$540,000 bond election set for April 3

Carrizozo Board of Education approved a $540,000 bond issue, extended the superintendent's contract for two more years, and heard from Sandy Gladden on the recent Special Education evaluation at the regular board meeting Monday night.

The board agreed to meet Monday, rather than the usual Tuesday meeting time because of a conflict with a home basketball game, at a special work session meeting conducted Thursday, Jan. 11. At the special meeting, the board retired to closed session to evaluate the superintendent.

Also at the special meeting, the board discussed a needs assessment based on a list of equipment and improvements which can be obtained only with a bond election. Teachers and other staff added their needs to the list which led the board to agree on a bond election for $540,000 on April 3. A two-mill levy also will be requested of voters at the same time. The mill levy funds can be used for maintenance but not operational expenses. The mill levy, allowable by Senate Bill 9, also leads to matching funds from the state based on the number of students.

At the Monday meeting, the board approved the resolution calling for a $540,000 bond election and a two-mill levy on April 3. Carrizozo Schools Supt. Danny Burnett said the board decided to go with the $540,000 because of the list compiled by school staff. Originally, the board was looking at a $500,000 bond.

According to Charles Casey of Rilee and Associates investment bankers, who presented the bonding information and resolutions, said the passage of the bond would, if based on a 12-year maturity, increase property taxes from 5.274 per thousand dollars taxable value to 6.058 per thousand dollars taxable value.

The two-mill levy will not increase taxes, rather will just continue the mill levy currently in place. If the levy is not passed, the school will not receive any matching funds from the state, Casey said.

The board also approved the procedures for the election.

After an hour in closed session to discuss a motion to extend the superintendent's contract to two years, the board returned to open session and approved the two-year contract. It was learned that the evaluations on Burnett were nothing but positive.

"Carrizozo schools have had amazing progress from 1986 until now," said Sandy Gladden, director of Region IX Special Education Cooperative, who reported on an evaluation by the state department of education of Carrizozo Schools special education program Jan. 5.

Gladden said the evaluators, Dr. Nancy Sherry and Diane Turner, gave special commendations to CAPITAN SENIOR band student Beth Sweeney was selected as a member of the American Southwest Honor Band which will perform Feb. 4 at New Mexico State University in Las Cruces. She auditioned with trumpeters from New Mexico and two other states. First chair in trumpet at Capitan High School, Sweeney has been involved with band for at least seven years.

P&Z 'initiates' new members

By Doris Cherry

The Lincoln County Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z) initiated their two newly-appointed members with a four-hour public hearing on amending the solid waste ordinance, Jan. 11.

New members Mike Randle, San Patricio, and Audean Franklin from the Alto area were briefed by county attorney Robert Beauvais about County Ordinance 85-3, pertaining to regulating solid waste in Lincoln County. The purpose of the public hearing was to amend the ordinance to give it stricter regulation language and more definitions.

Beauvais also related some history of the 1988 Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance which cannot be finalized until a plan containing maps of zones is completed and accepted. With the 1988 zoning ordinance, the county could require persons to file for a special use permit for certain activities, including landfills.

P&Z instructed the mapping process begin and funds were budgeted at the mid-year review. County manager Nick Pappas said he, the assessor's office and surveyor or Tim Collins will begin work on the maps, using certain criteria to determine what areas will be zoned as residential, commercial, agricultural and so on. Basically, most of the county will be agricultural, but areas along the major highways and around Ruidoso will be residential and commercial, Pappas said. Other areas might be known as "rural suburban."

Pappas preferred to call the zoning maps a "land-use plan."

Franklin requested P&Z be able to work on the maps with Pappas and Collins. Pappas said most preliminary work will be done for presentation at P&Z. However, Franklin was insistent on participating, "it's the only way we're going to be knowledgeable."

The maps may be ready for public hearings by June or July, which led Beauvais to emphasize why Ordinance 85-3 needs strengthening. And to protect the county before the comprehensive plan is complete, Beauvais said 85-3 should be updated as soon as possible.

Although 85-3 provides the county police powers authority to enforce solid waste regulations, Beauvais suggested changing the definition system and picking up the state statute language about solid waste.

After the briefing, P&Z began to take public comment.

Calvin Wesch of Glencoe, who represented at least two other property owners in the Hondo Valley area, said he wanted the county to prohibit garbage from being dumped within two miles of a live stream, specifically the Rio Hondo, Bonito and Ruidoso; make the depth of groundwater in an area considered for a landfill be 250-300 feet; prevent garbage from blowing and monitor toxics.

"We're hauling trash out, let's not haul it back in here," Wesch said.

Dorothy Forsythe of Carrizozo suggested the county consult the Environmental Improvement Division (EID) for recommendations of areas in Lincoln County which would be suitable for a landfill. She said the Malpais area would be good as there are no rivers or streams. She said a fear Beauvais expressed about proposals in other counties to construct major private prisons, with no county power to stop such activities because of no zoning ordinance, should be considered positively.

"Rather than have to fight and beg, Lincoln County could use a lucrative business," she said about a county-owned landfill and taking garbage as a money-making project.

Susie Randle of San Patricio said the county should consider the 100-year flood plains, arroyos and dry creek beds to avoid drainage problems when flooding occurs.

Jim Edwards from near Ruidoso Downs and an EID employee, warned the county to be careful of working that limits the proximity of landfills to watercourses, since most watercourses in the county could be dry or intermittent.

Tony Dickerson of the Hondo Valley said such limits to waterways could affect dumps which are classified to take construction wastes which some landowners in the valley have. He did say the visibility of a landfill from major tourist routes should be considered.

10th Anniversary

New Horizons has been a boon to handicapped

New Horizons Developmental Center, Inc. celebrates its 10th anniversary Jan. 26.

According to a press release, the center was incorporated in September 1979. Bill G. Payne filed the original incorporation papers. He served on the first board of directors along with Mary Rich Adams, Rene Burton, Bettye Dean, Rev. David Lynch, Fr. David Bergs, Robert Stearns, Delfinia Vega, Howard Shanks, John A. Hightower, Lucy Wilson and Dr. Craig Nelson.

Before incorporation New Horizons operated as a satellite of Zia Therapy Center in Alamogordo starting in July, 1978.

The original mission of New Horizons was to offer prevocational and vocational training opportunities in a community setting for mentally retarded clients residing at Fort Stanton Training School and Hospital. Clients were bussed in from Ft. Stanton five days a week.

Several Carrizozo businesses provided jobs for the clients, including: Outpost Bar and Grill, Post Office, Shop Rite, Crossroads Motel, Evergreen Cemetery, Carrizozo Health Center, Belco Industries and Jackie's Restaurant. Roy's Gift Gallery, The Aspen Tree, The Incredible and King's Food

Mart have all sold items produced by the clients over the years. Many homeowners also provided yard work for the center's clients.

In August 1980, Casa Linda, a group home for eight clients from Ft. Stanton, was opened. In 1983 Casa Linda was converted to an ICF/MR facility for 10 elderly clients. That same year another group home, Casa del Sol, was opened for six younger clients.

Over the years numerous clients have moved on to other group homes closer to families or home communities. In 1987 Casa del Sol was

Address changes, closures foul up county election process

Election problems began to crop up the week following the declaration of candidacy day Jan. 9 in various Lincoln County municipalities.

Correct addresses on the certified voter registration affidavit appears to be a major problem in Ruidoso Downs and many other municipalities throughout the state of New Mexico.

An overlap of closed books for voter registration because of school bond elections has caused a problem for at least one potential candidate, and a challenge of residency has been made in Ruidoso.

Last year the Village of Ruidoso Downs, in agreement with Continental Telephone Company of the West, readressed the lots and changed names of some streets. Which left the 634 registered voters of that precinct with voter registration affidavits that were incorrect.

The state municipal elections code requires the actual physical location of a voter's residence, with a house and street or rural route number.

Ruidoso Downs deputy clerk Leann Wehbrecht said villagers can change their registration any time, but they cannot be denied the right to vote in the upcoming municipal and school bond elections. Lincoln County Clerk Martha Proctor said she was advised by Hoyt Clifton, head of the New Mexico Bureau of Elections in the secretary of state's office, to allow the voting on the old registrations, but all registrations must be changed before the primary election in June.

Ruidoso also is affected by the overlap of registration book closures for the municipal election and school bond election. Registration closed for any Ruidoso voter living within the Ruidoso School District on Jan. 8 and remains closed until Feb. 22. This overlaps with the regular registration closure for the municipal election which is from Feb. 6 until March 12. Election is March 6.

The registration of voters must cease 28 days before election and opens again the following Monday, according to the state election code. Because of this rule, Jacky Brewer of Ruidoso Downs was shut out of a chance to run for the office of trustee.

Brewer was disqualified because she did not list her physical residency on her voter registration affidavit. Since she registered rules have changed on the requirements. The error was caught too late to meet their voter registration deadline, and with the books closed until after the school election and much later than the write-in filing date of Jan. 23, Brewer was unable to make her bid for office.

Proctor issued a note to voter registrars to let them know they can still register voters during that time the books are closed. However, the affidavit will not be processed until the books re-open and the person cannot vote until that time. In cases where the book closures overlap, such as the Ruidoso Schools election and the Ruidoso municipal election, the books will be re-opened at 5 p.m., Feb. 6. Registrations received by the county clerk will be entered and the books will close immediately after the entries are made.

Also voters with address changes must reregister before 5 p.m., May 8, if they wish to vote in the state primary election. Persons wishing to change party affiliations must do so before Jan. 29, which leaves out many voters in municipalities which have school bond elections.

The challenge of residency was heard in Ruidoso,

Burnett who helped initiate a program that "follows what is right for the student rather than what is least expensive."

Carrizozo district received no citations on their special education program, their special evaluators were impressed, "ecstatic" and considered the special education program in Mike Gaines' VoAg program to be "par excellence."

Special education teacher Gretchen Becker was highly complimented for being "extremely" well prepared.

Three suggestions for improvement included the need for more narration in the individual students' education plan; the need for a form to document parent involvement in the developmentally disabled three and four-year-old program and the need for more parent-teacher meetings to acquaint new teachers to parents.

The three-and four-year-old program was commended for its organization and quality of data and screening.

"This was just an exceptional screening report," Gladden said. "Not all the monitors are this nice."

School auditor De'Aun Willoughby also had praise for Carrizozo schools when she reported no recommendations for the 1988-89 school audit. She found nothing which showed the school did not follow the laws and regulations on federal programs and nothing which showed material weakness in internal control.

"Your school has very strong internal control," she said. "Your financial records by far are the best at any school I've seen."

Willoughby also explained the lateness of the report was due to inaccuracies in the special education section, a problem found in at least three other schools in the area. She said she contacted the state department of education about the problem and hopes the accounting procedures will be rewritten at the state level.

Burnett also said Willoughby offered accounting assistance to school staff during the year, which ultimately helped in preparation of the audit.

In other business, the board:

—Acknowledged Miguel Najjar in elementary, Jacob Portillo in mid-high and Robert Sandoval in high school as students of the month of January. Students are selected by teachers based on academics, manners, leadership and good citizenship. People For Kids (PFK) presents certificates and educational gifts to the students.

—Heard Burnett announce the boys basketball team was rated number one in Class A schools in New Mexico and was named as KBIM-TV Sun Country Team of the Week. Guy Archuleta was named as Sun Country Player of the Week.

—Agreed to meet in a special work session to compile board goals.

—Heard senior sponsor Bob Hemphill say the seniors have about $6900 and tentatively plan to go to Disneyland.

converted to an ICF/MR facility for four women and Casa Linda's capacity increased to 15.

There are now nine male and 10 female clients residing at New Horizons who consider Carrizozo their home. They range in age from 41 to 85.

The town of Carrizozo has been very receptive of clients living at New Horizons. They have been made welcome at local restaurants, beauty parlors, community events, Zia Senior Citizens Center, grocery stores, recreational Center and other businesses as well as private homes. Several Lincoln County service organizations and schools have had parties and bingo games for the clients over the years.

The primary objective of New Horizons is to teach clients to become independent as possible. Staff pay close attention to their health care and happiness and strive to enhance their quality of life.

There are 25 full and part-time people employed at New Horizons. They provide services 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Most of the staff live in Carrizozo, all live in Lincoln County. Several staff members were actually born in the building they now work in because New Horizons is housed in the former Carrizozo Municipal Hospital which was built in 1949.

In addition to the regular staff, services also are provided by Carrizozo Health Center, a dietitian, pharmacist, occupational therapist, speech therapist, physical therapist, medical records technician, mental health technician and a registered nurse. The annual budget has grown from approximately $70,000 to more than $500,000. Current annual payroll is $300,000. New Horizons is one of the largest employers in Carrizozo and definitely impacts the economy in Lincoln County.

Current board members are Phyllis Schlegel, president; John A. Hightower, vice-president; Sarah Gnatkowski, secretary; Archie Witham, treasurer; Mary Chavez, Harold Shanks and Nick Pappas.

New Horizons will host its anniversary celebration from 5-7 p.m. Friday, Jan. 26 at the center. The public is invited.

Sheriff's report

Family feud livens up a dull Saturday

Kentucky has its feud between the Hatfields and McCoys, but Carrizozo had its feud between the Culleys and the Samoras.

At 5:17 p.m. Saturday, Cindy Culley of Lava Court in Carrizozo called the Lincoln County Sheriff's office to report a dispute between her family and the Samora family, who all live on the same street. When Carrizozo police officer John Northrup arrived Johnny Culley and his mother came up to his vehicle yelling they wanted him to arrest the Samoras. However, Paul Samora and his family were on their own property.

Northrup saw W.J. Culley fumbling around with a small caliber handgun. He succeeded in getting Culley to put the gun down and he placed himself between Culley and the handgun. Someone yelled "there's another gun," Northrup's report stated.

However, another gun was not found and the feud heated to the point that both sides were shouting profanities at each other. Carrizozo officer Rick Emmons also came to assist as sheriff's deputy Larry Bond.

"We had about 15 people going at each other," Northrup's report stated. But with the help of Bond and Emmons, the dispute was somewhat quieted and the handgun disappeared. The officers got everyone writing statements.

W.J. Culley filed trespass charges against Paul Samora Tuesday in Municipal Judge S. M. Ortiz's court. Samora filed charges against John and W.J. Culley for use of a deadly weapon and exposing others to danger and a charge against W.J. on battery Wednesday afternoon. Samora was scheduled for first appearance on Jan. 23 in Ortiz's court.

In other sheriff's activities:

Jim Tully of Glencoe was most concerned about weather conditions and the possibility of groundwater contamination by a landfill in a valley where the water table gets progressively shallower when closer to the river.

"This is the worst thing to happen to our area as we're ready to expand and grow," Tully said.

P&Z also discussed other waste problems such as where to put petroleum wastes, old tires, and other materials which could be recycled. Currently the county is expecting approval of a grant to conduct a feasibility study of recycling wastes. To educate the public on recycling monitoring solid waste, the county will be working with an environmentalist group, Pappas said.

Since any entity which provides waste disposal services or a landfill must monitor and document the wastes, Beauvais suggested specific language for illegal matter placed in dumpster. He used the example of a rumor he heard that someone put a dead horse into one of the county dumpsters as something which needs monitoring.

Large violations of the illegal dumping ordinance will be investigated and the sheriff's officers have been instructed by Beauvais what to look for in the terms of evidence. After reviewing 85-3 section by section, P&Z agreed to include in the recommended amendments the two-mile limit to flowing water, specifically Rios Hondo, Ruidoso, Bonito, Carrizo and other flowing streams and the distance to underground water at a landfill area must be at least 250 feet for all four classes of landfills. All P&Z members voted yes for the 250-foot limit but LaMoyné Carpenter who voted no.

When discussing the distance to surface water, Carl Stubbs of the EID, said private landowners can dispose of family solid waste on their own property in a manner which would not violate EID regulations. There is little chance family dumps could lead to groundwater contamination, Stubbs said.

Edwards warned the county not to make the distance limit so strict it leads to hardship on persons who live in outlying areas.

Susie Randle was aghast the state regulations would permit individuals to make private family dumps.

In a similar request, P&Z approved the recommended amendment to limit a landfill from being closer than two and a half miles from development. Beauvais said development would consist of several homes and perhaps a small commercial operation. And P&Z approved the requirement there be no visibility of a landfill from any thoroughfare.

At Wesch's suggestion, P&Z also approved a severability clause, the same as in the 1988 ordinance, be added to 85-3.

Beauvais encouraged P&Z to adopt permitting procedure for landfills. How will the county process relate to the state, he asked.

He then suggested the county require a landfill developer to have an approved state permit before a county permit, since the state regulations address many of the technicalities of the landfill.

"I think it is grossly unfair to require a state permit first," Pappas replied.

P&Z member James Sanchez directed Beauvais to develop a procedure for P&Z to look at later.

Pappas and Beauvais also reported on the illegal subdivisions which P&Z directed them to investigate at the last meeting. Pappas said seven subdivisions have major problems and one was in actual violation of the law. At the last county commissioners meeting, Pappas was directed to prepare affidavits which show status of the subdivision to attach to disclosure statements and on files in the manager's and clerk's offices.

A report on the subdivisions will be ready by the next P&Z meeting scheduled for Thursday, Jan. 25.

A public hearing for the proposed cemetery on Highway 70 was postponed at the developer's request.

New officers host CowBelle meeting

The Canyon CowBelles' first meeting of the year was held at the United New Mexico Jan. 3, with the new officers as hostesses.

New officers are: Lisa Ann Ferguson, 1st vice-president, Donna Doty, 2nd vice-president, Annie Withers, secretary, Cheri Goad, treasurer Margaret Stearns, and reporter Joyce May.

The Canyon CowBelles sent a $300 donation to the Girl's Ranch before Christmas. This money was collected from the members birthday donations, door prize donations, and the Christmas party donations. The gas grill that was raffled at the Christmas party was won by Wayne Duncan, husband of Canyon member Genevieve Duncan.

It was decided at the state convention in December at Albuquerque that Capitan Correinte, Corona Crown and Carrizozo Canyon chapters would like to change from District I to District IV. This would be a change from the northern part of the state to the southern part and would cut down on travel time and more members would be able to attend district meetings. Margaret Stearns was selected as the CowBelle of the Year for 1989 for her loyalty, dedication, and outstanding work for the chapter for many years.

The yearbook volunteers are Anne Ferguson, AnnElise Smith, Annie Withers, Bessie Leslie, Lisa Ann Shivers and Joyce May. They will compile and put the book together, and have it ready for distribution at the February meeting.

The door prize was won by Annie Withers.

The February 7 meeting will be Dutch Lunch in the Steak Room of the Four Winds Restaurant at 11:30.

KAY ZUMWALT AND Randy Dross will be married at Bethel Baptist Church in Roswell at 2 p.m., Feb. 10. Kay is a 1986 graduate of Carrizozo High School and presently works for a beauty shop in Roswell. She is the daughter of Buckley and Carol Zumwalt of Carrizozo. Randy is the son of Wesley and Marlene Dross of Hagerman, and is employed in Roswell. A reception will follow the wedding immediately in the church hall.

AROUND CORONA

Louise and Douglass Gordon-Denniston, pastor candidates for the Mountain Ministry, will speak at the Corona Presbyterian Church Sunday morning. Nogal and Ancho congregations will join with Corona for the service and for the covered dish luncheon to follow. All friends are invited.

Terri and George Rostad, their five children and two foster children, came from Las Vegas Sunday to attend church and to visit with old friends. The Rostads lived here several years ago when he worked for the Elliott ranches. They moved to Montana but came back to New Mexico about two years ago. He is now a truck driver.

Mrs. Lee R. Owen received word Monday of the death of a cousin, Wanda Louise Pharrham of Tuscaloosa, AL. Mrs. Pharrham was hospitalized with pneumonia, but her death was unexpected. She graduated from Corona High School and was a registered nurse. She was the daughter of the late Ethel and Brian Hodge and is survived by her husband, two daughters, and two grandchildren and one brother, Lloyd of Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. A.F. Winchester and Alva Winchester came over from Belen one day last week to visit with Bill before leaving Monday for T or C and Deming where they may spend a few weeks during the winter months.

where in the race for municipal judge candidate Robert Beauvais claimed fellow candidate and newly-appointed municipal judge Charles Hawthorne was not a Ruidoso resident.

The election codes require that residence of a candidate shall be presumed to be at the address or location shown on the original affidavit of voter registration on file with the county clerk. Residency is defined as a place in which habitation is fixed and to which the candidate has intention to return. A change of residence is made only by the act of removal joined with the intent to remain in another place. There can be only one residence.

Also by election rules a challenge of residency can be made anytime before Jan. 23 by 20 petitioners who are voters who present a verified petition to the district court alleging either on personal knowledge or on information that certain persons are not registered to vote in the precincts named in the petition.

According to the New Mexico Municipal League, another candidate may also petition to have a candidate disqualified as an elector. However, proving residency is "slippery in New Mexico," said Bob Jenkins of the municipal league. "It's largely a question of intent (to establish residency)."

Any person making a false statement in the declaration of candidacy is guilty of a fourth degree felony.

The Ruidoso village municipal code state the municipal judge must be a registered, qualified elector of the village and shall reside in the corporate limits of the Village of Ruidoso.

Beauvais has indicated he will let the "election take its course," and not take legal steps to challenge Hawthorne.

In the Village of Corona, the municipal election is set for March 9 and the Corona School District bond election is March 20.

A mistake was made on the Corona School election proclamation and voters will be using paper ballots and not a voting machine. If the district had chosen to use the only voting machine in the precinct a problem would have occurred because voting machines are usually kept closed until 30 days following an election in case of a challenge and recount.

Carrizozo town clerk Carol Schlarb reported no problems with the candidates. However, some in the town of Carrizozo claim that candidate Johnny Johnson is not a town resident. According to Johnson's affidavit of registration in the county clerk's office, he changed the location of his residence from the townsite of Nogal to 1009 C. Ave. in Carrizozo, on Dec. 5, 1989. That location is a small apartment owned by Bob Means, which currently is not being rented.

Capitan village clerk Janet Keel had no problems. She said she reviewed the candidate's forms with each candidate when they filed Jan. 9, to make sure problems, if any, could be detected. Capitan School District does not have a bond or other election this year, so does not have conflicting closure of voter registration for town residents.

Candidates with opposition selected names for position on the ballot last Thursday.

In Capitan for mayor, Benny Coker was in the first slot and Frank C. Warth, second. For the four-year trustee, voters will select two from Gilbert Montoya in the first slot, Lawrence C. Brinkley second, Jack O. Pogue third and Jimmy D. Wright fourth.

For two-year trustees Joel E. Darby was first, Alfred LeRoy Montes second and Myrl Ray third.

Municipal judge candidate Jimmy Z. Stewart is unopposed.

Electrical safety... something an employee shouldn't learn on the job

On-the-job training is a dangerous and expensive way to teach employees about electrical safety. Employers can avoid serious accidents by teaching employees before their jobs begin that they should never contact underground or overhead power lines with anything.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE
CHUCK ROMINGER
THE SOLO ACT
QUESTION: My REALTOR suggested to me that he do a "solo act" when showing our house to prospective buyers. Wouldn't it be wiser for me to accompany them around?
ANSWER: One of the fastest ways to sell your house in a hurry is to keep out of it when it's being shown. First, tell the REALTOR everything that should be known about the house, then let the REALTOR do the selling. He or she is a skilled negotiator and knows how to close a sale without emotional involvement. If you must be around when the house is being shown, greet the prospect graciously, take the children and pets and retire.
Note: Many prospects don't like pets. Why turn them off?
If there is anything I can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at ROMINGER REAL ESTATE CO., 1100 Second Ave., in Carrizozo. Phone 648-2900. One block NE of Courthouse.

OPINION

● Martin Luther King Jr. Birthday is celebrated nationally now. Isn't it time the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the court system open the files that were sealed for 50 years following King's assassination? If there is nothing in the sealed file that damages his memory, why was it sealed in the first place? If there is something derogatory to King, shouldn't the public know what it is before he is elevated to sainthood? If there is nothing in that file to injure his present-day status, why did his widow, Coretta Scott King, intervene and demand the file remain sealed when there was a movement a few years ago to open it and make it public? What is she afraid of?

● Until King's file is unsealed and made public I refuse to observe his birthday. This is Jan. 15 and I'm at work, where I think everybody else should be. I did find time to watch the MacNeill-Lehrer Report on TV, on which Benjamin Hooks of the NAACP made a jackass of himself by shouting that the present US Supreme Court is the worst one since the Dred Scott decision in 1857. Hooks was talking about the recent court's decision that, in Hooks' mind at least, diluted the civil rights gains blacks had made. During his ranting he cited as evidence of racism the fact that many blacks remain uneducated and unemployed. Nobody on the panel mentioned that the opportunity for education is available to every person in the nation, regardless of race. Some people take advantage of educational opportunities and others do not. If blacks go without education it is their own decision, so many do not seize the chance to equip themselves to compete in mainstream America. But why don't they? Nobody wants to discuss the reasons. I suspect there are two: (1) they are too lazy and indifferent to undertake what could be pretty hard work; and (2) they are comfortable with their status; have no ambition to soar to greater heights, and are content with the welfare programs as a substitute for independent, hard work.

● High black unemployment was cited by three members of the panel as evidence that white racism is rampant. None of them suggested that blacks and Hispanics often are unqualified for employment because of lack of training and experience. If a person can't tell a monkey wrench from a screwdriver, he is not going to be employed as a mechanic whether he be black, white or pinstriped. If that person fails to qualify himself for a job, he isn't entitled to one and he isn't going to get one—and what the connection is between his situation and white racism escapes me. This racism business is getting so absurd I wouldn't be surprised to learn that the guy who smashes his thumb with a hammer is a victim of racism.

● Linda Chavez, former Secretary of the Treasury, a Hispanic herself, brought some commonsense to the panel. She said minorities just don't qualify themselves to compete with whites and Asians. She cited the long road a person must go to receive an education, then to break into the workplace where they spend years acquiring necessary skills for advancement. It was suggested that Affirmative Action and racial quotas are "special privileges" accorded minorities, and that what the court recently did was all but eliminate Affirmative Action and quotas. And well they should, for there never was a law creating or maintaining Affirmative Action or establishing quotas. These policies were created, established and enforced by certain court decisions and racial groups like the NAACP. Such policies are crutches to help minorities advance faster and without paying the price of dedication and hard work. What many minorities want is not equal rights and equal opportunity, but special privileges the white majority does not have. Chavez didn't say this, but there was a strong indication that she believes many would like to settle the matter by awarding a Ph.D. to every minority member on their 18th birthday and get the matter over with!

● There is a storm raging at the University of New Mexico where a new president is being selected. Hispanics are enraged because no Hispanic is being considered for the post. They threaten to go to court over the issue. See any racism here? Are university presidents to be selected on the basis of education and experience, or on the basis of race? Look at the qualifications of the two finalists being considered. Both went through the education process—bachelor, master and doctor of philosophy degrees. Both have years of university teaching experience. Both advanced through administrative ranks, gaining knowledge and skills. Undoubtedly there are many Hispanics with similar qualifications, education and experience. They are probably also holding high positions in the education field already and see no reason to apply for a new post.

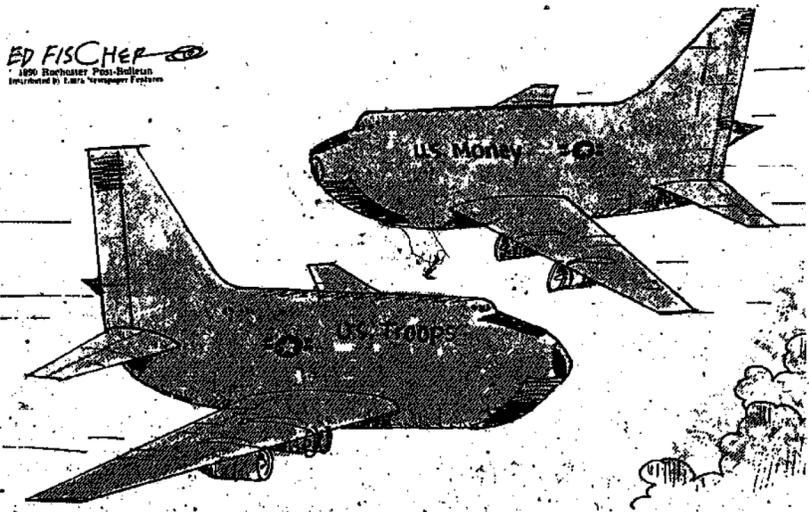

● One of them is the Secretary of the US Department of Education, a former president of Texas Tech University. Like others in similar high positions, he worked long and hard to achieve his goals. No Affirmative Action or racial quotas were involved. He worked hard and took advantage of his opportunities. He was accorded no "special privileges." He met the challenge of competitiveness headon, and won; just as Linda Chavez did. That's the way things are and nothing is going to change it.

Inside The Capitol

By Jay Miller

SANTA FE—Where have we heard this before? Two members of the state House of Representatives are planning to sponsor an ethics bill in the 1990 legislature—tied to a salary package!

Reps. Don Silva, R-Bernalillo, and Pauline Eisenstadt, D-Sandoval, have combined in a bipartisan effort to sell the state's voters on an ethics/pay package.

Both lawmakers are well-aware that Congress just finished going down the same path. But Silva and Eisenstadt want everyone to know that they had discussed the two-part approach well before congress copied their idea.

One major difference between congress' effort and that in New Mexico is that citizens can only complain about a congressional action. In our state, we can vote down pay raises—and we always have.

It doesn't take a public vote to enact an ethics measure. Lawmakers can do that all by themselves, and that's just what Eisenstadt and Silva plan to advocate. If successful, the bill would become law in May. Voters would then decide on the constitutional amendment providing pay to lawmakers in next November's general election. If they vote it down, the ethics measure would remain in effect anyway.

Both House members are in leadership positions of their respective parties. Eisenstadt is Demo Caucus chairman. Silva is the GOP assistant leader. Both are known for novel, progressive legislation—which does not always pass. Silva tried a unicameral legislature bill on the 1989 legislature. It was singularly unsuccessful.

The package sponsors have done something with this proposal that can certainly be classified as novel and progressive. They have sent a draft of their two bills to the press asking for review and input so that our thoughts may be included in the version that is introduced.

The following is my "input," Pauline and Don. Salary proposals have been unsuccessfully attempted for years. Trying in an ethics package provides a certain quid pro quo, which is nice, but if it is needed, it should have already been done anyway.

The secret still lies in selling the voters part of the package to voters. It isn't going to be accomplished by depending on individual lawmakers going to their constituents to promote the idea. Most feel confident asking for a vote but not for a raise. The method still would not likely be effective if every legislator went to every constituent. We tend to respect our own representative or senator but think the rest are a bunch of crooks and would never vote them a penny.

The trick is to change the image of lawmakers in the public's eyes—at least long enough to get their vote. Possibly, the only way that can be done is by having strong support from political commentators, editorial boards and news directors throughout the state. My commendations on taking that tack.

But even unanimous press support might not sell the idea. Voters have this strong feeling you guys knew what you were doing when you got into the legislature. They also like the idea of a citizen legislature outside of which everyone also has a real job. They are afraid you may eventually try to make it a full-time occupation if they give you an inch.

Some proponents have referred to this effort as an attempt to make the legislature more professional. Many citizens, however, would prefer to see their politicians remain amateurs.

Your idea of trying legislative pay to that of the highest paid county commissioner will not pass legal muster since lawmakers set the pay of county commissioners. You'll have to find some other standard.

Basically, both the salary and the ethics packages are good ideas in my mind. It is impossible to ever know how much of a conscientious lawmaker's time is taken up with legislative business at home and in Santa Fe until one has walked in those shoes.

Yes, some legislators are not conscientious. But if all of us in any line of work were punished for the mistakes of a few, none of us would be making anything.

The ethics package is a good faith gesture in return for consideration of the salary proposal. In citizen legislatures, conflict opportunities increase many fold. It will be good to have procedures for dealing with conflicts, whether the salaries pass or not.

Letters to the Editor

Playing the West for suckers

EDITOR—The two Communist giants, China and the USSR, are economic basket cases. More than anything else, their leaders want help from the West. To their everlasting shame, Western officials, particularly in the United States, are providing it. The aid goes to the arch criminals who sit atop these monstrous tyrannies.

The Bush Administration has to justify to the American people the delivery of substantially more aid, trade, credits and high-technology hardware to Moscow and Peking.

Americans are being told Communism is changing. In his book Zbigniew Brzezinski claims that Communism is in a state of "terminal" crisis. The main purpose of the propaganda is to encourage the US to "speed up" the death of Communism—both in the USSR and China with huge transfusions of everything the Communists need. But the transfusions will keep Communism alive, not kill it.

The Soviets may have pulled most of their troops out of Afghanistan—but they left behind a puppet government, Soviet troops dressed in Afghan uniforms, (New York Times) a million dead, four million refugees, and evidence that they rank among history's most barbarous invaders.

Meanwhile, attempts of political freedom in Estonia and Latvia were crushed; poison gas stopped demonstrators in Soviet Georgia; China continues its assault on human rights and aid from the West flows and grows.

Opinion . . . (Cont'd from opposite column)

● Blacks and Hispanics have come a long way since the Civil Rights Act of 1964. One sees the change everywhere. Outwardly, racial tensions are at the lowest point and racial conflict at its highest point. As the panel noted, racial bias has grown inwardly in white America. Much of this is caused by special privileges being granted to minorities. More, I think is generated by the aggressive and constant manner in which blacks, especially, belabor the white community for even more privileges than whites enjoy. The minorities should cease the name-calling, stop shouting "racist!" at anyone who disagrees with them, shut up and get down to the work of enjoying the same opportunities we all share in achieving the goals we want.

FAVORITE POTHOLES

Citizens of Truth or Consequences who want to help improve conditions of their city streets and have fun in the process can do so by donating money to the Adopt-a-Pothole Project.

The Kiwanis Club of Sierra County is sponsoring the project for citizens concerned about the appearance of their community. The club arranged with the city commission to collect the money for the repair of their favorite potholes within the city limits. Funds collected will be used for materials. The city will provide labor and equipment.

To get the ball rolling the school administrator adopted a pothole and challenged the manager of a food market to do the same. He met the challenge and turned around and challenged a banker, who challenged another banker, who adopted not one, but five potholes.

The second banker then re-challenged the first banker who has not met the challenge. A hospital staffer's challenge has not been met and a Methodist minister hasn't moved on his challenge.

This fun kind of fun can be a drag on the pocketbook, don't you think?

ELEPHANTS FOR HIRE

At least 10 wild elephants rampaged through a village 80 miles north of Dhaka, Bangladesh, and flatten about a dozen houses. No one was injured in the episode.

Perhaps an ingenious local civic club could bring these elephants to Carrizozo and use them to raze the vacant buildings that are eyesores.

Wouldn't that be fun to watch? Popcorn can be sold and after all the work is done there could be elephant rides. It could be billed as the town's first annual Elephant Stampede, complete with a parade. That would put Carrizozo on the map.

A LA CARTE

A direct mail fundraising letter sent by a church in New York City offers a list of personal needs and urges recipients to check off their choices and send a donation. The man of the cloth promises to include donors' requests in his prayers at a special service.

Here is a partial checklist of the prayers a la carte:

A closer walk with God, problems sleeping, foot trouble, hay fever, bad habits, hemorrhoids, indigestion, past-due bills, ulcers, need a job, better job, increase in pay, new home, car (what make).

GET SERIOUS

Go ahead. Sneak a look at the front page headlines on the magazines near the check-out counter at the grocery store. They all have easy steps to a leaner figure. The magazines also include luscious-looking photos of foods, pages of recipes and tons of cent-off food coupons.

The real truth for losing excess pounds is never eat these foods; butter, margarine, mayonnaise, sour cream, cream cheese, whole milk products, nuts, high-fat meats, olives, avocados, coconut, fried foods, potato chips, regular salad dressing.

"Del dicho al hecho hay mucho trecho."

This Spanish saying translates to: It is easier said than done.

SEXIST CAMEL?

Is the camel a sexist pig? According to a cigarette ad the answer is "yes."

Last summer a four-page Camel ad, aimed at youths, offered tips like how to impress someone at the beach: "Run into the water, grab someone and drag her back to the shore, as if you've saved her from drowning. The more she kicks and screams the better."

Besides offending women, the ad alarmed health groups because it seemed to give underage readers tip on how to redeem a coupon. The chairman of the R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company apologized for the ad.

Tree seedlings are available

Superintendent's contract extended

Dr. Scott Childress will continue to be Capitan Schools' superintendent for another year.

Childress' contract was extended an additional year for a two-year contract by the Capitan Board of Education at its regular meeting Thursday, Jan. 11.

The board discussed the contract in closed session for more than one hour. When they returned into open session, board members Preston Stone, Tom Tröst, Ken Cox, Ron Roybal and Hollis Fuchs unanimously approved the contract extension.

The board also approved a recommendation to accept Terry Cox as a volunteer basketball coach on a part-time basis. Member Ken Cox abstained from voting on the recommendation.

As of July 1, 1990, Bus Contractor Nora Silva will turn her operations over to Frank Silva, a change approved unanimously by the board.

School auditor De'Aun Willoughby reviewed the 1988-89 audit. She explained the lateness of the audit was due to problems with the Region 9 Special Education Cooperative. Her opinion indicated Capitan Schools operated in compliance with all requirements last school year. After her review the board unanimously approved the audit.

Board policy sections seven and eight were approved with changes. The sections deal with activities and per diem and mileage, with definitions of activities and which are sanctioned by the school and who is qualified to participate. Per diem allowances were increased for overnight travel for each 24 hours where overnight lodging is required (for school employees or board member) from $36 in state to $65. Special areas in-state (Santa Fe) were increased to $75 as was out-of-state per diem.

Childress also discussed the needs assessment survey distributed recently. The survey is due to be returned by the end of January, although quite a few already have been returned. A report to the board will be made based on the findings at a later date.

Capitan teachers will be receiving literature to help them watch for signs of depression or changes in student behavior, Childress reported.

The informational marquee arrived Jan. 11 and is currently being installed by school maintenance staff.

A formal dedication is planned for the near future. Capitan principal Bill Stower said.

The board also approved athletics and activity report and paid bills.

The Board of Education will meet next at 7 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 8.
