County's taxable value stands at $243,717,504

It's that time again—for taxes!

Lincoln County property tax bills will probably be in the mail by the time The News hits the stands today (Thursday). And property owners can expect to find a new, more streamlined tax bill.

Lincoln County Treasurer Janice Silva Ware looked for a form which would replace last year's long, cumbersome bill. The new one she found includes detachable coupons for full payment, first half and second half payments. The bills have a new feature—a heat seal, that will keep the forms confidential without an envelope.

According to the amended Certificate of Tax rates, sent from the Department of Finance and Administration (DFA) in Santa Fe in September, Lincoln County's total taxable value is $243,717,504.

For each property, the state takes first dip of 1.405 mills (or $1.405 for each thousand dollars of taxable value of property) for both residential and non-residential properties; the county operational share is 7.176 for residential and 8.639 for non-residential; mill/debts for the county are 1.750 for both types of property.

Added to the state and county taxes are the local municipal taxes. Ruidoso tacks on another 15.557 for both residential and non-residential properties for a total net taxable value of $119,541,004. Ruidoso Downs, with a total tax value of $4,201,693, has a tax 13.903 for both residential and non-residential.

Capitan, with a total value of $4,707,715, adds another 16.523 for residential and 16.715 for non-residential properties to continue paying off its General Obligation bonds issued for water projects.

Carrizozo, with a total taxable value of $4,201,693, taxes 5.663 to residential properties and 6.107 to non-residential. Corona, with a value of $875,166, had a tax of 3.844 for residential and 4.408 for non-residential properties.

School districts get a share of the property tax pie also. Ruidoso District (which includes Ruidoso Downs) has a taxable value of $149,787,526. It adds 10.390 to residential and 10.450 to non-residential property taxes.

Capitan School District, with a net taxable value of $60,605,300, has taxes of 6.625 for residential and 6.677 for non-residential properties. Carrizozo District, with a taxable value of $11,972,360, had a tax of 8.208 for residential and 8.3 for non-residential. Corona District, with a value of $11,884,810 has taxes of 4.8 for residential and 4.878 for non-residential properties.

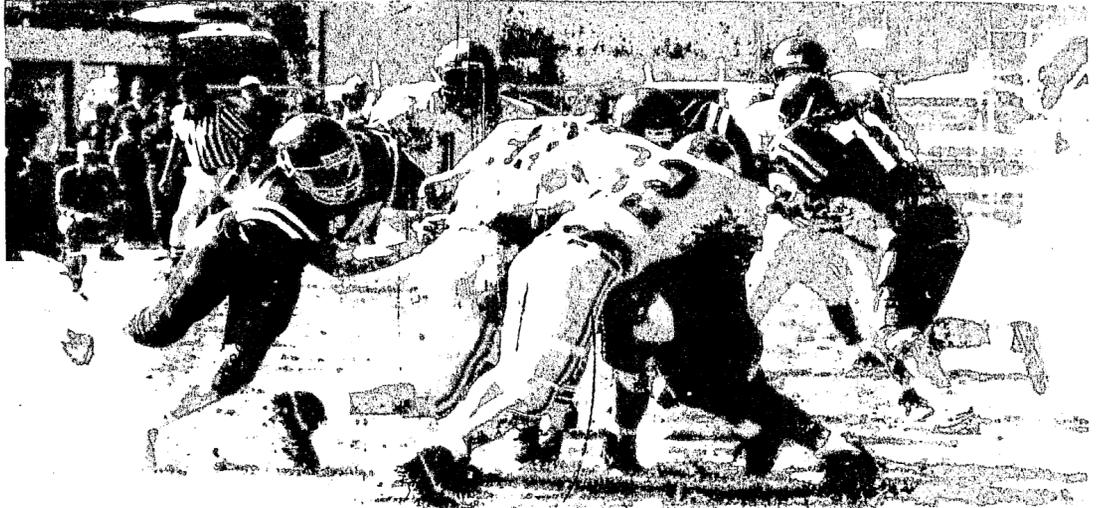

Hondo District, with a net taxable worth of $9,467,508, has taxes of 8.083 for residential and 8.139 for non-residential properties.

Properties outside a municipality are taxes for state, county, hospital, school districts, and in some areas, with special assessment districts.

Residential properties in the Carrizozo School district which are in the county are taxed at a total of 22.117 per

Street, sewer plan ok'd by Ruidoso Council

Owners of property in the Town and Country North Subdivision got a promise to begin the process to get sewers and streets from the Ruidoso Village Council.

At the meeting Tuesday, where councillors also considered cedar shake roofs, vicious dogs and appointments to boards, a petition from several Town and Country North owners was submitted. The owners requested their sewers and streets be improved, and they would be willing to go into an assessment district to pay for the improvements.

Properties there have septic tanks, many of which are failing, according to the New Mexico Environment Division office in Ruidoso. Streets are unpaved.

Assessment districts are authorized after 80 percent of the owners petition for paving or by determination of the governing body, as allowed by the village municipal code.

But councillors wanted an estimate of the cost of sewers and paving which could be determined by an engineering study, to give owners some idea of the assessment. All owners would be contacted by certified mail and would have the right to protest the assessment district.

Councillor Barbara Huff said a request to staff to make some type of estimate on a sewer project for that subdivision was made in April, then forgotten. No money was budgeted to cover engineering costs.

Since the petitioners agreed to an assessment to pay for the sewer and paving, councillors approved starting the process.

"This time we'll not let them fall through the cracks," Alonso said.

The extreme fire danger of cedar shake roofs on homes was brought to the council's attention by member Bill Karn. "It's a nightmare for our fire department," he said about homes with cedar roofs, many in the dense Upper Canyon area.

In light of the tragic fire in Oakland, CA, recently where many homes burned because of their cedar roofs, Karn proposed a total ban on the wood roofs, requiring home owners to replace with fiberglass, or at least require application of a fire retardant to existing cedar roofs.

A directive to pursue some proposed ordinance about the cedar roofs was sent to Planning and Zoning Commission.

Karn also requested the council support the Ruidoso Board of Realtor's plan to do direct marketing of Ruidoso properties to the victims of the Oakland fire. The marketing will focus on Ruidoso's lower cost homes and higher quality of life. Councillors

Grizzlies get berth in playoffs

By KENNETH BUTTS

The Carrizozo Grizzlies, highlighted by a 99-yard run by Lee Najar, beat the Reserve Mountaineers 27-6, to clinch a berth in the New Mexico Class A playoffs.

The hard-fought victory by the Grizzlies was a physical game that was not decided until late in the fourth quarter.

The Grizzlies started the scoring on their first possession after Val Reyes recovered a fumble in Reserve territory.

Runs by Lee Roy Zamora, Chris Barela and Lee Najar took the ball inside Reserve ten. Three consecutive runs yielded Carrizozo with a fourth and goal from the 6-yard line.

Carrizozo decided to go for it and Lee Najar took the pitch around end and got good blocks from Raphael Chavez and Fernando Medina and outran everyone to barely get into the end zone. The PAT failed, making the score 6-0.

After both defenses played some punishing defense, Carrizozo got on the board again late in the second quarter.

Zamora kept the ball on the option and scored from three yards out. The touchdown was set up by a James Silva 40-yard run and some tough running by Barela

Ruidoso tracking tribe

Ruidoso Council wants to track the proposal by the Mescalero Apache Tribe to study the economic feasibility of a Monitored Retrievable Storage (MRS) facility for high-level nuclear on tribal lands.

Councillor Bill Karn led discussion about the recent meetings with tribal president Wendall Chino and secretary Fred Peso about the feasibility study. The tribe will receive a $100,000 grant from the Dept. of Energy (DOE) to contract with a firm to study the economic feasibility of such an endeavor. The tribe is the only government in the United States to accept the invitation from the Nuclear Regulatory Commission and DOE to conduct a feasibility study, so far. It took a week for the agencies to accept the tribe's grant application.

As for the economic side, estimates show annual income as high as $1 billion for the tribe. The environmental side of the MRS is not included in the first study. But Chino told councillors the tribe would do nothing that would harm its people or the land.

Karn said at the council meeting Tuesday night the federal government historically has treated New Mexico like a stepchild due to its small population and limited voting power.

"I don't trust DOE," Karn said and added the agency does not follow its own laws.

DOE says the MRS will be a temporary facility for up to 40 years. But Karn was skeptic because plans have fallen through for the proposed permanent storage facility in Nevada for highly radioactive spent fuel rods from nuclear power plants and radioactive materials from the defense industry. "I think the tribe is between a rock and a hard place," Karn said about the situation.

At the recent special meeting, Karn had suggested the 460 acres needed

Other miscellaneous taxes imposed in different areas throughout the county include a hospital levy of 3.187 for residential and 3.926 for non-residential properties for Lincoln County Medical Center in Ruidoso. Alpine Village, with a net taxable worth of $1,053,265, imposes 10 mills on all properties in that assessment district. Sun Valley Sanitation District, with a tax value of $4,344,585, had a 5.0 tax on all properties there.

Even the livestock get taxed. Lincoln County's cattle, which have a net taxable value of $4,244,585, are taxed at 9.0. Dairy cattle, with a net taxable value of $40,352 are taxed at 5.0. Sheep/goats have a total value of $708,045 in Lincoln County and are taxed at 18.00.

To protect the livestock, a predator control tax is added at .250 per head of cattle, sheep or goats.

Other taxes which do not apply to all properties in the county include Chaves Soil and Water with a net tax value of $15,592,721, which imposes .391 for residential and .440 for non-residential properties.

Carrizozo Soil and Water District, with a net tax worth of $15,592,721, imposes .981 to residential and 1.00 to non-residential properties.

Upper Hondo Soil and Water District, with a tax worth of $80,794,262, imposes .500 to both residential and non-residential.

Claunch/Pinto Soil and Water District had a worth of $598,764, and imposes .608 to residential and .906 to non-residential properties.

The newest of taxes imposed recently was the 1 mill for all properties in the Ruidoso School District, with a value of $149,787,526, for the Eastern New Mexico University Ruidoso branch.

Tax rates have seen a steady incline in the last ten years. In 1981, the total net taxable value of Lincoln County properties was only $91,715,936. State tax was only .562. County operational tax was actually higher, at 8.850 and debt service was at .772.

Ruidoso's tax rate in 1981 was 22.635 for residential and non-residential properties and its net taxable worth was $45,856,085.

The tax for Ruidoso Downs properties was 21.528 and its taxable worth was $4,212,712. Carrizozo's tax was 10.848 with a total taxable worth of $1,785,764.

Corona had a tax of 2.225 with a net taxable worth of $336,676. Capitan's taxes were at 11.681 and the village had a net taxable worth of $2,300,016.

By 1986 things changed radically. The total taxable value of the county increased from the $140,500,336 in 1985 to $251,362,529 in 1986. The state's share of the pie had risen to .920 but had dropped from the previous year's 1.050. County operational tax dropped from the previous 8.850 to 4.925 for residential and 5.938 for non-residential. County debt service was 168.

Ruidoso's worth had risen to $134,151,951 from the $70,003,100 the year before. Residential properties were taxed at 13.975 and non-residential paid 14.133. Ruidoso Downs, with a taxable worth of $11,643,001 in 1986, had residential owners paying 8.351 and non-residential owners paying 8.413.

Capitan, worth $4,420,213 in 1986, taxed its residential owners at 25.369 and non-residential owners at 25.614. Up considerably from the 9.203 the year before.

Carrizozo residential properties were taxed 1.596 and non-residential properties paid 1.680. The town had a net taxable worth of $2,951,213. Corona residential properties were taxed 1.772 and non-residential properties at 1.591 for a net worth of $986,438.

Taxes for schools in 1986 were 8.427 for residential properties in Ruidoso District and 8.591 for non-residential. In the Capitan District, the 1986 residential tax was 6.357 and non-residential tax was 6.340. The Carrizozo School District residential tax was 8.956 and non-residential tax was 9.176. Corona District had a residential tax of 2.081 and non-residential tax of 2.50. Hondo District had a residential tax of 11.415 and non-residential tax of 11.861.

Cattle had a tax of 7.570, sheep and goats 18.00.

The highest valuation of properties in Lincoln County occurred in 1988 when the total taxable worth was $280,892,605. Valuation went down in 1989 to $278,949,136; in 1990 to $242,035,471 and up to the current $243,717,504 in 1991.

The Lincoln County Treasurer's office issues the tax bills and collects the property taxes for the state, county, municipalities, schools and other taxing agencies within the county.

The first half of all property tax bills are due by Nov. 10 and become delinquent after Dec. 10. A $5 penalty and interest of 1 percent a month on the unpaid taxes are imposed after the delinquent date. The second half of the taxes are due by April 10 and are delinquent after May 10.

EPA eyes Carrizozo situation

Crews from the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation and the Environmental Protection Agency arrived in Carrizozo Tuesday to bring the cleanup phase of the Cimarron Mill Superfund project.

Reclamation drillers will sink wells at the site just east of the town, and pump water from the cyanide contaminated shallow wells into the Carrizozo Sewer System, to be treated at the sewer plant. EPA claims the treatment process will render the cyanide non-toxic.

Carrizozo Town Trustees recently approved an agreement for EPA to go ahead with the cleanup phase.

An agreement between the town and EPA to flush the contaminated water from Cimarron was delivered to Town Hall Tuesday by EPA project director Paul Sieminski.

Carrizozo Mayor Cecilia Kuhn made no comment about the agreement Wednesday.

THREE CARRIZOZO 3rd graders, John Green, Mary Beth Bond and Nichomy Padilla were among the elementary grade school audience who saw a puppet show during "Red Ribbon Week! The good guy and bad guy puppets were manipulated by Willie Archuleta, George Vega and Rachel Archuleta.

for the immediate MRS site and an additional 10,000 acre buffer zone be placed on federally owned White Sands Missile Range. The tribe could trade its land for some on WSMR and retain custodial ownership at the MRS site.

Tuesday night, Karn made the motion to apply for the federal funds to track the tribal study, which Chino invited the council to do. But Karn did not really want such a facility, fearing a container break would spread high level nuclear contamination with the winds from this area over Texas. A representative from the manufacturer which produces the containers for the high-level waste admitted there is some leakage of radiation in the process.

Mayor Victor Alonso said government policies concerning the licensing of nuclear power plants were not thorough enough to include the disposal of spent fuel, which remain radioactive for about 10,000 years. Such plans should have been made before approving the plans. Unimpressed with human progress in the 4,000 years of recorded history, Alonso was reluctant to trust the U.S. government to put policies in place that would last 10,000 years.

"The waste would outlast all recorded human history two and a half times," Alonso said.

Councillors approved applying for the grant to track the tribe's feasibility study.

An Associated Press article in the Roswell Daily Record Wednesday, Oct. 30, quoted an Oct. 21 letter to tribal members from Chino promising no high-level nuclear waste storage facility will be on the tribe's reservation. The letter indicated the tribe will seek to swap lands in another area, to avoid placing the radioactive materials on the reservation.

One potential site was WSMR. But, Miller Hudson, private consultant for the tribe, had reservations about WSMR, since it is the middle of a missile route. "But we'll look at anything," Hudson was quoted.

In the letter, Chino said the council would not let financial gain overshadow the safety and well being of tribal members, families and children, and the land.

But tribal member Mimi Hoahwah said Chino's letter was a "bunch of bull," and claimed it was an election tactic. Tribal elections are Nov. 6. Another tribal member, Len Hanks, said last week the tribe could swap land with the Bureau of Land Management or other agencies to store the waste off the reservation. He supported the feasibility study because it did not pin the tribe down to anything definite.

Ruidoso Village Council will apply for the federal grant to track the storage proposal. "I bet we don't get it within a week," said Councilor James. —DORIS CHERRY.

and mayor joked about the nuclear storage site proposal by the Mescales. "A glow in the dark community," joked Andrews.

Karn got serious again and said just one percent of those who lost homes in Oakland would be about 20 families for Ruidoso.

A Pit Bull Terrier owner came before the council after an appeal by Barbara Westbrook to stiffen up the existing Ruidoso Animal Control Ordinance. Jo Ann Vasquez worried she would have to have a special license, as proposed by Westbrook, to own her pit bull, which she said was not vicious. "I don't want to be punished for being an irresponsible owner," Vasquez said.

Westbrook was again before the council to pursue tougher penalties to owners of vicious dogs, and to see some way to toughen requirements for owners of female dogs in estrus. She also proposed special licensing and kennel facilities for pit bulls, specifically. Her request stemmed from an incident in September when her son's Doberman Pincher dog was killed by two neighboring pit bulls.

After a lengthy discussion about stiffer fines, and the legal problems of a total ban on a specific breed, mayor or Alonso directed village attorney David Thomsen to make changes to the animal control ordinance to toughen regulations and increase fines. A draft of the proposed ordinance changes will be available for council perusal by the second meeting in November.

Enforcement seemed a key word during Tuesday night's meeting. Resident Darwin Talafuse asked the village to enforce the cross walk at the post office and other municipal traffic and parking laws. He said the village needs meter maids to issue parking tickets, which could be increased to cover the cost of a radar tower. The tower would monitor speeders on village streets.

Alonso limited Talafuse to 10 minutes discussion and told him the village police are monitoring the new cross walk at the post office and are so understaffed they cannot keep up with all the traffic.

In other business,

councillors:

● Appointed members to a newly formed task force to look at special events, especially those involving outdoor liquor licenses, and make recommendations to the council. The mayor specifically asked the group not to look at the motorcycle rally, since the village cannot prohibit an event. Members include village manager Ron Wicker, Thomsen, police chief Dick Swenor, Jay Sensor, Gene Rodin, Jerry Watt, Dick Weber, Madelin Shakelford and Mike Sargent.

● Appointed Beverly Carusona to the Arts and Film Commission; Arden Ekersley to the Planning and Zoning Commission and David Dale to the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority.

● Set a special meeting for the quarterly budget review at 9 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 6.

● Heard the mayor proclaim Cindy Green of the police department as employee of the month of November. She received a $75 savings bond and plaque.

● Heard the mayor proclaim Saturday, Nov. 2 as Old Timer Barbershop Harmony Day on behalf of the Noons Lions Club who are sponsoring the harmony festival.

● Approved a resolution to be drafted opposing any Forest Service plan to clear out lumber in the Ruidoso area.

● Heard Wicker report that only 21 percent of the village owned dumpsters need repair, as opposed to the more than 50 percent reported in the Ruidoso News. Wicker is working on specifications for an annual contract for repair of the dumpsters.

● Heard a report from Kathleen Michaleena, civic center director, that the cement was poured Tuesday morning. She also had determined the dimensions of all rooms, which can be referred to groups interested in renting the facility. Already about 16 groups have booked use of the facility for the next five years.

● Declared the week of Nov. 12 as Miss New Mexico/USA Pageant week, honoring the event in the Ruidoso area.

LADY TIGER Pam Pacheco (#19) hits the ball over to Cloudcroft while Tycle Traylor (#4) and Kelly Cox (#11) wait for a return. Cloudcroft won the match in five games. Captain will play in the semi-final match set to begin at 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 1 at Capitan school gym.

The Grizzlies then went for two and on the bootleg Zamora threw to a wide open Justin Portillo, who made the easy catch. The catch made the score 14-0.

Reserve threatened late in the first half as they marched down inside the Grizzlies' ten. That is where the Zozo defense stiffened and forced a fourth down and goal. On the last play of the half, the Reserve quarterback threw a pass that was caught at the one-yard line. Silva tackled him at the one-foot line and stopped an apparent touchdown as the buzzer sounded. The Grizzlies at the half, 14-0.

Reserve opened the scoring in the second half on a 13-yard run by Reserve running back Nick Jaramillo. The score was set up, when on third and 15, the Reserve quarterback ran for 52 yards down to the Zozo 20 yard-line. The Mountaineers went for two and were stopped by a solo tackle by Anthony Archuleta. The score moved to 14-6 in favor of Carrizozo.

Carrizozo took the ball after the kickoff and marched 80 yards on 12 plays that took more than seven minutes off the clock. Barela carried the ball eight of the 12 plays to take the ball down to the Mountaineers' five.

On the first play of the fourth quarter and facing a fourth down, the Grizzlies again went for the score. Zamora threaded the needle to Chavez, who with a Reserve defender hanging all over him, made an incredible catch for the touchdown. The PAT was missed to make the score 20-6.

The Carrizozo defense, led by Najar (eight tackles) and J. Portillo (six tackles), again held and forced Reserve to punt. The punt put the ball on Zozo's five yard line.

On the first play from scrimmage, after the punt, Barela fumbled and Reserve recovered on the eight-yard line. Reserve seemed back in the game, only to be denied again by the stingy Grizzlies defense.

On a quarterback sneak from the two, the ball was fumbled and squirted out of the pile and Reyes recovered the ball on the one-foot line.

Najar took the dive, received a good block from Alfonso Lucero, outraced the containment for a stumbling, bumbling, rumbly 99-yard run to put the game out of reach. Silva kicked the extra-point making the final score 27-6.

Carrizozo was led by seniors Najar with 122 yards on seven carries. Silva chipped in 72 yards on six carries and Barela finished the game with 68 yards on 18 carries. Zamora was five for six passing for 38 yards with a touchdown and ran for another 20 yards.

With the victory, Carrizozo ran its overall record to 7-1 and 2-1 in district. The victory also ensured the Grizzlies a playoff berth in two weeks against the winner of the Tatum and Hagerman game. The Grizzlies finish their regular season at home against Capitan Friday night, which is also parent night.

Seniors playing in their last home game for the Grizzlies are Chris Barela, Raphael Chavez, Alfonso Lucero, Damian Luna, Lee Najar, Justin Portillo, Val Reyes, James Silva, Coby Sims and Lee Roy Zamora.

• The following was supplied to The News by Mayor Cecilia Kuhnel:

A ground-breaking ceremony for the Defense Nuclear Agency's Large Blast/Thermal Simulator near Stallion Range Center was at noon Saturday.

Expected to be fully operational by 1994, the simulator will be located on a 50-acre site in the northern portion of White Sands Missile Range.

With a length of about two football fields, the 20-meter tube is one in which full-scale systems such as tanks or helicopters can be tested against the simulated blast wave and thermal pulse generated by a nuclear detonation. No nuclear radiation will be involved.

Defense Nuclear Agency officials said they should be able to conduct 100 to 150 tests annually at the facility, which will be the only one of its kind in the United States. The average annual operational and maintenance costs are expected to range from $3 to $4 million.

With an estimated military construction cost of about $65 million, the facility should take about two years to complete. A year-long follow-on characterization, or calibration, period will follow. The simulator has a projected life of about 30 years.

Nuclear survivability requirements are included in the procurement contracts for U.S. military systems. However, the United States is currently prevented from verifying the blast and thermal survivability of these systems and their support equipment in a realistic environment.

Atmospheric nuclear testing is no longer allowed. High-explosive field tests, such as the Defense Nuclear Agency's Distant Image test here last spring, are costly and conducted once every other year. Existing U.S. shock tubes are too small to accommodate large military systems.

Developers said the simulator will allow realistic tests at a permanent facility, where the entire required range of blast and thermal environments can be repeatedly created, controlled and monitored.

An Environmental Assessment written for the project foresaw no significant adverse impact on the natural, physical or biological environments off the missile range.

The Environmental Assessment reports that the simulator will house a driver section which releases compressed gas to produce a shock wave; an expansion tunnel down which the shock wave propagates; a test section where objects are exposed; and a contamination of the tunnel to a Rarefaction Wave Eliminator at the end of the tube to preserve the desired airblast duration. A thermal radiation source will be installed upstream of the test chamber to allow selected test items to be exposed to a thermal pulse in addition to the blast wave.

The airblast will be produced by the sudden controlled release of highly pressurized gas from an array of long steel driver tubes into the expansion tunnel. The driver tubes will be pressurized using a liquid nitrogen supply system.

The driver tube will be fitted with expendable steel diaphragms. During a test, the diaphragms will be split by detonating explosive charges on their surfaces, thus releasing the gas and allowing it to rapidly expand and move down the tunnel.

The long expansion tunnel is required so the driver gas can form a smooth airblast shock wave before reaching the test section.

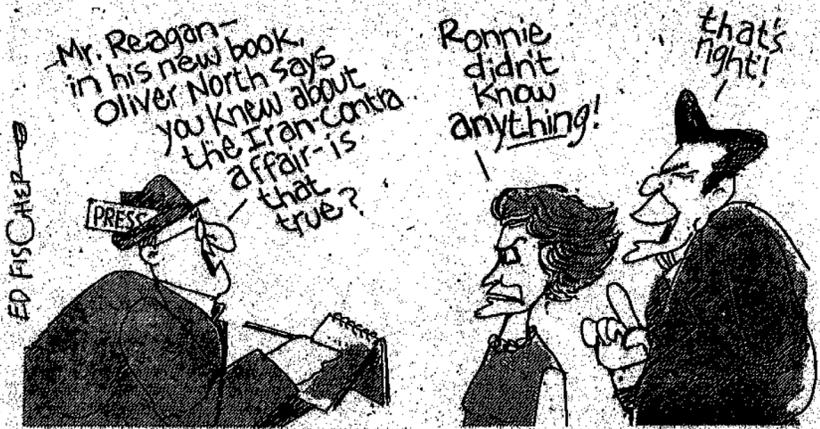

The thermal radiation source will burn a fuel composed of powdered aluminum and liquid oxygen.

When thermal testing is required, the source will be activated just before releasing the pressurized gas. The fuel mixture will eject from nozzles along the floor and ignited to produce a wall of flame on the blast side of the test item.

The thermal radiation source will be operated long enough to simulate the desired thermal pulse, but switched off in time to allow complete venting of the combustion products which would distort the airblast.

Inside The Capitol

SANTA FE—State Democrats got through their fall meeting in Ruidoso last weekend without the bloodshed that marked last spring's gathering in Albuquerque.

Republicans met at the same time in their new stronghold of Rio Rancho and decided to play it safe.

In Ruidoso, Democrats had their usual spirited debate over resolutions, with some passing or failing by razor-thin margins, while in Rio Rancho Republicans decided it was too risky to discuss their platforms every two years. The state GOP will stick with its current document until 1994, partly to postpone another abortion debate and partly due to the cost of holding platform hearings.

Animosity that marked the last state Demo meeting stayed under the surface this time. But, not to worry. Those who like political excitement know it was just a lull in the action.

No elections were held at this meeting. Next April, Democrats will be electing a national committeeman and committeewoman. The Demo presidential race will also generate excitement, assuming there is still more than one contender left that late in the game.

Unlike previous Demo meetings at this point in an election cycle, there was no activity surrounding the presidential race at the Ruidoso meeting. Mary Sue Gutierrez, temporary state coordinator for Sen. Tom Harkin of Iowa, had planned to distribute material and show a video, but the Harkin campaign didn't get anything to New Mexico in time.

John Pound, chairman of the state branch of the Democratic Leadership Council, had been expected by many to head Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton's campaign. Clinton resigned his position as chairman of the national DLC last month to announce his presidential bid.

But Pound says he won't be connected with Clinton's campaign in any way, since the DLC is an issues organization that does not support candidates. The national group was organized a few years ago as a moderate caucus, seen by many as an effort to balance the influence of the Rainbow Coalition.

The only presidential talk came from a representative of the Democratic National Committee, who presented a slide show designed to convince Democrats that Pres. George Bush's re-election is not a foregone conclusion. The DNC staffer presented polling data showing a public attitude that our next president should be chosen based on domestic issues such as the economy and that Bush's numbers are bad on any domestic issue.

It will, of course, be remembered that Bush trailed Democratic presidential candidate Michael Dukakis by 17 points the day after his nomination and less than a month later had already pulled ahead. Bush's spurt was due to his being 17 months ahead of the Democrats in planning. The GOP nominee took over a campaign organization that had been running smoothly for almost two years.

According to the DNC representative, next year's Demo winner will enjoy similar advance preparations.

Republicans also talked presidential politics and signaled that much of next year's campaign debate will center around whether Pres. Bush is spending too much time on foreign affairs. U.S. Rep. Steve Schiff pointed to three of the president's domestic initiatives Democrats have allowed to die in Congress.

The Other Side

By OWEN RUSSELL

If this column seems a little hurried and contrived, it is because of all the sleep I have missed this year. Last spring I lost a hour of sleep when I had to start getting up earlier when we went on Daylight Saving time, and this past Sunday, I lost another one when I got up an hour earlier than I should have. It has been said the purpose of Daylight Saving time is to save energy, but with this loss of sleep, I am beginning to wonder whose energy they are talking about. In the spring, you are supposed to get started earlier and waste less daylight and go to bed earlier. In the fall, it just seems like it takes longer to get later. Oh, well, I should be used to it by March or so.

Benjamin Franklin is supposed to be one of the early advocates of Daylight Saving time, but he had less of it than we do now.

When you used to have to arise before the crack of dawn to milk a cow, chop wood, haul water, feed the chickens, check the still, feed the horses and describe the mules, and do all this before breakfast, you didn't have much time for anything else. Today, we spend more time with personal hygiene and things than poor old Ben could afford, but it still takes as long to get out into the world, but you usually are more acceptable. By the time you arise, make yourself presentable, listen to Paul Harvey, watch Willard Scott and Popeye, read the paper and labor through a couple of pieces of toast and jelly, or other high-cholesterol breakfast foods, you are hard-pressed to have any spare time before you have to embark on your daily search for bacon, or whatever it is people bring home these days.

I decided a long time ago in my domestic arrangement, that if we were to share chores, I would prefer to do the cooking. I have an abject fear of water which contains any type of compound designed to remove undesirable residue from culinary utensils, and just the thought of such activity throws me into an uncontrollable panic. When I asked my psychologist, Oliver U. Headshrink, about it, he said it was simply a case of Hydrophobia which is commonly found amongst urban professional chicanerist cretins (UPCHUCK's), and is treatable only by complete segregation from the source of infection. Although I didn't exactly agree that he had fully diagnosed my affliction, I decided not to take any chances and have since refrained from entering the kitchen when the daily ritual of "doing the dishes" was in progress.

One of my favorite recipes is for Creme de

Corn Flakes, which goes so well with yesterday's coffee and overdone toast and butter. This is a regular at our house, especially since we have to get through with breakfast an hour earlier than we would if Old Ben hadn't meddled with the clock.

I was asked to enter some of my chile in the annual Chile Cook-off in Ruidoso this year, but I decided against it because I didn't want to embarrass anyone. It is amazing what you can do to a poor unsuspecting pound of hamburger and still call it "chile." Only your hairdresser will know for sure.

I note that the town of Carrizozo will soon be a haven for well-heeled lawbreakers when the Board of Trustees removes the jail penalty from the criminal code. If you can afford it, anything goes. If not, I hope your credit is good.

I understand that putting people in jail is an expensive business, but it is the American Way. This smacks of attacks on Mother, Apple Pie, and Congressional Employees. How can we exist in a world where nobody goes to jail? How can you train your children if you can't tell them, "Son, if you don't straighten out, you are going to wind up in jail," if we don't have any jails. Think of all the people who will be put out of work from this innovation. We will have police officers, jailhouse lawyers, judges, jailhouse cooks, and filing

HALLOWEEN HOLIDAY TIPS

This issue of Lincoln County News (Thursday, Oct. 31) marks another Halloween holiday. Carrizozo and Capitan each have carnivals at their schools. Still, there will be trick-or-treaters on the street. There will be homeowners that will welcome the make-believe witches and goblins.

Parents and others who are driving tonight should be extra cautious. Costumed children will be darting in and out of streets. Children who are collecting treats should be warned to look left and right before stepping off the curb and into the street.

If possible, children should use makeup as a mask. Children wearing plastic or rubber masks should be extra careful so that vision is not obstructed.

Children's costumes should be light-colored or have reflected strips.

Baggy or very large costumes cause children to trip.

A flashlight is handy to guide the way or for finding dropped items.

Children should not eat any of their goodies until they get home and parents can inspect the treats.

An adult or teen should accompany younger children. Strangers in town may be lurking around the community.

School carnivals are a good source for Halloween fun...a place to show off costumes or an opportunity to see a variety of creative get-ups.

HALLOWEEN GEOGRAPHY

Some of America's place-names sound as if they're associated with Halloween. Do you know anyone from these places?

Tombstone, Arizona...Skull Point, Colorado...Water Witch, New Jersey...Monsterville, California...Mummy Cave, Wyoming...Bigwitch Gap, North Carolina...Skeleton Springs, South Dakota...Dread and Terror Ridge, Oregon...Goblin Valley, Utah...Devils Dish, Alaska.

MONSTER BASH

It's never too late to plan a monster bash.

To make a monster hand for the punch bowl fill a rubber glove with water. Tie up the wrist of the glove with string or a rubber band. When the water in the glove is frozen, run the glove under hot water for a few seconds. This loosens up the rubber. Carefully peel the glove off the ice. Place the ice hand in the punch bowl filled with your favorite punch.

Serve "sand-witches." Make ham or baloney sandwiches. The outside of the top bread slices has olive eyes, a pickle nose and a piece of celery for a mouth. Grated carrot is used to frame her face for hair. Half a slice of cheese can become her pointy hat.

NOW YOU KNOW

There are many names of monsters that people tell about in myths and legends. How many are familiar to you?

Loch Ness Monster — is said to be a prehistoric creature in a lake in Scotland.

Big Foot — part man and part ape, this creature is said to live in North America.

Jaws — a giant, man-eating shark.

Abominable snowman — similar to Big Foot, this creature supposedly lives in the Himalaya mountains.

Hydra — A many-headed water serpent killed by Hercules.

Minotaur — a woman whose hair was made of snakes, her face turned people to stone.

Geryon — a hideous giant killed by Hercules.

Cyclops — a man-eating-giant with only one eye.

Sirens — evil women whose beautiful voices led ships to destruction.

Roc — a giant bird whose wings blotted out the sun in the story of Sinbad.

MONSTER RIDDLES

And now for the light of heart who enjoy ghoulish giggles now and then:

How do monsters get into locked cemeteries? They use skeleton keys.

What do you get when you cross a monster with a drip-dry suit? A wash-and-werewolf.

What do ghosts call their navy? The Ghost Guard.

How do vampires travel? By blood vessel.

What is a monster called who eats its mother and father? An orphan.

Why didn't the skeleton cross the road? It didn't have the guts.

Why do vampires brush their teeth? To prevent bat breath.

What goes "Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, thud! thud!" A monster laughing its head off with these riddles.

What do monsters drink while watching games? Ghoul-aid.

Tigers take it on the chin

Oh, what a loss. First the Cloudercroft Bears came to Capitan and mauled the Tigers on the football field for homecoming Oct. 18. Then the Lady Bears came over to Capitan on Saturday Oct. 26 and worked the Lady Tigers right out of a match.

"Our serving game killed us," said a disappointed Lady Tiger Coach Pam Allen. "The girls lost concentration and quit doing the things that got us here."

Saturday's match was the only time the Lady Tigers played the Cloudercroft girls this season. The loss to the Lady Bears put the Capitan girls in second place in District 5A with a season record of 13 wins and three losses.

"We could have been undefeated," Allen said. But she looks for the girls to come back over the loss to Cloudercroft to play tough at the district tournament semi-finals and finals Friday and Saturday, Nov. 1 and 2.

The Lady Tigers do not play until Friday, when they will play the team which comes out of the first two days of the tournament Tuesday and Thursday. On Tuesday, Loving is set to play Hondo and Lake Arthur will play Hagerman. Thursday, the match will be played by the winners of the Tuesday matches.

Friday's match begins at 5 p.m. in Cummins Gym in Capitan. The final match for the tournament championship is set for 7 p.m. in Cloudercroft. The Lady Bears are first in the district and get to ride out the tournament until the final night.

The top two teams in the district will advance to the regional tournament set for the week of Nov. 4 at Ft. Sumner High School. The state contest, where the top two finishers from the regional tournament play, will be held at Moriarty High School the week of Nov. 11. The Lady Tigers had a good away match with Hagerman Oct. 24 winning that one in three games: 15-12, 15-7 and 15-5. Stacy Gowen made six unanswered service points in the first game, Tammy Payne made three, Jennifer Eldridge and Anita Aldaz made two each. In the second game, Gowen made five straight points, Eldridge made four, Payne and Aldaz made two each. Kelly Cox made eight service points in the final game, Eldridge made four, Gowen and Aldaz made three each.

But too many errors and leaving the middle of their court unguarded contributed to the Saturday night loss to Cloudercroft.

The Capitan girls got off to a good start, winning the first game 15-5. Aldaz aced the first two points and lead her team on a roll that never let Cloudercroft catch up. Aldaz made eight service points. The blocking team of Eldridge and Payne was effective during that first game. And Eldridge had her spikes fine tuned.

But somewhere after that first game, the girls seemed to lose concentration. The Lady Bears soon scored to tie the Lady Tigers early at 2-2. The seasaw of points continued throughout the game, with the Capitan girls only ahead for five points. But Capitan errors gave the Lady Bears the chance to tie the score at 7-7, then pull ahead to win 15, Capitan 8. Aldaz made three service points, Tylic Traylor made three, Gowen and Payne made one each.

The Lady Bears were a good match for the Lady Tigers, blocking and saving many of the Capitan girls' spikes and slams.

Game three started off with a controversial point called for Capitan. The scores seasawed from Capitan to Cloudercroft. Capitan's Kelly Cox stepped up to the service line with the score at 4-6 and stayed there for five series to make the score 9-6. But a good block by Cloudercroft gave them the ball, which they used to tie with the Lady Tigers at 11-11. Although the Lady Tigers had the serve several times, their numerous errors kept giving the serve to the Cloudercroft team. The Lady Bears had seen the unguarded hole in the Lady Tigers' middle court, and sent the ball there enough times to take the lead and win the match: 15-11.

The Lady Tigers bounced back somewhat in the fourth game. Although the Lady Bears scored first, the Capitan's Gowen came to serve and made five straight points to take the lead at 5-2. They held it until they tied at 5-5. Then it was back and forth again on the scoring, until Aldaz made a scoring run from 9-8 until the 15th point for the game win: 15-8.

The final game started and ended with Cloudercroft scoring. A lead of three points was overcome by the Lady Tigers when Gowen served four straight points to tie with Cloudercroft. Eldridge made three to give her team the lead at 8-6. Cloudercroft then had five straight points until Lady Tiger Kelly Cox served, making three more, including a ace, to make the score 11-10. A net ball gave the serve to the Lady Bears who soon were at 11-11.

But that was as far as the Capitan girls were to go with the scoring, too many errors sent the ball back to Cloudercroft. A technical call gave the Lady Bears the 14th point, discouraging the Lady Tigers even further. The Lady Bears won the game 15-11 to take the district match. That win put the Cloudercroft girls in first place in the district and gave the Lady Tigers the second berth.

The junior varsity team defeated the Hagerman JV and lost to the Cloudercroft JV in an emotion-filled, tightly scored match Saturday.

At Hagerman Oct. 24, the JV girls won in three: 7-15, 15-10 and 15-6. Stacy Sidwell made four service points in the first game, Michelle Payton made two and Jessica Cline made one. In the second game, Jessica Cline made seven, Payton made four, Sidwell made three and Tracey Stone made one. In the final game, Sidwell made three and Tracey Stone made one. In the final game, Payton made four straight points, Jessica Cline made two and Amy Cline made one.

When the Lady Bears came to play, the JV Lady Tigers struggled back from a first game loss of 10-15, to win the second game 15-10, but lost in the third game 14-16 to lose the match.

Stone made four straight in the first game, Sidwell and Amy Cline made one each. In the second game Sidwell made eight, Payton three, Stone two and Amy Cline one.

In the final game, Amy Cline made five, Alma Lively made four, Payton made two and Stone made one.

The semi-final district match will be played at 7 p.m. in Cummins Gym Friday, Nov. 1.

The championship is set for 7 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 2 in Cloudercroft.

Lady Grizzlies show improvement

Carrizozo's Lady Grizzlies volleyball team has come a long way this year. Comments from other schools and coaches about the team's improvement have given the girls and their coach Kay Patterson much to be proud of.

"I've enjoyed this year tremendously," said Patterson. "They are a great group of girls." She also credited the support from the parents and school.

She noted the girls' immeasurable improvement since the start of the season. "They came together as a team in the last few games," she added.

The district tournament started Tuesday night when Mountainair came to Carrizozo and lost to the Lady Grizzlies in four games: 15-9, 15-7, 14-16, 15-10.

Micah Schlarb made nine straight points in the first game. Renee Roper made five, Amy Funk one. In the second game, Yvonne Estrella made six straight points, Schlarb made five straight and Cheryl Hightower made four straight. Hightower made five in the third game, Estrella four, Schlarb two and Roper and Funk one each. In the final game, Hightower made seven, Schlarb three, Roper and Estrella two each and Lori Gibson one.

The Carrizozo girls will play in Vaughn at 8 p.m. in the second round of district action. District finals will be in Ft. Sumner Friday.

But the match with Mountainair Friday, Oct. 24, was a different story. With sick the Lady Grizzlies found a tough match which they eventually lost in five games: 7-15, 16-14, 9-15, 15-7 and 12-15.

Funk and Rachel Archuleta made two service points in the first game, Lynette Hernandez, Estrella and Hightower made one each. In the second game, Hernandez made seven, Estrella, Funk, Roper made two each and Hightower made three. In the third game Roper made four, Funk and Hightower made two each and Estrella made one. Estrella made four in the fourth game, Natalie Chavez, Funk and Hightower made three each and Roper made two. In the final game, Chavez made three, Hernandez, Estrella, Hightower and Gibson made two each. Archuleta made one.

The Lady Grizzlies breezed by the Corona Lady Cardinals at home Oct. 23, in three games: 15-4, 15-4, 15-4. Gibson made five points in the first game, Hightower made four, Roper and Funk made three each. In the second game Funk made five, Estrella made four, Roper three, Archuleta and Gibson and Amanda Vega made one each. In the final game, Funk made 8, Hightower made three, Jennifer Luna made two, Julie Gallegos and Roper made one each.

Results of the last regular season junior varsity and junior high volleyball matches, as well as the results of the district matches will be in next week's edition of The News.

Capitan thespians applauded

Bravo!

Capitan High School thespians delighted the crowd with their performance of "Hillbilly Wedding" by Le Roma Greth. Performing to a larger-than-expected group, the drama students executed their lines well, bringing their characters to life and gave the audience quite a few chuckles.

Tylic Traylor's portrayal of the character Ceelie, a girl who had taken no baths in her life and needed a husband, was superb! She executed her lines very well and added spirit and energy to the part.

Alma Lively as Maw, kept the brood of kids, and Paw, in line. Her characterization of the part was funny and well done. Daniel Parker's Paw was the stereotyped "lazy hillbilly" who resorted to the use of a shotgun to snare a husband for his elder daughter Ceelie. Robert Witham's Obeey really had eyes for Ceelie, yet was afraid of the girl's pet rattlesnakes, kept by her bed. But Chiz, a friend, knows Ceelie isn't for him, even with a shotgun pointed at him.

It took Abin Crandell's Ronald, a young doctor traveling with his aunt, played by Marisa Valenzuela, to shake Obeey up a bit. After Ronald's car breaks down near the Belsnickle's mountain cabin in the hills of Kentucky, he and his aunt seek help from the hillbilly family. There Ceelie first sees Ronald and decides—his the man for me. But her sister Bonnie Mae (Jennifer Eldridge), who has a keen interest in books and schooling, also sees Ronald and is interested, too.

While the older girls are dreaming over Ronald, the little sisters, known as Four (Margorie Nevez), Five (Jennifer Montoya), Six (Dawn Stricker) and Junie Lour (Janelle Ware) go about their daily chores and talk about the older girls. Mrs. Maxwell, Ronald's aunt, refined and letting everyone know that adds her snobbery to the situation, for a mix of silly antics and lines. Ceelie decides she wants Ronald, and employs Paw's help, by use of shotgun. But Paw decides his daughter would almost be pretty with a bath. After pulling Ceelie, screaming and kicking, to her bath, then getting her into a dress, the pastor (Jason Trujillo) is called. Cousin Zeke's band is called and a wedding set inside the cabin.

Without Ronald knowing he was the groom. Sister Junie Lour saves the day by pretending a bite from one of Ceelie's pet snakes, which she also pretends to lose. She runs off to find Dr. Ronald to get treated for the bite.

Once the snakes are gone, Obeey looks at Ceelie in a different light. Meanwhile Cousin Zeke's (Aaron Quintana) brought Ronald to the back country to show him a bit of humility and the band played on.

During the intermissions following each act, brownies, coffee and punch were served. Brownies were baked by parents of the cast. Drama teacher Molly Weber directed the three-act comedy. Stormy Trost was in charge of set design and was the crew chief. His crew included Justin James, James Gieb and Aaron Quintana. Amy Palk was in charge of the props and Agatha Long produced the program and was in charge of tickets.—DORIS CHERRY.

Magistrate Court

Get to know your New Mexico laws, from the office of Magistrate Judge Gerald Dean Jr. in Carrizozo.

What is the "open container" law and how are violators punished? Can a driver be punished if passengers are in the back seat drinking alcohol while the vehicle is moving?

New Mexico's "open container" law, Section 66-8-138, NMSA 1978, is intended to discourage drinking and driving. It prohibits the driver and ALL passengers from drinking alcohol while in a vehicle upon any public highway. The law also makes it illegal to knowingly have an open container of alcohol while in a vehicle upon any public highway, even if no one is drinking from the container.

It is legal to have an open container of alcohol in the trunk, or when the vehicle has no trunk, in some area not normally occupied by the driver or passengers. A glove compartment is considered to be within the area occupied by the driver and passengers.

It is also legal to have an open container of alcohol in the living quarters of a motor home or recreational vehicle, in a truck camper, or in the bed of a pickup truck when the bed is occupied by passengers.

The open container law does not apply to people who carry alcoholic beverages in their vehicles for medicinal purposes, upon advice of a doctor. It also does not apply to clergy or their agents who carry alcoholic beverages in their vehicle for religious purposes.

A first violation of the open container law is punishable by a fine of $25, plus court costs which average $30. For a second or subsequent violation, an offender is fined up to $300 and/or sentenced to jail for up to 90 days. In addition, a second violation results in revocation of the driver's license for three months, and a third subsequent violation results in revocation of the driver's license for one year.

Legal information was taken from a feature in the publication "None for the Road."

The following persons appeared before Magistrate Judge Dean recently:

Kenneth C. Mullins, 45, Shreveport, La.; bound over to district court on two 1990 charges of distribution of Psilocybin mushrooms. Mullins was extradited from Louisiana Oct. 8. He waived his preliminary before Magistrate Judge Jim Wheeler acting on vacationing Judge Dean's behalf.

Rodney Griego, 17, Ft. Stanton; following too closely, $26 fine and costs and ordered to fulfill community service.

Morgan H. Clough, 51, El Paso, Texas; speeding 74/55 zone, no insurance; $52 court costs and fees.

Jim Selby of Carrizozo ordered to pay $119.72 for settlement of debts to Ranchers' True Value Hardware and Joe Hootan and $25 court costs.

Adrian Diaz, 34, El Paso; no driver's license; $138 bond forfeited.

Oscar D. Estrada; 25, Borger, Texas; speeding 71/55, no driver's license; $181 bond forfeited.

Lopez G. Maurillo, 36, Denver, Colo.; no insurance, $136 bond forfeited.

Miguel Vargas, 29, Santa Fe, no insurance; $36 court costs after proof of insurance submitted.

Paul E. Hernandez, 19, Carrizozo; minor in possession of alcohol; 50 hours of community service ordered and court costs of $30.

Lincoln full of history

Historic Lincoln has a niche in the history of the old West totally out of proportion to its present size (population 65).

It was the county seat of the largest county in the United States, covering one-fourth of New Mexico, as well as being the focal point of the notorious Lincoln County War (1878-1879). Currently, it is one of the last remaining historic, but uncommercialized, western towns.

Billy the Kid blazed his way into history here. He rode with the regulators, helped ambush the sheriff, escaped from the burning McSween house, and cheated the hangman by shooting his way out of the old courthouse. But Lincoln's history consists of more than just outlaw violence. Nearby Ft. Stanton, Mesquero Apaches, gold strikes, sailors and tuberculosis all played an important role. Notable historic figures include Kit Carson, John Chisum, Susan McSween Barber, Pat Garrett, Lew Wallace, George Curry, Albert J. Fountain and John "Black Jack" Pershing.

Many Lincoln fans prefer to visit during the off-season. It is a pleasant, uncrowded time. For those of inquiring minds, questions asked during this season tend to receive more detailed answers from the town's interpretive staff. Curiously, Lincoln weather is generally milder than the surrounding mountain area, with warm days and chilly nights. Lincoln is a town to be savored; anticipate spending at least half a day here.

The historical center is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday and the old courthouse museum is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily through the end of this calendar year. The Historical Center presents a 12-minute slide show on Lincoln County history and the Lincoln County War. Both the museums contain artifacts and displays from the days of the old West. Though some of Lincoln's summer attractions are not open during the off-season, special arrangements may be made for groups; call 853-4372 for the Tunstall Store; and 653-4025 for Dr. Woods' House museum.

Women encouraged to run for office

Encourage qualified women to run for offices, urged Martha Proctor, Lincoln County clerk, speaking to Federated Republican Women of Lincoln County (FRWLC) at their October meeting recently.

"Women have all the qualifications necessary to serve in public office," she continued. "They're hard-working and familiar with community service." Proctor noted the influence of the National Federation of Republican Women in the success of women candidates nationally.

Support a qualified woman candidate, she concluded. Stand up and be counted or lie down and be counted out."

Preceding Proctor's program, members conducted a business meeting. Mildred Crocker and Don Weems spoke briefly, urging passage of school bonds in Ruidoso School District's upcoming elections.

Jack Page, Lincoln County Republican chairman, invited county Republicans to that group's monthly social, first Monday, to be held Nov. 4 at the Teepee Lounge at Ruidoso High School.

FRWLC's Christmas party and dinner will be Sunday, Dec. 8, at Carrizo Lodge beginning at 5 p.m. In lieu of a gift exchange, members and guests will bring a donation to "Santacops."

FRWLC's next meeting is Tuesday, Nov. 26, at Carrizo Lodge. For further information, call 336-4050.

DECISION MEMO INDIAN SPRINGS PRESCRIBED BURN

MOUNTAINAIR RANGER DISTRICT
 Lincoln County, New Mexico

A scoping process that discusses the methods for fuel hazard reduction on 800 acres of National Forest in the Gallinas Mountains near Corona, New Mexico, T. 1 S., R. 11 E., Sections 8, 10, 15, and 16, is available for public review at the Mountainair Ranger District Office in Mountainair, New Mexico. The scoping process identifies issues, concerns, objectives, and evaluations of five different alternatives which include No Action, Mechanical (chipping), fuel wooding, File and Burn, and Broadcast Burning.

Biological evaluation and cultural resource clearance have been completed and approved and are on file at the Mountainair Ranger District office.

Based on the analysis and evaluation process carried out, it is my decision to implement the prescribed broadcast burn alternative. This action is in conformance with Forest Service policy and regulations, and direction set forth in the Gibola National Forest Land and Resource Management Plan.

I have determined through the Scoping process and from past experience that this action will not individually or cumulatively have any significant effect on the human environment and is categorically excluded from any further environmental analysis.

This decision is subject to appeal in accordance with 36 CFR Part 217. A Notice of Appeal must be in writing and clearly state that it is a Notice of Appeal being filed pursuant to 36 CFR 217. Appeals must be fully consistent with 36 CFR 217.9, "Content of Notice of Appeal" and must be filed with C. Phil Smith, Forest Supervisor, Gibola National Forest, 2113 Osuna Rd. NE, Suite A, Albuquerque, N.M. 87113, within 45 days from the date of publication of the legal notice in the Citizen and Lincoln County paper. Implementation of this decision will take place when weather and fuel conditions are in prescription and not less than 7 days after publication of this Decision Memo.

For additional information concerning this decision, contact District Ranger Frank Martinez, Mountainair Ranger District, P.O. Box E, Mountainair, New Mexico 87036, (505) 847-2990.

Wanna get in shape? Call Yolanda

An aerobic exercise program that gets results quickly is quickening the pulses of several Lincoln County people.

Yolanda Cline of Capitan has three different classes of people getting into shape with the Reebok Step Training method. To classes in Carrizozo, Capitan, and Ruidoso, Cline teaches the low-impact, high intensity work out that incorporates the use of a step and some type of restraints or weights. The program not only builds cardiovascular strength and endurance, it tones the lower and upper body at the same time.

Participants build their own steps by plans provided by Cline and begin with a four inch height. As they master each height, students raise the step by two inches.

Participants monitor their own heart rates during the workout.

"It's an aerobic program anybody can do," said Cline. She claims the program burns 35 percent more fat and 60 percent more calories than a regular aerobic workout. "You'll get results quicker."

The step method not only incorporates the step, participants stretch, do abdominal work on the floor and use restraints or weights to tone muscles.

"It's great for stress," said one student in Carrizozo.

Cline gives her students variety each class by doing a different routine. But she emphasizes the need to learn to concentrate, to utilize both sides of the brain. "A body-brain workout," she said.

This summer Cline worked with the Carrizozo High School football team on an intense step method. She also started the workout class which met at the school after work.

Now, with basketball season demanding the space in the old Carrizozo gym for practice, Cline's class had moved to the Carrizozo Rec Center. The classes in Carrizozo are held at 6 p.m. Monday and Wednesday. The first class is free, thereafter classes are $3 each time.

Cline's classes in Capitan are held at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday at the Lord's Church on 2nd Street (behind the Hitching Post). She also teaches the Reebok Step Program at 9 a.m. Tuesday and Thursday and 5:30 p.m. Friday, all at the Ruidoso Athletic Club by the Ruidoso Police Station.

To get on the step with Cline, call her at 354-2886 for more information.

Debbie Hobbs will be returning to Ruidoso State Bank in Capitan Branch. Renee Cupit will be staying home with her family.

Check out the new extended menu at the Zia Grill, formerly Cafe Ole.

Sam and Kata Conn became proud parents of a son Zachary Shane, 8 lbs. and 1 oz., Oct. 9.

Happy Birthday Maxine Wright and Elisa Reamy, both on the 29th.

Mary Bailey is undergoing surgery. Our prayers and best wishes for a safe recovery.

Howard and Maxine Wright attended Howard's 50th year school reunion at O'Donnell, Texas, over the weekend. There was a large attendance.

We are happy that Mickie Griego was selected as Homecoming Queen. Her father, Henry Griego, and stepmother Lorene, hope that she will be very happy. The school certainly had a good enchilada dinner. Mickie marched in the parade for homecoming.

We are happy to report that Alice Martinez of Hobbs, and formerly of Capitan, is progressing nicely following her very serious surgery. She is the mother of Carol Martinez, the friendly little lady in Town and Country Hardware. Bennie Peterson, manager of the Town and Country, which is already a fully-stocked hardware store, alerts all pet owners, big and small, that he is now handling Hi-Pro Feeds. So, if our pet gets hungry, no need to drive those extra miles.

Capitan is really a great place to live. The people are very friendly, every need you have can be satisfied in our little community and we continue to attract tourists and new residents because of its ideal living conditions and wonderful climate!

Don't forget the pancake breakfast at Sacred Heart Church Hall next Sunday, Nov. 3, starting at 8 a.m. Tickets are $3 for everyone, young and old.

The trees in your yard can add up to 20 percent to the value of your property, according to landscape appraisers. So, woodman, spare that tree!

Congratulations to our Inez Marrs. New Mexico Democrats met at the Inn of the Mountain Gods Saturday for the Second Congressional District's Hall of Fame Celebration. Several democrats were lauded for their distinguished service to their state and their nation. Inez Marrs of Capitan was one of the honorees. Again, our congratulations, Inez.

The open house honoring Lorene and Larry Caywood was most successful. A great crowd enjoyed the beautiful paintings by Lorene and the magnificent southwestern furniture handcrafted by Larry. We are so fortunate to have such distinguished artists in Capitan. We are also honored to have such a beautiful gallery in our little community in which to display the talents of our local artists. If you have not already made the acquaintance of David and Betty Posley, the new owners of the gallery, and I might add, new members of our community, then I strongly advise you to do so. How fortunate we are to have them and their gallery.

Until next week, happy thoughts.
