

'Money laundering' charged

Ruidoso businessmen linked to drug bust in Los Angeles

Lincoln County and Ruidoso made national news last Thursday after officers of the Drug Enforcement Agency, FBI, Internal Revenue Service, Border Patrol and local law enforcement agencies raided businesses and homes as part of an ongoing investigation of the largest cocaine seizure in history.

According to Associated Press and other media reports, the large Glencoe home and business of George F. Lore, 48, and the Ruidoso home and business of Jose Manny Vasquez were raided for information concerning a cocaine smuggling ring which was broken in Los Angeles, CA last month. While agents were searching Lore's Glencoe home and business, Ruidoso Building Corp., Lore was being arrested by special forces of the Mexican Federal Judicial Police at a mansion on San Estaban Island in the Gulf of California, media reports stated. Lore, who is one of the board of directors of The Bank of Ruidoso, is wanted for questioning by DEA about his involvement with the drug cartel alleged to have smuggled at least 60 tons of cocaine and $80 million in cash through a Los Angeles suburban warehouse. Vasquez's business, the Ruidoso Downs Phillips 66, and home on Hull Road in Ruidoso, were searched but nothing was found. Vasquez, whose family reportedly live in Ruidoso, has not been found, but DEA is still searching. He is wanted in California on charges of conspiracy to distribute cocaine. Late September DEA agents seized 16 tons of the white powder and $12 million in cash in a warehouse in the LA suburb of Sylmar.

Two El Paso, TX men, Carlos Tapia Ponce and his son Hector Tapia Anchondo, were arrested in Las Vegas, NV shortly afterwards in connection with the alleged drug ring. Disclosures made during the bail hearing for the men in LA led investigators to Ruidoso, where the manager of the warehouse, James McTague, owns property

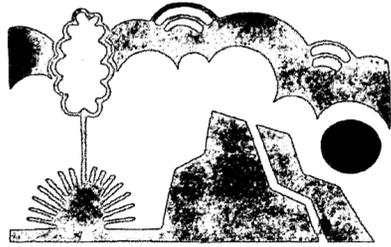

Associated Press stated McTague also gave information about the operation of the drug ring after he was arrested on Sept. 29 in Los Angeles.

Abandonment of a 1989 Jaguar car at a routine Border Patrol stop between Las Cruces and Lordsburg on Oct. 3 further led investigators to Ruidoso. The owner of the car is Vasquez, who was living in the Ruidoso home owned by McTague.

Lincoln County Sheriff's Department deputies and drug dog assisted the federal officers who seized documents during the searches. Sheriff James McSwane said a weapon, which later was found to be stolen, also was found — in one of Lore's vehicles.

Lore, Anchondo and McTague allegedly purchased numerous properties in Ruidoso to launder drug money, said DEA agent in Albuquerque Tom Smith. Federal agents also requested property information from the county assessors' office, media reports claimed.

DEA is continuing the investigation in the Ruidoso area, with numerous warrants expected to be served in New Mexico, Smith said.

$17.5 million in compensation

Skeen, Domenici offer relief bill for White Sands ranchers

WASHINGTON, DC—Congressman Joe Skeen, R-NM, and Senator Pete Domenici, R-NM, have introduced legislation in both Houses of Congress that will provide for $17.5 million in compensation to ranchers who were displaced from their property on what is now White Sands Missile Range (WSMR).

This legislation would establish a 7-member commission, to be named by the Secretary of Interior, to evaluate claims submitted by the ranchers who were forced off their property more than 40 years ago.

"The ranchers and miners affected by this legislation are just a few of the many patriotic individuals who made great sacrifices for this country," Skeen said.

"Since White Sands Missile Range was created in the early days of World War II, the federal government has consistently refused to provide adequate compensation to the loyal Americans whose land was taken from them to form WSMR. The act that we are introducing today will provide the ranchers and miners who were displaced from their land with the compensation to which they are entitled," Domenici added.

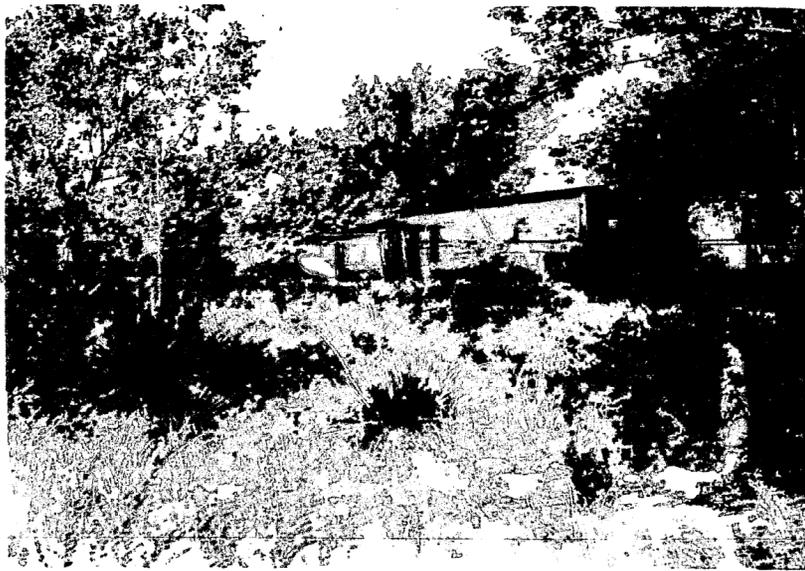

The ranchers voluntarily left their property at the outbreak of World War II, when the government created what is now White Sands Missile Range, in southern New Mexico. The property was used by the government as a bombing range and ultimately, to develop and detonate the atomic bomb, both New Mexico lawmakers noted. The ranchers were allowed to return to their property briefly after the war, but were later asked to leave when the Army permanently created the White Sands Missile Range.

Upon passage of the legislation, the Secretary of Interior would accept nominations to the commission from the Governor of New Mexico and members of the New Mexico Congressional Delegation. New Mexicans with a special knowledge of agriculture economics or the history of the establishment of White Sands Missile Range will be given special consideration, according to the Skeen/Domenici legislation.

In evaluating the claims submitted by the owners, the commission will determine the value of the property in 1975 when the US Government permanently took the lands comprising WSMR. Those figures will be based on established precedents for the value of similar real

Shop Rite gets a new 'face lift'

When shoppers enter the Carrizozo Shop Rite this week they will be in for a few surprises.

The building, which has been a dance hall, skating rink and has even resounded with the basketballs of the Harlem Globetrotters, is undergoing major interior changes to make the smallest store in the Furr's chain brighter, more organized and what manager Steve Brooks calls a "new Shop Rite."

Today, the store will have a grand opening and will feature special prices in every department, Brooks said.

Other changes include a refinished floor and freshly painted walls. Items which once were located in the front are now shelved with similar items.

In the space left by the reorganization, Brooks plans to install a soda fountain and microwave for sandwiches which the store also will carry.

From the front doors, shoppers have an open view of the entire store, with the upper level shelves removed from the check-out area to accommodate this.

Seasonable items such as firewood will be featured in the front area also.

Shop Rite will continue to carry Food Club and Topco labels and a few more private labels as well, Brooks said.

When Brooks came to Shop Rite in February, this year, he considered his first managerial position a challenge. In the eight months since, he has worked toward the store's new look. A look which he hopes will keep shoppers in Carrizozo.

"We are making changes for the better," Brooks said.

Paul Guevara continues as market manager, Vickie Butler is Brooks' second assistant and Beverly Graham is head clerk.

The store is part of the Furr's chain in the Safeway division.

Store hours are 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday.

Carrizozo CC elects new officers, revises bylaws

By Doris Cherry

Dale Goad was elected president of the Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce at regular meeting Tuesday.

Goad will join president-elect Ruth Hammond, recording secretary Cheri Goad, corresponding secretary Janice Christopherson and treasurer Leesa Brooks as officers for 1989-90. All officers were elected unanimously by members present at the meeting. No nominations were made from the floor.

Officers will be installed by former member and officer Vernon Petty at the November meeting.

Phyllis Schlegel, Scott Shafer, Roy Dow and Sean Hill were elected to the board of directors. They will join immediate past president Dorothy Forsythe, president and president-elect as board members.

Major action taken by the group was approval of the revised bylaws. Bylaw committee member Danny Burnett said revisions will update certain portions such as the creation of president-elect which will provide continuity in the leadership and an increase of the board of directors from four to seven which will help in establishing a quorum.

Members present discussed the bylaws and questioned only two articles before approval. Amendments were made on the wording concerning the president being the voice for the chamber and the need for the president to co-sign all checks.

Members argued problems arose about statements made on chamber policies in the past.

"We need one voice and one message from the chamber," Burnett said.

Goad said the word voice was too broad and implied the president could make statements without consent of the chamber body. Because of the arguments members approved a change from voice to representative. Goad said the representation should only occur in non-critical situations.

The other amendment eliminated the need for the president to co-sign all checks. Members said it is difficult to obtain two signatures, so wording was changed to make the president an alternate signer. Wording which would have held the president accountable for the treasury also was dropped.

Members approved donation of $10 to Polly Chavez's art class which plans to decorate businesses at Christmas time. Sponsorship by the chamber also was given to Chavez.

Baby killed, mother injured in crash

An accident south of Carrizozo Saturday resulted in the death of a six-week old Carrizozo infant.

Investigating State Police Officer Jim Long said he was dispatched to the accident about one-half mile south of Carrizozo on Highway 54 at 4 p.m. Saturday.

Long said 26-year-old Cynthia A. Morales of Carrizozo and her six-week old infant Naomi were thrown from her 1986 Ford Ranger III pickup after she was hit from the rear by Michael E. Velasquez, 18, of Santa Rosa. Velasquez was driving a 1959 Chevrolet pickup.

Velasquez told officers he came up on the Morales vehicle and could not slow down because he had no brakes. Long said there were no braking marks (skid marks) on the pavement.

Morales and the baby were thrown from the truck as it overturned two and a half times, Long said.

Morales was taken to Lincoln County Medical Center in Ruidoso by ambulance and was later transferred to Presbyterian Hospital in Albuquerque. She suffered lacerations of the scalp, multiple leg and hip fractures.

The infant was pronounced dead at LCMC.

Velasquez has not been charged, pending further investigation, Long said.

Morales was not wearing a seat belt and the infant was not in a safety restraint.

"Nearly 45 years after Hiroshima and Nagasaki, after rebuilding Japan and Europe, after authorizing the compensation of Japanese-Americans interned in American prisons during World War II, these ranchers and miners are still trying to rebuild their lives and salvage what is left of their future," Skeen commented. "I will continue to fight for the just compensation they deserve."

"Justice delayed is justice denied. The White Sands ranchers and miners have waited too long for their government to pay them what they deserve. Let us provide these men and women with the compensation they are entitled to, and let us do it quickly." Skeen said.

How do you limit these intruders? ANSWER: Curiosity seekers are one of the plagues which the do-it-yourself broker has to contend with. It's not only an inconvenience, but it could be a risk to open the door, day and night, to all who knock. The best solution is to place your home in the hands of a local REALTOR. OPINION

● Columbus is getting a bad shake. He discovered America almost 500 years ago, yet only 75 percent of college students in the United States know the year he landed here. The Gallup Organization did a survey of 696 seniors last spring that produced an indictment of our educational system. The same survey showed that 23 percent thought the phrase, "from each according to his ability, to each according to his need," appears in the US Constitution. It was written by Karl Marx, father of communism. Forty-two percent didn't even know when the Civil War began. Two-thirds of the college seniors thought Lincoln's Gettysburg Address came from the US Constitution. There's more, but this is enough to raise questions about spending up to $20,000 a year for a college education when 50 years ago one couldn't have gotten through the 8th grade without knowing those answers.

● Columbus is also taking a beating in Arizona. This is the last year Arizona will observe Columbus Day. The state legislature has abolished Columbus Day to make room for Martin Luther King Jr. Day. It all began when Bruce Babbitt was governor, and was tooling up to run for president. As a sop to black voters he issued an executive order establishing Martin Luther King holiday. Since under the Arizona Constitution a state holiday can only be established by the legislature, Babbitt's action was invalid. Incoming Gov. Evan Mecham cancelled the King holiday as invalid, and called upon the people of Arizona to determine if the black leader was to be honored with a holiday. Mecham was labeled a racist and a bigot for his action, and was impeached and thrown out of office. If Mecham's action was racist and bigoted, put me down as a racist and a bigot, too.

● Jay Miller, who covers New Mexico politics for us in his Inside the Capitol column every week, tells us of the case of former Albuquerque Mayor David Rusk. Miller says Rusk stood a good chance of being re-elected, a rare thing for an Albuquerque mayor, "were it not for his idealism." In his campaign for re-election, Rusk refused to have the city cut weeds on its property, including medians. "His point was that the city had many needs that were more pressing and lacked the revenues to pay for them. Voters disagreed. They wanted their city to look good." So they defeated him for re-election. The Mayor of Carrizozo may get some of the same treatment, should he decide to run again, and for the same reason that defeated David Rusk. The only difference is that Carrizozo has the money to cut the weeds because it raised taxes for the sole purpose of maintaining alleys and streets, and has failed to do so.

● A few weeks ago a gentledady called to differ with me on my declaration of war on organized labor unions. She recited all the good things unions have done, and said she was proud of her husband's affiliation with a union. Now I am being bombarded with television ads that sell the slogan "Union Proud." I wonder if the lady, and sponsors of those ads, are proud of what is happening at a Boise Cascade papermill in International Falls, MN. Last July union members went on strike at Boise Cascade when the firm hired non-union construction contractor to build a $535 million expansion project at the mill. Union members pelted security guards with rocks. They burned temporary housing used by non-union workers, overturned cars, started an arson fire that did $250,000 damage to the mill, and destroyed 60 percent of a cafeteria and housing designed for about 1,000 people. The governor called out the National Guard to stem terrorist attacks on workers and property. More than 30 union members were arrested and charged with criminal damage to property and contempt of court. Many people were injured. Union Proud? Is the lady complainant proud of this, and other union atrocities? Why do we permit union terrorists to operate while condemning terrorism by anybody else? Organized labor is the backbone of the Democratic Party. This brings to mind a quote from Leon Trotsky's book, Communism and Syndicalism: "Facts show that politically independent trade unions do not exist anywhere. There have never been any. Experience and theory say that there never will be any." Politics, and politics alone, are responsible for union terrorists who operate outside the law.

● People who think golf is just a boring game need to know about Mathew B'Yos, a citizen of the African country of Benin, who was recently fined for destroying the country's air force. B'Yos is not a terrorist. He is an avid golfer. It all happened when B'Yos teed off just as Benin's four-place air force made a low-level flight over the golf course. B'Yos's ball crashed through the cockpit of one plane, sending it crashing into the other three. All four planes, the total air force of Benin, were destroyed.

Inside The Capitol

By Jay Miller

SANTA FE—Gov. Garrey Carruthers has been noticed by the national press as a result of Pres. George Bush's Education Summit held in Charlottesville, VA a week ago.

By the end of the summit, Carruthers was being interviewed by reporters from major newspapers and networks, who barely recognized his name two days earlier.

There were governors who received more mention in the press, most notably Gov. Bill Clinton of Arkansas. But those governors were Democrats. Carruthers is a Republican. His good showing led to speculation among the press that he might just be the next US secretary of education.

The national press is keenly aware that Lauro Cavazos, the current education secretary, has not found favor with the Bush administration. Top White House Republicans would like to see an education chief who is less reserved. Cavazos is not a live-wire advocate for the president's programs and he is uncomfortable helping out in campaigns for Republican candidates. He came from academia and would like to return.

Bush is not likely to replace Cavazos with a Democrat. That puts the Bill Clinton's out of the running. Carruthers has the enthusiasm Bush would like to promote his positions on education. Besides, our governor is comfortable talking about education because "he are one," having served on the faculty of New Mexico State University for many years.

Carruthers' position as chairman of the Education Commission of the States puts him in good position to be a national spokesman on education issues for nearly another year. He has powerful contacts at the White House because of his early support of Bush, his contacts from working at the Interior Department in the Reagan years and from having been a White House Fellow in the Nixon years.

You might recall that nearly everything you have read in this column as far as was already reported in a column over a month ago. The difference is that now the big boys have noticed.

The timetable spelled out by some speculates that Carruthers cannot leave until because that would trigger a special election for the governor. Carruthers will have to get around for a while before he can implement some of the changes that he has promised.

convenient.

Carruthers went to the summit with two proposals in hand. One was to get the federal government to assume the medical costs now borne by the states for welfare children. The other Carruthers' idea was to loosen the restrictions on federal education money.

Along with Gov. Clinton, Carruthers led a "breakout session" that considered these two controversial subjects. Bush chose to attend that session first. He sat down next to Carruthers and listened intently to the opening remarks our governor was in the process of making when the president arrived. Carruthers and Bush also sat together on the platform at the final session and engaged in some mutual admiration, praising each other's speeches.

Carruthers' two proposals were adopted with enthusiasm by the other governors. Bush was a bit more constrained about his acceptance of the major changes but did agree to a joint statement with the governors approving the concepts.

What next? Bush has appointed a task force to work on these ideas along with the development of national performance goals and accountability systems for carrying them out. Carruthers has been appointed to the task force.

Besides our governor's chairmanship of the Education Commission of the States, he also serves on the education committee of the National Governors' Association. He is using those two forums to make major statements about what he thinks should happen next to improve American education.

Look to be hearing a lot from Carruthers about "a new wind blowing in education." Look for him to be talking constantly about "empowering" people. He wants to empower parents with a choice of schools for their children. He will talk about empowering teachers with control of their classrooms. And he will talk about empowering students with good health and nutrition so they can come to school ready to learn.

And, who knows? Maybe all this stumping for Pres. Bush's education plans will eventually lead to empowering Carruthers with the nation's top position in education.

Hall says state now gaining economically

"New Mexico is gaining ground economically," began State Representative Ben Hall (R-55) as he addressed area Republicans Monday.

He cited examples of a growing tourism market in California, New Mexico's lowest unemployment rate in 10 years, and the success of the "workers' program."

Hall is one of three state representatives in Lincoln County. His district includes Ruidoso and part of Artesia.

Following his talk, he responded to questions from the audience. Reapportionment, gerrymandering, the video gambling bill and Ruidoso's extrajurisdictional zoning efforts dominated much discussion.

Hall was the featured speaker at that Monday, an informal monthly gathering of area Republicans who meet the first Monday of every month for a breakfast meeting at various restaurants in the county.

After the breakfast meeting, Hall and other representatives discussed the possibility of a new county seat in the area.

Noema Page, president of Federated Republican Women of Lincoln County, displayed items offered for a group fundraiser. FRWLC and the county party will co-sponsor a float at Ruidoso's Aspenfest parade Saturday. "We'll hand out miniature flags to children along the parade route," she said. "Out

Poland cons the West

EDITOR—Recent events in Poland created a flood of headlines and TV coverage telling Americans that the communist world is crumbling.

The facts do not support the headlines. A non-communist leader from Solidarity has been named prime minister, but communists continue to retain effective control.

Solidarity has been awarded the post of prime minister, but a communist loyal to Moscow will be minister of defense and another the police, and the secret police. In addition, communists will continue to lead local governments and the courts.

All communist nations are economically strapped and always have been. They simply have to get help from the West. If allowing a virtually powerless non-communist to be prime minister leads to an influx of aid, why wouldn't the Polish communists appoint one? And why wouldn't their communist bosses in the Kremlin allow them to do so?

The reality of these events in Poland is that communists retain power while they have awarded Solidarity the job of improving the financial condition of the government. No communist is ever going to give control of any country voluntarily, and this has not happened in Poland.

The real message that Americans must become aware of is that "Poland remains in communist hands and the United States should not finance their totalitarian rule. Helping the Polish government does not help the Polish people, and never has. It helps the communists."

Speaker says US has poor voting record

Special interest groups, voter registration and voter apathy were among topics presented by Barbara Goedecke of the New Mexico League of Women Voters Tuesday as she addressed Federated Republican Women of Lincoln County at their monthly meeting at K-Rob's Restaurant in Ruidoso.

"The US has a poor voting record compared to other countries," she noted. "However, those with 70 percent voter turnout or better have either compulsory registration or a multi-party system. Also, they are Eastern Bloc countries."

She then led FRWLC members in a discussion of barriers to registration and dealing with voter apathy. "The League is a non-partisan group interested in increasing voter participation," she said.

During the business meeting preceding Goedecke's program, FRWLC president Noema Page announced local delegates to the New Mexico FRW convention to be held in Las Cruces in November. Page, Yvonne Landelli, Pat Hume, Lois Aldrich, Jackie Rawlins, Shirley Goolioe, Emadair Jones, and Janice Ware. Alternates are Lucie Montes, Alice Allison, Rebecca Wardlaw and Martha Proctor.

At the convention, the club's newsletter and scrapbook will be entered in a statewide contest.

Members also finalized plans for their Aspenfest float. Elected Republican officials will be invited to ride on it and FRWLC members will distribute flags to children along the parade route.

Single mother birth rate high in state

Provisional data released by the Vital Statistics Section of the Health and Environment Department for the first six months of 1989 shows New Mexico far ahead of the nation in rates of children born to single mothers.

Of all birth certificates processed from January to June of 1989, 34.2 percent were of children born to single New Mexico mothers, while the latest national comparison figures available (1987) shown only 24.5 percent of children born nationwide are to unmarried women.

MOM KNEW BEST

Prime Time Live co-host Sam Donaldson in a Roswell Daily Record supplement gave readers advice on speaking out. Your view is as good as anyone's; even pros get tongue-tied; ask short, precise questions; in conflicts, convince yourself you're right.

Donaldson says in the article that as a child in El Paso, he was very talkative. Never had a problem talking to people or speaking in public. His mother encouraged him to speak in public, to learn dramatic readings and then sent him to a speech teacher or dramatic coach. He was in school plays, delivered monologues in grade school auditoriums.

Sam Donaldson III says his father gets upset with rude people. "He blows off steam loudly but doesn't personalize it. He yells to the gods."

Tagged "Human Bull-

horn," Dad Donaldson, age 53, was newadog for the White House for 12 years.

SCRAPS AT WORK

Last Friday evening I was in Cloudcroft for a football game. It was nippy. Sitting on the Carrizozo side, I wasn't the only fan bundled up in a scrap cloth quilt. I could see that there are many homesewers who can't bear to throw away any scrap of cloth larger than four inches square.

My New Mexico State University newsletter from the cooperative extension service includes these suggestions for using leftover polyester double knit:

Firm double knits are good for making stuffed animals. It is sturdier and easier to sew than fake fur. Dragons and exotic birds should be fun to sew.

Try making bibs for babies. Polyester is not very absorbent, it will protect garments from spills and drips. Team with terry cloth, which will absorb liquids. The polyester will protect from soak-through if used as liner for the bib.

Polyester scraps can be pieced into a lap robe, coverlet or quilt. Try a crazy quilt design stitched together with decorative stitches in a variety of colored threads. Add batting, backing and bind the edges. Then, tie the quilt using yarn.

Use long pieces to make "draft dodgers" to place in front of doors and windows this winter. Cut rectangles, fold in half lengthwise and sew down one side and across one end. Sew again about one-eighth from the first row of stitching. Turn right side out and fill with sand. Not too full. Then, close the open end with hand stitches or by machine.

PACK RAT ALERT

Carrizozo school art students will be exploring the use of odds and ends to create art with materials outside the traditional approach to art.

Now is the time for all good pack rats to come to aid of budding craft artists. Go through your closets, boxes, cabinets and weed out your loot. Your spouse will love you. Pack items in boxes, paper sacks and plastic bags and donate them to the art department, where they will find a new home.

The following items may be transformed into works of arts or help in some creative way: baby food jars, yarn, buttons, quilt batting, pine cones, assorted small boxes, perfume bottles, lace, ribbons, beads, cloth scraps, fake fur, all-occasion cards, Reader's Digest, craft books and magazines, sewing needles, empty thread spools and that box of factory plastic bits Aunt Jane gave you to make Christmas tree ornaments back in '82.

HELPING HAND

While freezing produce from their garden the woman cleaned, blanched, and cooled the vegetables, while the man jarred and labeled them.

Sometime later the woman went to the freezer and was surprised to see the packages marked "Trees."

"Why did you write that?" she asked.

"I couldn't spell broccoli," he confessed.—The National Future Farmer, Brian Fulford, Melrose, NM.

lary. She also was charged with larceny of $250 to $2,500, which was dismissed. Judge Parsons deferred her sentence and placed her on probation.

Parsons ordered a presentence report after a bench trial for Leland Second, 22, of Mesalero. Second was found guilty of a charge of auto burglary and larceny under $100 and conspiracy to commit auto burglary.

Opinion . . .

Lincoln County property owners who are upset by a new zoning ordinance that dictates how owners' property will be managed in the future should take some inspiration from John Pittman. When officials in Carmel, Indiana, ruled that Pittman couldn't put an office building on land that he owned because the officials decided there were already enough office buildings, and they didn't want another. So Pittman turned his land into a hog farm. And, according to Reason magazine, "all the occupants in the nearby office buildings can enjoy the, uh, aroma of farm life without ever leaving the city." This "get-even" procedure is especially recommended in view of provisions of the county ordinance that regulates the number of parking spaces one may have at his home or business, how many people can live in one house, and how much space can be allocated to front yard, side yard and back yard, among other breaches of a person's right to use his property as he sees fit. Perhaps we can persuade John Pittman to bring his entrepreneurship tactics to Lincoln County.

UHSCD elects officers, reports on Project Soil

Supervisors and members of the Upper Hondo Soil and Water Conservation District (UHSCD) voted for officers, a supervisor, and learned that Sam Donaldson signed a contract to become a cooperater at their annual meeting in Capitan Thursday.

Donaldson, an ABC television news anchorman and show host, recently purchased a ranch in the Arabela area of Lincoln County. As cooperater of the district, Donaldson will qualify for projects sponsored by UHSCD.

After a count of ballots, Paul Jones continued his position as supervisor. Chairman Shirley Goodloe was re-elected although she tried to decline claiming her busy professional schedule limits the amount of time she can spend for the district. Vice-chairman Clem Weindorf and secretary-treasurer

Ernest McDaniel also were re-elected by acclamation.

Capitan elementary teacher and member Mary Shanks reported on Project Soil, a one-week program designed to teach elementary-age children about the importance of soil and its conservation. Shanks developed a kit of teaching aids such as texture boards in the shapes of "Soilies" which identify various soils. Members praised Shanks for the project which was developed with volunteer help and minimal costs.

Shanks said the project really began as a think session on a snowy day, although she worked on the idea since former chairman Ken Cole suggested it almost three years ago.

The project currently is in the patent process and has attracted attention at state, regional and national levels. Shanks said the project has been used in Capitan and Mesalero classrooms, with great enthusiasm.

"We have a lot of talent in Lincoln County," Goodloe said. Supervisor Weindorf reported on the recent regional meeting in Longmont, CO. He complimented Shanks for her project presentation at the Longmont meeting, which was well received.

The Big Thompson River Irrigation Project and the dwindling number of farm population were two topics of interest at the meeting, Weindorf said.

Jeff Lewis, field representative of the Soil and Conservation Bureau, reported on various types of liability insurance to protect district supervisors, availability of audits, funding for statewide projects and the annual conference scheduled for Nov. 1-3 at Angel Fire. UHSCD board of supervisors includes Jones, John Cooper, Fred Pfingston, Goodloe, Sonny Sanchez and McDaniel.

new officers. Pat Hume, Cherri Goad and Daisy Mechem comprise the committee which will present a slate of officers for election at the next meeting.

Members welcomed new member Beverly Thorp of Nogal Mesa and Joyce May won the door prize. Birthday people Rene Burton and Aileen Lindamood contributed to Girls Ranch.

The November meeting will be at the ranch home of Jane Shafer.

Reserve edges Capitan, 12-7

Reserve and Capitan clashed in Lincoln County Oct. 6 with the Mountaineers coming out on top 12-7.

The half ended with Capitan on Reserve's 3 yard line. The game ended with Capitan threatening on the Reserve 2 yard line.

Reserve took the opening kick off and fumbled on the 2nd play of the game. Weldon Smith recovered the fumble.

It took the Tigers three plays to get their first 1st down of the game. Warren then got 3 yards before Nathan Roybal broke over the middle for 12 yards and the Tigers only touchdown.

There was no further scoring in the first half. Numerous penalties kept the game officials busy. Sean Seay recovered a fumble near the end of the 2nd quarter stopping a Reserve scoring threat.

Capitan began the 2nd half on its own 34 yard line. The key play here gave Reserve the ball on the Tiger one yard line after a bad pass from center, prevented a Tiger punt.

Reserve had no trouble scoring but couldn't add the extra point. It was Capitan 7, Reserve 6 with 9:34 left in the 3rd quarter.

The Tigers began the next series of downs on its own 32 yard line. Heath Huey got 12 yards and a 1st down. Roybal and Huey worked another 1st down. A fumble on 3rd down gave Reserve the football at mid-field.

Several plays later a personal foul penalty against Capitan placed the pigskin just 14 yards from pay dirt for Reserve. Moments later tameers. The extra point try was no good.

With seconds left in the game, Huey completed a pass to Russell on the Reserve 7 yard line. Huey struggled to the 2 yard line and the game ended.

Cloudercroft comes to Capitan Oct. 13 for the Tigers' final home game of the season.

CAPITAN ON offense during 3rd quarter. Number 20 on the right in dark jersey is Victor Delgado. Number 24 is Nathan Roybal. Reserve defeated Capitan 12-7.
