Morales demoted as police chief

Since 1959 Choncho Morales has been Carrizozo police officer, chief, dog catcher, babysitter and taxi.

Last Thursday, Sept. 27, Morales was demoted from chief to patrolman after a closed-door meeting with Mayor Cecilia Kuhnle and town attorney Robert Beauvais, Morales told the NEWS yesterday.

By law Morales had three working days to submit a written request for an appeal hearing.

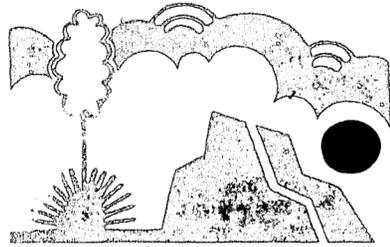

Morales said he submitted the letter to town hall Monday, Oct. 1. At this time he is unsure whether he will request a hearing open to the public, but many residents have asked him to do so, to allow them to add input.

Mayor Kuhnle appointed John Northrop Jr. to act as chief.

Mayor Kuhnle declined to comment on the situation, but did say a special called town board of trustees meeting Wednesday night (Oct. 3) was not for Morales. She also declined to state when a hearing will be set for Morales.

A reminder!

Anyone wishing to vote and who has not registered must do so either at the county clerk's office or with a deputy registrar by 5 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 9. For more information call county clerk Martha Proctor at 648-2394.

County commissioners

Transportation district directors are named

Lincoln County Commissioners appointed six persons to the newly-created Lincoln County Transportation Development District Board of Directors.

Meeting in a special session before a work session Tuesday, commissioners Rick Simpson, Bob Hemphill and Chuck Rominger two persons from each of their districts, based on written nominations. Simpson, representing District I, appointed Harold Mansell from Ruidoso Downs and Jerry Jordan from Lincoln. Hemphill, District II, appointed David Cummins from Capitan and Chuck Rominger from Carrizozo.

Petty, District III, asked if all persons whose names were submitted by Larry Goodman at a previous meeting had agreed to serve on the board, appointed Nancy Radziewicz and Al Junge, both from Ruidoso.

According to the ordinance which created the district and board and passed by the commission at their last meeting, the six will appoint a seventh member from the public at large. Three appointees will serve a term expiring Dec. 31, 1991, three will serve until Dec. 31, 1992 and the seventh will serve until Dec. 31, 1991.

Thereafter, board members or their successors will be appointed to serve two-year terms.

The board is charged with the duties of reporting its progress in developing a transportation system, in order to obtain approval from the county commission for staffing, budget and other administrative and fiscal needs. The board is subject to the authority of the county commission.

The ordinance was written and passed as a request from the IronHorse Railroad Inc., a not-for-profit group which proposes to construct and operate a tourist-based narrow-gauge steam railroad, primarily in the Ruidoso area. In order to obtain technical assistance from the State Transportation Authority, the group requested the ordinance.

Some original objections to the formation of the district came from Carrizozo residents who feared the railroad would entitle Ruidoso to seek the county seat, since state laws read the county seat shall be in a town with a railroad.

Once the IronHorse group assured commissioner Hemphill the narrow-gauge was for a tourist attraction primarily, with possible future expansion out of the Ruidoso area, he gave his approval to the district.

Another objection dealt with the district's power of eminent domain, which alone it does not have. Only county commissioners and/or the state can exercise that power.

The Velasquez case

A year later, and the investigation goes on

An accident which took the life of a Carrizozo infant nearly a year ago remains unresolved.

District Judge Richard A. Parsons granted a continuance to the trial set Oct. 9-17 for Michael Velasquez on a charge of vehicular homicide. The charge was made by a grand jury earlier this year.

Velasquez reportedly was the driver of a pickup which rear-ended the vehicle in which Naomi Morales, six weeks old, was riding. Her mother, Cynthia Morales, was driving when the accident occurred Oct. 7, 1989 about one mile south of Carrizozo on Highway 54.

Cynthia and the infant were thrown from the vehicle. The mother sustained extensive injuries and the child was later declared dead.

Velasquez was not charged at the scene of the accident, and much dispute arose over how the accident was investigated. After the grand jury, Velasquez's attorney, David Serna of Albuquerque, claimed the jury was vicious in its intent.

Serna recently wrote Judge Parsons requesting a continuance based on several points: assistant district attorney Chris Ziegler, who was investigating the case, no longer is with District Attorney Bert Atkins office; the case requires special attention of expert witnesses, special accident reconstructionists, who require at least 60 days to prepare, same for the defense who just recently secured an accident reconstructionist; 17 grand jury tapes need to be reviewed (the grand jury indicted Velasquez May 24); both counsel must locate and interview witnesses, which Serna claimed will be "extremely involved" especially considering some witnesses are on active duty and overseas (Velasquez is stationed in Germany).

Serna also wrote he had not received word from Velasquez's superiors in Germany and sent a copy of the Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act which lists several exemptions for those in the service.

In a written reply, Judge Parsons wrote his opinion

Carrizozo trustees

Question: How much does water cost in Carrizozo?

Carrizozo Board of Trustees argued the price of water, passed a special gross receipt tax, and directed the police chief to begin an investigation at its meeting Tuesday, Sept. 25.

When J.W. Jones Construction came to the area to do a road job it helped itself to water from a Carrizozo water stand. Town foreman Faustino Gallegos discovered this and informed the drivers Jones should check with town hall on the price. When Jones had been in the area previously, the price of town water was $1.25 for a thousand gallons.

But, during the time between construction jobs, the town raised the price of water to $5.

Jones drivers continued to get the water, but the price bothered the boss; so much so it led to a series of discussions which even involved the state highway department.

Now that Jones finished its job and left, the town found the Jones water meter was wrong, to the tune of 940-950 gallons on each 5,000-gallon load. And 12 million gallons went through that defective meter.

At the town meeting Tuesday night trustees wanted to know how to charge Jones for the water, especially with the inaccurate metering. One suggested multiplying the lost gallons by the $5/1000 rate.

The suggestion led to a debate on whether Jones should be charged at the high rate or the lower $2.75 rate negotiated by Ken Parker with New Mexico State Highway Department (NMSHD).

Mayor Cecilia Kuhnle, unhappy and uncomfortable with the hassle with Jones, did not agree the high rate should be charged. She said Jones came to her angry about the low rate set for the state, while he had the high rate.

Trustee Dale LaMay said Jones never signed a contract or put up a bond for the lowered rate. "How could he be crying so bad?"

Town clerk Carol Schlarb agreed Jones had no contract with the town and thus is obligated to pay the $5 rate set by ordinance.

Town attorney Robert Beauvais asked if Jones was advised of the rates set by the ordinance, and learned that Gallegos had.

A town resident said charging the high rate would drive more businesses out of the town. She thought the rate had been negotiated to $2.75 a thousand by Parker and that rate had been offered to Jones.

Garcia told of how a contract was drawn and sent to Jones to offer the water at the state rates. The contract stagnated and the town heard nothing from Jones, yet all the time his trucks were filling up with water at the golf course lake. Garcia said the town has "bent over backwards" as much as it could to get the contract, but Jones didn't sign.

Jones can come and sign as a subcontractor with the state and get the lowered rates from now on, he added.

Kuhnle finalized the discussion when she agreed a bill at $5/1000 gallons be sent to Jones.

During discussion it was noted that Parker said the town has one of the highest rates for water. LaMay and Garcia said the town is not the highest, and cited the examples of Eunice with its $8.50 rate and Alamogordo with a $5 rate also.

A new ordinance imposing a 1/16 or one percent special environmental gross receipt tax was approved after some discussion with a resident who opposed it.

Passage of the tax is allowable by state law which provided a funding mechanism for solid waste. The special tax also may be used for water or sewer projects.

Beauvais said the reason to pass the special tax is to give the town an option of joining the newly-formed solid waste authority, composed of various county municipalities and the county government. He also said the meeting was the deadline to pass the tax, since it must be on the book for three months before it takes effect. The tax will begin Jan. 1, 1991.

The resident was concerned about another tax being jammed down the public's throat just to help finance a solid waste project, especially when the town has a contract with a company for solid waste collection.

Garcia said passage of the tax does not obligate the town to offer its share of money, estimated $2000 annually, to Lincoln County for the authority.

However, Beauvais noted a great deal of pressure will be put on the town to join since the opinion now is that all municipalities must join for the project to succeed.

"It's in no way imperils your solid waste contract," he added.

If the town does join, its share will be added for an estimated total of $125,000 annually. That money will be used as collateral for revenue bonds for the project in the future. Control of the money will be in the hands of a board of directors selected from all county municipalities and the county. The town will not be obligated to the project unless a joint-powers agreement is signed, sometime next year, Beauvais said.

Currently, county gross receipt taxes are more than one percent lower than Carrizozo's.

Kuhnle said solid waste is the "hot issue" of the 1990s and into the next century, and garbage is a problem that will not go away. She advocated participating in the countywide solid waste project with hopes of a more efficient and less expensive service in the future.

Although opposed to higher taxes, since many misappropriations occur, the flexible options and the potential role as a player made her agree to the tax.

All trustees voted for the tax.

When the trustees report portion of the meeting came, Garcia said he wanted to direct the chief to investigate how the blood-alcohol level for a person suspected of DWI got into an editorial in the newspaper. He worried the town would be involved in a court action because of this and wanted to exonerate it of the situation.

Garcia opined the test was a medical record not privy to the public.

Beauvais answered the test would be public record if used in court proceedings.

Garcia noted the test was part of a still open investigation, as the case has not come to court.

Trustee Patsy Vallejos was troubled the paper knew the test contents even before she did.

Then all trustees, Garcia, LaMay, Vallejos and Gilbert Archuleta, concurred with the investigation by Morales.

Trustees also discussed the solid waste contract with Southwest Disposal Corp. (SDC) which Beauvais said wants a franchise with the town, if the one-year contract is renewed. In a bid proposal, prepared by former mayor Bob Hemphill, SDC could be offered a franchise to last from 5 to 25 years. However, Beauvais said the town is not contractually bound to enter the franchise.

After the clerk told him SDC has not even executed the contract it now has with the town, Beauvais said to get those done immediately.

The item will be discussed at a future meeting.

Parts to repair the bowling equipment at the Rec Center are coming, but not after being sent to the town COD. Schlarb sent the parts back because the town cannot pay COD. She then contacted the company for a credit and had the parts returned.

The bid specifications for the golf course equipment were approved after Schlarb said Ted Turnbow, golf course lessee, okayed them. The bid is for a new greens mower to be financed by money from the sale of water from the golf course lake.

Some library books in the Rec Center are in a box, but the others are still a mystery. The board agreed to drop the line item from automatic appearance on the agenda.

A $100 check to help pay the electricity for the airport beacon was gratefully accepted. A letter from Michael Shane, West Sources Realty of Alamogordo, praised the beacon as "truly a light in a dark world for pilots without radio." Shane was flying through the area on an overcast, stormy night when the beacon directed his way. He sent the $100 as his appreciation.

Trustees also approved sending Schlarb to the Academy for Advanced Education, Oct. 24-26 in Santa Fe.

A question was raised about the monthly expenditures. Garcia said it appeared Taylor-Faust had been paid for the fire hall project after an inspection only by the fire chief, and not an inspection by the fiduciary agents.

"He was," Schlarb said.

A year later

that the length of time between the incident and the trial is atrocious, but considering all factors granted the continuance.

Serna also requested Parsons excuse himself from the bench in the case since it has received extensive pre-trial publicity, and involves the granddaughter and daughter of a Carrizozo public figure (Choncho Morales.)

Other recent district court action includes:

Marcos Barela Jr., Carrizozo, was sentenced to 18 months in the state penitentiary for the theft of fence posts from Ranchers True Value Hardware in Carrizozo Feb. 14, 1990.

He was sentenced Sept. 17 on a count of larceny of $250-$2500 and was ordered to pay $411.25 restitution when released. He also was ordered to undergo substance abuse counseling. Barela was found guilty by a jury. He was taken to New Mexico Western Corrections Facility in Grants.

A warrant for the arrest of Victoria Trolinder, 35, Ruidoso, was issued Sept. 28 for failure to appear for her first appearance on a forgery charge.

Timothy Garcia waived arraignment and entered a plea of not guilty on charges of residential burglary, resisting and evading an officer, disorderly conduct, intimidating a witness and escape from custody. A jury trial was set Nov. 13-14.

Tom and Lisa Mirelez pled not guilty to a charge of harboring or aiding a felon. Jury trial was set for Dec. 4-5.

Allen Bruce also pled guilty on 34 counts of commercial burglary, residential burglary, larceny $250-$2500, larceny $100-250, larceny under $100, auto theft, criminal damage to property. He was arraigned Sept. 17 and was ordered back to the jail on a $100,000 bond with no 10 percent pending a bond study.

Michael P. Cote had probation revoked for charge of residential burglary. He was arrested Sept. 24.

Ramon Navarez Aguirre waived arraignment and entered a plea of not guilty on charges of transferring cocaine and trafficking cocaine.

purchase, lease, gift or devise for the purpose of constructing transportation facilities.

Bonds, at public or private sale, for the purpose of constructing facilities, notes or other forms of debt must be approved by the county commission also.

Iron Horse Railroad members have stated they will accept gifts and donations of land, but do not propose to use public revenue bonds.

The group requested appointment of the board of directors at this time because of a late October deadline for technical assistance from the State Transportation Authority. The application is being prepared with the help of New Mexico State University.

Maggi Bohks, county emergency preparedness director, submitted and received approval for this year's Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) budget. The county is contracted with the federal government for FEMA, which pays half of Bohks's salary, supplies and equipment and one-fourth of a part time secretary. Bohks recently hired Kim Roper to serve as the secretary. The federal program is administered by the state EMPAC program.

Commissioners heard Sheriff James McSwane propose a contract with two volunteers, who are qualified in firearms and have prior law enforcement experience, to extradict non-violent prisoners to Lincoln County. The volunteers will free the time spent by deputies for such extraditions.

County financial director Mignon Sims worried about the liability factor involved with contracting with volunteers, and recommended the commissioners have her office check with the county's insurance carrier.

McSwane said the men will be commissioned as special deputies, who by state law are covered by insurance.

Commissioners approved the contract pending approval of insurance coverage.

Before the work session, commissioners were scheduled to discuss proposed options for upgrading county telephone systems, a proposed Lincoln County flexible compensation plan, and a Lincoln County employees retirement plan. Because of the lengthy closed session the items were tabled.

The next meeting is set for 4 p.m. Oct. 22, since the regularly scheduled meeting will fall on Columbus Day, Oct. 8.

C. O. "CHUCK" ROMINGER
DEMOCRAT CANDIDATE FOR
COMMISSIONER DIST. #2
GENERAL ELECTION, NOV. 6
"Let Your Voice Be Heard"

Ernest V. Joiner's

● Carrizozo town trustee Harold Garcia, hereinafter referred to as Garcia the Great, last week ordered Police Chief Choncho Morales to interrogate me. The idea was to find out how I got information published in this column about John Saucedo having been given a blood test for alcohol in connection with Saucedo's recent arrest. The testing laboratory returned a positive report that the blood contained .19 alcohol content. That result was printed here! Garcia the Great wants to stop such leaks. Hence the interrogation by Morales. What I told Morales to tell Garcia the Great was this: "Tell Garcia that how I come by the information is none of his damned business."

● What happens when a police officer stops you at 2 a.m., you have an open container of alcoholic beverage, a juvenile in the seat with you in spite of the curfew law, you submit to a blood test for alcohol, which tests positive, and you steal the officers citation book? If you're from out of town, the book is thrown at you. But if you live here and have friends and relatives employed by the town or county, nothing happens. To keep any mention of the incident from the newspaper, protective officials just say to a reporter that "the case is under investigation." It will remain "under investigation" until the reporter forgets all about it, dies, or moves away.

● In the above case, which worries Garcia the Great, there will be no prosecution of charges in the Saucedo case. It will be swept under the rug, or placed "under investigation." There is always a technicality that can be raised to prevent prosecution of just about any case. In this case, a technicality will be found, or one will be invented. That's how law enforcement is conducted around here. But if you are cited, and you have no influential friends or relatives, may the Lord have mercy on your jail-bound soul.

● Garcia the Great (GG) entertained spectators at the town council meeting by pointing out incorrectly that Ernest Joiner had never attended a town council meeting. The implication being that since I have not attended a meeting I have no idea what goes on there. Come on, GG. Why do you think I hire reporters to cover those council meetings? Publisher Graham of the Washington Post doesn't attend Washington, DC council meetings, but she certainly knows what goes on there. To correct GG: I have attended one council meeting—at which GG was absent. On a pertinent (and probably idiotic) note, I suppose I cannot appreciate the excellence of one of GG's hallowed hamburgers because I never attend a bullfight.

● Last week I spent hours watching live C-Span TV coverage of congressman trying to explain their agonizing, heart-rending decision to raise taxes, cut the military budget (great idea, considering that we're on the brink of war in the Persian Gulf), soak the rich, raise Medicare costs to the sick and elderly, add 10 cents to the gasoline tax, and, of course, high tax increases on alcoholic beverage. Irate taxpayers called in to lambast some of the speakers. Not one congressman and not a single caller mentioned the fact that if US foreign aid were stopped, the budget could be balanced and everybody's taxes lowered.

● Why didn't the president call for stopping the giveaway to the United Nations, about a billion dollars a year, and which costs the average American family about $288 a year? Why did not a single congressman propose that idea?

● And why did our generous president, with full support of congress, cancel Egypt's debt of $7 billion owed to US taxpayers? Why? Last year alone we gave Egypt $2.3 billion. What for? And why shouldn't we be entitled to get it back? Is it worth that much to be known as "nice guys"? And did you know that, to show its appreciation, Egypt votes in the UN against us, and for the Soviet Union, more than 98 percent of the time?

● We love to lavish our tax money on people who hate us. Take Pakistan. Last year the US gave it $583 million, and it voted for us at the UN only 10 percent of the time. We gave the Philippines $494 million last year alone. They hate us, and have demanded that we withdraw our military bases and get out of the country. Last year we gave India $163 million. Why, when India hates our guts and voted against us 95 percent of the time at the UN.

● Do you know where Bangladesh is, or give a hoot, or wonder why we gave it $175 million last year? We also give Tunisia $69 million and Ghana $30 million annually. For what? What the hell does the American taxpayer gain by throwing his hard-earned money to a bunch of Third World clowns who don't like us in the first place?

● The largest recipient of US foreign aid is Israel. We cough up $3 billion annually to keep that country alive. But there is a difference between how we're treated by Israel compared with the rest of the world's deadbeats. Israel is a friend of the US. It has never kicked us in the crotch for our generosity. Israel stands as a buffer today between the US and the fro-

SANTA FE—Is negative campaigning becoming a staple of the American political scene?

An article in the September issue of the National Conference of State Legislatures magazine says that it is—simply because "nasty ads are effective." And, the magazine continues, we all saw Michael Dukakis learn first hand in 1988 that noble silence is not an effective response.

NCSL explains that American voters have a natural suspicion and cynicism regarding political candidates. When they hear something negative, they tend to believe it. When the other candidate does not respond, the attack becomes even more believable.

The result is that American voters have become jaded. It has led to a nationwide decline in voter participation, a drop in taxpayer check-off contributions for public financing of campaigns and an increased distrust of politicians and political parties.

NCSL reports that many political scientists feel this public attitude will lead to a restricted political choice for voters because potential candidates will choose not to run for fear something from their past may be taken out of context in a negative campaign.

Nasty political advertising has also led to spiraling campaign costs, linked to the increased use of television ads and a disproportionate allocation of 90 percent of campaign funds to media advertising, leaving less than 10 percent of those funds for activities that involve the citizenry.

The purpose of NCSL's article is to talk about ways in which states have tried to get the political process under control. Some 22 states have tried it. None have had much success. Several laws have been struck down as unconstitutional. The rest have all suffered from enforcement problems stemming from the fact that when a law is enforced, it often leads to a suit that kills the statute.

NCSL concludes it is nearly impossible to tone down negative campaign advertising. Most of it amounts to censorship, upon which our constitution frowns.

New Mexicans seem to have come up with the only workable solution—vote against candidates who use negative campaign tactics. The question then becomes: what is negative campaigning?

Certainly no New Mexico politician has ever conducted a campaign that would be called negative according to the gutter standards of most other states. But some have gotten close enough to that line to cause disagreements. Bruce King says Frank Bond is being negative and challenges him to conduct a positive campaign. Bond says he's not getting personal; he's merely pointing out differences on issues. The largest morning daily in the state has decided editorially that Bond has overstepped the line.

Undaunted, the Bond campaign has decided to step up the attack on King's record for issuing pardons. Tom Cummins, Bond's campaign chairman, says the Bond headquarters has received only 26 calls from persons upset with the ad about King's record on pardons. Cummins says that is not evidence people are being turned off by the commercial.

In fact, says Cummins, another ad is being prepared telling where some of the 250 criminals are now, who were pardoned by King during his last administration. The implication is that some of them are once again, residents of our penal institutions.

Cummins says Bond's contention that King issued too many pardons picked up support from an unexpected source when a former King parole board chairman explained that King's pardons weren't "automatic." After completing prison and parole time, a former convict had to wait a year and make a written request before a pardon would be considered, explained the King supporter. Cummins says the Bond campaign hadn't realized it was that easy.

Bond may be able to pick up some votes from citizens who feel King was too soft on pardons. It's not a bad issue. The fight comes over whether Bond is being deceptive when he implies King decreased anyone's prison time.

New Mexico's voters will decide where to draw the line. In a small state, in which nearly everyone can get to know governor candidates before the election, the public may not be as willing to accept an opponent's definition of the other candidate.

SYMPATHY SYNDROME

This summer George Downer in his Lordsburg Liberal column, "The Warden Report" wrote that he had read various publications from around the state pertaining to the good side of Billy the Kid. It went as far as asking (in just he hoped) the governor to Pardon Billy. Downer hoped the public took a close look at this publicity before "jumping on the bandwagon for forgiveness."

Downer wrote that not too long ago game wardens across the country had to endure somewhat of the same folklore-hero sympathy syndrome when Claude Dallas gunned down two Idaho game wardens and was literally given refuge and hidden from authorities attempting to apprehend the killer.

"It seems," wrote Downer, "like the Kid, Claude had kissed his grandma once and many folks granted him folklore hero status for killing two wardens."

Eventually Dallas was captured. During the hail of gunfire at the time of capture, Dallas was winged on the foot. "I'll let you be the judge on whether that was good or bad," Downer tells his readers. During the trial the defense brought in witnesses swearing on the Bible that Dallas was just a "good old boy." A free trapper at heart, he was simply living the dream of the Old West (like poaching furbearers and deer) and thought his life was endangered by the warden's investigating his camp.

ILLEGAL ACTIVITY

Since most state wildlife laws are only misdemeanors, Downer hardly thought a savvy outdoorsman like Dallas would overestimate the consequences of prosecution of violation of those laws.

Downer says that Claude Dallas was a loner who didn't like game laws or game wardens because he liked to poach. He had set up a camp in a remote area and was into this illegal activity when word got out. Two Idaho wardens went to investigate. Like most game wardens they walked into camp, asked questions and looked around.

Dallas pulled a gun and killed both. Execution style finishing shots to the head were included. "The price of fur pelts was high then so he was just bumming a living off the land. A real hero, huh?"

Dallas was not convicted of the murders he committed but was slapped on the hand with manslaughter and sent to prison. He escaped. He was recaptured at a convenience store. Downer thinks he is currently in a state prison in Kansas.

A TV movie was made of this modern "mountain man folk hero."

Downer's opinion: "Disgusting!"

WANTED IN TEXAS
Another summer, 57 years ago, according to a July 21, 1922 NEWS file, a Lincoln thing Middle East, and will fight with us if called upon. And in the UN, Israel votes with the US more than 87 percent of the time. The Israeli are fighters, not fawning, boot-licking, tin-cupping creeps who can't wait to knife us in the back.

● And consider this. While the US continues to pour out hundreds of billions of dollars to help our enemies, our top officials, including Secretary of State James Baker, are busy beseeching foreign nations to give us money to help finance our dilemma in the Middle East. We haven't the money to keep our troops in Saudi Arabia, but we have loads of money to throw at undeserving foreign nations. Why don't we garnish their paychecks?

● Yet, not a single congressman to my knowledge, or even the President of the United States, have made any proposal to reduce foreign aid by even one dollar! They refuse to discuss it. Instead, they dump a higher tax burden on us all. They cut benefits to the sick and elderly, cut Social Security benefits, fund the thieves who stole the savings & loans, and cut veterans benefits—all the while raising the salaries and pensions of congressmen.

● Excuse Me. I need a drink.

Smoking and Drinking Are Real Pains For The Heartburn Sufferer

There is no question that Americans are becoming exceedingly more health conscious.

Despite this growing trend toward personal health and fitness, however, some people continue to indulge in excessive smoking and drinking. Besides being potentially harmful to one's overall health, these much-maligned habits can be especially painful for heartburn sufferers.

According to Dr. Gordon McHardy, emeritus professor of medicine at Louisiana State University Medical School, smoking and drinking contribute to heartburn.

Heartburn occurs when the acidic contents in the stomach back up into the esophagus, a process that can cause painful irritation to the delicate lining of the esophagus. This disorder is quite common, affecting more than 75 million Americans each year.

Although smoking and drinking have been found to cause heartburn, there is a difference in the way that they cause the physiological change in the body that can lead to heartburn.

When someone smokes, the sphincter muscle, which controls the opening between the esophagus and the stomach, relaxes. This allows the acidic contents in the stomach to readily back up into the esophagus, often resulting in painful heartburn symptoms.

Alcoholic beverages stimulate the secretion of additional acid in the stomach. In addition, alcohol tends to relax the sphincter muscle, increasing the risk of heartburn symptoms.

Although smoking and drinking are two habits that increase the chances of heartburn, eating habits are also prime contributors to the pain and discomfort resulting from this common gastrointestinal ailment. Food and drink associated with the onset of heartburn include chocolate, hot and highly seasoned foods, processed meats, foods high in fat, coffee and carbonated beverages.

For symptomatic relief from the unexpected horrors of heartburn, most physicians and pharmacists recommend an effective antacid. Most antacids reduce heartburn symptoms by neutralizing the acid in the stomach. Another popular over-the-counter preparation, Gaviscon, works differently by forming a foamy protective layer that floats on top of the acidic stomach contents, and helps soothe the irritated lining of the esophagus once heartburn strikes.

Recurrent heartburn can be an indication of a more serious health problem. Individuals who fall into this category should consult with their physician.

Continued their search until Saturday morning when the bandits, dugout was found and raided, but the outlaws had moved to another spot. After trailing the men all day Saturday and Sunday through the rough country they finally over-took two of them Sunday about 6 o'clock.

Jones called to them to come out with their hands up. The bandits immediately began shooting; the officers returned the fire and Jones fell with the first round, dying instantly. Glenn Hunsucker, 21, was considered a desperate outlaw and one who was not expected to be

Ribbon campaign to support armed forces

Operation USA—ribbon support the men and women who are serving in the Middle East, is gaining momentum.

Liz Sambrano who lives in Carrizozo and works at Ft. Stanton Hospital and Training School, is coordinating the campaign in the county and reports a positive response, with many asking for the red-white and blue ribbons to wear. The campaign also advocates flying the US flag, asking churches to pray for a peaceful resolve to these in the Persian Gulf area and finding people in the community who need a support group and forming one.

Sambrano has given many of the ribbons and will accept donations to purchase more.

She also reported the Rev. Tom Broom of Trinity Methodist Church in Carrizozo is willing to start a support group or do counseling.

The Rev. Broom has been trained in counseling and can be contacted at the church office Monday-Wednesday, 9 a.m. - noon.

Sambrano said no religious articles can be sent to the troops in the Middle East. Other restrictions also apply, such as photos that would be considered indecent, the Sports Illustrated swimsuit edition for example.

In addition to Jon Todd Aguilar, Pete Narvaez, Moises Sambrano Jr. and Alex Sambrano, who are serving in Operation Desert Shield, Liz listed Michael Chavez of Ft. Stanton.

For a more complete list of those serving in the Middle East, parents must submit names to the paper, she added.

Sambrano plans to have the ribbons available at THE NEWS office soon.

taken alive. Hunsucker was mortally wounded, living perhaps an hour. He was wanted in Texas for robbery and involvement with the murder of two Texas peace officers.

MANHUNT ENDS

"Perchmouth" Stanton, a man of 46 who was Hunsucker's companion at the time of the gun battle, gave officers the slip. Another night and day of trailing continued. After the killing of Deputy Jones became known a posse was organized by men from Capitan, Hondo and other parts of the county eager to assist in the search. It ended dramatically near Ramon on Monday afternoon. He was brought to Carrizozo and jailed. Officers from Tulia, TX identified him as supposed accomplice of Hunsucker.

Stanton's preliminary trial was held here in Carrizozo that week. He was charged with first degree murder; waived extradition and was turned over to Texas authorities who were here to claim him. Hunsucker was buried in Carrizozo.

FAMILIAR NAMES

Some of the people involved in the search for the outlaws may be familiar to long-time residents of Lincoln County. Other deputies who took part in the manhunt were: B. M. Hodges, Fred Kergan, Tom McCamant, Narsario Adler, Mr. Gardenhire, Coleman Joyce and H.T. Renolds. The posmen were: Raymond Riddick, Brice Ward, Joe Atkinson, Raymond Perkins, Blendy Evans, Juan Mirabel, Bessley Reagan, Albert Roberts, John Harkey, Tennis Bigelow, Albert Snow, Hunt Hobbs, Monte Gardenhire, Jack Davidson, Russell Purcey and Roy Shafer.

OH GOLLY

Last day of the state fair I was among the people surrounding a robot who was doing brisk business in newspaper items of the past. Why did I have to know what the headlines were in 1940? It didn't seem like such a long time ago until I had a copy of The Time Chronicle. Franklin D. Roosevelt was the President of the US and John N. Garner was second in command in August 1940.

Here are some of the headlines: "Great Britain Declares That 'The Battle of Britain' Has Begun as German Air Attacks are Greatly Stepped up." "The Civil Aeronautics Administration Awards Flight Pioneer Orville Wright Honorary Pilot Certificate Number 0001." "US to Swap Destroyers for British Military Bases." "Exiled Communist Leon Trotsky is Killed in Mexico by Soviet Agents."

Bread was 8¢ a loaf, a gallon of milk 51¢, a new Ford auto cost $850 and gasoline was 11¢ a gallon. The song people were humming in 1940 was "When You Wish Upon a Star." Names in the movies were Ginger Rogers, Kitty Foyle and James Stewart.

UNDER THE BIG TOP

KARIE COX and her escort, Sean Seay, proceed toward the edge of the field after she was crowned Homecoming Queen 1990.

Tigers win Homecoming game with Springer

Their first win of the season, and Homecoming at that.

Early first-quarter scoring put the points on the board for the Capitan Tigers and gave them a win for Homecoming Friday night against Springer, 14-0.

The Tigers opened the game with a kick off to Springer, then the Tigers held the Red Devils back. After several unsuccessful plays, Springer punted the ball to give the Tigers possession. With the ball in their hands the Tigers drove it down to their goal for a touchdown, made on a five-yard run by Nathan Roybal. Dan Seay made a successful kick for the extra point.

When the ball went to the Red Devils, Tiger Paul Whipple intercepted a Springer pass at the Tigers' 40-yard line. The Tigers again drove the ball down toward their goal and Sean Seay ran it in. Dan Seay again kicked in the extra point.

By the end of the first quarter the score was 14-0, where it stayed until the end of the game. Tigers Roy Briggs and Weidon Smith both made interceptions. Smith took the ball and ran to the 2-yard line, but penalties put the Tigers back and they lost the play.

In the second half, the Tigers were plagued with penalties.

Coach Jim Fowler said the team did a good job stopping the Red Devils, and hustled with defense. He was pleased with the Tigers effort, but realized they have some work to do in certain areas.

Karie Cox, daughter of Ken and Joyce Cox, was crowned 1990 Homecoming Queen during half-time ceremonies which included fireworks and two musical pieces by the Tiger Band. Cindy Castillo and Kamie Jolly were queen candidates. Cox was escorted by Sean Seay. The court included junior princess Brandi Peralta, sophomore princess Laurie Griego and freshman Jennifer Montoya.

The Tigers will be on the road for three weekends. They play in Jal Friday, Oct. 5, then begin district play the following weekend in Reserve, at 2 p.m. Saturday Oct. 13. The next district game will be in Cloudercroft Oct. 19. The Tigers return to their home field Oct. 26 when they play Loving.

Volleyball results

The lack of mental concentration lost the Capitan Classic for the Capitan Lady Tigers volleyball team, and gave it to Elida.

In the first round of play Friday, Capitan easily defeated Lordsburg girls in three games for the match, 15-3, 15-0 and 15-8. Vicky Sedillo made six service points in the 1st game, 11 in the 2nd and Karie Cox scored 12 in the 3rd.

But when the Lady Tigers came on the court with Elida Saturday morning, things got a bit tense. Elida made the Capitan girls work for their 1st game win 18-16. Cox scored four service points and Jennifer Eldridge scored four. But the Elida girls put on the pressure and the Capitan girls could not overcome, losing the next three games 10-15, 9-15 and 9-15 to give the match to Elida. Lesly LaRue scored six points in the 2nd and Cox five in the 4th.

The Lady Tigers played Texico Saturday afternoon and won the match for 3rd place in the tournament. The girls took five games to win the match, 15-8, 10-15, 15-7 and 15-13. Cox made eight service points in the 1st, Sedillo five in the 2nd, Crystal Dalton made 8 in the 4th and Cox six in the 5th. Elida defeated Ft. Sumner in three games for the championship match Saturday.

Lady Tigers Coach Pam Allen felt the team performed well against Lordsburg. But against Elida, the eventual tournament champion, the Lady Tigers were not in the match mentally. "We had several opportunities to beat them but failed to do so," Allen said.

The match against Texico was a tough one, Allen continued. Coach Littlejohn does an excellent job with his team and the Lady Tigers had to fight hard to win the 3rd place match.

Carrizozo volleyball team beat Texico in the first round Friday 16-14, 15-4 and 15-12. Christi Brown scored 10 service points in the 1st game and Cheryl Hightower made five in the 3rd.

Although the Carrizozo girls came on strong against Magdalena in the 1st game of the semi-finals Saturday 15-9, they lost the match in four games, 1-15, 7-15 and 9-15.

In the finals the Carrizozo girls defeated Lordsburg in four games; 13-15, 15-5, 15-2 and 15-3. Renee Roper made five service points in the 2nd, Lori Gibson made 10 in the 3rd and Hightower made seven in the 4th.

Lesley LaRue and Karie Cox were named to the all-tournament team with Amanda Gallegos, Cari Crenshaw and Camilla Weatherford of Ft. Sumner, Denise Gonzales, Penny Pierce and Amy Chadwick of Texico, Micah Mills of Cloudercroft, Carine Madril of Magdalena, Joretta Creighton and Tammy Lieb of Elida.

Teams competing in the tournament were Capitan, Carrizozo, Cloudercroft, Elida, Texico, Lordsburg, Magdalena and Ft. Sumner. Cloudercroft won the consolation.

The Lady Tigers junior high, junior varsity and varsity teams play their Carrizozo counterparts beginning at 4 p.m. today (Thursday) Oct. 4 in Capitan.

The first district match is with Loving, beginning at 2 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 6 in Capitan.

Grizzlies fall to Loving

By CHRIS SCHLARB

The Carrizozo Grizzlies drove to the Loving Falcon 25-yard line before a timely interception ended the drive and the game last Friday in Loving.

In a tough defensive battle, the Grizzlies fell to the 2nd ranked Falcons in the final minutes. On a 14-yard touchdown pass, the Falcons took the final lead. With a 2-point conversion they had a 14-7 lead with 1:26 left in the game.

The Falcons came out in the game strong, scoring on their second possession. The 2 point attempt failed. The Grizzlies scored next in the 3rd quarter when the Falcons mishandled a punt. On the next play, Chris Barela scored on a 1-yard run. Guy Archuleta kicked the extra point. Then Loving regained the final lead with 1:26 left in the 4th quarter.

The Grizzlies will play at Anthony, TX at home beginning at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 5.

Carrizozo Athletic Booster Club are sponsoring a smothered burrito dinner from 4:30-7 p.m. before the game Friday in the school cafeteria. A table will be set up at the dinner to enroll persons interested in being a member of the boosters. For more information on the boosters contact Anne Serna, Charlotte Emmons or Carol Schlarb.

This tree died of a heart attack.

Carving hearts on trees seems harmless enough. But the fact is, it cut short the life of this majestic oak. By gouging into the bark, vandals crippled the tree's vascular system. So, like thousands of other innocent victims each year, the tree slowly died. But the fight against vandalism is gathering strength from the example of Lynn Brauer and Carol Eichling. When vandals girdled a 300 year old Chinquapin Oak near their Marthasville, Missouri home, they wrapped the wound in sphagnum moss and tended the tree daily, despite blizzard conditions. If not for the severe winter, arborists feel the Chinquapin might have survived. We believe miracles can take root. When people care enough.
