

Property values decrease, taxes increase

By Doris Cherry

1990 property tax rates became official Friday afternoon.

Although property values have decreased to reflect market prices, most taxes are up, except in a few instances.

Lincoln County Commissioners Bob Hemphill and Rick Simpson communicated over the telephone lines Friday, with Hemphill in the commissioners' chambers in Carrizozo and Simpson, unable to travel to the county seat, in Ruidoso Downs. County clerk Martha Proctor, assessor Julia Samora, county manager Nick Pappas and his secretary Martha Guevara and NEWS reporter Doris Cherry were on hand with Hemphill when they voted, via the speaker phone, for the tax rates. The rates were sent from Vernon N. Kerr, secretary of New Mexico Dept. of Finance and Administration (DFA).

State statutes require that within five days of receipt of the rates, the county commissioners must issue a written order imposing the tax at the rates set on the net taxable value of property in the appropriate government units, such as in municipalities or out in the county and in the various school districts.

Property tax rates are set at an amount for each $1000 worth of net taxable value and vary from residential rates (for homes and residences) to non-residential (for livestock production, raw land or commercial properties).

Even though the state debt service decreased from $1.76 per $1000 in 1989 to $1.14 this year, the county operational costs increased from the residential rate of $5.09 last year to $6.65 this year and from the non-residential rate of $6.48 in 1989 to $8.15 this year. The county rates are applied to all properties in or out of a municipality.

Ruidoso's residential taxable value decreased this year, reassessed to reflect recent market values, going from a worth of $103,004,336 in 1989 to $84,505,969 this year. The village operational costs lowered from $6.87 last year to $5.23 this year for residential properties. Debt service increased 2 cents this year for a total of $16.41 compared to $18.05 in 1989.

Increased operational and debt service for the Ruidoso School District takes the lowered village rates to make $10.37 for residential this year as compared to $8.40 last year.

Combined with hospital rates, which increased from $2.44 to $3, the grand total tax for Ruidoso residential properties is $39.32 per $1000 taxable value this year.

Ruidoso's non-residential property value decreased from $42,296,567 in 1989 to $34,283,890 this year. The grand total tax rate for 1990 is $41.62 as compared to $39.77 in 1989.

Ruidoso Downs residential property values decreased from $6,415,046 in 1989 to $5,558,037 this year. Municipal operational debt service both increased from a total of $11.40 last year to $14.32 this year for residential and non-residential properties.

Total tax rate for Ruidoso Downs residential properties is $37.23, up from $30.84 in 1989.

Non-residential properties in Ruidoso Downs, valued this year at $7,056,255, down from last year's $8,346,499, will be taxed at $39.52 as compared to $33.30 last year.

Residential properties outside of a municipality, but within the Ruidoso School District, devalued from $10,484,818 last year to $8,645,293 this year. The total tax for residential properties this year will be $22.91 last year $19.45.

Non-residential properties in Ruidoso School District are now valued at $9,210,046 and were valued last year at $11,673,708. The total rate for 1990 is $25.20, last year $21.52.

Carrizozo's taxable residential value increased from $2,592,917 in 1989 to

Middle East hits home

Ribbons, flags messages of hope for servicemen

Liz Sambrano is giving out red, white and blue ribbons.

She is doing this to support the service people involved in Operation Desert Shield in Saudi Arabia, some of whom are her own family.

The ribbon campaign, dubbed Operation USA, originated with the wives of the 82nd Airborne at Ft. Bragg, NC. It is a grassroots project with hopes of involving every community in the US to show support for those in the armed forces.

Sambrano listed a few of the service people from Carrizozo she knew are in Saudi Arabia—Moises Sambrano Jr., Alex Sambrano, Pete Narvaez, Jon Todd Aguilar.

She has ribbons to distribute to anyone who will wear the red, white and blue on one's person. The campaign goals include asking community churches to pray for a peaceful resolution to the Middle East crisis, for protection for the armed forces, for comfort for families and loved ones left behind, and guidance for our leaders, especially President George Bush.

The campaign participants request the public fly the US flag in front of businesses and homes, write letters to the men and women in the Persian Gulf, and find people in the community who need a support group and form one.

Sambrano plans to compile a list of what can and can't be sent to service people in Saudi Arabia. That country's religious and governmental rules are quite strict.

Sambrano can be reached at her home in Carrizozo or at Ft. Stanton Training School and Hospital where she works.

(The NEWS hopes to have the list for mailing and a more detailed list of service people in future issues.)

County edges toward new E911 emergency call system

The Lincoln County Special District Commission is complete.

Meeting Friday in Capitan, Ruidoso Mayor Victor Alonso and Capitan Mayor Frank Warth, municipal representatives of the commission, and county commissioner Rick Simpson, the county representative, selected Ben Hall as fifth member and chairman. County commissioner Karon Petty was unable to attend the meeting, but had given her support of Hall as the fifth member.

Also at the meeting was Carrizozo Mayor Cecilia Kuhnel, Ruidoso Village manager Charles Norwood, county manager Nick Pappas and Robert Gunter, coordinator of the E911 phone system for the New Mexico Dept. of Finance and Administration.

Since Simpson and Hall both were late to the meeting, Gunter presented the enhanced 911 (E911) information first. He said the state intends to have all New Mexico connected to the E911 service.

The main advantage of E911 over the 911 system, which now is available in many communities, is the

Frank Bond, Mary Thompson to visit Lincoln County

Republican candidate for governor Frank Bond and his running mate state representative Mary Thompson arrive in Lincoln County Friday, Sept. 21 for a two-day visit.

The public is invited to all events which are sponsored by the Republican Party of Lincoln County.

At 9:30 a.m., Bond kicks off his county activities with a "Coffee Break with Bond," a meeting with complimentary refreshments at the Four Winds Restaurant in Carrizozo. Scheduled topic: economic development.

Join Bond and Thompson for lunch at a "Meet the Candidate" no-host noon luncheon at K-Bob's Restaurant in Ruidoso. Scheduled topics: environment, economic development, tourism, education and crime.

Bond has been invited to join the Ruidoso High School Homecoming parade at 2 p.m.

The public is invited to have dinner with Bond and Thompson at Eagle Creek BBQ on Ski run Road at 5:30-7:30 p.m. Complimentary menu includes "barbecued brisket of beef, beans, and all the fixins," says Jack Page, Republican county chairman. "We hope every voter will join Bond and Thompson for dinner and discuss the issues. Food'll be good, too," he added.

The gubernatorial pair wrap up Friday's activities with a fundraiser cocktail party at the Texas Club in Ruidoso. All persons interested in contributing to the campaign are invited to this event which begins at 8 p.m.

On Saturday, Sept. 22, Bond and Thompson end their Lincoln County visit with a complimentary continental breakfast meeting at the Smokey Bear Restaurant in Capitan at 7:30 a.m. Scheduled topics: education, farming, ranching.

All voters, regardless of political affiliation, are invited to all Bond-Thompson events. Refreshments and meals are complimentary except Friday's no-host luncheon and cocktail party fundraiser.

New Ruidoso Council cuts costs with no reduction in services

By BLAKE MARTIN

In a State of the Village Mid-Year 1990 report distributed by Responsible Government in Ruidoso, the mayor and Councilors Andrews and Duff feel strong about the achievements and goals of the Alonso Administration.

While fostering an atmosphere of openness and public input, Mayor Alonso cites reorganization of the village, and the elimination of expensive and unnecessary middle management slots. The results: tax dollar savings with no decline in service levels.

Waste management needs are met, according to Alonso, and regional agreements for long range solutions are on the way.

The controversial public/private Old Airport developments also are progressing in a positive direction. Bonding has been arranged toward a suitable Civic Center to achieve convention business and to enhance the tourist economy.

The Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County, whose purpose is to create jobs by attracting new business, "has been funded jointly with the state and county fully for the first time and has enjoyed some successes already."

Economic development, the priority, indicates that the Ironhorse Steam Rail Project offers third season potential. High tech manufacture or assembly also hold promise for future development. "Economic diversification of industry" to decrease our overall dependence on tourism, says the mayor.

Reduction of budgeted expenses, return of property tax to property owners, and reorganization of village structure with no reduction in services indicate "very exciting times and a bright future," says Mayor Alonso.

Councilor Ron Andrews speaks out against "forces" that propose a 12,000 sq. ft. "single event," limited space Convention Center facility. Also, phased construction (which proposes 40,000 sq. ft.) "makes no sense." While adding to the total cost, phased construction prevents use of previous phases.

Andrews further cites "peak season" construction problems. Phased construction again would make parking lots useless. Visitors would be subject to the pollution and danger of construction sites.

The councilor concludes that studies and surveys show construction of an Events Center of less than 30,000 sq. ft. of "actual useable space" is a "waste of the taxpayer's money."

Councilor Barbara Duff remarks that positive responses from citizens reflect the new administration's success. She also suggests a list which includes 80 logged hours of budget hearings and lowered mill levy from 5.452 to 3.0.

In ongoing problems, the list includes negotiations of important points on the Events Center, and correction plans for initial faulty installation of sewer lines. She also mentions a "protective cover program" to protect equipment from weather damage.

Finally, she stresses the goal of building public confidence while increasing their input on the "broad range of sensitive problems."

Zia Center board is organized

The first organizational meeting of the Lincoln County Zia Senior Centers Board was held at the Lincoln County Commission room Sept. 12.

The county manager opened the meeting by explaining the history of the development of the board and discussed its purpose.

Members are Sid Miller and Dave Parks of Ruidoso, Monroy Montes and Rick Simpson of Glencoe, Martha Proctor of Capitan, Nancy Knight of Ancho. The seventh member was appointed by the board and is Leandro Vega Jr., Carrizozo. Martha Proctor was elected chairman and Barbara Ward, program administrator, was appointed as recording secretary.

The first actual meeting of the full board will be held at the Carrizozo Center on Thursday, Oct. 11, at 4:00 p.m. Subsequent meetings will be held at other centers, and those times will be announced at a later date.

Property values

$2,627,484 this year. Municipal residential rates decreased from $5.65 in 1989 to $5.45 this year, mostly in debt service.

Carrizozo School District rates increased due to the bond passed this spring, from a total of $6.99 last year to $10.34 this year. The total Carrizozo residential rates will be $28.33 this year compared to $23.69 in 1989.

Non-residential properties decreased in value from $1,791,712 in 1989 to $1,789,277 this year. The total non-residential rate for 1990 is $31.16. Last year's rate was $26.71.

Residential properties outside of Carrizozo but within the Carrizozo School District also increased in value from $2,316,028 in 1989 to $2,439,986 in 1990. The total tax rate for those residential properties not in town is $22.88 this year. Last year's rate was $18.04.

Non-residential properties outside of Carrizozo but in the school district decreased this year from $5,213,957 in 1989 to $5,077,780 in 1990. Tax rate this year will be $25.24 compared to $20.60 last year.

Corona experienced a slight increase of residential valuation this year from $379,702 in 1989 to $380,521 in 1990. Although village operational only increased from $3.04 to $3.32, the school district bond election increased school taxes from $2.33 to $6.05. The total residential rate for 1990 is $21.90, compared to $16.42 in 1989.

Non-residential properties in Corona decreased in value from $509,358 to $496,543. Municipal rates did not increase to remain $4.42, but school rates increased from $2.50 to $6.16. The total non-residential Corona rate is $25.36 for 1990 up from $20.03 last year.

Residential properties in the Corona School District but out of the village decreased in value from $957,713 to $921,226 in 1990. The total rate for 1990 is $18.59, the rate for 1989 was $13.38.

Non-residential properties outside of the village but in the Corona School District increased from $9,534,874 in 1989 to $9,898,753 in 1990. The tax rate for 1990 is $20.94, the rate for 1989 was $15.60, due to the school bond. Residential valuation in the Hondo School District also increased from $3,415,648 in 1989 to $3,525,167 in 1990. School debt service decreased from $8.33 in 1989 to $7.87 this year, but increased county and hospital rates increased the residential 1990 rate to $22.82 from $21.77 in 1989.

Non-residential properties in the Hondo School District increased in value from $5,742,339 in 1989 to $5,874,914 in 1990. The 1990 tax rate is $25.15, last year's rate was $23.92.

Capitan was the only municipality to experience a decrease in tax rate. Even with the increased county operational rates and hospital rates, the total rate for residential properties is lower in 1990 than in 1989.

The residential property value decreased in 1990 from $3,543,876 in 1989 to $2,917,359 this year. Municipal operational increased from $1.42 in 1989 to $1.84 this year, but the debt service decreased from $19.17 last year to $18.01 this year. The total municipal rate went from $20.59 last year to $19.85 this year.

The Capitan School District rate lowered from $8.72 in 1989 to $6.97 this year. Last year's high rate was due to a mistake made in the 1988 tax rates for the district debt service.

The total 1990 residential rate for Capitan is $39.36, last year it was $40.35.

The non-residential property value for Capitan also decreased, from $1,991,169 last year to $1,871,953 in 1990. The total tax rate for non-residential properties in Capitan is $42.03, last year the rate was $43.20.

Residential properties in the Capitan School District, but out of the village, also got a break on this year's rate. The valuation of the properties decreased from $38,869,818 in 1989 to $36,835,838 this year. The tax rate for 1990 is $19.51, last year the rate was $19.77.

Non-residential properties in the Capitan School District devalued from $19,869,051 to $18,119,180. The 1990 rate is $21.79, last year's rate was $21.87.

A change made this year by county commissioners will affect the county's sheep, cattle and goat producers. Predator control rates went from 5 cents a head on cattle and 10 cents a head on sheep and goats to 25 cents a head on all cattle, sheep and goats. There are 27,148 cattle, 37 dairy cows, 67,402 sheep and 1,320 goats registered on the Lincoln County tax rolls.

Upper Hondo Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD) imposes $1 per thousand on properties within its boundaries, Carrizozo SWCD imposes $.95 on residential properties and $1 on non-residential and Chaves SWCD imposes $.38 for residential and $.39 for non-residential for properties within its boundaries. Alpine Sanitation District imposes $10 and Sun Valley Sanitation District imposes $6.15 on properties in those districts.

Property tax bills are being prepared now and will be mailed soon. Bills become due on Nov. 5 for the first half of the 1990 property taxes. Dec. 5 is the deadline for the bills, any paid after that date are subject to a $5 penalty.

This tree died of a heart attack.

Carving hearts on trees seems harmless enough.

But the fact is, it cut short the life of this majestic oak.

By gouging into the bark, vandals crippled the tree's vascular system. So, like thousands of other innocent victims each year, the tree slowly died.

But the fight against vandalism is gathering strength from the example of Lynn Brauer and Carol Eichling.

When vandals girdled a 300 year old Chinquapin Oak near their Marthasville, Missouri home, they wrapped the wound in sphagnum moss and tended the tree daily, despite blizzard conditions.

If not for the severe winter, arborists feel the Chinquapin might have survived.

Carrizozo Board of Education

Parents question manner of selecting honor graduates

Carrizozo Board of Education learned enrollment is down, and heard two parents question requirements for valedictorian and salutatorian at its meeting Tuesday.

Carrizozo Schools enrollment by Tuesday was 240.5 students, short of the 249.5 projected by Supt. Danny Burnett. Since the budget is based upon the number of students projected, the school hopes to gain another nine before the 40th day of class.

At the 240.5 count, the state equalization guarantee, or funds provided by the state for the students, is $1,106,058, a deficit from the $1,133,420 projected based on the 249.5.

"We still have 20 days," Burnett said.

Late in the meeting the board heard from Bea Sheehan and Lindy Archuleta, mothers of two seniors who had hopes of achieving valedictorian and salutatorian status by the end of this school year. One student has attended Carrizozo Schools since kindergarten and the other since 3rd grade.

The mothers questioned the rules and regulations concerning the valedictorian and salutatorian selection because a new student in the school only two years has advanced from sophomore to senior status by taking correspondence courses enabling her to jump her junior year.

Because the girl has high grades, she also may qualify for valedictorian.

Sheehan said her son and Archuleta's daughter have worked all their lives to get the top senior positions, which will enable them to receive additional scholarships.

"We feel the correspondence courses are not the same as class time," she said. They considered the situation not fair to their children, since they are unable to get extra credits by taking correspondence courses.

Board president Wally Ferguson said they saw the problem coming, but did not know how to solve it without penalizing another student because she is smart.

"No matter how we react we'll design in problems for the future," he added.

Board member Hoot Gibson found it baffling the school spends little or no extra money on good students to advance, when it spends much on those with problems. He did not want to jeopardize the smarter students.

The mothers said their kids depended on the school and now that the chance for the top honors seems to be fading their kids are down about it, since they seem to have no way to compete.

Ferguson said the situation happens in other schools also, and they will try to make the situation as fair as possible by finding scholarships for the kids if they do not make the valedictorian or salutatorian status.

He also suggested the board meet for a session to determine its policy on correspondence courses, which cost about $80 each and which principal Mel Holland considered harder than regular classroom curriculum.

Gibson also noted early graduation by students adds problems.

Teacher Linda Caldwell said she hated to see the school do anything to discourage any student from graduating early, which she said was due to the willingness of the student to do extra work.

"I hate to discourage ambition," she said.

Burnett gave copies of the school policy concerning selection of salutatorian and valedictorian and credit requirements for graduation to the mothers.

Board policy provides no provision for the length of time a student must be at Carrizozo Schools to achieve the valedictorian status, just grades.

Ferguson commented valedictorian says the student made the best grades in school, but also realized there are no right answers to the problem.

Teacher Bob Hemphill reminded the board there are provisions in the policy for co-salutatorian.

Caldwell showed the board the 1990 annual.

Burnett commended Caldwell for the $300 surplus in the annual budget which in the past has had high deficits. Caldwell said the surplus and lowered cost to students for the annual was due to advertising which students and herself sold to help finance the project. She said advertising is how all publications are supported.

"In my mind this is how the annual should be paid for," Caldwell said.

Hemphill commented the school has its own laser printer now and no one will have to drive to Ruidoso to have graphics produced.

Another advantage of the school owning a laser printer is the ability to produce a school newsletter which is scheduled to be mailed to school patrons Oct. 11. The 8-page publication will review school activities and projects for what the administration hopes will become better communication with the public.

An option which will enable the school to offer unusual courses to students was explored. Burnett told of the TI-IN Network, available on the school satellite dish, which will provide unusual courses such as Latin, physics, astronomy and so on to students who might wish to take them. Subscription to the network costs $4500 the first year, however, and each course costs about $250.

Because of the high cost,

Burnett said the network is an option the school cannot afford at this time. The network was a suggestion made to the school by the state department of education.

Holland suggested a student survey to determine the need for the network.

Ferguson expressed his disappointment with the school satellite dish, which hasn't provided any benefits, in his opinion.

Hemphill said many teachers request recordings of special programs and there is a need to educate the staff on what is available with the satellite dish.

Holland said the dish has had mechanical problems.

Another computer assisted production is the annual calendar of events which details most activities for the year. The calendar will help staff avoid conflicting scheduling of school events.

The board commended Mike Gaines and the VoAg program for selection by the state department of education to the "Promising Programs for more Effective Schools."

Only 27 of the 88 state school districts were

Capitan Schools prepare for on-site evaluation

Capitan Schools are preparing for the New Mexico Dept. of Education On-site Evaluation visit Oct. 9-12.

The board of education approved additions to board policy concerning early graduation and earning of two extra credits through correspondence, briefly reviewed a accreditation synopsis report sent from the department of education concerning educational standards for New Mexico schools, hired staff, and accepted resignations at its meeting Thursday, Sept. 13.

A Capitan student may graduate early at the board's discretion if that student has 21 credits at Capitan High School, only two credits earned through a correspondence course and passes the New Mexico High School Competency Exam.

Any other student may only earn two extra credits through correspondence also. Another part added to board policy concerns a student at the high school level retaking a failed class. If the class is taken during the school year there will be no cost to the student; however, if the class is taken through correspondence or during summer school a cost will be imposed.

Homebound instruction for those students with long-term medical problems, or injuries was approved. Medication, which was always allowed to be taken by students, now requires written parental permission.

All policies approved were suggested by the synopsis. More board policy will be reviewed at the next board meeting.

A library/media policies and procedures manual was approved. The manual includes policy for evaluation and selection and reconsideration for those who object to materials in the library. Processes for challenging materials is included also. Library records, circulation procedures, library monies, skills instruction and year-end procedures are addressed in the manual.

The purpose of the manual and added board policies is to prepare for the on-site visit, Childress said.

The board accepted the resignations of custodian Ralph Reed, with the school for eight years, and maintenance supervisor J.W. Ware, at Capitan Schools for nine years.

Nick Pacheco was hired to replace Ware. Pacheco moved to Capitan recently from Albuquerque where he worked as a contractor for major firms. Mae Padilla was hired as custodian to take the place of Nancy Urrea who moved to the cafeteria. Neal McFarland will be full-time operational special education aide for Ft. Stanton D Level students in the high school. Earl Water will be 8th grade teacher and junior high football coach. Nancy Barone will work from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. on contract as school nurse. She has worked for Capitan Schools for two years as a purchased service.

HER NAME IS COCOA, because that's her color. She resides at the Carrizozo Dog Pound but is looking for a new home. She's affectionate and a good guard dog. About one year old with nice personality. For a face-to-face meeting, call Mayor Cecilia Kuhnel at home, 648-2566 or at work, 648-9985. If she can't find a home, she will be put to sleep, and that shouldn't happen to this beautiful dog.

Card of Thanks

My sincerest appreciation to each and everyone for their cards, flowers, phone calls, well wishes, prayers, and favors during my emergency last week. A 'very special' thanks to Ernie Gonzales, Kathy Williams and Angelo Vega, and the people at Lincoln County Medical Center in Ruidoso. All of you were great!

Al Junge supports the new council because of its members' business experience. He comments on the elimination of division heads. Also, this council has spent a considerable amount of time on the budget, as opposed to the 1988 budget passing without discussion. Because of somewhat haphazard action, that budget went over a million dollars.

Councilor Junge describes himself as "the backer of the new group," describing them as a "tremendous council."

computerization of addresses which is automatically displayed whenever the call is made. The E911 would enable a small child or someone in an emergency to make a call without giving the address, because the address for that phone number will automatically be displayed on a computer at the dispatch.

However, each local government must pass a resolution opting into the system. Then the phone companies will add a monthly 25 cents surcharge to each phone account, which in turn will go into a state pool to fund equipment purchase. Continental Telephone also will add another 25 cents for program maintenance.

US West will not add the additional 25 cents because of an overcharge in past years.

An E911 system in Lincoln County should be countywide with each community included.

The county could have two dispatch centers—one in Carrizozo and the other in Ruidoso, or three with the other in Ruidoso Downs. Gunter noted the advantage to more than one dispatch center is to avoid total failure of the system in case of major damage to one.

In order for the E911 system to work, rural addressing is a must. The county has begun the process of rural addressing.

Worth said the communities are trying to "blast ahead" on the project.

Ernest V. Joiner's

Several years ago I was in California and speaking before a meeting of businessmen. The California Legislature had just ended a triumphant session in which 4,000 bills had been passed. So I commented to the group that "there are now 4,000 things you could do yesterday but which you cannot do today." These "bills" almost always prohibit citizens from doing something, you understand. So I calculated that 50 years from that time, if the legislature continued to average 4,000 bills a year, there would be a total of 200,000 things people can't do. If the other 49 states passed only half that number of bills over 50 years, there would be 5,000,000 things people couldn't do that they could do 50 years previously. Just to sweeten the pie, throw in the things congress won't allow one to keep doing.

Since it is unreasonable to suggest that there are an impossible 5,000,000 things people can be prohibited from doing, what are the poor-lawmakers going to do? Their tenure in office depends on how many bills they introduce and pass. If a legislator has no prohibition agenda, he's dead in the political waters because his constituents will believe him to be worthless and unworthy to serve in office. So he will have to invent, out of fiction and thin air, things to prohibit and thus continue to command the respect and support of his constituents! Generally speaking, voters love to be told what they can and cannot do by their legislators, local state and national. If this isn't true, why do voters return them to office year-after-year so they can continue the people-bashing agenda the public apparently adores?

I doubt there many who will admit it, but people love being kicked around by their "servants" in congress and in all legislatures. Were it otherwise, they would kick them all out of office—before they get around to making elections illegal!

It has always been like this in the good old USA. Foolish and idiotic laws go back to our very beginning as a nation. Several years ago I had a newspaper in Heppner, Oregon. There were town ordinances that prohibited bouncing a rubber ball on downtown streets. Another made it illegal to honk horns, pull a siren or make any significant noise between 12 noon and 1 p.m. Such laws were never enforced, of course. So I petitioned the city council to repeal them. They laughed me out of the chambers and voted unanimously to keep those laws on the books.

Later, I asked one of the council members why they retain wacky laws. He had no problem with the answer. If there is a person they want to punish, he explained, and there is no rational charge to bring against him, we can always drag up the fact that he coughed loudly on Main Street, for which he can throw the book at him! I responded that if all these stupid laws, about which the public knows little or nothing, were enforced there wouldn't be a man, woman or child who wouldn't be in jail or trying to raise money to pay fines. He thought that was funny, but didn't deny it.

Moving closer to home, do you know what resistance town trustees of Carrizozo would raise should a citizen suggest that the town ordinance that says it is unlawful for a man or a woman to go unshaven in Carrizozo, New Mexico, be repealed? They want these assinine laws, but can't explain why. Do we enjoy having the nation laugh at us, or what?

New Mexico has a law that says no live horned toads may be taken out of the State of New Mexico except with the special permission of the governor. And there is an old New Mexico law that says a teacher must be able to read and write English. There is also a New Mexico law that forbids any vehicle to be equipped with a horn or whistle that has an inharmonious sound.

There appears to be a rush to see which town or state can enact the most preposterous and laughable laws. For example, in Maine a statute prohibits whistling on Sunday—and in Vermont it is against the law to whistle under water. (Next time you dive into the pool, try whistling with your head under water!) In Hawaii it is illegal to whistle in any drinking establishment. In Davenport, Iowa, no policeman may whistle at any girl under age 16. If you have lost a canary in Berkeley, CA, you are forbidden to whistle for it before 7 a.m. An in Mankato, KS you are in a heap of trouble if you whistle or sing "After the Ball" between the hours of 6 a.m. and 10 p.m.

There are many men who have hair on their backs. They should stay out of Louisiana where the law is that everything with hair on its back must be dipped. Catch a whale in the inland waters of the State of Oklahoma and you go to jail. It is illegal to disturb a bullfrog in Hayden, AZ, and frogs are forbidden to croak after 11 p.m. in Memphis, TN.

Author Robert Pelton has spent 22 years tracking down wacky laws. He estimates that he has found 10,000 such laws, which he has incorporated into a book, "Loony Laws." Author Dick Hyman has made a career of locating such bonehead legislation and incorporated it into a book titled "The Trenton Pickle Ordinance."

I almost forget a classic I uncovered while in Oregon. In a town near Pendleton, town fathers passed an ordinance forbidding animals to inhabit unless the ceremony was conducted in a motel room so as not to offend the public. That was in 1974. Today sex education is being taught to children in public schools, and is anyone offended?

Given these examples of legislative

RACIAL SEGREGATION LEADS TO EDITOR'S RESIGNATION AT WASHINGTON AFRO—AMERICAN

Remember those bad old days in DC when just about the only time that blacks were ever mentioned in the daily newspapers was in crime stories?

Other than that editorial addiction whereby any black suspect would be identified by name, age and "Negro", there was hardly ever a black face in any news story; and surely never in the wedding announcements, or the obituaries.

Fortunately, this kind of racial discrimination is long gone in what is called "The White Press" by such TV-chasers as Jesse Jackson and "Flying Saucer Lou" Farrakhan. But it has now been revived in the reverse-racism (or "Crow Jim") of Washington's 95-year-old Afro-American.

Robyn-Denise Yourse, city editor, has resigned from the Afro in protest of that newspaper's canceling a page one profile of mayoral candidate David Clarke—because he's white. Ms.

Yourse told the Washington Times that Afro publisher Frances Murphy told her that no white person would be on page one of the Afro—and that Murphy repeated this directive to the staff.

Yourse noted that the other candidates for mayor all had profiles of them run on page one of the Afro. But Publisher Murphy told the Times:

"It's been taken out of proportion. I think what I have on my hands is a difficult employee."

DIFFICULT employee, Mrs. Murphy? Would describe her as "uppity"? Or do you believe she just "doesn't know her place"?

While it is doubtful that Candidate Clarke will file a lawsuit on the basis of what should surely be Equal Opportunity, the Civil Rights Division of the US Department of Justice should begin poring over all applicable laws and judicial precedents, in the interest of being able to toss some civil rights overalls into Mrs. Murphy's Chowder.

Meantime, will we hear any word or protest about this from the racially-segregated Congressional Black Caucus?

Don't hold your breath. Will the ACLU say anything by way of protesting this blatant racism in our nation's capital?

Again, don't hold your breath.

Will the Democratic National Committee—which raised such pluperfect hell because the Bush campaign focused upon the Dukakis furloughing of a killer-rapist-fortorturer named Willie Horton—because Willie is black they claim they now raise any hell at all with the Afro for racially discriminating against a Democratic candidate because his skin shade is insufficiently dark?

Are you kidding? And, finally, what about Washington Radio's celebrated Scourge of the Washington Post, Cathy Hughes? Will Cathy, who is purportedly against racial discrimination, lead her listeners in dropping copies of the Afro in front of that newspaper, like she did at the Post?

Or does Cathy take literally the satire of Orwell's conclusion: "Some are more equal than others?" Stay tuned!

Inside The Capitol

By Jay Miller

SANTA FE—This year's constitutional amendment story will not be the same as in the past few elections. Lawmakers have gotten the message.

Gone are the days of 10 or more proposals on the ballot. Also gone are the complex, confusing amendments under the guise of "reform" and the intentionally misrepresented questions. It also means the days of nearly all amendments passing are gone.

Or maybe it's just a welcome breather.

This year's amendments number only five. Two amend the same section of the constitution so may go down to defeat. Another proposes a salary for lawmakers. That stands about as much chance as Saddam Hussein winning an American popularity contest. The other two might pass. One overrides a recent state Supreme Court decision prohibiting lease/purchase agreements by governmental bodies. The other allows the state land commissioner to trade or exchange lands under his control for other real estate.

The legislative pay amendment could have easily been worded deceptively. The language that will appear on the ballot simply says, "to increase legislative per diem and to provide a monthly salary." In past years the wording would have been something like "to limit legislative pay and per diem."

However needed the legislative compensation might be, the new-found candor among this year's lawmakers is very unlikely to be rewarded with a thumbs up vote. Per diem was increased several years ago from $40 to $75. That amount is no longer sufficient for a lawmaker to take cars of a day's room and meals in pricey, touristy Santa Fe.

But the per diem increase is coupled with the forbidden subject of paying a salary to our citizen legislators for their work. Never mind that city and county elected officials receive small salaries, it is a longstanding tradition that voters not allow their lawmakers any "compensation, perquisite or allowance" other than a moderate per diem.

In 1988 the only amendment on the ballot that lost was one to legalize a legislative retirement system that had been in place under an attorney general's opinion for many years. When Hal Stratton assumed the A.G.'s office, he challenged the practice. Since numerous former legislators were totally dependent on their small legislative retirement pensions, the court mercifully allowed the 1988 legislature the opportunity to submit the issue to the voters two years ago.

But despite the willingness of voters to pass every other question on the ballot and despite a description claiming the amendment would "limit" legislative retirement, it suffered a crushing defeat.

Investments of the state permanent fund are addressed in two amendments. In both cases the proposals allow greater flexibility in the fund's investment. Language deleted in one amendment remains in the other. If the public votes for both amendments, two versions of the same constitutional provision will exist. It is unclear what effect this will have. That uncertainty, plus a possible fear that the fund's handlers are asking for too much flexibility, may combine to defeat both.

The proposal to allow lease/purchase agreements may pass. It has been the practice for years but was declared unconstitutional recently because it bypassed

Letters to the editor

On professionalism

EDITOR: This letter is in response to a definite increase in concern among some local residents. It regards the lack of professionalism exhibited throughout the ranks of those who have either been elected or hired to run the town of Carrizozo.

Professionalism need not only apply to a highly paid individual such as a doctor or lawyer. It may well be attributed to any level job a person chooses to examine.

Professional behavior does not include an elected town official who arbitrarily grabs power or initiative and illegally suspends another town employee.

It does not include one who, through an obvious lack of experience, tact and finesse, alienates and disappoints those residents responsible for his or her elected position.

It does not include a maintenance person deciding at a whim who shall pay utility fees and at what rate they shall be paid.

It does not include an academy trained member of law enforcement using foul language when dealing with the public.

It does not include a staff person being abrupt, discourteous and insensitive when a resident wants to transfer a vehicle title or registration.

Nor does it include a member of the news media who perhaps on at least one occasion has relied on gossip, rumor or innuendo for a sensational editorial.

What professionalism does encompass is an acute sense of pride, loyalty and dedication necessary to fulfill a certain responsibility. Often this includes working long hours at odd times without any compensation, monetary or otherwise.

As far as this resident is concerned, the only professionals who qualify under these attributes are members of our volunteer fire department.

EDWARD S. VEGA,
Carrizozo

(ED. NOTE: This is a beautifully written letter. The logic is superb and the schematics perfect. School Supt. Danny Burnett could not have done a better job. So who really wrote it? If the real author will stand, we will award him our cherished personalized chewing gum doormat, along with a ticket to the next firemen's tax-subsidized beer bust.)

A different view

EDITOR—The story in the Sept. 13 issue on Corona Schools was very interesting. It seems Danny Bryant has a different story for everyone.

First of all, we actually had to "request" the meeting with the transportation director and school board, we were not just "invited." Bryant seems to think because he went through the "pains" of having this meeting that the matter is ended. I don't think so.

Also during this meeting, our school board and superintendent seemed to miss the point we were trying to make. They seemed to think all we were concerned about was getting paid to run the per capita feeders that we have been forced to take. I would like for everyone to know we are not interested in their money. Give that money to the bus drivers and have them come and get our children. After all, that is why we pay taxes; and besides this fact, don't my children have just as many rights as all the other thousands of children in the state?

The way I see it, Bryant is in that office to have the public's best interest in mind; and so far all he has done is satisfy himself and his own feelings. I also think what he has done to our bus routes is very wrong and I can only hope he doesn't get away with it.

JEFF WELLS,

ingenuity, it is conceivable that over the next 50 years it will be possible to find 5,000,000 things people may be forbidden to do. True, animals may be enlisted as has been the case in the past, but the no-no movement must continue. Think of the opportunity for dogs alone: in Belvedere, CA an ordinance reads, "No dog shall be in a public place without its master on a leash." And about cattle. An Arkansas state law prohibits the blindfolding of cows on public highways. The possibilities are endless.

Excuse me while I call Gov. Garrey Carruthers. You see, I am planning to visit friends in California next summer. Following state law, I must petition the Governor of New Mexico for permission to take a live horned toad with me. This is a time-consuming process. There are bound to be public hearings and perhaps a special session of the legislature to resolve it.

Donate blood Friday

United Blood Services of Roswell will be in Carrizozo from 1-6 p.m. Friday, Sept. 21 at Otero Electric Coop. Building on 12th St. to take blood donation.

United Blood Services serve 48 New Mexico and Colorado Hospitals. Since the blood is donated there is no cost for blood; however, there is an administration fee for anyone needing blood. Anyone 17 or older, up to age 65, can donate blood. Anyone younger must have a written permission form from the service and anyone more than 65 must have a doctor's permission.

FAMOUS UTTERANCES

"Popular Quotations For All Uses" contains more than 10,000 quotations from the world's greatest writings and utterances (prose and poetry). Lewis Copeland, who edited the volume, recommends it to the general reader as a treasury of entertainment and inspiration. He says that the book is a source of enjoyable reading "for all who would savor the wit and wisdom of great minds." Here is a sampling of utterances from Copeland's collection.

"Pedantry consists in the use of words unsuitable to the time, place and company." —Coleridge

"Written laws are like spiders' webs, and will like them only entangle and hold the poor and weak, while the rich and powerful will easily break through them." —Anacharsis to Solon

"People are never so near thinking the fool as when they think themselves wise." —Lady Montagu

SAY THAT AGAIN

Whenever I read any newspaper or magazine I usually double read, short quotations or statements. The following utterances have grabbed my attention in print or in person.

"The swimsuit competition is our Achilles' heel. I find it difficult to rationalize putting a young college woman in a swimsuit and high-heel shoes . . . But it would be folly for us to eliminate it unless we can find an acceptable alternative."

—Miss America Pageant executive director Leonard Horn, on the pageant's efforts to put more emphasis on brains and less on beauty. California's San Gabriel Valley Tribune.

"News reports last week said that Rebecca Vigil-Giron, running against Steve Schiff for Congress, lied when she claimed she had a college degree. Heck, that's nothing. Some of us know candidates who can't even read or write, but get elected anyway, and some other politicians who talk like boobs, but still get reelected." —Chuck Middles-tadt, The Hobbs Flare

"You gave them the farm." —Carrizozo Town Attorney Robert Beauvais to the council after reviewing their contract with Simmons Cable TV and finding no stipulations for the town to regulate the charges. Lincoln County News, Aug. 16, 1990.

"Don't let any of these jerks (Republicans) get into office. Elect this Democrat ticket. We're going to work for the working people."

—Democrat Jim Baca, who plans to return to the office of state land commissioner at a much higher salary than he earned when he held the office previously. Baca later apologized publicly, admitting he put his foot in his mouth when he called Republicans "jerks." —Rio Grande Sun, Espanola

"They call it take-home pay because there's no other place you can afford to go with it!" —Clyde, cartoon character in Defensor Chieftain

"Medellin isn't in Columbia, it's here." —District Judge Richard A. Parsons at sentence hearing of Garnet Blaney, convicted of second degree manslaughter. Parsons noted the 56-58 percent increase in drug traffic seen by the courts and said parents who do drugs themselves inflict the problems on young children. Lincoln County News, Aug. 23, 1990

"Any other trashy questions?" —Lincoln County Commissioner Rick Simpson fielding questions regarding solid waste during the regular meeting Sept. 10. Simpson and Commissioner Karon Petty appointed themselves as county representatives to the newly formed "garbage government."

"You can't always tell by the wrapper." —Lordsburg Liberal caption on a photo of two vehicles confiscated from John E. Ruiz and Ernesto Lazos during a drug bust Aug. 28. Both vehicles displayed "Say No To Drugs" stickers.

"These are the times that try men's souls. The summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of their country; but he that stands it now, deserves the love and thanks of man and woman!"

—Tom Paine author of a book called Common Sense. Taken from Copper's Americans with a touch of Greatness series. The publication comes from Topeka, KS.

"I may have died and gone to heaven." —Carrizozo Municipal Schools computer teacher Robert Hemphill on his delight on learning at the school board meeting that the board moved to buy $34,000 worth of computers for classrooms, administration and library. Lincoln County News, July 19, 1990.

"There is no such thing as a non-working mother." —Heser Mundis, Progressive Farmer

"El tiempo perdido no se recupera." —Spanish dicho meaning: Lost time is never recovered. Author unknown.

"You could buy a lot of bleach for $514,000." —Carrizozo pharmacist Hal Sims at the EPA public meeting at town hall to inform concerned citizens about cyanide contamination and cleanup procedures. Sims questioned how much EPA has spent so far; if using private contractors would cost less; and if putting a bottle of bleach in the well would be similar to treating the cyanide with the sewer plant which uses chlorine to treat waste water. Lincoln County News, Aug. 2, 1990

"How can you tell when a Congressman is lying?" —Straight Talk, the truth beyond the media coverage, facts without fear or favor. Answer: "When his lips are moving."

"New survey shows that three-fourths of New Mexicans believe in recycling. Maybe that explains why so many of them watch reruns of MASH and Cheers, and say they plan to vote for Bruce King." —Chuck Middles-tadt, The Hobbs Flare.

"Poco a poco se anda lejos." —Spanish dicho meaning: Persevere and you will reach your goal. Author unknown.

"I never knew an auctioneer to lie, unless it was absolutely necessary." —Josh Billings, Progressive Farmer

"How many Congressmen does it take to mail a letter?" —Straight Talk. Answer: "Four! One to hold the letter, one to lick the stamp, one to head up the committee to investigate the mailbox, and the last to empty its contents of anything of value."

"In order to prevent a mad dash of congressmen from rushing to the Middle East to have their pictures taken with US troops in Saudi Arabia to send to the voters back home, the congressional leaders, flooded with congressional requests for travel to the region, are working out arrangements for two delegations to visit the troops. All expenses, of course, will be paid by US taxpayers, who also pay generous salaries and innumerable perks." —The Spotlight, news you won't read in the Establishment media.

"I'm against retiring. The thing that keeps a man alive is having something to do. Sitting in a rocker never appealed to me." —Colóhel Harlan Sanders, Progressive Farmer

"Trust in God, but tie your camel tight." —Persian proverb

CowBelles help Girl's Ranch

The Canyon CowBelles met at the home of Cheri Goad Sept. 6 with Joyce May as co-hostess.

Guests were Barbara Langley, Cheryl Smith, June Straley, Julia Hollis, all of Carrizozo, and Sharolyn Gardner of Indiana.

September birthday members were Jane Shafer and Annie Withers.

A donation was made to Girl's Ranch in memory of Bobbie LaMay.

The Oct. 5 meeting will be at the home of AnnElise Smith. Representatives from the Girl's Ranch will present slides of some of the activities and homes of the ranches. The donations of cloths, furniture, and household items will be picked up at that time. Articles that cannot be used by the ranches will be sold at one of their three Thrift Shops located in the state.

The door prize was won by Della Smith.

the requirement of a public vote on long term debt. Cities and counties have engaged in this practice for years and are often successful in winning voter approval of their schemes.

The last amendment provides important flexibility for land exchanges that should permit the state to maximize the value of its holdings. The practice will help reduce the "checkbox-board" situation that is found where private land, or land of another government entity, is spotted throughout blocks of state public land. Such intermingling of land reduces its value and makes management more difficult and costly.

Current land commissioner Bill Humphries has been a master at getting legislative and voter approval of his proposals. Expect to see him do a good job of promoting this one too.

The 1989 and 1990 legislatures are to be commended for the forthright manner in which they have presented these amendments. This year the public will not be deceived.

Homecoming went well, except for the Grizzlies

Val Archuleta was crowned 1990 Carrizozo Homecoming Queen Friday during half-time ceremonies. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Archuleta, Val was attended by Guy Archuleta.

Other queen candidates were seniors Candace Wilcox, Nancie Vega and Stacy Padilla.

Also in the Homecoming

Court were junior princess Kelly Caldwell, escorted by Justin Portillo; sophomore Yvonne Estrella, escorted by Raymond Najjar; and freshman Rachel Archuleta, escorted by Willie Archuleta. Kindergarten attendants were Jesse Ann Ortiz and Matthew Hernandez.

The freshman won first place for their float in the Homecoming parade Friday afternoon. Sophomores were 2nd and seniors 3rd.

Danielle DeBerge decorated the first-place bike and John Serna was 2nd.

At the bonfire Thursday, there was a contest between high school classes for bringing the most wood, and the sophomores took first place.

Prizes were also given throughout the week. Monday was Hat Day. Sarah Funk and Jaclyn Epperson had the best hats. The only other spirit day with a prize was Mute Maiden's Madness Day. Senior Chris Barela won the prize with nine ribbons.

Cloudfcroft Tournament won by Lady Tigers

The Capitan Lady Tigers' outstanding team effort gave them the Cloudfcroft Tournament title last weekend.

Cindy Castillo, Karie Cox and Vicki Sedillo were named to the all-tournament team and Jennifer Eldridge did an outstanding job as middle blocker in the tournament matches.

The girls won the tournament by defeating Dexter 15-10, 15-9 and 15-12 Friday. In the semi-final, Capitan girls defeated Estancia in four games; 15-7, 15-8, 1-15 and 15-11. Sedillo and Lesley LaRue averaged five service points each in the match.

For the title, the Lady Tigers won three straight games against Texico in the championship match; 15-9, 15-6 and 15-9. Crystal Dalton made six service points in the 2nd and Kelly Cox made five in the 3rd.

Coach Pam Allen credited the Texico team for its outstanding, well-coached team.

Allen also felt the Capitan girls played steady volleyball on the three matches of the tournament.

The Lady Tigers take a break from ladyball action this weekend and will not play until they meet Tulare there Sept. 25.

The junior high team will play Alamogordo at 4 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 20 in Capitan. They will also play Tulare junior high on Sept. 25.

First home action for the varsity team is the Capitan Classic Tournament, Sept. 28-29.

Extension Homemakers meeting focuses on recycling efforts

Lincoln County Extension Homemakers Council met in Carrizozo for its annual achievement day Wednesday.

Hosted by the Carrizozo Extension Clubs, 36 women from the Capitan, Carrizozo, Corona, La Junta and Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Clubs gathered at the Carrizozo Woman's Club building to view prize-winning exhibits and hear about recycling.

Jim Edwards, field supervisor from the New Mexico Environmental Improvement Division in Ruidoso, spoke about the problems and advantages of recycling.

"You're not recycling until you are buying recycled products, that completes the loop," he said.

Just back from a recycling conference in Santa Fe, Edwards said one problem with recycled products is government procurement guidelines which previously did not allow the use of recycled paper. Now, policies are changing to mandate the purchase of recycled products, when available.

By the change of policy, recycling manufacturers will be able to compete in the open market. Now, many recycled products cost more than "virgin" products.

Recent surveys indicate a willingness on the public's part to pay more for recycled products, he added.

Recycling starts with the consumer, who makes the choice for recycled materials and not to use products which cannot be recycled.

He told of a recycling center in Alamogordo, Basin Pipe and Metal, which buys aluminum, metal cans, and certain types of plastic.

Some plastics, however, are not recyclable, so the consumer must check the package for the chasing arrows, which will have a number enclosed. The number is a code which identifies the type of plastic in the product.

Steel is the most recyclable metal in the US, and food cans can be sold. He advised to check with the recycler for instructions on how to handle materials to be recycled.

Edwards distributed a householders' guide to recycling which educates on avoiding certain materials, reuse and recycling.

During the afternoon the Extension women made refrigerator magnets in the form of an apple, to be Lincoln County's contribution to the free goodies at next year's state Extension meeting.

Lunch included casseroles made by the various members attending. A contest was held for the best casseroles and winners were Thelma Chipman of La Junta Club 1st, Bea Payton of Capitan Club 2nd, and Ammel Bevil of Carrizozo Club 3rd.

Now's the time to visit Old Lincoln

Now that summer is over, crowds visiting Lincoln have thinned, making fall a special time in the sleepy historic town.

Many Lincoln aficionados prefer to visit during the fall when weather is usually delightful. According to Bob Hart, Director of Lincoln County Heritage Trust, questions asked of staff members during this season tend to receive more detailed answers. He suggests visitors anticipate spending at least a half-day in the uncomparialized town.

Lincoln's biggest drawback during the off-season is the limited eating facilities become even more limited. Unless a picnic lunch is packed, or just a snack is needed, the enterprising visitor must travel to neighboring Hondo (10 miles) or Capitan (13 miles) for a meal. For fine dining Capitan, Tinnie (13 miles.) and Ruidoso (37 miles) are recommended.

Even though Wortley Hotel closes for the season Sept. 30, lodging is less of a problem. Three bed and breakfast establishments remain open during the off-season. Casa de Patron (853-4876), Old Ellis Store (653-4809) and Old Lincoln town B & B and Gallery (653-4185) are open.

A self-guided walking tour of the town is available for 50 cents at the Historical Center Museum Store or from other local merchants Guided town tours will be given twice daily through the end of September, leaving from the Historical Center.

At least one museum is open in Lincoln during the off-season. The Old Court-house museum remains open all year, closing for Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's Day. Museum hours are 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. beginning Sept. 16.

The Historic Center will be open daily through Nov. 15, reopening March 1. Between these two dates the museum will be operated on an irregular schedule, so call 853-4025 for the hours.

Lincoln merchants are planning a pre-Christmas display of holiday wares.

Bowling results

The Monday Nite Road-runners Bowling Leagues at Carrizozo Recreation Center are underway.

By the end of the first week, Team #5 was 1st place with four wins and no losses. Short Circuits was 2nd with three wins and one loss, United New Mexico Bank (UNMB) team 3rd with three wins and one loss and Team #1 was 4th with two wins and two losses.

Donna Harkey was high game individual with a scratch score of 196 and handicap score of 218. Cheryl Sparks was high series individual with a scratch score of 505 and she tied with Lucy Rickman with a handicap score of 535.

Tigers lose to Texico

Texico's football team came to Capitan Friday night and left with an astounding 41-0 win.

Capitan completed only one of 10 passes for seven yards, but otherwise fell apart on the home field. The only glimmer of a chance was right before the half when the Tigers stopped themselves at the 20 yard line.

"We didn't do anything," Coach Jim Fowler said.

Team #2 was high game team with a scratch score of 486 and Team #5 was high game team with handicap score of 584.

UNMB was high series team with a scratch score of 1592.

On Sept. 17, UNMB took 1st place with seven wins and one loss, Beep Beep was 2nd with five wins and three losses, Blue Horizons was 3rd with four wins and four losses and Team #3 was 4th with four wins and four losses.

Ina Hooten was high game individual with a scratch score of 221 and handicap score of 257. She was also high series individual with a scratch score of 556 and handicap score of 664.

Texico, on the other hand, gained more than 390 offensive yards and more than 300 yards rushing. They made 21 first downs and one player had more than 200 yards rushing.

"We're a better ball club than that," Fowler said about the Friday night home game.

The Tigers will travel to Hagerman Friday. Fowler predicts Hagerman to win the state Class A title this year, indicating the quality of that team.

Team #2 was high game team with a scratch score of 534 and tied with New Horizons with a handicap score of 615. UNMB was high series team with a scratch score of 1529 and handicap score of 1772.

Corona Homecoming dampened, 49-14

Angel Shaffer was crowned 1990 Corona Homecoming Queen Friday, but the Cardinals lost to the Roy Longhorns 49-14.

James Miller and Les Owens made the two touchdowns of the game for the Cardinals and Paul Miller made the successful kick for the extra two points.

The community participated in the bonfire Thursday night when Corona cheerleaders Candice Byrd, Angel Shaffer, Katrina Archuleta and Melissa Johnson led the group through the "Lights of America" candle-light ceremonies.

The football team will play Mountainair at 1 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 22 in Corona. The volleyball team will play Carrizozo's team at 6 p.m. today (Thursday) in Carrizozo. The junior high teams will play before the varsity match. The varsity team also will play the Mountainair team at 5 p.m. Saturday in Corona.

The Corona Sports Booster Club elected Marie Owen president, Debra Post vice-president, Denise Byrd secretary and Yolanda Archuleta treasurer. The group voted to buy meals for the boys when on out-of-town football games and for the girls volleyball team when at the tournament in Lake Arthur.

The boosters also will sponsor a booth at the Halloween carnival Oct. 31 at Corona School.

Female lions do over 90% of the hunting for their pride.

Card of Thanks

I wish to say a big thank you to the Lincoln County EMT's and Lincoln County Medical Center. They are such a caring efficient, Johnny on the spot group of people. Lincoln County is very fortunate to have the EMT's and ambulance personnel.

Sheriff's report

'Dead' man revived, fed, sheltered and sent away

A tourist staying at the Four Winds Motel in Carrizozo called the Lincoln County Sheriff's Office and reported a dead man on the side of Highway 54.

Sheriff James McSwane and deputies Connie Hopper and Gilbert Sambrano responded, but the sheriff arrived first. When he found the man, who was in a sleeping bag on the side of the road, he woke the man up. Relieved and happy the man was alive, McSwane took Clinton Blackshire back to the sheriff's office (SO), fed him and gave him a place to sleep for the night. SO had contacted OMI Rosemary Zink who was stopped by Carrizozo Police Chief Choncho Morales and advised the man was alive. The man left the next day.

Other sheriff's activities include:

SEPT. 11
2:33 p.m.—The caretaker at the Caperton residence in Glencoe reported a dead cow. SO referred the incident to the livestock inspector who was to contact the cow's owner.

5:54 p.m.—Marilyn John of Ft. Stanton reported John Beltron allegedly assaulted her husband Mickey at Rodeo Bar. SO responded.

SEPT. 12
8:12 a.m.—County road supervisor Tommy Hall reported vandalism to a county vehicle in Alamo Canyon. Reportedly a shotgun blast blew out the windshield of a backhoe. Hall requested additional patrol in the area.

11:37 a.m.—Mr. Greening on Hull Road in Ruidoso called about a wrecker with a vehicle he did not want. Even though he had the lien on it, he said he was not the vehicle's owner. The incident was referred to Ruidoso Police Dept. (PD)

2:06 p.m.—an EMS personnel in Lincoln requested assistance removing subjects who were trespassing on private property.

9:50 p.m.—Lincoln County Medical Center (LCMC) called the SO about a woman being treated for injuries. When deputy Jim Rethmel arrived he arrested William H. Herrera, 43, of Capitan, for probable cause on charges of assault and battery. He was jailed with a $1000 bond, which he posted. Crisis Investigation also was on the scene at LCMC.

SEPT. 13
7:15 p.m.—Donald Young of Capitan was involved in a one-car rollover on a county road north of Highway 380, west of Capitan. Two were dispatched to LCMC by Capitan Ambulance. New Mexico State Police, (NMSP) Capitan Police and McSwane responded.

SEPT. 14
2:23 p.m.—A male subject came into the SO and reported someone allegedly assaulted him.

9:58 p.m.—Four Winds Lounge reported Alphonso Lucero and three other subjects were causing a disturbance. The incident was referred to Carrizozo Police. When officer John Northrop Jr. arrived, the lounge manager advised him the subjects had left.

SEPT. 15
2:39 p.m.—Mary Hobbs of Carrizozo reported a 11-year-old boy had a bike wreck and had head and shoulder injuries with bleeding. Carrizozo Ambulance transported him to LCMC.
5:17 p.m.—Darrell Chavez reported a fight at the Elvino Chavez residence in Carrizozo, one of the men fighting was reportedly Leroy Silva. The incident was referred to Northrop.

11:54 p.m.—Celilia Kuhn requested a patrol of her business Club Carrizo near Carrizozo after seeing an unidentified vehicle there after closing. When Northrop responded he made no contact with a car.

SEPT. 16
Midnight—Lucero Montano filed a complaint against Frank Gallegos stemming from an incident at Club Carrizo.

1:59 a.m.—Northrop responded to a report that someone tampered with Denise Apodaca's vehicle at Four Winds parking lot.

9:13 a.m.—Fernando Montoya of Arabella reported someone allegedly was deer poaching and he feared they would shoot into his house. The incident was referred to the Game and Fish officer.

An anonymous caller reported an incident on Birch St. in Carrizozo. Leroy Silva was looking for Albino Chavez and allegedly was driving without a license. NM State Police officer was referred to the incident.

12:39 p.m.—G-F Ranch on the southside of the Capitan Mountains reported an accident with injuries involving an off-road vehicle near Baca Campsite. Shane Lancaster, 22, Roswell, was killed after he was ejected from a 4-wheel all terrain vehicle (ATV) 3.6 miles east of Baca Campsite on Forest Road 57. Lancaster lost control of the ATV while negotiating a corner and struck a tree. He was thrown from the ATV. NMSP officer reported the man was wearing a helmet. Two other persons, on another ATV behind Lancaster, also were injured when they ran off the road. The riders, also from Roswell, were wearing helmets.

Ruidoso ALS and Ft. Stanton EMS transported the two men to LCMC.
4:42 p.m.—Carrizozo Allsup's reported a gas skip. SO responded but made no contact because the skipper had too much head start.

5:59 p.m.—Kay Tracey of a hunter shooting from his vehicle across from her house into private property. SO responded and checked the vehicle for illegal firearms. None were found and referred the incident to Game and Fish which will advise the hunters about shooting on private property.

Student art displayed at New Mexico State Fair

More than 60 Carrizozo Municipal Schools students in grades 1-7 have their art on display in Albuquerque at the State Fair.

Included in this year's exhibit is the art done by students in grades 10-12 as part of their curriculum in English, language, biology and computer classes under the direction of their regular classroom teachers. Art exhibited at the fair represents crayon, pastels, colored markers and mixed media. Mixed media works utilize "found" objects such as packing foam, magazines, paper plates and scrap cardboard.

The school's elementary art program is under the direction of Polly E. Chavez. This year's students will explore the study of early art history; geometric shapes and the color wheel. The classes will again compete in the beef promotion contest sponsored by the State CowBelle Association.

The New Mexico Department of Education Association helps fair officials coordinate the fair art show. At the fair's conclusion, the association presents ribbons to all participants from schools throughout New Mexico.

Carrizozo has exhibited in the fair for several years. This year's elementary display includes works in pencil, selected. A prioritized list of projects to be financed by the $540,000 capital outlay improvements bond passed by voters' last year was reviewed. Some projects, such as upgrading the home ec facilities are underway already.

A special budget increase was approved to allow the school to encumber the $540,000 as a result of the bond sales.

Three budget increases were approved, two for Chapter II carryovers and one for Chapter I.

The board learned of a letter from the state concerning the school audit, which officially closed the review of the audit, with no findings requiring further attention.

The board also heard about a "cafeteria plan" type of benefits program which will enable staff to have more income due to tax reduction. The program will be presented to the school staff for its input.

The next board meeting is Oct. 16.
