

Decision on Cimmaron site is now in limbo

By Doris Cherry

Testing at the Cimarron Mining and Milling Site in Carrizozo is over and preliminary information indicates there is no eminent health hazard at the site.

Well drillers from the Bureau of Reclamation and environmental engineers from the firm Camp Dresser and McKee, Inc. (CDM) completed their drilling and testing Monday, closed the gate and the first phase of the Remedial Investigation stage of the Environmental Protection Agency Superfund project.

The site was added to the Superfund list based on findings of cyanide which once was used in the gold extraction operation. The Remedial Investigation stage was to determine the extent of pollution created by the mill operation.

Last week, Paul Sieminski, remedial project manager from the EPA Dallas, TX office and Hunter Nolan from CDM of Austin, TX visited the site and talked with United New Mexico Bank president Scott Shafer. According to Shafer, who has been involved with the project since the beginning, Sieminski said he believed there is no eminent health hazard at the Cimmaron site. Sieminski based his statement on preliminary tests which show a thick layer of bedrock between the trickle water flow, which possibly is contaminated, and the flow from which local wells take water.

During the six weeks

CDM was at Cimarron, core tests were made and eight water wells were drilled, said Darren Brown, CDM site manager. Seven of those wells were drilled to about 20 feet. To drill through the thick bedrock Bureau of Reclamation brought in a larger rig, which was capable of tapping into the ground water at 200 feet.

Additionally, tests were taken from 10 private wells surrounding the site, including the golf course, Boyce Orchards, municipal wells and Carrizozo Spring north of the site.

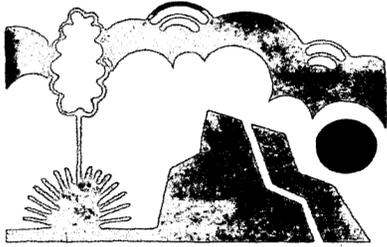

Brown, a geologist, said they were surprised by the bedrock at 20 feet, for they believed they would find soft rock and dirt to the 200-foot level under the mill site. He said Carrizozo sits on the very middle of the basin.

Brown now will return to his Austin office to begin the study and compilation of data returned from the EPA. All water and soil test results from the laboratories are returned to the EPA, which forwards the information to CDM after verification. Brown said.

A feasibility study will be made from compiled data and might be available to the public by February 1990. The study will list contaminants and proposals for removal. Public comment will be taken as the next step in the EPA process.

The well drillers and their rigs which left Carrizozo are on their way to Yuma, AZ to begin another EPA study.

Trustees tackle annexation, water, parking problems

By Bartley McDonough

Annexation, water and parking at the school were among items Capitan trustees dealt with at their Monday night meeting.

After some discussion, the council approved the annexation of property owned by Mr. and Mrs. Jack King and property owned by J. Doyal Roberts. Trustees Renfro, Ray and Pogue voted for annexation. Dr. David Rouleau cast a negative vote.

The planning and zoning board recommended the annexation be denied pointing out that there are 585 lots in the subdivisions within the village limits without water meters. Water will have to be provided when people move in. Dorothy Smith and Dr. Rouleau felt the village must stick to the master plan.

Realtor LaMoyné Carpenter said if "we" had not had annexation 25 years ago, "we" would have a village much like Corona. Carpenter later suggested broadening the tax base. He praised the council and village employees. Carpenter liked the fact that the village budget had increased only 1.2 percent in the last year.

The News has noted that the Village of Capitan has a new computer system, two new police cars, its own water system, new vehicles for the water department and a dump truck for the street department. It is also working on a sewer grant. This prompted Carpenter's comment on the small 1.2 percent increase in the budget.

The council approved an increase in the no-parking zone in front of the elementary school from the present

Sealant to improve some county roads

Lincoln County Road Department will try a sealant which promises to make county roads firmer in wet weather and less dusty in dry.

Lincoln County Commissioners Bob Hemphill and Rick Simpson approved the only bid for the sealant from Nelson Chemical Company of Albuquerque during a telephone conference Thursday morning.

Simpson, who was unable to come to Carrizozo because of his business schedule, listened to the bid price and commented on a speaker phone in the county manager office. County Clerk Martha Proctor and road supervisor Tommy Hall also were present at the conference.

The bid was $45 a gallon for the sealant which Hall said is environmentally safe. The sealant will be used on county road CO47, a school bus route which parallels the railroad tracks near Carrizozo.

Dump-heap of the Week

THIS IS NOT THE jungles of Vietnam, but a ramshackle and deserted shack on Avenue D. The area remains overgrown with weeds and litter in spite of a town ordinance that requires owners of such properties to clear up or face penalties. When these weeds dry, a spark would ignite a fire that could wipe out an entire block.

Enrollment drops; board eyes more taxes, bond election

Carrizozo Schools enrollment did not meet the projected number of 283, the Carrizozo Board of Education learned at its regular meeting Tuesday night.

Carrizozo Superintendent Danny Burnett said enrollment on the 40th day of classes was 273, ten short of the projected figure from which the 1989-90 school budget was derived.

The ten-student loss will translate into a loss of about $36,500 for the schools. Burnett said he plans to cut parts of the school budget to account for the loss.

Carrizozo Schools have lost students steadily in the last few years, from 295 in 1987 to 273 this year.

The board learned of the enrollment loss at the end of a lengthy meeting which included discussion of a proposed 1990 two mil levy and bond election, test scores, resignation of school nurse Jannett Rasco, the presentation of Carrizozo Distinguished Service award to LaRue Wetzel and other business.

Burnett said the current two mil levy will expire at the end of this year. The levy, added to property taxes, must be approved by voters. The three-year tax provides funds for capital outlay, such as building improvements, equipment, supplies, instructional materials and one-time expenditures to improve the physical facilities of the school, Burnett said.

The board hopes to use this year's two mil funds, about $50,000, to purchase an activity bus, which the state department of education will allow this year.

Burnett said other needs will be identified, prioritized and presented to the board before the school election in February 1990.

Two mil levy funds are matched by the state of New Mexico and present the best way for taxpayers to get some of their tax dollars back into the community, Burnett added.

Board president Wally Ferguson said the schools would be in bad shape without the two mil levy because such projects as roof repairs and the new track were funded by the levy.

"It's a life saver for small districts," Ferguson said.

Passage of the two mil levy will not raise taxes, but will continue those in effect now, board member Heck Gibson said.

Because of the critical outlay needs of the district and retirement of an old bond, Burnett also suggested the board consider a bond election in February 1990. He listed school needs such as renovation of the old gym, carpeting, purchase of video equipment, football field lighting and so on, which

Wreck victim is out of intensive care

Carrizozo (Chief of Police Concho Morales reported his daughter Cynthia remains in Albuquerque's Presbyterian Hospital.

She underwent surgery Saturday and will remain in the hospital for another four or five weeks. She is out of intensive care.

Cynthia was severely injured when her truck was rear-ended by 18-year-old Michael Velasquez of Santa Rosa on Oct. 7. Cynthia's infant was killed in the wreck.

No charges have been made against Velasquez as officers are still investigating the accident which occurred south of Carrizozo on Highway 54.

Brooks is leaving Shop Rite

Shop Rite manager Steve Brooks is leaving Carrizozo Friday.

Brooks, who has been manager of the Carrizozo Shop Rite for the eight months, is going to the El Paso, TX. Safety states to receive more training in the retail grocery business.

His wife Loren and family are also moving to El Paso. Brooks expressed his gratitude and good wishes to the people of Carrizozo who welcomed him and his family so well.

While at the Carrizozo Shop Rite, Brooks instigated interior remodeling and other improvements.

"I hope I have served you to the best of my ability," he said about the people of Carrizozo.

"I have enjoyed my stay here and I will always remember Carrizozo and its people," he said.

Purpose of the visit was to gather public opinion and consider a proposal to have a Smokey Bear balloon at the Balloon Fiesta in Albuquerque.

will require 165 gallons of the sealant. The company will deliver the chemical and place it in the county water trucks where it will be diluted one gallon to 1,000 gallons of water. The sealant will be mixed with the road material and compacted in stages to allow the road department to see how it will work.

Hall assured county employees will not handle any of the sealant chemical.

The sealant is used extensively by the New Mexico State Highway Department and municipalities in the county, Hall said.

The timely need to award the bid in order to finish the road project before cold and inclement weather sets in was the reason for the phone conference, said county attorney Bob Beauvais. A phone conference is legal and appropriate in such situations, he added.

Beauvais was not at the conference but commented the day before while in the county manager's office.

US Supreme Court denies appeal of Terry Clark

New Mexico death row inmate Terry Clark, convicted in 1986 for the sex murder of 9-year-old Dena Lynn Gore, lost a US Supreme Court appeal Monday.

According to a report in the Albuquerque Journal, the court turned away arguments that Clark was denied a fair sentencing trial because his lawyer was barred from telling jurors Clark never would be eligible for parole if given a life prison term instead of a death sentence.

The appeal did not challenge Clark's 1986 conviction for kidnapping and killing Dena Lynn. He pleaded guilty to kidnapping the young Artesia girl July 17, 1986, sexually attacking her and then shooting her three times and burying her in a shallow grave.

At the time of the child's death, Clark, 32, was out on bond while appealing a previous conviction for sexually assaulting a 6-year-old Roswell girl in 1984. That conviction had been affirmed by the state court of appeals and was under review by the state supreme court when Dena Lynn disappeared while riding a bike to a store near her home.

Clark's right to bond

while appealing his earlier conviction brought outrage from southeast New Mexico, leading to restrictions on appeal bonds in court rules, state law and the state constitution.

The New Mexico Supreme Court in March upheld the murder conviction and death sentence of Clark in the Gore case. Clark has appealed on a dozen separate grounds, including the denial of his request to withdraw his guilty plea, arguments to the jury about the length of his sentence and the effect of Dena Lynn's mother's testimony during the sentencing hearing.

Clark attempted to have District Judge Stanley Frost sentence him before the end of 1986 so then Gov. Tony Anaya would commute his death sentence with five others on death row at that time. He hoped his sentence would be commuted to life in prison.

Judge Frost refused, and on May 7, 1987, a Quay County jury sentenced Clark to death.

The supreme court said Clark was aware of what he was doing when he pleaded guilty in hopes of an Anaya commutation, and that Frost didn't abuse his discretion by refusing to let him withdraw the plea.

Dena Lynn was buried in Cedarvale Cemetery in White Oaks. She was the great-granddaughter of Dolie Ward of Carrizozo.

Clark has criticized the lawyers who represented him during the trial, claiming he was talked into pleading guilty to the murder, on a promise of a pardon.

Clark's current lawyer, Mark Donatelli of Santa Fe, said Clark can begin another round of appeals in the state courts on issues not raised during his trial.

48 feet to 241 feet. Judge Paul Snead has ruled that the transmission fee charged to the Village of Capitan by the City of Alamogordo will be 25¢ ($25) per 1,000 gallons of water. Snead ruled no additional charge for peak-use times.

A three-year contract has been completed with Alamogordo allowing for the use of 4 1/2 miles of its pipeline by Capitan. This could be extended to five years if Capitan has made progress in building its own line. Capitan village attorney Don Dutton felt this duplication of pipeline was not fair to the taxpayer.

Guy Henley was to visit with Dr. Scott Childress and reach an agreement concerning the water drainage project.

Mayor Benny Coker continues his effort to get lower electric rates from Otero County Electric. Coker was to meet with an engineer from the electric company on Oct. 19.

Coker will attend a four-day meeting of the Rural Water Users Association in Columbus, Ohio. A portion of his expenses will be paid by the Eagle Creek intercommunity water users association and the Village of Capitan.

Capitan village clerk/treasurer Janet Keel will be certified Oct. 19 in Santa Fe as a certified municipal clerk. Keel joins a select group of clerks who have earned this rating.

The next scheduled meeting of the Capitan village council is Nov. 13. The council meets in the new village hall on Lincoln Street.

Property on auction in Carrizozo, Oct. 25

Lincoln County taxpayers who have allowed their property tax payments to lapse for more than three years have until sale time Oct. 25, 1989 to pay delinquencies if they want to keep their property.

The state will auction delinquent properties at the Lincoln Courthouse after registration at 1 p.m. Taxation and Revenue Secretary Gail D. Reese says the sale is being conducted under Property Tax Code provisions to collect delinquent taxes when owners have failed to pay the taxes for more than three years.

Lincoln County will receive the tax, penalty and interest from the proceeds of the sale for funding county and school district operations. Amounts realized in excess of the tax, penalty and interest will be returned to the former owners, says Reese.

Potential bidders should inspect property before bidding. To help in the inspection process the department publishes legal descriptions and bid requirements as legal notices in local newspapers three times before the auction. The treasurer's office in each county also maintains a list of delinquent properties for examination.

Street repair begins on Ft. Stanton streets

On Monday, Oct. 16, a project to improve several streets in Fort Stanton began, a state Highway and Transportation Department official said.

Department project manager Louis Najar said the work consists primarily of miscellaneous curb and gutter repair as well as some drainage work.

The project, which should be completed in about three months, is being done by Armstrong Construction Co. of Roswell for the department at a cost of $368,287.

Najar said there will be street closures and detours while the work is underway. He asks that motorists slow down and drive carefully through the construction area.

QUESTION: Why should I use the services of a REALTOR when I can buy all the real estate forms I need at the stationery store and just fill them in myself?

ANSWER: These printed forms are only a starting point. There are dozens of varieties of deeds, leases, mortgage forms. Which ones are to be chosen to best protect yourself is a good question for openers. Then, it's what goes into the blanks, what is crossed out, and what is added that gives you the value, security and protection that you pay the experts for. Believe me, some of the largest financial losses and legal entanglements have resulted from printed forms being incorrectly used.

IT'S WHAT GOES INTO printed forms that gives value and protection.

would total more than $1 million.

Burnett said the two million funds would not "retire" his list of needs very quickly.

An assessment of the school district received from Al Clemmons of Quinn and Co., a bonding firm, show Carrizozo eligible to pass a bond issue up to $683,015, Burnett said.

"You've convinced us," Ferguson said.

School counselor Gerald Montes reviewed scores from the Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills (CTBS) which reflect students' aptitudes in such areas as reading, spelling, language, math, science, social studies and study skills.

Although most scores were equal or higher than the average for New Mexico students, Montes identified reading needs in the current 3rd grade. That class scored significantly lower than the average scores in other New Mexico schools in the reading part of the test.

He emphasized the scores are not always true examples of the students' skills, but rather are indicators of how particular programs are working. By identifying problems teachers have an idea how to improve their programs or teaching skills.

He also attributed some of the lower scores to an updated test, which was much harder than the one previously given.

The board also learned three Carrizozo seniors will retake part of the high school competency exam, which they took as juniors last year.

Graduating seniors were to be required to pass all phases of the competency exam in order to receive their diplomas, but Burnett said he heard state school superintendent Alan Morgan will propose the state board of education extend the requirement to 1992.

"Test scores are the bottom line for the kind of job we are doing for our kids," Montes said.

Also Tuesday, the board accepted the resignation of school nurse Rasco who said her demanding schedule at Lincoln County Medical Center and her husband's transfer required her to be away from Carrizozo and unable to fulfill the one day a week contract with the schools.

To continue the required health services for the schools, Burnett suggested contracting with the Carrizozo Health Clinic for such services and documentation. The board directed Burnett to contact LCMC administrator Steve Keller to discuss such a contract.

Long-time elementary teacher LaRue Wetzel was honored with a plaque for distinguished service.

In other business, the board:

— Discussed and approved Sections 400 and 600 of the Carrizozo School Board Policy.

— Received section 700 of the policy. Board member Nick Serna requested the policy include wording which will ban use of the school facilities for personal monetary gain. "It's against the law," Serna said.

Other discussion about section 700 included a new Special Education policy manual which lists new laws and policy concerning the programs mandated by the state board of education.

Sandy Gladden, coordinator for Region 9 Special Education, is scheduled to attend the November board meeting to discuss the policy.

Burnett also presented Policy 521 concerning remediation programs, promotional policies and exceptions. The board will vote on all policies at the November meeting.

— Learned elementary student Matthew Offutt, mid-high student Blas Herrera and high school student Kristy Gore were students of the month for October.

— Heard senior class sponsor Bob Hemphill report the 80 percent participation rule for the senior trip is working well, with some students above the requirement and others below. Seniors have had the opportunity to participate in 60 activities so far this school year. Students have until the end of the year to fulfill the requirement.

— Complimented art teacher Polly Chavez and her students for the artwork in the board room.

— Discussed purchase of an activity bus. Adair of Clovis was to have brought an example bus for the board to see, however, a bus was not available. Burnett urged the board to approve purchase of a bus soon, as delivery takes about nine months after the bid is awarded.

— Approved financial reports and check registers.

— Discussed the upcoming in-depth evaluation by the State Department of Education, Nov. 13-17. Ferguson was concerned preparations for the evaluation took away teachers' time from the classroom, to which Burnett affirmed, but said he found important.

— Adjourned at 10:00 p.m.

The next meeting is at 100 p.m., Nov. 21.

Sanchez host Ambassadors from NMSU

Recently, James and Lynda Sanchez hosted NMSU Student Ambassadors at their home in historic Lincoln.

They visited the Lincoln Heritage Trust Orientation Center where they viewed an introductory slide show and museum artifacts.

A walking tour of the town was given by Mrs. Sanchez. Students visited the century old Iglesia de San Juan, the Torreon, Tunkell Store, the site of the McSwane home and Dig. Dr. Weed's house and the Courthouse.

After the tour, Ambassadors and admission's staff were treated to a reception at the Sanchez home.

Student Ambassadors represent NMSU in a variety of activities, and help recruit students as well as host parent/teacher/student receptions in various parts of Texas and New Mexico. Each year approximately 25 are chosen from a long list of applicants. The Sanchez' daughter, Katherine, has been an Ambassador for two years.

OPINION

"Taxes have become poison," Democratic scholar William Schneider recently told the media. "And what we have now is an anti-tax consensus in the country, and it has put the Democrats in a real bind." Taxes have become a poison. In the last 50 years government has ripped taxpayers' pocketbooks to the extent the average American now pays 50 percent of his income in taxes. And, as I have pointed out here before, that makes Americans 50 percent slaves. Even before the Civil War when slavery was rampant, slaveowners expected only 15 to 25 percent of the productive labor of their slaves.

Americans are loathe to pay taxes to a nation ruled by a self-serving, corrupt, hypocritical and spendthrift congress. They are increasingly turned off by a congress out of moral control, one whose tamperings have all but destroyed the American family, promoted homosexuality and pornography, financed the National Endowment for Trash, declared war on religion, ruined the public school system, substituted bureaucracy for democracy, and pursued a line of capitulation to the communist cause. Cries of "Enough!" go unnoticed by congress, so many Americans have taken another tack—don't get mad, get even. They are getting even in an effective way, by hitting government where it hurts—in the pocketbook. Simply, they are either refusing to pay taxes or they are cheating on their tax returns. If every American paid all the taxes he or she is required by law to pay, the US Treasury would gain an estimated $100 billion a year. But in that process, thousands of small businesses would go bankrupt and the middle class practically eliminated.

So what do they do when faced with paying taxes they can't afford or seeing their lifestyle diminished and their families on welfare? They steal from the government, not because they want to, but because they have to.

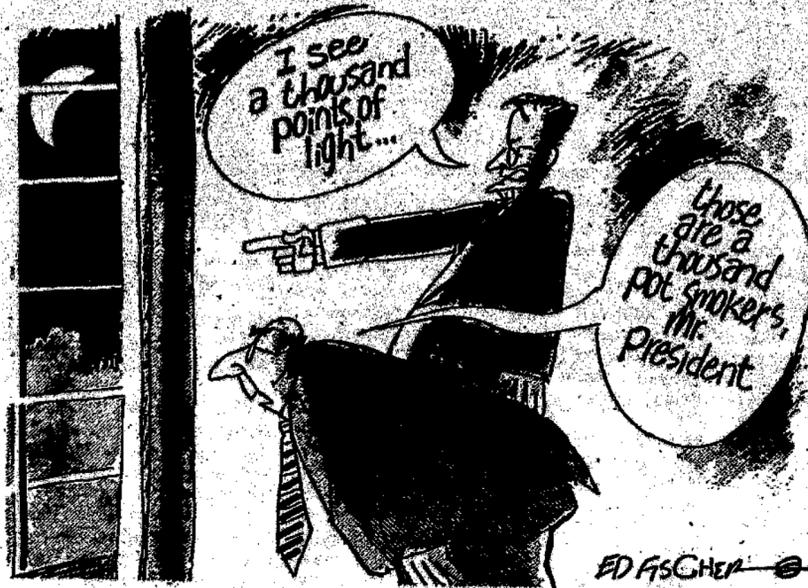

What else are they expected to do when a pound of butter costs $2.38 in Carrizozo while our government sells butter to the Soviet Union for 75 to 85 cents per pound? When we can't pay our bills yet have enough money to keep 41,000 US troops in South Korea at a taxpayer cost of $2.5 billion a year? When we have spent $160 billion on farm subsidies since 1980—enough money to have bought every farm, barn, and tractor in 30 states? When congress hides behind doors trying to conceive a way to raise their pay without arousing taxpayer ire? When one of our leading congressmen admits to running a male prostitute operation out of his own home?

I do not want my hard-earned tax dollars to be spent on abortions, on the homeless, on people who can but won't work, and on obscene pornography applauded by the National Endowment for the Arts. I don't want my tax money spent ($115 million a year) to fund newsletters and propaganda leaflets sent to constituents by congressmen to buy their votes in the next election. I don't want to finance the junkets abroad that congressmen take which are nothing but a luxury vacation at taxpayer expense. I shouldn't be required to pay for the HUD scandal, and for the billions of dollars we are being soaked with the savings and loan thievery.

I know a man who is a typical small businessman. He works six days a week. He also pays a thousand dollars a week in taxes (state and federal) and can only pay himself a $100 a week for his work and for his responsibility as a businessman. The government is milking him for ten times the amount he gets. He isn't taking it any more either. He has started stealing from the government. It gives him a thrill every time he pockets a dollar the government used to get. He doesn't consider it theft and has no moral scruples about it because he knows he is entitled to the sweat of his brow, and realizes that is the only way to get just compensation for his labor. The government set the example by stealing from him. He is following in the footsteps of an institution he is persuaded to regard as fair, just and moral. God bless him, and I hope his foot doesn't slip.

Many businesses keep two sets of books; one for the Internal Revenue Service and the other for the owner. He pays on the set kept solely for tax purposes. In the past decade there has been a vast increase in barter for goods and services, thus avoiding the multiple taxes fixed by law on commercial transactions. There are loopholes in the tax laws, and most Americans have found them. They charge off personal expenditures as company obligations. They falsify entertainment records. They are careful not to have large bank deposits. They often deal in cash with no records for IRS to explore. They cheat on medical bills, automobile repair and charitable donations. Some get

Inside The Capitol

By Jay Miller

SANTA FE—National columnist Jack Anderson was a hit at the state Oil and Gas Association convention in Santa Fe a couple weeks ago.

Darwin Van De Graaff, the group's executive vice-president, says that after listening to last year's convention speaker John McLaughlin of PBS's McLaughlin Group, several of his members told him he needed to balance the conservative husband of a Ronald Reagan cabinet secretary with someone a bit more liberal.

Anderson was a certified hit, although he sounded anything but liberal as he recounted some of the horrors of Soviet bureaucracy and then compared their excesses to the direction he is afraid our own federal government is headed.

The Utah native told of his recent trip to Russia in which he encountered glasnost, perestroika and the falling Soviet bureaucracy. He recalled the glasnost openness of a senior official with the Russian news agency Tass, who freely admitted their foreign reporters are also spies.

Anderson talked about the restructuring being undertaken as a result of Mikhail Gorbachev's perestroika and wondered how long it or Gorbachev could last against the resistance of the 18 million bureaucrats who live off the system.

He unraveled an almost unbelievable tale of Soviet equipment less than 100 miles from the Armenian earthquake disaster that was paralyzed by Russian red tape. The USSR was forced to depend on the largess of other countries, including the United States, to transport in the same equipment to assist the rescue effort.

Anderson stated his conviction that the free world has won the Cold War. Perestroika is an admission the Soviet system has not worked. He said we aren't celebrating because we aren't sure what is going to happen next.

Any of the 15 Soviet republics can secede from the union at any time under the USSR constitution. The Red Army has always prevented that from happening. Anderson says we have no idea if the army will put up with that sort of thing now. And if not, for how long?

He says the 15 million bureaucrats left in the manufacturing plant still get paid but they will be getting the same as the rest of the workers.

work much better than ours.

The bureaucracy that doesn't work is the agriculture ministry. Gorbachev has designed its new structure but Anderson says the joke among Russian farmers is that the CIA invented it.

Anderson came home worried about the obstructionism of bureaucracies. He went to both congress and the administration to get a list of all our government giveaway programs to the rich and the poor. When he found no one had such a thing, he started his own and is already up to $20. He promises that will be one of his major crusades.

The major Anderson crusade at the moment is the war on drugs. He says it is the most horrendous war we have ever fought because the enemy is invisible and hundreds of thousands of our citizens are aiding them. He claims to have proof that the Medellín drug cartel has bought judges and public officials throughout South and Central American and even in the United States.

In a stirring finish to his speech, Anderson warned that anyone in his audience who uses drugs, even recreationally, is his enemy.

He also revealed the existence of a $3 billion price tag on the head of Pres. George Bush and grimly predicted that he would be calling Dan Quayle "Mr. President" in the not too distant future.

While the Russians wrestle with their farm problem, the US Presidential Commission on Agricultural Policy and World Development has been meeting in Santa Fe the last three days developing the underlying philosophy of the next major farm bill.

Santa Fean Povy Bigbee serves on that commission, along with 14 other appointees from Hawaii to Virginia. Former Pres. Ronald Reagan appointed the committee over a year ago to bring together the best thinking on farm issues. Congress funded the group and added the charge of recommending how our nation can be most competitive in the world trade market.

PLUG LEAKS

Darlen Cabral, business beat reporter for the Rio Grande Sun, writes that part of the economic problem of the Espanola Valley is Santa Fe.

Says Cabral: "When a smaller, less developed community is in proximity to a more developed community, there tends to be a net outflow of dollars from the smaller community into the larger. In other words, working people in Espanola are contributing to the economic development of Santa Fe as much or more than the economic development of Espanola."

He tells his fellow citizens that when they take their hard earned dollars, made from their Espanola jobs or businesses, and spend them in Santa Fe, then that money becomes income for Santa Fe residents and most of it is spent and respent in that city.

His suggestion for economic development strategy: plug economic leaks. Any strategy that successfully brings money back to the community is a success. A community is a group of people who live and work together. I suggest NIMBYs come out when there is a possibility of a new prison site, a waste disposal site, a recovery program for alcohol and drug abusers.

The state of Colorado is looking for sites for two new correctional facilities and one could possibly be in Yuma if local citizens want the institute in their vicinity.

Yuma Mayor Wayne Laut said he is not totally opposed to a prison and that there are good and bad sides to the issue. It would provide a stable yearly income to that city that is not agriculturally related. The downside would be the need for an increase in social services. "A lot of the inmates families move to where the inmate is, which would probably mean more people living here on welfare," Laut added.

A couple of years ago, the city considered applying for a correctional facility, but they never got as far as the formal application due to an overwhelmingly negative response from citizens during a town meeting.

Get the UN out of US

EDITOR—Every October, there are publicity campaigns urging Americans to applaud the United Nations. The John Birch Society urges Americans to celebrate the US Day, not UN Day. There should instead be warnings to the American people that the UN and true Americanism are completely incompatible.

If we begin at the beginning, we see that the US Declaration of Independence starts with a belief in God, a fundamental premise that the UN totally rejects. Because our Founding Fathers maintained that every one's rights proceed from their creator, they built a system of government limited merely to protecting those rights. But under the UN's flawed philosophy, rights proceed from government; consequently, government's powers are not limited and totalitarian regimes like the USSR and Red China are most welcome in the world body.

It is impressive that Americans realize what a UN-styled world government would mean. Should the UN prevail, freedom as we have known will disappear because the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution would be scrapped. In addition, the world organization would make it a responsibility to redistribute America's wealth to other lands. And our nation would end up with non-productive state-rim industries like those in socialist and communist countries.

If the UN were to become the only military force in the interests of keeping peace, it would also have sufficient power to establish tyranny. Placing such power in any single repository is a virtual guarantee that it would be used wrongly. There would be peace all right, peace like the peace found in a graveyard.

The John Birch Society urges Americans to celebrate the US Day, not UN Day. It is also well past the time that the US get out of the UN. And while we are at it, let's get the UN out of the US.

caught; most do not. The risk is better than the odds at Las Vegas.

Many Americans have found out what congress doesn't know or won't admit. As soon as a law is established there are a million smart citizens out there who find a way to evade it. The smartest are not in congress, they're average Americans who resent a congress (and state legislatures) that are out of control as far as the people are concerned.

While government officials and liberals everywhere are enamored of Mikhail Gorbachev's smile and millions of Americans are enjoying an organic dance in the streets because Soviet communism is failing, they don't realize that congress is considering a $48 billion "loan" to the Soviet Union which will stabilize that economy and maintain Russian military might in countries all over the world. Many, like me, see the fraud and deception in financing Soviet military might, and don't want our taxes to prop up this formidable enemy. So we don't pay the taxes to finance this outrage.

"Taxes are paid in the sweat of every man who labors. If those taxes are excessive, they are reflected in idle factories, in tax-sold farms, and in hordes of hungry people, tramping the streets and seeking jobs in vain. Our workers may never see a tax bill, but they pay. They pay in deductions from wages, in increased cost of what they buy, or in unemployment throughout the land." So said Franklin D. Roosevelt in a 1932 campaign speech in Pittsburgh. He was elected, and went on to saddle this nation with a debt that can never be paid except through higher taxes and unprecedented hardship for most Americans. His example continues unto this day in congress, as witness annual federal budget deficits of from $100 to $200 billion.

You want a final laugh? This from the Democratic National Platform in 1924: "We oppose the so-called nuisance taxes, sales taxes, and all other forms of taxation that unfairly shift to the consumer the burdens of taxation."

Eleven people trying to visit inmates at a minimum-security jail near Monterey Park were arrested for allegedly possessing the items.

Signs are posted warning visitors of the rules and telling them they are subject to search at anytime during their visit.

CLOSER TO HOME

A penitentiary guard who is an Espanola resident was arrested and charged with carrying controlled substances into the penitentiary in Santa Fe. Oscar Barrows, 41, reportedly had a significant quantity of marijuana on his person when arrested and small quantities of other substances. He previously had been a deputy sheriff with the San Juan County Sheriff's Office, Tol, N.M.

Grizzlies win one, lose one

Carrizozo Grizzlies had a disappointing night Friday when they lost to Hagerman on the Bobcats home field. Carrizozo was scoreless at the end of Hagerman's homecoming game, 12-0.

Hagerman's Olivas was the only player to score and those two touchdowns were during the first quarter.

Grizzly coach Mel Holland said his team got shutout but had 125 total offensive yards.

"We didn't come ready to play," Holland said. "Our execution was very poor."

The weekend before was a different story when the Grizzlies played Clondercroft in that town.

Grizzly Mike Chavez was the first to score with a 27-yard touchdown run and Ron Serna made good on the extra kick point in the first quarter. The Grizzlies kept the Bears at bay with their defensive play until the final quarter.

Dennis Vega made the next score in the second quarter with a four-yard touchdown run. Again Serna added the extra kick point.

Grizzly fans were thrilled in the third quarter as Vega took the ball for a 32-yard run. Serna added the extra point kick. Kevin Sheehan was the next Grizzly to score in that quarter with a six-yard run and Serna added the extra point. To top off the third quarter excitement, Vega again made a touchdown, with a seven-yard run. Serna's kick failed.

The final quarter was scoreless for the Grizzlies, who allowed the Bears to gain two touchdowns with extra kick points. But the last ditch effort by the Bears was not enough to defeat the Grizzlies and the game ended with Carrizozo 34 and Clondercroft 14.

Vega made 177 yards rushing, and Goy Archuleta played good offensively, said coach Holland.

"The team did not execute well," Holland said.

Carrizozo's record stands at four wins and three losses. The Grizzlies will play Reserve at 2 p.m. Saturday in that town.

CAPITAN TIGER Nathan Roybal breaks through the Clondercroft defensive line as 54 Bobby Griego and others guard. The Tigers defeated the Bears 33 to 16 for their first season win at their last home game Friday.

Capitan wins its first game of season, 33-16

Nathan Roybal had a big Friday the 13th evening as the Capitan Tigers won their first game of the season 33-16.

Roybal rushed for 240 yards and scored four touchdowns.

There was no scoring in the 1st quarter. Roybal recovered a fumble on the Clondercroft 43 yard line. Eight plays later a Tiger field goal attempt fell short.

Capitan had another chance to score in the 1st quarter, but penalties forced the Tigers to punt.

Moments into the 2nd quarter Dan Seay got a nice run back of a Bear punt and Capitan mounted its first scoring drive from its own 44 yard line.

A 13-yard pass to Warren Russell got the Tigers a 1st down after three futile attempts produced a two-yard loss.

Roybal got 26 big yards and Heath Huey took it in for the Tiger's first six points. Dan Seay kicked the extra point and the Tigers took the lead 7-0.

A gang tackle on the run-back and hits by Griego, McEuen and Reynolds forced the Bears to punt on the next series of downs.

Capitan took over on its own 45. Huey completed a pass to Dan Seay for 6 yards, Russell got 2 yards and then the 1st down. Roybal ran for 9 and then the 1st down.

Huey got 9 yards after an incomplete pass. Roybal gouged his way for 25 yards and the Tigers 2nd TD. With 4:56 left in the half, Capitan went up 13-0.

Clondercroft intercepted a pass on its own 39 yard line to stop another Tiger scoring threat just before the half ended.

The Bears received the kick off to begin the 2nd half but were forced to punt. An unsportsmanlike penalty against Clondercroft set up Capitan on the Bear 40. Three short gainers followed before Huey got the 1st down. Roybal got 18 yards to the 10 yard line and then 9 yards up the middle for the TD. Clondercroft blocked the PAT. Capitan 19, Clondercroft 0.

A couple of minutes later Clondercroft began a drive after a Tiger fumble on its own 42.

A big gainer here to the Tiger 8 yard line set up the TD. The Bears scored on 2nd down and ran the ball in for the extra 2 points. Capitan 12, Clondercroft 8.

With the ball at midfield, Roybal exploded for 50 yards and another Tiger tally. With 1:33 left in the 3rd quarter, Capitan 25, Clondercroft 8.

Early in the 4th quarter the Tigers staged a great goal line stand and took over on their own one yard line. Roybal got a good hit on 4th down.

tillo in the 3rd game. The three athletes had 5 points each.

Coach Allen said this was "our best serving game of the season. Our varsity kids played very well."

Jennifer Eldridge led the way with 8 points as the Capitan JV team defeated the Estancia JV 16-14. Kelly Cox led the Lady Tigers to victory in the second scoring 10 points from the service line. Capitan won 15-7.

Principal Bill Stowe told the News the PSAT test will be given to the sophomores and juniors on Oct. 24. This is the national merit scholarship qualifying test. The ACT test will be given to juniors and seniors, and the PACT test to sophomores on Oct. 28. This test is used to get into college.

Principal Stowe said the Halloween carnival will be Oct. 30 in the new gym. The carnival takes place between 8 and 8 p.m.

Capitan eventually punted and Clondercroft took over on the Tiger 38. The Bear's second TD came with 4:27 left in the game. Once again the Bears ran for the extra points. Capitan 25, Clondercroft 16.

Clondercroft tried an unsuccessful onside kick. Capitan took over at midfield. On 2nd down Nathan Roybal rambled 49 yards and the Tiger's final TD. Huey passed to Russell for 2 points and the final score was now posted. Capitan 33, Clondercroft 16.

Smith, Wolinski and McEuen got good hits before the game ended.

Capitan travels to Loving Oct. 20 to play the Falcons. The game is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

On defense Cindy Silva, Cheryl Hightower, Micah Schlarb, Yvonne Estrella, and Laurie Zamora all made some tough saves on balls hit at them, especially in game one, which saw Carrizozo come back from a 5-0 deficit.

"It was nice to win after our losing streak, which included a disappointing loss to Vaughn in Vaughn on Oct. 7," commented coach Ron Becker. The win upped Carrizozo's record to 6-7.

Saturday night saw Carrizozo hosting a tough bunch of Lady Mustangs from Mountainair. Both teams played some excellent volleyball in the four-game match, which saw the Grizzlies prevail 15-10, 15-17, 15-10 and 16-14. Seniors Tennie Trolinger and Rachel Monreal were hitting the ball well for the Grizzlies from the weak side and team serving was consistent. Trolinger and Monreal also stood out on defense, especially on blocking at the net. The whole team worked well together covering the court. Becker was especially pleased with Najjar and Zamora in coverage of blocks.

The win evened Carrizozo's record 7-7 and 3-3 in district play.

Tuesday night the Grizzlies made short work of the Corona Cardinals by the lopsided scores of 15-1, 15-5 and 15-2. The win pushed the Grizzly season record 8-7 on the season and 4-3 in district. The last regular match of the season will be this Friday at Mountainair for a rematch of Tuesdays game.

If Carrizozo can beat Mountainair tomorrow they will have a chance to host both matches during the district tournament which starts next week. Carrizozo will probably play Vaughn here at 6 p.m. on Oct. 24 with Mountainair hosting Corona at the same time. The winners will then advance to play on Oct. 26 at the home of the higher seeded team.

Lady Tigers now have 14-0 record

The Capitan Lady Tigers ran their success record to 14-0 last week, defeating Hondo and Estancia.

The defending state Class A volleyball champions have two matches left on their schedule before the district playoffs. Capitan goes to Hagerman Oct. 19, and returns home Oct. 21 for its final match of the season with Clondercroft. If the Tigers win against Hagerman and Clondercroft, they will host the district tournament championship game Oct. 28.

Capitan defeated Hondo, 15-4, 11-15, 15-2 and 15-2. Lora McKay scored five points from the service line. Karie Cox and Laseley LaRue contributed 4 points each. Crystal Dalton scored 3 in the 3rd game. Hondo's Faustina Bean scored 6.

Coach Pam Allen got 13 straight points from Karie Cox in the 3rd game. Laseley LaRue's 8 points in the 4th game led Tiger scoring.

Saturday night action found the Lady Tigers defeating Coach Alan Car-

AROUND CORONA

Mrs. Jackie Davidson came home Monday after a week in a Roswell hospital.

Scott Mulkey, San Diego, spent three days last week visiting with his grandparents in Alamogordo and with parents and friends here. He was accompanied and protected by a three-pound Gremlin, a red sable Pomeranian.

September was a busy month for Corona area team ropers with two saddle series ropings taking place. One was a four Sunday series and the saddle was won by Lon Holleyman of Corona. The other was a two-day weekend event with the saddle being won by Tony Crespin of Socorro. Larry Widener furnished the steers. George Lightfoot says that profits from the ropings will be used to make needed repairs on the arena. George, how about replacing or finding those two small structures that so mysteriously disappeared?

Margaret and George Lightfoot were honored on their 25th wedding anniversary with a dinner party given by their children. Hosting the party were Clay, employed in the produce marketing division of the Department of Agriculture who flew in from Boston for the occasion, Shannon and Cody who attend ENMU and Denise, a freshman at NMSU.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Rasak, Denver, who had been vacationing along the West Coast, stopped for a few days with Mrs. Curtis Duke and Mrs. I.G. Pate. Mrs. Rasak is the former Lanita Duke.
