Socialized medicine eyed at LCMC session

By AL STUBBS
Ruidoso Bureau

"I think we're headed toward socialized medicine. The question is when," Lincoln County Medical Center trustees were told at a board meeting, Thursday evening, November 21.

Speaking was Mike Funk, vice president in the Regional Administration, Presbyterian Health Services. LCMC is part of the statewide PHS.

Politically health care will be a major issue in 1992, Funk said. The informal socialized medicine discussion came about when Sally Avery, a LCMC Auxiliary representative at the meeting, said she has been advised most of her life by family to be wary of socialized medicine.

"Do I need to be afraid?" she asked.

Funk said that in today's world it probably would only mean that all citizens in the country would have health care available "at taxpayer's expense."

Dr. Arlene Brown, hospital chief of staff, commented, "I don't feel scared of it. Maybe I should."

Hospital Administrator Valerie Miller said she grew up (in Scotland) under socialized medicine. She said it just means "no frills" and longer waiting for medical services.

Avery reported on the auxiliary-Altrusa Club-sponsored mammogram program. She said 300 women had mammograms at LCMC; Seventy-nine women out of the 300 had somewhat abnormal x-rays, while six had definite positive results.

Miller reported all activity levels down in October. "Net revenue was down $16,513 from September 1991 but up $15,933 from October 1990 resulting in a loss of $52,770 for the month. If the mill levy amount is subtracted the actual loss for the month is $100,000," a report showed.

Lincoln County residents will be asked to approve a continuation of a mill levy next year to meet indigent care requirements. This is if the New Mexico Legislature doesn't mandate some other system for financing indigent care.

Year to date performance shows net revenue at $3,392,531 or $281,306 ahead of this time last year but $144,736 behind budget. On the bright side, the Carrizozo Health Center shows a gain of $2,715 for September and a year to date loss of $6,320 despite $103,243 in mill level funding, Miller reported.

The ambulance company shows a loss of $6,757 for October and a year to date gain of $3,076.

AS A CAMERAMAN from Channel 7 in Albuquerque films, KOAT's Ed Lopez interviews Cheryl Hightower. The Carrizozo High School senior is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Hightower.

Outstanding students to be featured on TV

By DORIS CHERRY

Two outstanding Lincoln County student athletes will be television celebrities this week.

Albuquerque television station KOAT's Sky 7 helicopter flew into Lincoln County Thursday, Nov. 21, to present the "Top Gun" award to Carrizozo High School senior Cheryl Hightower and Corona High School senior Garrett Marshall for their outstanding accomplishments in sports and academics. Videotape of the awards presentations will be aired during the 6-6:30 p.m. Action 7 News report by Terry McDermott this Friday, Nov. 29.

The "Top Gun" program, sponsored by KOAT-TV and Sonic Drive-Ins of New Mexico, highlights well-rounded student athletes who serve as positive role models to their fellow students. The recipients of the weekly Top Gun awards are announced each Tuesday night during the 6-6:30 p.m. KOAT news.

Sky 7 helicopter landed at Carrizozo Airport last Thursday afternoon, with Carrizozo High School the destination. Students turned out to see Cheryl Hightower honored for her many athletic and academic accomplishments. She received a plaque, a "scrambled eggs" Top Gun cap and a $10 gift certificate from Sonic Drive-Ins.

Cheryl is currently president of the Carrizozo High School student council, secretary of the National Honor Society, vice president of the school's FFA Chapter, captain of the volleyball and basketball teams, involved in her church youth group, a participant in Science Fair and in 4-H. She was selected as an All-District team player in volleyball in 1990 and 1991 and for basketball all-district in 1990.

Sky 7 and KOAT-TV representatives were at Corona High School Thursday morning to honor Garrett Marshall. In front of the entire student body, the Corona senior was honored for his athletic accomplishments—

Who is this guy?

By BILLY LEE HARMAN

When Cleve Powell, your publisher and editor, asked me to come to Lincoln County from my original home in Michigan, to help him operate his newspaper, he also delivered a caveat. He said, "Don't be abrasive. This is a small town. You know how that goes."

Well, no I don't. Driving to my hometown from the north on U.S. 27, one reaches the top of a hill and first sees, rising above the maples, the Presbyterian steeple. Continuing to the center of town, one reaches the town square. In it are Civil War cannons and the pine that Coldwater decorates each Christmas. Around it are the courthouse and the library, and the town's two oldest funeral homes.

Fine. A typical small town. But what really is there? Last summer, when a tornado blew down the Christmas tree, the town the next day replaced it with one already grown nearly as large, suggesting that the town does care about such things. That's fine too, but if you wish to keep that image of peace on earth or good will to man, don't go to Lefty's Lounge or the Lamplighter.

In those places you can find all the degeneracy of the largest cities, from fist fights to drug dealing to just plain dirt. When the First Baptist Church was demolished in favor of a new building, the Lamplighter bought some of its pews, for bar furniture. How's that for respect for the great traditions of church on Sunday, apple pie, etc.? But on the other hand, the tradition of taverns in Coldwater grew out of the farmers gathering to play cards on market days.

So, adding to this my other travels, and my having resided all over the world, from New Orleans to Afghanistan, I've come to think of small towns or any places not so much in terms of how small they are or how much of an outsider I may be, but in terms of how expansive the inside really is. So I have to thank Cleve partly in that one of the first persons to whom he introduced me was Cecilia Kuhnel, the honorable mayor of Carrizozo, who is from New York and has taught in a university system populated by more students than Lincoln County has men, women, and children.

And of course Cleve took me further. He took me to the Outpost Bar and Grill, with its wonderful green chile burgers that I couldn't eat without a fork, and that huge animal head staring from the wall, and that snake skin behind the bar. That, I suppose, is inside. But he also introduced me to Hal Marx, the new airport manager, who is from outside but is trying to build some great inside stuff to give new wings to the youth of Lincoln County.

Of course Cleve also introduced me to Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs, showing me what a tourist draw the race track is and the care taken there to reinstate the historic flavor that remains authentic in Lincoln. And, having spent most of my business life in hotel marketing, I was excited to learn of the championship golf course in Ruidoso and of Mr. Hubbard's project to build a Radisson convention hotel to bring more outsiders into that already attractive setting.

But I feel that for me the biggest eye opener to the grand scale of Lincoln County was our trip to the White Oaks Saloon, which we took in a certainly extremely outside way. First, we entered that old establishment populated by dogs and goats and real live gold miners, dressed in business suits. So we could have been in deep trouble and perhaps should have worried about the possibility when we were greeted by someone saying, "What are you, Baptist preachers?"

WILLIAM H. COX, member of the Billy the Kid Outlaw Gang and twice winner of its Billy the Kid look-alike contest.

But they didn't shoot us or cut our throats or beat us to death or drag us down the street on a rope tied to a horse or any of that nasty stuff we could have imagined. Instead we spent most of the remainder of the evening swapping jokes and hearing Curtis play the fiddle and learning names and some history, such as of that grand house across the road. At some point, someone said, "How come you're dressed like that and talk like us?" I don't know whether the question was sincere or just polite, but at least it was welcoming.

But why should we be surprised? Among that group were several people

Director anticipates Civic Center

By AL STUBBS
Ruidoso Bureau

Look beyond tomorrow! This has to be the motto of Kathleen Michelena, director of the Convention Bureau, Village of Ruidoso. Busy booking future use of the Civic Events Center, she also is selecting fabric for table skirting, planning furniture purchases and is otherwise gearing up for late 1992.

At present, the Civic Event center, a $1.9 million structure that will take care of 1,000 people at one time, is a slab of cement with another section of the foundation poured this week. Completion is set for late summer or early fall of 1992.

Michelena's office, a comfortable and spacious room on the second floor of the Ruidoso Village Hall, looks something like a catalog house and swatch display area. She also is working on a budget for furnishings for the center for presentation to the New Mexico Legislature in KATHLEEN MICHELENA keeps busy planning use of the Ruidoso Civic Events Center and booking tentative users. Here she deals with cloth swatches to select fabrics and colors for table skirts.

January of 1992. Some state funding will be sought for furnishings although some $13,500 has been stashed away over the last few years from lodger's tax. The money was earmarked for convention center furnishings.

Risers, stages, microphones, audio visual equipment, oil cans to lubricate squeaky hinges, Michelena and her boss, Ron Wicker, and the city have plenty to keep their minds busy.

Michelena expects civic groups and other groups in Lincoln County to be the primary users of the Civic Events Center, although state conventions and out-of-state conventions will be wooed actively.

Director anticipates . . .

A users fee schedule has been developed by the fully experienced convention-arranging veteran.

Michelena, a native of Arizona, came to Ruidoso from Phoenix, Arizona, where she was sales person for conventions and such at the Hyatt Regency Hotel there. She also has been the director of sales and marketing for a resort hotel in Mazatlan, Mexico. Her territory was the United States and Canada.

The exhibit hall in the center with meeting rooms will occupy 22,299 square feet of space. Other rooms also are available. The lobby itself will be 1,232 feet. Rental prices will vary depending on the use to be made of space, cheaper for conference style arrangement than for theatre-style, for instance.

Until the Civic Events Center is complete, Michelena has been booking meetings and conventions elsewhere. For instance, the Tourism Association of New Mexico will convene June 12-14, 1992, in Ruidoso, at the Swiss Chalet. Jill and Ron Andrews of the Golden Aspen Motorcycle Rally have reserved time at the center well into the future.

Some 600 delegates are expected September 23-27 when the New Mexico State Bar Association members descend on the Inn of the Mountain Gods, Carrizo Lodge, Swiss Chalet and Shadow Mountain Lodge and others.

Michelena says she has worked closely with lodgers since she first came to Ruidoso as director of the Convention and Visitors Bureau of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce. The village since has taken over the convention portion of that operation.

The Civic Events Center has been advertised through the New Mexico Society of Association Executives and via news releases to Texas, New Mexico and Arizona newspapers, TV stations and radio outlets. Eventually the center should be paired with a major hotel and a performing arts center; both are on hold in the wings currently. The complex sits amidst greens of a new championship golf course.

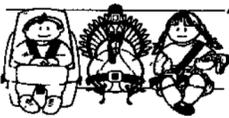

Ruidoso is being considered for a convention of the New Mexico Economic Development Department/

Municipal League in 1993. Most bookings at present are tentative.

To a large extent, local civic organizations will be counted on to bring meetings and conventions to Lincoln County. Who knows? One day Lions International members from Carrizozo, Capitan, and Ruidoso may join with all other Lions in the district for a superb convention at the Ruidoso Civic Events Center. Rotarians, Sertomans, Altrusans, Lionesses, Rotary Anns and others, too, can utilize the facility for state and even multi-state conventions.

After all, Lincoln County is the Playground of the Southwest. And promoters want to keep people on the Run to Ruidoso, and Lincoln, and Capitan and Carrizozo.

Ruidoso Chamber directors okay ad

By AL STUBBS
Ruidoso Bureau

Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce board of directors members voted at a regular board meeting, Wednesday evening, to participate in the cost of an advertisement placed in the Oakland, California, Tribune promoting the quality of life in Lincoln County.

The advertisement was conceived and developed by the Ruidoso Board of Realtors.

It shows golf, horseracing and skiing in photos and says Ruidoso is "the most cosmopolitan village in the nation."

Directors also agreed that the Chamber will not participate in the annual promotion by KNEW-TV in Portales this year because of budget limitations and a shortage of manpower. KNEW has staged Ruidoso Night each December when soliciting financial support. KNEW is an educational TV station on the campus of Eastern New Mexico University.

Director Jim Bassett reported on the need for a new roof and "change of pitch" on the existing roof to the board. Cost, he said, would run just over $5,000. The change of pitch should take care of a "pooling problem" which causes leaks, Jerry Watts, Chamber executive director, said.

Board members approved a budget to run the Chamber through June 30 of 1992.

The budget shows assets for $32,934 and total liabilities and equity of $25,238.

The board went into executive session to discuss personnel at the end of the open meeting.

from Mich., including proprietor, Jim Penrod from Traverse City, and Gary Allen, from Flint and a member of the Billy the Kid Outlaw Gang, founded by Marilyn Bowlin to help preserve inside events attractive to outsiders everywhere. So, at last, with long wind, I get to the point of the picture beside these words, a picture that to me speaks a thousand words.

Surely every subscriber to this newspaper knows that William H. Bonney, more commonly called Billy the Kid, may have been an outsider to society in general but was much of an insider in Lincoln County. Also, surely many of you recall the October 19 unveiling of the historical marker for Alexander Grzelachowski's store in Puerto de Luna, where Billy the Kid ate his last Christmas meal. I would rather that you do not remember, as Gary Allen correctly pointed out, that the Lincoln County News did not cover the event. That evening at the White Oaks Saloon, Cleve promised the Billy the Kid Outlaw Gang a public apology.

Hereby it is, and hereby also is a tribute to some questions that Billy the Kid's outlaw life continues to raise. Let's take two points that Gary presented to me at the news office the day after our visit to the White Oaks Saloon. First, although Billy is supposed to have killed his first man while wrestling with him on the floor of a saloon in Arizona, he good-humoredly lost a wrestling match on the floor of Grzelachowski's store. Second, how much of an outsider must the Polish Grzelachowski have been, while succeeding in Lincoln County as a businessperson, a postmaster, and a probate judge?

My point is that one thing I have not seen in Lincoln County is xenophobia, but have seen disagreement on what kind of insiderness Lincoln County should have. I have spoken with people who would like ruffraff, such as Billy the Kid certainly easily can be called, run out of town. And I have spoken with people who would like to preserve in the county the roughness of the old west. Gary Allen indicated the underlying dichotomy when he asked why Carrizozo lately is talking so much about William C. McDonald, its former resident and the first governor of New Mexico, and so little about Billy the Kid.

Well, my answer to Gary was that we need both. Whether Billy the Kid was scum or a hero, he continues to inspire imagination and creativity in people, and he is part of our history. I think our county sheriff, James McSwane, indicated agreement when he played the role of Pat Garrett, a predecessor of his, in the events of October 19, and I think an indication of the possibility of bringing good out of anything is indicated in the red ribbons youths passed out at the event, saying "Real life is drug free," supporting Governor King's war on drugs.

Moreover, I think the example of Billy the Kid can be directly positive, and I think the gentleman in the picture suggests how. His name is also William H.; like the earlier Billy, he lost his mother when he was a child and both Billies have an Irish ancestry. But we're not finding William H. Cox shooting convenience store clerks. We're finding him in public ceremonies such as the one in Puerto de Luna, honoring history and fighting drugs.

So, in this great historic county, we continue a history of amazing hospitality. We had an outsider Polish priest befriending an outsider Irish outlaw and together earning, for better or worse, historic significance. And now we have those great events working toward helping our youth and toward attracting more outsiders.

In other words, I think we need the new Radisson, and I think we need the White Oaks Saloon. I think we need to be what we are and to make new friends.

And, personally, I think the county for making me, another outsider named Billy, feel welcome.

Downs trustees agree to payments

The village of Ruidoso Downs is the first entity of six to agree to accept time payments over 15 years for its sanitation department equipment which will become a part of the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority when it becomes operative.

Trustees Monday night agreed to the proposal, as outlined to LCSWA members by SWA attorney Robert Beauvais in a meeting last week. All six entities must agree to accept time payments, a move which could put SWA into operation early next year. Entities are the village of Ruidoso, Ruidoso Downs, Capitan, Carrizozo, Corona and Lincoln County.

In other action Monday night, Ruidoso Downs trustees: — Approved a Ladies Auxiliary plan to decorate a five Christmas tree on the Older American Center property, to be visible from U.S. 70. A community Christmas carol sing will be staged December 12. Tony Parker will donate the tree, with the Fire Department doing the planting.

— Heard a literacy program presentation by Liz Munro.

— Approved Tony Armstrong as animal control officer.

— Agreed to look further into the plan to merge the police departments of Ruidoso Downs and Ruidoso, apparently at a cost savings to each village.

— Heard a report from trustee Jackie Branum, chairman of the Regional Wastewater Treatment Plant Joint Use Board concerning a loan agreement involving both Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs. The Downs will be responsible for repayment of 9 percent of a loan to be obtained by Ruidoso for repair and renovation of the waste water treatment plant used by both villages.

— Approved $200 from the lodger's tax toward the cost of an advertisement in an Oakland, California, newspaper. The ad has to do with the quality of life in Lincoln County. It is a joint effort involving the Ruidoso Board of Realtors and other entities.

— Negated a contract with new resident Charlie Armstrong to tear down the old village hall for salvage. Trustee Ray Fredrickson had filed a formal complaint, saying Armstrong is not a licensed contractor and that the village might be liable. Armstrong asked that an attorney general's opinion be sought on the matter.

— Approved an election resolution for the March 1992 village election.

— Learned that Humberto Maldonado has been re-elected fire chief; David Weinhrecht, assistant; Nick Herrera, captain, and Mike Walters, lieutenant.

Conservation districts to convene

The 45th Annual Convention of the New Mexico Association of Conservation Districts is slated for Dec. 2-4, at the Civic Center in Carlsbad.

Lincoln County conservation district members Knollene McDaniel, Sue Stearns, Clem and Grace Weindorff, Howard and Mary Shanks and Greg Hauser will join the nearly 200 conservationists expected to attend the three-day session.

Members will meet to discuss soil and water issues of the day and of the future, said NMACD president Louis Oliver of San Lorenzo. The theme of the meeting is "Conservation is the Answer."

Dec. 2 will be devoted to special committee meetings. The general sessions begin at 8 a.m. Tuesday, Dec. 3.

The keynote address will be given by Dennis Burns, Assistant Chief of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service, Washington, D.C. during the luncheon Tuesday.

Committee meetings on legislation, district operations, education, water resources, public lands, wildlife, recreation, environmental quality and related issues are scheduled for Tuesday afternoon. Also that afternoon will be a tour of brush management areas.

The second general sessions will begin at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday with committee reports, voting on NMACD resolutions and election of officers.

The conference will conclude with the annual awards luncheon. Among those to receive plaques recognizing their outstanding contributions to soil and water conservation in New Mexico will be cooperator Sid Goodloe from Upper Hondo Soil and Water District in the Capitan area. Goodloe was noted for his accomplishments in improving the land through sound conservation practices.

"We urge all who are interested in conservation to join us at the conference," Oliver said. "We expect this meeting to be one of the most informative and productive ever."

The association is a private, nonprofit organization of New Mexico's 47 soil and water conservation districts.

Applications viewed for EDCLC position

Over 30 applications have been received to replace Anita Sanders as executive director of the Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County.

Sanders has resigned effective November 30; she is moving to Reno, Nevada, where she will be married. EDCLC board member Scott Shafer of Carrizozo said a tour of Tommy Huey's steel manufacturing facility in Corona last Thursday was interesting. The EDC board conducted its November meeting at the school in Corona. Sanders' resignation was accepted at that meeting.

Shafer said a nominating committee will pare the 30 applications to five which will then be considered by the full board.

Next meeting will be January 16, 5:30 p.m., in the Hospital Conference Room.

Trustees approved George Landon, Corona school superintendent, to be on the Carrizozo Health Advisory Board. Trustee John Allen has resigned from that board after many years of service.

Evening Lions roast Doyle "Tiny" Howell

Ruidoso Evening Lions and his education cohorts homed in on Doyle "Tiny" Howell recently after a dinner at Cree Meadows Country Club. His character, physique and credibility were lampooned mercilessly by his friends.

It was all in fun as the Evening Lions staged a roast aimed at the retiring high school coach, athletic director, teacher and assistant principal at Ruidoso High School on his retirement.

Proceeds from the event will go to provide scholarships for high school students.

Howell grew up in Trent, Texas, which received its share of derogatory remarks during the roast. The former coach and athletic director came to Ruidoso from Jal.

His wife, Rachel, sat by his side and heled absorb the barbs which he returned double-fold when he got his turn at the microphone.

With tongue in cheek, Dub William, emcee, Dr. R.L. Annala, Dub Holt, Raymond McAdams, L. Ray Numley and his former boss, Tom Hansen, took turns trying to embarrass their old friend. He took it all in stride as did his spouse. And "Tiny" has a long stride.

● Thanksgiving 1991: Many things to be thankful for again this year. Everything may not be ideal—that is, exactly as we would have it—but there were no guarantees from the start, were there?

● Skiers got an early start at Ski Apache last Friday. Understand there were two feet of good snow up there. May the season be jolly—and profitable.

● The communications gap between the sexes is miles wide on the issue of sexual harassment. A poll in Washington was taken following the recent Judge Clarence Thomas-Professor Anita Hill confrontations before the nation. Its findings:

* 70 percent of the women polled who serve in the military said they had been sexually harassed.

* 50 percent of the women surveyed who work in Congressional offices declared they had been sexually harassed.

* 40 percent of the women polled who work for federal agencies said they had been sexually harassed.

The women said they consider sexual harassment to include vulgar language, suggestive jokes, comments about one's body and pressure to go on dates—especially by a boss or other superior.

The men polled had a rather different story. Some admitted to telling dirty jokes to females in the office. Quite a few said they ask women in their office for dates. Not a single male, however, believed he had sexually harassed women.

Seems there are a number of conclusions to be drawn here. The main one is that not all people are alike. Some women prefer to be treated as an equal in society—one of the guys, if you will. Others prefer to remain—for want of a better term—"ladylike." Men and women alike should attempt to respect the others' wishes, if possible. Above all, there should be consideration of the other person, female or male, and trouble of that nature we have just seen on the tube will fade.

● The Mile High Poetry Society will host an Octoberfest poetry contest with $500 in cash prizes. Deadline, Nov. 30, writes Jane Sebaul. Mail entries to Mile High Poetry Society, P.O. Box 21116, Denver, Colo. 80221.

● Taking a task force to task: According to a straw vote of a task force which has been studying for months, New Mexicans should pay taxes on more transactions than they now do. Oh, brother; here we go again.

If the task force's principles become law, non-profit organizations, hospitals, travel agents, real estate agents and people selling their homes would pay taxes that are not now charged.

Oh, there's another entity included: Newspapers. Newspapers are in jeopardy—especially small newspapers. A double whammy this year via more taxes plus a proposed hike in postal fees for papers will see the end of many small weekly newspapers.

● There is more to Social Security than benefits for persons over 62 years of age. Consumer Education-Research Center, a national non-profit consumer group, has been researching the Social Security system and the benefits it provides since 1972. One finding is that of the 50 million persons now collecting benefits more than 15 million are under 62 and, surprisingly, the average age is only about 30.

Robert L. Berko, consumer writer and executive director of the center, says the organization has been publishing and updating a complete list of available benefits (and how to qualify for them) for the past 18 years. The guide offers consumers of all ages an awareness of the benefits they are entitled to under the latest laws. The 12th update (a complete revision) is now available.

The book contains a form to get a copy of your Social Security account showing all credits to your account and an estimate of the amount you will get upon retirement or disability. Workers must check their Social Security accounts frequently since any errors more than three years old will not be corrected. Often, the study found, workers have had too much deducted from their wages and were due a refund. In other cases, employers had not sent the correct amount to be credited to accounts. If you have records of the amount earnings and deductions, you will be credited with that money and the employer's share whether or not he ever sent the money to the government.

The 240-large-page Consumers Guide to Social Security Benefits Including Medicare is available for $9.95 (plus $2 P&H) from Consumer Center, 350 Scotland Rd., Orange, NJ 07050 or by calling 1-800-USA-0121 (with credit card).

"Billions of dollars go unclaimed," says Mr. Berko, "because many workers do not realize they are eligible for benefits."

Intelligence is a lot like money. If you don't reveal how little you have, people will treat you as though you have a lot.

SANTA FE—The southern congressional district may have a rip roaring Democratic primary election next June.

Although the September redistricting session of the New Mexico Legislature significantly altered all congressional districts, Reps. Steve Schiff and Bill Richardson have drawn no visible opposition in districts one and three. But Joe Skeen has drawn a crowd in Congressional District 2.

Out of seven possible candidates whose names are being tossed about, only two are seriously circulating nominating petitions.

Bruce Wilson, a Bruce King appointee to the State Game Commission is in the race with both feet. Since retiring as a chemical engineering professor at New Mexico State University two years ago, Wilson has been itching to follow in the footsteps of fellow Las Cruces state Rep. Paul Taylor, also a retired educator.

Patsy Reinhard is also circulating nominating petitions. She is Socorro attorney, who also raises Arabian horses. Reinhard and Wilson both attended the recent Demo state central committee meeting in Ruidoso and addressed the participants as aspiring congressional candidates.

Two other possible candidates also attended the Demo confab but did not speak when potential candidates were given the opportunity to have their say.

Rep. Michael Olguin, also of Socorro, the Demo House leader, was at the Ruidoso meeting and shook a lot of hands. Olguin would love getting back on the congressional scene, where he worked as a staffer, but running would mean giving up the hard-won state legislative leadership position he took over last January.

Rep. John Underwood, of Ruidoso, was also at the Demo meeting as the legislative host. Underwood showed his ability to win as a Democrat in the most Republican county in the state. He hopes his formula also will work for winning southern New Mexico, which registers heavily Democrat but has voted Republican Joe Skeen into Congress for the past five elections.

Former Lt. Gov. Mike Runnels, a Ruidoso resident for several years after leaving office in 1986, would have been in town for the Demo meeting, but for a heart problem that required quintuple bypass surgery. Friends report Runnels is recovering fast and could be ready to put up a battle for the seat that once was held by his father.

Michael Montoya of Valencia County is also considering the congressional race. Montoya gave state Treasurer David King a run for his money in last year's Demo primary.

Former state Rep. Walter Parr of Las Cruces also has been making calls for support. Parr, an attorney, was in the Legislature in the late '70s, representing the northern part of Dona Ana County.

How to tell a Blonde Joke to a blonde: You must first convince her she is an exception to the rule, hope she is in a good humor, and assume she won't understand the punchline. If that doesn't work, then proceed in the same manner used in walking through a room full of rattlesnakes, and hope the joke was good enough to justify the bite you got. If she laughs, she is either comfortable with her blondness, or her condition is transitory, dark roots and all. If she is offended, she has either heard it before or didn't think it was funny, or both, and you deserve what you are about to receive since it is unforgivable to tell a state ethnic joke to an ethnic. (I didn't know blondes were an ethnic group, but the jokes are interchangeable.)

As you all may gather from my past statements, this is Monday, and I have finally read last Thursday's Ruidoso News, which means I am now current on old news in Ruidoso. However, the point of this item is to introduce a discussion concerning the recent two-part article on DUI enforcement that has been running in the Ruidoso News. The article contains a relatively complete description of the procedures involved, but I sense an underlying scare tactic. The article was written from a pretty standard institutional viewpoint and seems to imply a sense of inevitability that if you do you have to pay.

I have long been a critic of the enforcement methods associated with driving while intoxicated. My first objection has to do with the moralistic attitude that keeps injecting itself into the scheme. It has become as much as attack on the use of alcohol as it is an attempt to control traffic accidents, and in the process, the statistics and information has become distorted toward the end of stricter enforcement, with the end result being the prohibition of alcohol consumption of any kind. The same arguments and political pressures are being used now as were used in the Prohibition era. As Ambrose Bierce said, "Alcohol is a substance which causes insanity in total abstainers."

Why this is bad is that when the politicians are afraid to disagree with MADD, and all the kids are indoctrinated with SADD, how can we expect to ever do anything about the problem. Both of these organizations are filled with people with an axe to grind because of some personal experience with the injury or loss of a relative or friend in an incident that involved alcohol, and can't be expected to be totally rational about the subject. I agree they can make a valuable contribution to the discussion, but I don't agree that it ought to stop there.

Tougher enforcement is not the answer, because it doesn't seem to be doing any good. In 1971, the statistics were that some 50 percent of fatal accidents involved alcohol, while at the present time, I have seen some statistics to the effect that up to 60 percent of fatal accidents involve alcohol. ### Letters to the Editor

EDITOR—Along with the many citizens of this great country, we have been appalled as we watched with disbelief and horror the events transpiring over the weekend of the eleventh through the thirteenth of October. We have been saddened by the attempts by militant groups to impose their wills upon the Senate of this country. Many of the senators through their pandering to special interest groups deserve the treatment they received, but not all of the Judiciary Committee deserve it.

In trying to arrive at any firm conclusion we may never know the truth, which, by the way, is no doubt the reason why the subject of sex harassment was chosen. It is so very hard to prove or disprove. I believe that the radical feminists who are attempting continually to place a wedge between men and women grabbed that pretext to further their very dubious aims. They might not only be successful in discrediting Judge Thomas but succeed in disrupting the normal and natural good relations between normal women and men. For that reason the credibility of Anita Hill and her contingent was suspect for the beginning.

As usual, the media played its part by not broadcasting the witnesses called to testify to the good character of Judge Thomas. We were apparently supposed to come away from the entire proceedings with the belief that sexual harassment is rampant in this country. Something that the women in the media reminded us repeatedly. And while on the subject, if the women in the media wish not to be considered as sex objects, why don't they show at least a modicum of modesty and professionalism when they appear before the cameras?

On a more hopeful note, it must be disheartening and outraging to the TV media and to others in the Congress on the far left to realize that the American people are on to their game and have rejected it forcefully.

MRS. ALBERT R. BOOKY, Lincoln.

OLD GLORY

The week-long activities at Carrizozo Municipal schools in observance of American Education Week ended with an impressive ceremony which included a patriotic salute to the flag.

Carrizozo student Heath Rickman read what a Carlsbad, N.M. resident had to say about the flag. Ray V. Davis fought on Bataan, endured the Death March, suffered the tortures of a Japanese prison camp and died on a Japanese prison ship sunk by an American submarine. This is what Davis wrote:

I am Old Glory. I am a thousand furnaces combined to make an airship. I am a Boy Scout whittling away to make—nothing. I am an Edison burning away my life to better world living. I am a tramp choosing to contribute nothing. I am Old Glory.

I am a big limousine with chauffeur and footman. I am a jalopy full of kids having the time of their lives. I am a ten-course dinner, caviar and all the trimmings. I am an ice cream cone spread all over a kid's face. I am Old Glory.

I am a great orator swaying the minds of thousands. I am a baby's voice doing the same. I am mansions, yachts, estates. I am log cabins, tenements, trailers. I am Old Glory.

I am highways, byways, skyways. I am paths, streams, torrents. I am a giant plane from coast to coast. I am a walk in the woods, or an hour in the garden. I am Old Glory.

I am a Marshall, MacArthur, Nimitz. I am Pvt. Jim, Sgt. Gens. Lt. Dwayne. I am Pearl Harbor, Bataan, Normandy. I am New Mexico, Santa Fe, Eddy County. I am Old Glory.

I am church, home, friends. I am nature, soldier of fortune, hermit. I am a mother's prayer to bring back her soldier son. I am a father's aching heart to do the same. I am Old Glory.

SPANISH SAYINGS

The Spanish have a saying, "Panza llena, corazon contento." This translates to "Full stomach, contented heart." In honor of Thanksgiving, and food I have selected the following dichos or proverbs:

● A la mejor cocinera se le ahuma la olla. (Even the best cook can ruin the pot. Even the best cook can burn or make bad food at one time or another.)

● Al rey se le pone la mesa, si quiere, come, y si no, lo deja. (The table is set for the king; if he wants to eat, he does; if not, he leaves it. If you offer something, let the person accept or reject it.)

● Carro nuevo, y con la tripa clara. (New car and oh an empty stomach.)

● Casa donde no hay harina, todo se hace remolina. (House where there is no flour, everything will turn into a whirlwind. Where there is no discipline, everything will get lost.)

● Come y calla. (Eat and shut up. To do something advantageous in silence.)

● Cuando no hay carne de lomo de toda como. (When there is no meat on the the ribs, I eat all other. (When you can't have the best, you must settle for what you can have.)

● Da Dios almendras al que no tiene muelas. (God gives almonds to those that have no molars. Prosperity comes too late in life.)

● Lo que se pierde en la uva se gana en las pasa. (What is lost in the grape is won in the raisin.)

as the evil we are trying to prevent.

Another significant problem with the present approach of tougher enforcement is that it tends to lull us into thinking we are doing something about the problem. It prevents us from thinking about solutions because we think we have already thought about it, when in fact we have only tried one alternative which isn't working very well. I am not intending to be facetious when I say that as long as bars have parking lots, there will be driving under the influence. This merely points out that the problem that we are dealing with is an issue that has deep social roots and cannot be altered by chopping off the top once in a while.

This is really too complex a question to do any justice to in a single column, so I will talk about it more later. I would like to discuss some alternatives and possible solutions, but if it took two articles to describe the enforcement procedures, it will take more than that to discuss the subject.

And to believe all of this (my column) started with a Blonde Joke. I have heard of intoxicating blondes but I thought that referred to flaxen-haired beauties who own liquor stores. (Being two of the attributes of the perfect wife, blind and deaf being two more.)

MainStreet to outline midtown requests

By AL STUBBS
Ruidoso Bureau

Since the first phase of midtown revitalization in Ruidoso doesn't include plans for public restrooms and off-street parking, MainStreet Ruidoso will make recommendations to the village council.

Board members voted to make such recommendations during a regular board meeting last week. Members were told that Mary Maul, project manager for MainStreet Ruidoso, had submitted a grant application to the village of Ruidoso calling for street trees and an irrigation system in the midtown project area. An Albuquerque firm is developing construction plans for revitalization of the area.

The grant application, approved by the village council, contains a request for $29,100 for an irrigation system in Phase I of revitalization and $13,750 for 55 trees. The revitalization plan calls for widening sidewalks, landscaping of the downtown area, traffic control, lighting, relocation of utilities and development of a river trail along the Rio Ruidoso.

Mike Line and Don Dutton were scheduled at the meeting to report on progress in obtaining river trail easements so that the project can proceed to fruition.

The Community update luncheon staged recently netted $275 for MainStreet, according to board member Bill Hirschfeld. The project was sponsored jointly by MainStreet and The Ruidoso News. This is the second year the event has been programmed.

Lodgers tax panel okays advertising

Lodgers Tax Committee members, village of Ruidoso, approved actions of the Regional Advertising Board concerning advertising of Lincoln County by the Visitors Promotion and Service Committee of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce.

LTC okayed at a meeting Monday, pending village council approval on December 10, expenditure of $24,070 for advertising the winter season activities and beyond. Some $18,000 of the expenditure will be lodger's tax money, while the remainder will be state match.

The Chamber proposes advertising in regional media, including college newspapers (skiing), media in Mexico, and Valentine promotion.

LTC members asked the Visitors Promotion and Service Committee to provide more detail on proposed expenditures, for presentation to the village council.

Other action by LTC was as follows:

— Approved $3,000 as promised for the recent Octoberfest promotion and $750 for the Bar-B-Que War after sponsors presented advertising invoices.

— Noted that the Phil Price Advertising Agency is the "agency of record" for RAB for the next year.

— Approved expenditure of $3,900 for booth fees in various future trade shows.

They had to have heart in Capitan

It was a season of heart. With perseverance, heart, hard work and playing five games for many of their wins, the Capitan Lady Tigers won their way to the top and earned the state second-place title in Class A volleyball.

With perseverance, heart and lots of guts, the Capitan Tigers football team stuck it out to the end of the season and never gave up. But they had no wins.

The teams were honored by parents, coaches, administration and boosters at the annual fall sports awards banquet Monday night.

High school principal Darrell Stierwalt credited the football players for being "winners in their own hearts," and for never giving up, even when faced with impossible odds.

As for the volleyball team, with only one senior and many young girls with limited experience, Stierwalt told of the thrill of watching the girls play to the finals. They ended the season with 18 wins and five losses and second place in the state—for a team which was not supposed to go anywhere. "These girls are all heart," said their coach Pam Allen.

The team lived on the edge, and played five games for many match wins, which was hard on fans and coaches, Allen said. The girls played five-game matches on nine Saturdays, including the final five-game match with Dora for the state title. There the girls gave the fans some heart-stopping excitement.

"They're Cardiac Kids," Stierwalt joked.

Allen emotionally credited senior Jennifer Eldridge for being "one in a million," and thanked her for the great five years she played on the volleyball team. "She'll be a successful human being," Allen said, since she never complained and provided leadership and inspiration in the down times.

A special award was given to fan and support Herbert Traylor, who donated funds to help the girls during the state finals tournament.

Several players received their first letter: Tracey Stone, Michelle Payton, Jessica Cline, Amy Cline and Alma Lively.

Also receiving letters were Stacy Gowen, a side hitter with good hands; Tydie Traylor, an outside hitter and All District player; Anita Aldaz, outside hitter with a "heart as big as New Mexico" who was injured in the last two weeks of the season, who also came a long way during the season to become a strong server; Kelly Cox, side setter and All District player. And three girls who Allen named "The Free Family" for their haight—Tammy Payne, middle blocker, outside hitter and All District player; Jennifer Eldridge, middle blocker and All District player; and Pam Pacheco, middle blocker and outside hitter.

Pacheco earned her first varsity letter, and was honored as the most improved player on the team. She was credited for doing a super job at the state final when she filled in for injured Aldaz.

Kudos also went to team manager Trey Allen, assistant coach Norman Cline and assistant Sherry Gowen.

The game ball from the state final, with all team players names and all season matches with scores penned on it, was presented to Eldridge. She then presented Stierwalt with the second-place state trophy, and summarized her definition of the Lady Tigers as "The Fighters" with each letter representing her pride in teammates and coach. The final letter "S" was for state runner up champs of 1991 and "state champs of 1992," she said.

The junior varsity team, which ended its season with 14 wins and two losses, was honored: Pacheco, Lively, Amy Cline, Jessical Cline, Michelle Payton with her 18 straight serves, 13 in one game and five in another; Tracey Stone, Kathy Campbell, Marisa Valenzuela, Stacie Sidwell and Letty LaRue.

The 8th grade team was honored for its undefeated season. Players were Catherine Sidwell, Christina Gonzales, Michelle McGarvey, Shelly Gowen, Sherry Dockery, Angie Hutchinson, Sarah Taylor, Stacey Erwin and Chris Worrell.

The 7th grade team, which ended with eight wins and one loss, also was honored. Players were Mandi Aldaz, Amalia Sanchez, Andra Fish, Joni Autrey, Andi Griego and Casey Cunningham.

Junior high coach Norm Cline credited the girls for their hard work and enthusiasm which made for a successful season.

Football coach Pat Ventura was extremely proud of his team, which never gave up, despite injuries and no replacement players. "They played with pain and hurt and heart," he said. "I'm very proud you did not quit, you did the best you could and kept your heads up."

Starting the season as boys, Ventura said they ended the season as men.

He thanked junior high football coaches Ed and Nell Davis, assistant varsity coach Kim Nelson and assistant Pat Gowen.

He also thanked the school band, and especially the fans who cheered the team all the way through the tough season and never gave up, which ultimately made it easier to go back the next Monday for another week of practice.

Letters were presented for 1991, with special honors to senior players Stormy Trost, Paul Whipple, Charlie Tracey, Weldon Smith and Ernie Gallegos; juniors Carlos Preciado, Jason Trujillo, Clint Tate and Jim Griego; sophomores Damian Roybal, Orlando Baca, Westley Mitchell and Thomas Shrecengost; freshmen Troy Stone, Rodney Sedillo and Earl Edge and 8th graders Josh Peralta, Alan Hazel, (Cont. on P. 9)

Capitan News by Margaret Rench

Happy Thanksgiving to everyone!

Just a reminder that there will not be any "bingo" this week in Capitan because of Thanksgiving.

Congratulations to Yvonne Montes. She was married this past Saturday. Good luck and a long happy life for both you and your new husband.

Congratulations to Joy Slane. She became a grandma Saturday with a 7 lb. baby girl—Rebecca Rae Hansen.

Miss Kelli Rogers and Tate Neil were married Nov. 9, 1991, in a double ring ceremony at the Capitan Methodist Church. The Rev. Thomas Broom officiated at the ceremony. We wish this couple many years of happiness.

We are happy to report that "our" Pat Bailey is home from the hospital in Colorado. She was gone over a month and she was certainly missed by all her friends. And Pat discovered she made a host of friends. She received a volume of mail and wants to take this opportunity to thank one and all who took the time to write to her. Also she wants to thank the American Legion for the beautiful basket of fruit that they had waiting for her when she returned home and to thank the Sacred Heart Guild for the extraordinary flower arrangement they presented to her. She is happy to be home and we are all happy to have her home.

Avon Calling: Time for buying Christmas gifts and many of us older folks do not have the opportunity to go out of town to shop in the malls. Dorothy Spies has the answer in her new catalogues. Everything from the head of the house to the tiniest occupant can be remembered from the lovely things that are available. For more information, call her at 354-2495. You will be glad you did.

Anthony Purcella was a guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Purcella, last week. Anthony lives in California. We all enjoy him when he can get to Capitan.

Ran across an article from the Parade section of the Albuquerque Sunday paper, dated Sept. 15, 1991. Beatrice L. Cole wrote that ten years ago she wrote about the joys of being 80. In this article she wrote about the joys of being 90. Some of you much younger folks will pooh-pooh any article written by anyone so ancient. Most of us at 80 are written off as the living dead, so to speak. So with that thought in mind will jot down a few of her recipes for her longevity. And I quote—"I greet each day as a gift from God that I unwrap with anticipation, and live each day as if it were the last. The deep secret of contentment is to keep busy and enjoy everyday tasks. I maintain a healthy outlook on life and I have achieved serenity: I have wiped worry out of my life. I refuse to dwell on any catastrophe. Yes, being 90 is a blessing and a privilege."

It will soon be Thanksgiving Day. May we all take a little bit of time and say thank you for what we have and also a prayer for those who have so little.

Until next week, happy thoughts and be sure and try a little kindness!

Corona News

Thank you, my friend, for writing this column while the bug had me... You did so well we hope you will continue with only a little help from me.

Mrs. Laban Tubbs was honored Sunday afternoon with a shower and party. The "Little Boy Blue" theme was carried out with his sheep in the school library meadow with a variety of 'ceramics' and woolies. Corsages were woolies with gingham accents. Mints were in toy shapes and cookies were rocking horses, pigs and cows. Out of town family members present included the honoree's mother and three nieces from Deming: Mrs. Beverly Lucksinger, Courtney, Tamara and Michaelyn Hervol; Lisa and Kendra Encinas, Los Lunas; Martha Sharp, Edgewood; Gail Sharp, Conchas; Billie Heisch, Gallup; and Jeanell and Julie Paiz, Portales. "Little Boy Blue" put in his appearance eight days later in the person of Tyler Wayne Tubbs.

Hostesses for the party were Betty Ann Bell, Bessie Gage, Jeanene Gibbs, Patsy Mulkey, Sabra Davidson, Kristin Sultemeier, Marie Owen and Mila Pounds.

Crown CowBelles met Nov. 7, for Salisbury steak in the school lunch room and then moved to the board room for the regular meeting with VP Sue Maness presiding.

First, second and third place winners in the Beef Facts or Myths poster contest were announced as follows: K-2—Debbie Pinton, Shalene Lopez and Dal Frost; 3-5—Amy Bond, Jennifer Tracey and Jared Joy; 6th—John Gnatkowski, Rachel Hendrick and Brandi Alley.

Sandy Hendricks brought a cake honoring the Maness and Steele Noyember wedding anniversaries.

The new officers were elected by acclamation and the new team of Frost, Gibbs, Pfeiffer, Hendricks and Steele will be installed at the next meeting which has been postponed until Thursday, Dec. 12, because of the state meeting. There will be a covered dish luncheon and exchange of gifts after the installation of officers at 11 a.m. Dec. 12 at the Steele home, unless the weather forces cancellation or postponement.

At the regular meeting of the Corona Board of Education on Nov. 12, the board accepted the resignation of member Jeff Wells, who is moving to Prescott, Ariz. At a special meeting on Nov. 20, the board appointed Mrs. June Tyree to fill the unexpired term of Wells.

The SCS has transferred Joe Frank Reeves from Col umbina, Texas, to El Paso, where he will report on Dec. 2.

Mrs. Devra Post was called to Portales by the sudden death of her father, Leo Gosner. Services are scheduled for 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Melrose Methodist Church.

Tod Carroll has made the youth all-star football team and gets to compete in Las Vegas, Nev., over Thanksgiving. He is the son of Carolyn and Bobby Carroll of Roswell and the 12-year-old grandson of Jackie Davidson of Corona.

Carrizozo district honored

Their hard work is being recognized.

Some 90 members of the Carrizozo Soil and Water Conservation District have been collectively awarded for their outstanding work in rangeland conservation programs from the 44th annual Goodyear/NACD Conservation Awards Program.

Carrizozo Soil and Water Conservation District is a grand award winner in the annual program. It and another New Mexico district, Tierra y Montes Soil and Water Conservation District, were among 101 districts selected nationwide in the competition sponsored by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. in cooperation with the National Association of Conservation Districts (NACD).

An independent judging committee of state agricultural leaders selected the winners on the basis of the districts' accomplishments in soil and water conservation, according to David L. Fulton, director of the awards program.

The Carrizozo District, which covers the ranching areas of western and northern Lincoln County, won the award for its outstanding overall rangeland conservation program which develops grazing lands through brush control, water development and grazing systems, and for its outstanding participation in the "Great Plains Conservation Program." The Great Plains program also involves rangeland conservation work, said Carrizozo Office U.S. Soil Conservation Service spokesman Hollis Fuchs.

Bill Bob and Ginger Shaffer will represent the Carrizozo District on the grand awards tour, an expense-paid, work-study trip in December to The Camelback Resort in Scottsdale, Ariz. They will be joined by representatives of the other winning districts from throughout the United States.

The grand award-winning districts also will be recognized at the 45th Annual Convention of New Mexico Association of Conservation Districts in Carlsbad next week.

Upper Hondo Soil and Water District, in the Capitan area, was named as an Honor District this year, in recognition of its continued excellence. The district received the national award within the last five years and was thus ineligible to receive it this year.

DOROTHY PAYNE and Bud Payne of Carrizozo shone in recent competition.

Paynes of Carrizozo pitch shoes to win

Senior athlete Bud and Dorothy Payne of Carrizozo recently each won a gold medal in the horseshoe competition at Huntsman Chemical's World Senior Games, held Oct. 14-25 in St. George, Utah.

Bud Payne placed first in the men's singles and Dorothy Payne won the women's singles division.

The World Senior Games, sponsored by Huntsman Chemical and other major organizations, began in 1987 with the goal of fostering worldwide "Peace, Friendship, and Health" through preparation, participation, and personal interaction. Today, the Games' exciting competition and St. George's sunny, southwestern climate combine to attract male and female senior athletes from around the U.S. and several foreign countries.

This year, St. George hosted more than 1,800 senior participants age 50 and over at the World Senior Games. Events included basketball, cycling, golf, swimming, tennis, table tennis, track and field, racquetball, road racing, softball, horseshoes, bowling, and biathlon during the two week run of the Games.

For more information regarding participation in the 1992 World Senior Games, to be held Oct. 12-23, call 1-(800)-562-1288.

Ski Cloudcroft ready under new operator

CLOUDCROFT—"With snow already on the mountain and snowmaking equipment and personnel ready, Ski Cloudcroft will be ready to open Dec. 19," announced Jerry Sanders, president of Snow Canyon Resort Corp., Ski Cloudcroft's new operator.

Season passes, which will be limited this year, are now on sale. Pass prices range from $150 for a non-transferable weekday pass to $395 for a full season pass that can be transferred from user to user. The area also offers 10-Day Bonus Books of transferable discounted lift ticket coupons for $180.

Ski Cloudcroft, located two miles east of Cloudcroft on U.S. 82, will operate three lifts this year, serving 28 trails for beginners to experts, according to Sanders. Facilities will include a ski school for all skill levels, rental equipment and retail ski shops, restaurant and deck grill.

Snowboarding will be offered at the area, with instruction and rentals available.

Sanders, who also is president of The Lodge at Cloudcroft, Inc., has attracted some extraordinary ski area professionals to help operate the area. Kevin Beardsley, former general manager of Ski Rio and most recently marketing director of Taos Ski Valley, Inc., joins Ski Cloudcroft as general manager.

Ski Cloudcroft was closed last year because of the bankruptcy of Dorgan & Dorgan Enterprises, the area's former lessee. The lease was returned to The Lodge on Oct. 29 by order of the U.S. Bankruptcy Court.

Major improvements have been made which include dry grooming of all slopes; enlargement, regrading and resurfacing of the roadways and parking lots.

Other improvements scheduled to be complete before opening include renovation of the 5,500 square foot Chalet, a new restaurant and restoration of the area's T-Bar lift and relocation of its beginner's tow to a larger area.

Installation slated for local AF&AM

By BART McDONOUGH

At the stated meeting Nov. 13, members of Carrizozo Lodge #41, A.F. & A.M., elected the following officers:

Worshipful master, Woodrow A. Schlegel; senior warden, Mike Shivers; junior warden, Barney Hicks; treasurer, W.W. Gallacher Jr.; secretary, J.S. Stearns; chaplain, Jack Forrester; senior deacon, Richard Young; junior deacon, Billy Bob Shafer; senior steward, Wes Lindsay; junior steward, Bob Shafer; tiler, Glenn Baldwin; marshal, Scott Shafer.

An installation is planned this evening of Dec. 14.

Carrizozo Lodge No. 41 received its charter on Oct. 20, 1909. Stated meetings are the second Wednesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. There are currently 62 members of this Masonic Lodge.

What Masonry is: It is a voluntary association of men. It is a system of moral conduct. It is a way of life. It is a fraternal society. It is religious in its character. It is a pursuit of excellence. It seeks to make good men better men. It teaches morality through symbolism. It uses rites and ceremonies to instruct its members. It is based on a firm belief in the Fatherhood of God, the Brotherhood of Man, and the immortality of the Soul.

What Masonry is NOT: It does not solicit members. It is not an insurance or benefit society. It is neither a religion nor a creed, nor a religious order. It is not a charity organization but makes charity a duty. It is not organized for profit. It dictates to no man as to his beliefs, either religious or secular. It seeks no advantages for its members through business or politics. It is not a forum for discussion of religion, politics or other partisan affairs. It is not a secret society, as it does not conceal its existence or purposes.

Golden wedding anniversary

MR. and MRS. BILL RANDLE will be celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary on Dec. 1. The couple will be honored at a reception hosted by their children and grand children at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Gordon Barham.

NATIONAL FFA CONVENTION Kansas City, Missouri

Capitan FFA team high in meat judging

Capitan FFA Meats Judging Team won sixth place at the 64th National FFA Competition in Kansas City.

The Capitan team of Jolene Edwards, Mariah Peebles and Kyle Traylor competed with 38 other nationwide teams in the Meat Evaluation and Technology division.

The Capitan chapter team ranked best in the state last school year to qualify for competition at the national contest. Jolene Edwards, a 1991 graduate, qualified at that time.

At the national contest Jolene received a gold emblem for overall effort and scored tenth highest individual in the meats judging.

Sophomore Peebles also received a gold emblem.

Traylor earned a silver emblem for overall effort.

Capitan FFA advisor/coach Joel Edwards accompanied the team.

The National Meats Judging Contest was sponsored by Oscar Mayer Foods Corporation, Madison, Wis. and Geo. A. Hormel & Co., Austin, Minn., as a special project of the National FFA Foundation.

Local volunteers being sought for (SHE) program

Spanish Heritage (SHE), a not-for-profit student exchange organization dedicated to promoting Spanish language and Hispanic culture in North America, is seeking enthusiastic volunteers to be area representatives for its program in your community.

Area representatives serve as liaisons for high schools, host families, students, and SHE offices as well as recruit qualified North American teenagers to go abroad. Volunteers are reimbursed for their expenses.

If you feel this is an ideal way to learn about Spanish and Latin American culture while sharing your local area with eager high school teenage students, please call 1-800-888-9040 for further information.

NM jobs number to grow 20 percent

The number of jobs in New Mexico is expected to increase by nearly 111,000, or 20 percent, by the year 2000.

A new employment study by the New Mexico Department of Labor, entitled New Mexico Occupational Outlook 2000, details projected employment changes for certain industries and occupations in New Mexico through the 1990s based on special economic trend analysis, according to Patrick G. Baca, Secretary of the New Mexico Department of Labor.

Major employment increases are projected for the service and trade sectors, with nearly 72,000 new jobs expected between 1988 and the year 2000. Health care is projected to be the fastest growing service industry, increasing by 44 percent and providing nearly 14,000 jobs. The manufacturing industry is expected to gain nearly 7,000 jobs, contrasting sharply with national projections of continued employment losses in that sector. Government, currently a major employment sector in New Mexico, is expected to grow by only 13 percent, leaving the private sector to take up the slack. Substantial growth is projected for the construction industry, with lesser gains expected in finance, insurance, real estate, transportation, communication, and public utilities. Virtually no growth is foreseen for mining and agriculture.

For individual occupations, four of the five jobs expected to have the fastest growth rate through the 1990s are in the medical field; these are home health aides, medical assistants, medical secretaries, and physical therapists. The remaining high-growth occupation is paralegal personnel. The five occupations expected to provide the most job openings each year through the 1990s are retail salespersons, waiters and waitresses, food-counter workers, cashiers, and general managers.

Household waste: Hazardous?

by Betty McCreight / Lincoln County Extension Home Economist

What do fingernail polish, oven cleaner, wood finishes, motor oil and batteries have in common? All usually contain ingredients that would be illegal to dump into a landfill if they were present in large quantities.

Fingernail polish, if purchased in a 55-gallon drum, would be illegal to throw into a landfill. Yet one study in Tucson, Ariz., estimated that 350,000 bottles of fingernail polish were thrown away each year in that city. Is that a problem?

It depends. Household wastes are specifically exempt from the federal Resource Conservation and Recovery Act, the basis for most hazardous waste regulations. Small quantities of household hazardous material usually are not considered a problem, although some experts may disagree.

What does become a problem is finding an alternative to putting such materials in a landfill. Once the materials are collected, as they are for household hazardous waste collection days, the materials are classified as hazardous waste and require the same per-

Aid seen for heating bills

SANTA FE—As the temperature drops many New Mexicans wonder how they will pay their winter heating bills. The state Human Services Department will come to the rescue for many need families again with the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP).

Eligible households will be issued a one-time certificate redeemable at their local utility company or other heating vendor.

Households who receive SSI from the Social Security Administration and public assistance from HSD will automatically have LIHEAP benefits determined for them. These households do not have to fill out an application. Anyone who receives SSI and Medicaid only will receive an application in the mail. Those on SSI only and others who wish to apply can pick up an application starting Nov. 13 at HSD income support offices, community action agencies, most senior citizens centers, and some utility companies. Applications must be returned to local HSD income support offices by Dec. 11.

In the Service

Staff Sgt. Kerri L. Ryon has been decorated with the Air Force Commendation Medal.

The medal is awarded to those individuals who demonstrate outstanding achievement or meritorious service in the performance of their duties on behalf of the Air Force.

It is his third award. He is a heating systems technician at Yokota Air Base, Tokyo.

Ryon is the son of Bennis L. and Mary A. Ryon of 7098 N. Long Lake Road, Traverse City, Mich. His wife, Cydne, is the daughter of E. Jones of Ruidoso, NM and Jean Ludwig of 606 W. Seventh, Roswell, NM.

The sergeant is a 1978 graduate of Traverse City Senior High School.

Justin King and Ernie Trujillo.
Special player awards were given. The Golden Helmet Awards, from the Coca Cola Company, were given to Weldon Smith as Lineman of the Year and Damian Roybal as Back of the Year.

Ventura's "210 percent award" went to Stormy Trost and Damian Roybal, who were at all practices and put out the 210 percent during the season.

Weldon Smith received the most valuable player trophy; most improved to Troy Stone; offensive lineman of the year to Jim Griego; defensive lineman to Trost; defensive back to Carlos Preciado; offensive back to Roybal and "guts and effort" to Charlie Tracey.

Ventura listed several young men who received honorable mention as All District players: Trost as running back, Tracey as place kicker, Smith as defensive tight end, Ernie Callegos as tackle, Preciado, Jason Trujillo, Roybal as running back and defensive second and Stone as line backer.

Junior high football players were honored. Seventh graders Eddie Sedillo, Ernie Sedillo, Garrett Goodloe, Shawn McEuen, Kyle Jones, Trey Allen, Jason McSwane, Gody Turnbow, Johnathan McCarty, Nolan LaRue, Jeremy Hoover, Montey Key, Devon Darby, Jeff White and Shane Carpenter. Eighth graders included Gabe Murry, Wes Rooney, Keith Cox, Josh Peralta, Justin King, Alan Hazel, Jeremy McGarvey, Robert McCarty, Ernie Trujillo and Jason Edwards.

Manager Chris Smith and video man Stacey Cox also were noted. Plaques were given to special helpers Lisa Crenshaw, Marie Griego and Paul Griego who treated sports injuries.

The chain gang of Nick Pacheco, Joel Edwards and Jack King was noted as were clock keeper Hob Lucero and announcer Tom Guck.

And activity bus drivers Brandy Flannagan and Ldis Copas were thanked by both the football and volleyball teams for their safe driving and outstanding support during games.

Cheerleaders Melinda Strickland, Mickie Griego, Brandi Peralta, Cindy Morton, Laurie Griego and mascot Wylle Whipple received letters. They thanked their sponsors Myrum Whitaker and Hazel Rojasot.

All teams thanked Tiger fans for their outstanding support and special thanks went to all parents of players.

"Don't hesitate to be there for your children," Ventura told parents because he saw how children grow up to adults so quickly. He urged parents to not tell their children they will take time to be with them later. "Do it now!"

Athletes, fans, parents and Tiger supporters were treated to desserts.

Basketball season begins with JV, varsity boys and varsity girls games in Carrizozo at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 3.

Correction: the player delivering the spike in the picture from the state final volleyball match in last week's edition was erroneously listed as Pam Pacheco. The player was Tammy Payne.

INSIDE THE OUTDOORS

By BEN HANSON

The cold temperatures have folks bundling up with clothing, but it also marks the arrival of our northern visitors. The fall waterfowl migration is in full swing and hunting seasons are open.

Those planning on heading out to the old familiar duck blind with the favorite retriever as well as beginning waterfowl hunters should take time out to pick up a copy of the regulations. There have been some changes this year.

New this year is the state duck stamp. This stamp is required of all waterfowl hunters in New Mexico. The good news is that the stamp is available free of charge to anyone that purchases a small game or combination hunting license. All you have to do is pick it up when you purchase a license. For those that didn't pick one up, it's no problem. Just go to any license vendor and get one free-of-charge.

Waterfowl hunters will also need a Federal duck stamp. These may be purchased from post offices around the state at a cost of $15.00. In addition to these stamps, hunters that utilize U.S. Forest Service or Bureau of Land Management properties will need a Wildlife Habitat Improvement Stamp.

Once again this year all waterfowl hunters must use steel or non-toxic shotshells. Those hunting in the Central Flyway, which encompasses most of the state, will be under a point system for the bag limit on ducks. The following values have been assigned to the duck species:

- Northern pintail, female mallard, red-head, hooded merganser, and mottled duck 100 points.
- Male mallard and wood duck 60 points.
- All other ducks on which season is open 35 points.

The bag limit is reached when the point value of the last duck taken, when added to the sum of the point values of other ducks already taken that day meets or exceeds 100 points. This means that a hunter that Precinto 3 (3) y doce (12) votaran en Lincoln County Fair Building, 101 W. 5th Street, on Capitan, New Mexico.

E. Votantes en los precinctos electorales de votantes ausentes votaran en la oficina de la escribana municipal.

F. Las personas que deseen registrarse para votar en la eleccion municipal regular, tienen que registrarse con la Escribana del condado del Lincoln a mas tardar el martes, 4 de Febrero de 1992 a las 5:00 P.M., la fecha en que la Escribana del Condado cerrara los libros de registro.

G. Se archivara todas las Declaraciones de Candidatura con la Escribana Municipal el martes, 7 de enero de 1992 entre las horas de las 8:00 A.M. y las 5:00 P.M.

H. Se hara un registro de los votos de los electores municipales calificados en maquinas para votar excepto los que votan por balota ausente. Por lo menos, una maquina para votar se usara en el lugar de votacion para los precinctos consolidados.

ADOPTADA Y APROBADA este dia 18 de noviembre de 1991.

Early evening Friday, Nov. 22, Alamogordo State Police headquarters advised the Lincoln County Sheriff's Office in Carrizozo of an officer's distress signal sounding west of town on Highway 380.

According to New Mexico State Police Sgt. Bill Hanson, officer Robert Avilucia had stopped a motorist for speeding. But the routine traffic stop turned to a scuffle when Albert A. Damon, 51 of Windowrock, Ariz. began to argue. Officer Avilucia triggered his officer's distress signal, which transmitted to the Roswell NMSP officer. That officer contacted the Alamogordo office, which alerted the Lincoln County Sheriff's Office (SO) in Carrizozo, where dispatch requested assistance for the solitary state police officer.

Immediately a roadblock was organized in Carrizozo, manned by town police and deputies. Physician's assistant Ernie Gonzales and town EMTs also were notified.

When a deputy and another state police officer arrived at the scene they found Avilucia had subdued and arrested Damon. The roadblock was called off at 8:14 p.m. and Damon was taken to Lincoln County Medical Center (LCMC) in Ruidoso for treatment of minor abrasions. Sgt. Hanson returned Damon to the Lincoln County Jail in Carrizozo at 1:58 a.m. Nov. 23, where he was booked on charges of aggravated assault on a police officer, resisting an officer, obstructing an officer and criminal damage to property. His bond was set at $4,500 cash, which he posted later that day.

The following information was taken from dispatch records at the Lincoln County SO:

NOV. 20
 10:29 a.m. An Arabella resident reported a suspicious vehicle with Bernalillo County plates and suspects that were possibly poaching. The responding deputy advised he made no contact with the vehicle, which had left the area.

A county resident reported a stolen handgun.

5:48 p.m. A Capitan-based deputy responded to a report of a mild domestic situation near Capitan. The incident was concluded when the husband left.

6:14 p.m. A structure fire was reported at the Sims residence in Carrizozo. Carrizozo Volunteer Fire-Dept. (VFD), ambulance, police chief Choncho Morales, Carrizozo Natural Gas Co. and Otero Electric Co-op responded. Firefighters arrived quickly enough to prevent the blaze from spreading from the wall furnace, where it started. The fire and smoke was out by 7:09 p.m. The house had water and smoke damage.

NOV. 22
 3:22 p.m. Ruidoso Downs Circle K store reported a $13.75 gas skip by someone in a black Nissan pickup. The responding deputy made no contact with the truck.

7:47 p.m. A New Mexico State Police Officer distress signal sounded at mile marker 52 on Highway 380 west of Carrizozo.

NOV. 23
