27 candidates vie for 10 county positions

Lincoln County voters will have choices to make in the June 2 primary election. A total of 27 people filed as candidates Tuesday for the 10 positions on the ballot with eight Democrats opposing 19 Republicans.

and (2) Patsy Serna, Republicans.

This year there will be no write-in candidates because filing date was March 31 and there were no potential candidates.

Commissioners complete short business session

Lincoln County Commissioners made quick work of their Tuesday meeting.

With shorter meetings a goal of new county manager Andy Wynham, commissioners completed most of their business by noon. Items discussed included the hospital mill levy, economic development funds, and potential problems stemming from tabling three proposed ordinances.

Voters will be asked to approve a mill levy with funds earmarked for the operation and maintenance of Lincoln County Medical Center (LCMC) on the ballot of the general election in November.

LCMC administrator Valerie Miller requested commissioners hold a special election just for the mill levy question in September. She said the general election ballot will be very busy with several state tax questions, amendments and numerous candidates. She was concerned the mill levy issue would be lost on the ballot, and be passed.

"Without the mill levy we face significant reduction on the level of service," Miller said.

A special election costs about $7,000.

Commissioners passed a resolution in November 1991 which authorized asking voters to approve 4.25 mills for LCMC. Part of those funds may sometime in the future be set aside for an indigent medical fund.

Commissioners Monroy Montes and Stirling Spencer voted to keep the mill levy question on the November general election ballot because the mill levy passed easily in 1984.

Commissioner Bill Elliott voted no to the November ballot, favoring the special election, to assure its passage. "I believe it is imperative we pass the mill levy...it is important enough for a special election."

About $390,000 a year from the mill levy funds is used for hospital operations. The remaining funds are banked and earmarked for capital equipment improvements. The funds are used conservatively, Miller continued, and go for cash payments for equipment to avoid interest costs.

LCSWA closer to joint landfill

It was an historic meeting at the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority office in Ruidoso Downs Thursday.

Lincoln County came one step closer to aligning with Otero County in an effort to find a joint landfill. And Otero County and its respective municipalities moved closer to forming their own authority.

At a worksession of the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority, all three Otero County Commissioners, representatives from the City of Alamogordo, Cloudcroft and Holloman Air Force Base and

Sen. Maurice Hobson met with LCSWA chairman Victor Alonso, vice chairman Frank Warth and attorney Robert Beauvais.

The main topic of the meeting was a regional landfill. Based on hydrological and soil studies, the area best suited for a landfill is located west of Highway 54 out into Holloman Air Force Base from Three Rivers south to just north of Tularosa.

Lincoln County has sought an alliance with Otero on a landfill because its population is too small to finance a landfill alone. However, if Lincoln County joined with Otero County on a landfill, the costs could become proportionately lower. LCSWA has talked with Otero for more than a year about such a landfill.

J. Luna announces for sheriff

Lincoln County Deputy Sheriff Jimmie Luna has formally announced he will seek the Republican nomination for Sheriff of Lincoln County in the June 2 Primary Election.

Luna, a Deputy Sheriff in Lincoln County for over seven years, sincerely believes he can provide the leadership and direction needed to take the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department into the mid-1990s and beyond.

Luna believes that many of the civil lawsuits filed against the department over the past years could have been avoided. Says Luna "There is no mid-level supervision within the department. Employees do pretty much what they want to and when they want to, and this results in unnecessary and expensive lawsuits. Like it or not, lawsuits are here to stay, and we must learn to cope with them. Since 1988, nearly all of the lawsuits against the department resulted from failure to give due process to someone. Due process basically means following the law, rules, regulations, and policies currently in place to insure that each person the department comes in contact with is treated with funda-

Trustee. He served as mayor pro-tem for two of those years.

Baca was project administrator for the one-quarter million dollar housing rehabilitation project in Carrizozo in 1984. The project was funded by the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG.) Baca presently works for the C.O. Rominger Co.

Helen Meeks celebrates 100

Mrs. Helen Meeks celebrated her 100th birthday with a party at the home of her granddaughter in Simi Valley, California, on March 14, 1992. Jennifer and Shane McGuire were hosts to the large family gathering.

Helen Hinchey Meeks was born in Elmwood, Ohio, on March 18, 1892. She came to New Mexico in 1900 with her parents, Robert Holland Hinchey and Frances Anna Hinchey, a brother Robert F. Hinchey, and a sister Alice Hinchey Rogers.

Her father herded goats for Lum Byfield near Nogal and Charlie Bruton west of Bingham near San Antonio, and later worked for Frank Billings near Oscuro. The family moved to the Hondo-Tinnie area and herded goats for Oscar Hyde. In 1917, her father bought a cattle ranch in the Capitan Mountains. After his death, Mrs. Meeks continued to run the ranch until 1956, when she sold it to Virgil Grantham and built a home east of Carrizozo. In 1962, she sold that home and moved to Alamogordo, where she lived until 1983, at which time she moved to Torrance, California, to live with her daughter and son-in-law.

Helping Mrs. Meeks celebrate her 100 years at the party were her son and his wife, her daughter and her husband, nine grandchildren with husbands and wives, and five great-grandchildren, and many friends. She received many birthday cards, telephone calls, telegrams, and flowers and balloons. She also received a birthday card from the President and Mrs. George Bush and a letter of congratulations from Willard Scott of NBC News.

Joint landfill . . .

Canyon landfill, which will limit its life to two years, have prompted the Otero-LCSWA meetings.

LCSWA president Victor Alonso thought it imperative to proceed with siting a landfill soon, since it takes about two years to complete the permit process.

Dave Warren, a University of New Mexico researcher working on a study for the Otero County Commission, displayed maps and data on possible landfill sites, pinpointing five in the area north of Tularosa. Combined with five possible sites in Lincoln County identified by a study commissioned by the Lincoln County Commissioners, there are about 10 more specific sites which can be considered for a landfill, Warren said.

Hoping to speed the process on creating a regional landfill, draft copies of a joint powers agreement between the Lincoln and Otero governments were given to each representative.

Otero County and its three municipal governments have yet to organize a countywide authority to deal with solid waste. How to organize such an authority was also a topic of the work session.

The Otero representatives were told of the legal process to establish an Otero County Solid Waste Authority, with fair representation based on population, similar to LCSWA.

Alonso told of the decision behind the LCSWA representation, which gave all municipalities one vote, regardless of population. Ruidoso has the largest representation on LCSWA because of its larger population, but took less than the majority to entice the smaller communities.

He urged the Otero representatives to put aside their disagreements over other issues in order to deal with the landfill problem.

"The voters have said this is the most important issue, and let's not muddy the waters with other issues," Alonso said.

Draft joint powers agreements for a regional landfill effort also were distributed to the Otero group for an Otero Solid Waste Authority to take back to their respective governments for consideration.

Exactly how the Otero governments will organize will be their decisions.

More defined costs per population, and the feasibility of a landfill based on seven financing options will be available to LCSWA by summer's end from the Army Corps of Engineers' study.

The group closed the session deciding to meet again Monday, April 13 in Cloudercroft, at the invitation of mayor Michael Nivison. Alonso requested the draft joint powers agreements be brought back for consideration and possible signing.

No more free dumps for Capitan

Capitan residents will no longer be able to dump Class C trash in the village landfill for free.

Mayor Frank Warth announced Tuesday the Class C landfill, formerly owned by the village of Capitan, was assumed by the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority (LCSWA) this week.

Residents will no longer be provided a "courtesy" dump on Saturdays. When it was owned by the village, residents could dump construction type waste at the landfill by showing a recently paid water bill. With the transfer of ownership to LCSWA, the village will have no jurisdiction over the Class C landfill.

The landfill, for bulky construction, yard, and similar wastes, will continue to be open for dumping. There will be a fee, based on the size of load, charged to all landfill users.

Potluck tonight for Father Ed

A potluck dinner for Father Ed Griffith will be held this evening (April 9) at 7 pm at Santa Rita Catholic Church in Carrizozo. Parishioners from Capitan, Carrizozo and Corona are invited.

Commissioners

Medical Center and Carrizozo Clinic have no debt," Miller said.

The mill levy question will be on the November ballot.

Two commissioners preferred providing economic development funds to an airline rather than a railroad.

Representatives of Resort Air, Ltd. and IronHorse Railroad both asked for $5,000 of county economic development funds. Larry Goodman with IronHorse requested the funds to use a match for a New Mexico State Transportation Authority-financed study. He also told of a new route for the proposed narrow gauge steam railroad—from Carrizozo, up the old rail route to Capitan through Fort Stanton to Sierra Blanca Regional Airport.

Ruidoso Mayor Victor Alonso, vice-president of Resort Air, Ltd., asked for the $5,000 to obtain an FAA Type 121 license to operate. Ruidoso, knowing it could not operate an airline on its own, has sought cooperation from other resort areas in the state like Taos, Raton and Santa Fe.

Private parties in each town are raising funds for the airline now, Alonso said.

The airline proposes to have daily service on a north/south route from El Paso to Denver and east/west from Dallas to Tucson. It will be based at Sierra Blanca Regional Airport.

Alonso said the county will derive direct economic benefit from operation of the airline with the employees and potential to expand the business climate in the area.

County attorney Bob Beauvais cautioned commissioners about the anti-donation clause on the New Mexico state constitution, which makes it unlawful to provide taxpayers money to private and public institutions. If any funds were given, the receiver would have to provide some written service contract to the county.

Montes and Elliott agreed the airlines would most benefit the county since there is an airport facility. Alonso was asked to come back with a document that would avoid violation of the anti-donation clause.

Potential legal problems for the county caused the tabling of three proposed ordinances. The Agriculture and Rural Affairs Advisory Board had requested three federal laws also become county law through ordinances.

County ordinance versions of the Public Range Lands Improvement Act, the Civil Rights Act, and adoption of the 5th and 14th amendments to the US Constitution were considered in public hearing.

Beauvais had strong objections to the ordinances, primarily the Civil Rights Act. The Civil Rights Act is prosecuted in federal district court, but as a county ordinance, it would be prosecuted in magistrate court.

Bill Hays, chairman of the Ag Advisory Board, said the federal laws had successfully been made into county ordinances in Catron County and had given the county government more power in dealing with federal agencies.

The range lands act would require the county to become involved in negotiations between federal agencies and grazing permit holders. Hays said the county could become a mediator in disputes, since many permit holders do not have the resources to fight the federal government.

"It would put the county where we (the county) fight your legal battles," Elliott said.

Montes acknowledged the intent of the proposed ordinances to protect the county, but also realized the potential for costly litigation.

"Let's put something together to protect this county," Montes said about using ordinances used by Catron County.

Commissioners finally tabled the ordinances until May 19, when they will again be considered. Until then, Spencer recommended meeting with the Ag Advisory Board and the attorney.

In other business commissioners:

-Authorized Sheriff Jay McSwane work on a proposed ordinance regulating security alarm systems and provide for a fee or penalty for false alarms.

-Okayed a Cannabis Cooperative Agreement between the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department (White Mountain Task Force) and the US Forest Service with the task force to receive $5,000 of the available $7,000.

-Authorized Wynham to work with the county lodger's tax committee to deal with unpaid lodgers' tax by several RV campgrounds in the county. Also, the same ordinance which allows tax also requires all lodges to have a county permit. The permitting also will be dealt with by Wynham.

-Gave approval for United New Mexico Bank to begin paving roads in Deer Park Meadows subdivision according to specifications indicated in the original plat disclosure statement. The roads must be maintained by the bank for two years, at which time they will be inspected and possibly later accepted by the county.

-Asked Little Creed area property owner David Jones to return with a petition signed by 10 other area property owners. Jones requested the county accept his private road. If he returns with the petition, a road review will take place.

-Directed the road review committee to look at a Hondo area road, east of County Road B-019.

-Approved the qualification record for Glancon-Paloverde Volunteer Fire Fighters.

-Heard Wynham report Gov. Bruce King's office does not recommend a county anti-MRS committee.

-Also heard Wynham express his thanks to the many caring people in Lincoln County who have helped him during the first few weeks as manager. He plans to move his family to the county this weekend.

puter system for record retention, making data on prior and current cases available. The sheriff's department now has statistics on crimes and crime rates, bringing the sheriff's department up to a more efficient level of operation.

He has applied for and received grant funds in areas of drug enforcement and contracts with the U.S. Forest Service in both Gibola and Lincoln National Forests.

He established the White Mountain Task Force through federal funding and has created a working rapport with other local, state and federal law enforcement agencies. Through combined efforts there has been over a 300% increase in felony drug arrests and convictions in Lincoln County; having a major impact on drug use and related crimes.

Additional funds which he has procured has allowed the sheriff's department to invest in education and equipment that otherwise would not have been affordable. The sheriff's department (law enforcement, dispatch and jail) budget for operation is comprised of general fund monies, grant monies, contract monies, reimbursements from the state, state funds and revenue the sheriff's department generates, which has tripled since 1989.

The Sheriff's Department utilizes funding from "O.J.T.", On the Job Training program to encourage training and employment of young Lincoln County residents. They are utilized in areas where they receive the proper training, education and experience to better obtain a working appreciation of law enforcement, without sacrificing the public's need for experienced qualified law enforcement personnel.

When Sheriff McSwane took office in 1989 he was instrumental in re-establishing the Lincoln County Sheriff's Posse, which has proven to be an asset to the sheriff's department. They help provide additional manpower at public functions, prisoner security, incident scene security, assistance to White Mountain Search and Rescue, marijuana detection and eradication and public representation of Lincoln County throughout the state of New Mexico, all at no cost to Lincoln County.

The sheriff continually strives to provide Lincoln County with professional, competent law enforcement personnel and has through his efforts, reduced the crime rate in Lincoln County, making Lincoln County a prouder and safer place to live. He believes that being your sheriff is not only a job but an obligation to each and every resident of Lincoln County.

Colorectal cancer is the second leading cause of cancer deaths after lung cancer.

More than 90 percent of colorectal cancers occur equally in men and women past age 50. Early detection provides the best hope of cure. That's why if you're over 40, you should take a simple stool blood test every year.

Stool blood tests are designed as a screening procedure for the early detection of colorectal cancer and a variety of other gastrointestinal disorders such as bleeding ulcers, polyps, diverticulitis and bleeding hemorrhoids. Colorectal cancer usually shows no obvious symptoms in the early stages. However, one of the earliest warning signs is often occult (hidden) bleeding in the stool.

Free test kits are available at Lincoln County Medical Center and the Carrizozo Health Center, April 6--17.

Return your test to LCMC and we will mail the results to you in 2-3 weeks.

Al's Musings

BY AL STUBBS

Fern Sawyer of near Nogal has a twinkle in her eye when she said she just might vote to H. Ross Perot instead of the Democratic and Republican front-runners. Fern Sawyer, like her mother Dessie before her, is a dyed-in-the-wool Democrat who no doubt has never deviated from the party. But she certainly has a mind of her own, in spades.

Fern keeps up with things, believe you me. When we saw her recently, she said, "This is the governor's birthday. I must call him."

The former World Champion Cowgirl hasn't always gotten along with Democratic governors like she does currently. She had trouble with both Apodaca and Anaya when she was a member of the State Fair Board and of the racing commission.

She once had a reception for Lyndon Johnson at her home, hidden away in the hills around Nogal, at which 2,000 people attended, we're told.

Fern's hope (forgetting politics for the moment) is that her doctor will soon let her play tennis again. She's had both hip joints replaced and has some other health problems. But, she's tough. She is a true cowgirl, a true southwesterner.

We advised her that Wilbur Conley, Ray Sewell, Ben Kelly and others are about to resume their morning tennis outings at School House Park. They play slow due to age. Fern could probably wipe 'em all out. She's probably 10 years older than any of the aforementioned. Fern says she still is riding horseback on occasion. She was sidelined a few years ago when a horse kicked her in the face. But she not only bounced back, she bounded back.

"I don't think doubles would hurt me," she said of tennis. Conley was a star tennis player in Roswell in high school. Kelly is no slouch. He was an all-letter man.

We read that a search is out in this area for Cinderella Baby and Prince Charming Baby (up to 36 months). Now, we know our youngest granddaughter could sweep that contest, but whoa. Hardly ever in so-called "news releases" about small fry beauty-poize contests are hefty entry fees mentioned. This is a money making deal for the sponsors. Don't forget.

Such come-ons like "winners will be reviewed by a talent agency" draws parents into the contests, we suppose.

But, gosh, Vicky surely could win. Where do we sign up? Grandparents succumb, too! It's a weakness.

That Ruidoso man who caught the record striped bass (54 pounds, eight ounces) could feed half of Lincoln County with that fish and still have some left over. Jim Secor is the guy.

Avid bass fishermen (and ladies) are as rabid about that sport as many men are about football. No sooner is the ice off the lake, and they are there.

The disease is something like gold fever. Or golf fever!

The 1992-93 Community Concert season will open in October with a Broadway show. Bob Rowe made this announcement at a Community Concert performance at the First Christian Church, Saturday night. The very musical family, the Duttons, performed Saturday night. Mom, pop and six of their seven offspring played and sang and danced from Bluegrass to Bach. They were a smash hit.

We wonder if performances next year will be in the new Civic Center.

Jazz will be featured in the second program next season. The Christy Minstrels are on tap, too. Season tickets are $25 per person or $60 per family. Checks can go to Ruidoso Community Concert Assn., Box 1184, Ruidoso, N.M. 88345.

The chief kibitzer of the Village Council, Al Junge, would like to see the new animal control ordinance shot down. He says it allows unrestricted search of a residence without a search warrant. Constitution-al? We believe not!

A program of the State Bar of New Mexico provides free lawyer referrals for people who need answers to their legal questions. A tollfree call from anywhere in the state connects individuals to experienced intake staff at the Statewide Lawyer Referral Service. The staff screens the inquiry and provides a free referral to an attorney in the caller's own community or a referral to an appropriate agency.

The Statewide Lawyer Referral Service maintains a database of information on referral attorneys and is therefore able to accurately match individual callers with lawyers who practice in their geographical area and who have expertise in the required area of law.

There is no charge for the referral service and the caller's conversation is confidential. If a caller does hire an attorney, the fee is determined on an individual case basis and is a matter between client and attorney.

"You can't pick a lawyer out of thin air," says Vicky Palmer, program administrator. "We are here to help people find a lawyer or an agency that can give them answers." The referral program has helped more than 9,000 callers since its inception in late 1989.

Statewide Lawyer Referral Service provides referrals Monday through Friday 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Call 842-6132 in Albuquerque or 1-800-976-6227 outside Albuquerque.

Inside The Capitol

by Jay Miller

SANTA FE—"Don't tax him. Don't tax me. Tax the fella behind the tree." Huey Long, D-La.

Late this month, 100 New Mexicans under the auspices of New Mexico First, will gather to look for that guy behind the tree and recommend ways to tax the heck out of him.

New Mexico First began its Town Halls in 1987 to serve as a catalyst for positive action on the major issues facing New Mexico. Sens. Pete Domenici and Jeff Bingaman were the primary founders of the organization in 1986.

New Mexico First is patterned after an Arizona group that has been functioning for many years. The objective is to get a broad range of citizens involved in some potent decision making to solve the thorniest problems facing our state.

This Town Hall's topic is perhaps the thorniest of all, at least in the amount of heat it is likely to generate. The title of this ninth gathering, "Financing New Mexico Government," somewhat masks the big issue. Everyone knows how government is financed. It's called taxes. And nobody likes them.

What makes New Mexico First a remarkable and respected organization is that its 100 Town Hall participants will be an eclectic group representing all special interests that impact on the problem. There will be the money spenders from all divisions of state and local government. And there will be the big revenue providers from the private sector.

A month ahead of time, the 100 participants were sent their homework—a 92-page background report prepared by a research team from New Mexico State University headed by Dr. Karen Becklin, a longtime government technician with an extensive background.

Assisting the team is Albuquerque attorney Franklin Jones, a former boss of the state tax department, and Anna Lamberson from the University of New Mexico's Bureau of Business and Economic Research. Lamberson has been loaned to the Legislature on occasion during the last few years to work on major tax issues.

New Mexico First has gained strength and stature over the years because of its large membership that pays $60 a year dues, the assistance of the state's universities that take turns producing the background reports, and the subsidy of Town Hall expenses by many of the state's major businesses. This ninth gathering is being funded by grants from Transwestern Pipeline, Enron Company, and the United New Mexico Bank.

Participants will be assigned questions such as whether there is really a fiscal crisis in New Mexico and, if so, what to do about it. The focus will be on reality and the sad fact that there is no way to avoid making tough decisions.

New Mexico will either have to reduce the tax burden and decide what to cut, maintain the current tax structure and make more efficient use of existing revenues, or increase revenues by increasing taxes.

Politicians two favorite dodges for avoiding unpopular stands are both shot down by the background report.

"Eliminating waste, fraud and abuse" is exposed for being far too simplistic. To listen to politicians, one would think "waste, fraud and abuse" appears as a line item in the state's budget. But bureaucrats are quite good at hiding such items deep within general budget categories. Besides, one person's waste is another's essential program.

Increasing revenues by broadening our tax base through economic development is also exposed as a non-answer. Unfortunately, the report says, economic development brings with it the additional infrastructure needs of a growing economy. California, Massachusetts and Connecticut are prime examples of states that are suffering worse than we are as a result of their outstanding economic success.

The message to participants will be that there are no easy answers, just tough decisions. Except, of course, the simple answer former Albuquerque Mayor Harry Kinney proposed during his brief attempt at the 1990 GOP nomination for governor.

Kinney proposed opening our arms to the nation's trash. He suggested imposing the toughest environmental regulations in the nation along with the highest taxes on out-of-state garbage—but to do it with a canillo and hide it all behind a hill where it won't offend anyone.

It's the only easy answer, but it won't get any further than Harry's last campaign.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR—There has been a lot of publicity lately about the organization of chapters of People For The West.

While I know some of the local members of this group, and do not question their sincerity, I do wonder how much they really know about the people and forces behind it?

While posing as a grassroots movement, the sad truth is it was founded and bankrolled by powerful mining, timber and agricultural interests who's main purpose is to escape any environmental laws and regulations whatsoever and to continue raping and polluting America until it resembles the surface of the moon.

These people, who's God is money, are for sale to the highest bidder and include many politicians, even presidents of the United States.

Does anyone "really" believe former president Reagan was paid several million dollars by the Japanese just to hear him make one of his dumb speeches?

If so, I would suggest that you are in dire need of a brain transplant.

The giant lumber companies continue to cut and sell Japan what's left of our once beautiful forests. With them will go much of our wildlife.

Our air, our water, our oceans, our lands daily become more polluted.

The decision has been made to turn New Mexico into the nation's garbage dump, without our consent, of course. Sludge from New York, radioactive waste not only from the United States, but from foreign countries will be sent here. The list is endless.

Are the "jobs" and money really worth having your grandchildren born into a polluted world with ever increasing cancer rates, with diseased bodies and stunted minds? All the good jobs in this country are being moved elsewhere where the international corporations can get cheap or even slave labor. Your grandchildren, if they can get jobs at all, will flip burgers, shine shoes and shovel manure for arrogant Japanese, Europeans and Arabs, who by then will own what's left of America.

This is not a pleasant letter but something that needs to be said. As someone who has always made a point of knowing what's going on in the world, I suggest people make sure of what they're buying into.

The truth sometimes hurts.

DONALD QUEEN,
Carrizozo.

EDITOR—What are we seeing in this 1992 presidential election campaign? What goes on here? We have an incumbent president who was sold to the voters in 1988 as a bona fide, certified, 24 karat conservative to the right of William F. Buckley, and to the left only of Barry Goldwater. Who will ever forget, candidate George Bush assuring voters over and over by repeatedly mouthing, "Watch my lips, no new taxes?" Then on Jan. 29, 1990, President Bush proposed a whopping big 1.23 trillion dollar budget for fiscal 1991. It contained

The Other Side

By Owen Russell

If you will recall, I told you last fall that we would have to go through this time change bit again before we got used to being able to wait an hour longer to be late for an appointment. Now we will be able to atone for all of our sloth this winter by having to do it an hour sooner. I get the same feeling now when I walk into a room at 8:30 and find I am thirty minutes late for a 9:00 o'clock appointment that I had the time I was asked the date, and my digital watch said it was February 31.

I read an article in the newspaper last week which stated that our Court of Appeals had ruled that the statutory exemptions from execution do not apply to judgments for past due child support. I haven't read the case yet to determine the extent of the ruling, but it does raise an interesting question. We seem to treat child support as a moral obligation which justifies whatever method of enforcement that may be popular at the time, without giving much thought to why there is a need for it in the first place. This is another situation where the more we do the worse it gets.

It certainly is true that a person has an obligation to provide for the care and welfare of his children, but there is more to raising children than money, which leads into a discussion of why there is a need for child support in the first place. The only reason for child support (in the sense I am speaking of) is that the parents choose to live in separate households. In this age, there are increasing reasons why they decide to live separately, none of which are very good for the children, which makes me wonder if we shouldn't examine the institutions relating to marital relationships instead of creating an often impossible situation. We may be trying to hold onto an outmoded concept at the expense of our children.

A lot of this has to do with the expectations that are built up about what marriage is supposed to be about. All children, at a very early age, are taught that marriage is the ultimate goal in life. You are supposed to look forward to it as being the only acceptable mode of sharing your life with another, hopefully the other sex. The reasons behind preferring such a relationship are seldom discussed, or understood, but the child is taught that this is the way things are to be. Then, too often, after the child has accepted this goal, and has been taught all the romantic and idyllic expectations about the relationship, his parents decide to get a divorce. So, not only has he learned that marriage is a required goal, but he has also learned that it is something that does not have to be permanent and is a relationship that can be torn apart by emotion and strife. How can you expect him to do better than his elders? You should not be surprised when he marries, has children and divorces, because that is what he was taught.

There are a multitude of conflicting forces at work in life today that do not encourage lasting relationships, and our marital and child-raising methods may need a review. Some would say we can just go back to what it was in the good old days, except these are not the good old days. This is the present, and I don't expect it to revert to the past, but I do think we are going to have to reconsider our institutions so they can be made to conform with present conditions.

The kind of conditions I think are involved are both changes in life style and the move for women to increase their contact and participation in the world outside the home. The historic division of labor in maintaining the existence of the family unit, at least in our culture, had principally split among sexual lines. The mental fairness and courtesy. Good leadership and supervision coupled with training will reduce the causes and frequency of these lawsuits."

Luna has over 28 years of public service which includes 19 years in law enforcement. He served as Chief of Police in Estancia, N.M. and as a deputy and the Undersheriff in Torrance County, N.M. Says Luna, "Dick Ness, former sheriff of Torrance County, is perhaps one of the greatest sheriffs in New Mexico history. He was innovative, dedicated to modern law enforcement techniques, and a man of great integrity. It was my privilege to serve as his undersheriff for four years."

Luna is a certified New Mexico police officer with over 400 additional hours of specialized training from various federal, state, and local training agencies. Luna states, "I have the background and training to manage the department. I will set realistic goals for the department and its employees and see that the goals are met. At present, there are sufficient personnel to provide Lincoln County with a reasonable level of police services. The problem is that there is little or no direction or management supervision."

"The Sheriff's Department is not a one person operation," states Luna. "It operates 24 hours everyday of the year. Nearly all of the employees are under the county personnel/merit ordinances. Yet without mid-level supervisors, employees can never aspire to be promoted. Any organization needs good supervision, and supervisors should be there to lead and direct their subordinates. The days of the "laid back, good ole' boy" in law enforcement are gone."

"My election platform is really quite simple—to provide the citizens of Lincoln County with competent, responsive, and courteous police services," said Luna.

"Following are several but not all of my specific goals:

1. Thoroughly and objectively study the feasibility of consolidating the various police, fire, and ambulance dispatching services in Lincoln County into one element. Presently, there are three Lincoln County police agencies, plus the State Police dispatching within the county. A centralized countywide dispatch center for a county with only 12,000 residents seems feasible. The monetary savings and improved service could be significant. As an example, there are some eight or nine different telephone numbers that can be used to contact just the Sheriff's Department. This can be confusing in an emergency. Coupled with the forthcoming Enhanced 911, emergency service would be a countywide toll-free 800 telephone number for non-emergency calls. One number for emergencies and one number for routine type calls.

2. The department will be reorganized to include an investigative unit. At present, every deputy investigates every type of crime. This is unrealistic! Criminal investigations are technical, detailed inquiries and require the best qualified personnel dedicated to the investigative function. There is sufficient work to detail at least two deputies to investigate serious criminal offenses within the county.

3. I will continue the excellent work of the White Mountain Task Force in its drug suppression activities.

4. Sheriff's patrols will be rescheduled and statistics upgraded to indicate exactly when patrols should be active. No citizen should ever call the department and be told there is no one available to respond to their needs.

5. Lincoln County has a stray dog problem. The animal control officer will be fully dedicated to this problem. This officer's work scheduled will be adjusted to cover those times residents are complaining about strays. In other words, the animal control officer will be available at the time of the call and not the next day. The so-called "kennel" at Fort Stanton will be closed and a contract negotiated through the Humane Society of Lincoln County. The stray problem will be corrected.

6. There will be a thorough and detailed accounting of all funds, equipment, found property, and evidence entrusted to the department. There is no reason to retain people's property year after year when it is not needed.

7. A departmental vehicle and equipment scheduled maintenance program will be initiated. Vehicles will be properly maintained.

Finally, I am committed to keeping the public and the county commissioners informed of exactly what the department is accomplishing. I will report monthly what has been done including arrests, expenditures, management objectives met or not met.

"I do appreciate the support and encouragement I have received from a broad spectrum of county residents. There is always room for improvement in any agency. The only way changes can be made is to change the officials in charge. This stimulates growth and is the American and democratic way. I am looking forward to the campaign ahead and also look forward to seeing my goals put to work for the citizens of Lincoln County."

an estimated $3.1 billion dollars deficit. It also contained 15.7 billion dollars in new taxes, 15.7 billion in new taxes, mind you! Whatever happened to "watch my lips?"

Many real conservatives, including one Patrick Buchanan detected that the president was not performing as advertised. Buchanan pretty much called it like it is when he announced: "There is no conservative party in Washington now, just two government parties that disagree on programs to fund, what taxes to raise." (See James Drummeys, The Establishment's Man, pgs. 38-39)

Do we hear ghosts of elections past wailing in the background, "There's not a dime's worth of difference?"

New York's Democratic Governor, Mario Cuomo quickly recognized it. In the April 28, 1990 issue of Human Events, Governor Cuomo was quoted as saying: "If President Bush does a lot of things Democrats want done and does them reasonably well, why would you want to beat him?"

Why indeed?

woman, because of her biological child-bearing function has been expected to provide nourishment and nurturing for the family unit, which requires her to stay pretty close to the tepee, and the man has been expected to provide the elements of existence, which has placed him in competition with others in the outside world. This mode of existence has invariably led to the structure, created by men and often, for various reasons of their own, accepted by women, that attempts to stabilize society by keeping her down on the farm and also keeping her from competing with the male in the outside world. This mode of existence is becoming generally unacceptable in society today, but we are trying to hold onto the same concepts of existence in our marital and child-raising institutions.

I think I have said about enough already to raise the hackles on most everyone who reads this, conservative, liberal, feminist, sexist or otherwise, so, primarily because I am an hour short this week, I am going to cut it off here. However, since I haven't said all I want to and may want to go home tonight without finding my sleeping bag rolled up on the porch, I will make this a two-parter and discuss the issue some more next time. If you think I haven't answered any of my questions, you're right, but I also haven't asked all of them either.

One day seminar on solid waste

SANTA FE—The New Mexico Environment Department (NMED) and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) will hold a one-day seminar on solid waste management issues.

The Environment Department will discuss the new Solid Waste Management Regulations which became effective on January 31, 1992. Department officials will clarify how the regulations apply to landfills and transfer stations as well as explaining the Solid Waste Plan.

An EPA representative will discuss the new Subtitle-D rules of the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA) as they apply to landfills.

Other issues to be discussed during the seminar are the solid waste permit process and enforcement, the technical information needed for landfill site assessment, and the regional concept for solid waste management.

The seminar will be conducted from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. April 21, at the Bureau of Land Management Office in Roswell.

Questions about the seminar can be directed to Phillip Westen of the Environment Dept.'s Solid Waste Bureau at 827-0559 in Santa Fe.

CARRIZOZO FOURTH GRADERS HAVE PLENTY OF QUESTIONS for Ruidoso sign painter Don Smith, helped by his wife Janet. Smith showed the students how to correctly layout (draw) letters before painting, and then how to paint the letters. The display was coordinated by Carrizozo School art facilitator Polly Chavez.

Carrizozo School News

Young ladies twirling their colorful skirts, while their male counterparts click their heels to the rhythms of Hispanic folk music. Such activity could keep local youth busy and provide entertainment for residents.

Parents and other interested Carrizozo citizens who are interested in forming a cultural folk dance group for boys and girls in grades 3 through 5 are being asked to give input. Suggestions are being gathered by Polly Chavez who plans to get the project off the ground in time for performances at local summer events.

Those who would consider becoming involved in dance coaching, practice and the construction of colorful costumes should come forward to help make the project a reality.

Carrizozo Municipal School students in grades 5 through 12 were treated Monday to a wide range of musical sounds: rock, salsa, Caribbean and jazz.

The unique music came from 55-gallon barrels! The barrels crafted into beautiful sounding, complex instruments are capable of more than 30 notes.

Randy Markham, music instructor at Magdalena School and six of his students kicked off their spring tour with a performance for Carrizozo students. Markham accompanied Loril Gibson, Melanie Guitierrez, Sara Davidson, Dora Martinez, Randy Peralta and Kathy Jackson on the drums.

The Carrizozo audience learned about the colorful past of the instruments. Markham calls the drums, "Trinidad's gift to the world, referring to the tiny country just off the coast of Venezuela where, after World War II was finished and the United States had removed its military presence. Leftover 55-gallon drums were put to use as instruments.

Markham explained that to produce an instrument capable of that many notes, the bottom of the barrels, which become the tops of the instruments, are hammered into a concave shape. This results in diminishing thickness of the metal closer to the center, which produces higher pitches than are achieved close to the edge. Different notes are "punched" to isolate them from neighboring notes on the surface of the concavity.

Students place at Science Fair

Carrizozo junior high student Julie Barham won the junior physics category at the 40th New Mexico Science and Engineering Fair.

Carrizozo High School exhibitor Kelly A. Caldwell was awarded a $1,250 scholarship, renewable for four years from New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology with her Behavioral and Social Science project entitled "Does a Higher Level of Estrogen Affect Dexterity?" (Stage 2).

Natalie Chavez won the $50 second prize in the senior behavioral and social science category with her exhibit entitled "Reading Skills and Cross Dominance."

Hondo 7th graders learn about past

Hondo Schools' New Mexico history class recently had a big surprise in store for them. Instructor, Lynda Sanchez, invited a special guest, Mr. Karl Laumbach, Director of Human Systems Research (HSR). This organization is a non-profit corporation for anthropological research headquartered in Las Cruces.

Because of Mr. Laumbach's expertise, the class learned first hand how a chunk of volcanic glass (obsidian) could be turned into beautiful and sharp arrow heads, spear points and other tools.

By demonstrating the care and time needed, students gained an understanding of the talent and patience required to make these early lithic weapons.

An added test was showing students how the atlatl (spear thrower) was used by early man. Each one had a chance to practice with this ancient weapon that pre-dated the bow & arrow.

HSR employees have conducted many digs and salvage archaeology work throughout New Mexico (including two summers in Lincoln at the McSween Site.) This work helps preserve and interpret the past. Perhaps one of the most important things students learned according to Ms. Sanchez, was to have respect and appreciation for their heritage and that New Mexico is one of the richest states in terms of culture and sites of past civilizations.

State Senator Campos seeks re-election

SANTA ROSA—State Senator Pete Campos made it official April 7, he is seeking re-election to the New Mexico State Senate representing District 8. Senator Campos stated, "I believe in the people of District 8 and enjoy serving as their State Senator. The foundation for a healthy economic future is now being set into place. I am seeking re-election in hopes the citizens of San Miguel, Guadalupe, DeBac and Lincoln Counties allow me the opportunity to continue working towards the planning and implementation of programs, employment and projects or PEP which will benefit the district for years to come."

After a positive and year-long campaign, Pete Campos was first elected to the New Mexico State Senate in November of 1990 and began officially serving in January of 1991. Through re-districting, if re-elected, Senator Campos would represent a 10,500 plus square mile district with a population of around 37,500. This would include: the counties of San Miguel, Guadalupe, DeBac and Lincoln; 12 incorporated/non-incorporated communities; 9 school districts and numerous state agencies.

As member of a citizen legislature, Senator Campos believes it is his responsibility to provide these governmental entities and the people they represent with an equal voice. Although this amounts to a substantial out-of-pocket expense for travel, postage, phone and incidental expenses, Senator Campos stated "this contribution to the people of District 8 will be well worth it if we can all unite, plan and prepare to meet the needs of all communities from Las Vegas to Ruidoso."

During his first year in office which incorporated a 60 day, 30 day and 2 special sessions, Senator Campos has been the primary or co-sponsor of a combination of over 100 pieces of legislation, memorials and resolutions.

The measures addressed

but not limited to include: support of national guard anti-drug and educational incentives, capital outlay projects, state and district wide short and long term infrastructure and economic measures, creation of employment opportunities, a call for a state tax system reform committee, tax repeal legislation for retirees and the livestock industry, educational system improvements, water rights legislation, rural primary health care, youth and family issues, simplifying public money accounting methods, allowing public employees to serve in non-partisan forms of government such as city councils, allowing voters the opportunity to decide on standardizing county officials elected terms, and lottery and video gaming.

Senator Campos stated, "this is just the tip of the iceberg, there is much more to come!"

Senator Campos believes the following key matters will challenge him and greatly affect New Mexico in the next few years: The need for a state long-term plan for infrastructure financing and upgrading; synchronizing the delivery of governmental services; enhancing economic diversification; implementation of a statewide lottery and video gaming; in-depth analysis and fine tuning of New Mexico's tax structure; improving the state's natural resources for economic growth and a better quality of life for state residents and visitors alike; and, motivating New Mexicans to maintain a positive approach and use innovative methods to find solutions to problems affecting all ages of our population.

Referring to his tenure in office, Senator Campos stated "I have already taken the initiative to introduce legislation which would offer solutions to these concerns. I look forward to playing a lead role, through the support of district residents, in resolving these and other issues affecting New Mexico State Government."

Sheriff's report

Two El Paso men were arrested on Highway 54 south of Carrizozo last week with 74.25 pounds of marijuana on March 29.

Rodrigo Madrid, 28, and Raymundo Castillo, 35, El Paso, were stopped by New Mexico State Police officers and agents from the Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA) along Highway 54 in Lincoln County.

State police seized the alleged 74.25 pounds of marijuana, which was found in the El Paso men's possession.

The men were booked into the Lincoln County Jail on charges of possession of marijuana with intent to distribute and conspiracy. Their bond was set at $50,000 cash each.

The following information was taken from dispatch records in the Lincoln County Jail in Carrizozo.

5:29 p.m., a woman from Albuquerque reported a possible stolen vehicle at Hondo School. She alleged her sister-in-law's juvenile daughter had taken the vehicle from her mother. The responding deputy checked Hondo School and Highway 70 to Riverside. Neither the vehicle nor daughter was found.

New Mexico State Forestry sent personnel out to check for a possible fire in the area of the airport, but found none. Highway 54 south of Carrizozo reported a very loud boom or explosion broke his windshield. The traveler wanted the incident on record.

If there is any large items, contact the village ahead of time. Come on folks lets get our city cleaned up. I'm sure they would accept any free help to do this job. There will be a Fair Board meeting Tuesday night April 21 at 8 p.m. Please everyone come.

Capitan Senior Citizens are having an enchilada dinner April 25 from 4 to 8 p.m. This is a fund raising meal to purchase flooring for their new addition. So you all come.

The 7th grade class of Capitan will be having a car wash at the Ruidoso State Bank. Please support our kids. Thanks.

Cub Scout Pack meeting, Sunday the 12th at 2 p.m. in the cafeteria.

On March 28, Chris and Laurie Payne of Capitan became the parents of a 7 lb. 7 oz. baby boy named Patrick William. Woodrow and his mom, the former Laurie Stone, are home and doing well.

Congratulations to Keri and Ricky Hobbs on their recent marriage.

Wedding announcement. Linda Zamora and Julian Affiso are happy to announce their wedding on July 18 in Capitan.

Last Tuesday Lisa McCarty of Capitan was hospitalized in Ruidoso with pneumonia. She has been in ICU for several days. Get well soon.

Linda and Hu Harris and children Stewart and Brittany from Battle Ground, Wash., visited their parents Larry and Jackie Bandy last week.

The grand opening in their new location of the Blue Door Gallery was a huge success. A large crowd enjoyed the beautiful art displays as well as the delicious refreshments and the very interesting patrons of the arts! Capitan is indeed most fortunate to have such a beautiful gallery to call their own. Congratulations, accolades and our best wishes to David and Betty Posley. We also are most grateful to you for deciding to make Capitan your home.

The members of Sacred Heart Church are losing their pastor. Father Ed Griffith is retiring and we are sorry to lose him. However, he will be replaced by Father David Berg who was the pastor before.

Jim and LaVonne Neatherlin of Carlsbad surprised their parents, the Whittacres on Sunday. They had been celebrating their 37th wedding anniversary in Clouderoft. Congratulations Jim and LaVonne.

Patty and Bobby Knight of Brownfield, Texas also surprised their parents, the Whittakers last weekend. Their surprise consisted of a new pickup truck for Alton. Alton, as you remember, broke his hip some time ago and has been relying on a walker to get around. Patty, his daughter promised him a new vehicle, the moment he threw the walker aside. Alton took them at their word and discarded the walker and he is now the proud owner of a new pickup and is his old perky and sassy self again!

Ran across some more signs of advancing age the other day. Will pass them along:

You are getting old if you join a health club and never attend.

You begin to outlive enthusiasm.

You decide to procrastinate, but never get around to it.

Your minds makes contracts your body can't possibly keep.

You look forward to a dull evening.
