

Smokey Bear Stampede July 3 & 4

Independence Day is Smokey Bear Stampede time in Capitan.

Beginning Friday, July 3 and running through the evening of July 4, there will be plenty of activities packed into two days to satisfy many interests.

Looking toward Smokey Bear's big 50th Anniversary in 1994, Capitan will host not only the 37th annual Smokey Bear Stampede rodeo and parade, but a fun run and the Smokey Bear and the American Cowboy caravan, with personal appearances by Smokey himself.

A caravan of Smokey Bear and the American Cowboy along with partners in fire prevention, will make its first appearance in the area from noon to 3 p.m. Saturday, June 27 at the Roswell Mall in Roswell. The caravan will be at the Ruidoso Wal-Mart from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Wednesday, July 1.

The caravan will be featured at the Mescalero Rodeo from 1:30-3:30 p.m. Thursday, July 1. From 4-6 p.m. the caravan will be at Ruidoso Downs Race Track.

On Friday, July 3, the caravan will be at the Mescalero Rodeo from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

From 3-6 p.m. it will be at Capitan Shell Station. The caravan will be at the Smokey Bear Stampede rodeo in Capitan from 7-9 p.m. that evening.

July 4, the Smokey Bear and the American Cowboy caravan will be at the Mescalero fun run from 8-9:30 a.m. It will be featured in the Mescalero Parade from 10-12 a.m. It will be at the Capitan rodeos for the rest of the day.

The caravan will complete its visit to the area from 1:30-5 p.m. at the Mescalero Rodeo July 5.

Partners in fire prevention with Smokey Bear and the American cowboy are the Soil Conservation Service, US Forest Service-Lincoln National Forest, NM Forestry and Resources Conservation, Bureau of Indian Affairs Mescalero, Bureau of Land Management Roswell, Chaves County Fire Service, Lincoln County Fire Services Association and Otero County Fire Fighters.

Back in Capitan, at 7 p.m. Friday, July 3, the crowning of the 1992 Lincoln County Fair Queen Roxanne Coons will open the 37th annual Smokey Bear Stampede rodeo at the Lincoln County Fairground arena in Capitan. The rodeo, sponsored in part by Coors, begins after the coronation and will feature bareback bronc riding, calf roping, bull riding, saddle bronc riding, barrel race, team roping, girls breakaway roping, Lincoln County novice team roping, calf dressing and mutton bustin and calf scramble for the kids.

Kids six and under will be eligible to sign up for the mutton bustin. The first eight kids to sign up for the event before each rodeo performance will be able to ride on a ewe with a bull rope. Whoever stays on the longest will be the winner of a prize buckle awarded by Smokey Bear.

Kids 12 and under will compete to catch the calf and get the ribbon tied to its tail. Smokey will present a prize buckle to the winner.

Water and sewer rates may go up

Carrizozo Trustees agreed during the June 23 meeting to proceed with a proposed ordinance to increase water and sewer rates for the town.

Proposed increases for residential service will be 40 cents per month for sewer and 25 cents per month for the minimum of up to 3,000 gallons of water. Costs will increase per 1,000 gallons of water used over the minimum.

Copies of the ordinance are available at city hall. Trustees will consider adopting the two ordinances at the July 14 meeting.

Phase IV of the street project is two months ahead of schedule. Negotiations will begin with Dennis Engineering of Socorro on the project.

Charlie White has accepted the position of full-time town police officer and is classified as department head.

Fireworks not allowed in Carrizozo

It's almost 4th of July, which means fireworks season is here.

Carrizozo residents and visitors should be aware that municipal law prohibits the ownership, sales or possession of bottle rockets, firecrackers and Roman candles within town limits.

Police department head Charlie White asks residents and visitors to help reduce the fire hazard in the town by not using these fireworks. Cooperation will be greatly appreciated not only by local law enforcement officers and volunteer firefighters but also by your neighbors, White said.

Trustee Doug Whittaker was concerned that White lives outside the city limits. White told the board he lives two-tenths of a mile, or just under 1,000 feet outside the city limits but he has a response time of less than three minutes to anywhere in town.

Trustees discussed the matter and agreed that response time is the critical issue and accepted his living outside the city limits.

White said in his police report that the inventory and the emergency contact list for buildings are complete. He spoke about the curfew and suggested an electrician bypass the timer in order for the siren to be operated manually. This way young people cannot use the excuse that they did not know what time it was when caught out after curfew.

The police department has a single phone line with all calls being recorded. White asked for a second unrecorded phone for everyday use. The council expressed doubts and White said he would monitor the situation. No decision was made.

White is looking into a department policy procedures manual. He also asked for new

NEW MEXICO state flowers, the yucca, bloom profusely along Highway 380, just east of Carrizozo. The yucca, a member of the lily family, sends out tall stalks of pale cream or pink flowers late in spring, and blooms about the first week of summer. These were set against a backdrop of Nogal Peak backed by dramatic, late day, stormy skies. The plants bloom for about two weeks, before they begin to fade. Yuccas are found at many altitudes including high peaks. The high desert area around Carrizozo offers some of the best yucca viewing in Lincoln County.

County hit with billboard charge

By DORIS CHERRY

When the White Oaks billboard went up last year, members of the White Oaks Historical Society were proud.

This year, Lincoln County was hit with a $230 permit fee for the sign to stand on state-owned land.

Lincoln County Commissioners Monday at a special meeting considered the $200 annual fee and $30 one-time fee for the billboard on Highway 54 which directs tourists to the old ghost town northeast of Carrizozo. June 16, county manager Andy Wynham received a call from the Commissioner of Public Lands State Land Office regarding the billboard. Two days later a letter came from the office with the necessary paperwork for the sign.

Because the sign is located next to a highway, the New Mexico State Highway Dept. requires a permit for each face of a double-faced billboard, in compliance with the Federal Highway Beautification Act.

Wynham said the state land office gives no exceptions for civic groups or governments. The sign was made and erected with money from the Lodgers' Tax fund, which only is to be used to promote the county. "It aggravates me we have to pay $200 for a permit to put the sign on state land," said commissioner Bill Elliott.

Commissioner Stirling Spencer explained that state lands are trust lands from which the state land office is committed to getting maximum money for the beneficiaries that includes schools.

Since the Lodgers' Taxes were used for the sign, commissioners approved payment of the sign permit and fee, contingent on approval from the Lodgers' Tax Committee.

Most of the meeting was occupied with pitches from two insurance representatives seeking to sell the county various policies. While the county most wanted to find a new workers compensation policy, commissioners learned they are locked into their current policy with the Municipal League. The policy has a 60-day termination notice, from the end of its policy year, which is June 30. Since the policy carries a serious penalty to withdraw without the notification, commissioners agreed to continue with the Municipal League for the workers' comp. They directed the county manager to give the League notice now for next year.

Commissioners heard from Al Barryman of the Insurance Center of Roswell, Inc. and Larry Lethgo from the New Mexico Self-insurer's Fund, commissioners on the positives of their policies, and the negatives of the other's policy. Barryman's carrier, The Hartford, will provide liability coverage for such county-sponsored activities as the fair, parades and rodeos, but not participants.

Commissioners voted to Trash ordinance hearing June 30

For the first time in Lincoln County history, county residents will be paying for trash collection.

Sometime early this fall, Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority will begin to pick up trash from dumpsters located around the county. Now, LCSWA is picking up trash in Ruidoso, Ruidoso Downs and Capitan.

Before LCSWA was organized in 1991 municipal residents complained they had to pay for trash collection to their respective municipality and then pay a mill levy for trash collection on property taxes. The cry of double taxation to property owners in municipalities prompted the formation of the authority, which was to eventually take over trash collection in all the county municipalities as well as the county.

But the county solid waste collections will not be free.

Instead, if the ordinance providing for collection of solid waste is approved by county commissioners, county residents will be subject to a fee for trash collection. A $5.25 a month fee, to be paid quarterly, has been proposed. However, such fees will be determined by the county commission after a public hearing is held.

The proposed ordinance will empower the county to place liens on properties whose owners do not pay for their trash.

At 1:15 p.m. Tuesday, June 30, Lincoln County Commissioners will conduct a public

Grand lady of News turns 90

By DORIS CHERRY

Capitan's grand lady of the news Margaret Rench will be 90 years old on June 30.

Margaret wrote her first column for Lincoln County News on April 15, 1955. Since that time when then publisher Paul Payton approached her in Carrizozo's Coffee Cup Cafe and asked her to do a column for the village of Capitan, Margaret has tried to do her best to promote her little community.

"I'd like to keep the community on the map," she said in her home, surrounded by plants and her favorite dog and cats. "We've got a lot of things here."

So every Monday since 1955, Margaret had made her rounds about the village, seeking news of people, places and events. Now that she is nearly 90, Margaret gets a little help from Doris Pounds on those Mondays.

"I've enjoyed the paper," she said.

In 1959 Margaret won $400 in a contest from the paper, by getting the most subscriptions. Then again in 1962 or 63 she won $500 for the most subscriptions. "Pay is not what I'm working for," she said, "I work for the community."

She gets help from Doris Pounds, Millie Muse when she can and Barbara Sanchez. "I had an awful time asking for help," she admitted. "But the body goes to pieces."

Margaret was born in Bancroft, Nebraska, a farming community about 30 miles south of Sioux City,

Iowa. "I was a farm girl, that's where I learned to work."

It was a discipline she is glad to have and it was that discipline which got her through some tough times.

"I had a load," she said about the Depression years when she was left as a widow with two young sons.

She and Earl Rountree, her husband then, came to New Mexico in September 1925. Earl was a native of Corona and his father owned the Corona Trading Company as well as a ranch. "I loved New Mexico from the first time," she said. "You ought to have seen the highway to El Paso." She considers herself a kind of pioneer, with the isolation and limited services of the rural communities. But she loved the locality. She and Earl lived on the Corona area ranch until they came to Capitan in April 1930. There was no highway through Capitan then and where Margaret's home now sits, just west of the new Shell Station, was the city dumping grounds. The old narrow gauge service railroad ran right back of her northern fence. A cattle loading corral was situated east of the Shell Station, about where Angelina Provine's home is. Earl bought the property because he knew the highway would eventually be built. He and Margaret built the home she still lives in, a cafe, five cabins for workers with a 9,000 gallon water storage and a bathhouse. The cafe boasted an air conditioner. "We had a tremendous business, it makes me laugh," Margaret cooked on a three-burner kerosene stove. They also began working on a service station. "Capitan was a lovely little place in the 30s," she said. There was the Hitching Post and Buena Vista Hotel. Margaret worked for Earl's aunt, Mrs. Boone. Earl planted all the trees in Margaret's yard the first year they were there. But Earl died in 1934, leaving her alone with their two young sons and an unfinished service station. Through perseverance and hard work, Margaret finished and opened the station. She changed oil and washed cars until her hand bled, but she stayed with it. "They asked me if I would go back to Nebraska when Earl died, but this is my home and I have it," she said. She even found time to plant more trees along the main street near her home. She and the boys carried water in buckets to sustain the trees until they grew large enough to survive on their own. Now the trees are huge, and provide shade to visitors and residents alike who visit the Shell Station or just drive along Highway 380.

which opened in the early '30s, has closed. Now Margaret's home is lighted from the new Shell Station. "I love the new business," she said. "I'm so happy to live to see it (the property) develop into a business." Margaret planted the trees along the roadway to help the property develop. "None of the close businesses bothered me. When Benny (Coker who owned Rusty Anchor) asked me if I was afraid, I said no, I love it." Margaret quit driving in 1986, but she is still independent. "Tension is what will kill you, not hard work." "We never know what is in front of us, we have our dreams, but we never know how they will end up." She tells parents to teach values to their children. "We made this path for all of you. There is character in hard work."

In 1936 the school moved to its present location. She started serving hamburgers in her cafe, then in two weeks she began serving plate lunches. The train crews would come and eat at Margaret's little cafe. That grew into a larger business but the two-three hours of rest she got at night finally got her down and her health broke. Even with the debt to build the station she raised the boys, eventually paying off the loan with her hard work. "Somehow I got the boys through school," she said, but she never remarried until they were gone from home.

Margaret has enjoyed her many years for the newspaper, and in her column her attitude toward life is reflected. "The doctor says its attitude that keeps me going. If it's attitude, I'm going to work on it." "If I gripe, God could take it all away, that's why I stay with it." "I love everybody. I work on 'God is my shepherd' business constantly." "I'm glad I'm alive." Happy Birthday Margaret Rountree Rench. May you live to see the next century.

In 1941 she sold her cabins, station and cafe, because of her health. On May 19, 1942 Margaret married Joe Rench. Joe was a brick mason, who worked away from home during the week. Margaret, among other things, began to sell Avon. With Joe gone all week working and the boys grown and gone, Margaret would sell Avon products to people in Lincoln to Carrizozo. For 43 years she sold Avon products. "Avon was companionship." But in 1983 she gave up her Avon sales because of her health.

August wedding planned

Joe was elected mayor of the village and began to work on the Smokey Bear Museum. It was all free gratis work, from the donated property to the logs cut, hauled, skinned and placed in the cabin to honor Smokey Bear. "There was community spirit for the museum." Joe began working on the fireplace in the cabin when he died. Afterwards his crew came and finished it. Margaret herself hauled rock from Corona for the structure. The years following Joe's death, Margaret continued to work. She sold Avon and ran a laundromat. In 1955 she began her Capitan News column. At the time she began, she was just learning to type. She and Millie Morris worked together on the column for two weeks, then Margaret took over full time. Off and on, she battled illness and bad health. In 1967 she got back on her feet with treatments from Dr. D'Elia in Ruidoso. In Sept. 1970 she began working for Dr. D'Elia in Ruidoso. She worked for the doctor for 16 years. "I wouldn't want to live there (Ruidoso), but I like going there."

Now, she continues her column and still personally delivers newspapers to some friends and neighbors. She is alone, for her two sons died with no heirs, but she has her many friends. "I have to keep going," she said. At one time she had 315 plants. Now she has fewer, having lost some to the late frosts. Margaret has seen many changes in the village since the early days. The village grew right up to her. The Rusty Anchor Bar,

DOE funding for school

Carrizozo Schools are among nine others in the state selected by the State Dept. of Education to receive funding from the Dept. of Energy for an innovative education program in math and science.

The $26,500 grant will provide funds for the Extended Education Program for math and science in Carrizozo Schools. The program will provide hands-on manipulatives or aids for K-6 grade science activities and for teacher training. Science kits for all grades will be financed by the grant.

Science programs in grades 5-8 will be enhanced with the addition of monthly science mystery contests, field trips and awards for contests with the grant money.

High school students in Biology II will find the study of human anatomy more interesting with the equipment and specimens and human sized skeleton financed with the grant.

Two of the most deserving senior math and science students will receive $500 scholarships each.

Graphing calculators will be added to the high school math curriculum and new computers programs and hardware for chemistry, physics, meteorology and earth science.

Three teachers will be monetarily rewarded for their initiatives in math and science instruction out of a $750 fund.

Carrizozo was one of several schools designated by the New Mexico State Dept. of Education as eligible to apply for the DOE grant. Application was made and awarded this spring.

The other schools to share the $265,000 in DOE funding this fiscal year are Chama, Belen, Zuni, Santa Rosa, Lordsburg, Mora, Vaughn, Magdalena and Washington Middle School in Albuquerque.

EMS/Fire Dept. Olympics

Firefighters and Emergency Medical Technicians had a lot of fun Saturday at their first EMS/Fire Dept. Olympics held in Carrizozo.

Winners received gold, silver and bronze medals in their various events.

In water polo, which consisted of a rope strung between two poles, with a tether ball on the rope. Teams had to spray the ball with a fire hose to send it to the other side for a goal.

The winning team consisted of Kathy Williams, Bill Proppner, Mark Waltermire; 2nd place—Vance Sidwell, Shannon Zumwalt and J. Proppner; 3rd—Eddie Jiron, Kim Roper and Kelly Gregory.

Skills event for EMTs, where a "patient" (Maggi Bohks) was taken from under a flat bed trailer, complete with spinal immobilization and transfer to ambulance, was won by the team of Kim Roper, Kelly Gregory and Sammy Roper with a time of five minutes 33.8 seconds. Second place team was Laurie Samora, Dave Vermilion and Williams in a time of 6:5.27.

Donut Roll, where individuals rolled up a laid out length of fire hose, was won by Bill Proppner of Nogal in 13.47 seconds; 2nd place Bobby Vallejos of Carrizozo in 15.01 seconds; and 3rd place Eddie Jiron of Carrizozo in 17.02 seconds.

The fire department relay race consisted of teams, where each member put on bull bunker, carried out a full rolled hose, transferred the hose to the next and took off the bunker gear. The first place team was Jim Hawkins, Junior Hill and Leeroy Zamora. Second place team was John Vega, Leeroy Zamora and Bobby Vallejos; 3rd place Kelly Gregory, Kim Roper and Eddie Jiron.

"Trust Me" for fire department and EMTs was an obstacle course where one partner of a team was blindfolded. Gold medal team was Leeroy Zamora and Jim Hawkins in a time of 1:24.96, 2nd Junior Hill and John Vega in 1:25.29 and 3rd Ernie Gonzales and Kelly Gregory in 1:56.28.

The Gurney Race for EMTs had teams pushing a person holding two cups of water on a gurney through an obstacle course. The first place team was Dave Vermilion, Hayden Smith and Laurie Samora with a time of 23.77 seconds; 2nd Kelly Gregory, Kathy Williams and Ernie Gonzales in 27.20 seconds and 3rd Kim Roper, Sammy Roper and Maggie Bohks in 27.68 seconds.

Kelly Gregory was largely responsible for organizing and carrying out the events.

Carrizozo Fire Dept. also won a tug of war, although not a part of the activities, on a challenge.

The EMS and fire departments are already making plans for their second annual Fire Dept./EMS Olympics next year.

uniforms because the uniforms now in storage in city hall are too large. Trustees asked for costs.

Airport manager Hal Marx reported that the town has runway and beacon lights that were donated free of charge by the Alamogordo Airport manager. Marx is also working on an airport rules and regulations manual.

Airport committee members Dr. David Rouleau and Larry Bond spoke on behalf of Marx and commended his work at the Carrizozo Airport this past year. Trustees approved the airport manager contract for another year.

Trustee Harold Garcia said he has attended meetings of the Capitan Carrizozo Natural Gas Association (CCNGA). His motion to give the CCNGA Board sole authority and power to negotiate the sale of the gas transmission line passed unanimously.

Barbara Ward asked trustees if there were any plans to move the senior citizens center because of the collapsed wall at the old city hall. Trustees said this is not being considered and said there was no need for concern.

The board held a closed session for personnel from 7:56 to 9:37 p.m. After the closed session trustees recommended the mayor offer the part-time police position to Willis Murray.

Al's Musings

By AL STUBBS

Herodifly doesn't figure in fishing skills. Dad could fish the north fork of the Rio Ruidoso and always come home with a creel full of fine browns and rainbow trout. He knew where the wily fish hid out; he knew what flies to use at different times of the year.

As we recall, the grey hackler was his favorite fly.

We hear the weekly fishing report, saying Grindstone is great, the trout are biting anything and everything. So, we decide to try our luck there; no luck.

Maybe Alto Lake is better. We take our folding chair, tackle box and pole and settle down to see what's happening there.

We are waiting for at least a nibble when we spot what appears to be a bass boat being off-loaded at the other end of Alto Lake. Isn't it illegal to have a power boat on a lake that is part of the village's water source? We ask ourselves. The boat is maneuvered close to shore where anglers are hoping for bites. It slows to a crawl and follows the shoreline for awhile.

Curious, we call village hall to see if the rules have changed and if boats can be legally operated on Alto Lake.

Well, yes, that particular boat is legal. Once a week, a chemical to retard the algae in the lake must be sprinkled over the surface of the lake, we found out. The village water department takes care of this chore. A better time to do it, it seems to us, would be after fishing hours.

I suppose we need to take in a fishing school like was offered Monday by Ruidoso Parks and Recreation for youngsters. Dick Ramsey was teaching the kids fishing skills in the morning, and after lunch the group moved to Grindstone Lake to try out their newly learned skills. We'd be slightly jealous if the youngsters all caught their limits. Grindstone is virtually full this spring because of the heavy spring runoff. About all we caught there was moss. Kids had better luck.

According to the fishing and overall experts who gather for coffee daily at Sun World Savings, the crayfish or crawfish at Alto Lake mature in August. Now those things we can catch. We're told they are delicious. They apparently are a distant cousin of lobsters. Trouble is, it takes 25 or 30 and many claws to make a meal. It isn't how many of anything you catch. It's the sport. Right!

The unusually wet spring has created unique situations in other areas. It's not usual that an orchard has to be mowed and raked. The cherry crop over in Otero County in the high country is fantastic this year.

Son-in-law Mark Cadwalder of the Jon Cadwalder Orchards at Mountain Park below Cloudercroft was preparing orchards for the annual (when there is a crop) U-pick operation. He had mowed four-foot tall weeds earlier and had a tractor and rake to gather the now super dry weeds. They constitute a fire hazard if smokers should flip cigarettes on the floor of the orchard. A wild fire in the orchards wouldn't be a good thing. So the weeds were raked. The orchards will be open to pickers this weekend.

Weather cooperated Saturday and Sunday at High Rolls for the annual Cherry Festival. Thousands of people turned out. Barring hail and other natural disasters, the cherry season should extend at least a couple of weeks into July. Those bings are delicious.

The Hondo Valley has good fruit crops this year, too. Apples will hang heavy on the trees in the fall. Already they are very visible. Fruit stands down the valley are doing a good business as visitors to the Playground of the Southwest head for home via U.S. 70 east.

Fireworks stands are open outside the city limits in Otero County. Remember, fireworks are illegal in the forest.

Inside The Capitol

by Jay Miller

SANTA FE—Will H. Ross Perot announce for the presidency this Saturday?

The smart money says "yes."

Perot has a strange fascination with his birthday—somewhat like the rulers of old. He founded EDS, his first and biggest enterprise on his birthday. He sold it to General Motors on his birthday. He left the Navy on his birthday. And now he'll probably announce for the presidency on his birthday, June 27.

The Texas billionaire has said he won't make a decision on the presidency until he is on the ballot in every state. But that was a couple of months ago. Since then the Perot candidacy has caught fire, leaving little doubt that the guy can get on the ballot just about anywhere he wants.

In New Mexico Perot supporters have had little trouble securing the 12,332 signatures necessary to appear on our ballot. His organization says it has over 60,000 and plans to gather at least 100,000 signatures by the Sept. 7 deadline.

Perot made news last weekend by announcing he has hired two more political campaign veterans to assist Ed Rollins and Ham Jordan in running his unannounced independent candidacy. They are Republican Joe Canzeri and Democrat Tim Kraft.

Canzeri was a top advisor to both Pres. Ronald Reagan and Vice President Dan Quayle. Kraft is a New Mexico boy who went to Jimmy Carter White House in 1977 as appointments secretary. Kraft now lives in Corrales.

Political observers are split on the benefit of Perot hiring Washington insiders to run his outsider campaign. Some say it sends all the wrong messages. But many political pros say they didn't take Perot seriously until he hired some of the best in the business to run his campaign.

There are few left in any political camp who do not take Perot seriously. Both Republican and Democrat leaders are saying Perot is primarily hurting their opponent. But that is wrong. He's hurting them both. He's taking nearly all the protest vote from Democrat Bill Clinton while cutting even more heavily into Pres. Bush's support with his anti-incumbent campaign.

A Bush advisor says the large "uncommitted" vote in recent GOP primaries is "a little bit of a signal but not a flashing red light." The Bush campaign and the Republican Party believe that nonchalance, however, by throwing some major brickbats in Perot's direction. Many experts predict this campaign will get even dirtier than most.

The 1988 campaign set new lows in negative campaigning, but with two opponents to go after and a lot of evidence that negative campaigns work, Bush's campaign is expected to rewrite the record book.

But Perot has a powerful weapon on his side. The media, in its search for excitement, are giving the diminutive businessman more coverage than either of the major party candidates. And they do it despite Perot's obvious contempt for them.

At every opportunity Perot has gone to the people instead of dealing with journalists. He announced his possible candidacy on a talk show and seeks out national call-in appearances at every opportunity.

Likely Democrat candidate Bill Clinton has followed Perot's lead, playing his saxophone on Arsenio Hall's show and taking questions from real people on "NBC Today" and MTV. Bush tried to counter with a press conference but couldn't get any of the three major networks to cover it—a further help to Perot.

This is becoming a very upside-down campaign with network news departments shunning the two major party candidates in favor of an unannounced candidate who is succeeding marvelously at playing hard-to-get.

And maybe the biggest shocker of all—MTV, the kids' music television escape from reality, is doing a bangup job of covering the presidential campaign, while pushing voter registration and getting out the young vote.

Smokey Bear Stampede . . .

Calf dressing will be for adults and will consist of three members with at least one member being a female. The idea is to wrestle a calf down to the ground and put a pair of bloomers on it in the fastest time possible. Call Darlene at 354-2242 for information and entries.

Early entries and information about the rodeo stock, provided by Casper Baca Rodeo Co., call (505) 287-9634. Rodeo Day entries will be taken at the fairgrounds. Baca, who belongs to several rodeo associations, has been voted the best rough stock contractor of the year in the All Indian Rodeo Cowboys Association.

Delaware Park Miniature Horses of Tularosa will have some miniature horses on hand so kids can have pictures taken with. The horses will be at the rodeo both July 3 and 4.

All rodeo events will be held at every performance of the Smokey Bear Stampede.

Dances will follow the July 3 and 4 evening rodeo performances in the fairgrounds exhibition hall. Music will be by the Dalk Brothers Band.

Independence Day opens with the 12th annual Smokey Bear Fun Run at 8 a.m. Runners will start at the bank parking lot and proceed north on Highway 246. Both 10K and two mile runs begin at the parking lot. The entry fee will be lower if runners preregister by sending a check before July 1 to Friends of Smokey, Box 545, Capitan, N.M. 88316. T-shirts and refreshments will be given to all participants. The overall female and male winners will receive plaques, the top three finishers in each age group will receive medals and ribbons to those in fourth-sixth places. Smokey Bear will make a special appearance at the race.

For more information about the race call 354-2699.

Crowds will gather along Highway 380 looking for a shady spot from which to watch the 37th annual Smokey Bear Stampede Parade which begins at 10:30 a.m. After the parade will be a barbecue starting at 11:30 a.m. at the fairgrounds.

Barbecue will be free with the price of an afternoon rodeo ticket.

The July 4th rodeo performance begins at 1 p.m. Another performance begins at 7 p.m.

Smokey Bear will be on hand at all rodeo performances. Festivities conclude with the dances by The Dalk Brothers from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

For those who wish to view fireworks, which are banned from the village of Capitan and surrounding Lincoln National Forest lands, there will be a fireworks display presented by the Carrizozo Fire Dept. at the golf course in Carrizozo. The fireworks begin after dark and there is no charge.

HSD tax intercept program deadline

SANTA FE—The deadline to apply for the state Human Services Department's tax intercept program for child support is July 13, 1992.

Through this program HSD submits delinquent accounts to the IRS and the state Taxation and Revenue Department to intercept refunds from absent parents. So far this fiscal year HSD has intercepted more than $3.1 million.

"Tax intercept is an effective means of obtaining payment from absent parents who refuse to pay," said Ben Silva, director of HSD's Child Support Enforcement Division. "We don't believe children should have to depend on only one parent for support."

In order for HSD to intercept, Silva said an account must be delinquent more than $600 and be based on a court order for a child who is still a minor.

Anyone who would like more information on the tax intercept program should contact a regional HSD child support enforcement office. For the nearest location or phone number call 1-800-432-6217.

The Other Side

By Owen Russell

You should never end a sentence with a preposition, and I wouldn't do it if I knew what one was. I have been told that the reason you shouldn't is if you do the participle doesn't have anything to dangle from. (that sounds smoother than saying "from which to dangle," doesn't it?)

Medical tests are devices used to transfer my heart attack to the insurance carrier. (More about this next week.)

Viscosity: n. A slippery subject. If you don't believe this, keep reading. The viscosity of some of my comments is overwhelming. This is a definition that fits into the scheme of this article without detracting from nor adding to the subject matter and whose only function seems to be to maintain space between occasional thoughts of a sufficient breadth so the reader may avoid confusing them since by the time he gets to the next thought, he will have forgotten the last one.

I'm sitting here trying to think up something to say this week, and I looked in my file labeled "Errata" which is supposed to have things in it I have written earlier that can be used when I need them. All I've found this week is 1) things I shouldn't have said, 2) things nobody cares about, and 3) things that need more effort than I currently have to spare to be publishable. Oh, well, I guess I can do what I usually do and just make it up as I go along.

I also keep little notes on odd scraps of paper that are sometimes complete enough to remind me of what I had in mind when I wrote it down. You know, you have a burst of inspiration on the spur of the moment and you write it down on a cocktail napkin or business card, or any other type of paper, depending on where you might be at the time, which explains the stains on the bathroom wall because some paper is overly absorbent, and then you look at it later and wonder what idiot wrote it and what you had in mind when you did. One such note that I must have written sometime between the David Letterman Show and Hogan's Heroes says, "do something on insomnia", oo, although I don't know much about it, here goes! (I first said "wrote" instead of "written" and then remembered my English teacher would either roll over in her grave or my grandson's English teacher would have a heart attack and join her if I left it that way. Sometimes, selecting the proper reflective mood of words makes me tense.)

Oh, yeah. Insomnia, n. the state of being awake when everyone else thinks you should be asleep. An excuse for the way you look this morning. A chronic condition which is subject to a miraculous cure when the subject is given the responsibility for maintaining vigilance while everyone else is sleeping. A nocturnal person with a diurnal occupation. As a friend of mine once said, "If I drink one more cup of coffee, I won't be able to sleep a wink tomorrow."

"You are entitled to respect only if you deserve it." This is one of the little tidbits I found in the Errata file which is designed to fill space without controversy because it means what it says without meaning much of anything in particular. I put it in quotes to set it off from the rest of the paragraph, not because it is attributable to any particular person, because I don't know any person who would resort to such inanities just to fill space. And with my powers of concentration and abilities to formulate sentences that begin at the beginning and tortuously and endlessly wind along looking for a period, I wouldn't need to resort to filling the page with words that are designed to become grist for a boilerplate factory. And inci-

Letter to the Editor

EDITOR—Once again the CONTROLLERS of Lincoln County and their mousepiece (J. Robert Beauvais) creeps out of the woodwork and displays their true nature and intent which is, if you live outside the corporate limits of Capitan, Carrizozo, Corona, Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs, you are about to be robbed of your common law private property rights and extorted into paying your hard earned money for unreliable and questionable "service" fees for garbage, with the threat of Big Brother (Lincoln County Government) filing a lien and ultimate confiscation of your private property if you refuse their "service" for whatever reason.

And naturally "for their breed" the large land holders (300 continuous acres or more) will be exempt, or so they believe!

If you don't believe it or like the above the final public meeting/hearing before this theft occurs will be held at Lincoln County Commissioners court Tuesday, June 30, 1:15 p.m. Any of the commissioners who vote for this atrocity should be remembered in the upcoming election.

As for me I remain "without prejudice" U.C.C. 1-207.4 in this matter.

Free well water testing Monday

SANTA FE—The New Mexico Environment Department will offer free private well water testing for residents of the Carrizozo area from 1 p.m. until 4 p.m. on Monday, June 29, 1992.

This public education event will include testing for nitrates and organic vapor. No bacteriological tests nor samples from public water supplies will be done at this event. Private water well users are asked to bring at least 1 quart of water from their well in a clean, covered container. Containers or lids should not have been used for pickles, cider or anything with a strong odor. The sample should be collected from a cold water faucet that has been allowed to run at least 5 minutes before the container is filled. Collect the sample as close as possible to the time it is brought for testing. Please record the date and time the sample is taken.

A questionnaire will be filled out for each well, giving location of the well, how many persons use it, age, construction and depth of well. If the well has been tested before, bring the results of that test for comparison and to help the water resource specialists interpret the results of this test.

Private water well users can bring samples to the Carrizozo Recreation Center at 101 6th Avenue between 1 and 4 p.m. for testing.

Lincoln County Fair Queen to be crowned

Two girls will compete for the title of 1993 Lincoln County Fair Queen on July 3. Tina Clements of Corona and Karrie Runnels of Bonita signed up as contestants for queen at the clinic held June 11. Clements is the 19 year old daughter of Henry and Mary Clements of Corona. Tina, a 1992 Corona High School graduate, has been a Corona resident for about 15 years. This is Tina's second year to work at the Corona Senior Citizen Center and her second year to compete for the Lincoln County Fair Queen title.

Karrie is the daughter of Benny Runnels and Debbie Runnels. Karrie will be a sophomore at New Mexico State University at Las Cruces majoring in elementary education with a minor in coaching. She is a 1991 Capitan High School graduate. This is her first year to compete for Fair Queen.

The girls will compete in personality and horsemanship before three judges beginning at 1 p.m. Friday, July 3, at the Lincoln County Fairground arena in Capitan. The girls will be required to answer questions in a dress, then will be given time to change into riding clothing and saddle their horses. Once on horseback, the girls will be required to run a pattern, mount and dismount, then run their own pattern for two minutes. At 7 p.m. that night, at the very start of the first Smokey Bear Stampede Rodeo performance, at the arena the 1992 Lincoln County Fair Queen

ROXANNE COONS
 Roxanne Coons will be formally crowned. This will entitle her to compete in the state fair queen contest in September in Albuquerque. Roxanne, daughter of Lois Coons of Capitan, was chosen queen-in-waiting last year. This will be the last year Lincoln County will have a queen-in-waiting. Recently the Lincoln County Fair Board voted to do away with the queen-in-waiting which requires the girl selected one year to wait an entire year to compete in the state queen contest.

To make the transition to selecting a queen to represent the county that same year, there will be no queen contest for 1993. The next contest after this year will be in 1994.

The last queen-in-waiting will be announced on Saturday, July 4.

At the July 3 coronation, Roxanne will receive a silver crown and belt buckle from Jones Western Wear of El Paso. She also will receive money from the fair board to help defray her costs to compete in the state queen contest. Roxanne is also doing some fund raising and the winner of a drawing will be announced during the rodeos.

The queen's contest is open to the public.

Ranchers and farmers object to booklet

LAS CRUCES, N.M., June 18, 1992—The New Mexico Farm and Livestock Bureau is asking the state's congressional delegation to reprimand officials at the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) for using tax-funded publications to promote the sale of an "anti-ranching" booklet written by certain political groups.

The specific EPA publication, "News-Notes," advertises the sale of a booklet titled, "How Not to Be Cowed - Livestock Grazing on Public Lands: An Owner's Manual." The pamphlet was written by the Natural Resources Defense Council and other organizations characterized in the letter as "political groups who are in the business of perpetrating propaganda." The letter, written on behalf of the 10,500 family members of the New Mexico Farm and Livestock Bureau asks the New Mexico representatives in Congress to contact those responsible for the document at the EPA and explain that "tax funded documents are no place to promote misinformation and provide free advertising for the sale of political propaganda."

The request concludes, "Ranchers and farmers are a vital part of the economy and culture of this nation and do not deserve to be insulted by a bunch of misguided bureaucrats who don't know a heifer from a hereford."

The New Mexico Farm and Livestock Bureau is the state's largest organization of farmers, ranchers and rural residents, and is a private, non-profit association.

Mary Crenshaw will set the mood on piano beginning at 7:15 p.m. Johnson Stearns will welcome the audience and Roy Down will be Master of Ceremonies.

The opening act will be performed by a young trio composed of Lisa Duggar, Holly Schlarb and Renee Rael.

Johnie and Judy Johnson will present a duet, Albert LaFave will perform along with Glen Ellison in a medley of various types of music.

Sanchez retires from education

After over 26 years in various phases of education encompassing K-12 and university level activities throughout New Mexico, James Sanchez, a native of Lincoln County, has announced his retirement.

Though he is now "officially" retired, Sanchez is far from it, according to his wife, Lynda, also an educator and writer. They reside in historic Lincoln where they ranch and are involved in numerous local, community and statewide activities.

Sanchez began at Ruidoso High School teaching electricity, electronics, drafting and architectural design. After four years he returned to Graduate School where he obtained his Masters in Psychology and Counseling, and later an Administrator's certificate. He is also certified to teach psychology, biology and the general sciences.

While serving as an elementary counselor in Portales, then Ruidoso Superintendent, Pat Valiant, called one day and asked if he would like to return to the mountains and Ruidoso Schools to develop a full time counseling program.

Sanchez agreed and returned to a growing district where he became not only the Director of Guidance and Counseling, but the Director of Vocational Education. During this time he developed one of the first comprehensive vocational programs in the district as well as in the state of New Mexico. These included the Industrial Cooperative Training Program, Health Occupations, Office Occupations, Building Trades and a Cooperative Vo-Ag Program. Later the Distributive Education Program was added.

"I always appreciated Superintendent Valiant's encouragement and support in developing the various programs offering students many educational opportunities," noted Sanchez.

During this time he also was involved in coaching both boys and girls sports and was responsible for introducing the Academic All District Award for worthy athletes stressing not only athletic ability, but strong academic performances as well. Today, many schools have incorporated that recognition into their annual awards presented to athletes.

Along with Sandy Gladden and Dub Williams he was instrumental in establishing the yearly Academic Awards Banquet which has not only grown, but was another means of recognizing students for academic excellence, something for which Sanchez was always striving.

As Ruidoso grew, responsibility did also and because of his innovative ideas and expertise he was continually asked to serve on various advisory committees to streamline educational goals and direction in both counseling and academics statewide.

His appointment to the New Mexico State Board of Education by Gov. King was the latest and perhaps the most important, in his estimation, since it is the State Board that sets policy and direction for the more than 88 school districts in New Mexico. This board, of which he is now vice-president, also approves funding of over one billion dollars for these districts. It is an incredible responsibility that Sanchez takes very seriously.

One little known fact is that for years he was one of a handful of bi-lingual diagnosticians in the entire state of New Mexico.

After 18 years in Ruidoso, Sanchez was offered a position with New Mexico Military Institute. He worked as a college advisor and served as Chairman of the Human Rights Council and Director of Affirmative Action.

Over the years other activities and means of public service included membership in Sen. Bingaman's Border Business Task Force which helped clear the way for better understanding of border problems and business potential. He has also been an organizer and featured speaker at the governor's summit on education. Gov. King has asked that he become a member of the Council to Advance Math and Science Education in New Mexico.

Such involvement will continue as well as his activity at the local level. He has served for eight years as a trustee of Lincoln County Medical Center and he is past chairman of the Lincoln County Planning Commission.

His recent decision to run for the County Commission for District 5 is but another example of his concern and interest in his native region.

"Lincoln County is one of the most diverse and beautiful counties in New Mexico, in the Southwest actually, and we must strive to maintain this special quality of life for our residents. I will now have more time to devote to important county issues," said Sanchez. "Am I retired?" he asks. "Officially, yes, but not really!"

Trash ordinance

hearing concerning the proposed solid waste collection ordinance in their chambers in the courthouse in Carrizozo. At that time members of the public will be allowed to comment on the proposed ordinance entitled: An Ordinance Providing for the Efficient and Sanitary Collection of Solid Waste in Lincoln County; Providing for Mandatory Disposal and Assessment of Fees and Providing a Penalty for Violation of the Ordinance.

The ordinance defines "garbage" as waste food, swill, carion, slops and all waste from food preparation and consumption or storage, handling and sale of food products and carcasses of animals.

Refuse is all junked parts or bodies of automobiles, tires, waste paper, paper cartons, cardboard, trees, tree branches, yard trimmings or clippings, leaves, pine needles, wood, glass, plastics, discarded furniture or appliances, tin cans, bottles, dirt, ashes, liquid petroleum waste, such as motor oil, and all other unwholesome material of every kind not included as garbage or debris.

Debris is all waste building material, bricks, concrete blocks, shingles, roofing material, lumber, metal or plastic piping, commercial construction wastes and any other matter that is commonly known as debris.

Responsible party is the owner or tenant of any premise, whether vacant, improved or unimproved, used primarily for either a private or business purpose, who is responsible for payment of the mandatory fee for collection.

Owner is defined as the property owner, whether residing in the premises or not, the property on which premises occupies being outside the corporate boundaries of the municipalities of Capitan, Carrizozo, Corona, Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs.

Solid waste is garbage, refuse and/or debris of any kind generated by an individual, household or commercial establishment.

Premises is an improved or unimproved structure, whether designed for private or commercial use, located on any property outside the corporate limits of Capitan, Carrizozo, Corona, Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs, and is the unit upon which mandatory fees are assessed and collected.

The proposed ordinance requires a mandatory collection and disposal of garbage, refuse, rubbish and debris. Accumulation of such is a violation of a 1985 county ordinance and the proposed on. All garbage, refuse, rubbish and debris generated by an owner or tenant on the premises of a responsible party shall only be deposited in a solid waste container authorized by the county or the Class C Landfill near Capitan.

With the proposed ordinance, the county commissioners may:

—Contract, on the county's behalf, with any municipality, county or local unit of government, including Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority, for the collection, transportation and disposal of solid waste generated in the unincorporated areas of Lincoln County.

—Regulate the collection, transportation and disposal of refuse by entities performing collection services on behalf of Lincoln County;

—Establish, assess and collect fees directly or through its authorized agent from responsible parties using the solid waste collection system.

—Coordinate the collection, transportation and disposal of solid waste in consultation with the New Mexico Dept. of Environment.

In order to finance the county solid waste collections, the proposed ordinance provides for a mandatory fee.

Participation in the collection system is "mandatory on each responsible party in the unincorporated areas of Lincoln County."

The county commissioners will set the fees for solid waste collection "based on the actual cost to collect, transport and dispose of such solid waste."

No system of fees will be established or changed until a public hearing is held, after 20 days notice to the public, which will be published once in a county newspaper at least 15 days before the hearing.

In order to collect on past due collection accounts, the proposed ordinance gives the county power to impose liens on properties.

All fees set by the ordinance are payable by the responsible party of the property being served and Lincoln County shall be "entitled to a lien upon the tract or parcel of land being served pursuant to the authority" authorized by state statutes. Notices of any liens will be filed according to state laws.

Payment of the solid waste collection charges and fees are the responsibility of the responsible party of the premises, regardless of whether occupied by an owner, tenants, or others, and the county may file a lien against the property for charges, penalties and attorney fees incurred in the cost of filing the lien. However, if the owner notifies the county or designee that charges incurred by a tenant shall not be the responsibility of the owner.

The owner must notify the county of tenant being responsible for collection fees in writing prior to initiation of the debt and shall include the location of the rental property.

A property owner may request a waiver of the solid waste collection fee if the landowner has at least 300 contiguous acres with adequate disposal sites per household. Then the owner must dispose of waste in accordance with any regulations of the Environmental Improvement Board or the New Mexico Water Quality Control Commission as determined by the New Mexico Environment Dept. The owner or tenant must also comply with the 1990 county ordinance regarding the unauthorized accumulation and disposal of solid waste.

The ordinance also provides for penalties to those who violate it. Violations are judged on discarding or disposing of solid waste or debris on public or private property in any manner other than disposing it in an authorized landfill.

Persons violating the ordinance will be subject to a $800 fine and/or 90 days in jail for each separate offense. Fines are not to exceed $1,000. Each violation constitutes a separate offense and each day an offense continues also will constitute a separate offense.

Any section of the ordinance that may be determined in violation of the Constitution or statutes of New Mexico by a court will be stricken and unenforceable.

The proposed ordinance will become effective 30 days if it is approved by the county commissioners.

Currently, the county provides free dumpster service. Anyone and everyone, including visitors and tourists, use the dumpsters. A private company, Southwest Disposal Corporation of Alamogordo, picks up trash in the dumpsters and transports it to the Otero County Landfill in Dog Canyon.

If the ordinance making mandatory collection and fees is approved, the county dumpsters will be replaced by those from the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority. LCSWA plans to provide more dumpsters and have them closer to residences, keeping a formula of a dumpster for each six households in mind. LCSWA will monitor those dumpsters to determine whether there is a need for more or less service at each.

The LCSWA board of directors adopted a plan to bill county residents quarterly. LCSWA will encourage residents to pay for the service on an annual basis, but a monthly payment will be provided for special cases.

Billings will be mailed out of the LCSWA office in Ruidoso Downs. The list of customers will be developed with the help of the Lincoln County Assessor's office.

An additional service LCSWA hopes to provide will be a weekly pickup of large bulky home items, such as old furniture and appliances.

County collections by LCSWA will depend on the adoption of the proposed mandatory solid waste ordinance.

Copies of the proposed ordinance are available from the Lincoln County Manager's office in Carrizozo. Call county manager Andy Wynham at 648-2385 for more information.

Sheriff's report

A San Patricio resident was jailed Sunday after going on a high speed car ride on Highway 380. Moses Chavez, 21, San Patricio, was arrested by Capitan police officer Rudy Saiz after he was stopped east of the village. The incident began when State Police contacted the Lincoln County Sheriff's Office about a small compact car east-bound on Highway 380 at 90 miles per hour, and the driver was possibly drunk. The vehicle was also involved in a head on collision also.

About five minutes after dispatch received the report the Capitan police officer advised he was in contact with the vehicle. The officer stopped Chavez, then arrested him. He was taken to the Lincoln County Jail in Carrizozo and booked on charges of DWI, reckless driving and open container. He was released on an order by Magistrate Judge Gerald Dean Jr. Monday.

Canyon Road to assist Ruidoso Ambulance Service with a major accident involving the Lone Tree Bible Camp van with 16 children aboard. According to reports, all but two children were treated and released from Lincoln County Medical Center in Ruidoso with injuries ranging from lacerations to broken bones. Two were kept for observation. The driver, Corey McGee apparently fell asleep, police said.

10:31 p.m.—a Gavilan Canyon resident reported a peeping Tom, going on for two weeks. The peeping Tom had been looking in windows and beating on the door. When the complainant returned after being gone, pry marks were found on the window. The responding deputy was checking the area.

Killer bees may be in New Mexico next fall

LAS CRUCES—New Mexico State University's (NMSU) Cooperative Extension Service and other agencies are accelerating plans for a statewide educational campaign to prepare residents for the arrival of Africanized honeybees, sometimes called killer bees.

The bees are currently about 300 miles southeast of Las Cruces near Texas' Big Bend National Park. U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) officials predict the bees' arrival to New Mexico within two years.

Mike English, NMSU Extension entomologist, said heavier rainfall has placed a high priority on the campaign.

"We've had a very wet spring with a lot of flowers blooming. We thought the desert might slow the bees' movement north, but this weather has made it very conducive for those bees to move," said English. He said the aggressive bees may appear in southern New Mexico as early as next fall because of those conditions.

English and representatives of the New Mexico Department of Agriculture and the state health department recently formed a task force to plan an educational strategy of public service announcements, visual programs and printed material.

The educational program will be directed at all age groups, starting with school children. Primary education campaign targets, however, will be highway department workers, pest control operators and others more likely to come in contact with beehives, said English.

Task force members are garnering financial and manpower support from other agencies to have the program operational before the bees arrive. The most help could come from commercial beekeepers.

"They can do a good job managing the bees. If they requeen the hives of Africanized honeybees with more docile strains of queens as the aggressive bees move in, we can probably make these bees a little more docile," said English.

Africanized honeybees were first introduced to Brazil in 1957. Attempts by several nations in South and Central America to exterminate the pests proved futile.
