

County zoning ineffective

Ruidoso plans to extend zoning area to 3 miles

By Doris Cherry

The areas within a three-mile zone around Ruidoso are growing and are expected to grow even more in the coming years.

Presently, those properties, which are in the county, are not governed by any type of zoning outside of restrictive subdivision covenants. Many of those have been amended to the point they are legally ineffective.

Late 1988, the Lincoln County Commission of John Allen Hightower, Bill Karn and Ralph Dunlap passed a controversial zoning ordinance which would restrict the type of growth in the county. But, as the ordinance has not been fulfilled with the actual zoning and mapping, the county still is open to unrestricted development.

Ruidoso saw this growth as a potential threat to its corporate boundaries and took upon itself to develop a means to control such. Ruidoso Planning and Zoning (P&Z) passed an ordinance in the early 1980s allowing the village to have jurisdiction of an area one mile around the corporate village boundaries.

By joint agreement between the village and the county, this area became known as the Extra-territorial Zone (ETZ). The village has say over what type of development occurs in this zone.

Now, Ruidoso P&Z proposes to extend that one-mile zone to three miles. After approaching the Lincoln County Commission on the subject, P&Z was directed to draw an ordinance and begin the process.

According to Ruidoso Planning Director Cleatus Richards, P&Z has worked on this idea for a year and a half.

"Our only concern was to get growth control," Richards said. "We are very concerned not to get a patchwork type of development in the area." "We haven't seen the patchwork type of development so far," Richards said. But with the airport area becoming more important, Richards sees the potential of unwanted growth beginning there. "We don't have that much time."

"If there is no zoning, those lands will get into a growth pattern," he said.

The areas which will fall into the proposed three-mile zone include all of the village, Lincoln Heights, Cedar Creek, Encanto, Mesa Coyote, Mesa, Woodland Heights, Shangri-la and Pine Meadows in the Eagle Creek Area and a three-mile zone around the 1600 acres on which the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport is built. This will include Rancho Ruidoso, Enchanted Valley state and federal lands.

A half-mile zone on each side of the airport access road also will be included.

Richards said public lands are not affected by the zoning, as villages have the jurisdiction over what occurs on those areas.

P&Z initially directed the county toward creating a county zoning ordinance which was drawn and after much public debate, passed.

But without the zoning ordinance effective, development is uncontrolled totally.

One reason for the proposed expansion is because the village already issues building permits and conducts building inspections that three miles from Ruidoso.

Richards said the village by state statute has authority to extend its jurisdiction from three miles inside its corporate boundary. There is no county ordinance which allows for an expansion of the program. It began because of the complete failure of the zoning ordinance.

Another advantage of an ETZ is the protection property values receive from the controls placed on development. Presently, no zoning can be placed on a property unless restricted by subdivision covenants. And these aren't a good guarantee, Richards said.

The ETZ process will take six months to complete. A field inspection will determine present usages and will be used to develop overall plans to protect development currently present. Zoning recommendations will be made based on the usages. Then a hearing process will take public input at scheduled meetings and all property owners in the affected areas will be notified by letter.

Businesses which are in the areas will be permitted to continue and will have a 25 percent growth allowable. These will be considered "legal non-conforming uses" and are existing properties which do not fit with the overall pattern of development. But new businesses might face problems if they wish to locate in areas zoned residential.

All input will be forwarded to the ET Authority, a group composed of two county commissioners—Karon Petty and Rick Simpson, and one village councilor, J.D. James. Once under the ETZ jurisdiction, zoning problems must be directed to the ET Commission, which is composed of Bill Elliott, Ben Hall and Deanna Wright representing the county, and John White, J.D. James and Pete Thompson representing the village. Their recommendations are directed to the ET Authority which has final

Wilderness area fire

Control expected by this weekend

A thick shroud of smoke which enveloped most of the Alto area and was visible from as far away as Alamo-gordo, came from a fire which began on the White Mountain Wilderness area Saturday, Nov. 4.

According to Smokey Bear District Ranger Jerry Hawkes, the fire apparently began as a hunter's warming fire on the Three Rivers watershed on the west side of Sierra Blanca, about 12 and a half miles northwest of Ruidoso. Although the fire, which was located in grass and shrub, burned about 100 acres the first day, the forest service policy was to monitor the burn.

The fire seemed settled down by late afternoon Saturday, but winds picked up causing it to burn up the mountainside. Once the fire burned over the ridge into the Bonito watershed, the policy affecting control changed. "Now that the fire is into a different area, we will do everything we can," Hawkes said.

Monday, two 20-men crews from Mescalero joined forest service personnel at the fire. By Wednesday, 59 firefighters were working to contain the burn.

"The fire is lying down pretty good," Hawkes said Wednesday. He predicted containment by today (Thursday) and control by the weekend.

An upcoming habitat improvement burn in Harrison Canyon on the north side of the Capitan Mountains was cancelled until the White Mountain fire is controlled, Hawkes said.

Ruidoso bank robbed again

Another Ruidoso bank was the victim of a robbery Friday, Nov. 3.

A man wearing a ski mask and brandishing a semi-automatic weapon, robbed the Bank of Ruidoso of an undetermined amount of cash, the FBI reported. According to published reports, a teller at the drive-up window of the Bank of Ruidoso branch located in the Financial Center on Mechem Drive, called Ruidoso Police around 5:30 p.m. and reported the bank had been robbed. The bandit came up to the teller booth and pointed a blue steel, large bore semi-automatic pistol at her, the teller told police.

The same bank branch on Mechem had been robbed earlier this fall, FBI Special Agent Doug Beldon said in Albuquerque. "Obviously, we will look at the possibility that this guy could have done the other one," Beldon said.

The teller, who was behind bullet-proof glass, described the robber as Caucasian, about 5-foot-10 with a deep voice. The ski mask had holes cut out for the eyes and mouth, and the $1,000 reward for information man wore black gloves and a blue denim jacket with buttons.

Ruidoso-Lincoln County Crimestoppers will pay a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and magistrate court bind-over or a grand jury indictment of the suspect.

'Still under investigation

More witnesses surface in vehicular murder case

Additional witness accounts continue to point the finger of guilt at the men involved in a rear-end collision which resulted in the death of a Carrizozo infant.

On Oct. 7 Cynthia Morales of Carrizozo was returning to her home in her Ford Ranger II truck when she was rear-ended by a 1959 Chevrolet pickup, allegedly driven by Michael R. Velasquez of Santa Rosa. Riding with Velasquez were Ed Ballentine and Charles Bradley. All the young men are members of the armed forces and stationed at Fort Bliss, TX.

Although there is one eyewitness to the accident, he was unavailable for comment. But others who arrived at the scene very shortly after the accident occurred were angered by the attitude of the men involved.

According to Linda Brown and her 14-year-old son Scot, who were at a roping in an arena near the scene of the accident just south of Carrizozo on Highway 54, all three men were riding in the front of a truck. Linda said the witness to the accident told her he heard a vehicle approaching town and looked up. At that point he saw the truck impact the Morales vehicle.

When the Browns arrived at the accident, Linda assisted with the baby, but Scot said he observed.

The men had a six-pack of beer in the truck cab, Scot said. After the men left the truck, they mentioned they had beer, but they took the bottles and threw them into the bushes beside the road, Scot said.

While the men waited for the state police to arrive, they walked around, one even left the scene and walked to the Sands Motel, located nearby.

One man complained of his shoulder hurting from being thrust against the dash or steering wheel of the truck on impact with the Morales vehicle, Scot said.

The men were concerned about the condition of their truck, he added.

The impact of the Velasquez vehicle caused the Morales vehicle to leave the road and overturn two and a half times, she and her baby were thrown from the vehicle as they were not in restraining devices. Cynthia was severely injured and was flown to Albuquerque's Presbyterian Hospital. She now is home in Carrizozo and slowly recovering.

From the condition of the Morales truck, it is doubtful she could have survived the impact if she had been wearing a seat belt, family members said.

Rosemary Gallegos, also of Carrizozo, said she arrived at the scene about 15 minutes after the accident happened. Although she was a distance from the men, she saw them throw "brown bottles" into the bushes.

Linda Brown said she is angered by the attitude of the men who crashed into Morales. She also said the impression placed upon the several teenagers who were at the accident by the attitude of the state police, who did not issue a citation or give a breath test for alcohol, was one that it is alright to drink and drive recklessly and not suffer the consequences.

Civil charges have been filed by attorney Gary Mitchell's office on behalf of the baby's father, Leroy Lopez, and her mother, Cynthia Morales. The charges are of wrongful death, wrongful acts and neglect on Ballentine and Bradley for encouraging and cooperating in Velasquez's violation of traffic laws and unsafe driving and failure to maintain proper lookout, filed on Oct. 31.

No court date has been set for the civil case.

No criminal charges have been made against the men at this time. A spokesman in District Attorney Bert Atkins' office said the case is "still under investigation." Atkins was in court and was unavailable for comment Wednesday.

Sheriff's Report

Hunters get lost, shoot up the landscape, and kill some deer

Lincoln County Sheriff's Department was swamped with calls about missing hunters and other hunting season related problems last week, said Sheriff James McSwane.

In other calls: on Nov. 3 at 11:30 a.m. George Lore of Glencoe reported a burglary and larceny of more than $4,000 worth of items.

Ruidoso . . .

say on all matters before the ET Commission.

Concern that the ETZ will lead to annexation into the village and thus higher property taxes has no basis. "The village has no plans for annexation," Richards said.

Annexation can occur only at the individual landowner's petition, then only after the land is evaluated and determined if the village can afford to expand its services into the area. If the tax gained from the property is lower than the cost of the service which will be provided, the annexation is found to be unwarranted, Richards said.

Even if approved for annexation, the owner must pay the cost of the service installation. However, Richards said water cannot be extended out of the corporate areas.

"It has to be a friendly annexation and economically feasible," Richards added.

Property taxes are unchanged when lands fall under an ETZ, Richards said.

Paul Baca of the Lincoln County Assessors' office said although the taxes do not change, the rate of valuation of the properties may be altered if the market value increase because of the restrictions or controls made by the ETZ. If valuation increase, so will property taxes.

"The overall effect is, there is really no change what happens in the area," Richards said.

IRS seizes property on drug, money laundering charges

The Internal Revenue Service recently seized properties worth more than a half-million dollars in Ruidoso and Glencoe on federal money laundering statutes.

According to a letter received in the Lincoln County Clerk's office Friday, Nov. 3, a home at 302 Hull Road in Ruidoso, belonging to James Romero McTague of El Paso, TX and 56.53 acres in Glencoe where owner Hector Tapia Anchondo was having a large home built are part of a federal court charge.

The notice is lis pendens issued by the US District Court lists the court as plaintiff and the two properties owned by McTague and Anchondo as the defendants.

The Anchondo property was previously owned by McTague who purchased it from Tim D. and David C. Collier of Artesia in 1985.

According to published reports, the affidavit for a seizure warrant filed in federal court in Albuquerque last week listed the estimated value of the properties at $534,500. They were purchased via "structured transactions" or cash arrangements set up to avoid official scrutiny, the affidavit says.

McTague and Anchondo had conducted such transactions at least seven times before 1987, so they were familiar with the reporting requirements and how to avoid them, the affidavit says.

Anchondo and McTague are reputed to be involved in a cocaine cartel exposed when a California suburban warehouse was raided for $12 million in cash and 19 tons of cocaine in late September.

Anchondo also was an alleged top official in the drug smuggling ring that federal officials believe imported 60 tons of cocaine from Colombia to the US through El Paso.

Capitan Chamber activity

President-elect Frank Miller presided over Monday's meeting of the Capitan Chamber of Commerce.

The possibility of installing a 6' x 10' sign on 1st Street next to the gym was discussed. The sign would advertise school events.

High school principal Bill Stowe said the sign would cost $2,500. Stowe has received some donations. The balance needed dropped to $700 after the chamber of commerce pledged $500. Those wishing to contribute to this project should call principal Stowe at 354-2238.

Stowe also talked about local restaurants offering meals at special prices for visiting athletic teams. He also said the adopt-a-block program is going well.

The Christmas lighting and decorating contest was discussed. The contest is divided into commercial and residential categories. A set of Smokey Bear medallions will be awarded to the 1st place winners. Cash prizes of $25 and $15 will be awarded to the 2nd and 3rd place winners.

Judging will take place between Dec. 16 and Dec. 23. Entry deadline is Dec. 16. Entry blanks can be picked up at C-G Natural Gas Association, B&L Pizza, Smokey Bear Restaurant and the chamber office across from the post office.

Thursday night bingo received a good deal of discussion. Virginia Danielson, Beanie Jones and Verna Belle Pease were to meet with chamber officials later this week.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

CHUCK ROMINGER
FINANCING DECISION

QUESTION: I plan to buy a home in the near future. When should I decide on whether to select a fixed or variable mortgage?

ANSWER: Actually, this should be a last-minute decision. The financing market changes often enough so that the best financing made one month may not be the best the next month.

If you expect to live in the house for a long time and you feel that interest rates will increase, you may lean toward a fixed rate. An equally sound case can be made for the lower initial interest offered on variable rate mortgages. If you don't expect to live in the home for a very long time, the variable rate mortgage would be the answer.

DECIDING BETWEEN a fixed or variable mortgage should be a last-minute decision depending on the marketplace.

If there is anything I can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at ROMINGER REAL ESTATE CO., 1100 Second Ave., in Carrizozo. Phone 648-2900. One block NE of Courthouse.

Lady Tigers advance to state tournament

By Bartley McDonough

The Capitan Lady Tigers won the regional tournament last weekend in Ft. Sumner running their season record to 19-0.

Both Ft. Sumner and Capitan advance to the state finals in Roswell, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Capitan meets the Lady Longhorns from Roy on Thursday in the Goddard High gym. Game time is 3:15 p.m. Roy finished the season with an 18-2 record. The Longhorns were runners-up to Sandia Prep. Coach Pam Allen said Roy is a young team.

The winner of this game plays the winner of the Magdalena-Texico game on Friday at 3:15 p.m. in the Roswell High gym.

The winner of this second round action will play at 6 p.m. on Saturday in the Goddard High gym for the state championship. The opponent would be either Sandia Prep, Ft. Sumner, Floyd or Rehoboth.

The defending state champions defeated Mountainair in opening round action, 15-8, 15-3 and 15-6. Lora McKay led the way in the 1st game with 9 points. Cindy Castillo had the hot hand in the second game with 10 points. Coach Allen got 10 points from Lesley LaRue in the 3rd game.

In the championship game with Ft. Sumner, Vickie Sedillo and Lora McKay led the way in the 1st game scoring 6 and 4 points respectively.

McKay scored 8 in the second game and Cindy Castillo 6 in the 3rd game.

Coach Allen told the News "Lora and Lesley lead the team in kills Saturday in the regional tournament. Kim Eckland had a great game blocking. Karie Cox and Kim did an outstanding job running the offense. Vickie Sedillo played extremely well as middle blocker. Cindy Castillo had a great day receiving, serving, and playing defense.

"The performance was a picture perfect match. Our players made very few mistakes and our intensity was high.

The girls concentrated through the entire championship match and man, did we play! I'm very proud of our girls and their performance. THE championship match was the kind coaches dream about. The girls did a super job."

Tatum defeats Grizzlies 19-0

The Tatum Coyotes ended Carrizozo's football season last Saturday night with a 19-0 white-wash of the Grizzlies.

Carrizozo played Tatum, the defending state champs to a standstill for almost three quarters. Tatum got the first and only score they would need with about 1:30 showing on the clock, late in the third quarter, on a long 58-yard pass play. The PAT made it 7-0 Tatum after three periods of play.

Tatum seemed to pick up momentum in the last period and tacked on two more scores. Carrizozo's offense was unable to muster but one serious scoring threat all night. With the help of a long pass completion from Chris Sohlarb to Guy Archuleta and a couple of penalties against Tatum, the Grizzlies got as far as the Tatum 2-inch line right before halftime.

A motion penalty and some good defense by the visiting Coyotes stalled the drive, which ended with a missed FG attempt by Carrizozo.

The win sends Tatum into this week's championship game against the Loving Falcons, game to be played in Hobbs.

Seniors playing their last football game for Carrizozo were: Michael Chavez, Mark Guevara, Abe Padilla, Rod Serna, Ron Serna, Dennis Vega and Michael Vega.

Next up for the Grizzlies is basketball—first game scheduled for Nov. 21 at home against Hondo.

Carrizozo FFA teams in national competition

While people in Carrizozo continue their normal busy schedules today, members of the Carrizozo FFA Agriculture Mechanics and Meat Judging Teams will be competing in the National FFA Contests in Kansas City, MO.

The students will be representing the New Mexico FFA Association. They were the winning team in State Contests last April and will go head-to-head with winning teams from each of the other 50 states as over 22,000 FFA members convene for their national convention.

Carrizozo's FFA's Meats Evaluation Team will be making their 3rd appearance in the National Contest in nine years. The team consists of Leah Patterson, daughter of Jim and Mariann Patterson of Bingham; Marcia Hefker, daughter of Jack and Sharon Hefker of Carrizozo; Lisa Hightower, daughter of Gary and Beth Hightower of Ancho; and John Maxwell, son of Morgan and Doris Maxwell of Claunch.

Leah was the overall high individual at the state contests this past April. These students have an outstanding list of accomplishments and have won more contests than any Carrizozo team to date.

The Meats Evaluation Contest is a complex contest that helps students learn specific details about Meat and the Meats Industry. Each student must correctly identify 30 meat retail cuts, naming the species and primal cut they are derived from. The catch is that there are over 200 retail cuts to choose from and many can be cut and displayed differently.

A written exam will test overall knowledge about the industry and products, and a complex problem solving exercise formulating processed beef products like sausages, bologna, and ground beef will test a student's skill of selection of proper ingredients. All of this must be accomplished while students are in a meat cooler at approximately 30 degrees plus a wind chill.

The national contest sponsored by Hormel and Oscar Mayer will begin at 10:30 Thursday morning and will run through the day until 4:30 p.m.

A team comprised of John Roueche, Steve Stearns, and Gray Gallacher placed 10th in 1983, and the 1985 team of Lynn Gallacher, Mike Curtis and Jamie Patterson placed 18th. This year's team placed 2nd in the 1988 state contest and represented New Mexico at Denver last November where they were Champion Team in Meats Identification and 3rd in overall competition. The team will be sharpening skills along the way to Kansas City by visiting Iowa Beef Processor Plants in Amarillo, TX and Emporia, KS. The coach of the team is Michael Gaines, agriculture education instructor at Carrizozo High School.

The Agriculture Mechanics team accomplishments match those of the 1985 and 1986 teams. This year's state winners are Ted Offutt, son of Eldon and Kathy Offutt of Bingham; Loren and Leah Patterson, son and daughter of Jim and Mariann Patterson of Bingham; John Maxwell, son of Morgan and Doris Maxwell of Claunch; and Bret Barham, son of Gordon and Jan Barham of Carrizozo.

This year's contest will include skills, problems and written tests over tractor power and machinery, agriculture buildings and structures and land conservation and measurement.

The contest is sponsored by Firestone Tire and Rubber Company and will begin at noon on Thursday at Ft. Osage Vocational Technical School east of Kansas City. The team is also coached by Michael Gaines.

Breakfasts and luncheons will highlight the competitions with Agriculture Mechanics Awards presented on Friday and Meats Awards presented on Saturday morning at the Hyatt Regency Hotel.

Winterize your car against the elements with these preventive steps for safe driving all season:

- Engine: Get a tune-up if it has not been done within the past 10,000 miles. This should include fresh spark plugs.

Ernest V. Joiner's OPINION

On Oct. 7 a pickup truck traveling at high speed rear-ended the vehicle driven by Cynthia Morales on the outskirts of Carrizozo. Cynthia was injured probably for life, and her baby daughter was killed. At this writing no criminal action has been taken against the driver and two passengers, all soldiers stationed at Ft. Bliss. The tragic accident, in which no criminal complaints have been filed, has given rise to an ironic joke around Carrizozo. First man: "When are criminal charges going to be filed in the Cynthia Morales case?" Second guy: "As soon as Cynthia is released from the hospital—she'll be charged with not wearing her seatbelt."

One month after the crash no criminal charges have been filed. Civil action has been taken by Cynthia's attorney, Gary Mitchell, against the soldiers. As a former criminal investigator myself, I am appalled the way law enforcement officers and officials are handling, or not handling, this case. Here are the questions angry citizens of Carrizozo are asking, and no official is answering. Why were there no drug or alcohol tests conducted following the accident? Four witnesses say beer containers were flying everywhere and even being hidden in bushes by the soldiers immediately following the crash. Why have not these containers been recovered, and why have not citations been issued for driving a truck when driver and/or passengers were in possession of open containers? It took an hour and a half for a state policeman to arrive on the scene. Why? When the policemen arrived he chatted with the soldiers but did not administer a breathalyzer test. Before the state policeman arrived a Carrizozo police officer and a Lincoln County deputy sheriff chatted with the soldiers, but no report of their findings were made. Why?

While the soldiers waited for the state police to arrive they laughed, joked and lamented over damage to their truck. They never mentioned the baby's death or the mother's injuries. This newspaper has found four eyewitnesses who will testify that the soldiers were throwing beer bottles and cans out of the cab of their truck following the crash. Lonnie Matthews said he took one of the bottles home with him. How come the state police or the district attorney have not interviewed these witnesses? David Swift was on the scene. He said the soldiers were stuffing their mouths with chewing gum, probably to cover the smell of alcohol. He said the men appeared to be drinking. Why were they not seized, questioned and tested at the crash site rather than waiting a month to try and find out if alcohol was involved? Sheriff Barney Bert Atkins said "the case is under investigation." One month later? Atkins said the case is complicated because of some questions of law. No kidding, what laws?

Atkins says the investigation (if any) is based on the "cause or approximate cause" of the child's death. Any jackass knows the child died because of injuries sustained in the crash. Will they rule the child's death a suicide? Will they claim the mother killed the baby and used the crash to cover up the crime? Meanwhile, the DA says nothing. "No comment." "The investigation continues." And all that, cherished readers, is unadulterated bullshit.

It is very difficult for this newspaper to get information from law enforcement officials. They seem to believe that what they do or do not do is none of the public's business. When we call the state police for information we are informed that the report is still in possession of the arresting or investigating officer. When we contact that officer he tells us the report has been forwarded to his superiors. When we call his superiors we are informed that the report has not yet arrived. Officials frequently avoid giving information by saying the case is still "under investigation." So what, he must have some information whether the case is solved or not. What that official means is that he's not going to release any information for reasons known only to himself.

What is there in the law enforcement business in this area that all but eliminates the public from its activities? Perhaps it is the sense of power (over others) that makes them feel important. Perhaps they feel they have some kind of franchise and that nobody has a right to know what's going on, even though it is that neglected public that is providing funds for the officer's salary and perks of office. All regard themselves as "public servants" only when running for office or for re-election. The rest of the time, "stay the hell out of my business."

There are open record laws in New Mexico. Police arrest records are public, but the mayor of Carrizozo refuses to provide these records to the media. Sheriff department arrests, along with most of its activities, are public records. Reporters have a problem getting those records, other than the name, charge and disposition. Everywhere in New Mexico newspapers are publishing these law enforcement records—but not in Lincoln County. Why? If we have these public servants, and if we have public records, how come they aren't public in Lincoln County? Bring back Billy the Kid.

After years of pondering the unique situation in Lincoln County regarding public records, I have concluded that the records are withheld because some "friend or relative" of the official is involved. And since so many people in the area are "friends or relatives" of the officials, the records will never be released. The only way to get the records is to sue the officials for withholding them. This is a long and expensive process, but it is the only way to get the records. The records are withheld because some "friend or relative" of the official is involved. And since so many people in the area are "friends or relatives" of the officials, the records will never be released. The only way to get the records is to sue the officials for withholding them. This is a long and expensive process, but it is the only way to get the records.

SANTA FE—The heroes are coming! America's greatest military heroes will be honored by New Mexico during the 16th annual convention of the Congressional Medal of Honor Society, to be held in Albuquerque, Nov. 6-12 in conjunction with Veterans Week activities.

The society was formed to preserve the dignity of the Congressional Medal of Honor, the highest United States military decoration. The medal is awarded in the name of Congress for "conspicuous gallantry at the risk of life, above and beyond the call of duty."

There are approximately 225 living recipients of the medal. New Mexico has four of them—Col. Bob Scott of Santa Fe, Hiroshi Miyamura of Gallup, and Raymond (Jerry) Murphy and Richard Rocco of Albuquerque. About 150 of the recipients are expected to attend.

New Mexico's four medal winners are a much higher proportion of the living recipients than would be statistically expected. But then New Mexicans have always distinguished themselves for gallantry.

Bob Scott received his medal in 1943. His unit was engaged in a fierce battle for an airstrip in the Solomon Islands. When the enemy launched a massive attack, the rest of the company withdrew. But Scott stood alone. With only a blasted tree stump for cover, he threw grenade after grenade and single-handedly pushed back the enemy. Inspired, the rest of the company rushed forward to capture a strategic hilltop. Four days later, they claimed the airstrip.

Murphy and Rocco distinguished themselves by carrying comrades to safety despite serious injuries—Murphy, in Korea; Rocco, in Vietnam.

Miyamura was captured while giving first aid and support to his men. Congress granted him the award while he was a prisoner and for his own protection, kept the honor quiet. When he was released, he was met on Freedom Bridge by a high-ranking general, who personally placed the medal around his neck.

Since 1962, medals have been bestowed on 3,393 men and one woman. The reason for the difference is that the medal is awarded only to those who are armed combat. Since women officers do not engage in combat, they are not eligible for the medal. This is a point of contention in the past which has caused some controversy.

belongings of a descendant. It is in perfect shape, including the red, white and blue neck ribbon on which it is displayed.

The medal rests in a safe in the office of the clerk of the US House of Representatives awaiting a decision on its disposition. It would seem a wise idea for the society to develop a proposal at this meeting for an appropriate location of permanent display.

Featured events at the convention include an "All Period Historical Military Ball," on Friday, Nov. 10. Live bands will entertain with music from throughout our history. Costumes and uniforms are encouraged.

On Veterans Day, Nov. 11, the "Above and Beyond" parade will feature marching units from active and reserve military organizations, historical reenactments and a fly-over of historical military aircraft.

That evening at the "Patriots Award Banquet," Lee Iacocca will receive the society's award at a formal dinner. Iacocca was nominated for the Patriot Award by Raymond Murphy of Albuquerque.

In his nomination, Murphy said, "Mr. Iacocca has a proven track record of service to our nation. His service as chairman of the Statue of Liberty Foundation helped to make our nation's bicentennial a resounding success. His management of Ford and Chrysler has helped to make America strong. His actions rebuilding Chrysler has helped to restore confidence in American-made products and is making us more competitive on international markets."

Iacocca is the 19th American to be singled out for this award by the society. He will also deliver the keynote speech.

New Mexico can be proud to be hosting this prestigious organization. It is fitting to have them in our state. We hope they will like us well enough to return.

Members of the society are fond of saying, however, that they hope they are the last people to ever receive the coveted award.

Notice

The Lincoln County Courthouse will be closed tomorrow, Friday, Nov. 10, for Veterans' Day. All offices will open at their regular time Monday.

GOOD BAD MAN

Two New Mexico women believe they have discovered why the legend of Billy the Kid lives on. Lee Priestley and Marquita Peterson began research for their book, "The Good Side of a Bad Man" by asking themselves how Billy fit in with the code of the West, the law that prevailed in New Mexico in the late 1800s.

They wanted to know what kind of a bad man Billy was because there are good bad men and bad bad men. Their findings, compiled from interviews and correspondence from descendants of those who knew Billy best confirmed that Billy was a good bad man and followed the unwritten code: a man doesn't expect anyone to solve his problems.

The authors are trying to point out that nobody ever really stood up for Billy. They hope to help him get so from the "bad guys." They were mostly Hispanics who inhabited small ranches and villages and the soldiers, Priestley said the people who wrote to them during their research confirmed that Billy probably shot only five or six men and not 21 as legend goes. Of the five or six, one letter writer said, "Three or four were in self-defense and the others needed killing."

HARD COPY

I have on occasion tuned in to an interesting newsmagazine TV show called "Hard Copy" on Channel 4. Among topics covered by raving reporters: cosmetic surgery for men; school bus safety; sex on TV and interviews with top newsmakers or people in the limelight.

One show brief that caught my attention was an item that featured my favorite politician, "The Old Spanish Alamo." It has gone into the hospital again. They showed that from a table full of oranges, bananas peels and old gloves.

Letters to the Editor

Right-to-work law needed

EDITOR—Last week, when I told the delegates to the AFL-CIO convention in Albuquerque that I believed the passage of a right-to-work law in New Mexico "would be an important signal and a significant tool in the development of a diversified economy," I knew it could well prompt a vehement outpouring of feelings on both sides of the issue.

What I have been surprised by, and pleased with, is the outpouring of support from people in Carrizozo who have taken the time to call or send notes telling me they agree that this is an economic development and job creation step we should be willing to take.

Carrizozo has been aggressive on its own in looking for a diversified job base, and I want to emphasize that it is those type of efforts I'm committed to supporting—both with legislation and investment dollars.

We need to create opportunities for existing businesses in Carrizozo to expand, to export their products and services, to increase their work forces and to provide the type of incentives that will allow them to hire new employees at motivating wages. The multi-part economic development plan I would seek from the legislature is designed to help accomplish that.

I will be in Carrizozo very soon to give the specific details of that plan, and to personally thank the many people who've taken the time to contact me in support of my commitment to creating economic development tools.

US Day, not UN Day

EDITOR—Every October, there are publicity campaigns urging Americans to applaud the United Nations. There should instead be warnings to the American people that the UN and true Americanism are completely incompatible.

If we begin at the beginning we see that the US Declaration of Independence starts with a belief in God, a fundamental premise that the UN totally rejects. Because our Founding Fathers maintained that everyone's rights proceed from their creator, they built a system of government limited merely to protecting those rights. But under the UN's flawed philosophy, rights proceed from government; consequently government's powers are not limited and totalitarian regimes like the USSR and Red China are most welcome in the world body.

Members of the John Birch Society feel it imperative that Americans realize what a UN-styled world government would mean. Should the UN prevail, freedom as we have known it will disappear because the Declaration and the Constitution would be strangled. In addition, the World organization would make it a responsibility to redistribute America's wealth to other lands. And our nation would end up with non-productive state-run industries like those in socialist and communist countries.

If the UN were to become the only military force in the interests of keeping peace, it would also have sufficient power to establish tyranny. Placing such power in any single repository is a virtual guarantee that it would be used wrongly. There would be peace all right, but it would be like the peace of the grave.

The Birch Society urges Americans to celebrate US Day not UN Day. "Our nation should never compromise its fundamentally sound underpinnings. It is also well past time that the US get out of the UN, and get that anti-American circus out of the United States."

Six years before his death, Franklin wrote to a friend: "I look upon death to be as necessary to our constitution as sleep. We shall rise refreshed in the morning."

Twenty thousand citizens of the new republic attended Franklin's funeral in Philadelphia. Mourners represented every arm of society, including the clergy, law, medicine, government, business, and public and private organizations.

W. Boyes and Keith Wilis visited Corona Friday looking into the UFO said to have landed on the old Foster ranch in July 1947. Boyes came out from Maryland and has been to the Floyd Proctors twice but has yet to see anything that resembles extra-terrestrial material.

Boyes was with NASA for 15 years and although the space agency officially denies the existence of UFOs, the astronauts did see some on their various flights.

Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Ratliff, Santa Theresa, were here over the weekend to help with the Holleyman delivery.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Roberts and granddaughter Rheana, Ruidoso, were here Saturday to get wood and to have lunch with a cousin, Robin Pfeiffer.

Richard Gates called from Idaho one day last week seeking information on missile silos here, and would not believe there were none in the immediate vicinity.

Sheriff's report

Lincoln County Sheriff's Department personnel highlighted their week with an investigation of a brawl at the White Oaks Saloon.

Saloon proprietor Bob Watson called the department around 5 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 29, that a suspect with a knife was attacking one of his customers and the man was possibly stabbed and had problems breathing.

Carrizozo ambulance, Sheriff James McSwane and Deputy Gilbert Archuleta responded. When they arrived at the saloon, the subject who was allegedly attacked, Sam Ruiz of Carrizozo, said he fell down and hurt his head. McSwane said Ruiz refused treatment and made a statement that he fell and gashed his forehead between the eyebrows.

No arrests were made.

In other sheriff's department activities:

Stella Chavez of Carrizozo filed a complaint at 8:40 a.m. Oct. 25 that her husband, Luciano Chavez, 30, was at the Fina station where she worked, causing a "riot" by breaking windows, and harassing her. He left the scene but was later detained by officers. He was taken to the Lincoln County jail and released the following day.

He appeared before magistrate judge Gerald Dean Jr. where he pleaded to the charge of criminal damage. He received a 180-day sentence and a $500 fine. The sentence was suspended if Chavez enters the 21-day in-house alcohol treatment at Pecos Valley Lodge. He was admitted Oct. 27.

Steve Garrison of Gavilan Canyon Hill Road

reported a burglary at 9:30 a.m. Oct. 26. He reported his neighbor's house was burglarized for a television and microwave oven. Officers are investigating.

Michael Trujillo, south of Ruidoso Downs, reported an attempted burglary at 7:59 p.m. Oct. 26. Nothing was taken.

Conne Otero of Carrizozo reported a breaking and entering and vandalism of her home at 9:29 a.m. Oct. 28. Carrizozo Police Department is investigating.

Dorena R. Apodaca, 21, of La Luz, reported an accident with injuries in Carrizozo on Oct. 28. According to investigating Carrizozo Police Officer John Northrup, Apodaca and her son Joshua were taken to Lincoln County Medical Center in Ruidoso after her car was struck by a vehicle driven by Yvonne D. Peters of Carrizozo at the intersection of 5th Street and D Ave. at 9:28 a.m. They were treated and released. Peters was cited with failure to yield right of way in an intersection and Apodaca was cited for failure to show proof of insurance.

Two juveniles were arrested near Carrizozo after they walked away from La Placita Re-integration Center in Alamogordo at 10:06 a.m. Oct. 30. Deputies detained the juveniles at Lincoln County Jail until juvenile authorities picked them up.

Pam Moore of the Loma Grande area reported a breaking and entering at her home which resulted in criminal damage and vandalism at 6:08 p.m. Oct. 30. Officers are investigating.

Halloween mischief was reported in Carrizozo, Capitan and the Gavilan Canyon Road area.

Officers responded to a bank alarm at the Ruidoso State Bank office in Capitan at 5:20 p.m. Halloween.

A Lincoln County jailer discovered two illegals attempting a breaking and entering of the 4-Winds Restaurant and Lounge at 5:06 a.m. Oct. 31. The jailer discovered the break-in attempt when he was transporting a prisoner to the state hospital in Las Vegas. McSwane said the jailer recognized the attempt and arrested the men. They were turned over to the US Border Patrol.

State police office in Alamogordo reported an attempted burglary at 7:57 a.m. Nov. 1 of the Corona Cafe in Corona. A window was broken but no entry was gained.

Denna Ortega of San Patricio called at 9:49 a.m. Nov. 1 that a dog bit her. The dog was later impounded by deputies at the Lincoln County Kennels at Fort Stanton.

McSwane said he is in the process of requesting customs officials increase inspection of the train as the majority of illegals arrive in Carrizozo that way.

Also, persons wanting entry to the Water Canyon gate need not get the key from the sheriff's office as rancher Bill Stephenson will leave the gate open until Nov. 28.
