School bonds sold; budget in the black

By Doris Cherry

Carrizozo Board of Education will get serious about its wish list now.

At the regular June meeting Thursday, June 14, the board accepted the only bid for the $540,000 of bonds from United New Mexico Bank at Vaughn (UNMB) at a 7.2241 percent interest rate.

Charles Rilee, school financial adviser, presented the board with a $10,000 "good faith check" from UNMB and went through the procedure of accepting the bid.

"You got a very, very good rate, very competitive," Rilee said.

Board president Wally Ferguson said UNMB has been good to the school in the past.

The $540,000 of bonds, which can be used to finance capital improvements at the school, were approved by voters in April. The bonds will be paid off by property taxes, which voters okayed at an increase of about 78 cents for each $1000 taxable value of property. With the bonding, Carrizozo Schools now will be bonded to more than 70 percent capacity, giving them a ticket to apply for additional capital outlay funds from the state.

The funds will be budgeted into next year's budget.

Board members Eugenia

Vega, Hoot Gibson and Nick Serna signed the bond sale resolution which reaffirmed the bid award to UNMB-V and the bond registration with Sun West Bank of Albuquerque.

After Nena Vega, school administrative secretary, placed the check in the school safe and the paperwork was signed, the board moved on to other business. Members honored retiring J.C. Richmond with the Carrizozo Distinguished Service Award for his 12 years of teaching at Carrizozo Schools.

The board also accepted the resignation of Everett Bannister, who taught science in the mid-high and coached track.

Supt. Danny Burnett informed the board of the need to hire two teachers for 4th and 2nd grades. He proposed a list of 15 criteria items based on a point system for hiring certified personnel. The items will add up to 100 points, with most for education and training and experience. Additional items, such as coaching experience, experience in the area open, Hispanic ethnic background, multiple endorsements, and so on will be used to evaluate a potential teacher.

Burnett said the potential teacher who has one or more characteristics listed will have more value to the school.

The criteria will be used to select all certified staff in the future, Burnett said.

Ferguson thought all the items were good, but were not worth anything if the person is not a good teacher. He had no problems using the criteria as a guide for selection, however.

Burnett said the criteria, which will be used just for screening applicants, will give the board some congruency in staff selection from year to year.

The board also updated its policy to include a section which conforms to state statute which requires the school to provide written reasons for not re-employing a certified staff member who has been with the school for three years or less.

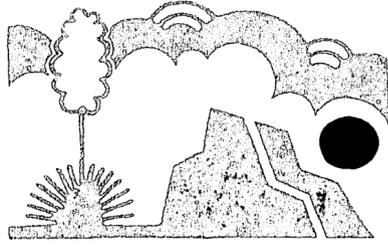

Bus contracts for 1990-91 were approved for Everett and Linda Greer, Sharon and Jack Hefker, Lois and David Roper and Steve Gore.

Since the budgetary year ends June 31, several budget transfers were approved to finish the year with all departments in the black. Intra-classification transfers needed no Santa Fe approval, but transfers from one

Cable TV crews replace outdated cable lines

Watch out overhead! Simmons Cable TV crews are busy replacing outdated and often faulty underground lines with new overhead cables to give a better quality to the cable reception, according to general manager Bill Mason.

Simmons currently is in the process of rebuilding the entire cable TV plant in Carrizozo, and plans to stretch about 12 miles of cable throughout the town. All cables will originate from the plant building south of Carrizozo where the receiver tower is located.

"The existing system is quite old and really needs upgrading to current communications standards," Mason said.

The new system will have the capability to carry up to 40 channels, but Mason said customers will continue to receive the 18 already aired.

An agreement was reached between Simmons and US West and Otero Electric Co-op to string the cables on existing poles, making 98 percent of the cables overhead. Mason said there are fewer problems with overhead cables because underground cables are often cut by persons digging trenches.

A major "trunk line" will feed the TV reception to branches of smaller cables which will extend down alleys and rights-of-way to service the majority of customers.

Even with the sophisticated installation equipment, every pole is an obstacle, requiring workers to disconnect the machine and rehook each time. Simmons hopes to finish all the construction by the first part of August with workers in Carrizozo Monday-Friday.

The cable service is limited to customers within the town boundaries and the company has a franchise with the town.

Simmons, which bought out the cable TV plant and facilities in Carrizozo about two years ago, also offers cable TV to customers in Alamogordo (where the main office is), Holloman Air Force Base, Tularosa, La Luz, Mountain Park, Truth or Consequences and Carrizozo.

Once the new cables are strung with the machine which bunches the cable and wraps it for strength, feeder cables will extend to each customer's hook up to replace the under ground lines.

Although installation rates have increased, current subscribers will not be affected.

Customers can report problems or order additional services by calling the Alamogordo office at 1-800-221-6819, a toll-free call. A service representative visits Carrizozo every Wednesday, and customers with minor problems can call the above number for service. Major problems, such as no picture, or numerous customers with no picture or channel problems, will be dealt with more quickly, Mason said.

For service or minor problems call before Wednesday, Mason suggested.

Last year's receiver upgrading cost about $25,000 and by the time the entire cable system is replaced the total cost of the project is estimated to be between $80-$100,000.

"Essentially, there will be a brand new cable system all through town," Mason said.

Customers can pay bills at Family Pharmacy in Carrizozo, or receive a replacement converter if problems arise.

RON BLADES, crew member with Simmons Cable TV, is finishing up work on B Avenue. The cable company is upgrading the system to current communications standards. They plan to complete the job by the first part of August.

State matching funds finally available for County Road AO-47

County Road AO-47, near Carrizozo, is getting the gravel the New Mexico State Highway Department (NMSHD) wanted.

AO-47 was improved by Lincoln County Road Department on a cooperative agreement arrangement with NMSHD, which was to provide 60 percent in matching funds for the project.

However, Lincoln County Manager Nick Pappas, after a visit to McKinley County, saw how a chemical bonding agent would help keep gravel roads drier with less maintenance. As an experiment, mainly because the road was near the county courthouse and could be monitored more easily, the chemical was applied to AO-47, without prior state approval.

That is when the problems began. NMSHD office in Roswell did not favor use of the chemical. Also some of the gravel used from J.W. Jones pit did not meet state specifications.

When the road was completed the county sent the request for reimbursement of the county's share of the project—$51,677—Dec. 19 to Tony Lara in the NMSHD office in Roswell. After an on-site inspection, the NMSHD personnel rejected the reimbursement because the road appeared to have too much dirt. So began a six-month series of negotiations between the state, Jones and the county.

This week of June 18, the road finally was getting the gravel which NMSHD required, after intense negotiations with Jones.

Pappas said the road will meet state requirements and state matching funds will be approved.

Pappas also reported he has invited Hubert Quintana and Ivan Hall, who is a land use planner with expertise in zoning, to the county Planning and Zoning meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday, June 28. Hall will speak to P&Z about steps to take in zoning.

Pappas also plans to begin an analysis and inventory for a comprehensive Lincoln County Development Plan. Pappas hopes the plan will help municipal and state-level leaders be aware of planning needs in Lincoln County and to give county leaders a continuity from one commission to the next. The continuity is especially important since the current county commission will not return next year. The only commissioner, Robert Hemphill, who ran for a ballot slot

Capitan School Board

School needs assessment results reviewed by board

Capitan Board of Education has some idea what parents, community, staff and students feel about the school's needs and current programs.

The first-time comprehensive needs assessment results were reviewed by the board and Supt. Scott Childress at the regular meeting June 14.

The survey was developed during the 1989 fall semester by teachers, staff and the administration. Childress said he based the survey on one he did while with another New Mexico school district. It was distributed to parents, community, staff, students and the school board in January. In the parent group, there was a 32 percent response rate, a 20 percent rate for the community group, 80 percent response rate for staff, 16 percent response rate for students and 100 percent for school board.

The assessment was designed as a method to prioritize needs based upon a comparison of what schools should be doing and what they are doing now, Childress said.

There were 12 main issues: elementary curriculum, high school curriculum, vocational education, learning environment, parental expectations, moral and social issues, student issues, civic issues, guidance program, physical environment, personnel issues, special community and school issues and extra-curricular activities. There were a total of 140 questions.

Some of the results are: the group average perceived overworked teachers affect the learning environment, emphasis on athletics was more than adequate, and a slight group average perceived that coaches are fired if they do not produce a winning team.

The group average perceived that the school does slightly too many fundraising projects to support extra- and co-curricular activities.

The survey indicated the

Mayor Reports

Carrizozo's water

The state and the EPA have strict requirements for testing municipal water samples. Water samples for Carrizozo are tested once a month, as required by law.

These samples are taken from various parts of town, from outside water spigots. Samples must be delivered within 24 hours to Roswell Test Facilities Lab, and must pass a potability test. A microbiological water report is returned to Carrizozo with appropriate data and laboratory analysis. The Roswell facility is accredited by the American Assn. for Laboratory Accreditation. Carrizozo has a very high rating on these tests.

Additionally, the town's chlorination and filter plant is checked daily. The daily turbidity reading (cloudiness) should not exceed 1.0, and it does not.

Carrizozo alumni hit town this weekend

Carrizozo High School alumni will gather at their alma mater for the 1990 reunion this weekend.

Early arrivals on Friday, June 22 will greet old friends at a welcome reception beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Activities begin Saturday with a breakfast from 7:30-10 a.m. served by the senior citizens at their center in Carrizozo. The fundraiser for the seniors will cost $3.50 a meal.

Registration begins at 1 p.m. in the old gym in the high school, followed by introduction of classes, business meeting for the alumni association and entertainment.

Dues for alumni association membership is $5. All money, after expenses, is used for a scholarship fund. The alumni awarded a total of $700 in 1989 and $500 this year.

Saturday's dinner begins at 6 p.m. Menu includes brisket and a fruit and salad bar.

Club Carrizo is the location of the dance from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. with music by "Desert Reign" from Albuquerque.

Sunday, alumni are invited to attend the church of choice before the potluck picnic at 12:30 p.m. at Spencer Park. The association will provide cold drinks.

The reunion is open to all who attended Carrizozo Schools.

COWBOY CURSES

Baxter Black's "On the Edge of Common Sense" column which appears in Clayton's Union County Leader brought a smile to my face. On Monday it feels good to count my blessings. Pity the poor cowpoke who is the target of any of these cowboy curses listed in Baxter's column:

May you be trapped in an elevator for 12 hours with a family of eight who just finished a big meal of fried cabbage. . . May you get bucked off 10 miles from camp on the only day you decide to ride barefooted. . . May the BLM decide your hay meadow is good goose habitat. . . May your son join a vegetarian commune. . . May you discover one of the barn cats missing after you've butchered the rabbits. . . May you sell your calves the day before they go up 10 cents a pound. . . May a Wyoming shepherd offer to buy your best bull to feed his sheep dogs. . . May your only good dog get caught in the neighbor's hen house. . . May your daughter get engaged to a 56-year-old biker. . . And may Wednesday be your day off

ALL I KNOW

Will Rogers, killed in an airplane crash in August 1935, was one of the greatest communicators in America. "All I know is what I read in the papers," Rogers is quoted in The Quill magazine.

His newspaper career began in 1922, using two fingers on a portable typewriter. The editor added the apostrophes and most periods. He knew where the comma key was located. He was best known for his columns that might include a circus stranded in Arkansas, an old bird dog in South Carolina named after him, or international affairs: "I have a scheme for war. It's this—no nation is allowed to enter a war till they have paid for the last one."

Wherever he went he brought newspapers, news magazines and the Congressional Record. He authored six books, two full of "Rogersisms":

"You know the more you read and observe this Politic thing, you got to admit that each party is worse than the other. The one that's out always looks the best."

"The football season is about over. School will start now."

"Successful colleges will start plans for a new stadium; unsuccessful ones will start hunting a new coach."

FROM COMMON STOCK

Author and playwright Homer Croy wrote Rogers how he could write his column so quickly. Rogers response: "It don't take long to write my kind of stuff. I save time on the punctuation. If you hadn't went to college, Homer, you'd be a lot faster writer."

In his travels, Rogers studied his audiences. He talked to editors, writers, hotel managers, ranchers, farmers, politicians, waiters, barbers, newsboys, booth-lacks. "Everybody I met I would try and get their angle," Rogers once said. Rogers knew millionaires, congressmen, presidents and kings. He talked and listened to them as he did the farmer. No putting-on-the-dog attitude for Rogers.

He was lost without his newspapers, "With all its faults, the old Paper is our daily bread. Sometimes it's burned, and sometimes not cooked to suit us, but we got to have it everyday." And, "Any person that doesn't read at least one well-written country newspaper is not truly informed."

Actor Spencer Tracy said that Rogers, "never once ceased to feel pride in the fact that he springs from common people."

"How can you say you've been shopping when you haven't bought a thing?" the husband asked his wife.

The wife snapped back: "The exact way you can say you've been fishing when you haven't caught a thing!"

C-C loses to Mescalero; record at 4-1

Capitan Carrizozo Senior League Baseball team lost its first game June 15 to Mescalero's Panorama team.

Closely-matched, the two teams slugged it out with the runs seasawing back and forth. But the final inning and the steals by Panorama told the story—Panorama 26, C-C 25.

Trevor Cox and Sean Fletcher pitched during the game.

C-C came into the next game Monday, June 18, a bit shaky, letting Contel team (Ruidoso) get ahead in the top of the first inning by six runs. Matt Escalanti made the first run but the two in that inning kept the team behind.

The C-C lagged behind until the bottom of the 5th inning, when they finally began to pick up and tied the score 12-12.

C-C shut out Contel for two innings, and kept Contel to just one run in the top of the sixth. Contel appeared to tire by the time C-C came to bat in the bottom of the 6th, and C-C took off with better hitting and plenty of steals. Two runs were made when Contel's catcher made an error. Chris Chery was at bat and had made his third strike when the catcher dropped the ball. By rules, Chery had a chance to run to first, which he did after a teammate ran home. Chery eventually made it to home on that error.

C-C made 10 runs in the final inning, putting the score at 23-13 when the umpire called the game on the 10-run rule.

Orlando Baca pitched for the game.

C-C now stands at four wins and one loss.

The next game for C-C is at 6:30 p.m. Friday, June 22, at the Eagle Creek Ball Complex in Alto. C-C will play Dairy Queen team from Ruidoso.

classification to another must be okayed by the state school finance department in Santa Fe.

Budget increases for debt service ($66) and a special one for athletics also were approved. The special athletics increase of $2,548 was the school's share of gate receipts from the state basketball tournament.

Chapter I budget of $81,490 was okayed. Chapter I provides additional instructional help in reading and math. Chapter II, the Writing to Read program, was budgeted at $11,387.

In other business, the board:

—deleted obsolete and stolen equipment from school inventory lists. Four items stolen were reported to the sheriff's office and police and will be "written off" for insurance, since there was no news of the items.

—learned De'Aun Wil-loughby will be Carrizozo Schools auditor, because she was approved by the state auditor Harold Adams. Three requests for proposals were received by the school for auditor, but Willoughby outweighed the others based on a state rating system.

—commended Gerald Montes and Linda Brown for the Honors Banquet which was fully funded by Carrizozo and Lincoln County businesses, with no cost to the school.

Burnett was pleased to see the "nice ceremony" to honor academics since award banquets before were for athletics, music, art and drama. Students received principal's and superintendent's awards based on grade point average.

Ferguson commended the banquet because it helped him not to lose sight of the "real reason" and purpose of school—to educate kids. "All the rest is concentrated trivia if there is no education."

The next board of education meeting is Tuesday, July 17. The June meeting was on Thursday in order to sell the bonds.

Magistrate court office is being reorganized, audited

The Division I Magistrate Court in Carrizozo was an explosion of paperwork recently as the office undertook a massive reorganization of files.

Magistrate Judge Gerald Dean Jr.'s court also underwent an audit, along with 14 others statewide.

According to Steve Urist in the state Administration Office of the Courts (AOC), the Division I court was one of 15 picked as a sample court for the audit program this year. The cost of auditing every magistrate court every year would be prohibitive, Urist said.

The audit program looks at the financial status of the court and case files.

Urist said Judge Dean called his office for help in reorganizing his files, and two people were sent from AOC to assist him. Urist sent a person down this week to check on how the reorganization is going, and heard it is almost finished.

Dean said he decided to reorganize the filing system on a docket number basis, rather than the alphabetized system used before. He thought the reorganization would best be done at this time since he is between court clerks.

Long-time magistrate clerk Mary Najjar recently resigned.

Dean said a new system for the new clerk will make it easier to keep the filing organized.

Urist said magistrate court clerks have a procedure manual which spells out how files are to be kept.

Urist said no indication of problems with the Division I court has come from the auditors. The official audit report will not be ready until October when it is issued from the state auditor's office.

in the June primary, did not win.

Work continues on the Lincoln County Personnel Policy Manual. An item was added which will allow employees to give their sick leave to another employee who has used all sick leave. For example if an employee has used all sick leave and has a mishap, others can give theirs to that person.

Also, the controversy over vacation time for "exempt employees" such as chief deputies to elected officials, has been resolved. All agreed that those exempt employees who previously worked as regular classified county employees and who have accumulated leave, will have that leave "put in storage," Pappas said.

By this the employee will have that accumulated time added to any leave, if the employee become a regular classified employee at a later date.

The manual will be the subject of a public hearing at the commissioners' meeting at 4 p.m. Monday, June 25.

Hammond attended the awards banquet Saturday, at the Albuquerque Marriott Hotel, which was attended by about 300 members from as far away as Alaska.

"It was quite an honor to receive the national award," Hammond commented.

Capitan school board

Village of Capitan does not offer recreational activities in summer, the school does not provide enough continuing adult education programs, a less lower-ranked response indicated the school needs to provide AIDS education and response indicated the school should have a newspaper.

The categories which asked respondents if the school should continue with certain programs and policies indicated an overwhelming response that teachers in Capitan care whether or not their students learn; the schools effectively teach basic skills of reading, writing, math, and adequately prepares students for higher education; Capitan's educational system is supported by parents and the community; the schools are constantly working to improve and update the curriculum; building maintenance is adequate, and so on.

Other responses were compiled with the results and are available at Dr. Childress' office in Capitan.

All districts will need to conduct needs assessments because the state department of education looks at this during on-site reviews, Childress said. "Ours is over and above state requirements," he added.

Capitan will have an on-site evaluation Oct. 3.

Board members Preston Stone, Tom Trost, Ken Cox and Hollis Fuchs employed Willie Raby as assistant varsity and junior high football coach and part-time elementary physical education teacher from Aug. 20 to the end of the football season.

The basketball program was discussed, with Childress recommending either Anne McKay or Pam Allen to coach the girls program, leaving Norm Cline free to coach the boys. Stone asked Childress if he had contacted any of the outside people as discussed at a previous meeting. Childress had not contacted Terry Cox because Stone had already talked to him.

High School principal Bill Stowe said an outside coach would be gone 20 days from his regular job for basketball practice, games and travel.

Childress and Stowe had attempted to contact Pat Ventura whom Stone had suggested, but were unsuccessful.

Stone asked Childress and Stowe if it was just his imagination or were they not trying to contact any outside people because they did not want anyone outside the school coaching.

Childress said he feels the school has qualified people within the system who can do the job and the school should use them first.

Childress then tried to appoint McKay as head girls basketball coach, but the motion died with a 2-2 tie, Trost and Fuchs for, Stone and Cox against.

When Childress recommended Allen, there was no motion and the recommendation was canned.

When the board reviewed the Chapter I budget of the $95,756, it learned $50,000 of the total will be used to expand the schools' computer lab to the high school. The high school lab, to be located next to the business labs, will be equipped with IBM computers with the ability to work with software or can be programmed. The lab will cost $88,499 and $38,499 will come from an appropriation through Region IX.

$168,000 was the total in receipts in the Furr's food stores computer programs conducted this spring. The funds can be used for either computers or software and Capitan has elected to purchase software.

"IBM has excellent software in high school science," Childress said.

The lab will be ready for students by the time school starts in August.

The Chapter I program, which provides supplemental math and language arts with an emphasis on reading comprehension, is budgeted with equal amounts for language arts and math. The $95,756 budget was approved by the board and will be sent to Santa Fe for state approval.

After nearly two generations of contracting the school bus operations with Nora and Frankie Silva, the contract will go to Frank Silva, the couple's son—thus passing down a tradition in the Silva family.

The board unanimously approved the school bus operator and fleet contracts with Frank Silva for the next school year. A presentation of plaques honoring the older couple was postponed till a later date.

In other business, the board:

—approved the open meetings resolutions with addition of a clause which will allow the board to have an emergency meeting with six hours notice posted at each post office in the district.

—accepted the resignation of Kathleen LaMay, cafeteria manager.

—awarded $250 to Owen Washburn for expenses to the National High School Rodeo finals in Oklahoma City July 20.

—heard a report on the national finals Odyssey of the Mind. The Capitan kids had a great time going there and back but during their presentation anything that could go wrong, did, said elementary principal Jerry Newsom. Capitan finished 24 out of 64 teams from Korea, China and all over the US.

—heard Capitan girls won the All Sports trophy over Floyd by 15 points. The award is made by the New Mexico Activities Association based on a point system in athletics.

● You may have read recently about the four women tourists in Washington, DC who were threatened with arrest for bowing their heads on the steps of the US Supreme Court. The women said they thought the court could use a silent prayer. Few will disagree with that. But a policeman informed them it was against the law to pray, even silently, at the Supreme Court. The US Supreme Court opens its sessions with prayer, but the justices are never arrested.

● The Supreme Court does strange and disturbing things. Bound by (supposedly) rigid terms of the US Constitution, it rejects plain language and "interprets" the wording of the document, to their own liking. The court has become occupied, not with ruling on the constitutionality of laws passed by congress and legislatures, but with creating legislation of its own. It is now another congress. Example: recently the high court ruled that higher taxes must be paid by certain residents of Kansas City. Never mind that the constitution specifically delegates the power to tax to congress and/or the state legislatures. This ruling was handed down in spite of the fact that the high court's most famous Chief Justice, John Marshall, ruled in 1819, McCulloch vs. Maryland, that "The power to tax involves the power to destroy." Once congress was the sole federal power to tax and destroy. Now we have a second federal legislature—the US Supreme Court. The court is constantly dealing with subjects expressly denied to it by the US Constitution the justices are sworn to uphold.

● The court is disturbingly ambiguous on the matter of flag burning. Any ruling on the flag is out of the court's jurisdiction, if I read the Constitution correctly. The Tenth Amendment states (and let's see the justices pussyfoot around this language): "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people." Simple, huh? That document does not delegate the flag question to the United States. Therefore, it must be reserved to the states, or to the people. So the court took the matter on regardless of what the Constitution says.

● The court rules that flag burning is a question of free speech, which is indeed guaranteed by the Constitution. However, the flag act involves no speech at all. The flag doesn't say a word and neither does the burner. Yet the justices call it speech. They say the burner is making a political statement by his actions. Where in the revered document is a word or sentence equated with an act or to conduct? A woman is raped by a man who claims he is merely expressing his political opinion that women have no place in public life. Under the present court's policy, wouldn't this man go free? If a Democrat kills a Republican, is it murder or a protected political statement? The Washington Monument, like the flag, is a national symbol. Deface the monument and go to jail; deface the flag and you're home free. Wonderful logic.

● Free speech is not free, and the court knows that. Lie under oath and it's off to the slammer. Misinform congress and you get the Poindexter treatment. Call someone a thief and a crook and you get sued (successfully, most of the time) for slander and defamation of character. Even the high court says a person can't yell "Fire!" in a crowded theater. Foul and obscene language can get a person in trouble. Criticize a judge in a court hearing and you're jailed for contempt.

● The press is not free, either, in spite of what the Constitution says. Everyday some newspaper is being sued for libel for what it prints that offends someone. Publish the names of rape victims at one's own peril. In many states and localities newspapers are prohibited from publishing the names of juvenile offenders. Government and bureaucracies conduct public business behind closed doors, and the press is forbidden to report the proceedings. Public records are being withheld from the press all over the country. Newspapers are always under scrutiny by people looking for ways to sue for damages and defamation. How does it happen that newspapers can't enjoy the same protection afforded flagburners, pornographers, and obscene "art" financed by taxpayers through the National Endowment for the Arts? So much for the First Amendment, the fragmentation of which has sanctioned by the US Supreme Court.

● The way the high court is headed, creating legislation through "interpretation" of the Constitution, it may not be long before we don't need a congress at all. Here's an example, as far-fetched as it may seem at this time. Suppose the court rules that the Preamble to the US Constitution is part of the Constitution itself. That Preamble states that "We the People..." are charged with promoting the "general Welfare." Then it comes up with the idea that, considering the population explosion, it would benefit the general welfare to shoot every fifth American citizen! That's stretching things, but the court is already stretching things through interpretation of the Constitution, so don't rule such an absurdity out as a future gambit for the court in its quest to dictate the laws of this country as it wants them.

● The US Supreme Court is a dangerous institution in this republic. Where else can nine men, elected by nobody and serving for life, undermine the Constitution, usurp the duties of the legislative branch, and remain accountable to nobody. Thomas Jefferson saw this situation, and even predicted it in a letter to a friend in 1825 in which he said: "This member of the government (US Supreme Court) was at first considered as the most harmless and helpless of all its organs. But it has proved that the power of declaring what the law is, ad libitum, by sapping and mining, slyly, and without alarm, the foundations of the Constitution, can do what open force would not dare to attempt."

SANTA FE—Democrats throughout the country are tickled to death that Republicans are now trying to join them on environmental issues.

Last weekend's private meetings of the Democratic National Committee's Finance Council in Santa Fe included a half day discussion about how the GOP has become "green with envy" at the strong organizations and devoted workers Demos are able to attract with their environmental stands. All that effort on the part of "greenies" has produced a national awareness about the many threats to our country's environment.

New Mexico's Congressman Bill Richardson and Oklahoma's US Rep. Mike Synar were featured speakers for the closed Demo session. Synar heads the House subcommittee that oversees the Department of Energy. He has been a frequent critic of the DOE for trying to move too quickly to open the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant near Carlsbad. Richardson has also been an advocate of similar caution.

Not all Republicans feel quite as strongly about the degree of environmental danger as Synar and Richardson do, however. The New Mexico congressman has taken a few lumps for trying to slow down the WIPP land withdrawal hearings in the US House until the Energy Department answers some of his questions about WIPP's future.

John Dendahl, secretary of the state Economic Development and Tourism Department, has blamed Richardson for the possible loss of over $200 million from the federal government to improve roads to be used by trucks bound for the WIPP site. The state cabinet secretary says Richardson should stop his attempts to block the land withdrawal hearing and give New Mexico a chance at getting the road funds. Otherwise, Dendahl says, the rest of New Mexico's congressional delegation, "ought to mow him down and go for it."

Joan Berds, representing 200 members of a citizens environmental organization in Penasco, wrote Dendahl asking that he apologize to Richardson for those "unprofessional remarks." "We are ashamed to have someone of your thinking (or lack of it!) in your position," Berds wrote.

Dendahl answered the letter, referring to Richardson's "unending string of questions" about WIPP by citing "an old adage to the effect that it would take a thousand wise men a thousand years to answer all the questions of a fool."

Richardson says he doesn't want to reply.

And, of course, there is the newly environmental attack from Richardson's GOP challenger Phil Archuleta accusing him of being supported by green fascists. Inquiries into the source of funds necessary to buy half-page ads in the Sunday Albuquerque Journal and Santa Fe New Mexican indicate that Archuleta received $4,000 in contributions the day before the primary election from the Richard Cook family of Espanola. This appears to be the same Cook that owns the CoPar pumice mine in the Jemez Mountains that has created a great amount of controversy.

Both Democrats and Republicans are acutely

EMMET TIL, STOMPIE MOKHETSI AND WINNIE MANDELA

When 14 year-old Emmet Til was murdered by white Klan types in Mississippi, there went up a justified protest uproar, resulting in a sense of outrage that was worldwide.

To this day, Emmet is mentioned in the roll call of martyrs in the struggle for civil rights, along with such adults as Medgar Evers, and the three who were lynched in Philadelphia, Mississippi: Schwerner, Goodman and Cheyney.

But being a young boy, Emmet Til's brutal murder was especially heartrending.

Almost one month has elapsed since 41 year-old Jerry Richardson was found guilty of murdering another 14 year-old boy named James Mokhetsi, known as "Stompie" for his zealous opposition to apartheid.

Mr. Richardson is not a member of the South African police, or the army, or any other agency of the South African government. Nor is he white. He is, rather, the coach of the Mandela United Football Club, which was the bodyguard of Mrs. Nelson (Winnie) Mandela. The New York Times reported from Johannesburg the finding of the court that Mr. Richardson was also guilty of kidnapping three additional blacks, who testified that Mrs. Mandela was the first to beat them and Stompie.

The Times also reported that the four were kidnapped and tortured in an effort to force them to smear as a child molester the Rev. Paul Verryn, a Methodist minister. The court also ruled that Mrs. Mandela participated in the initial beatings—for which she could receive a prison sentence of up to 10 years. Yet "Winnie the Firebug" hasn't even been indicted—given the de Klerk government's desperate desire to negotiate with her husband.

"They don't want to charge her and give her the opportunity of proving she is innocent," claimed Mr. Mandela, in spite of the testimony of three of the four blacks who were beaten by his wife.

The court also found "no evidence to substantiate rumors of sexual misconduct by the Methodist minister, to whom neither of the Mandelas have apologized.

On Jan. 1, 1989, Stompie Mokhetsi's body was discovered in a field. It had stab wounds in the throat. Is this boy somehow less precious or important in the sight of God and human decency, than Emmet Til?

Why then was this May 25th story published on page 3 rather than at the top of page one—and leading all TV newscast?

Why is George Mason University professor Roger Wilkins arranging a national tour—including a White House visit and address to a joint session of Congress—for this man, who will be accompanied by his sadistic wife (who also endorsed fiery lynching of blacks by "necklacing")?

And will America's Jewish community or anyone who is opposed to terrorism really accept Mr. Mandela's weak and sleazy explanation that his bearhugging of Yasir Arafat earlier this year was just a political gesture of thanks for PLO support?

Do they remember the machine-gunned Jewish school children of Ma'arat? Do they remember the lynching of Emmet Til—and of Stompie Mokhetsi?

Letters to the editor

Offended

EDITOR—I take offence to the remarks made by Mr. Joiner in your "Opinion" column.

As secretary-treasurer of Wednesday night bowling league for the past three years, I have been witness to many of the hardships that Val Reyes has had to contend with.

The contract information is not available to me so I will not make comment concerning it.

But, I certainly do know how hard this man has worked to keep the Rec Center open, and the pin setting machines are in need of much more than just "minor" maintenance. It takes a first hand look to discover just how bad the condition is and I wonder if Mr. Joiner has ever been in the bowling area!

Many of the bowlers are from Capitan and Fort Stanton and do some business in Carrizozo, plus dining, while there. Close the Rec Center and there will not be much to attract us to Carrizozo. A lot of us go to bowl two or three times a week.

I say, Val Reyes needs the town of Carrizozo to back him up with encouragement and financial support.

VIRGINIA DANIELSON, Capitan.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: If you had read the contract you probably would not have written this letter.)

Uncle Sucker at work

EDITOR—Foreign aid has been with us as an institution since the end of World War II. It has brought the United States to the brink of bankruptcy, lined the pockets of petty (and not so petty) tyrants the world over, and even fueled the war-making capabilities of both sides in several of the planet's regional conflicts.

The giveaway called foreign aid goes to foreign governments, not to the peoples they have kept impoverished. Nicolae Ceasescu accepted tens of billions of dollars in US largess during the 24 years he brutalized Romania. After his reign ended in a speedy execution a few months ago, it was discovered that he had billions stashed away in Swiss banks; enjoyed palatial living complete with gold-plated bathroom fixtures and solid gold dinnerware and regularly dined on the finest imported delicacies—all awhile oppressed Romanians groaned under an array of government caused privations.

In May 1982, Senator Jesse Helms published the figure of $286.5 billion as the amount of foreign aid provided by the US government from 1946 through 1981. The Library of Congress estimated that interest payments incurred by borrowing to support these giveaways pushed the cost of our foreign aid program well beyond the $1 trillion mark. If we look around the globe, it should be obvious that this enormous burden has brought us nothing but problems. Even if all foreign aid stops tomorrow the debt created is still ours to pay—or to pass unfairly onto our children.

Terrorist Mandela honored

EDITOR—It is incredible that President Bush would invite Nelson Mandela to be his guest in the White House.

First, there was the Polish socialist, Lecha Walesa, then the Bush administration and the news media went all out to welcome and honor the Soviet's Mikhail Gorbachev. With Mandela coming soon, one is entitled to wonder if it isn't a basic requirement that you be a socialist in order to get an invitation to the White House.

Mandela recently did 27 years in a South African prison for planning sabotage against his country. He confessed it. Many times the South African government offered him his freedom if he would but denounce violence as a means of obtaining political goals. Repeatedly, Mandela refused. Finally the South African government released him anyhow.

Mandela confessed to three of four charges filed against him. In his own words, "I planned sabotage... as the result of a calm and sober assessment of the political situation..." (See, Human Events, 7-6-85).

In addition to his confession, South African police confiscated a little booklet written in Mandela's own handwriting. In it, Mandela wrote, "We Communist party members are the most advanced revolutionaries in modern history... We test a Communist Party member's loyalty to the Party, to the revolution and the Communist cause by the manner in which he absolutely and unconditionally subordinates his interests to those of the Party under all circumstances." (See Congressional Record, 8-16-86)

It is easy to understand why Nelson Mandela would be a big hero in Moscow, and it is easy to understand why he would be a big hero in Beijing. We could even understand him being a big hero in Berkeley. But, it is difficult to understand why the supposedly conservative, Republican president of the United States would invite such a person to the White House. It really doesn't tell us much about Mandela, but it sure reveals a lot about the President.

Lawrence Brinkley honored

Lawrence W. Brinkley of Capitan was selected for inclusion in the 1989 edition of Outstanding Young Men of America.

Now in its 27th year, the OYMA program is designed to honor and encourage exceptional young men between the ages of 21 and 40 who have distinguished themselves in many fields of endeavor, such as service to community, professional leadership, academic achievement, business achievement, civic and political participation.

Brinkley was selected after 150,000 nominations were received from political leaders, university and college officials, clergymen, business leaders, various civic groups and community organizations. Brinkley, and other young men selected, will be represented by his biographical entry in the annual awards publication.

aware that as they attempt to attract the environmental vote they must worry about pressures from the fringes. The Richardson-Archuleta controversy is a good example of how middle ground must be found. As the American voter becomes more aware of environmental concerns Democrats must take care not to venture too far into the morass of impediments to development and progress, while Republicans must watch to insure they supporters do not overreact to legitimate environmental concerns.

In old historic Lincoln county,
In the glorious Sunshine State,
Is a town, not very famous,
But we love it, think it's great.

Carrizozo, the word means reedy,
So we often have been told
By the pioneers, who settled
And endured the hardships bold.

Through the years the town has prospered,
Played upon by wind and sun.
Today it boasts the county court house
As one of its achievements won.

To the onlooker, drab, dull houses
Dot each rather drab, dull street;
To the dweller, homes of beauty
Where true love and friendship meet.

When the heart and soul are weary,
To the mountains we can gaze,
In the twilight, view Carrizozo
Surrounded by a purple haze.

White Mountain, in snow-capped glory
Lifts its majestic head on high,
In the clouds it soars its summit,
As if to pierce the sunlit sky.

Then the stretch of waste and blackness,
Of desolation and despair,
Where a now extinct volcano
Wrought destruction o'er a land so fair.

Land of the mesquite and greasewood,
Of Spanish dagger and sword.
Where the desert blossoms forth
With the "Candles of the Lord."

Carrizozo, western village,
Restless, daring, relentless, bold,
May you ever grow and prosper.
Through the ages yet untold.

AROUND CORONA

The 1990 Lincoln County Ranch Tour held at Corona was successful. After many months of preparation, guests began arriving at 7:30 a.m. to register at the Corona School Auditorium. Among those attending were guest speaker, Frank DuBois, secretary/director of Agriculture for New Mexico; president of New Mexico Cattle Growers Bud Eppers and wife Alicia, who is in Rep. Joe Skeen's office in Roswell; president, New Mexico CowBelles LeAnn Smith and husband Fred of Roswell; New Mexico Wool Growers Auxiliary treasurer Jeanine Best of Corona; and Pete Gnatkowski, vice-president of New Mexico Wool Growers.

After a welcome by Mack Bell, master of ceremonies, guests were served coffee and doughnuts while they browsed among more than 100 pieces of sculpture, oils, pastels, watercolors, wood carvings, hand painted rocks and crocheted doilies that were included in the art show by Lincoln County artists. The works of local artists, Nancy Knight, Danny Knight, Patsy Tubbs, Patsy Mulkey, Bob Burton, Johnnie Bond, Lee Sultemeier and Floyd Earl Proctor blended in well with works of nationally acclaimed artists Curtis Fort, Gary Morton, Wes Smith, Ann Templeton, Linda Smith, Tom Knapp, Dorothy Bell, Ted Robertson and Ron Kill. A 13-year-old sculptor Waylon Thomson and 5th and 6th grade classmates exhibited their work. Punk Cooper, rancher and sculptor of Mayhill, and Curtis Fort, sculptor and artist of Carrizozo, were on hand to help set up the exhibit and visit with people along with a great deal of help from Punk's wife Charlie and brother Jud and his wife Barbara.

At the 4-H arena, a demonstration on the versatility of horses, including cutting, roping and western pleasure, started the tour. After returning to the auditorium, a barbecue was prepared and served by Benolyn McKibben and chuck crew. Frank DuBois spoke to the group about "Agriculture under Attack."

At noon, Mack Bell and tour guides Pete Gnatkowski, Bob Byrd and Radna Bonds herded everyone on buses to head out on the northern boundary of Lincoln County to the old and historic Vasco Ranch of Frank and Helen Elliott. Frank held every one spell-bound as he gave the history of the ranch and area. His account of the operating costs and general operations of the ranch was punctuated by demonstrations of the cattle operation, using modern methods and equipment.

A highlight of the visit was a tour through the headquarters house with its very functional and beautiful antique furniture and furnishings. Frank said the original two-room building was a comencher headquarters. The adobe interior and exterior walls were double from rooms being added on.

Traveling on east to the Roadrunner Ranch, Dora McNight, owner, gave a brief history; and foreman, Bill Hays spoke eloquently on various aspects of the sheep and cattle operations. He also spoke on major issues facing livestock operators. "Sheep to Shawl" and the New Mexico Wool Growers Auxiliary had demonstrations on spinning, weaving and carding of wool and items and mementos for sale.

A demonstration on shearing and care of the wool preceded the demonstration of marking lambs. The use of a three-way cutting gate for sheep concluded the visit.

Then, it was back on the buses to return to Corona via Gallo Canyon. Back at the auditorium, travelers were met with cups of fresh homemade ice cream and some young animals to see and touch. Betty Ann Bell served as cameraman for the day as she videoed the proceedings.

Shane Owen, Emmet Sultemeier, Bill Post, and Jolie Hobbs, were in Las Cruces to represent Corona FFA at state conference. Devra Post accompanied them as sponsor. Shane Owen received the Presidents Award. Emmet Sultemeier received the Agriscience Award Scholarship presented by Pioneer Hybrid Seed Co. He had also been selected to receive one of the two FFA collegiate scholarships which must be used at NMSU. Clay Post was elected State FFA president for 1990-91. Bill Post was elected district reporter for 1990-91. The chapter received the 100 percent Award and a plaque. Clay Post presented a plaque to his adviser, Jamie Widner, this being the fifth time Mr. Widner has received the award. Mrs. Post reported another plaque received by the local FFA chapter was "Building our American Community," sponsored by the Nabisco Foundation.

Corona School transportation personnel attended a two-day commercial drivers license (CDL) school held at Corona Schools Friday and Saturday. The in-service classes were taught by R. L.

Bever Sr., transportation director of Farmington Schools, and Robert Bevers Jr. of Ely, NV. Others attending the school were Sissy Jones and Radna Bonds of Tatum School transportation, Patsy Mulkey, Dwayne Joy, Clint Sultemeier, Mike Kessler and Wally Feldman. Simpson Transportation of Ruidoso provided the 65 passenger air brake school bus for the classes.

Mr. Bevers will return to Corona June 30 to teach medic first aid to those who need a current first aid course.

Visiting for a few days with his Aunt Eve Latham, were Freddy Latham, his sons Freddy 3 and Mathew, and niece Tara Latham.

Myra Richards is visiting with Eve Latham this week.

Nell Edington remained after the ranch tour to stay with daughter JoAnn Proctor, for a few days.

Jan and Ben Bradley, Beaumont, TX spent the weekend in Carrizozo where the Dick Bradleys joined them Saturday. Jan is the daughter of Rene Burton of Carrizozo and Ben is the son of Dick Bradley of Corona.

Mrs. Lee R. Owen spent several days in Roswell with her granddaughters, Jessica and Elizabeth, while their parents were on vacation in Colorado. The girls' paternal grandparents were visiting from their home in New Jersey.

Crown CowBelles and their guests took a picnic supper to Red Cloud June 17 to honor their Man of the Year.

Mrs. Ellis Hodge remains in a Roswell hospital with pneumonia and complications.

Butch Carnell suffered a heart attack Friday morning and was flown to Albuquerque.

Ward Thomson is on crutches, bothered by injuries received in a traffic accident years ago. He was to undergo a bone scan Monday.

To make room for a mobile home, Dorothy Nell Lightfoot is tearing down the house she bought from the David McClouds.

Byron Yancey has torn down the house just north of his home.

Ernest Dishman is at home after a month of hospitalization in Albuquerque and recuperation in Belen. His condition is not good.

Ruth Sheffield is now at the Senior Citizen Center as clerical assistant in the outreach program.

Doug Riley has been hospitalized for more than three weeks. He underwent surgery Thursday and Monday was reported in good condition.

Helen Porter, chairman of Crown's Beef for Fathers Day project, has reported winners of the three beef certificates. Johnnie Erramouspe won the $25, Linda's Cafe the $15, and Charlie Flores the $10. These certificates are to be redeemed in Corona Trading Co. beef.

Roy Bradley is spending this week with his grandmother in Carrizozo while his mother attends a three-day senior citizen conference in Taos.

Jason Gibbs brought his nephew, Max Brewer, over for the weekend. Grandmother Gibbs took him home to Albuquerque Tuesday.

Dan Bell has been awarded one of the $1000 scholarships given by the Central-NM REA.

Lanita and Jerry Rasak are here from Colorado to spend the week with Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Duke while they build a pump house. The Rasaks drilled a well on their newly acquired acres and plan to build a home next year. The eight gallon well was drilled to a depth of 760 feet but is being pumped at 630. And, yes, water has been piped to headquarters.

White Oaks Haunts

by MISTY PEREA

There was a party at McMinn's place over the weekend. Dave and Gary Vega celebrated a birthday together. It was also a going away party for Annette, Colby and David.

Bob Boulard is being kept quite busy these days with his guests at the Whataburger Lodge.

Ruth is back from her arts and crafts show in El Paso. The Birdsong house is coming up fast and it surely is a beauty.

Harlan is about to finish up the trophy saddle for the Pony Express Race. This saddle is a one-of-a-kind masterpiece. You all can see it on the float in the parade in Capitan on July 4.

Don't forget the Pony Express meeting is at Harlan's on June 24. Glen Ellison is helping with the material to build a bigger dance floor for the dance on Pony Express Day. Fernando Chavez is donating his time and effort to build it for us. Whataburger is donating all the plates and utensils for the Pony Express barbecue. Mailboxes for Pony Express letters will be out soon. Let's send lots of letters this year. Betty Joiner and Ruth Birdson have worked very hard at getting them out a little earlier this year. We are going to have some more work days at the rodeo arena so be looking her for the schedules. We appreciate any help we can get.

Barry and Gail are wanting to get a new band started up around here. Anyone interested in it, if you can play an instrument or sing, please get in touch with Misty and we'll get this thing going. Barry and Gail will be setting up a jam session soon. Sounds like a lot of fun. Why not give it a try?

Please do not speed! We have had a baby goat and sheep hit by a fast passing vehicle already this month. Thank you very much. 35 mph.

New seating for Smokey Bear Stampede arena

Fans of the Smokey Bear Stampede in Capitan this July 4 will "sit higher" and the Lincoln County Fair Association will get a break in its insurance premiums.

The new bleachers for the rodeo arena are going up. The one unit installed last year was moved to the north side of the arena. This unit has the wheelchair ramp and stall.

Two more units were being installed this week, getting the arena prepared for the big annual event.

Jack Hoover and crew, subcontracted by Frank Cowley Construction of Ruidoso, are putting up the units. The final units will be delivered June 25 and will be installed before the rodeo.

The first unit was financed by the New Mexico Water and Conservation Fund and the Lincoln County Fair Association. The new units were financed by an appropriation from the New Mexico State Legislature this year.

The all-aluminum seating units replaced wooden structures which dated back to the 1930s. Insurance coverage was reaching a prohibitive cost for the arena with the old wooden seats.

Although the new units have no overhead covers, the association hopes to find financing for covers in the future.
