

Residents show little interest in 5-member district commission

By DORIS CHERRY

One of the most radical changes in Lincoln County government since it became an official county is now in progress, yet citizens appeared to have little interest in how the new five county commission districts will be established.

Only about a dozen people came to a public hearing held last Thursday night to allow working people time to come to and add their opinions, and even fewer came to the 10 a.m. public hearing during the regular county commission meeting to hear about options for the five districts for Lincoln County.

Last month commissioners approved an ordinance creating the five member commission and ensuing commission districts. County clerk Martha Proctor had advocated the redistricting because the state also is redoing its legislative districts based on the 1990 census figures. With the new legislative districts and precinct changes, for example, Capitan will no longer be Precinct 1.

At the meeting Tuesday, Proctor displayed maps, prepared by county mapper Albert Baca and herself, which showed four different options to redistrict the county into five.

By law, all districts must have the same number of residents within 5 percent, up or down, and cannot split census blocks. Because of the sparse populations in some outlying areas, such as Corona and the eastern side of the county, keeping within the requirements and giving fair representation as possible has proved to be a difficult task.

Minor adjustments were suggested at the hearing

Thursday night, which resulted in the fourth option.

Since Thursday, commissioner Bill Elliott, who presided Tuesday for absent commissioner chairman Stirling Spencer, received at least one call from an Eagle Creek resident worried of having to vote at Capitan.

Baca said Tuesday, that the Ruidoso area can be adjusted more easily than other areas, because of a higher population density.

Proctor explained the precincts also will change in 1992, after the state legislature adopts the next representative and senatorial districts. The proposed districts will be in place by June, but the legislature must either adopt those or come up with their own.

The new districts will differ from the old, which followed a metes and bounds description, because they will follow geographical features. "They follow roads, rivers and even trails," she said.

She acknowledged the new districts do not appear to be logical and she expects a lot of complaints. "But that is what I was elected for, to take complaints."

Proctor pointed out there is no democratic way to fit 12 precincts into five commission districts. Also, she said the secretary of state has indicated another precinct might be created in the Carrizozo area.

Any option now being looked at by the county cannot be finalized until after a special legislative session set for September.

"We've gone as far as we can in the process until we gamble the legislature passes a law to allow split precincts," Proctor said.

County attorney Robert Beauvais said the county cannot move precinct lines now, it can only adopt single member districts which follow the census districts, which do not conform to precinct lines.

Audience member Dave Skeen from Rancho Ruidoso said it appeared the county has done a lot of work which may be useless.

But Beauvais believed the legislature will give the counties ability to modify precincts for the single member districts. However, the precinct lines must conform to the legislative districts now being reorganized with 1990 census figures.

Proctor encouraged commissioners to adopt some type of plan for the redistricting, to allow her to continue her work. But she acknowledged the changes to be made by the state, including the new precinct (13) which will be west of Highway 54 and will include Carrizozo. "Most counties have several changes to make."

Beauvais said the additional precinct will be due to ethnicity requirements.

Public hearings for the state legislative districts will be conducted June 7 and 8 in Roswell and Alamogordo. The biggest argument out of Lincoln County is being split into three representative districts.

Skeen asked if passage of the commission districts by the county could help control where the state will place legislative district lines. Beauvais said no legislative district will be based on present precincts, and could not predict if the legislature will go along with the new districts proposed by the secretary of state.

Proctor encouraged interested citizens to call her or come to her office in the courthouse in Carrizozo with ideas. "I hope they don't wait until after the districts are adopted."

Commissioner Monroy Montes liked option 1, while Elliott likes option 4.

Option 1 will have one district to encompass all of the west side of the county including Carrizozo, Oscuro, Nogal, parts of Alto, Rancho Ruidoso, White Oaks, Ancho, Corona and the northern part to Ramon on the eastern border. This district is the same in Option 2 also.

Ruidoso will be cut into two, with Mechem Dr. (or Highway 48) south to Sudderth Dr. a border. The border will go down Sudderth to Junction Rd. (near the library), down Junction across Highway 70 along Glade and Monjeau Drives and down Grapevine. The other Ruidoso district will be east of Mechem and north of Sudderth, with Gavilan Canyon Road the east boundary, with a little sliver going along Eagle Creek to the Forest Service property line.

Debate continues regarding fee for franchise holders

Lincoln County Commissioners granted extensions to franchise holders to negotiate the terms of ordinances affecting the utilities.

At their regular meeting Tuesday, commissioners Bill Elliott (who presided for absent chairman Stirling Spencer) and Monroy Montes, granted two-month extensions to franchise holders whose 25-year terms were to have expired.

Since last month, commissioners have been conducting public hearings for franchise ordinances for Capitan-Carrizozo Natural Gas Association and Zia Natural Gas. The franchise propose to extend another 25 years, but will add a 2 percent fee, based on annual gross receipts from customer payments within the county and outside of municipalities. The fee is to establish a county office to administer the franchises, with inspections and planning, allowable by law.

Last month, during the first public hearing, Zia Gas president, vice-president and attorney discussed their likes and dislikes of the ordinances, resulting in new wording presented Tuesday.

During the public hearing session during Tuesday's meeting, Beverly Payne from C-C Natural Gas asked several questions concerning the fees and collection. She wanted to know the use for the fee, which county manager Nick Pappas said was to create the planning department, to fulfill the county's main charge of health and safety of its citizenry. He estimated a department with a planner to do inspections and mapping, and a secretary, with other overhead, could run about $100,000 a year.

Payne wanted to know if a specific amount could be set, rather than a percentage. County attorney J. Robert Beauvais liked the percentage, rather than a flat fee, because it can be adjusted to reflect the county's reasonable costs to administer the proposed planning department. How to determine the fee, based on those county customers, was no problem, since Payne said she already has those county customers in a separate account because of different

Economic development plan faces uncertain future

An effort by county government to save money may send the Economic Development Corp. of Lincoln County down the drain.

Started as a countywide effort to attract new businesses and industry to the area, EDCLC formed in 1987 when 150 people bought certificates.

The following year, EDCLC approached the Lincoln County Commissioners for funding. They were granted a half mil of all taxable evaluation of county property, and EDCLC set up shop in the Ruidoso Financial Center, now the Stroud Building. Millage was continued in 1989.

Last year, commissioners decreased the funding to 1/2 mil and another 1/2 mil provided EDCLC match that amount with private funding.

On April 25 of this year, EDCLC sent a formal written request to commissioners Monroy Montes, Bill Elliott and Stirling Spencer, asking to continue with the 1990 agreement.

But when acting executive director Anita Sanders and board chairman Ronnie Paulger approached the commissioners May 2, during a budget work session, they were told of reduced county revenues. "We just don't have the money," commissioners said.

So many claims have been made on county money, commissioners had to reconsider the EDCLC request. Montes said revenues based on property valuations were down and other funds such as the cigarette tax are also down. "All we saw were needs in other areas of the county," Montes said after the county meeting Tuesday.

Given about 15 minutes with the commissioners at the work session, Sanders and Paulger were told of the tentative decision to cut all county funding of EDCLC. Instead, the county will set aside $30,000 for economic development.

In a published report, Montes was quoted the county will not create an economic development office as such, rather have the money available. Also, Montes thought there was little accountability from EDCLC in the past.

Reportedly, Montes was disappointed when EDCLC failed to come up with an accountability for the four new businesses attracted to the county, with breakdown of payroll and jobs. Montes said Tuesday that he did not say the jobs brought by EDCLC did not generate money, rather there was nothing tangible to pinpoint.

Sanders said in a telephone interview Wednesday, she sent a survey to all companies attracted to the county by EDCLC, asking about payroll, employees and so on, for them to fill in. The returned survey responses were copied and sent to county commissioners with the April 25 request letter. Also copies were available at the February EDCLC board meeting. EDCLC has attracted four businesses

Leading a special and talented group of dancers, judges this year selected Monique Polaco, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luis Polaco, and Dominic Prudencio, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Prudencio, as 1991 Hondo Fiesta King and Queen.

Parents of both winners crowned their children. And, an added surprise was a special blessing bestowed upon them by visiting Bishop Ricardo Ramirez of Las Cruces.

Second place was captured by Eddie DeBaca, son of Mrs. Belinda DeBaca and Miss Patricia Salas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Salas. Third place was Mr. Danny Salcido, son of Mrs. Francis McTeigue and Miss Teresa Montez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Montez.

Best costume prize for the girls was presented to Erica Copeland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Truman Sanchez. She wore an elegant dark purple dress.

Best costume for boys was captured by Alejandro Lambert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Lambert. His Carro costume featured an exquisite sequined horse and rider and two doves.

Both costumes represent hours of painstaking work.

This year's fiesta was a tribute to Peace and to Veterans, not only of the Persian Gulf conflict, but to all who participated in foreign wars.

Fire destroys Capitan home

Volunteer firefighters from Capitan, Bonito and Lincoln hurried to a structure fire south of Capitan Tuesday morning.

Joined by firefighters from the New Mexico State Forestry Division in Capitan and US Forest Service, the group tried to save the James Fowler residence.

The fire started shortly after Fowler and his wife

Bobbe, who are teachers at Capitan Schools, left for the morning. Reportedly, their son was at the barn when the fire was first noticed.

Capitan VFD arrived by 7:50 a.m. with three units and eight firefighters. NMSF brought two units and four people, USFS one unit and four people, Bonito VFD

The Ruidoso districts will vary little in all options.

Capitan district will include an area north of the Capitan Mountains, west to Forest Road 39 to the corner on State Road 246, the Goodloe Ranch road to Benado Gap, down to Highway 380 at the Nogal turnoff. The line will go east along Highway 380 to Indian Divide ridge road, down that to connect with Highway 37, down to the Bonito Lake turn, east down Bonito River. It will include Angus. The east border will be on State Road 246 south to Capitan, then east on Highway 380 past the Ft. Stanton turn off. Then it winds around down Devil's Canyon road to Highway 70, which will be the southern border. The north side of Highway 70 in Ruidoso Downs will be in the Capitan district.

Another district will be south of State Road 246 (north of the Capitan Mountains) south to the Otero County line. It will include Glencoe, San Patricio, Pine Lodge, Arabella, Hondo, Tinnie, Picacho, Sunset and River east to the Chaves County line.

Option 2 will have one huge district in the north. It will come from the east side of the county to connect with Forest Road 39, south to State Road 246, follows the Goodloe Ranch road to Benado Gap Road, south to Highway 380 at the Nogal turn off. The border will go east on Highway 380 to Capitan, then south on Highway 48 to Cora Dutton Road, west to Highway 37, down that to the Bonito Lake turnoff, then west on that road, then south around Sierra Blanca.

Another district will be to the east of Carrizozo district. It will follow Eagle Creek through Alto (for a south border) down to Devil's Canyon, south to Glencoe and then on south to Otero County line. It will include Capitan downtown, Ft. Stanton, Angus, Lincoln, San Patricio, Hondo, Tinnie, Pine Lodge, Arabella, east to the Chaves County border.

The Ruidoso Downs district in Option 2 will include all of Ruidoso Downs, east of Gavilan Canyon Road, south of Eagle Creek, the valley to Glencoe.

The most radically different option will be 3, with a geographically huge district covering the area north of Ancho, to the county line, including Corona to Ramon. It would not follow census block lines and would split Capitan in half, down to Bonito River, east to Devil's Canyon, south to Eagle Creek, then south along streams to the Otero line. It would include Corona, Ramon, Pine Lodge, Arabella, Ft. Stanton, Lincoln, Glencoe, San Patricio, Hondo, east to Chaves County. Carrizozo District under Option 3 would include Carrizozo, the west half of Capitan, Nogal and Oscura. Alto area between Bonito River and Eagle Creek would be included with Ruidoso Downs. Ruidoso districts would be the same.

Option 4 will make one big district out of Carrizozo, north to Corona and Ramon and include much of the area north of the Capitan Mountains. Capitan district would be similar to Option 2, with Capitan, Lincoln, Ft. Stanton, Pine Lodge, Arabella, except it would split the census block to exclude the Hondo Valley, which will then become a separate district. The other districts will vary slightly from options 1 and 2.

Maps showing all the options are on display in the county commission chambers in the courthouse in Carrizozo. Also, Lincoln County NEWS will have maps for public viewing.

Each district contains about 2400 people, with an allowable variance of 5 percent up or down.

Proctor said Option 1 created the most questions about getting three commissioners from Ruidoso. She pointed out this could happen now, with current districts.

Skeen said three commissioners out of Ruidoso would defeat the five member commission philosophy of providing more representation for the areas such as Ramon, in the northeastern part of Lincoln County. He said the people from such areas don't want Ruidoso to control the whole county.

Elliott reminded the districts must be set up by population. "Then move more people to the northern part," Skeen joked.

The new districts and precincts will be "set in concrete" after the legislature people do their thing in September, Elliott concluded. Elliott also encouraged all interested to attend the public hearings for the state districts, since the biggest argument out of Lincoln County is the dislike of the three representatives. He suggested placing public notices in the local newspapers concerning the June public hearings.

Commissioners plan to conduct more meetings concerning the five commission districts after more information is received from the state.

Wednesday simulcasts at Downs

RUIDOSO DOWNS—Although there will be no live racing at Ruidoso Downs on Wednesdays this summer, there will be simulcast wagering at the Sports Theater nearly every Wednesday during this 79-day stand.

The first Wednesday simulcast was held for May 8, and featured races from The Downs at Santa Fe meeting from Albuquerque. Wednesday simulcasts from Albuquerque continue through June 10. The action switches to Santa Fe on June 19, and Wednesday simulcasts continue through Aug. 21.

Similar to last season, all of Ruidoso Downs' live races will be simulcast to Sunland Park, San Juan Downs and La Mesa Park, and to the interstate network which includes South Dakota, North Dakota, and for the first time, Wyoming.

Surplus food may go to the poor

A request made by Sen. Pete Domenici could enable cafeterias and other agencies to donate surplus foods to feed the poor and homeless.

Domenici wrote to US Dept. of Agriculture Secretary Edward Madigan, asking the USDA to instigate a regulatory change giving indemnity to food donors and distributors who give surplus and day-old goods to charities that feed the poor.

Currently, cafeterias that rely on USDA resources, such as commodities, are required to carry liability insurance to protect them from lawsuits that could be filed against the donor. The cost of such insurance protection keeps many cafeterias from making donations.

"There appears," Domenici said, "to be a serious stumbling block in the Dept. of Agriculture with regard to the possibility of obtaining and distributing non-saleable but edible foods from public schools to charitable groups, who, in turn, feed the homeless and others."

Domenici told Madigan the USDA should follow a standard set by New Mexico, which has passed a so-called Good Samaritan law that frees restaurants and businesses from liability if they donate their surplus goods to charities.

In his letter to Madigan, Domenici lauded the Food Brigade, a program sponsored by the Santa Fe Restaurant Assn. that has spurred businesses to donate their surplus foods to feed the destitute.

Road Dept. Open House

Lincoln County Road Department will have an open house at 3:00 p.m. Wednesday, May 15 at its facility in Capitan.

The department will show off new offices and equipment. The public is invited.

gross receipts amounts. A concern was whether Ft. Stanton Hospital and Training School, a state-run institution, would be subject to the 2 percent fee also. Payne also asked if the commissioners would require all utilities with franchise agreements to pay the fee, or just those up for renewal. The county has 14 utility franchises, but only three are up for renewal.

"We're not trying to gouge, only provide a needed service," Pappas said, then explained the county would probably extend some type of request for fees to the other franchise holders. Also the county is proposing an ordinance to require a permit, with fee, before any excavation can be done in county rights-of-way. All franchise agreements with utilities are for use of county rights-of-way.

The permitting ordinance would take in all smaller utilities which are not regulated, like Alto Water Users, Eagle Creek Water Association, and so on. Beauvais said the permitting fee would be a good inducement for those with a lot of years left on a franchise agreement to go with the percentage, since the permit fee would then be waived.

Collection of the fees will begin sometime after July 1, when the new fiscal year begins. That will give the county time to determine the revenues from the fees and to incorporate that into the budget process now underway.

Beauvais said the fee will have a bigger impact on such companies as Zia, Texas-New Mexico Power Co. which have rates set by the Public Service Commission, and cannot pass through the charges to customers. Payne reminded commissioners C-C Gas Assn. is non-profit, and the fees could create a rate increase for county customers.

Commissioners also heard from Paul Crown of Lincoln Cablevision, also up for franchise renewal. Crown considered the fee unfair if he had to pay it and others did not. Beauvais said if and when the county contacts the other utilities for the permit fees, an effort will be made to renegotiate to have those utilities which have time left to pay the fees also.

Crown had no problem with the franchise but had not had time to talk with his attorney.

Commissioners also heard from Otero Electric Manager Bill Mershon. He worried about the franchise fee which would increase electric rates, already too high. He also wanted some type of accounting to make sure the fees will go just for a planning department, not some other area in county government in need of funds. Otero Electric franchise was not considered at this time because its franchise is not up for renewal.

After talking with Payne and Crown, commissioners extended the two months for all three franchises until the June 18 meeting. During the interim they authorized Pappas and Beauvais to meet with the franchise holders to work out an equitable fee.

Commissioners awarded the bid for resurfacing Schlarb and VoAg Roads in the Carrizozo area and Spring Road in the Ruidoso Downs area to McCarty Paving of Ruidoso, for a total of $97,512, which includes tax. Another bid was received from Armstrong Construction Co. of Roswell. Schlarb Road will be completed first.

Acceptance of a county auditor was tabled until the next regular meeting to allow review of the proposals submitted by Emmons and Co. of Albuquerque and Woodard, Wingfield, Cowen and Co. P.A. of Roswell. Proposals will be reviewed on a point system.

The assessor's office got a 1991 extended cab, small size pickup, to replace the gas guzzling full-size vehicle now used. Sierra Blanca Motors in Ruidoso was the low bidder with $12,799.99. However, the bid was award contingent the figure include excise tax.

Vacation of the right of way for Griffith Dr. and Cedar Rd. in Agua Fria Subdivision in the Ruidoso Downs area requested by Sarah Henderson was granted, based on Planning and Zoning recommendation. The owner signed a stipulation agreeing to not hold the county liable if any county equipment damages the carport only two inches from the county right-of-way, and to cut a tree which diminishes visibility.

The road review committee was given the task of determining whether County Roads F-035, F-025 and parts of F-027, F-033 and F-026 be vacated. Doralea S. Bean, owner of Road Runner Ranch in the Ramon area, requested vacation of the roads. Foreman Bill Hays delivered the request.

Alternates to the road review committee were named—Paul Chavez of San Patricio for District 1, Rex Wilson of Ancho for District 2 and Wayne Townsend for District 3. "It's a thankless job," said Elliott, "but it pays well, $5 a day."

Seven Glencoe Palo Verde Fire Dept. volunteers became eligible for the volunteer firefighters retirement act, based on the number of fire drills, business meetings and emergency responses attended. Pappas' goal is to get as many county firefighters on the retirement rolls as possible. After 10 years of qualifying, firefighters can receive $100 a month retirement.

A resolution setting 1/4 of a mil for Chaves Soil and Water Conservation District was approved. The county has no control over this levy, which is allowed by the state legislature. The district is only in the eastern side of the county and will not affect properties outside the district.

The week of May 12-18 was proclaimed Emergency Medical Services Week in honor of the many accomplishments of all members of the EMS teams.

A budget increase to allow for the $29,000 EMS grant was approved.

In reports from elected officials and department heads, Sheriff James McSwane reported on the receipt of a $100,000 grant to conduct further narcotics operations in Lincoln County by hiring another narcotics officer.

Bill Cupit, road manager, requested and received approval to hire a full-time secretary and receptionist for the road department. An office for the secretary will be located in the road department facility in Captain. Cupit also announced an open house set for 3 p.m. Wednesday, May 15. The public is invited.

Budget work sessions continue, with the next set for 6 p.m. Thursday, May 16, in the commission chambers in the courthouse.

The preliminary budget will be approved at the May 28 meeting, after which it will be sent to Santa Fe.

Lack of insurance could kill rodeo at the fair

Lincoln County Fair Association has a problem.

County Manager Nick Pappas told association vice-president Jody Roberts at the county meeting Tuesday, that the county does not have liability insurance to cover participants within the rodeo arena.

The lack of insurance could make the county liable if someone was to be hurt during any type of equestrian activity in the arena at the fairgrounds in Captain.

Because the county owns the fairgrounds, and leases it to the fair association for 99 years, it is liable. It does have insurance for all others but participants, but as Pappas put it, insurance for the rodeo riders would have to come from "Lloyd's of London."

Commissioner Bill Elliott questioned if the association could require all participants to sign a waiver, but Pappas said that would just insulate the county, not protect it.

County attorney Robert Beauvais said all other activities not sanctioned by the county, such as proposed tractor pulls and play days, would have to provide their own insurance. Roberts knew of no rodeo participants who have sued for injuries sustained during a rodeo. But Beauvais said it is different with government entities. "All on the fair board can be sued," Elliott reminded.

Pappas was instructed to look into the waivers, and come up with some type of inspection plan to minimize the chance of injuries.

Also, commissioners approved hauling about 600 yards of sand from a location near Carrizozo to the fairgrounds arena, to make safer conditions. Now the arena is hard packed with little sand.

The road department will haul the sand, and the costs will be taken from that department.

Also at the county meeting Tuesday, Pappas announced the county trash dumpsters at J.R.'s market on Gavilan Road and Highway 48 have been moved to Alto Store.

with 50 jobs in two years. Lincoln County has provided about $200,000 to EDCLC to this point. For the current fiscal year, which will end July 1, the county millage has provided $89,900 out of a total anticipated budget of $169,000. Additional funds came from county municipalities, private firms or individuals, new memberships and original memberships.

Out of the annual EDCLC budget come salaries for two employees, including executive director, office expenses, a $25,000 travel budget and $20,000 advertising budget.

EDCLC's stand on the funding out is if there is not enough money to operate effectively then it is a waste of time to operate.

When commissioners requested the private funding to match the one-fourth mill last year, EDCLC was given no guidelines on what type of private funding would be accepted. When EDCLC submitted several copies of funding, commissioners questioned their validity.

But Sanders said that such an organization has to operate on a certain amount of trust. In her opinion, the EDCLC board, strictly an all volunteer group, has a lot of integrity, with none there for personal gain.

Representatives from all municipalities and private business people from all areas of the county are on the board or are certificate holders. Of the 15 board members, there is an attorney, banker, insurance agent, construction company owner and other small business owners, with expertise in all those fields.

EDCLC will meet at 7 p.m. tonight (Thursday), at its office in the Stroud Building on Mechem Dr. in Ruidoso. Members will consider funding.

OPINION

● THE American may be vanishing. At least, he is being hyphenated. We have a movement on foot to refer to Indians as Native-Americans. Never mind that Indians call themselves Indians, and without injuring their psyches or sensitivity. But racists won't accept that. Indian has got to go. If Indians are henceforth to be known and addressed as Native-Americans, what do we do about those people who inhabited America before the Indians came down the pike and threw them out? Aren't they, whoever they are, also Native-Americans? Why not simplify the deal and call Indians Americans, which they are.

● I am told that I am descended from a heritage of Irish, English, Scotch and French. Please do not refer to me as an Irish-Anglo-Scot-Franco-American. I don't know anything about the Irish, the English, the Scotch or the French, and I don't care to. Keep them out of this. Just refer to me as an American. That is sufficient.

● SOME Hispanics never seem to find an ethnic classification they can live with. They have tried Latinos, Latin-Americans, and a variety of other names to distinguish them from less worthy folks, like me. And they cry out about having to learn the English language and cry harder that their "culture" doesn't get enough attention in the United States. If the Hispanic, as he is currently known, isn't happy with American and Western culture, why isn't he somewhere else where he would feel more at home? Perhaps they should just shut up and start calling themselves Americans.

● BLACKS clamor for affirmative action that gives them special privileges. They demean Western culture and would put greater emphasis on their African culture. Their African culture is hardly comparable to what they enjoy in America. For example, their African culture is one of tribal government; one in which no tribe had ever come up with an alphabet enabling them to enjoy the written word; never learned how to construct a house; and never invented the wheel. They also have trouble identifying their ethnic background. They once called themselves Negroes. Then it was Blacks. Today it is, due to the prodding of the Jesse Jacksons and Ron Dellumses, Afro-American. How long the tag remains in force is anybody's guess. Such foolishness could be stopped if only they would start calling themselves Americans.

● INSTEAD of our having Asian-Americans, Oriental-Americans and Japanese-Americans, why can't they all settle down and accept the fact that they're just Americans. Period.

● THERE is a horror story developing in Castro's Cuba that is being ignored by the media. The media expresses pride in their mission to keep people fully informed. So why have they ignored those four outdated, Soviet-designed nuclear reactors now being assembled in Cuba? These reactors are similar to the one that blew up at Chernobyl, the biggest and worst nuclear disaster in history. These four outdated nuclear reactors were phased out by the Soviets in the early 1980s as being dangerous and "unsuited for Soviet power needs." They don't come close to meeting Western standards of safety. So the Soviets sell them to Castro who is installing them at Jaragua, Cuba, near the Soviet naval base at Cienfuegos. Castro needs power because there is a shortage of it in Cuba. Too, he wants nuclear weapons capability which he can achieve at the same time through those reactors. For about two years this Soviet-financed project has been going on only 90 miles from Florida.

● WHERE are the vocal and militant anti-nuclear activists while all this is going on? They stay silent.

● IT should be remembered that President John Kennedy almost declared war when he learned that the Soviets were installing missiles in Cuba capable of carrying nuclear warheads that could reach the US. Fortunately, the Soviets gave in to Kennedy. Now we have a worse project under way in the same Cuba and inspired by the same Soviet Union. Can it be that President Bush hasn't been informed of this approaching disaster; and if he has, why is he remaining silent instead of sending our Air Force into Cuba to wipe these reactors off the map before they blow up and endanger all of Central America and the southern and eastern half of the United States?

● THE above information is published in The American Sentinel, a publication that deals with national defense, foreign affairs and internal security. It states that Castro's crash nuclear construction program lacks western safety controls, is already six years

Inside The Capitol

By Jay Miller

SANTA FE—Term limits for New Mexico politicians died a quick death in this year's legislature.

But they may be back. For a while, the brainchild of right-wing Republicans, term limits have shown themselves to be so popular among voters that other political philosophies are beginning to embrace the rhetoric. Populist and moderate factions within the Democratic party are now making polite references to the concept.

And in states where initiatives can become law through public referendum without having to undergo legislative action, the movement is rolling along.

Will limits ever be placed on the terms of New Mexico's lawmakers? It's unlikely. That's not the sort of thing people do to themselves. And New Mexico's constitution prohibits the public referendum method of making law. It was one of the items congress told New Mexico it had better not have in its proposed constitution if it wanted to become a state.

But congress, itself, might not be immune. If a movement is begun in enough of the country's large states, such as it already has in California, the pressure on congress might become heavy enough that it would have to be submitted to the people for approval.

And it may be congress where term limitations are most needed. There isn't much necessity, limiting terms of public officials, who are close to their constituencies. If someone becomes far too chummy with a particular special interest, the public is likely to notice it. If a local official's behavior becomes unacceptable, the next election will usually take care of the situation.

But with congressmen, it's hard to tell. Their constituencies can't watch them every day. The New Mexico media get their information on our Washington delegation from press releases churned out by congressional offices. The national press will tell us a little, but it's mighty little when they have 535 of those folks to cover.

One of the things constituents miss is the aging process of some of Washington's finest when they advance in years. The ease with which incumbents get re-elected means a great many congressmen die in office. Death has taken one third of New Mexico's US senators while in office and several representatives. Some were alertly representing constituents the day before they died, but others had become a little feeble without New Mexicans realizing it.

Stories of aging congressmen are numerous. Today Sen. Strom Thurmond represents South Carolinians at age 88. Thurmond still has a lot of vinegar left in him but congressional staff laugh about the game played between him and Senate pages to find Thurmond's latest hiding place when it is time to vote. The senator likes to scout out secluded places where he can sneak off for a little nap.

California's octogenarian senator, S.I. Hayakawa, was much more direct. Since constituents are not allowed on the floor of the Senate, Hayakawa took his snoozes there, in full view of the world. He lasted only one term.

Rep. Claude Pepper of Florida died two years ago at 88. Although he remained a fighter for elderly issues to his dying day, he spent much of his time in later years going back and forth from his office to the House floor to vote. Fortunately as chairman of the House rules committee, Pepper enjoyed an office in the Capitol Building.

Unlike the New Mexico Legislature, where members are expected to be in the chamber anytime their body is in session, congressmen keep office hours during floor sessions. A series of lights keep them notified of when they must leave to vote.

Insiders say during Pepper's final years, he would barely make it back to his office before staff would have to turn him around and head him back to the floor. Observers say, as the congressman did a slow shuffle down the hall, he could be heard saying, "Gotta go vote. Gotta go vote."

Contrast these congressmen to New Mexico's most recent octogenarian senator, Ike Smalley of Deming. Until 1988, his final year in the Senate, Ike was present for all floor sessions and for mid-night committee hearings. Slowed a little in his last year by a broken leg from being hit by a car, Smalley stepped aside for the younger generation. But he still comes to Santa Fe yearly to check on his old buddies.

Real Estate Notes

By CHUCK ROMINGER

Driving around the state a person might note that there are more signs and billboards located along the highways. The question is are they legally permitted to be there.

The New Mexico State Highway & Transportation Department has recently reinstated a program of enforcing "The Highway Beautification Act." This was a program that was the idea of Lady Bird Johnson during her husband's administration.

Under this program a person wishing to construct a sign or billboard would have to apply for a permit before doing so.

Billboards should be located within 1,000 feet of a place of business and not closer than 100 feet within town limits from another billboard or within 300 feet of another billboard if located outside town limits. Of course local zoning ordinances would also apply. Signs cannot exceed 1,200 square feet in size. A person leasing a location would have to comply with the same guidelines.

So, if you want to put up a sign or billboard and it will be located along one of our highways, you should call Mr. Phil Gallegos at the NM State Highway & Transportation Department in Santa Fe at 827-5460 for further information or a permit package.

Skeen opposes Brady gun control bill

WASHINGTON, DC — Congressman Joe Skeen, R-NM, today reaffirmed his intention to vote against proposed legislation that would require a seven-day waiting period for handgun purchases. Popularly known as the Brady bill, this legislation is expected to face a vote on the House floor this week.

The Brady bill would require a potential gun purchaser to answer a questionnaire which would, in turn, be forwarded to the local law enforcement agency for a background check. Under the bill, police could, but would not be required, to run a background check on the gun purchaser. If the gun dealer has not heard from the police within seven days, he can sell the gun anyway.

The Brady bill does not establish any kind of national system to conduct a background check, Skeen said. "Until we have a system that behind schedule, is being built by forced labor with technology being supplied by the Soviet Union. Where have we been during these six years? With all the attention being given by the media to President Bush's overactive thyroid gland, wouldn't it be equally important to inform the country that we are in danger of a nuclear holocaust building up in Cuba? The Sentinel's address is 325 Pennsylvania Ave., SE, Washington, DC 20003. If you are concerned, write The Sentinel for verification. Then see that Cong. Joe Skeen and Sen. Domenici hear from you.

SOMETHING DIFFERENT

Flowers are wonderful, but this Mother's Day you'd like to do something different.

You'd like to have a composer/musician write and record a special song.

Perhaps you'd like to get town officials to name the street where she lives after her for the day.

How about more down to earth suggestions:

Take mom for a ride in the country. Stop at a country inn for lunch or dinner.

Give her an exercise bike to help her stay in shape.

Invite her over for a meal and cook all her favorite foods.

Throw a surprise gathering for her and invite people she hasn't seen in months.

Write a special poem and have it done by a calligrapher.

Take her to visit the town where she was born (if it is in the USA).

Invite her and a best friend to a special Mother's Day treat at a local restaurant.

Hire a musician to serenade her at your homemade Mother's Day dinner.

Plant a flower bed just for her. She'll stay busy all summer caring for the flowers.

Buy her a bunch of raffle tickets and keep your fingers crossed.

SULKING BAN
Being grouchy could become illegal.

Mayor Arne Nilsen wants to make grumpiness illegal in his island community of Sund. Nilsen told an Oslo, Norway, newspaper that he will propose a resolution at a township council meeting requiring 5,000 Sund residents to be happy and think positive, while banning crankiness.

"Unless the other council members are in a bad mood, I expect a majority in favor," the Dagbladet newspaper quoted him as saying.

Sund residents are not abnormally gloomy but "get caught up in negative and sad things, rather than seeing all there is to be happy about," he said.

Irrascible islanders will not be prosecuted. But Nilsen said the lighthearted edict might jolt them into better spirits. The proposal exempts sulkers with good cause, such as the broken-hearted, according to a story in Copper's.

Fort Stanton facts and fiction

By BETTY JOINER

Fort Stanton has been very busy the past two months. Everyone is concerned and wondering what is going to happen in the future to this quiet, serene little town. Since no one is quite sure what is going to happen, things go on as usual.

Four Lincoln County postmasters just returned from a convention in Albuquerque, held at the Hyatt Regency Hotel. Nearly 100 postmasters from throughout the state were trained in many seminars. A tour of the general mail facility in downtown Albuquerque was the best teaching the postmasters could have asked for. None were able to comprehend that much mail being sorted and delivered daily. Betty Joiner, Mary Gourley, Debbie Moore and Della Bonnel came home from the convention with many new ideas, and enjoying the many new friends they met at each gathering. They visited with Della's son and family one afternoon. They have recently bought a new home there. The postmasters are now getting ready to attend a convention in Red River in June.

Lorenza Holquin sponsored a Bike-A-Thon for St. Jude's hospital. Twenty participants rode the mile around the Fort. Some rode one time while others rode twenty. Craig, Greg, and Miguel were some of the top monemakers for the good cause.

Donna Gazares, Betty and Della Joiner attended the wedding of David Lawrence in Albuquerque April 19. Davis is the grandson of Louise Joiner of Hondo and Ruth and Ed Lawrence of Roswell. The couple are at home in Albuquerque.

Stephanie Wheeler will represent Capitan Schools at Girls State this summer. Congratulations Stephanie.

The Lincoln County Rodeo Association has had two playdays this month. The first one in Ruidoso was attended by many new and old members. Winners for this first playday were: Lead class, Kayla Roberts and Cloyce Salazar; Little Britches, Dusti Franklin and Kryand Studdard (tied) and Jared Wilson; 6-B, Shannon Salazar and Court Franklin; 9-12, Andra Fish and Jamie Erwin; 18 and up, Candy Griffin and Roper Brewer. Jodie Roberts and Dean Brewer had a roping to raise money for this great organization. The club is raffling off a hand-tooled saddle made by Harlan Webb.

Inez Marrs and Betty Joiner collected many items for the KENW auction for Channel 3 television. They would like to thank all who so graciously gave to this great TV auction. Sheryl Barden does a great job collecting for this auction that keeps the good shows on the air.

Ronald Joiner was recently elected president of the Brock and Bridle Club in Las Cruces. Ron is attending NMSU where he will be a senior next year majoring in ag business. Will Griegs and Sandra Copeland are also in this club.

LINCOLN COUNTY EXTENSION CLUB members and their guests visit during the 50th Anniversary Tea Sunday at Texas-New Mexico Power Co. Office in Ruidoso. About 40 attended the tea, which honored Opal Armstrong of Ruidoso Downs, a long-time Extension member. Armstrong was recipient of the 1990 Pioneering Spirit Award by the New Mexico Status of Women Commission. All clubs contributed refreshments for the tea, where various winning exhibits from the Cultural Arts contests were displayed.

Capitan National Honor Society adds members

It takes a lot of character and determination to make it through high school with good grades. To honor Capitan High School students who have excelled in academics, five were inducted into the National Honor Society and others received academic letters and pins during the Academic Awards Ceremony last week.

Victoria Sedillo was master of ceremonies for the evening of awards and Honor Society induction. New members inducted were Kelly Cox, Laurie Griego, Lesley LaRue, Tammy Payne and Kyle Traylor.

The students joined existing members (two-year) Karie Cox, Jolene Edwards, Nathan Fuchs, Nathan Roybal, Angela Schryer, (one-year) Cindy Castillo, Shane Fogelsohn, Bobby Griego, Erin Keller, Lori Longbotham, Jennifer Newsom and Vicky Sedillo.

Before the induction, members gave short speeches. Castillo spoke on leadership, Roybal on service, Karie Cox on character and Schryer on scholarship.

After welcoming guests, high school principal Bill Stowe gave academic pins and letters to Castillo, Karie Cox, Edwards, Fuchs, Rebecca Johnson, Keller, Roybal, Schryer and Sedillo.

Canyon CowBelles

Carrizozo Canyon CowBelles met May 1 for a potluck luncheon at the home of Doris Maxwell. Guests were Denise and Candace Byrd, Corons, Cindy King, Angho, Melody Gaines, Carrizozo, and Louise Faver, Ruidoso, sister of Doris Maxwell. Cindy and Melody later joined Canyon, making 50 members.

Guest speaker was Candace Byrd, who gave an informative and comical speech on the "American Rancher." She said the rancher is a producer of food and fiber for the nation, doing more to protect the land and wildlife than any other group. Candace will be giving this speech in June in competition with other FFA speakers in Las Cruces.

The scholarship committee, Jan Barham chairman, will be selecting a Carrizozo senior, from applications for the scholarship. A student planning to attend college and major in an ag or home economics-related course is eligible to apply for the scholarship.

Jane Shafer, chairman for "Father of the Year," said the CowBelles and their families will be attending the Flying J Ranch for dinner and entertainment on June 15, honoring all fathers. The Father of the Year will be announced at that time and will be presented with a gift.

A donation will be made for hamburgers for the 4-H District contest to be held in Capitan, with seven counties attending.

CowBelle state secretary Anne Ferguson gave a report on the Five-State Regional Meeting she and Jane Shafer attended in Albuquerque in April.

The May birthday member was Rosemary Shafer. The door prize was won by Sarah Gnatkowski.

The June 5 meeting will be at the Claunch ranch home of Ginger Shafer. The "ditty-bags" will be filled for the Lincoln County Ranch Tour on June 8.

Property appraisers get some extra time

Sen. Pete Domenici announced this week that New Mexico property appraisers are safe from being decertified by having until Dec. 31 to meet new federal certification and licensing procedures.

Domenici in April wrote to the Federal Financial Institutions Examination Council to request a six-month extension to a July 1 deadline for appraisers to meet standards set in the Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery and Enforcement Act of 1989.

He maintained the July 1 deadline would not have given appraisers adequate time to meet the certification, educational requirements. This could have disrupted the real estate and banking industries in New Mexico and other states that have not, as yet, met new FIRREA standards. A lack of certified appraisers could result in substantial cost increases for home appraisals and long delays in closing basic housing transactions.

Domenici believes the extension was warranted because New Mexico has enacted relevant legislation, established the appraisers board and begun implementation of a comprehensive training program.

Ten students from Carrizozo High School were inducted into the National Honor Society in an evening ceremony at the high school on April 30.

Members were selected by a faculty council for meeting high standards of scholarship, service, leadership and character.

Students inducted were: Seniors—Ted Offutt, Jenny Vinson; Sophomores—Bryan Turnbow, Amy Funk, Scot Brown, Anthony Archuleta, Nathan Portillo, Micha Schlarb, Cory Collins and Yvonne Estrella.

New officers elected for the 1991-92 school year are: president, Brent Racher; vice-president, James Silva; secretary, Cheryl Hightower; and treasurer, Scot Brown.

The Carrizozo NHS membership now totals 21. The National Honor Society ranks as one of the oldest and most prestigious national organizations for high school students. Chapters have existed in three-fourths of the nation's high schools since as early as 1921. The sponsoring organization is the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

The apple parer was invented in 1893 by Moses Coats.

New Mexico 1990 highway fatality rates down

Fatality rates on New Mexico highways in 1990 were down, but the state is still the highest in the United States.

New Mexico's traffic fatality rates were 74 percent above the national rate of 18.6 traffic deaths per 100,000 population, according to a press release issued by the State Highway and Transportation Dept. this week.

John Fenner, chief of the department's Traffic Safety Bureau, called the decline encouraging but not nearly sufficient. He indicated National Safety Council figures show New Mexico's rate of 32.3 traffic deaths per 100,000 population is the highest of the 50 states for 1990.

He attributed the declining rate to increase use of safety belts by New Mexicans. The Safety Belt Use Act continues to bring new record high usage each year, reaching 59.2 percent usage statewide in a January 1991 observation survey by Zia Research. 1990 was the first full year that pickups as well as cars were covered by the law, and deaths of motor vehicle occupants dropped 13 percent, from 413 in 1989 to 362 in 1990.

Pedestrian deaths dropped 4 percent, from 85 to 82 and bicyclist deaths remained at 5. Motorcyclist deaths rose 40 percent, from 35 to 49 and 86 percent of the victims wore no helmets.

As for drunk and drugged drivers, 305 deaths in 1990 involved impaired drivers, compared to 293 in 1989, a 4 percent increase. 63 percent of New Mexico's 1990 traffic fatalities involved impaired driving, compared to 57 percent in 1989, Fenner said the 1990 figure is down 26 percent from a decade ago, when impaired driving was involved in 417 deaths. The biggest drop in New Mexico DWI deaths came after the last major change to New Mexico DWI law passed in 1984, revoking licenses of impaired drivers administratively. The change reduced DWI deaths by 9 percent, but there has been no further decline since.

Traffic deaths of New Mexicans over 55 years old dropped from 94 in 1989 to 69 in 1990. Deaths of kids under 13 dropped from 36 to 31. However, teen deaths rose from 77 to 89, with DWI-related teen deaths soaring from 34 to 60. Fenner called this total appalling, since teenagers are not legally entitled to drink alcohol.

While total traffic deaths declined, total crash injuries changed only slightly, from 24,962 in 1989 to 24,904 in 1990. About 2500 New Mexicans were permanently disabled in 1990 crashes. A total of 49,779 motor vehicle crashes were reported in New Mexico in 1990, up one percent from 1989.

So far in 1991, preliminary fatality statistics show the downward trend continuing. 125 lives have been lost in 1991, down from the 130 for the same period in 1990. Deaths of persons inside motor vehicles also declined, from 95 to 87, suggesting the Safety Belt Use Act is saving lives.

There is a bottom line on all this, Fenner said. Once again, it is our driving habits that are doing grave injury to our lives, our health and insurance rates. Ending DWI could have saved 305 lives in 1990. Even with no change in DWI, 143 lives could have been saved if all occupants had used their best defense against drunk driving; the safety belt. 16 of 21 kids killed in cars were neither in belts or child safety seats. Impaired driving killed 60 of the 89 teens lost during the year. One third of all 1990 crashes involved driver inattention or tailgating. We are making poor choices, Fenner said.

FINANCIAL INDEPENDENCE

QUESTION: How does real estate investment fare as a method of making you financially independent in your old age?

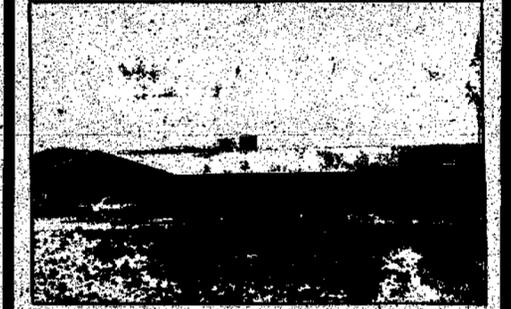

ANSWER: Being financially independent in your later years is a feat by itself. According to a study by the U.S. Government, of all people over the age of 65, only 6% are financially independent. Also, according to this same study, all of the lucky segment became financially independent partly or wholly through ownership of real estate. No one buys their first home as a reason for financial independence at retirement but that's the way it normally works out.

OWNERSHIP OF REAL ESTATE is the major source of wealth for those in retirement years.

CAPITAN NEWS

By Margaret Rench

Cold high winds, one fair day. Night temperatures 6 above zero to 10 degrees. Perennials have been killed for this season.

A group of Capitan residents attended the Fiesta in Hondo School Friday night and certainly did enjoy the performance of all of the students. Our prayers are that Hondo will continue this for many years to come. It was wonderful.

Maxine Wright, Kay Strickland, Rhonda Reeses and two daughters, Veronica and Stephanie, drove to Lubbock, TX last weekend and visited relatives.

Joy and Sharon Horton of Mesa, AZ reports the death of Emma Kemp of Mesa. Services for Emma Lou Kemp, 80, of Mesa were Thursday at Carr Memorial Chapel. She died April 29, 1991.

Latter-day Saints.

Survivors include her husband, Rowland; sisters Edna Hendricks of Phoenix and Bertha Ginch of Phoenix.

Mr. O.L. Henson of Clyde, TX has been a visitor of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Whitaker. He brought some interesting things over for the opening of the new flea market at the Hitchin Post.

The Smokey Bear Lions Club garage sale was also a huge success and members of the Lions Club wish to extend their thanks and appreciation for the many contributions from the townspeople.

In the absence of the three top officers, JoAnna Proctor presided and introduced Bartley McDonough, advertising manager for the Lincoln County News. He was impressed with the two quilt tops on display. Crown authorized $18 for the signature ad to accompany the senior pictures in the May 23 issue of the NEWS. Mrs. Floyd Proctor has pieced the quilts and will set a time and date to quilt one at her home before she leaves for a family reunion in Oklahoma. Mrs. Proctor announced a stork shower to honor Mrs. Mark Sultemeier May 18, 1 p.m. Saturday, in the Tyrea home.

Mrs. Bell made a quick visit to pass out invitations to the patriotic program and to suggest that memorials contributions be made to the school library, a way to honor loved ones, deceased or living. The librarian will select a book for this purpose or friends may consult with the librarian and purchase a book and contribute it.

The FFA horse judging team won first place in the state contest and will compete on the national level in July. Crown voted $100 to help with expenses for Candye Byrd, Les Owen, Angel Shaffer and Jesse Post to make the trip to Tulsa, OK. Good luck, team.

The scholarship committee reported. Applications were read and a vote taken. The winner will be announced at the awards assembly.

Candye Byrd won second in the District FFA public speaking and gave her talk to Crown. She will give it again to New Mexico Wool Growers in July. Her subject is "Who Is This Man? The American Rancher." Randy Luera, first place in the District spoke on "Man-Made Contaminates in our Water Systems." Congratulations to both. They will compete next month at the state meet in Las Cruces.

The next Crown meeting is 10 a.m. Thursday, June 6, at the Richards-Latham Ranch. Clara Forter is co-hostess. Members are asked to bring a salad, grab bag items, door prizes and their quilting thimbles for work on that special album quilt. Mrs. Pfeiffer was the only one to bring her door prize to the last meeting. It is a kitchen set of three towels, hot pad and mitt.

The Corona Extension Club hosted a meeting of the Lincoln County planning committee here Wednesday. Mrs. Phyllis Zumwalt presided. She is county president and district president-elect.

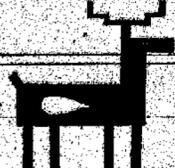

Curtis Duke entered an Albuquerque hospital Sunday and was to undergo surgery. He retired May 1 from the USIS. He had previously retired from teaching in both New Mexico and Arizona.

Mrs. Bud Taylor returned Friday evening from Monterey, CA where she helped daughter Paulet to get established in her beach house after moving from Berkeley. After the moving, scraping and painting she had time for scuba diving, a concert and dining.

Dorothy Kerr is vacationing in Holland.

Katrina Archuleta was to arrive at the Albuquerque airport on Tuesday. She flew to San Francisco April 26 to join her uncle, Joe Perez, and two cousins on a trip to Europe. They flew to London where they spent five days, took a train, the ferry to cross the English Channel, and a second trip to Paris where they spent another five days. Katrina is the daughter of Yolanda and Robert Archuleta and is a CHS sophomore.

The Corona ambulance took Mrs. Jack Davidson to a Roswell hospital early Thursday morning. She is undergoing tests to find the cause of extreme back pain, and was reported no better Monday.

CONTEL of the West

Dear ConTEL Customer:

We want to thank you for responding to the short survey we sent you during the latter part of 1990. The survey was a sincere effort on our part to learn your thoughts about our service.

You may know we have spent millions of dollars throughout the state over the past few years to install state-of-the-art equipment and we have provided our employees with the best training to operate that equipment.

In addition, last year we launched our Service Guarantee; if your service goes out and we don't fix it within 24 hours after you report it, you get a month's service on us. We also recently instituted free same-day service, something you don't find in other telephone companies. These are our ways of letting you know we want to provide the best telephone service possible.

Perhaps it's all paying off. Our survey results indicate that 87% of you who responded said you thought our service was Excellent or Good. That, and the many personal compliments you included about our service, make us feel good.

Yes, some of you also reported problems: noise on the line, some repair problems, a problem with your billing, etc. We have noted those comments and pledge to you that we will do all we can to correct those problems.

Again, thank you for responding to our survey. Your comments are a help to us in our continuing efforts to provide the best possible telephone service.

Sincerely,
ConTEL of the West
