Department for four years, joined APD after 10 months as a rookie with the Espanola State Police.

Well, there went my opinion that crooked cops, elected or selected, are a thing of the past.

ANIMALS FOR FREE

A visit to Albuquerque's zoo was not on the agenda this time, besides I heard that the entrance fee for a family of five could pay for a meal for mom and dad at a good sit-down restaurant like Yester-Dave's.

Albuquerque city officials recently halted all free admission days at the zoo. My favorite political columnist Chuck Mittlestadt says: "Guess they figured if the public wants to see the animals for free, all they have to do is attend a city council meeting."

So that evening I watched the 10 o'clock ABC news on Channel 7 to hear if they had any noise (news) from city hall.

NEWS ALL-STAR

I saw Sam Donaldson of the distinctive eyebrows and newsmen for ABC in person right here in Carrizozo at Lincoln County News.

But more distinctive is his performance as a newsmen and his recognition as one of several news all-stars for 1988. His beat: the White House.

"The 1988-89 TV news season had as many roster changes as the NFL," says an article in TV Guide. "At ABC, all-pro linebacker Sam Donaldson left the White House after 12 years of sacking presidents."

This news fan is looking forward to a show in August on ABC-TV hosted by Donaldson and Diane Sawyer.

HARDY EXPLORERS

While in Albuquerque members of this household toured the Albuquerque museum, established as a department of the city in 1967. "Four Centuries: A History of Albuquerque" included early Spanish maps of a vast, once unknown land, heavy armor used by the conquistadores, religious artifacts, the 17th century family tapestry of the Duke of Albuquerque, Civil War artifacts and much more. Through various exhibits we followed the hardships of early settlers, the opening of trade routes to Mexico and the US and the establishment of the first US military post in Albuquerque.

SLEEPING DICTIONARY

Marc Simmons, my favorite historian in his Defensor Chieftain column, writes about Frank Moore and his recognition of early days in the New Mexico Territory. In 1900 clients were scared for Moore in Kansas City where he was trying to get started as a lawyer, so he accepted a job in an Albuquerque grocery store.

Moore discovered that he must learn Spanish if he was to wait on customers in the store. One fellow clerk advised him to find a "sleeping dictionary," (that is, marry a Hispanic girl who could teach him the language.)

Simmons says that Moore in his recollections notes Hispanic customs. In giving an example of the Spanish-American custom that the father is master and his word is law, Moore mentions his conversation with the grown son of Albert J. Fountain who had married a Spanish woman and followed in her customs. Fountain in 1896 made a fatal trip from Las Cruces to Lincoln during which time he is believed to have been murdered. His eldest son had wanted to go along but Fountain would not permit it. (Another son disappeared along with the father.)

"My papa commanded me, don't go, and of course I had to obey my papa," Moore quotes the son.

EL CHIVO

I passed through Lincoln Sunday on my way to Chaves County, home of cattleman John Chisum, who had a role behind the scenes of the Lincoln County War.

Lincoln County was host to local Billy the Kid buffs as well as those from Taiban, NM this weekend. Money changed hands in this county as the visit kicked-off the Billy the Kid-Pat Garrett Historical Days celebration. Ruidoso, Alto and Lincoln were made a wee bit richer thanks to Henry McCarty, also known as Kid Antrim, William H. Bonney, El Chivo or Billy the Kid.

Over heard at the grocery store: "Carrizozo's economy could have a boost if we had one good early days hero, famous or infamous."

SOPHISTICATED YUK

What's the difference between Dan Quayle and Jane Fonda? Jane Fonda actually went to Vietnam.

According to USA Weekend magazine this type of joke is classified as sophisticated. These jokes require knowledge of current events, political point of view and interest in psychology.

Crown CowBelles pursue summer activity agenda

Crown CowBelles met recently at the ranch home of Elaine and Walter Steele.

Guests were Loretta Proctor's daughter, Alma Hobbs, Sandra Alford who drove for member, Pat Davidson and Louise Corgeis who lives in California but maintains a summer interest in Corona, and in CowBelles.

Beef for Father's Day winners at the Corona Trading Company were Antonele Gonzales, Danny Lieras and Larry Riley.

The Crown CowBelles annual dance will be held in the Corona school gym on Saturday, Nov. 23. A band and a fiddler will be engaged for the event. Two local area bands were mentioned.

Crown will have booths at the Corona Day Festival on Aug. 12 and the Lincoln County Fair Aug. 15-19, beef information and recipes, Operation Respect literature and the usual CowBelle items will be available.

The first quilt is up and Loretta Proctor and members are quilting as they have time. The second quilt will be done when this one is finished. One quilt is for the lucky ticket holder at the Lincoln County Fair drawing on Aug. 19 and the other for the CowBelle who sells the most donations for tickets. Tickets are $1 each or six for $5 and are available from Crown members.

The group voted to give state FFA officer Clay Post from Corona $100 for travel expense assistance. Corona has had a number of state officers in FFA.

Crown will not meet in August because of all the quilting, Corona Day and Fair activities.

CowBelles plan for Fair booth

The Canyon CowBelles met July 12 and made plans for a booth at the Lincoln County Fair, Aug. 15-19 in Capitan.

Cinnamon rolls, coffee and iced tea will be sold.

During the meeting at the home of Irene Barham with co-hostess Jan Barham, it was reported the Lincoln County Ranch Tour held in June was a success. The CowBelles wish to thank everyone for their help and especially those attending the tour.

Anne Ferguson, Jane Shafer and Rosemary Shafer attended the New Mexico CowBelle mid-year meeting in Angel Fire, July 7-8, and reported on activities included with the meeting.

The Aug. 2 meeting will be held at the home of Kathleen McDaniel.

Saving for child's education is necessary

If your child is still in diapers, you probably think that you have all the time in the world to start building college funds. Think again. The Department of Education expects the average cost for attending a four-year private college to soar to almost $200,000 in the next 18 years. The cost at a public college may be nearly $60,000.

To afford such exorbitant expenses, the New Mexico Society of CPAs suggests that parents begin saving for their child's college education as soon as possible. By starting early, following sound tax strategies, and choosing smart investments, you should be able to build an adequate college fund.

TIMES ON YOUR SIDE

The more years you have to save, the less you need to save each year. For example, you can build a $100,000-nest egg in 15 years by investing $289 a month in an account earning eight percent interest. But if you reduce your saving period by just five years, you will have to invest $547 a month at the same rate to yield the same $100,000.

Another advantage of early planning is that you can afford to take greater investment risks—which traditionally pay off in substantially higher interest rates.

education expenses. To qualify for the interest exclusion, the bonds must be issued after December 31, 1989, and you must be at least 24 years old at the time of the purchase. Be aware that the exemption is available only if the bondholder pays qualified higher education expenses in the same year that the bonds are redeemed. If the amount redeemed exceeds the year's qualified educational costs, the amount of tax-free interest will be reduced proportionately. One last point: the break is phased out for joint filers with an adjusted gross income (AGI) of $60,000 to $90,000 and for single filers with AGI of $40,000 to $55,000.

ZEROS CAN ADD UP

Another type of bond to consider is the "zero coupon" bond, which is offered at a price substantially lower than its face value. What makes these bonds a good investment is their high rate of return when they mature. Note that while these bonds pay no interest to the holder, the investor is nevertheless taxed as if interest were paid out annually. For this reason, you may prefer zero-coupon municipal bonds. The interest is exempt from federal taxes, and also from state and local taxes if you buy bonds issued by the state in which you live. Certain municipal bond funds can also offer triple tax-free returns.

TAKE-A STOCK IN GROWTH STOCKS

If you are an adventurous investor with a child under age 14, consider purchasing nondividend-paying growth stocks in your child's name. Remember, as long as the stocks are sold after your child turns 14, the gain will be taxed at your child's lower rate rather than yours.

Growth mutual funds typically provide larger gains over a long period of time. But, beware that any stock-market investment involves risk. You could lose all or a portion of your money with stocks. And the sooner you need to use the funds, the greater the risk is that you may have to sell them at a loss.

Finally, you should carefully consider some of the new techniques for financing a college education. For instance, some states and private colleges now offer tuition prepayment plans. The plans, available to parents with children up to age 17, allow you to prepay four years tuition for your child at a substantial discount. The college will invest the money during the years that the child is not attending. You won't have to deal with inflation or the investment risk.

The obvious disadvantage to prepaid tuition plans is that your child may not want to attend the college you choose, or worse, might not be admitted. If so, in most cases you will get your money back, but not any of the interest. Some schools may allow you to transfer the money to another school, as long as the child attends the college you picked for at least his or her freshman year. Other colleges are joining together and allowing prepaid tuition to apply to several schools.

CPAs point out one other serious drawback to prepaid tuition plans. The IRS has ruled that the prepayment represents a gift to a trust, but does not qualify for the $10,000 annual gift exclusion. In addition, while you won't pay tax on the fund as it accumulates, the fund will grow at a slower rate. That's because, when your child begins attending college, he or she will have to pay tax on the accumulated fund. The amount of tax will be the amount of gain in the fund.

Burglaries continue in Bonito Lake area

Lincoln County Sheriff James McSwane announced his office received reports of eight burglaries from autos at the Bonito Lake area in a three-hour period of time July 16.

Purses and personal items were stolen. Officers are investigating.

June 13 a brush fire near Bob Hemphill's home in Carrizozo was reported. Carrizozo Volunteer Fire Department and neighbors fought the blaze. There was no damage to structures.

A domestic disturbance was reported in the upper Cedar Creek Canyon area late July 13. At 1:11 a.m., July 14, officers arrested Javier Lara Martinez, 31, of Tularosa, and charged him with aggravated assault with a firearm, and aggravated battery with a firearm. Bond was set at $10,000. Martinez remained in custody in the county jail.

July 14, two burglaries were reported at Bonito Lake and a bear was found in a tree in Capitan. The cub weighed about 125 pounds and stayed in the tree all night before returning to the mountains.

July 15, sheriff deputies and Capitan police were involved in a high speed chase from Capitan to the Flying J Ranch in Alto. Two subjects left the vehicle and were not found. The 1982 Chevrolet El Camino was impounded. Later the vehicle was reported to have been stolen from Roswell.

McSwane said the chase began when the vehicle ran a stop sign. Officers drove speeds up to 100 miles per hour during the chase.

John D. Jones was arrested July 16 at 12:33 a.m. after a domestic disturbance in Alto about midnight, July 15. Jones was charged with aggravated assault and aggravated battery with firearm enhancement. He posted $10,000 bond and was released the same day.

July 17, the department received a report that a 1979 GMC pickup was stolen from the Flying J Ranch sometime between July 13 and 17. Officers are investigating.

July 18, an ambulance was dispatched to an accident with injuries in Socorro County on Highway 54 near mile marker 32. State police investigated.

July 18, a mountain lion was sighted in the Bonito Lake area. Two different reports were that the lion was chasing cattle.

McSwane said his office continues to receive calls about bears.

Fried chicken is a family-get-together food. In fact, researchers have found that more American households fry chicken than any other food. Family recipes for fried chicken vary with region and heritage. In some parts of the South, chicken is dipped in a batter before frying; in other parts they prefer a coating of seasoned flour. Oriental cooks in the East and West season fried chicken with soy sauce, ginger and sesame seed. Americans of Hispanic origin like chicken with stepped-up flavor accomplished by marinating the chicken in lime juice, oil, garlic and oregano. The result is juicy, flavorful chicken.
