Councillors celebrate good news

By DORIS CHERRY

Ruidoso Village Council had plenty of reasons to celebrate Tuesday night.

An agreement was reached with Allhub Inc. to set a delayed completion date for the Radisson Hotel, the Civic Events Center construction bid was awarded and a ground breaking date set, and a budget transfer guaranteed the civic center would be paid for.

Councillors, mayor, R. D. Hubbard and a large audience present at the village meeting celebrated with cake and ice cream provided by the Lincoln County Hospital-ity Association.

After the hurdle was cleared on the agreement with Hubbard for the hotel lease, (see related story), councillors unanimously accepted the low bid for the civic center construction of $1,907,000 plus two alternate bids for storage and an entry equalling $51,000, from Bradley Construction of Albuquerque. A Ruidoso company which had also bid on the project, Cheyenne Bldg. Contractors, had challenged the validity of the bid, but village manager Ron Wicker said all questions raised had been resolved.

All information concerning the bid will be sent to the New Mexico Department of Finance and Administration (DFA) for final approval. Wicker and councillor Ron Andrews met with Bradley Const., which indicated it can start the first part of September. The company has 240 calendar days to complete the project by May 1, 1992. Wicker said the company hopes to have the building dried-in before the snows begin.

Since the village had only $1,792,250 budgeted for the Civic Center construction, it was necessary for councillors to make a budget adjustment of $177,042, with $50,000 transferred from the utility fund reserve and $127,042 from the general fund reserve.

To promote all the various activities held in Ruidoso, Mark Doth, chairman of the village Lodgers' Tax Committee and the Regional Advertising Board, presented the $1,150 bill to cover an underestimated cost of an ad in the Sun Country

Hospital's fate still in jeopardy

More than 6,000 signatures affixed to petitions appealing to the governor not to close Fort Stanton Hospital and Training School seem to have only gained sympathy from the state leader.

According to an Albuquerque Journal article published Tuesday, Aug. 27, Ima and W. C. Cooper presented the petitions, which were partially collected through efforts of the organization Families for Fort Stanton, to Gov. Bruce King. The petitions asked the governor to reconsider keeping the hospital open, rather than phasing it out as proposed.

The phase-out proposal came from state officials after a federal judge ruled New Mexico had to provide community settings to qualifying mentally retarded people now in the state's two institutions—Ft. Stanton and Los Lunas. The court order, issued late December 1990, does not specifically require any state institution to close. But Dept. of Health officials said Fort Stanton would have to be phased out to help generate money for the additional community programs needed for those identified people.

The Coopers and other families with children at the facility are concerned the programs developed by involved parents and the hard working, dedicated professional staff at Fort Stanton will be destroyed, just to see if the state can develop new ones.

"John McKean, King's press secretary, said the governor sympathized with their concerns but didn't think the state could keep Fort Stanton open and still come up with money to meet the federal court order,"

Hubbard assures council

Hotel construction backed by $100,000 security

By DORIS CHERRY

All systems are go between the Village of Ruidoso and Allhub.

Tuesday night, R. D. Hubbard, main principal of Allhub, and part owner of Ruidoso Downs Race Track, assured the village council and a large audience he would back construction of the Raddison Hotel, just a year delayed. As double assurance, Allhub posted a $100,000 security, payable to the village if construction of the hotel is not completed by July 1, 1993.

Hubbard talked with the village council for 20 minutes in closed session to discuss acquisition of real property and possible litigation. Afterwards, Hubbard expressed reassurance the village was willing to go along with the hotel project.

"We're all aware of the economic situation. It's difficult in today's market to find financing," he said.

Then Hubbard also told of the downturn in the lodging industry nationwide, but looked toward better economic times soon.

"If the horse sale today is any indication, we are headed for better times," he added.

The Super Select Sale held in Glencoe that day was very successful—180 head brought $4 million.

Hubbard had been invited to speak at the village meeting, to dispel rumors the hotel project was dead.

The delay, announced more than three weeks ago, had made the council worry the project would never be completed. They wanted assurance from Allhub. They got it Tuesday night.

After lengthy discussions with Allhub attorney Don Dutton, the council accepted a fifth addendum to the October 1989 original agreement between the village and Allhub Investments, Inc. The addendum lists reasons why Allhub needed the extension, mainly due to the current financial atmosphere.

Terms of the agreement are the village will permit Allhub one additional year for the construction of the hotel as required under the Hotel Lease and Construction Agreement Addendum of July 5, 1990. If construction is not completed by July 1, 1993, Allhub shall be considered in default under the hotel lease; Allhub will post a $100,000 irrevocable letter of credit with the Village, payable to the village if the hotel is not completed by July 1, 1993. The $100,000 represents Allhub's total liability for the hotel construction, but will not include the common area improvements.

Pony Express panel asking for help

The Lincoln County Pony Express Committee learned Sunday that despite good attendance this year the day-long events may be discontinued unless there is more financial and physical assistance from residents of the county.

Members of the committee discussed possibilities for raising funds. They also noted the lack of willingness on the part of residents to contribute time, effort and money toward realization of the annual events.

Several attempts were made to reach a consensus about what activities should be preserved and which eliminated to cut costs and labor. No decision was reached on those questions. Also, no officers were elected. It was agreed that the five active members of the panel could no longer carry the full burden of organizing, sales, promotion and production of the events.

A decision was made to send out a public inquiry to find out if Lincoln County residents want the race and its ancillary activities to continue. If individuals are willing to help plan, organize, promote and support the Pony Express, they may fill in the form below and mail to Lincoln County Pony Express, P.O. Box 803, White Oaks, N.M. 88301.

Capitan girl earns award

Valedictorian to realize dream of pursuing education

A Capitan girl who loved school will get to continue her education, thanks to a substantial scholarship.

1991 Capitan High School valedictorian Victoria Sedillo started classes at University of New Mexico in Albuquerque this week. Thanks to a $4,200 a year award from the Paul Douglas Teacher Scholarship fund, Vicky will be able to fulfill her dream of being an English teacher.

Mrs. Mary Ann Sedillo and her husband Eddie are proud of their daughter, who finished at the top of her 1991 class and won University of New Mexico's highest award, the $2,000-a-year Presidential Scholarship.

But they also worried how they could afford to send their daughter, who had always loved to read and play sports, to college. Because of this, Vicky had applied for several scholarships, including the Paul Douglas Teacher Scholarship. Vicky had to be in the top 10 percent of her class and plan a career in teaching. Since education was her goal, Vicky filled out the application with its accompanying essay, high school transcript, class size, rank in class, ACT or SAT test scores.

By mid-August, Vicky thought she would have to attend school with the Presidential Scholarship from UNM and some help with the smaller scholarships awarded her from the Capitan Classroom Teachers' Association and the Corriente CowBelles. All those scholarships she knew about by graduation in May, and would help financially, but she worriedly searched for other options to help pay the rest of the school bills.

Then she got the news of receiving the Paul Douglas Scholarship Aug. 15, just before she was ready to go to fall classes.

"She got the call about the scholarship at the house," said Vicky's mother, Mary Ann Sedillo, who is co-todan at Capitan Schools.

She was very excited and happy, her mother added.

The scholarship is funded through the New Mexico Educational Assistance Foundation.

Vicky's love of education also provided a ticket for her to go to San Jose State University in San Jose, Calif., this summer. There, she participated in the Summer Camp/Institute for Prospective Teachers. She joined 76 other high school students from 18 states. The institute was sponsored by Phi Delta Kappa and Phi Delta Kappa Education Foundation.

In 1990 Vicky was nominated to be included in the 24th Annual Edition of Who's Who Among American High School Students, reserved for 5 percent of high school students annually.

Academics did not occupy all of Vicky's high school time. She also loved sports, her mother said.

She played on the varsity volleyball team for three years and was selected as All-District player twice. She also played basketball and was involved in track.

Vicky was a member of the student senate for two years.

As a member of FFA, she was selected as highest achiever in her class.

In her spare time, Mary Ann said, Vicky loved to read and take walks.

With all the financial help based on her academics and achievements, Vicky can now pursue her dream of becoming an English teacher.

Vicky excitedly called home about her first day of classes this week, reporting them to be what she wanted, Mary Ann said. She is living in a UNM dorm.

Recipients of the UNM Presidential Scholarship and their parents attended a reception held last week at the university. Vicky's mom and dad and her twin brothers, Eddie Jr and Ernest Sedillo, attended the reception.

"We're very proud," said Mary Ann.

Hospital's fate

Journal reporter Jackie Jadrnak wrote.

The Coopers, and other parents like them, worry about the state's ability to develop adequate programs in a community setting for their children. Most of the worried parents can cite unpleasant experiences in trying to find community settings for their children, some of whom not only have developmental disabilities, but emotional and discipline problems.

Presently, the state has no funds to increase the few community homes operating, which are at full capacity.

Another worry is the distance parents will have to travel to visit their children. Coopers and other parents present at a summer Families for Fort Stanton meeting, wanted a facility in the southern part of the state. Coopers also worry that support from those other families with children at Fort Stanton would be lost.

As would the casual atmosphere at the Fort Stanton facility, where parents can walk in anytime they want.

Compliance to the federal ruling would take out about 25 of the 150 patients at the facility and place them into group homes or community settings. Because the remaining few would not warrant keeping the facility open, it would either be converted to another use or be closed, Department of Health officials have said.

That also worries many in Lincoln County who fear the loss of the almost $6 million budget at Fort Stanton. Capitan School District would stand to lose many students from the facility employees who would have to either relocate to Los Lunas, retire or be laid off. Even more distant districts such as Carrizozo and Hondo would feel the losses of students from employee's families.

Lincoln County Medical Center in Ruidoso would be affected by the loss of many of the Fort Stanton patients who are treated at the small hospital.

Although the petitions have been going to the governor, any citizen concerned about the future of Fort Stanton and its current programs, should write Gov. Bruce King, State Capital Building, Santa Fe, New Mexico 87503.

Substitute workshop

There will be a substitute workshop Tuesday for those interested in substitute teaching at the Carrizozo Schools.

The workshop will begin at 9 a.m. For more information, telephone 648-2346.

Due to a tax increase, prices for home games at Carrizozo Schools have increased by 50 cents. Adult tickets will be $2.50 and student and senior citizen tickets will be $1.50.

WE'RE CLOSING THE GENERATION GAP.

Electricity has been so much a part of our lives many of us take it for granted. But it wasn't really so long ago that electricity was almost unknown in rural areas, and life in the rural southwest meant doing without so many of the things that make life easier.

Your rural electric cooperative has been bringing power to families since the 1940s—power for lights, appliances, heating, cooling and entertainment. We'll continue to provide clean, safe, efficient electricity at the most reasonable price and we're working to extend our service to families in remote areas who still struggle with kerosene lanterns, gasoline generators and water from windmills.

Electricity brightens life and lightens the burdens of everyday living. Ask a brand new rural electric cooperative customer to whom we just extended service...and eliminated the generation gap.

EMS gets shot in arm

Lincoln County Emergency Medical Services got its annual shot in the arm recently, thanks to the Dollar for Life program.

A total of $50,358 from the Emergency Medical Services (EMS) Fund Act will be distributed to 10 Lincoln County ambulances and fire departments. The act provides for a $1 assessment on every motor vehicle registration. That money which is put into the fund which is distributed to emergency medical services statewide.

According to a release provided by the New Mexico Dept. of Health, each service is guaranteed between $3,000 and $20,000 out of the $1.8 million to be distributed to the 33 counties and 78 municipalities on behalf of 261 EMS providers this fiscal year. Of those 261 providers, 97 are transporting services (ambulances), 160 are first responder or fire/rescue services and four provide air transportation.

The amount of funding is based on a formula calculating the number of runs each service makes with the number of total miles traveled, said Lincoln County EMS coordinator Maggi Bohks.

Outside of Ruidoso, the Carrizozo ambulance makes the most runs in the county, she added.

Ruidoso EMS, with responders at paramedic level, got the largest share of the money with $17,353. Carrizozo ambulance received $5,117; Corona Ambulance, $3,766; Ft. Stanton Ambulance, $3,694; Alto Ambulance, $3,550; Capitan Ambulance, $3,526; Ruidoso Fire Dept., $3,514; Hondo Ambulance, $3,419; Ruidoso Downs Fire Dept., $3,359; Capitan Volunteer Fire Dept., $3,060.

Each service submits a list of needed items which qualify for the Dollar for Life funds, Bohks added. This year Lincoln County EMS hopes to use the funds to provide trauma kits to Emergency Medical Technicians (EMTs) who live in out lying areas first, then eventually to all EMTs.

The most money from the fund goes to training and licensing of EMTs. Other items include maintenance of ambulances and personal communications radios.

CARRIZOSO GRIZZLY head football coach Michael Booty and his assistant, Ken Butts, pause for a snapshot before returning to practice. Their team's first home game of the season is Saturday at 7:30 p.m. against Metrose.

Councillors celebrate

Guide and requested councillors approve a four seasons advertising proposal. Doth considered it a "bureaucratic nightmare" to get approval of funds for the promotions and wanted to avoid it by having a carte blanche approval of funds for an entire year of promotions. The annual budget, including funds from the New Mexico Dept. of Tourism amounted $116,896.

Councillors quickly approved the $1,150, but balked on giving the green light for an annual budget which had no specifics beyond the fall Aspenfest promotions. Most promotion for Aspenfest is made in the localized market such as Roswell, Alamogordo, El Paso and Albuquerque.

The Dept. of Tourism had provided a grant of $3,140 for the Aspenfest promotion and Doth requested the village approve $9,000 from Lodgers' Tax funds to round out the event's budget. Councillors approved the request for Aspenfest funds, but no further. Doth will have to return to the council to get funds for the winter and spring promotions.

A purpose for the Regional Advertising Board is to encourage a cooperation between the different groups sponsoring events in the area. The board hopes to bring in the Mesquero Apache Tribe and Lincoln County Heritage Trust, but no word has come from the two groups about providing funds.

Alonso expressed optimism other groups will participate in the regionalized promotions, once they see it is working. "Together has advantages over going out on your own," he said.

Future councillors will not get a raise. Approved by a slim margin of 3-2, a motion to table the raise ordinance indefinitely, called by councillor Jess Stinson, put a clamp on the doubled salary for future councillors. Stinson and J. D. James voted to table and no votes came from Ron Andrews, who considered it poor taste to publish a public hearing for an ordinance, only to table it, and from Barbara Duff, who adamantly thought councillors deserve a raise. Bill Karn broke the tie when he voted to table the ordinance.

There was no problem passing an ordinance re-establishing the Cemetery Board. Five members were formally appointed. The board will recommend rules and regulations for the operation, management, care and custody of the cemetery, which Alonso hoped will improve its appearance.

A desperate request from the Ruidoso Golden Age Club to initiate a daily meals program at the Ruidoso Senior Citizens Center touched the sentiments of at least one councillor. James had personally seen the importance of meals delivered to the needy elderly and handicapped.

"From my heart, I urge us to get into this program," James said.

Charlotte Jarratt, club committee chairman, said the current three-day-a-week meals program is financed by private donations from individuals and clubs. There are about 36 participants now, and at least that many more have been identified as eligible. She proposed a meals program under the Chapter III of the Eastern New Mexico Area Agency on Aging, Inc., which will provide federal dollars, with the village as contractor, or by incorporating with the county's Zia Senior Citizens' Center programs.

Jarratt expressed optimism the number of participants would grow if the program was started on a daily basis.

The mayor directed village manager Ron Wicker to evaluate the two options for the Chapter III programs and report at the next meeting on Sept. 10.

Councillors also approved a request from Ruidoso Arts and Film Commission chairman Barbara Westbrook to provide $3,750 as the commission's share of a matching fund from the state. Westbrook showed a film taken at the "artisticly" successful benefit pops concert held Aug. 1 to raise those funds—which financially was no success. All musicians volunteered their time for the concert.

The New Mexico Arts Commission funds and village match have been used to finance such events at the Chautauqua Festival in July and will be used for future Ruidoso Arts and Film Commission coordinated events such as concerts in the park, a film festival, summer music fest similar to the one in Aspen and young adults theater, Westbrook said.

In other business councillors:

• Welcomed deputy village manager Gary Jackson on board.

• Approved the negotiated bid of $70,426.40 for engineering services from Bohanan-Huston of Albuquerque for the MainStreet project, as presented by MainStreet coordinator Mary Maul. The bid came in $214.16 under budget.

• Okayed an extension agreement between the village and the New Mexico Energy and Minerals Dept. until Aug. 1992, to allow the village to subcontract the $88,000 grant to the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority to implement a recycling program.

• Accepted an offer from Barnett and McWhorter to provide a new Harley Davidson motorcycle to the Ruidoso Police Dept. until three thousand miles were put on the vehicle. Chief Dick Swenor said the motorcycle is a new lighter model and will be used by an officer whose position is financed with a New Mexico Traffic Safety Grant. Andrews said he would vote for the agreement if he got to return it to the Harley Davidson dealership (which Ron McWhorter owns) in El Paso.

• Gave permission to the Ruidoso Kiwanis Club to use Grindstone Lake for a fishing tournament Sept. 21-22.

• Set a public hearing date for a Zone Map Amendment on Lot 19, Block 1, Forest Heights Subdivision for Sept. 24.

Polar bears use only their front legs for swimming, yet they have been spotted eighty miles away from any ice floe or land.

Hubbard assumes

Other terms list the village's side of the agreement, requiring the Civic Events Center, "which is architecturally compatible with the hotel," be completed by Dec. 31, 1992. Allhub will provide the village, within 90 days of completion of the Civic Center, a construction schedule for the hotel, including proposed starting and completion dates.

Allhub also agreed to continue financing the commons area improvements between the civic center and the hotel. However, if Allhub's interest in the hotel lease is forfeited and the village leases the same property within two years, the village will require the new leases to reimburse Allhub half the actual expenditure for the construction of the commons area. Allhub has expended about $400,000 for the commons area to date.

Hubbard assured a councillor no taxpayers' money will be needed for the commons area construction, even if the Allhub hotel project defaults.

The commons area construction cost is shared one-third by the golf course, one-third by the hotel and one-third by the village. The village is providing the labor for the entire project as its cost share.

All councillors—Jess Stinson, J.D. James, Bill Karn, Barbara Duff and Ron Andrews—voted for the addendum.

"I look forward to going forward," Hubbard told councillors.

Councillor Duff commented, if the better economic times are indicated by the encouraging successful horse sale, so are the gradual increase of gross receipts in Ruidoso. Village manager Ron Wicker said gross receipts have increased for the last three years.

"About as long as I've been in town," Hubbard responded.

● A large turnout Sunday at the rededication ceremonies at Fred Chavez Park did the town of Carrizozo proud. A feeling of patriotism and sense of history pervaded as the twin color guards stood at attention and an array of speakers hit the mark with their words. Ceremonies of the flags and the special music were a treat and everyone appeared not only to enjoy, but to be inspired. Glen Ellison, who said Chevo Baca was the main character in the park's rededication efforts, was saluted by each and every speaker for his work. The Fred Chavez and Carlos Zamora families were deeply touched by the honors, according to family spokesmen. From parade to benediction, the ceremonies were a success.

● Barbara Ward of Carrizozo shares with us a story about a problem senior citizens face with Social Security and Medicare. Most seniors have $29.90 deducted each month from their Social Security checks for Medicare Part B. But last year Congress enacted dramatic new reforms to help protect the poorest of American seniors from skyrocketing health care costs, by picking up their bill for Medicare services. The reform meant that the poorest older Americans would no longer have that money deducted from their Social Security checks every month (although most other seniors will still pay the $20.89). And if these low-income seniors needed hospital and medical care, they would no longer be faced with paying $728 a year in deductibles, plus additional co-payments. This was a victory for senior citizens. It was a plan that made sense.

But something went wrong. Even though Congress passed these reforms into law, the government is still deducting that $29.90 a month from the Social Security checks of millions of poor seniors who are eligible for this new protection. And when they get sick, those same elderly poor are still shelling out hundreds of dollars that, by law, they shouldn't have to pay. The plain truth is, the government has neglected to notify people of their new rights. A simple note of explanation could be sent out with the next mailing of Social Security checks. Seniors may telephoned Social Security to find out about their rights at this toll free number supplied by Barbara Ward: 1-800-234-555A.

● The Economic Development Department of New Mexico, under Gov. Bruce King, has announced its areas of concentration. They are: border development and international trade, rural development, technology utilization and business retention and recruitment. Twelve goals are related to the areas of concentration:

- * Double the export of goods and services by 1995. This will require a port of entry at Santa Teresa, a trade office in Mexico City, a trade presence in Canada, Europe and Asia and increased participation in trade shows and more trade missions.
- * Locate 100 new plants, at least 75 percent of whose markets are out of state, and create 5,000 jobs.
- * Increase jobs by 10 percent over the 1991 manufacturing labor force by 1995.
- * Increase filmmakers' spending 30 percent by 1995.
- * Identify and develop the most promising markets for New Mexico products and services.
- * Consolidate or coordinate federal and state resources for community development.
- * Increase manufacturing jobs from 7 percent of employment to 10 percent by 1995.
- * Integrate agriculture into mainstream economic development by recruiting and retaining food processors, identifying valuable specialty crops and helping create an incubator for food processors.
- * Promote the state's space technology resources.
- * Become a central point of information dissemination.
- * Use Small Business Development Centers for outreach in business expansion, retention and start-up efforts.

All noble goals. We hope they may be achieved. But we also hope the governor will take notice of other needs and listen to the populace of Lincoln County regarding Fort Stanton Hospital and Training School. The governor has received petitions bearing thousands of signatures asking him to intervene in the matter of closing the hospital and school. Gov. King was quoted in mid-July as saying, "If as many people as legislators say want to keep individuals in (Fort Stanton), we'll try to keep them. If the clients want to stay, we're going to try to keep the clients happy." Recently, however, the governor's press secretary said King sympathized with petitioners' concerns but didn't think the state could keep Fort Stanton open and comply with a federal court order requiring some residents to be moved into community programs. We urge the governor to do what he can to keep the facility, one vital to Lincoln County — the entire county.

Inside The Capitol

by Jay Miller

SANTA FE — Gov. Bruce King has gotten a lot of good press for his pointed suggestions that the Legislature should make the fewest changes possible in congressional district lines during the upcoming special session on redistricting.

That is not what Democratic Party leaders like to hear. Top Democrat officials gathered recently to discuss their displeasure with King's non-partisan attitude. And they will be meeting with the governor personally before the redistricting session begins.

The Dem leaders will contend that redistricting is an intensely partisan process that affects elections for an entire decade. They will try to convince King that if Republicans held the power this year, they would exploit it to its fullest. They will stress that an advantage such as is enjoyed presently by the Dems is too good to let slip by.

Currently, Democrats

outnumber Republicans in the House by a 49 to 21 margin and in the Senate by a 26-16 difference. It is the heaviest advantage Dems have held in many years. Coupled with having a governor from their own party, they can get away with just about anything they want as long as it will pass muster with the Justice Department and the federal court.

Many Dem lawmakers say the reason they campaigned so hard for King last year is because they wanted a governor who would sign their redistricting bills. Ten years ago Democrats outnumbered Republicans in both houses, but not by enough to do them any good. Despite a 41-29 margin in the House, a coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats had controlled the body for the past four years.

The Senate count was 22 Democrats and 20 Republicans, but one of those Democrats was Les Houston of Albuquerque, who was already voting with the GOP side of the aisle on many issues and often taking along with him one or two other Dems.

The resulting district configurations worked to the benefit of Republicans. The House redistricting design was taken to federal court where a number of districts were redrawn to benefit Indian and Hispanic voters. As a result, Indians in the House increased from one to five, a number representative of their total population. Four new Hispanics were elected to the House from southern New Mexico districts.

The same minority guarantees still exist in the federal Voting Rights Act. And because New Mexico's 1982 redistricting was successfully challenged in court, this decade's redistricting proposal must be precleared with the U.S. Department of Justice.

Democrat leaders say these minority guarantees give New Mexico more than enough justification to design state Senate and congressional districts that benefit minorities.

One such congressional redistricting plan is known as Concept E. It leaves Democrat Rep. Bill Richardson's district relatively intact but performs major surgery on the two districts currently held by GOP congressmen. By drawing a line that bisects both Albuquerque and Las Cruces, a southwestern New Mexico district is created that extends north to take in the heavily Hispanic Albuquerque Valley. The result is a district composed of over half minorities.

Dem leaders contend this new district will please the Justice Department while also providing Democrats a better than even chance of picking up a second congressional seat.

But Concept E has not been met with enthusiasm outside the Dem faithful. The Republican party and U.S. Rep. Steve Schiff say they will go to court if anything looking like Concept E becomes law. It is Schiff's district that would become minority and Democrat in population.

The New Mexico Farm and Livestock Bureau has also criticized the proposal for diluting rural voting power by splitting Albuquerque. It is worried that Albuquerque could end up with two Albuquerqueans representing the entire southern half of the state.

There are powerful arguments on both sides of the redistricting issue. The final decision looks as though it will end up squarely on the shoulders of Gov. King.

Letters to the Editor

EDITOR—This letter is addressed to the parents of the young people who attended the rededication of Fred Chavez Park on Sunday, Aug. 26. And to the young people themselves.

We, as parents, all too often only hear about the bad things our children do. The good things aren't (pointed out) as (being) important; or if noticed, all too often, quickly forgotten and seldom mentioned.

We watched a number of children during the day and met a lot of others and we never saw or met one disrespectful child. They were all well behaved, polite and respectful.

Carrizozo, and especially the parents that are raising this next generation of young people can take pride in the good job they are doing. One and all, you deserve a heartfelt pat on the back.

It's our opinion that Fred Chavez Park is in good hands and also our hope that all children who play there will continue to enjoy the park as much as they did this last Sunday.

Thank you all for making the day so enjoyable. We had a grand time from start to finish.

DUANE AND ROSE ANN VINSON,
Carrizozo.

EDITOR—Carrizozo has made believers of us two guys. We can't get over how everyone here waves hello. Neighborliness walks the streets of this town alive and well. The month or so we've lived here has convinced us that we were too long in the big city. Carrizozo is great! We wish to express our appreciation to everyone, especially to anyone we have come to know and who has made us feel so speedily at home. The music wafting through the air from guitars and young male voices at nearby Chavez Park on Saturday night would have lifted the colors from Billy the Kid in his prison. We're all for it any or every Saturday night.

HILL C. CUMMINGS,
GARY P. ALLEN,
Carrizozo.

ALL WET

If obsolete laws of the past were enforced today, Americans would be in and out of hot water during this rainy season.

Did you know that the use of motorboats on the city's streets is against a local ordinance in Brewton, Ala.?

A Lake Charles, La., law makes it illegal to let a rain puddle remain in your front yard for more than 48 hours.

In Hanford, Calif., people may not interfere with children jumping over water puddles.

It is against the law in Pueblo, Colo., to raise or permit a dandelion to grow within the city limits.

There is a Delaware state law requiring all aviators flying over large bodies of water to carry food and drink.

FORM PARTNERSHIP

Carrizozo's People for Kids (PFK) group is making plans for holding a September meeting to kick off the school year. PFK on behalf of the children and youth want to unite the forces of home, school and community.

Working with the school will allow good things to happen to our children. If we (community and school) work together with PFK we can make a difference. Be there for your youth. Support PFK and their activities. Form a partnership with the school — for kids' sakes.

HALIMAC'S SALAD

Halimac Robertson of Carrizozo is generous for sharing her chicken-salad recipe with column readers. The chicken salad was served at this month's community luncheon prepared by the ladies of Trinity Methodist Church. Halimac made the chicken salad for a crowd, but has cut down the recipe for serving fewer people.

This is what you need for Halimac's Chicken Salad:

- 2 cups diced celery
- 1/2 cup sweet pickle relish
- 1 small jar chopped pimientos, drained
- 1/2 can water chestnuts, diced
- 2 tablespoons freshly-diced onions
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- Real mayonnaise (to suit your taste and for consistency)
- Lemon pepper, to taste
- 1 chicken, cooked, boned and chopped
- 2 boiled eggs, chopped

These are the preparation tips: Boil chicken, save broth to make chicken soup or dumplings. Do not cook liver, gizzard or neck. Save them to put into your dumplings. Do not put gristle or chicken skin in the salad. Do not chop onions ahead of time. "It seems to take on too strong an odor when onions are chopped ahead of time," Halimac points out.

The other ingredients, except for onions and eggs, could be done a day or two ahead. Keep in refrigerator, in separate covered containers. Mix all ingredients well, except chicken and eggs. Pour over chopped chicken and mix well. Add the chopped eggs last; mix gently so they keep their shape.

This dish is made salty by the lemon pepper. Halimac cautions not to add any salt unless the salad seems to need it at serving time. The mayo should be added half a cup at a time until the consistency is to your taste. For sandwiches, the mixture should be more moist than for stuffed tomatoes or any other salad plate.

TIME CHRONICLE

"Exiled Communist Leon Trotsky is killed in Mexico by Soviet agents." — A headline which appeared on or about Saturday, Aug. 24, 1940, over half a century ago.

That was 51 years ago, the day and year I was born. That year, the Carrizozo High School building was brand new. Franklin D. Roosevelt was president of the United States and John Nance Garner was vice president.

National headlines included the following:

Great Britain declares that "The Battle of Britain" has begun as German air attacks are greatly stepped up.

President Roosevelt and Canadian Prime Minister King announce the establishment of a joint board of defense.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration awards flight pioneer Orville Wright honorary pilot, certificate number 0001.

U.S. to swap destroyers for British military bases.

THEN AND NOW

William Allen White remarked: "I am not afraid of tomorrow, for I have seen yesterday and I love today."

But I don't care for today's prices. For example, in 1940 a loaf of bread cost 8 cents, a gallon of milk was 51 cents and butter was 36 cents a pound. A new Ford auto was $850; gasoline sold for 11 cents a gallon and a new home cost $3,925. One day, though, my children will recall 1991 prices and exclaim, "Those were the good old days!"

NEWS BLOOPERS

Wanted: a smart young woman to act as a deceptionist.

And then there was the following correction that appeared in another small town newspaper: "Our paper carried the notice last week that Mr. John Jones is a detective on the police force. This was a typographical error. Mr. Jones is really a detective on the police force."

BLM extends period for mining comments

The Department of the Interior's Bureau of Land Management (BLM) is extending the comment period until Oct. 9 for a proposed rule concerning new bonding requirements designed to ensure reclamation on all mining operations on public lands.

The proposed rule would amend BLM's bonding regulations three ways: (1) require submission of financial guarantees for reclamation of all operations greater than casual use, (2) create additional financial instruments to satisfy the requirement for a financial guarantee, and (3) amend the non-compliance section of the regulations to require the filing of mandatory plans of operations by operators who establish a record of noncompliance.

The proposed rule was published in the July 11 Federal Register, with a 60-day comment period. In response to public request, the BLM is now extending the comment period an additional 30 days.

Written comments on the proposed rulemaking should be submitted no later than Oct. 9, 1991, to Director (140), Bureau of Land Management, Main Interior Building (Room 5555), 1849 O Street N.W., Washington, D.C. 20240.

Supply is limited, according to a Carrizozo Schools spokesman, so orders must be placed soon.

Class and family reunions during the Summer Festival are fun. On Sunday, about 150 of the Porter clan with friends gathered for brisket and potato salad in the school lunchroom. They had planned to go to the Red Cloud picnic area, but the rains made a change necessary. The four survivors of the nine children of the late Mr. and Mrs. Claud Porter were here, with their families. Si Porter, Belen; Robert Roe Porter, Great Falls, Mont.; Loretta Proctor, Corona; and Lorena Mariner, Marysville, Calif.; and her three children, Robert Evans, Bloomfield; and Athol Miller and Joyce Hudgens, Las Cruces, attended. Seven of Mrs. Proctor's eight children were here. Veda now lives in Texas and was unable to come. Mrs. Charlie Porter and six of her seven children came. Gerald and Marianne Porter came from Auburn, Calif.; Fred Porter from Houston, Texas; along with his sisters, Iris, Pauline and Alice, and Richard and Blanche Porter, Tucson.

The Corona Class of 1941 thoroughly enjoyed their 50th anniversary class reunion in conjunction with the annual Corona Festival. Nine seniors were in attendance, including Neoma (Beeber) Whetstone and husband J.D., Dripping Springs, Texas; Betty (Guinn) Satterfield, Roswell; Paul Hamilton and wife Joveta, their daughter and grandson; Ueta Keene and son, Bosque Farms, N.M.; Jack Livingston and wife Ethel, Baton Rouge, La.; Eugene Perea and wife, Albuquerque; Robert Roe Porter, Great Falls, Mont.; Russell Resder and wife Jane, New Waverly, Texas; Juranita (Leary) Sulmeier, Roswell; and Elmo Tracey and wife Babe, Corona.

The seniors of 1941, along with their relatives and friends, along with the Elmo Tracey family and many friends were treated to a barbecue with all the trimmings at the Tracey Ranch, hosted by Elmo, Babe and grandson, Forrest, after the Festival parade. The trimmings included a Martha Garza cake decorated with the pink rose class flower, all the names and in quotations, "Welcome Back, Class of 1941." The men received a pink rose boutonniere, and the women, pink rose corsages made by Toni Thompson.

All the Tracey children were here for the festivities except Loren, Virginia Beach, Va. In attendance were Dennis, Oakland, Calif.; Cherry and Bill Thompson and daughter Toni, Medford, Ore. (Toni had a bit of bad luck while here. Thrown from a horse on Aug. 7, she suffered three breaks in the left ankle and had surgery with plates and screws to repair the damage); Dawn and Wayne Johns and son, Justin Black, Albuquerque; Nolan and Bonnie Tracey and son, Jason, Castro Valley, Calif. Jason's friend Kevin Arredondo came with Jason by car and returned to Castro Valley by plane. Jason will begin college at UNM this fall. Dawn's son, Justin, has begun his first year of college at NMML. Also in attendance were Rhonda Tracey Garlick and husband Gary and children Shelley Duran, Chris and Ryan Sedillo and Shelley's sons, Kyle and Todd; Courtney Tracey Brown, husband Roger, and her children, Jason and Shawn Osborne, all of Albuquerque; Roger's parents, Neil and Martha Brown and children, Kristin and Sarah, Roswell; Gloria Reeder, Houston; Ed and Ivey Grant, Belen; Steve and Karlen Phillips and children Ryan and Kasey; and Frank P. Dicksons Sr., Jr. and III, Albuquerque; and Noahn and Zelmas Vickrey, Byron and Cathy Yancey, Corona.

Reports indicate the woman lost control on the curve after she claimed a large semi-truck made her nervous. She overcorrected twice, then sideswiped a utility pole and hit the building. The distance traveled indicated excessive speed was involved, the report stated.

The occupants were not wearing seat belts. The driver was cited for careless driving; no seat belt used, no child restraint used and no insurance. Pablo Soto and Galvan also were cited for no seat belts or child restraints used. A $400 bond was posted.

Three injured in 2-car crash

Driver fatigue contributed to the accident at the crossroad of U.S. Highways 54 and 380 in Carrizozo which sent three people to the hospital Friday.

According to police reports, Clarence Anderson, 69, Green Valley, Ariz., was southbound on Highway 54 in his 1984 Pontiac, with occupant Rick Baur. Fatigued and not paying attention, Anderson told police, he did not yield when he came to the junction of Highways 54 and 380 at about 8 a.m.

At the same time, Evelyn McKnight, 32, of Carrizozo, was driving east on Highway 380 through the intersection.

Anderson's Pontiac impacted the left rear quarter of McKnight's 1982 Toyota, causing major damage. A witness advised police the Pontiac did not yield.

Both occupants in the Anderson vehicle and McKnight were transported by Carrizozo Ambulance to Lincoln County Medical Center in Ruidoso, where they were treated and released.

No alcohol was involved in the accident, police records indicate.

Anderson was cited for failure to yield.

Friday's accident with injuries was the second in three months at the intersection.

Posley's Blue Door Gallery

Dave and Betty Posley sold their art gallery in Sonora, California, and had big plans to retire. The Posleys moved to Capitan and changed their minds when they saw their present location.

The Blue Door Gallery opened early in July. This unique art gallery is located at 105 Lincoln, across from the village hall in Capitan. Dave told the NEWS that after reviewing the area art, "We knew that we could give the public the same quality art at half the price."

The Blue Door Gallery has a variety of style and technique in oils and water colors. The gallery also features medium priced pottery and sculpture. Betty Posley features her unusual art of copper enameling. She said she will be happy to demonstrate this unique art to any interested parties. It was evident the Posleys pride themselves in their ability to select good art.

This most interesting business is open Wednesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sunday hours are noon to 5 p.m. The gallery is open on Monday and Tuesday by appointment only. Call 354-3030.

The Posleys invite you to come in, browse, and enjoy a cup of coffee.

Fort Stanton Facts & Fiction

by Betty Joiner

Last Saturday, Aug. 17, Pat and I decided to take a little anniversary trip to the northern part of the state. We were celebrating 28 years of married life. On our way north, just out of Carrizozo, we stopped in to visit Pat's aunt, Johnny Bond. She and Betty Ann made our trip get off to a great start. Johnny fixed us breakfast that wouldn't quit, told us funny stories and sent us on our way wishing we didn't have to leave. From there, we went to Santa Fe, Las Vegas, Red River and into Chama, where we rode the train. We really enjoyed the country all the way, but do think Chama was the prettiest.

We were saddened to hear of the death of a very dear friend, Roy Payton. We have known Roy all our lives and, along with many, will miss Roy's smiling face and helpful ways. Everyone at Fort Stanton sends Margie and family our deepest sympathy for their loss. Our riding club playdays sure won't be the same without Roy there to help us. Roy was very proud of a "Young at Heart" belt buckle he won a few years ago and he had another one that Pat made for him out of a Kerr jar lid when he won the canning award at the fair last year. Roy was buried in Capitan Cemetery on Tuesday, Aug. 20.

Connie Edwards visited her sister Judy Dent and her husband Bruce Dent in Midvale, Utah, during her vacation last week. She toured the Hole in a Rock and the Wilson Arch near the Canyon Lands National Park. While in Utah, her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Edwards celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary. They live in Alamogordo and went to Utah for this special occasion.

Gary and Mary Nickless have moved their trailer to Roswell. Gary is working as a nurse in Roswell and Mary is teaching. Fort Stanton will miss them both.

Lora Arellano moved to Carlsbad last Wednesday to begin a new job there. We will all miss her "cheery good mornings" and "have a nice day" greetings. Good luck to you all, even though you will be missed.

Eddie and Audrey Davis, Michael Fish, Art and Carolyn Franklin and Don and Zena Studdard were some of the local ropers entered in the Super Looper roping in Albuquerque last weekend.

Many of our area postmasters, Mary Gourley, Albo, Debbie Moore, Corona; Bob Chamberlain, Ruidoso; and Shirlene Fitzner of Ruidoso Downs, spent last week in Hawaii attending the Napus National Convention. More than 30 from throughout New Mexico represented our state.

Charles Padilla of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., visited his brother, Louis Padilla, recently. Charles grew up in Capitan and graduated from Ruidoso High School in 1958. Charles has traveled extensively all over the world working for newspapers. He says of all the places he has seen our area is the best of all. He is looking forward to retiring in Capitan in a few years.

Cindy Foglesong had two reasons to be proud last Saturday. Two of her fiddle students won in the All American Fiddler's Championship junior division contest held in Ruidoso. Jessie Stockman, 14, of Deming was the first-place winner. Coya Robbins, 12, of Capitan, and Josh Jones, 11, of Fort Stanton placed second and third, respectively. This was Josh's first professional contest and he was accompanied by his brother, Jake Jones, playing "The Endurance Waltz" and "Bile Them Cabbages Down." Josh was $80 richer for winning third place. The Jones boys are sons of Kathy and Mark Westbrook and have been taking lessons from Cindy for less than a year. Kathy said she really appreciates Cindy and John's support for all they do for everyone. The judges of this fiddling contest were Johnny Gimble, Little Red Hayes and Ernie Hunter.

School is in full swing and sports will be happening very shortly. The first football game will be on Aug. 30 in Eunice. The first home game will be on Sept. 6 against Tatum at 7:30 p.m. Volleyball will start with a scrimmage on Aug. 31 with the time to be announced. The first volleyball game will be with Tatum on Sept. 6 in Capitan, starting at 4:30 p.m. Let's all support our kids and our new administration.

Zozo grad wins award

Kristy Michelle Gore of Carrizozo has been named the New Mexico state winner of the National FFA Organization's Agriscience Student Recognition Program.

The former Carrizozo FFA member earned the award with her project entitled "Wildgame vs. Domestic Livestock-Phase II." Gore, a 1991 Carrizozo High School graduate, will receive a cash scholarship of $1,000 in recognition of her achievements in agriscience. As New Mexico's winner, Gore is eligible to compete for regional and national scholarship awards totaling $8,500. Finalists for the national 1991 Agriscience Student Recognition Program will soon be selected.

Gore was nominated by former Carrizozo VoAg instructor Michael Gaines on the basis of her research project; how well she involved agriscience skills, applications and new technologies learned at Carrizozo High School VoAg classes; her ability to apply her project to her supervised agricultural experience program; her academic achievement and her school and community activities.

Gore now is pursuing an agriculture related major at New Mexico State University in Las Cruces.

Fishing Report

The New Mexico Department of Game and Fish prepares its fishing reports from the best information available from officers and anglers. Conditions encountered after the report is compiled may differ, however, as stream, lake and weather conditions alter fish and angler activities. The most current stocking records are for the week ending Aug. 16.

* Bonito Lake—A few fish are being taken with salmon eggs in the early morning.

* Caballo Lake—Fishing is fair for catfish.

* Elephant Butte Lake—Fishing is good using minnows and sassy shad and gigger slab spoons for white bass. The best areas are McCrea Canyon, Monticello Canyon, and around the marinas at night. Black bass are being taken on crank baits in shallow coves. Catfish are being taken on shrimps and cutbait. The river below is fair with a few walleye and large trout being taken.

Back to school lunch time

by Betty McCreight / Lincoln County Extension Home Economist

If you are considering packing lunches for your children this year, pay attention to the nutrition that goes into the lunch box. At the same time, remember that variety is the spice of life. Even though peanut butter is a favorite with children, they also like surprises.

Planning lunches using the basic four food groups ensures good nutrition. For the milk group, include cheese for sandwiches, either in sticks or as a dip for crackers, fruit or vegetables. As the days cool down, fill a thermos with hot cream soup, stew, or chile con carne. Cooked dried beans can be used as a meat substitute.

Fruits and vegetables will add the color and texture needed to make a brown bag lunch attractive. Pack lettuce and tomatoes for sandwiches separately to add just before eating. Raw carrots, celery, zucchini, broccoli, cauliflower or turnips can be used as dippers for a cheese or refried bean dip.

Score the peel of oranges for easy peeling at lunch time. Apples, bananas, pears, and other small whole fruits, as well as containers of canned fruit add nutrition and variety.

Breads and cereals will be in the form of bread or rolls for sandwiches, crackers for dips and cheese, or oatmeal cookies and cakes.

SAFETY

Be sure foods are safe to eat before packing them for lunch. Store food properly after it is purchased. Wash hands before handling the food. Clean all working areas and utensils. Brown bags are a favorite way to carry lunches, but not just any brown bag should be used. Pack foods only in paper bags purchased for that purpose. Other bags may be dirty or contaminated with bacteria that could cause food poisoning. Use paper bags only once.

Lunch boxes are another option for packing meals. Insulated bags could also be used. Thermos bottles or jars are good to keep hot food hot or cold food cold. If you do not have a thermos bottle, try wrapping a jar with several layers of newspaper tied with string.

If a thermos will not be used and refrigeration is unavailable, use foods that can be left at room temperature.

BROWN BAG HINTS

- * Make every day sandwiches special with special breads such as, banana, carrot or zucchini bread.
- * Two thin slices of meat taste better than one thick one.
- * Share your lunch. Pack enough for you and a friend today. Let your friend bring lunch tomorrow.
- * Pack a book or magazine in the lunch to help you enjoy meal time.
- * Vary the type of sandwich. Use different fruits and vegetables and listen for new ideas. Brown bag meals with variety are fun to open and eat.
- * Include a small toy or other surprise in a child's lunch box.

Capitan News

by Margaret Rench

The Capitan area received 1.3 inches of good rain last week.

The Capitan Chamber of Commerce meeting will be postponed until Monday, Sept. 9, due to the Labor Day holiday. The meeting will be held at the Smokey Bear Coffee Shop at 11:30 a.m.

Congratulations are in order for Carlos Morales, a recent graduate of New Mexico State University in Las Cruces.

Welcome home, Joe and Marge Gemotes, from your visit in Montana. You were sorely missed and we are all happy to see your friendly faces back in Capitan.

The Sacred Heart Guild met Wednesday, Aug. 28, in the Church Hall for their monthly pot-luck. There was a good crowd and the food was delicious.

There was a good crowd at the monthly pot-luck dinner held Wednesday, Aug. 21, at the Senior Citizens Center. The gentlemen from the center had invited the gentlemen from San Patricio to challenge them to a pool tournament.

Happy birthday to Curtis Reeves, Aug. 29.

Attention to you folks who hate the lowly elm tree. This article was found recently in a magazine. TREES CLEAN UP AIR POLLUTION! One large sugar maple tree can clear the air of lead emitted by 1,000 gallons of burned gasoline, according to the University College of Agriculture. What's more, an acre of elm trees can capture 20 tons of airborne pollutants per year. Not only do trees act as natural sponges, soaking up impurities, they also slow down air movement, causing pollutants to fall to the ground. So, long live our lowly elm tree.

INVITATION TO COMMENT MOUNTAINAIR RANGER DISTRICT, CIBOLA NATIONAL FOREST

THE MOUNTAINAIR RANGER DISTRICT of the Cibola National Forest proposes to modify vegetation and dead/down ground fuels on approximately 800 acres of National Forest land by use of prescribed fire. This area has heavy concentrations of dead/down brush, logs, and needles which if ignited, during times of high fire danger would cause unacceptable resource damage. By treating the area with prescribed fire during times when environmental conditions will allow for controlled burning, the fuel loading will be reduced to more acceptable levels.

The site is in the Gallinas Mountains near Corona, NM, bounded on north and west sides by Forest Road 99, and on the south side by Pajero Canyon drainage; T1S, R11E, parts of sections 9, 10, 14, 15, and 18. Approximately 95 percent of the area is in Management Area 11 and 5 percent is in Management Area 13 of the Cibola National Forest Land and Resource Management Plan.

Any comments or inquiries should be addressed to the District Ranger, Mountainair Ranger District, P.O. Box E, Mountainair, NM 87036. Comments and inquiries must be received before September 20, 1991.

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY

NOTICE OF AVAILABILITY (NOA) OF THE DRAFT ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT STATEMENT (DEIS) FOR THE AERIAL CABLE TEST CAPABILITY (ACTC) PROJECT TO BE LOCATED AT WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, NEW MEXICO.

AGENCY: Department of the Army, DoD

ACTION: Notice of Availability

SUMMARY: This announces the Notice of Availability of the Draft Environmental Impact Statement (DEIS) on the potential impact of the development, integration and operation of the proposed Aerial Cable Test facility at White Sands Missile Range, New Mexico. The proposed ACTC facility will be used to test ground-to-air missiles against targets suspended from an aerial cable, and the aerial tramway will also be used for testing of other DoD material as an alternative to some of the testing requiring airborne target drones and manned aircraft. The DEIS examines the potential impacts of the development, integration, and operation of this ACTC facility at alternative sites within White Sands Missile Range and the "no-action" alternative. The "no-action" alternative is considered to be a continuation of present missile testing using airborne drone targets and manned aircraft delivery of DoD test material.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

The department of the Army published a Notice of Intent on April 26, 1990 (FR, No. 78, pp. 15262-15268) which provided notice that, pursuant to the National Environmental Policy Act and implementing regulations, it was preparing a Draft EIS for the Aerial Cable Test Capability project. Copies of this DEIS may be obtained by writing to the Commander, U.S. Army White Sands Missile Range, ATTN: STEWS-ID-DC (Mr. Henry B. Stephenson, Jr.), White Sands Missile Range, New Mexico, 88002.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION:

The Environmental Protection Agency also will publish a Notice of Availability for the DEIS in the Federal Register. This DEIS will have a 45-day comment period from the date that the Environmental Protection Agency files a Notice of Availability in the Federal Register. Public Hearings are scheduled to receive comments on this DEIS. The first Public Hearing will be held on 10 September 1991 at Socorro, New Mexico, and the second Public Hearing will be held at Carrizozo, New Mexico, on 11 September 1991. Comments on the DEIS will be considered by the Army in developing the final EIS for the ACTC project. Comments should be provided in writing to Mr. Henry B. Grizzly girls attend camp for volleyball

Seven Carrizozo Grizzly girls and their two coaches attended UNM Lobo Camp for volleyball this month.

During the 3-day event, Aug. 9-11 the Carrizozo team members played 23 games against 1A, 2A, 3A and 4A schools. The Grizzlies won approximately 50 percent of the games played. The camp participants enjoyed playing and observing the UNM Lobo Volleyball team.

The Carrizozo girls earned the money for camp, with support from citizens, through such fund-raising projects as garage sales, a cake walk and bake sales. In addition, the Carrizozo Athletic Booster Club furnished funds for several meals.

The team members are Renee Roper, Lynette Hernandez, Rachel Archuleta, Amy Funk, Yvonne Estrella, Julie Gallegos, Michael Schlarb, Lori Gibson, Cheryl Hightower, Jennifer Luna and Amanda Vega.

New head volleyball coach Kay Patterson practiced Monday with 11 prospective players. Patterson is assisted this season by Christetta Chavez.

The first game of the season will be here Sept. 12 against Vaughn.
